"The steamboat United States propelled by two powerful low-pressure engines, Captain J. R. Vandewater, having had her cabins and accommodation for passengers enlarged and improved, will start from Ogdensburg on her regular trips for the season on 13th of April next The proprietors determined that nothing shall be wanting to promote the comfort and convenience of passengers, have omitted appointing agents authorized to contract for freight although they will be desirous of carrying it whenever they can do so consistently with due regard to accommodation of passengers."

List of Calls

The schedule, too, was given, showing the United States "going up" would leave Ogdensburg Sunday at five o'clock p.m., Kingston, U.C., Monday six a.m., Sacketts Harbor Monday 12 p.m., Oswego 10 p.m., Rochester Landing, Tuesday, 8 a.m., Toronto 'Cork, U.C.' nine p.m.

"Arriving at Lewiston early on Wednesday morning, giving passengers all the day to visit the Falls and return by the boat. . . ."

"Going down Wednesday at eight o'clock p.m., Rochester Landing, Thursday eight a.m., Oswego five p.m., Sacketts Harbor 11 p.m. Kingston, U.C., Friday seven a.m.

"Touching at French Creek, Alexandra, Brockville, Morristown, and arriving at Ogdensburg, Friday evening, enabling passengers leaving Niagara on Wednesday to arrive at Montreal on Saturday, visit on the route Rochester, Oswego, Sacketts Harbor, Kingston, Brockville, and Ogdensburg, passing the most interesting part of the scenery on the River St. Lawrence on the lake from Ogdensburg by daylight."

In spite of London's reputation for fog the area about Westminster Bridge had only 39 foggy days in 1933, the high record going to the City Hall area in Westminster, which had 104 days of what is officially known as "smake-haze."

CAVAN

Mr. T. Staples, Hamilton, has been in Cavan this week on account of the illness and death of his brother-in-law, Mr. Edward Keegan.

Mrs. Eber Syer entertained at tea on Tuesday afternoon in the series of teas being given by Group 7 of the Cavan W.I.

A meeting was held in Cavan United Church on Tuesday evening, in the interests of the Upper Canada Bible Society, the president, Mr. A. B. Kennedy in the chair. Very interesting addresses were given by the Rev. Mr. Allnut and the Rev. Mr. Pinnock, the latter having spent 38 years as a missionary in Africa. The president, Mr. A. B. Kennedy and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. R. M. Howden were returned to office for another year.

There was a dance in Cavan Parish Hall, Ida, last Friday evening.

Mr. G. Morton has purchased a lot south of Mr. James Kennedy's residence in Cavanville and intends erecting a new home on it this summer.

Mr. Arthur Armstrong held a sale of his household effects on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Fred Papineau is in Detroit.

SILVERWOOD'S MILK

is Liquid Health!

—And growing children to be healthy and gay
—Should never fail to drink a quart a day.

Yes, little folks should drink a quart of milk a day to insure the perfect formation of limb and a strong robust body. In fact, for both grownups and children no diet is complete without milk, and Silverwood's milk is so rich in vitamins and minerals that thousands are being benefitted by its daily use.

USE IT APLENTY!

DON'T STINT YOURSELF

BECAUSE it sets the highest Standard of Food Value.

BECAUSE it is richest in all of those elements needed to create Energy and Vitality.

BECAUSE it is Nature's best food and should be included in the well-balanced diet.

BECAUSE it is rich in cream, and drawn daily from the best herds. And because—

As full of fine flavor as they are of nourishing, health-building qualities, our Dairy Products commend themselves for economy reasons as well. Inexpensive foods may be made delicious and palatable by the use of Silverwood's Products. Simple puddings, made rich with milk and cream, salads given zest by the use of MEADOWVALE CONDENSED MILK, cakes and souffles made light and deliciously tasty. And all with SCIENTIFICALLY Pasteurized Dairy Products.

No Matter What the Price, Milk is the Cheapest Food

Medical men agree that no food is as cheap and health-promoting as Pasteurized Milk. Not alone for the infant, but for adults and children, milk should be purchased in liberal quantities. The rule should be a quart a day for each person for cooking or as a beverage.

URSA MAJOR

Round and round the frozen pole glideth the lean white bear

BY H. W. L. MAHOOD

Ursa Major is easily recognizable the arrangement of its principal stars. Seven of them can be seen easily by the naked eye. This constellation is always day and night either wholly or partly above the horizon at and north of the latitudes of Chicago and New York. Ursa Major is not alone on its journey around the Pole Star.

As if on watch the constellations of Draco and Cepheus and Camelopardus and Cassiopeia and Ursa Minor flood its pathway with brilliant light. Ursa Major cannot hide itself. Neither can its little cub Ursa Minor.

If it were not for the super-shining of the Sun all these constellations could be seen by day. Tennyson in The Ancient Sage writes:

"Some that never set, but pass
From sight and night to lose themselves in day."

In the Ursa Major constellation one hundred and thirty stars have been discovered. With the new telescope now building in the United States it will be possible to see thirty times as far into the star realm as astronomers have hitherto penetrated. The one hundred and thirty may be only the beginning of the counting. Thousands may take the place of the hundreds recorded. The far off is being brought near. That seems to be the lot of man. He is related to the farthest off as well as to the near.

Cardan, an astrologer as well as a physician of the 16th century held that particular stars influenced the fate of certain nations. He taught that the destiny of the greatest nations of Europe was pendant upon Alcaid the end star of Ursa Major. Such would now be thought silly.

HOLLYWOOD, CAL., APR. 11.— No more lazy sun-baths for Gloria Stuart—not in her back yard at least.

Gloria Stuart

The blonde Universal star donned her bathing suit Friday afternoon and went out to lie on a blanket on the back lawn of her Whitley Heights home.

She read a magazine for a while, but the light was so bright that she grew drowsy, dropped off to sleep for several minutes. She doesn't know what awakened her. Perhaps it was some sixth sense. At any rate, she opened her eyes and turned on her side.

There, within a few feet, was a rattlesnake, already set in its coil.

The scream Gloria gave would have cracked a microphone. It brought her police dog bounding to her side. The animal attacked the snake and, miraculously, killed it without being bitten.

Gloria was so unnerved that she packed and left within a few hours for her summer cottage on Morro bay.

THE GOOD-HUMORED wit of Princess Kropotkin left Charles Farrell standing on one foot without a word to say.

Several days ago, the titled writer had a luncheon date with Charlie at the Fox studio. Probably it was a touch of Spring fever, but Charlie forgot the engagement and went down to the Riviera polo field to look at some new ponies.

By nine o'clock the next morning, he was calling up with profuse apologies.

The Princess said gently: "Oh, that's all right, Mr. Farrell, but you're the first gentleman who ever missed a date with me to keep one with a horse."

OUT OF THE SQUALOR and tawdryness of a shantytown director Frank Borzage has woven a love story that is certainly the greatest achievement in a career that embraces many screen triumphs. The picture, 'Man's Castle,' already hailed as the 'Seventh Heaven' of talking pictures, is now on view at the Regent Theatre.

'Man's Castle' is the story of a man who couldn't hear train whistles without wanting to hop a freight—and of a girl who loved him so strongly she told him he was free to go. Spencer Tracy as the boy and Loretta Young as the girl have never been cast in roles so perfectly suited to their individual talents.

The supporting cast is superb down to the smallest bit player. It includes Marjorie Rambeau, Walter Connolly, Glenda Farrell, Arthur Hohl and Dickie Moore.

The screen's platinum blonde is now getting the story into shape for publication. She says she first got the idea in the middle of the night, and the inspiration was so strong that she got up and jotted down a full page of notes.

The first draftof the novel was dictated to the star's secretary, then Jean wrote a 75,000 word outline herself. Next, she broke it down into script form to get a better slant on the dialogue. The final job of novelization is well under way.

There will be no sensational revelations about Hollywood in 'Today is Tonight.' It is a story of New York. Joan says:

"I simply tried to create a girl with an abundance of love, who weakens now and then, but who clings to an ideal."

THIS BUSINESS of actresses getting temperamental about scanty costumes is getting to be an epidemic. Virginia Peine Lehman started it when she walked out of a picture at Fox. Then, yesterday, Sidney Fox was mysteriously missing from a test she was supposed to take for 'Down to Their Last Yacht.' An hour later, the tiny star showed up in tow of Billie Burke. The grass costume for the South Sea story had upset her so much that she had run crying to Billie for advice. Being a sensible woman and the wife of the late Florenz Ziegfeld, Billie soon changed Sidney's mind.

A TOUGH CATCH

KANSAS CITY, April 12 (CP) — Raymond Brown, 13, lassooed a motor car and no cantankerous steer could have treated him so rough.

Raymond forgot the other end of the rope was tied to his neck, and the passing car dragged him 170 feet feet. By clinching to the rope with his hands, he limited his injuries to severe bruises. The shouts of his playmates, arousing the motorist, saved him further injury and possible death.

DANGER FACING PARLIAMENTARY INSTITUTIONS

King Assails Bennett's Policy —Says Much of Political Liberty Been Lost.

POINTS TO RELIEF.

Claims Liberal Victory in Oxford May Force General Election.

TILLSONBURG, Ont, April 12 (C.P.). — Warnings of dangers threatening parliamentary institutions were before the Canadian public to-day as the campaign in the South Oxford Federal by-election struck its full stride. Voting takes place on Monday with A. S. Rennie, the Liberal candidate, and the Hon. Donald Sutherland, Conservative, in the field.

In his address here last night Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Dominion Liberal Leader, attacked Prime Minister R. B. Bennett's Govermen and warned his audience of threats to parliamentary institutions.

"While you may not realize it we are getting further and further away from parliamentary institutions than you can imagine," Mr. King said. He charged much of the people's political liberty had been destroyed and loss had been suffered in parliamentary control over Government expenditures.

Jobless Relief.

Mr. King referred to the unemployment relief program of the Bennett Government and declared the "peace, order and good government" clause in the relief legislation had vested in the Cabinet the right to legislate without consulting Parliament. He said this clause had been passed in Parliament under closure two years ago.

This year might see a general election, he continued, and the Government would enter the campaign armed with power to dig into the treasury and obtain what they wished.

In the first session of the Bennett Government, Mr. King continued, $20,00,000 had been asked for compared to the $2,000,000 voted by the Liberal Government in ten years to the provinces for unemployment relief. Mr. Bennett had turned down his suggestion for a national commission to survey unemployment and control expenditures, and the Prime Minister also had declared it would an insult to the provinces to audit their unemployment accounts.

Mr. King declared that now, however, the Auditor General had found unemployment money had been squandered. A total of $110,000,000 had been expended since 1930, but all that Mr. Bennett had to show for it was increased unemployment. Loans made by banks to corporations had been guaranteed without Parliament being consulted.

Raps Marketing Act

References to Mussolini, Soviet Russia, Germany and Russia were made by Mr. King after he had criticized the Government's Marketing Act, one clause of which gave the Governor-in-Council power to prohibit import or export of any article. He charged the power to legislate as he pleased had been given Mr. Bennett under "Peace, Order and Good Government" clause.

Mr. King welcomed changes that would result in equitable distribution of wealth and social justice, but maintained this should be obtained through Parliament, as the time had not come for a dictator.

Mr. King urged his listeners to vote for the Liberal candidate, as he believed it might mean a general election if his party captured the by-election. A Liberal victory, he said, would reflect a swing of public opinion which the Prime Minister could not afford to ignore. The Government's candidates had suffered defeat in the recent by-elections and another defeat would show the Conservatives they no longer possessed the confidence of the public.

REV. DR. C. J. ROLLS SPECIAL SPEAKER

Gives Address at Women's Missionary Meeting of George S.t Church.

The regular meeting of the W. M.S. of the George Street United Church was held in the Board Room on Tuesday afternoon, with a good attendance. Owing to the illness of the president, Mrs C. W. Coon, the first vice-president, Mrs. E. E. Harvey, presided. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. S. P. Armstrong who commented on the passage referring in particular to the fact that women were the first at the tomb on the resurrection morn, and all through history had taken a deep interest in spiritual affairs. Mrs. Harvey spoke on the theme "What does the resurrection mean to you" and threw out a challenge to the members to take this thought home with them. Mrs. Puttenham and Mrs. Airess led in prayer. Mrs. C. H. Saunders rendered a solo, accompanied by Mrs. D. R. Howat.

The speaker of the afternoon was Rev. Dr. C. J. Rolls, who gave a very interesting and informal talk basing his remarks on Acts 17, Paul on Mars Hill. He described a trip through India and enumerated some of the difficulties missionaries encounter in their work, and showed ho important it is that they receive a thorough training before being sent out.

The discussion of business took up the rest of the meeting, arrangements being made for the mother and daughter banquet which will be held early in May. Mrs. Richard Parnell and Mrs. M. B. Frederick were appointed supper convenors. Mrs. Lillow, Mrs. C. G. Staples, Mrs J. E. Middleton, and Mrs. Weldon were appointed a program committee, and Mrs. C. W. Coon, Mrs. E. E. Harvey, and Mrs. S. R. Armstrong were to secure a speaker Announcement was made that Mrs. Smythe, president of the branch of the Bay of Quinte Conference would speak at the May meeting. The meeting closed with the Mizpan benediction.

AT THE REGENT

"MAN'S CASTLE" AND EL BRENDEL

This is one of the very fine programs that happen only once in so often. First you feel a little weepy over the romance and pathos of "Man's Castle," and then you get hilariously giggly when El Brendel does his stuff in the second feature, "Olsen's Big Moment." There is little left to wish for in the way of entertainment after you see this program.

"Man's Castle" is one of those pictures that are very rare. There is plenty in it to remind one of that triumph of the silent screen, "Seventh Heaven," in which Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell had their first amazing success. Spencer Tracy is the hard-boiled "bingle stuff" who likes a free foot and the wide blue sky as his horizon, while Loretta Young has a marvellously played role as the little "whoosis." They live and love in the New York dump where others of their kind have a crazy refuge, and their story is one of intense human appeal, with odd moments when the audience chokes up over a capricious love story and the people who round out the story, the old minister turned night watchman and the old, tired, drunken hag.

Then comes "Olsen's Big Moment," with that quality of uproarious, infectious mirth that sends constant giggles floating all over the house. It is a riot of laughs from start to finish. El Brendel, as Knute Olsen, janitor of a fashionable New York apartment house, becomes innocently involved, while on his way to the movies on his night out, in a smart speakeasy and the life and adventures of Robert Brewster, Third, a role in which Walter Catlett does his looniest best to make the action of the play funnier than ever. Then there is a goofy lover who prattles of stars and affinities to the distraught Olsen, burdened, on fear of being drilled full of holes, with the job of getting the tanked-up Brewster (who, marvellously enough, contrives to look just as drunk in the morning as he did the night before), to his four o'clock appointment to marry the sister of a gangster. Brendel's genius for really effective foolishness and dumbness makes this a very comical feature.

NEGRO TO HANG FOR KILLING BOY

STABBED TWO LADS.

HALIFAX, April 12 (CP)—Daniel P. Sampson, middle-aged negro stevedore, was sentenced to-day to be hanged June 26 for the murder of 12-year-old Bramwell Hefferman, stabbed near his Halifax home last July.

The penalty was imposed in a crowded Supreme Court chamber by Mr. Justice Doull, who presided at Sampson's two-day trial ending yesterday. In passing sentence, he explained there was no alternative to the death penalty ,though the jury had added a recommendation for clemency.

Just before His Lordship sentenced the negro, defence counsel, O. R. Regan, made a last minute appeal for a stay of judgment. But Mr. Justice Doull declared the proceedings had passed the stage where such a plea could be taken.

Notice of appeal against the conviction has been given by Mr. Regan, who claims the court "wrongfully admitted" Sampson's purported confession to the killing. In the statement, made to Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers, Sampson was represented as admitting he killed Bramwell and his 10-year-old brother, Edward Heffernan, because they called him names and threw stones at him.

He had not been tried on the charge of murdering Edward. The defence moved for separate trials on the two indictments and he was placed on trial first for the killing of the older boy. Last night Crown Prosecutor R. M. Fielding announced the second case had been traversed to the next court term.

Their Reward

PITTSBURGH, April 12.—(CP) — Fireman John S. King, whose rescue of a cat cost him a two-month stretch in a hospital, is going to get a medal from the Humane Society, So's his buddy Tom Neville.

It was "tougher" than fire and smoke, says King who fell out of the tree with the cat in his arms.

Comb Hangchow Bay For Missing Plane

SHANGHAI, April 12. (AP). — Nine planes roared in and out of the murk enveloping Hangchow Bay to-day in a search for three Americans lost since early Tuesday in the hazardous flying area.

A cold, northerly wind of gale-like proportions blew up along the China coast to increase fears for the three—James Finck of Miami, Fla.; Robert Gast of Louisville, Ky., and Ivan Carlson of Donna, Texas.

No word has been received from them since they hopped on the Shanghai - Canton mail route. Finck and Gast manned the plane. Carlson, communications superintendent of the line, was on an inspection trip. They carried a Japanese passenger.

Frank Hawks, speed pilot, took off in his big bomber this forenoon but reported that after driving the great craft into the teeth of the winds combing the island-studded bay, he had seen no trace of the missing men.

FIRST DIVISION IS PLANNING RE-UNION

A reunion that will prove to be unique in the annals of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces is to take place in Toronto during the week-end of April 21, when the original members of the Canadian First Division will assemble from the far corners of the Dominion.

Lieut.-Col. Charles Ackerman informed The Examiner that the Peterborough originals are planning to attend this important event in full force. It is expected that special low fares will be granted the veterans by the railroads If any veteran does not feel that he is able financially to make the trip, Colonel Ackerman said, arrangements are being made to assist in defraying expenses in such cases. Those planning to attend the reunion should communicate with Colonel Ackerman.

LAD 14 FACING MURDER COUNT

CHUM FOUND SLAIN.

POWELL RIVER, B.C., April 12 (C.P.).—Frank Millen, 14, formally charged with the murder of his 10-year-old playmate, John McFarlane, will be arraigned for preliminary hearing before Magistrate W. L. Parkin to-morrow in juvenile court.

The lad, named by a coroner's jury yesterday as the possible person who clubbed ycung McFarlane to death and threw the body into a sandpit, is being held in custody at the British Columbia Provincial Police Barracks.

The coroner's jury found McFarlane had come to his death from a blow on the head from an instrument "in the hands of a person or persons unknown," and added that "in the event of Frank Millen being found guilty of the murder, and found to be mentally deficient, sterilization methods should be adopted."

Police said Millen has confessed to the slaying of McFarlane as a result of a feud arising from the destruction of Millen's dog after the dog had bitten McFarlane. Millen grinned when the clothing of the younger boy and a hammer-headed hatchet were shown during the inquest.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

Very often a swimmer will run and jump into cold water simply because he's afraid to be deliberate. The same thing is true of many golfers. They hurry their swings simply to get the unpleasantness over with. These fast swings only serve to hide the faults from inexperienced observers and sometimes from the player himself. But, they do nothing to eliminate them. On the contrary a hurried upswing or downswing magnifies whatever faults already exist in the swing. The clubhead should travel fast. The hands not quite so fast. The arms a bit slower than the hands and the body even slower than the arms. Just as the rim, spokes and hub of a wheel.

ITALIAN PILOT CLAIMS NEW AIRPLANE RECORD

ROME, April 11.—(A.P.)—A new worlds airplane altitude record was claimed to-day by Pilot Remato Donati who announced that he reached an altitude of 15,000 meters (49,212.5 feet) this morning over Montecelio Airfield. He flew a Caproni plane.

The present recognized international altitude record for airplanes was set by G. Lemoine of France at 13,861 metres, on Sept. 28, 1933, at Villacoublay, Frane.

An offiial announement of Donati's flight is to be made shortly.

SEACOAST TEAM SCORES DECISIVE VICTORY 13 TO 3

Allan Cup Holders Show True Form in Subduing Detroit White Stars.

250 SEE CONTEST.

(By Elmer Dulmage, C.P. Staff Writer.)

TORONTO, April 12 (C.P.). — Monarchs over all the territory they intend to take in this season, Moncton's Hawks held official title to-day to the North American amateur hockey championship which they are likely to treasure somewhat less than the Allan Cup, also on the shelves of the Maritimers.

The Hawks completed a 62-game campaign last night by quashing whatever hopes the United States had of demonstrating international superiority. They rolled up a 13-3 score on Detroit White Stars, American champions, who had surprised everyone, including themselves, by winning the first game of the series.

At the end of one of the longest trails any amateur team ever undertook to tread, the Canadian titleholders put on a final burst of speed to completely overwhelm the Border squad. They thoroughly outclassed the Stars in running up a new high-scoring record for themselves.

The smallest crowd of the year —about 250 spectators — saw the Hawks skate faster and display more effective punch than in any of their Allan Cup conquests here. It was hardly the same team that was beaten 2-1 by the White Stars last Saturday night and won by only a 4-1 margin in the second series game on Monday night.

Percy Nicklin's collection of stars scored five goals in the first period alone—as many as they got in the two previous games—and went right on from there. They found trouble with their shooting in the second session, bagging only three but drove in five more with a final flourish in the last stanza.

The White Stars had no means of coping with the fleet Canadians. The forwards were too slow in getting around to keep pace with such speed merchants as Sammy McManus, Bill Miller, Dud James, and Aubrey Webster. A weak defence was torn apart early in the proceedings. There was only the giant Pete McMahon in goal left.

McMahon kicked out dozens of shots that might have escaped him, but he couldn't get nearly all that came his way. Most of the Moncton goals were scored on close-range shots. Five or six times the marksmen skated up to the big fellow quite unmolested and feinted him from position before firing.

Two Did Not Score.

Goalie Jimmy Foster and Nucker Irvine, left winger, were the only Moncton players who did not score. Irvine had one assist. Five players —Miller, McManus, Bill Gill, Webster, and Duke McDonald—bagged two goals, and Len Burrage, James and Bert Connolly got one each.

Miller, who played both defence and centre and impressed many critics as being the most effective all-round player on the Hawk roster, was credited with two assists. He scored the only Moncton goal in the first game and got two in the Wednesday night contest to lead all series marksmen.

Al David scored the lone Detroit goal in the first period, and Aubrey Bigham and Jimmy Sullivan tallied in the second. The White Star attacks were well organized, but most of them foundered on the husky Gill-Burrage defence.

Badminton Bridge Held At Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, April 12.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—Nine tables of bridge were played at the party sponsored by the Badminton Club on Tuesday evening, as the concluding social event of their season, the party being successful in every respect.

Prizes were presented by Mrs. L. H. Grahame, who was the first president of the club. First prizes were won by Mrs. Stevenson and Mr. Victor Lancaster, and the consolation prizes by Miss Graham and Mr. Ben Kennedy.

Mr. Harvey, on behalf of the guests, voiced their appreciation for a social evening which had been so eminently successful and paid a well merited tribute to the work of Mrs. Elmsley and Miss Constance Stuart, social convenor, for their untiring efforts in making the whole evening a happy one for all present.

YOUNG SWIMMERS SHATTER RECORDS

Katherine Rawls, 15 and Jack Medica Feature Chicago Meet.

CHICAGO, April 12.—(A.P.) — Katherine Rawls, 15 year old high school girl from Miami Beach, Fla., and Jack Medica, 19 year old sophomore at the University of Washington, skimmed through the Lake Shore Athletic Club pool for new world's records last night as the United States' Women's Amateur Athletic Union indoor swimming championship opened.

The Florida mermaid shattered her own mark in the 300-yards individual medley by 2.6 seconds as she routed her older and bigger rivals in the record-smashing time of 4:12.2. Medica, in a special attempt with half a dozen official clockers on the job, shattered the world's mark in the 400 metres by 3.8 seconds. Medica was timed in 4:32.2.

Lenore Knight of Homestead, Pa., who dazzled the swimming world last July by winning four free-style championships in the national outdoor meet at New York, fell as the big bombardment for titles and records opened last night. Her conqueror was Olive McKean, of Seattle, Wash., in the 100-yard free style. Miss McKean won by the narrowest of margins in 1:03.4.

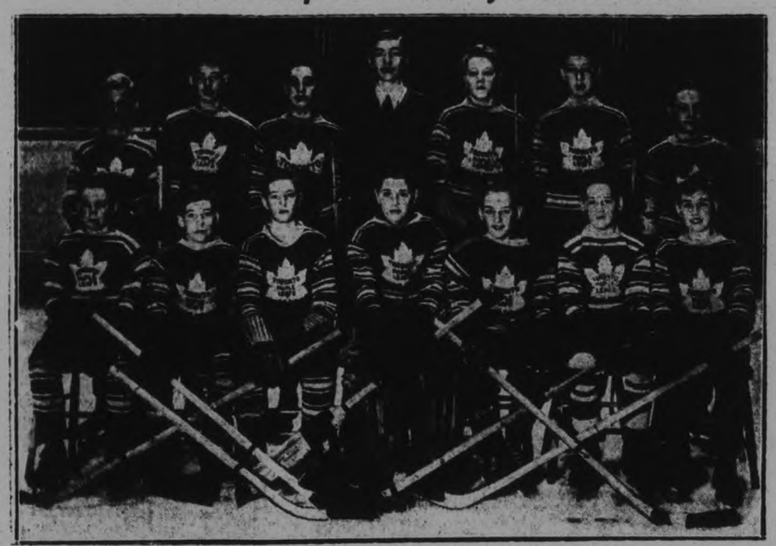
Smith, complete the full slate of officers for the provincial body for 1934. The three executive committee members named by the President are: H. H. Bowman, Owen Sound; William Y. Shaw, Walkerville; and V. C. Collett, Toronto. Other officers of the association are: President, E. B. Smith, Hamilton; 1st vice-president, Homer Frezell, London; 2nd vice-president, George H. Spooner, Galt; secretary, Verne McIlwraith, Guelph; treasurer, William J. Inness, Paris; executive: W. Easson, Stratford; W. L. Alguire, St. Catharines; Fred Kent, Brantford, and David Leether, Peterborough.

Two physicians, several trained nurses and the necessary attendants travel on the first train fitted as a hospital to operate on the South Manchurian Railway in Manchukuo.

Is This The Maple Leaf Hockey Team Of 1944?



The Toronto Maple Leafs believe in crossing their bridges a few years before they come to them. Here is a possible Maple Leaf team of 1944, ten years from now. For this kid team battled its way to the bantam championship of Toronto in their nice Maple Leaf sweaters. Their most ardent supporter was no less personage than Manager Conny Smythe of the big team. The reason of course, is that Conny's son, Stafford, is a member of the team. SMYTHE DENIES LEX LEVINSKY SOLD TO NEW YORK RANGER CLUB

Last Word Received From Patrick is That Price Asked for Defenseman Too High.

LEAVE FOR WEST.

TORONTO, April 12. — Although the Associated Press sent out a despatch early last evening from New York stating that the New York Rangers Hockey Club announced the purchase of Alex. Levinsky, defenceman, from the Toronto Maple Leafs, local club officials claim that they have heard nothing about the deal.

As far as Manager Connie Smythe is concerned, the report is not true. He admits, however, that some time ago the Rangers asked the Toronto Club to put a price on Levinsky. When this was done, a letter was received some days later from New York stating the price was too high. This is the last knowledge that Smythe or the Toronto club has had that the Rangers were still interested in Levinsky. Smythe hopes that the report is true, but he has his doubts. In any event, Levinsky will be one of the Maple Leafs who will leave to-night for Winnipeg on the exhibition series jaunt to the Pacific Coast.

Negotiations Last Fall.

The Rangers have been interested in Levinsky for three seasons. When Alex. was a holdout for a time last fall, he intimated that he could make a deal for his services with the New York club and he was given full permission to do so. However, the Rangers did not appear to be interested at that time, although they were informed then just how much money the Leafs would take for the Jewish defenceman. Lester Patrick opened negotiations for Levinsky about two weeks ago, but did not display any further interest when the price was quoted again. If the Rangers have decided to purchase Levinsky, they have overlooked the necessary formality of advising the Toronto club to this effect. One or two other clubs in the league are said to be interested in big Alex., but Rangers were given first chance in the event that the Leafs decided to part with him.

Smythe announced last night that all the Leafs, with the exception of Joe Primeau, would make the trip West. "Happy" Day and "Red" Horner decided yesterday to go. "Headline" Hollett will also be included in the party, and will be a utility defenceman for both teams. The Red Wings will include Manager Jack Adams and ten players.

Only nine of them will be from the Detroit club, however. Paul Thompson being invited to join the Wings and play left wing on the line with Aurie and Lewis. Starr, Sorrell and Wiseman will form another Red Wings forward combination, and Goodfellow, Young and Graham will be available for defence duty. Owing to suffering a fractured nose in the series with the Black Hawks, "Cooney" Weiland has decided not to make the trip. However, Wilfred Cude, whose nose was also broken in the Stanley Cup finals, will be in the net for the Wings. It is possible that Johnny Gottselig of the Hawks will join the party at Winnipeg, his home town, and make the trip to the coast.

BRAVES BUY MARTY McMANUS TO FILL MARANVILLE'S PLACE

BOSTON, April 12.—Some pressing baseball problems were solved yesterday when Martin Joseph McManus, 34 year old veteran of 14 American Baseball League campaigns, came to Boston Braves by purchase from Brooklyn Dodgers as a second base replacement for the injured Rabbit Maranville.

First of all, Marty, who was made a free agent last fall after managing the Red Sox for a season and a half, was snatched from the limbo of baseball's forgotten men and given the ideal spot in which to continue his playing career.

Although he had an all-time major league batting average of .293 with St. Louis Browns and Detroit Tigers before coming to Boston in 1932, the Dodgers were so glutted with younger infielders that he seemed forever doomed to a bench job while he remained with Brooklyn.

KNOW PARASITES TO SUBDUE THEM

Experts on Bugs and Other Pests Says Public Should be Informed on Subject.

OTTAWA, April 3 (C.P.)—Although mankind is now fighting a losing battle against the parasites that prey on livestock, as soon as public opinion is informed of the seriousness of the menace effective steps will be taken to meet it, Dr. W. T. M. Cameron, expert on bugs, fleas and similar pests, is convinced.

As director of the Institute of Parasitology at Macdonald College, St. Anne de Bellevue, Que., Dr. Cameron is conducting a survey of animal parasites in Canada which he describes as the "first comprehensive attempt to place knowledge of the parasites in the country on a scientific basis."

Parasites, he stated in an address here, "are the greatest source of loss in horses, sheep and pigs; they cause millions of dollars damage annually to cattle; they are very serious pests in poultry, dogs, foxes and cats." But modern science provides the means of curbing their inroads, he added.

In the tropics, Dr. Cameron said, millions of human beings are victims of parasites and most of the diseases are due to them. They appear, he said, to afflict domestic animals more than wild ones and, as a man himself was the first animal to become domesticated, these pests quickly became a factor in public health.

SPEED HIGH TOWER FOR HUGE EDIFICE

LIVERPOOL, England, April 7 (CP)—Thanks largely to the munificent gift, just announced, of nearly $1,250,000 from Lord Vestey and his brother, Sir Edmund Vestey, Liverpool Anglican Cathedral is likely to be finished completely in another 16 years or within 50 years of the laying of the corner stone by King Edward VIII.

Compared with the time it took to build some of the other great cathedrals of England this will be a truly amazing achievement. Whole centuries were spent upon the erection of such noble piles as Canterbury, York or Lincoln. On the other hand St. Paul's was rebuilt, after the Great Fire of London, in the short space of 35 years. The money for its rebuilding came largely from a tax on coal brought into London.

Liverpool Cathedral is rising entirely through freewill offerings, ranging from the penny of the Sunday scholar to gifts even more princely than that of the brothers Vestey.

Lord Vestey and Sir Edmund Vestey are making the gift in memory of their parents, and the money is to be devoted to the building of the great Central Tower of the Cathedral. This, the crowning feature of the design of Sir Gilbert Scott, will rise 327 feet above ground level, making the Cathedral a landmark for many miles out at sea.

According to prevailing estimates the Canadian sugar beet acreage in 1933 was about 2 per cent lower than in 1932.

Charlotte, N.C.—Blondy Ryan, sparkplug of the 1933 New York Giants, has it all figured out that this year's club is 30 percent better. Watkins improves the attack 15 percent, he says, although the defense lost three percent with the going of George Davis. Travis Jackson's comeback is good for 10 percent gain with Blondy as a substitute; heavier hitting because of the livlier ball adds six percent and the general development of a young team provides the necessary two percent to make up 30.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Hockey — Bowling — Boxing
Basketball — Curling, Etc.

By C. J. P.

Knotty Lee came to town yesterday and spent the day getting around and renewing friendships. He is as hale and hearty as ever with that dark brown baseball tan that never leaves an oldtimer who has spent most of his life on sun-drenched diamonds. And Knotty is as full of pep as ever—the same old hustle to his step and his tone. He will be here from now on, first of all finishing up his program-score card which will be given away at local ball games, and then getting his team lined up. "We should be out for the first workout a week from Saturday," he told us, "if the weather is okay and the ground dry. Napanee holds its first practise this Saturday."

• • • • • • •

And, speaking of Napanee, the grizzled coach was there just a couple of days ago and tells us that with their half a dozen imports, that team has no business playing anywhere but in senior company. He said: "They should be in the Central League this year as those Toronto imports with what they already have should make Napanee as tough as Kingston or any other Central League outfit." Well, the C.O.B.L. meets in Cobourg this Saturday and Napanee and the O.B.A.A. will be invited. It will be a final effort on the part of Peterborough to get a decent league going, and the local delegates have a few plans to bring up before the other club representatives. We think something worthwhile will come of this loop session.

• • • • • • •

Knotty told us very emphatically that the account in a Toronto paper recently that he was interested in a pro softball team in Toronto was the bunk. Absolutey wrong all the way through, he declared, as he hadn't the slightest interest in softball, amateur or professional and had only seen a few games in his life. He expects to have a better team wearing the Petes' uniforms this summer, getting better pitching and hitting—the latter especially. But, of course, nothing definite on his lineup will be known for a couple of weeks yet.

• • • • • • •

And one other thing, we learned from Coach Lee—and it's a laugh. He said that Pat Gannon ran the Oshawa delegate, H. R. Brown, out of a meeting of the Greenwood Park League—that's the independent loop in Toronto now—early last Friday evening! Pat told Knotty himself. It seems that Brown was really worried about the Dukes' chances of getting into the Ulster League and before the meeting to settle it Friday night in Toronto, he dropped around to the other meeting where Pat Gannon and his Greenwood Park gang were chinning. The Oshawa guy said: "Well, I think we'll be in your league yet, the way things look now." And Patrick replied: "Well, you can leave this meeting right now and go to the other. We've had enough of your popping in and out tactics, and we don't want you now." Too bad the O.B.A.A. and the C.O.B.L. officials didn't know that little thing at their meeting! It's a laugh all right, but the chuckle didn't come in time to do us much good.

• • • • • • •

As is usually the case with the first yearly meeting of the City Baseball League, only a few of the old reliables showed up last night at Duffus' and not much could be done. There were several teams represented and we believe there should be a pretty far City Loop this summer, with maybe four bantams and four juveniles in. Only one junior squad is likely and that one may enter a proposed Lakeshore Junior League along with Oshawa, Bowmanville, Cobourg and Port Hope. At least, correspondence to this effect has been opened. Another league meeting will be held some night next week and officers will be elected and teams entered. Meantime, a committee composed of Jack Deannard, Bill Prindible and Mike O'Brien will interview possible prospects regarding the entering of teams.

• • • • • • •

The executive meeting of the Girls' Softball League wasn't very well attended either. Several matters were discussed in preparation of the annual re-organization meeting which will be held in Duffus' at eight o'clock next Thursday e'en. They appointed Russ Kitchen, Mike Latimer and Harry Kearney on the nominating committee. No doubt a large turnout will see the next session with local and out-of-town outfits all represented. With the new enlarged grandstand and the improved diamond over at the Bowl, this summer should be the best in the brief history of the colleens' circuit.

• • • • • • •

Mustapha Pasha—and what a hard-looking hombre that bimbo is!—will be on the rasslin' card at the Brock tomorrow (Friday) night. The Terrible Turk has received a lot of publicity the past several years and fans who would like to get an idea of what he looks like before they attend the pro show should take a look at his picture, with the others, in Riley & Hickey's window. He's got a bush of hair on his bean like a chimney-sweep's broom, a piratical black moustache and a scowl that would scare a gunman! Mister Pasha looks like a good guy to leave alone in a dark alley, and they say he's as tough as he appears, but we don't think that's possible. Anyway, it's a cinch he won't be one of the more popular grunt-and-groaners up there tomorrow. Should be just about a full house for this rough-tough pro rasslin' show.

Most of the pro pucksters are back home after a long winter on the road. But the Toronto Leafs and most of Detroit's Red Wings, with a few players from the Hawks aren't through yet. They leave to-night for a Western tour, playing in Winnipeg, Trail and Vancouver. Riley of Canadiens will join the Leafs n Vancouver, and Reg. Hamilton or St. Mike's is expected also to leave Saturday and meet his next year's Leaf squad in the coast town. Irvin Bailey wanted to go along but his doctor said, "Ix-nay", as the Ace lost no less than eight pounds watching Detroit beat the Leafs. He'll have to watch himself for a while after his serious injury at Boston early in the winter.

SATURDAY—"THE LOST PATROL"

PRESENT CUPS ANNUAL SUPPER OF GIRLS' LOOP

Banquet Provides Fitting Climax to Successful Basketball Season.

110 PERSONS PRESENT.

Presentation of trophies and individual awards to the victorious teams and officers provided a fitting climax to a highly successful season of Ladies' City League basketball at a banquet held in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A. last evening.

More than 110 people sat down to a sumptuous repast. Table decorations were carried out in light blue any grey. Stanley Shields, chairman, called on Rev. Dr. Barr to pronounce grace.

Specially invited guests included, besides Dr. Barr, Mrs. Harvey, president of the Y.W.C.A.; Mrs. Soothern, representing the Wohelo Club; Mrs. Whiteman, convenor of entertainments; Mrs. Shields; Mrs. Cooper; G. A. Macdonald; and Howard Macdonald, past president of the league.

Mrs. Harvey gave a short talk on the benefits derived by those participating in basketball, concluding by reading the following original poem:

TO THE BASKETBALL TEAMS

There are many roads to happiness,
There are many roads to fame;
But give to us just Basketball—
'Tis far our best-loved game.

Yes, give to us just Basketball,
The sport we love so well,
It gives us exercise and health,
When we rush along pell-mell.

We try our best to reach the the goal;
We tussle with each other;
But, when the man his whistle sounds,
Then we, excitement smother.

We stand erect, and wait to find
Just what he has to say,
Then, if we've made a slight mistake,
Again we have to play.

'Tis good, clean sport; no jealousy
Spoils games, or friendship injures;
The game is played for sport alone,
Good fellowship still lingers.

Young friends, there is a game called "Life"
We each and all must play;
So play to win—for only once
We pass along this way.

Community singing, led by C. Patterson, assisted by Dorothy Finnie and George Broadley at the piano, proved most enjoyable.

Following a few remarks, the chairman proposed "The King," and congratulated all teams on sportsmanship displayed throughout the season; he also thanked The Examiner Sports Department for publicity and assistance in the past season. A toast to "Basketball" was ably proposed by Mary Terrace of the Westclox team and responded to by Marion Stacey of the St. Andrew's club.

The G. N. Gordon Cup, a beautiful piece of silverware, emblematic of the City Senior Championship, was presented to the Westclox team, and accepted on their behalf by G. Mortimer, captain. The personnel of the victors was: D. Webb, A. Livingstone, G. Mortimer, G. Robinson, B. Thirnbeck, M. Terrace, D. Routly, M. Ferguson, G. Brand, A. Crory; Russ Kitchen (coach).

A cup for the runners-up, won by the Blue Petes, and donated by Mrs. Harvey, was then presented; the trophy being received by their captain, P. McClellan. Other members of the team were: J. Harvey, J. Allin, M. Harvey, B. Rogers, V. Davidson; D. Amys and D. McFadden, coaches.

The Junior champions, St. Andrew's, won a cup donated by several of Peterborough's industrial firms, and was accepted by Marion Stacey. The team was composed of: M. Donaldson, J. Best, J. Cole, B. Lytle, M. Weir, M. Clarke, A. Macdonald, D. Tremaine, M. Lytle.

Appreciation of the arduous work of the coaches was shown by the players, who tendered their mentors several gifts. Russ Kitchen received from the Westclox team a silver lighter with his initials engraved on it; this token of esteem was presented by G. Mortimer. P. McClellan, on behalf of the Blue Petes then presented F. Amys and D. McFadden with gold cigarette cases. Stan. Shields and George Broadley received gifts of bronze book-ends from the C.G.E. team. The Wohelo girls then made a presentation to their coach, Vince Holmes. "Y" Seniors, represented by Leona Magee, presented J. Cooper with a combined magazine rack and table. E. Pearce received a gift from the St. Andrew's team, represented by Marion Stacey.

Miss Caroline Littlefield joined in praising the girls for the fine sportsmanship displayed; and a pleasant evening was brought to a close by three cheers, led by "Toady" Patterson, and the singing of the National Anthem.

Arrangements for the most successful evening were in charge of the basketball executive, composed of C. Patterson, Stan. Shields, Miss Littlefield, J. Cooper. Refreshments were in charge of M. Lytle, M. Stacey, and J. Allin; while V. Davidson, P. McClellan and J. Allin looked after the decorations.

LEAFS AGAIN DEFEAT ALBANY

Each Team Makes 12 Hits But Leafs Work Opposing Pitchers for 8 Walks.

SCHOTT GOES ROUTE.

BARNWELL, S.C., April 12 (CP) Our Albany brethren were on their best behaviour again yesterday afternoon and Ike Boone's Toronto Maple Leafs claimed their third contest from the "Men o' McCorry" at Fuller Park by a 7-3 score.

While the Maple Leafs banged out a total of 12 hits, including a triple and five doubles, the pitching feat of Gene Schott was the outstanding feature.

Schott was nicked for 12 hits, but he went the route and after one shaky inning, the sixth, recovered to finish with plenty to spare. Schott's performance just about settled the opening day pitching assignment in Albany next Wednesday afternoon. The Cincinnati youth kept the hits peeled off his delivery well scattered, and only in the fourth did the Senators get more than two good solid clouts.

Schott was handled during the first four innings by Jack Crouch and the last five by Bob Smith. He struck out three and walked but two batters. He started to weaken in the sixth and walked the first two men, but recovered quickly and caught Fold with a third strike to ease the situation.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterboroughs Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner

Full name and address (complete) must be given in all samples sent in.

Mrs. Mary Smith,
361 Simcoe St., Peterborough.

Your writing indicates that you are subject to moods and that you are changeable but friendly and very kindhearted. Your tall 't's' illustrate a type of visionary imagination, and I am afraid that you often worry needlessly about things which you cannot help at all. Your capital letter 'S' in the word Simcoe shows artistic tendencies, and I am sure that you are a lover of good music. You are intelligent and have a retentive mind. You are not too particular about routine or detail, but managed to strike a happy medium. You like your home to be restful and comfortable, and so do not endeavour to be too neat or orderly. You make a splendid hostess, and seem to know exactly what to say at the psychological moment. Some of your letters reveal a sensitive characteristic, this makes you forgo many social good times. You are perhaps too generous with material things, and wear yourself out mentally trying to keep up with the times, or the things that you desire to do. I am sorry that you missed your delineation when you sent a coupon, and also sorry that this one has been so long in coming to you. It is entirely my fault, for it was put aside for reference, and remained safely tucked away till now. You may write again if you like, using the same name and address as above, and give me your date of birth, month and year, and I shall be very glad to help you further through numerology and your horoscope, which tells you your lucky day, and month.

One with your gentle refined nature should wear soft toned colors whenever possible, and try not to wear the extreme style as portrayed by the current fashion, rather dress to suit your individual taste, for your taste is good.

Kathleen McComb,
Bonarlaw, Ont.

Your writing indicates that you are a person who is most energetic. You seem to fly about from one thing to another as though you had no time for the completion of one 'single' task. I do not mean to imply that you do not finish anything, but rather to impress you with the fact that your mind, and your hand, are over-occupied. These long expressive loops represent interest in out-of-door work or recreatin. Your upper loops reveal a genuine and practical imagination. The variable shape and size of some of the smaller letters would seem to illustrate a changeable nature or disposition. You can be jolly and carefree, and you can and do worry. Your will power is normal, and your judgment is sensible. You are gifted with an excellent sense of humor, and can laugh heartily over very funny incidents, but if an occasion does not, in your manner of thinking, require a 'laugh' you can keep a very straight face, and appear stern and dignified. Your 'd' shows that you are quite sensitive to slights, and often suffer deeply through the thoughtlessness of others, who should have known better than to aggravate you. You are persistent in your efforts to accomplish what you set out to do, and usually seem to succeed. You are not too fussy as regards detail or routine, but have a very delightful character.

Mrs. Allan B. McComb,
Bonarlaw, Ont.

Your writing illustrates a kindly and very sympathetic nature. You are not very definite about anything, and so manage to create an air of peace and loving goodness about you. Home life as a true vocation is best suited to your type, because you are not fitted to battle your way through life in the business world. I do not say you could not be successful in business if you wished to be, but rather that your gentle nature requires love and protection. Your health seems to be under par, and appears nervous. It would be well for you to give this your attention at once, build up your constitution before you let your nerves get the better of you. Sometimes a vacation will work wonders. You are rather too sensitive and apt to draw yourself into 'your shell' as it were, and so you miss quite a lot of the funny side of life. I am so glad that you enjoy reading The Examiner. It is, as you say, an excellent paper. You may write again if you wish, and give me your date of birth, month and year, and I will give you your number, lucky day, and month. But if you do, please be sure to use the same name, and tell me when your delineation appeared in print.

Nervous Breakdown

Brings Keenest Distress

No physical suffering can be compared
To the mental anguish of nervous breakdown.
You may look strong and well
So that your friends and even your physician
May have some doubts regarding your illness.
To you the future is dark and hopeless.
Depressed and discouraged you can only weep.
Such extreme conditions of nervous exhaustion
Do not right themselves.
The digestive system has failed to nourish the nerves,
And you must supply nutrition more directly.
Dr. Chase's Nerve Food affords relief promptly
Because it supplies in easily assimilated form
The very ingredients that go to form new blood
And replenish the exhausted nerve force.
Your druggist will tell you
Of the enthusiastic reports he receives,
From the people who have used
This time-proven restorative
For the blood and the nerves.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, April 13

According to the lunar and mutual transits of this day there should be much of interest and profit in employment, and in association with those in places of power and authority, with a decided advance upon the goal of high endeavors and ambitions. This fruition should be reached for with much assurance of friendly support and recognition, but nevertheless there are loopholes for intriguing or baffling situations calling for alert perceptions and unusual discretion. Extravagance, speculation and self-indulgence should be avoided. Circumspect conduct in private affiliations is likewise enjoined.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of opportunity for the achievement of high aims and purposes, with the assistance, preferment or solid support of superiors or those in power. Increased fortunes, enhanced popularity and fulfilled ambitions are forseen, but shun extravagance, speculation and personal indulgences; private affairs call for restraint and discretion.

A child born on this day may be ambitious and efficient, and enjoy popularity and good position, although extravagant and self-indulgent.

CUBAN REFORMS TO MAKE PEACE

Permit Confiscating Property of Those Misappropriating Funds in Machado Rule.

MOURN DR. ZAYAS.

HAVANA, April 12. (AP).—Reforms calculated to quiet political turbulence were written into constitution to-day.

They were announced by President Carlos Mendieta this morning after another long session of his weary cabinet. President Mendieta also decreed a 15-day period of mourning for Dr. Alfredo Zayas, fourth president of the Cuban republic and widely known historian, who died yesterday at the age of 73 years. Arrangements were made for him to be given full military honors at the burial at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Among the minor constitutional reforms are rules governing the functions of the new council of state.

Other reforms include:

Amendments stipulating that military courts only may have jurisdiction in military cases, even when constitutional guarantees are suspended; and Permitting confiscation of the property of persons found guilty of misappropriating public funds — "especially during the period from May 20, 1926 to August 12, 1933." This was during the term of the deposed President Gerardo Machado.

BROCKVILLE LOSES TO MONTREAL FIVE

Y.M.H.A. Intermediates Score 60 to 50 Victory on the Round.

MONTREAL, April 12. — Clever passing forming the spearhead of their attack, Young Men's Hebrew Association of Montreal last night defeated Brockville Rowing Club 28 to 11 to win the two-game round of the Dominion intermediate basketball playdowns 60 to 50. In the first game at Brockville on Saturday the Rowers won 39 to 32.

Y.M.H.A. now meet the Maritime champions, St. John Young Men's Christian Institute Trumps, in the Eastern Canada semi-final. It is expected the Maritimers will play here on Monday and Tuesday in a two-game-total-point series, the winners entering the Eastern Canada final against the Ontario titleholders.

REV. S. G. PINNOCK SPEAKS AT MEET

Helen Roger Auxiliary of Knox Church Holds Easter Thank Offering.

The Easter thankoffering meeting of the Helen Roger Auxiliary, of Knox Church, was held on Monday evening at the Manse, King street. The president, Mrs. Howard Clegg, presided. The meeting opened with a devotional period entitled "Loving and Giving," which carried out the Easter theme. A delightful solo was rendered by Mrs. George Wallace, entitled "In The Garden." The dedicatory prayer was made by Mrs. Andrew McKenzie. After the business period a very special feature was a talk given by the Reverend S. G. Pinnock, who was in the city in the interests of The Bible Society. He took as his text, "We are ambassadors for Christ," and very effectively illustrated what it meant to be "An ambassador for Christ." Mr. Pinnock then told of his work as a Baptist Missionary, on the West Coast of Africa, where he served as an ambassador for Christ for 35 years, and in conclusion pointed out how necessary it was for those at home to support those on the frontiers of our missions, and to be faithful in their task. A very appropriate closing exercise concluded the meeting. A social half hour followed.

WINDSOR SENIORS BOW TO MONTREAL

Eastern Cagers Secure 29-28 Victory in First of Play-offs.

MONTREAL, April 12 (C.P.). — Assumption College of Windsor, Ont., Ontario senior basketball champions, last night lost the first game of the Ontario-Quebec Dominion playdowns by the narrowest of margins, defeated by Nationales, Province of Quebec champions, 29-28.

The teams meet again here on Friday night and if a third game is necessary it will be played here Saturday. The winners will tackle Dalhousie University of Halifax, Maritime titlists, in the Eastern Canada semi-final.

It was regarded as the finest exhibition of the cage game seen here in years. Nationales ran into a style of game unknown here, scientific to a degree, but, in the end, the sustained speed of the Montreal team was just a little bit too much. Observers were predicting a great series, probably going three games.

The issue was in doubt to the last whistle. Murray Patrick scored the winning point with only seconds to go. He had been fouled by Desjarlais of Windsor as he pivoted to shoot and was awarded two free shots. He missed the first but dropped the second through the hoop, breaking a 26-26 tie. As the remaining seconds ticked off Nationales weathered off every thrust of the Ontario team.

Insull Starts Home Tonight, Appeals Lost

ISTANBUL, April 12 (A.P.).—The Turkish Court of Appeals to-day refused to consider Samuel Insull's appeal against extradition, and the authorities notified him immediately that he would be started on his return trip to the United States without delay.

The decision blasted the last hope of the famous fugitive's lawyers to halt his extradition.

Turkish authorities immediately completed plans for starting him towards Smyrna this evening—the point at which he will be handed over to United States agents tomorrow.

The Adana, a more comfortable ship than the steamer Adnan previously chartered, was ordered used in to-night's run with Insull to Pandarma.

There, Insull will be placed aboard a train en route for Smyrna, where the American export liner Exilona will be waiting to transport him back to United States to face trial on charges of embezzlement and fraud.

GALWAY TOWNSHIP SETTLED BY BRITISH ARMY VETERANS

Mrs. M. A. Foley, Now 86, Recalls Early Days in Galway Township.

HARDY LOT OF PIONEERS.

The manner in which British Army veterans overcame hardship and privations in building homes for their families in 1857 in the wilds of Galway Township is told in a letter to The Examiner by Mrs. M. A. Foley, who is 86 years old. Now a resident of Buffalo, N.Y., Mrs. Foley confesses fond memory turns back to the happy days of her childhood when she rambled through the woods of Galway with young companions.

Mrs. Foley is an old subscriber to The Examiner and her brothers, Frank and John McGuire, are still residents of Union Creek.

The aged lady writes as follows: "Having seen an article written some time ago, on the founding of Kinmount by a party of trappers and hunters, brought back to my memory the story of another band of veterans, who had served in various regiments under Her Gracious Majesty, Queen Victoria, of happy memory. About the year 1857 they set out to occupy the land ceded to them by the Government for services rendered in Galway Township. But they little realized the hardships of pioneering and the privations they and their families would have to endure."

Dotted With Cabins

"The valley from Limestone Hill to Union Creek soon became dotted with their quaint little cabins, erected by Coulter Brothers, the first architects in that country who had settled at Silver Lake. The home of the Foley family was situated for many, many years at Union Creek and beneath its hospitable roof many weary and footsore travellers found comfort and rest. Inns were few and far between.

"The tourist of to-day knows little of the hardships and discomforts endured by those early pioneers who accomplished so much in the building of Canada. Many tales of self-sacrifice and heroism could be told of them, if space would permit. Their sons and daughters went out in the world equipped with only the knowledge they had acquired in the little log school house and the sterling Christian attributes gained at their mother's knee."

The Old Road

"The highway under construction at the present time brings back to my memory that first dear old road through the virgin forests. Limestone hill, a mountain then to us, and down its steep decline with great peril to life and limb we drove in a lumber wagon, drawn by oxen, to our future home. On through the long swamp over the corduroy bridges, on through the valley, which is now known as the mining lots, over Union Creek with its pleasant memories, through the picturesque village of Kinmount, built on the banks of Burnt River, and still on into Dorset. No modern improvements can take the place of the natural beauty of that first new road.

"Fond memory goes back to the days of my childhood, when we children rambled through the woodlands and dell, to gather the wild flowers that grew by the way side; cherries, berries and sweet water cresses. Everything then had a charm of its own that no one can now describe."

2-Year Moratorium Declared By Cuba

HAVANA, April 11 (AP)—Cuba has declared a two-year moratorium on approximately $50,000,000 in loans from British and United States houses and to-day leaders said it may be extended even longer.

It was a case, Government officials explained, of letting national obligations including the salaries of public employees go unpaid, or of suspending payments on certain international obligations. Cuba chose the latter course.

Under the moratorium, approved by the Cabinet of President Carlos Mendieta last night, nothing will be paid on the principal of bonds floated through Speyer and Morgan from 1904 to 1927, as follows:

Speyer, 5%, 1904, $10,000,000.

Speyer, 4½%, 1909, $10,000,000.

Morgan, 5%, 1919, $4,000,000.

Morgan, 5½%, 1923 and 1927, $23,000,000 and $3,000,000 respectively.

It was emphasized by officials that the interest will be paid.

Starlings Stealing Mail From The Boxes

GALT, Ont., April 11 (CP) — Starlings have long been one of the most troublesome pests that farmers in this district have had to contend with. Their chief crime has been confined to stealing grain from the fields after seeding, but out near Ayr the inquisitive chatterers have thought up a new one. They have been stealing mail from the mail boxes. Eyewitnesses report that by persistent clawing and pecking, the black pests have opened rural mail boxes and picked up letters, carried them off and dropped them several hundred yards away.

GULLS NOT ABLE TO CROSS OCEAN

MONTREAL, Mar. 29 (C.P.)—Contrary to popular belief, birds such as gulls, cormorants, eiders and terns are in the majority of cases, just as incapable of crossing the ocean as the common ordinary land birds. So stated V. C. Wynne-Edwards, assistant professor of zoology of McGill University, lecturing before the Province of Quebec Society for the Protection of Birds.

Professor Wynne-Edwards last year spent about five months travelling back and forth across the Atlantic studying bird life. During that time he made more than 10,000 records of individual birds on the high seas.

Although the feathered creatures to be seen at every seaside are incapable of ocean voyages there is a community of real oceanic or "pelagic" birds, stated Prof. Wynne-Edwards, which shun the land and spend the greater part of their lives wandering up and down on the open seas. Very little in the way of data is known about these birds which makes them all the more fascinating to study, he added. Some of the members of this strange family of birds are the albatross, Mother Carey's chickens and a few other familiar ones but there are many that have never been heard of by most people such as the skuas, jaegers, fulmars and Shearwaters.

NOTABLES PASS

LONDON, April 11 (CP Cable)—Coincidental with the death to-day of Sir Gerald Du Maurier, famous British actor-manager, were the deaths of Hon. John Collier, well-known painter, and George Spencer Watson, another distinguished artist.

Keene

Miss Pauline Humphries of Asphodel spent last week visiting at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Gillespie.

Misses Reta and Zetta Wilson spent Easter week at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Howson and daughters Helen and Betty Joan, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McIntyre and son Donald, Mr. Archie McIntyre were Sunday guests of Mrs. Ellen Howson and Miss Dorothy Kindred.

Mrs. Robert Nelson, Mrs. William Campbell, Mrs. Jean Cameron are on a motor trip to Charleston, S.C.

Mrs. Wright entertained the Swastika Club of Keene on Wednesday evening, April 4. Mrs. D. D. Brown was responsible for the unusually interesting program which dealt with outstanding Canadian women. Informative papers were given on Agnes McPhail by Mrs. Wright, on Marie Dressler by Mrs. Gus Bolin, on Pauline Johnston by Mrs. George Houle and on Nellie McLung by Mrs. G. S. Taylor. The program included other papers of wider scope by Mrs. Ambrose Doris and Mrs. D. D. Brown. Two pleasing musical numbers, a solo by Mrs. Mabel Kearney and a duet by Miss Margaret Bryce and Mrs. F. A. Eason were much enjoyed. Refreshments served by the hostess brought the meeting to a close.

The Young Peoples' Society met on Sunday evening at 7.30 in the basement of the United Church. After a thirty minute song service lead by Alf Fletcher, Miss Minnie Edwards presiding at the piano, Mr. Thomas Hope took charge of the meeting. Bible reading by Roland Rennie, prayer by Tom Hope. Topic was taken by Mr. Hope in which all joined in a discussion. A musical number by Mr. Fletcher and Miss Edwards brought the program to a close.

DILLINGER RAIDS POLICE STATION FOR GUN SUPPLY

Also Nabs 4 Bullet Proof Vests—Both He and Pal Carry Machine Guns.

THIRD SIMILAR COUP.

Arkansas Officers, After Barrow, Seize 6 Men, 4 Women in Raid and Car Chase.

WARSAW, Ind., April 13. (AP). Armed with machine guns and defying the Friday 13th hoodoo, two men, identified as John Dillinger and Homer Van Meter, Indiana desperadoes, overpowered a night patrolman here early to-day and robbed the police station of four bullet proof vests and two revolvers.

Jud Pittenger, veteran Warsaw policeman, said he was slugged as he was walking his beat in the deserted streets of the town and was forced to accompany the men to the station. After selecting the vests and revolvers, Pittenger said the bandits escaped in a dark colored sedan which had been parked at the side of the city hall building.

It was the third successful raid on Indiana police stations attributed to the Dillinger gangsters since the Indiana prison break last September. The others were at Auburn and Peru.

WAR VETERANS RILED IN FRANCE

Fight Plan to Cut Pensions—Gov't Employees Stir Trouble Over Lower Pay.

REDS ACTIVE.

PARIS, April 13. (AP)—A breach with war veterans over proposed pension cuts which caused rumors the Minister of Finance might resign and falling prices on the stock market developed to-day coincident with the first of a series of demonstrations by government employees against contemplated salary reductions.

Police guards watched while 1,800 government employees swarmed the courtyard and stairways of the main telegraph bureau at the noon hour. Communists among them shouted their hostility to the government and chanted the Internationale.

Andre Mallarme, Minister of Communications said the leaders would be punished.

A stormy session between Premier Doumergue and representatives of war veterans failed to close the wide breach between his suggestion that their pensions be slashed three percent and their steadfast stand against a cut.

The veterans stood firmly on their ultimatum that the government must clean up France before cutting their pensions and that they would do the clean-up work themselves if the government did not.

Louis Germain-Martin, Minister of Finance, demanded that the economy program, which includes pay cuts for government employees as well as pension cuts, should be fully effective. It was rumored he had threatened to quit.

Windsor Radio Case Cost Department $100,000 Last Year in Unpaid Fees

OTTAWA, April 13.—(CP)—The now-famous suit of the government against Archie Gignac, young Windsor lawyer, was aired before the Radio Committee of the House of Commons today by Commander C. P. Edwards, Director of Radio Telegraph branch of the Department of Marine.

Revenue from radio licenses had declined about $100,000 last year, Commander Edwards said, with Mr. Gignac's refusal to pay his license fee of $2 being directly responsible.

Mr. Gignac was prosecuted, but the prosecution was dismissed. The case was appealed, and ultimately the verdict of the first trial was reversed. Now Mr. Gignac has appealed again and the case is coming up shortly.

Commander Edwards was asked if, in connection with this case, it would have been better to license the individual or the set itself.

"Well, the set couldn't appeal so often," he said and the committee roared with laughter.

Mr. Gignac had claimed he did not have to buy a license as an 'operator,' as called for by the Radio Act, declaring he owned a set but any person other than himself might 'operate' it.

LONG OPPOSITION TO RELIEF BILL RILES BENNETT

Charges Liberals Delaying Passage Till King Returns From Oxford Campaign.

ASSURES NO FAVORITISM.

Sweepstake Bill Passes Senate by 37-20, Now Goes to Commons.

OTTAWA, April 13 (C.P.). — Parliament to-day continues the battle of "peace, order and good government." For nearly two weeks now the House of Commons has been deadlocked on the Government's Unemployment Relief Bill, largely over the clause which empowers the Governor-in-Council to take such actions as he deems necessary for the maintenance of those three happy conditions.

A Liberal amendment to strike the clause from the Bill met with defeat in the Committee of the Whole yesterday. As is customary in committee deliberations, there was no registered vote. A call for the "ayes and nays" resulted in its defeat.

Annoyed at what he termed a deliberate plan of the Liberals to delay passage of the Bill until their Leader, Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King returns from the by-election campaign in South Oxford, Premier R. B. Bennett last night switched the House into Committee of Supply on the estimates for the Department of Agriculture, but to-day another attempt will be made to advance the Bill.

The Liberals' objection to the clause is that it surrenders the powers of Parliament to the executive and the Government's insistence on it is based on the desire to be equipped with power to act quickly in the

MINER GEESE SENT TO WEST

Experiment Being Made to See if Bird Will Find Way Back East.

HAVE SPECIAL TAGS.

WINNIPEG, April 13 (CP). — A new experience to-day awaited 25 Canada geese from the bird sanctuary of Jack Miner at Kingsville, Ont. Brought by train from the east, they were to be released near the city.

The plan to transplant the geese was sponsored by the Manitoba Free Press and the Provincial Government. Study will be made of the birds' migratory habits.

The geese will probably be released later to-day near Grant's Lake, 20 miles north-west of here, annual spring landing spot for flocks of geese on their return to the northland.

From a scientific view, main interest in the unique experiment focussed on the questioned ability of the birds to find their way back to the vast Ontario sanctuary at Kingsville or in what new territory they will be brought down by hunters.

To make sure the special consignment of geese do not become confused in identification with thousands of others tagged by Miner, the special tag attached to the feathered pioneers will ask:

"Please notify Game Department, Winnipeg, Canada."

Man Power

FORDYCE, Ark. April 13. — (CP) — Oddie, Guy and Ollie Word, unemployed brothers who took up farming, were undismayed when they failed to raise money to buy a mule to do the spring plowing.

Guy hitched Oddie and Ollie to the plow and they turned up the soil. Now they have a good crop in.

KINGSTON GIRL GUIDE HONORED

Miss Betty D'Esterre, 18, is Chosen to Represent Canada at International Camp.

IN SWITZERLAND.

TORONTO, April 13 (CP).—Miss Betty D'Esterre, 18, of the 7th Kingston, Ont., Company, Canadian Girl Guides, has been chosen to represent Canada at the international encampment in Switzerland early in July next.

Miss D'Esterre was selected by the Canadian Council from the nominees of the various Provincial councils for the post. She will go to Switzerland under the auspices of the Juliette Lowe Memorial Fund of the American Girl Scouts. This fund perpetuates the name and memory of the founder of Girl Scouting in America and was established to further international friendship and good-will. Canada was one of five countries selected to share in the award for 1934.

The international encampment will assemble at the Guide Chalet, at Abelboden, which was given to the Girl Guides and Girl Scouts of the world by Mrs. James Storrow, of Boston, Mass. Mrs. Storrow will be the guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Canadian Council of Girl Guides in Toronto May 17 and 18 next.

Guide Delighted

KINGSTON, Ont., April 13 (CP) —Chosen to represent Canada at the international encampment of Girl Guides in Switzerland in July, Miss Betty D'Esterre of this city, to-day expressed herself delighted with the prospects of the trip to Switzerland and at the same time sensitive of the responsibility of the appointment.

Miss D'Esterre is a daughter of Lieut. Col. J. D'Esterre and Mrs. D'Esterre, her father being overseas with the 59th Battalion from Kingston and serving as Commanding Officer of the 14th Prince of Wales Own Rifles here up to a year ago.

Canada's representative is 18 years of age and in the Fifth Form of the Kingston Collegiate Institute which school she has been attending since graduating from Victoria Public School here.

She is a splendid swimmer and possesses a silver medal given by the Royal Life saving Society for swimming prowess, while she has been prominent on the basketball team of the Collegiate, an excellent tennis player as well.

McQuibban Silent, Retirement Rumor

TORONTO, April 13.—(C.P.) — Commenting on reports of political retirement, Dr. George A. McQuibban, leader of the Liberal Opposition in the Ontario Legislature, said to-day:

"I will have no statement to make, either in confirmation or denial until I get home and consult with my executive as every member should after the session."

He would not say definitely if a statement could be expected even then.

SOMETHING ODD ABOUT DR. PRATT NIGHT OF BLAZE

Neighbor However is Unable to Say if Physician Was Drunk at Time.

HAD "PECULIAR GAIT."

Constables Confident Handkerchief Taken From Doctor's Pocket Was Blood Stained.

PERTH, Ont., April 13 (CP) — "There seemed to be something wrong," with Dr. Wilton Pratt, the night before the 71-year-old physician's housekeeper, Miss Eva McLean lost her life in a fire that destroyed the Pratt home at Smith's Falls, Ellison Bradley, a neighbor, declared in Assize Court to-day.

One of the 25 witnesses called to testify at the murder trial of Dr. Pratt, also charged with performing ten illegal operations, Bradley said he had been in the Pratt home prior to the fire. In reply to questions he was unable to say if the doctor was drunk because he had a "peculiar gait" anyway.

While sitting with the doctor, Bradley said, he could hear what he thought were glasses being rattled in the kitchen, and though he could not see into the room he took it from granted the person handling the dishes was Miss McLean.

Bradley said he had gone back to his own home and retired about 12.30 and had been in bed for only about one hour and a half when the prisoner pounded and kicked at his door.

"For God's sake, Mr. Bradley, there is a fire over at my place; come over."

Body Badly Burned

Finding of Miss McLean's charred body was described by witness, who said he would have been unable to do anything, for the skin of her body was badly burned and she was clad only in shoes.

Witness said he had not noticed any signs of burns on hands or clothes of the doctor, who in police station next day said with tears in his eyes:

"Why didn't you tell me Eva was dead?"

Bradley also recalled the doctor's confession at the time of the fire, but could not say whether the accused had said: "I can't find Eva," or "I can't get Eva."

The trial is continuing under Mr. Justice Patrick Kerwin.

Quilts sheets and blankets taken from beds in Dr. Pratt's home were produced in court this morning by Donald C. Smith, chief defence counsel. These showed signs of burns and holes which Mr. Bradley said he found in the doctor's home abut a week after the fire.

St. Thomas Treasurer Gets Year For Theft

ST. THOMAS, Ont., April 13.—(C.P.).—Cecil T. Boughner, former city treasurer here, was sentenced to serve concurrent terms of one year each in the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph on convictions registered against him in City Police Court here last Monday on three charges of theft of monies from the city treasury.

Indeterminate terms of one year were also imposed by Magistrate C. F. Maxwell, who said that he had given special consideration to the case of Rex vs. Young at Goderich case in comparing its features with last year in which the treasurer of Huron County drew a two-year term from the court appeals for theft of county funds. The circumstances of the two cases differed sufficiently to justify a lighter term in the case of Boughner, the court felt.

Sixty Are Arrested Philadelphia Strike

PHILADELPHIA, April 13.—(A. P.)—Sixty persons were arrested to-day as strikers, pickets and police clashed in front of two Philadelphia knitting mills.

Disorder at the Germantown plant occurred as a caravon of automobiles started toward the mill through the line of pickets. The cars were stoned and the windows of several shattered. Despite the presence of a large number of police, the disturbance continued for half an hour.

Babies With Tails

LONDON, Eng., April 13. (C. P. Cable via Havas).—The current issue of the British Medical Journal cites two cases of babies born during the month of January with tails.

The first baby, not related to the second, was discovered to have, at birth, a tail not unlike that of a pig. It was about three inches long. X-rays revealed it to be of a non-bony structure. The appendage was successfully removed by operation when the baby was five weeks old.

The second baby had a short fleshy tail, highly sensitive, which was also successfully removed.

STRESS PLACED ON ENDOWMENT FUND FOR I.O.D.E.

SOME CRITICISM.

Delegates Feel Time Not Opportune—Enough to Do Carrying on Relief Work.

HAMILTON, April 13.—(C.P.)—Discussion of the $200,000 endowment fund, led by Mrs. J. A. Stewart, former National President, was a feature of the morning session of the 14th annual meeting of the Provincial Chapter of Ontario, Independent Order Daughters of the Empire.

Mrs. Stewart explained that the fund was designed to provide a fixed yearly income for the development, extension, maintenance and administration of the Order. The I.O.D.E. had never had such a fund, and for years its work was seriously hampered by this lack. The fund was established in 1930.

Mr. Stewart admitted that there had been some criticism of the endowment fund; many feeling that the time for stressing it was not opportune; and others believing that chapters had enough to do to carry on relief work.

"We need money and we 'need to expand'," she said. Canada was on the eve of a great expansion; immigration would begin again, and the Order must be prepared to meet the increased obligations in this respect, or be compelled, lacking funds, to leave it to other organizations.

Time Not Opportune

Said one delegate. "We speak of good times, but we in the Niagara district are up against it as badly as ever. The time for stressing the fund is hardly here."

Miss Joan Arnoldi said "We are not urging Chapters to fulfill their obligation with respect to the fund now; we must surely do what we can towards it. We believe that the I.O.D.E. is very important in the body politics of Canada and the fund is to insure continuity of the I.O.D.E. in the Dominion of Canada. Mrs. O. C. Teal, Fort Erie, predicted that the Chapters' response to the fund next year would be staggering; after their present obligations in other respects had been fulfilled.

Discussion of the fund will be

Winter Visits Coast South To Georgia

NEW YORK, April 13 (C.P.). — Winter, having done a fine job of record-breaking cold, seems unwilling to admit that spring is here.

Snow fell yesterday as far south as Dahlonega, Ga., where the Blue Ridge Mountains were edged in white.

An anemometer atop Mount Washington in New Hampshire recorded a 231-mile-an-hour wind.

Heavy rain and melting snow overtaxed many New England rivers and necessitated removal by boat of several families from homes at Rutland, Vt.

BUDGET WEDNESDAY.

OTTAWA, April 13 (C.P.).—Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, told the House of Commons to-day his present intention was to present the budget next Wednesday.

Gallant Effort Is Also Made By Son To Save Little Lad

Mother And Son Risk Their Lives To Save Three-Year-Old Ronald Hoar From Drowning In The Jackson Park Creek.

DISTRACTED MOTHER JUMPED INTO CURRENT CARRIED DOWN STREAM BEFORE RESCUED.

Body Was Recovered About 800 Yards Below Place Where Little One Fell In—Artificial Respiration Failed—Inquest Not Necessary.

Maternal love and courage was superlatively demonstrated in a drowning tragedy which yesterday afternoon cost the life of 3-year-old Ronald Hoar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hoar of 490 Gilchrist street, while the little victim's 6-year-old brother, Kenneth, also showed himself in the light of a hero.

Playing on the banks of the Jackson Park Creek in the vicinity of their humble little home, the smaller of the two children slipped down a short steep embankment into the swollen waters of the creek, and was rapidly whirled away downstream on the strong current.

With remarkable disregard for danger, particularly so in view of his six tender years, Kenneth jumped into the water in an effort to save his brother, according to another playmate of the children who was an eye-witness of the occurrence, and was also borne away on the rapid-flowing current.

Plunged Into Creek.

When the alarm was raised by 8-year-old Ralph Moore, the distracted mother raced across the intervening distance between her house to a point on the creek a short distance below where the children had disappeared, and plunged boldly into the stream. Struggling helplessly against the swirling waters, she was rescued at a point some four hundred feet downstream, on the west side of the foundry bridge.

Jack Callaghan of 411 London street assisted by Ernest Smith of 509 Gilchrist street, effected the rescue of the woman, after the former had first snatched Kenneth Hoar from the angry waters.

The mother and her surviving boy, both in a state of near collapse, were removed to the home of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Steadman at 501 Donegal street. Meanwhile the rescue squad from the City Fire Department arrived at the scene under the command of Chief George Gimblett, and within a few minutes from the time of the first alarm grappling irons were searching the bed of the creek for the body of the missing 3-year-old child, while the new inhalator recently added to the apparatus by the city, was ready for immediate action.

Recovers Body.

While the rescue squad was grappling on the north side of the old William Hamilton foundry, Charles Steadman, 18, of Donegal street, extended the search further down-

Fahey Given Six-Day Respite On Hearing

EDMONTON, April 13.—(C.P.)—James Fahey to-day obtained a six-day respite from the efforts of United States' authorities to extradite him to that country. He is sought on a 34 year old charge of escaping from Leavenworth penitentiary, where he was sentenced to life imprisonment for a Nebraska train mail robbery.

At the request of United States' officials, the hearing before Judge J. L. Crawford was adjourned until April 19. Material on the case had not yet arrived from across the line, said counsel for the State.

ROOSEVELT BACK ON JOB SORRY HOLIDAY IS OVER

WASHINGTON, April 13 (A.P.).—President Roosevelt was welcomed back from his Florida vacation today by some 200 members of the United States Congress.

"I can't be truthful and say I am glad to get back. I'm sorry," he told them jocularly when cheering subsided.

"While I've had a wonderful time I gather that both Houses of Congress have also had a wonderful time."

Laughter greeted his sallies. The Congressional delegation, led by Vice-President John Garner and Speaker Henry Rainey, had marched over to Union Station from the capitol behind the Marine Band. Martial music echoed.

Bereaved Father Relates His Story

This morning Mrs. Hoar, mother of the drowning victim, while able to rise from her bed, was still in a state of great agitation when The Examiner called at the house to inquire as to her condition.

Harold Hoar, the young husband and father, said that according to his son Kenneth little "Ronnie" was playing in the sawdust near Abbott & Tinker's wood yard, and while in the act of shovelling some of the sawdust into the creek he toppled over and fell into the water.

The child had only left the house a few minutes previously, and had been warned by his mother not to go far away from home.

Mr. Hoar related how he had happened to come along attracted by the large crowd that had gathered on the Donegal Street bridge, and had learned that the body of his child had been swept away on the strong current of the stream.

"I arrived down at the Stewart Street bridge just as they recovered the body from the water," he said in making grateful acknowledgment of the efforts of the Fire Department rescue squad, and neighbors who assisted in various ways

It was only recently following injuries received by a child while playing in the wood yard, that a large pile of wood which offered effective protection against children falling into the creek, had been removed, the father stated.

"Ronnie," he said, was the second of three children the other child besides Kenneth being two-year-old "Billie" Hoar.

DRIVING GALES HIT MARITIMES

Light Poles, and Telephone Lines Are Snapped—Scow Torn From Tug.

CARRIES LUMBER CARGO.

ST. JOHN, N.B., April 13 (C.P.) —The storm king was blowing himself out to-day after howling over New Brunswck last night. Driving gales and churning seas tore away the Partridge Island high-water wharf. Out on the tossing waters off Cape Spencer the battling elements snapped a tug hawser and set adrift a lumber-laden scow.

Other minor damage included a broken St. John-Montreal telephone circuit and the telegraph companies were also having difficulties. Electric light poles were blown down on Partridge Island and halyards were ripped from the signal mast.

The high spring tides, augmented by rain and a gale, that reached a peak velocity of 47 miles an hour caused a rise of several feet in the St. John River here.

The barge which went adrift when the hawser parted is owned by the Arkle Mullins Lumber, Limited. Loaded with 150,000 feet of lumber it was being towed from Martin Head by the tugboat Ocean Snipe. After the cable parted the Ocean Snipe cruised around most of the night trying to get a line on the barge again. Early this afternoon two tugs were trying to recover the big scow.

COBDEN POWER PLANT FLOODED AS DAM BREAKS

Operator and Family Rescued From Upper Storey by Temporary Bridge.

TOWN MINUS LIGHTS.

Train Service Howland-Bancroft Cut Off as Baptiste Lake Floods Tracks

COBDEN, Ont., April 13 (C.P.).—Rising waters fed by two days of steady rain swept away the dam of the Cobden power plant, released a head of water 100 feet high which almost demolished the power house as it pounded it with huge cakes of ice.

William Wall, operator of the plant, and his family, who lived in the upper storey of the power house, were rescued by a gang of men who built a temporary bridge from a high bank behind the building to an upper window. A section of highway No. 17, including a bridge, was washed away.

The town will be without electric power until the dam is repaired or a connection established with another power system.

Train service between Howland and Bancroft, on the Irondale, Bancroft and Ottawa branch of the Canadian National Railway has been suspended, due to flood. All train service between the two points was ceased yesterday. Water from Baptiste Lake has risen, flooding the countryside and inundating the tracks. Passenger as well as freight service has been cancelled until the flood condition subsides.

FAMOUS FLIERS ENTER AIR RACE

$50,000 PRIZE.

MELBOURNE, Australia, April 13. (C. P. Cable).—Spurred by the huge prize that will wait at the end of a flight half-way around the world, Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, Australia's flying knight, to-day joined three others who have ordered planes built especially for the classic London-to-Melbourne air race.

Sir Charles, who will represent this country against some of the greatest speed fliers in the world, revealed he had ordered Britain's De Havilland Company to build him one of its "Comet" machines, guaranteed to fly at least 200 miles an hour.

A pot of gold $50,000 big will go to the man or woman who drops down with the shortest time for the 13,000 odd miles between London and Melbourne, this nation's centennial city in 1934.

The race already has attracted numerous entries. The man-and-wife team of Jim and Amy Mollison, both conquerors of the Atlantic, will fly a machine of the same type as Sir Charles', and so will C. W. A. Scott, the Australian. Sir Charles, Jim Mollison and Scott have all held the England to Australia record at various times.

THE OLD BRIGADE

"Of course," said Briggs, as he commenced to tackle the portion of chicken with his knife and fork, "I may be wrong, but it strikes me that this chicken—"

"Well," snapped the landlady, tersely, "and what's the matetr with the chicken?"

Briggs shrugged his shoulders.

"Oo, nothing—nothing," he said, offhandedly. "I was going to say that it is quite evident that the bird was an offspring of a hard-boiled egg."

GLOBE COMPANY CASE HINGES ON TECHNICAL POINT

$12,000 Damages is Sought as Result of Horace Walkey's Death.

PRELIMINARY QUESTION.

Claimed That He Was in Position of Parent to His Sister.

(By A Staff Reporter)

COBOURG, April 13.—Continuance Friday morning of the trial of an action for $12,000 against the Globe Printing Company and Roy F. McLean by the Royal Trust Company, as administrators of the estate of the late William Henry Walkey, in behalf of Lillian Walkey, Peterborough, depended at the adjournment of the assize court Thursday evening upon Mr. Justice J. A. McEvoy's over-night decision as to whether the late W. Horace Walkey, who was fatally injured November 7, 1932, in a motor accident near Bailieboro, was "in loco parentis" (in the position of a parent) to his sister at the time of his death.

The hearing of this case virtually presented a trial within a trial, and upon the outcome of the argument on the technical legal point of "in loco parentis" hinged the court's progres to the main issue of the claim for damages against the defendants.

W. F. Huycke and B. D. Hall, of Peterborough represented the plaintiffs, J. C. McRuer, K.C., of Toronto, is counsel for the Globe Printing Company, and G. N. Gordon, K.C., Peterborough appeared in behalf of the co-defendant, Roy F. McLean of Belleville, driver of the automobile in which Horace Walkey was his companion when their car collided head on in a heavy fog at 6.30 a.m. two miles north of Bailieboro.

Harold Hagen, Oshawa, driver of the truck, was almost instantly killed, and John Willis, also of Oshawa, who was with him, succumbed to his injuries.

The Preliminary Question

The procedure in the opening of this case followed the usual routine of empanelling a jury, a comparatively brief incident without one challenge by counsel. His Lordship

LIBERALS MAKE CAMPAIGN PLANS

Central Ontario Liberal Executive Meets in Lindsay.

CANDIDATES IN FIELD.

At an executive meeting of the Central Ontario Liberal Association in Lindsay yesterday afternoon it was decided that the date of the annual convention of the Association would be some time in June, in all probability prior to the provincial elections.

The convention date is to be determined by the executives of the Lindsay Liberals and the Central Ontario Association.

One of the reports confirmed the announcement that Northumberland Liberals would meet at Warkworth Wednesday, April 25, to nominate a candidate. Mitchell F. Hepburn is expected to be present as the principal speaker.

J. J. Duffus presided at Thursday afternoon's meeting. Most of the ridings from Victoria to Lennox-Addington were represented. All the constituencies comprising the Central Ontario group have nominated Liberal candidates except Northumberland, and that has been arranged for. Details of organization were discussed during the afternoon, and it was generally felt that the Liberal party is much better prepared for an election this year than it has been in a long time.

Japanese competition, which has bothered the French silk industry in foreign fields, has entered France and further complicated the situation.

A monument to Napoleon is to be erected in Warsaw, Poland.

Another Victim Of Dread Blood Disease

Little Loretta Sitkowski, six-year-old Chicago youngster, is the latest victim reported suffering from the wasting ravages of lympathic leukemia, the rare and deadly disease that has baffled science and which claims its victims by eating away the life-sustaining red corpuscles of the body. To date five cases have been reported in the United States.

HEPBURN SCORES GOV'T FOR BONUS TO GROW WHEAT

Only Incentive for Western Producer to Grow More—Market Glutted Now.

EXPORT QUOTA TOO LOW.

Blames 60 Cent Wheat for Hog Prices Slipping From Recent Peak.

BROWNSVILLE, Ont., April 13. (CP).—The Government's action voting a $12,000,000 bonus to the western wheat farmers to-day stood labelled as a "mistake" by Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario Liberal leader, who launched this criticism when he addressed a meeting here in the interests of S. A. Rennie, Liberal candidate in South Oxford by-election.

With voting slated for Monday, Mr. Hepburn visited this little Ontario town to attack the policies of Prime Minister R. B. Bennett in regard to the farmers' affairs. It was a mistake, he claimed, when the Dominion administration voted $12,000,000 to help the wheat farmer as it was an incentive to grow more wheat to flood an already glutted market.

Mr. Hepburn remarked that later Mr. Bennett had changed his policy when he agreed at the London World Wheat Conference to place the Dominion export quota at 200,000,000 bushels. Such a quota, the Liberal leader maintained, would result in a large carryover in Canada with resultant low prices.

Loss of Market

The government's tariff policies resulted in loss of market for the wheat farmer. He believed Canada had not yet emerged from try-policies would place the Dominion in a position to set an example to "a bewildered world."

"Much has been said about the recent increase in the hog prices. Already the price had slipped off from the recent peak. With wheat at 60 cents a bushel it is impossible for hogs to remain at nine cents a pound. The price level of wheat fixed commodiyt prices as a whole," Mr. Hepburn said.

In criticizing the Government's large unemployment expenditures without a proper audit and loans guaranteed to banks who had extended financial aid to Newfoundland, Mr Hepburn said Mr. Bennett had violated every parliamentary practice

A large sum of money had been loaned to Saskatchewan, Mr Hepburn said. The present Government had been the most wasteful that Canada had ever known. He charged Saskatchewan was on the verge of bankruptcy, and that the Dominion administration would never be repaid.

"I don't like that guy, he explained, "so I decided to come along myself."

NO PROSECUTION TO BE STARTED AGAINST MOSS

Don't Want to Make Matter Any More of Political Issue Than it is, Says Henry.

JARVIS RETRIAL CHARGES.

Saw No Reason for New Hearing, Declares Premier, Though Ottawa Favorable.

TORONTO, April 13 (C.P.) — Premier George S. Henry indicated yesterday that no prosecution would be instituted against Col. Frank Moss for his public charges the Ontario Government had hindered the administration of justice in the trial and conviction of Aemilius Jarvis for conspiracy eight years ago.

Declaring the case was brought on deliberately as a political issue the Premier added, "We don't want to make it any more of a political issue than it is."

Saying his judgment did not agree with that of Col. Moss, the Premier remarked: "I see that I am charged with aiding and abetting. Members of the Government act as a unit and there cannot be any conspiracy in government."

"Ottawa has suggested we might have a new trial if we requested it," said the Premier. "But we did not see any reason for that. It is a matter of interpretation of the law as to whether there was a miscarriage of justice or not."

The Premier added he did not intend taking any personal action.

Col. Moss also charged the present Government with using falsehood, unfair and illegal tactics to block a petition for a new trial for the former financier, who was fined $60,000 on conviction in connection with bond purchases for the Ontario Government.

URGES CALLING OF FINANCIERS IN BANK PROBE

Powers Suggests Beaverbrook, Gundy to Expound Intricacies of Pulp Industry.

DOUGLAS PLAN TO BE TOLD

Royal Bank Manager Claims Holt Underpaid at $25,000 Plus $3,000 as Director.

OTTAWA, April 13 (CP).—Whether groups of prominent industrialists and financiers should be called before the banking committee of the House of Commons to explain the relation, if any, of Canadian banks to the promotion of pulp and paper companies is a question which will be decided by a sub-committee.

With that stage of its inquiry relating to the efforts of the banks to combat the effects of depression in Canada completed, the committee will swing into the realm of advanced monetary theory at its next meeting on Tuesday when it will hear the "Douglas plan" of monetary reform expounded by the author, Major H. B. Douglas. A retired Scottish banker, Major Douglas has been advocating his scheme for some years and he was invited to appear before the committee at the suggestion of Farmer and Labor members. The cost to the treasury will be $500.

Yesterday Major C. G. Power (Liberal, Quebec South), one of the sponsors of the Liberal move for an inquiry into the efforts of the banks to combat depression and their relation to other large corporations, asked that Lord Beaverbrook, Sir Herbert Holt, J. M. Gundy, E. W. Beatty and John H. Price be called before the committee to reveal the intricacies of the financial troubles of the pulp and paper industry.

Holt Underpaid.

Morris W. Wilson, general manager of the Royal Bank of Canada, provided the committee with some information about his chief, Sir Herbert Holt, president of the bank, who, he said, was greatly underpaid, having regard to his responsibilities. Sir Herbert, he explained, received $25,000 a year as president of the bank, less a 10 per cent. deduction, and some $3,000 a year as director.

Banks did not speculate in currency exchange, Mr. Wilson said. They were merchants of exchange and bought and sold it as required by their customers, but they did not gamble on fluctuations of value.

Pegging of stocks on the Montreal Stock Exchange after Great Britain went off the gold standard was defended by Mr. Wilson. If the same situation arose again he would advise the same action. He believed it had averted a panic and enabled prices to find their natural levels in an orderly way.

WED 40 YEARS PAIR CELEBRATE

Mr. and Mrs. George Duff Give Banquet in Royal Hotel, Marmora.

MANY GUESTS ATTEND.

MARMORA, April 12.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—Mr. and Mrs. George Duff who are temporary residents in Marmora, celebrated the fortieth anniversary of their wedding at the Royal Hotel on Wednesday with a banquet attended by the following out of town guests: Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Mackay, Mr. and Mrs. L. Bradshaw, Mr and Mrs. John Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. A. Long, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pigden and Mrs. E. Lane, all of Point Anne, Mr. R. Hutchings of Detroit and Mr. Ken Wilson of Durham. Mrs. Duff was presented with a beautiful basket of roses honor of the occasion. Bridge and dancing made up the evening's entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. Duff were married on April 11th. 1894 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Fox, in Madoc township, parents of the bride, whose maiden name was Sarah Fox. The officiating minister was the late Rev. S. Childerhose, Presbyterian pastor at Eldorado, who was later killed at North Bay after his removal there.

Mr. and Mrs. Duff ahve one daughter, Mrs. Franklin Bennett. Mr. Duff is the master mechanic on the road construction work which is being carried out west of Marmora village.

TWO BAD ROAD SECTIONS

TORONO, April 13. (CP).—Ontario highways were in good condition to-day with the exception of two stretches on the Blythe diversion on Highway No. 4 and Marmora to Madoc, the Ontario Department of Highways informed the Canadian Press. Those two sections, both gravel roads, were impassable due to frost coming out of the ground.

STIRLING VISITS MARMORA CLUB

Splendid Addresses Feature Rally of St. Paul's Men's Group.

LUNCH IS SERVED.

MARMORA, April 12 (Examiner Correspondence).—tA their regular meeting in the White Hall on Wednesday evening, the members of St. Paul's Men's Club received as guests over twenty members of Stirling St. John's Men's Club, with their rector, Rev. A. S. McConnell.

Greetings were extended by President W. R. Reynolds between the singing of two well-known hymns. The Morrow Trio of Stirling then favored the gathering with a pleasing instrumental medley of songs, after which C. H. Buskard, past president of the Marmora Club, gave an interesting discourse on "The Wars of the Roses."

Rev. A. S. McConnell chose as a reading that was much enjoyed, Robert Stead's, "The Squad of One.' W. J. Cottrell followed with a talk entitled ,"Concerning the City of Bath." E. Dainard of Stirling then gave a talk on "The Harbors of the West Indies"; after the Morrow Trio had played some more numbers, W. R. Reynolds gave a reading, "Making a Friend of the Clock."

As the refreshment hour was closing, speeches were given by Rev. A. S. McConnell, by Craven, E. Morrow and W. Heath of Stirling and Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Miss Lucille du Toit of Pretoria, winner of a 'search for beauty' contest conducted in South Africa, shared honors with Miss Edith Raynham of Johannesburg, and both of them will begin careers in England.

AIMS OF GUILD ARE THREEFOLD

Guild of Arts and Crafts One of Several Clubs of Art Association.

TO OUTLINE ACTIVITIES

Written by members of the Guild of Arts and Crafts of the Lyceum Club Women's Art Association, a series of brief articles will appear from time to time outlining the varied activities of the Guild. The first has to do with its main objects, and follows:

"The Guild of Arts and Crafts is one of the several clubs of the Women's Art Association of Peterborough. It is composed of a group of members of the W.A.A. who make craft work a hobby. The members gather throughout the fall, winter and early spring seasons at bi-monthly meetings. At these meetings, which are held in the homes of its members, crafts in all their forms are studied.

"The aims of the Guild are threefold; to create, to co-operate and to educate. All of its members are craft workers and each must make at least one piece of work to be shown at the annual exhibition. And to have made the simplest piece of handicraft is an achievement such as only the craft worker can appreciate.

"Demonstrations and talks illustrating their own particular crafts are given for the benefit of the fellow members. Design, color harmony and the beauty of antique crafts are studied, and papers dealing with these subjects are read by members. Loan exhibitions are brought from the larger craft centres as a stimulus, and annual exhibitions of their own work are shown by the members. All exhibitions are open to the public in an endeavor to interest other women in craft work and to teach the enduring beauty of hand made articles for clothing and home decoration.

"The Guild of Arts and Crafts was organized in the fall of the year 1926. Only five meetings and one exhibition was held that year, but they were sufficient to arouse interest and enthusiasm. At the beginning of the second year the club had developed a well planned program and the schedule was printed, with the Study Club program, on the program folders. Work progressed but a lack of training in design was a great handicap to many members. Consequently in 1928 a class in design was formed under the leadership of a most efficient and sympathetic teacher. During 1929 the class was very much enlarged, but still under the same insructress was held in the Vocational School. These classes were both educational and inspiring.

"The seven years since its formation have been years of continued advancement. It has grown in membership, in enthusiasm and in accomplishment. All members are eager to pursue some craft and to undertake to prepare papers on chosen subjects, or to demonstrate for their fellow members their own particular craft. Several have carried on experiments, new crafts have been mastered, and whatever the undertaking, the ultimate aim has been beauty of form and color."

GALLANT EFFORT TO RESCUE BOY

stream and recovered the body from the water in the vicinity of the Canadian National Railway bridge that crosses the creek at Stewart street, at an estimated distance of 700-800 yards from the point where the little victim fell into the water.

Without delay the fire department rescue squad, and Cain's ambulance which had also been summoned rushed over to the railway bridge, and frantic efforts were made to induce artificial respiration, the inhalator being used as an adjunct to the prone pressure method, which was applied by members of the squad working in relays.

Dr. H. M. Yelland, upon his arrival ten minutes after the recovery of the body shortly after four-thirty o'clock, ordered the removal of the child to a nearby house, accomodation being willingly given by Mr. and Mrs. Alex Conroy, 496 Stewart street. Artificial respiration was renewed for upwards of sixty minutes, without success.

Prompt Action.

Jack Callaghan and Ernest Smith, whose presence of mind probably averted what might have been a three-fold tragedy, told The Examiner that after hearing the frantic screams of the distracted mother, they saw the bodies of Mrs. Hoar and her elder child being carried downstream. Both declared they did not see any sign of the younger child.

Callaghan related that he waded into the water, and unaided succeeded in getting the child to safety, although it required the combined efforts of himself and Smith to rescue the woman.

Chilled and distraught, Mrs. Hoar was being tended by a kindly group of neighbours when the reporter called at the home of James A. Steadman.

"I want my Ronnie! I want my Ronnie!" she cried repeatedly.

Upon his arrival at the house, Constable Jack Thompson of the City Police Department, induced Mrs. Hoar to go to her home. He drove her there with some neighbouring women in his car; piled the wood in the stove to make a good comforting glow; and tactfully refrained from telling the mother that her child was dead, although it was realised that she instinctively knew the worst.

Learns of Boy's Death.

It remained for Dr. Yelland to gently break the news of the child's death, but even the arrival of the young husband and father who had been called from his work as a driver for Robson Cartage, failed to lessen the severity of the blow or to ease the loss.

Later the little Moore boy, who had been playing with the two Hoar children on the banks of the creek at the rear of the terrace in which his parents reside at 494 Park street, led the police officer to the spot where he declared "Ronnie" had fallen in.

Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young after investigating the circumstances of the tragedy stated, "it is purely a case of accidental drowning and I do not consider that an inquest will be necessary."

Although the Fire Chief was disappointed that the new apparatus had been of no avail in rescuscitating the child, it was pointed out by Dr. Young that having regard to the length of time the child had been in the water before the body was recovered and the distance the body had been carried, it was probable that the child was dead when taken from the water.

The funeral is to be held on Saturday at 1 o'clock p.m. from the family residence with the Rev. Dr. H. W. L. Mahood officiating. Interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

Minstrel Repeated Campbellford Hall

The minstrel show which brought three nights of entertainment in January, was repeated on Tuesday night, April 10, under the auspices of the A.Y.P.A. of Christ church. The program being the same as before with the exception of George Runnions, who was replaced by Fred Palliser. The program opened with the old favorite "In the Evening by the Moonlight," followed by the interloguer Carmen Runnions. The end men consisted of W. J. Hamer, Malvin Boothe, Happy Runnions and Fred Palliser.

The first part of the program, which consisted of several songs, was followed by a vaudeville. This was made up of a song by Francis Beaudoine, which was well accepted, following this was a duet by Marguerite Runnions and Francis Frederick. W. J. Hamer then gave a selection on the bones and told some lively jokes, following which Marshall Sills played a selection on the Hawaiian guitar.

A plantation scene was then presented with Marguerite Runnons which brought to a close the vaudeville act.

The third part of the program was opened by a chorus "On the Mississippi," following which several jokes were made by the end men. Several songs were sung by the members of the company, with the finale, "Are you from Dixie?" bringing to a close a most enjoyable evening. God Save the King was then sung.

Mayor Carr Named Possible Candidate

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, April 13. — From authentic sources The Examiner learns that Mayor H. N. Carr of Campbellford will let his name come before the nominating convention of the Northumberland Liberals as a prospective candidate to stand for the coming Provincial election. The party convention is scheduled for April 25, in Warkworth. This will be Mayor Carr's first venture into the field of politics and he willl take with him the well wishes of a very large number of friends and adherents. Head of the Trent Valley Creamery and the Keene Creamery, Mayor Carr is well known throughout the county and has a very wide circleof friends, especially among the farming community. He has been mayor of the town of Campbellford since August 1932, and has held the confidence of the council and town people since his election to that office. The Examiner was unable to get a personal confirmation of this information from Mayor Carr, as he is at present in Toronto on business.

More than $5,400,000 has been spent by the Miners Welfare Council of Great Britain on research and education, pithead baths, recreation and sports grounds, hospitals, convalescent homes and other health institutions.

The next meeting, which will be held at the home of Mrs. H. Melville. Election of officers will be on the agenda.

Mixexd Conditions Campbellford Roads

CAMPBELLFORD, April 13. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—Good, bad, and indifferent seems to be the only term applied to road conditions in this section of the country at present.

After the rain and snow of Wednesday the Campbellford-Brighton highway is reported to be in very bad shape, and although cars are getting through they are experiencing some difficulty. One particularly bad spot is just south of Bradley's Corners. The Campbellford-Havelock road is passable, but reported to be very rough, especially between Woodlands Cheese Factory and Trent Bridge.

According to reports received however, on the new stretch of road between Havelock and Norwood cars are being pulled out in places, there being one extremely bad spot near the railway track. On the other hand the road from Stanwood to Campbellford is reported to be in first class shape, and that from Campbellford to Bradley Bay quite good although a little rough. The Peterborough-Campbellford highway is passable.

If a man in Britain leaves at his death $5,000,000, his heirs receive only $3,000,000, the rest going to the government.

Tory Nominations To Be Held April 27

A Jinx Date?

PHILADELPHIA, April 13 (C. P.). — Alexander Primavera says he is not superstitious—much.

Arrested as an accessory to the theft of 15 gun casings from Fort Mifflin on March 13, he was held by U.S. Commissioner William S. Wacker for hearing on April 13. Primavera's eyes strayed to a calendar.

"Judge," blurted the prisoner, "I think I've pressed this jinx far enough. First I walked under a ladder and got pinched. Just now I take a third light from a match and am held in jail. Now you want me to appear on Friday, April 13. Can't you change it?"

The magistrate did.

Obituary

SAMUEL B. MOIR.

CAMPBELLFORD April 13 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — Samuel B. Moir, who died suddenly on Tuesday at his home in Percy Township, was laid to rest yesterday afternoon in Mount Pleasant Cemetery, after service had been held at his late residence, conducted by the Rev. H P. L. Seymour of St. John's United Church, Campbellford.

Surviving are his widow, formerly Miss Mabel Duncan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Duncan, his adopted son Mark, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Moir of Campbellford, two brothers, John of Percy and James of Brighton Township, and two sisters, Mrs. George Herriott of Percy and Mrs. W. White of Bruce Mines.

The funeral was very largely attended, showing the esteem and respect in which the late Mr Moir was held. Many floral tributes accompanied the cortege. Pall-bearers were: Ross McComb, William Fisher, Arthur Rutherford, Harry Hoard, William Wynn, and Fred Hendy.

BIRTH CONTROL FOR IDEAS.

Is science feeding new labor-saving machines to society faster than society can digest them? This question is raised by Sir Josiah Stamp, English industrialist and economist, in the current Rotarian Magazine, with the suggestion that it may be necessary to develop a "technique of accommodation to change" for civilization.

He points out that much machinery is "junked" before it has paid for itself. Too, each new labor-saving device throws men out of work, at least temporarily. It should be possible, he adds, to speed up and co-ordinate the process of adaptation and "to take some more social responsibility for hardships to individuals through no fault of their own, resulting from changes which benefit society."

"Instead of assuming," says Sir Josiah, "that nothing need be done until there is an overwhelming case for it, and we are, indeed, almost too desperate to do what then needs to be done; instead of supposing that nothing serious ever really happens until it hits us—let us have as a germ of our social and scientific organizations, some group of minds that can be eventually blamed and kicked for not having looked forward and warned us, and adjusted our social organization to meet the bump."

THE SOUTH OXFORD CAMPAIGN.

The electors in South Oxford are being told to vote against the Ottawa Government and thus force a general election this year.

That may be a good campaign slogan, but it is impossible to avoid the feeling that in this case the wish is father to the thought.

The Bennett Government does not have to go to the country this year, and with many indications at hand of a return to better times, is not likely to risk an appeal to the electors until the recovery movement has attained greater momentum and concrete evidence of much improved conditions in Canada is apparent to everybody.

Under those circumstances it is not reasonable to expect the administration to unnecessarily expose itself to the danger of defeat merely because a constituency that has been rather consistently Liberal in its leanings should happen to remain Liberal in a by-election to fill the vacancy caused by the death of a Liberal member.

As a matter of fact, a general election would be more likely to follow a Conservative victory in South Oxford than it would to follow a Government defeat there, inasmuch as a triumph for Hon. Donald Sutherland might possibly be regarded by party strategists as an indication of general sentiment favorable to the Government and as justifying therefore an appeal to the country this year.

Our own prediction is that South Oxford will remain in the Liberal column, and that there will be no federal campaign in 1934.

A USEFUL CITIZEN PASSES.

The rapidly thinning ranks of Peterborough's oldest residents have been further reduced by the passing of John A. Aylmer, a citizen for fifty-two years and one who in many ways had contributed most helpfully toward the welfare of this community.

As an engineer, Mr. Aylmer for many years was prominent in public works construction throughout the country, and particularly in connection with the Trent Canal and similar enterprises.

As a church man, he was a most faithful member of the congregation of St. John's Church, and in connection with the Laymen's Association, played an important part in the religious life of the community for many years.

When Canada was at war between 1914 and 1918, Mr. Aylmer, although close to the three score and ten mark, was among the first to recognize that the conflict had to be fought on the home front as well as overseas, and that there were many responsibilities to be discharged by those who kept the home fires burning.

Accordingly, he threw himself into the work of such organizations as the Patriotic Fund, the Recruiting League, etc., with a determination and enthusiasm that was a challenge to much younger men and that did much to speed up Peterborough's war work.

This community has lost a fine citizen in this passing, and is definitely poorer by the death of one who had always given his support to worth-while efforts.

SAVE THE CHILDREN.

This is Ontario Crippled Children Week, and in various ways public interest and co-operation in the most meritorious work of curing or improving the crippled children of the province is being sought.

The whole purpose of this effort will be lost unless the parents of handicapped little ones and the public generally realize the situation and assist the agencies that are in the field.

Thanks to the service clubs of the province and such organizations as the Shrine and the Red Cross Society, there is now available in Ontario the necessary machinery to give every crippled child a new deal.

The problem is to locate these children in time to remove the handicap, and that cannot be done without one hundred per cent. co-operation on the part of the people of Ontario.

It should be understood that treatment will be provided without charge in every case where the parents are not able to pay.

If there are in this district any crippled children who can be helped or cured by treatment The Examiner would urge parents or friends to get in touch with members of the Peterborough Rotary Club, which organization has already to its credit the cure of a number of children who, without the club's assistance, would still be suffering from a physical handicap.

The Rotary Club, playing its part in the general scheme to succor Ontario's crippled children, is anxious to hear of any cases that exist either in this city or in the county, and the forwarding of such information would be a valuable contribution to the success of this week's campaign.

HE SEEMS TO ENJOY IT.

John Factor, familiarly called Jake the Barber, has been much in the limelight in recent years at Chicago because of his stock promotion dealings which are said to have netted him some millions of dollars, but which have involved him in criminal charges necessitating his extradition to England to face prosecutions for swindling in that country. But while Mr. Factor was having his troubles with the organized forces of society some outlaws seized him and held him for ransom. It is said that he paid seventy thousand dollars to satisfy the demands of his kidnappers, but he had the pleasure of getting back at them, for the Roger Touhy gang, which held him prisoner, were eventually arrested and all but one of their number were given life imprisonment. Factor then engaged with federal agents to seek Frank Dillon, sole member of the kidnapping gand still at liberty. In the midst of all these exciting activities the motion picture people discovered Jake, and the other day he was whirled away in an airplane, in charge of a police sergeant, to take part in a movie that will depict the exciting adventures of Mr. Factor during the last few years.

Presumably when this picture is finished Mr. Factor will undergo his enforced trip to England, and even if he is not so lucky there he will have at least the satisfaction of knowing that the pictures are bringing him in a revenue to help him through his troubles. Factor seems to be one of those people who have the good fortune to make money even out of their tough luck.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

HE PAINTS IT BLACK.

A correspondent of the Beacon-Herald is certain there should be a warning issued to the people who are playing the stock markets just now, and he suggests it should be made strong enough to attract attention. Like this, he says:

"People are being robbed and the law does nothing to stop it. There is not a chance for them to make money and yet the business is allowed to go on day after day, taking money from a lot of fools. . . ."

The wording gets stronger as it proceeds, and we were put to wondering just what it was our correspondent had been trying to do in the market.

Undoubtedly there is speculation in the market at present; there always is. There is the element of speculation in any investment which can be made. We have reason to believe that in mining stocks there are issues before the public to-day which subscribe to all the rules of clean business. The people who subscribed for the stock in the first place know where their money went; it was put into buildings and machinery and was used for doing the necessary mining. Money invested in that way serves a good purpose; it is tapping natural resources; it is creating employment, and it is causing supplies to be purchased for the various camps. If efforts were not directed along those lines there would be little mining done, and the mines of Ontario are right now producing an enormous quantity of new wealth.

We think it would be better for our correspondent to be well informed before he makes his broadcast so general. He should at least seek to draw some sort of a line between that which is a fairly good investment and that which is so highly speculative that none should consider it. We would not advise any person to try the market as a sure way of making money. People who do speculative buying are aware of the chance to lose money before they go in.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

FUR TRADE.

Trappers of Northern Canada are said to have enjoyed a particularly good winter season. Their catches have been larger than usual and prices have shown a decided improvement, due to the general trend toward more prosperous conditions. In many instances fur prices have doubled. The industry, naturally, will benefit.

The improved situation has affected the entire North Country, all the way from the Hudson Bay to the Pacific Ocean and north to the Arctic Circle.

The airplane has made some contribution to the technique of the fur trade. It carries supplies rapidly to remote posts and brings out the furs with similar despatch. Freighting by dog team or by horses is now regarded as tedious and out-of-date process. The new aerial method has given modern speed to a primitive business, says the Port Arthur News-Chronicle.

Under the stimulation now apparent there must arise the question of how long the fur trade of the North will continue. The correct answer to that question can only be arrived at with knowledge of the steps taken to conserve this valuable natural asset. Large areas of the hinterland have been set aside to game reserves. In these the wild animals, from which valuable furs are obtained, will have sanctuary.

These reserves are more necessary than ever since the new transportation methods have brought the remote wilderness close to civilization. Hunters and trappers are now enabled to reach game areas in a few hours that prior to the introduction of the flying machine were weeks distant.

It is evident that Governments will have to maintain close watch on the progress of the new invasion of the fur territory. The industry has contributed millions of dollars to the wealth of the country. It is now at a stage of development where its future is critical. It is a case where unrestrained enterprise might ruin it.—St. Catharines Standard.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The South Oxford by-election seems to be warming up into quite a battle as voting day draws near.

That Toronto "beggar" who has a bank account of $1,700 not only believes that the world owes him a living but has found the way to collect that living without working for it.

If Mr. Bennett's revision of the British North America Act does not progress any faster than Mr. King's reformation of the Senate, the problem is not going to be solved for a decade or two at least.

This 1933-34 winter is certainly proving a tough customer to shake off. If every other feature is forgotten it can always be remembered by the size of the fuel bill.

Canada's Radio Commission is under fire so often that Mr. Charlesworth and his colleagues will soon be insisting upon an armoured car.

CHAPTER 37

"It's touch and go," said Spot.

He stood in the living room that looked out over the bay with its eternal rocks and endlessly beating waves, facing a haggard Tiggie who brought him to the cottage some hours previously. His own customarily cheery countenance was very grave.

"Meaning you think she'll die?" said Tiggie.

The doctor made a restraining gesture. "I don't say that, Tiggie. I never say that. But there's a good deal to contend with—great weakness—and very little reserve. She looks as if she'd been starved. She was thin enough in the old Pioneer days, but now—mere skin and bone."

"I know," said Tiggie, and his voice was hollow. "I know. I saw it myself the moment we met. One can almost see through her." He broke off with a curious choking sound, then in a moment or two in tones half strangled in his throat, "Oh, look here, Spot! You must save her now you're here. It's been—such a sweat—to get you." He stopped again and turned miserably away.

Spot's hand pressed his shoulder. "Dear old chap, you may trust me to do my best," he said. "But, you know, it doesn't always rest with us doctors. It's the patient, too. I've a feeling—I may be wrong—that she's been up against it—perhaps too long. And there isn't much fight left."

He too had been up against it for a good many hours and the prolonged strain was beginning to tell. He stood blindly staring over the dancing sea, caring little what Spot might think of his agitation. He had been up since four that morning though he had not slept even before that. He had seen the sun return after its brief absence and transform earth and sea anew in the splendor of the dawn. But the splendor had not touched him. He had been too strenuously bent upon the task of bringing Spot to Viola's aid. And now that he had secured him at last, it seemed that there was to be no remission of the goading anxiety that had driven him. The only difference was that whereas before he had had the palliation of action to make it more endurable, now action was over and all that was left was to stand by in helpless agony of mind and await the outcome.

Spot's hand on his shoulder had an understanding touch, and he was grateful for it, but it could not ease the strain. He realized for the first time that all his tremendous efforts might end in utter failure.

Spot spoke very gently. "I'll do my damndest, Tiggie. I promise you that."

Tiggie moved with a stirring of self-reproach and grasped the kindly hand on his shoulder. "All right," he said drearily. "I shan't get in your way. Let me know if I can do anything, that's all!"

"Let's have a bit of breakfast anyhow!" suggested Spot practically. "Helen will call if I'm wanted, and that little nurse I brought is a topper. I thought we'd better have her. She won't cost much."

"Oh, I'll pay," said Tiggie almost angrily. "I forgot about breakfast. You help yourself! I don't want any."

"Don't let's be silly!" said Spot mildly. "You pour out the coffee like a good chap! Mind you don't spill it! And I'll do the rest."

Almost against his will, Tiggie found himself complying. They sat down to a breakfast of bacon and eggs in which Spot somehow managed to make him feel morally bound to take a share, though Spot knew better than he did what he ate.

Then, when it was over, "You know it would be awfully nice of you," said Spot, "if you would wander round and see if the two boys are all right. That little nurse girl means well, but she's not very brainy, and Helen is too busy to look after things this morning. Don't be bothered with 'em of course!" he added apologetically. "I didn't mean that. Only if you could see your way to smoke a pipe in their direction—I'll let you know what happens here."

"I will," said Tiggie.

He filled and lighted his pipe though he felt no desire for it, and presently wandered forth into the sunshine in search of the little tribe of youngsters.

He found them all on the shore, ardently searching the pools for crabs with which to populate a large hole in the sand surrounded by fortifications which they said was the Tower of London. He was greeted with shrieks of enthusiasm and invited to join in the game, and again—being Tiggie—he felt morally obliged to respond to their sociable efforts to include him in their amusement. Before very long he was scrambling about on his hands and knees delving after elusive crabs with a zeal which everyone thought to be genuine. Only Harvey—seated on the rocks a considerable distance above them in supreme indolence, watched him with compassionate eyes.

It was 12 o'clock when Spot came down over the rocks in search for him. Tiggie, very hot but unflagging in energy, was the first to see him and promptly forsook the game to go and meet him. The children would have followed him, but he kindly though decidedly shook them off.

"No, not any of you, please. It's me he wants."

He met Spot half way between the cottage and the shore with an eager, "Well?"

Spot looked at him and took him by the arm. "It isn't well," he said. "It's desperate—the thing I feared—an immediate operation—or blood poisoning. It may set in, in any case."

"What's to be done?" said Tiggie, very white under the sunburn. "Do you want another doctor?"

Spot was white too, but steady and absolutely sure of himself. "There's no time for that," he said. "I've 'phoned, but he's miles away, and I daren't wait. I wish to heaven her husband was here. But there's a brother, isn't there? Could you get a message to him?"

"I could," said Tiggie. "But I won't."

"You won't?" Spot looked at him, frowning. "Look here! It's a matter of life and death. I've told you."

"Yes, you've told me." Tiggie spoke between his teeth. "But it's the last thing she'd want herself and I won't have him. Understand?"

Spot understood enough to press the matter no further. "A brute, is he? All right. You know. Well, time's everything. Come in and see her for a minute! She wants you."

Tiggie wheeled as though at a word of command. His face was suddenly crimson. "Why didn't you say so before?" he said, and strode before Spot up the rocky path at a speed which the doctor made no attempt to emulate.

When Tiggie bent over Viola in the low cottage bedroom a few minutes later his face was white again, but puckered into a smile of almost tortured intensity.

"Well, little girl, well?" he said, and took and held her wasted hand.

She looked up at him from her pillow with eyes that had grown enormous in their deep caverns. "Oh, Tiggie," she said in her small, breathless voice, "I'm so glad you've come. I wanted to see you. I think I'm going to die, and I'm not—really—very sorry. But I wanted to see you first—to say thank you—and to ask you to kiss me—before I go."

He went down on his knees beside her, conscious of no one but her in the whole world. He gathered her hand up to his face and held it there, fondling it, trying to impart some warmth to it; for it was very cold.

"It's all right— it's all right," he murmured almost inarticulately. "I'm here."

Her eyes faintly smiled at him, deep and still and remote—as the eyes of a child contemplating some mystery. "I shall always remember you," she said, "even when I'm dead. Will you—remember me too, sometimes?"

"Always!" burst from Tiggie with an emphasis that sounded almost violent in the quiet little room.

She uttered a short involuntary sigh. "It was good of you — to take me on to—your raft," she whispered. "I hope I haven't—taken you far—out of your course."

Her voice failed and the white lids, blue veined, closed over those deep gazing eyes. He saw a spasm of pain go through her, and the delicate brows drew together.

"O God," he prayed with silent lips, closely watching, "don't let her suffer!"

But the spasm increased seeming to spread like a sudden tempest. In a moment or two, kneeling helplessly there, he saw her racked with pain. Her other hand came out to him, blindly groping, and clung to his. She became convulsed, but no sound escaped her. She turned her face into the pillow as though to choke it back. Tiggie looked desperately around. Swift preparations for what was to come were going on in a room close by. The door was open, but they were alone. He bent his head down to hers in an agony that almost transcended her own. Words broke from him which he was hardly conscious of uttering.

"I can do nothing—nothing!" he said. "But I love you so! O God! I love you so!"

ALL OF US

(By Marshall Maslin.)

WE CIRCULATE

As air circulates through the houses of men, as water circulates through pipes and tunnels and from the sea to the heavens and back again, so too, do the deeds of men circulate in the hearts of their brothers.

A man never knows how an act of his, be it great or trivial, may influence the life of another man.... One man walks smiling down the street. Another man sees that smile and is heartened. Another man sees and is filled with rage that one human being should be joyous when he is sore of heart....You falter and fall and I am cast down, too. Or you fail and I say to myself, "I shall redouble my energies and succeed."

One man's hypocrite. He is supposed to be a good man, and his hypocrisy embitters those to whom it is known....But there are those who do not know his hypocrisy. They listen to his fair words and are lifted up, heartened by the strength he preaches....They say we always know when another is sincere. In general, I think that's true, but I know it is not always true and sometmes even hypocrisy accomplishes real things in this world.

An ambitious man may fight hard and long, even unscrupulously, to attain his ends. He gains them and relaxes. He has reached a high position and honors and is given as an example to other young men.... The young men know nothing of any wrongs he may have committeed. They see only that this man who climbed so high rose from obscurity, poverty, ignorance, to eminence, riches and dignity. They say, "If he, without help, was able to do that, then why should not we do the same?"

Our lives are so interwoven, our deeds are so flush with the deeds or other men, living or gone, that it is hardly possible to say where one life ends and another begins. No man is just himself. Every man is many other men. What I do becomes a part of other men. What I do become a part of other men. What they do, circulates through time and space in the influence they have on other people, and becomes a part of me....So our lives circulate in the lives of other men and we cannot evade the responsibility of our acts.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

McGEE BURIED ON HIS BIRTHDAY

On this date, in 1868, Montreal mourned at the bier of D'Arcy McGee, the patriot who had been murdered at Ottawa on April 7. The young Dominion had given a state funeral at Ottawa to this martyred Father of Confederation, but his real state funeral among his own people took place at Montreal, which he represented in the House of Commons. After the body's arrival from Ottawa it lay in state at a house on Sherbrooke Street West, then largely unbuilt on, but long since the locale of residences of Montreal's wealthiest folk. Thousands of people passed the bier before the coffin was closed and removed to the hearse, which was a truck of the Grand Trunk Railway, re-modelled for the occasion.

It was the 41st anniversary of McGee's birth—a cold clear morning with lots of snow on the ground. A guard of honor had been provided by the Highlanders and old-timers recall seeing these soldiers shivering in their bare legs as they stood outside St. Patrick's church where requiem mass was sung. After that the cortege moved to the French church (as Notre Dame was called in those days) where another service was held to mark the sympathy of the French section of the community and then the procession made its way to Cot des Neiges cemetery where interment took place in a grave which is marked by a simple monument, honored by more than those of Irish blood.

There has been a marked revival of interest in Thomas D'Arcy McGee by younger Canadians of late. I hope there may be more. His speeches are tonics of patriotism bound to brace up the worst pessimist. No one can read them without feeling a better Canadian. His murder was a sad loss to Canadian public life and his memory must never be allowed to die.

Foreign Affairs

The Nazi Movement in Any Nation Ought to Be Viewed in the Light of Its Historic Past.

(By H. W. L. MAHOOD)

GERMANY

To understand present movements in any of the nations it is necessary to dig into the soil of its past history. To know the Egypt of to-day archaeologists are turning up the sands that have been overlaid through centuries. The past must of necessity be brought into the present. The past and the present when studied side by side widen men's views.

Two Church Views Developed In Germany

From the viewpoint of the church two facts of the past stand out in German history. The Lutheran conception was not that of the Calvinist. Luther created a gulf between the church and the state. Luther held that the church went beyond its privileges when it interfered in political affairs. He discouraged with all his might criticism of the government by the church. He held that the church ought to obey the state in all political matters. This he held to be the duty of the church even if the state be bad and its laws wrong. Even in the face of injustice the church ought to be patient in obedience.

Luther taught that all governments can be used of God to advance His own purposes among men. Luther said: No people are ever right in entering protest against any ruler, even when dealing with revolution. The duty of the Christian is to pray for the ruler and to suffer if need be. This has been the teaching in the Lutheran church for four hundred years.

The view of the Calvinist is different. From the beginning the Calvinist has claimed the right to criticise the ruler. And when the occasion arises to resist him. Of this more.

SWEDEN

Rugged, Daring Sweden Becomes Prey of Nazis

The Swedish character is as resistful as the Swedish soil. To grow anything worth while in Swedish fields calls for hard toil and rich fertilizing. The character of the people is like the soil of their native land. Weeds get but little chance in such a country.

Nazism is a weed. It has not nor ever will give a harvest of good wheat. And yet Nazi seed is being sown broadcast throughout the fields. Germany gave promise in a trade agreement not to attempt Nazi propaganda in Sweden. That promise has been broken.

Many Germans have settled in Sweden. It is their homeland now. Children have been born. In Swedish schools they are being educated. This German-Swedish field is just the kind of soil the Nazis delight to discover. Propagandists are busy organizing in both fields—the purely Swedish and the Swedish-German. Furugaard, a prominent Swedish Nazi leader promised to deliver North Sweden to German colonization when the Nazis come to power in Stockholm. Of this he relented later. He still continues his Nazi leadership. A well edited and readable newspaper with the name, Our Struggle has begun to enjoy an extensive circulation. It has a viper stinger. To say it is violently anti-Semetic is to put it mildly. It is furious in its antipathy.

To understand both Fascism and Nazism it is well to keep in mind that they are pro-capitalistic. You ask, "Why so?" The answer is at hand. When they arose Capitalism in both Germany and Italy was wobbly. The masses of the people were discontented because of the burdens imposed upon them by predatory wealth. Near-revolution was abroad. The organization of the Fascisti in Italy and the Nazi in Germany was to buttress capital. To turn away the attention from the real situation, denunciation and persecution of minority factors began. The Jews were a target. More again.

Stole Thunder Of The Nazis Forces

NORWAY

Norway and Sweden lie side by side. At times there has been much friction between the two nations. What one did the other would discredit or attempt to outdo. When the Nazis secured a footing in Sweden the Norwegians were alert. Norway had its Socialist organizations. The Socialist movement is not violently revolutionary. Its procedure is peaceful. Through education and instruction in government ideals Socialists hope to inaugurate a new day for the under-privileged. In Norway the movement was well established when the news of the Nazi in Sweden was published abroad.

A conference of Socialists was held at Oslo. The decision was reached to close the door securely against the Nazis. This was done by the Socialist organization becoming out-and-out monarchial. Before this happened there had been some confusion and dissention among the people. Part of them were monarchist and part socialist. At Oslo they became one. The door was closed. And it has been kept closed.

Vidquin Quisling is an outstanding Norwegian leader. For some years he saw that some quite radical changes would have to be made to protect the poor man. Predatory wealth was laying unbearable burdens of taxation on the man of small means. In conviction he became a moderated Nazi. But when he saw the workings of Nazism in Germany he promptly disclaimed all company with their philosophy.

In 1931, with Quisling as leader, the Unified Nordic Folk movement arose. Before this step was taken Norway was anti-Marxist, and anti-Semetic, and pro-German. But that day as passed. The Unified Nordic Folk has been changed in name to Norwegian Samnaung. The term is more political. The first name was racial. The great Norwegian newspaper is the A.B.C. Its symbol is a golden cross on a field of red.

LIGHT GAINS SEEN IN SENIOR GOLDS

Base Metal Shares Steady With Silver Group a Little Stronger.

TORONTO, April 13 (C.P.).—Although volume was down a little, a steady run of sales at generally firmer prices marked the trading on the mining board of the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. Narrow advances were registered for a majority of the gold producers and base metal shares were steady and the silver group a little stronger. Oil issues were quiet and unchanged.

After an erratic early session, Bagamac settled down around 26 for a net loss of 5 cents. It had touched 33 and 25 around noon. Siscoe was the best of the medium-priced gold issues, chalking up a gain of 20 cents to 2.45.

Advances of 10 to 25 cents were registered for Hollinger, Lake Shore, McIntyre, Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves. Pioneer was off lightly and Dome unchanged. Noranda, Falconbridge, Sherritt and Sudbury Basin were steady.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 13 (C.P.). — Stocks mostly marked time in dull and routine trading to-day Active buying flurries occurred in specialties and a number of preferred shares, but leading industrials, rails and utilities were narrow. The late tone was steady. Union Pacific dropped 3½ points in a thin market. Steadiness predominated in U. S. Steel, American Telephone, General Motors, and American Can.

Transfers approximated 1,150,000 shares.

Justice McEvoy Reserves Judgment on Motion for Dismissal.

LAST REST OF WEEK.

(By Staff Reporter)

COBOURG, Ont., April 13.—Mr. Justice J. A. McEvoy announced at the opening of todays sittings of the Assizes that he would reserve judgment on the motion by J. C. McRuer, K.C. for dismissal of the Royal Trust Company action in behalf of Lillian Walkey for damages against the Globe Printing Company and Roy F. McLean, one of a number of suits that sprang up from the triple fatality in an automobile accident north of Bailieboro Monday, November 7, 1932, in which Horace Walkey previously of Peterborough was fatally injured.

Mr. McRuer had asked for dismissal of the action on the ground that Horace Walkey did not stand in the legal position of a parent (in loco parentis) to his sister at the time of his death. His Lordship informed counsel that he would resume the hearing of evidence. Likelihood of the case continuing to the end of the week was indicated by permission being given to petit jurors who were not called in this trial to return home until Monday morning.

W. F. Huycke called Robert D. Bethune and Reg. Howden, Peterborough, university under graduates, as first witnesses this morning, their evidence described the position of the truck and automobile shortly after the accident.

Gerald Fitzgerald also of Peterborough testified that he arrived at the scene of the accident, while en-route to Toronto.

The Globe truck had angled toward the wrong side of the road. The right side of the car had struck the Globe truck, he believed. The left front wheel of the car was on the centre line of the pavement.

The left front wheel of the truck was a few inches over the center line, stated the witness in describing the position of the vehicle after the accident. Visibility was very poor due to drifts of fog.

Max Middleton, Peterborough, hardware clerk who had been at the scene of the accident, testified that the rear wheel of the Globe truck was three feet from the east edge of the pavement.

The left front wheel of the car was over the centre line about four feet with the other front wheel to the west of the centre line. The car had been going south and the truck in the opposite direction.

Witness was sure that the greater part of the car was on the east side of the road.

Thomas Howe, Globe employee, related that he met The Globe truck at 4.10 on the morning of the accident; Bill Hagan was driving. The truck had to come to Cobourg, go back to Port Hope and from thence to Peterborough, leaving Oshawa at 4.15 a.m.

According to schedule the driver was to have his papers in Peterborough by seven o'clock to meet the closing hours of the mail.

Provincial Constable E. Hornick of Peterborough, who investigated the accident, stated that the route taken by the Globe truck from Oshawa to Cobourg, to Peterborough, was about 76 miles.

The scene of the accident was between two grades.

In regard to the position of the two cars the constable stated that the right rear wheel of the truck was about three feet from the edge of the east side of the highway. The left front wheel was about 12 inches west of the centre line of the highway. The truck was facing north-westerly

The left front wheel of the car was about two feet east of the centre line, angling south-easterly.

The two men in the Globe truck died and also a passenger in the car, stated the constable.

North Bay Taximan Beaten, Kidnapped

NORTH BAY, Ont. April 13.—(C P) — According to police reports reaching here today, Emile Geroux, taxi driver of this city, is in Bracebridge after being kidnapped by thugs here last night.

It is alleged that Geroux received a phone call for a taxi from a local hotel last night and told to drive to a certain address. Upon their arrival Geroux is said to have been beaten up by his passengers and thrown in the back seat.

Geroux found himself in Bracebridge this morning and managed to get in touch with the police who later arrested the men. According to a telephone message from Bracebridge police, the men's names are Feeney and Fannon.

DRAFT AGREEMENT READY MINIMUM WHEAT PRICE

(By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Writer.)

ROME, April 13 (C.P. Cable). — A draft agreement on a plan for maintaining a minimum world price for exported wheat running to 12 closely-typed pages to-day was giving delegates to the World Wheat Conference cause for serious thought.

Although the main conference met to-day after adjournment since Tuesday, it did little beyond accept the minimum price scheme from the sub-committee which had labored on it nearly all week. The meeting broke up while the delegates took the plan back to their various hotels to give it a good going-over.

ENGINEERS HEAR WM. B. BURCHALL

Contribution of Airplane to Canadian Industrial Development is Subject.

IN MINING INDUSTRY.

William B. Burchall, advertising publicity manager of Canadian Airways, Limited, last night addressed a meeting held here under the auspices of Peterborough branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada. The meeting was well attended.

Mr. Burchall received his education in the public schools and at Manchester Technical College, and after a varied engineering experience, chiefly in the field of transportation, he came to Canada in 1908.

His first connection with aviation was with the Sopwith Aviation Company, Kingston-on-Thames, England, from 1915-1919. He joined the staff of Western Canada Airways (now Canadian Airways, Limited) in 1927. While in Winnipeg, he was secretary of the Aviation League of Manitoba and member of the Aviation Committee, Winnipeg Board of Trade. He was transferred to Montreal in December, 1932, in his present capacity as advertising publicity manager.

"It is to the mining industry that aerial transport had made its greatest contribution. Less than ten years ago the first air route was established for the regular conveyance of passengers, mails and freight. This was to serve the gold fields at Rouyn. Later, in 1926, services were instituted at Red Lake, Ont., and these services are still in operation. In the intervening years, over 393,000 pounds of mail, 13,153 passengers and 3,576,182 pounds of freight have been carried by Canadian Airways in the Red Lake mining area.

"Operating chiefly in the mining areas of the north the planes of Canadian Airways have travelled each week for the last three years, an average distance equal to a journey round the world at the equator, and the weight of freight and express carried has trebled in that period, rising from 764,449 pounds in 1931 to 2,522,233 pounds in 1933.

"Distance from rail head no longer precludes exploitation, for mining activity is prevalent almost to the shores of the Arctic Ocean. In the newer productive mining areas the aeroplane alone provides speedy mail and passenger service.

"Not only to mining, but to other primary industries — the fur trade, fishing, forestry, engineering — the aeroplane has rendered valuable assistance.

"The first military use of the aeroplane was for purpose of observation, and it was for this purpose also that aeroplanes were first used in civil life. Aerial reconnaissance has been used by the forester to provide data regarding timber resources, for checking-up on cut-over areas, and to determine the merchantable types (soft woods and hard woods) available. Over 250,000 square miles of forest lands have been sketched; this total does not include territory that has been photographed.

"Speed in attack is essential in forest fire patrol, and aerial patrol alone can provide this. Aircraft can transport fire-fighting crews with equipment over virgin territory where there are no roads whatever and these can be deposited speedily on river or lake, at the nearest point of attack.

"A serious cause of drain on forest resources is damage caused by parasites, and as yet the only method developed by which they can be controlled over a great expanse is by aerial dusting of the defoliated areas.

"Within the past three years considerable speeding-up in the methods of the trapper and in shipment of furs to market has resulted from the use of aircraft. The trapper with his dogs, outfit, and may be his radio, is flown to the almost inaccessible grounds where the best furs are obtained. Travelling by air, he saves time and money, for it is not necessary to purchase canoe or "kicker." At the close of the season the furs are picked up at the posts or camps and flown to railroad .It has been estimated that bales of fur transported by air in the 1932-1933 season were worth fully $1,500,000.

"The aerial fisheries patrol on the Pacific Coast is largely a preventive service, the primary object being the protection of the salmon fishing industry. It has been so successful that few violations are recorded during the last three fishing seasons.

"Air freighting of fresh fish from the lakes of Northern Manitoba and Saskatchewan is a new development. The fish are caught in the winter time and have to be transported into the United States without being frozen. Over 60,000 pounds of fresh fish have been transported by air from the Lake of the Woods area during the present winter.

"The aerial survey is being used by well informed civil engineers to solve many varied problems connected with town planning, preliminary surveys for the construction of hydro electric projects, railroad and transmission line location."

NOVELTY DANCE GIVEN BY GIRLS

H. H. Graham, B.A., Addresses Kiwanis Club at Weekly Luncheon.

IN REALM OF MATTER.

Demonstrative of the friendly co-operation between the various service organizations of the city, the local Kiwanis Club to-day gave a rousing welcome to George Zarfas, producer of "Show Boat Days," to be presented next Thursday and Friday in the Grand Opera House under auspices of the Kinsmen Club, and also expressed keen enjoyment of the novelty dance number presented by a troupe of local girls who are featuring in the chorus.

The girls who provided the entertainment at the Kiwanis luncheon at Empress Hotel under the direction of Mr. Zarfas, included the Misses Isabel Duffus, Thelma Buller, Edith Guiry, Doris Ackford, Ruby Jackson, Jean Nichols, Florence Riley and Gladys Cowan. Mrs. George Nichols accompanied at the piano.

H. H. Graham, B.A., of the Collegiate teaching staff, introduced by his colleague Carl S. Browne, featured on the program as guest speaker, discussing with his audience the topic, "In the Realm of Matter."

Mr. Graham said something of the conception of matter originated with the early Greeks and Indians, who believed all material things to be composed of the basic elements of earth, air, fire and water. That was an idea which was retained until the beginning of the 17th century, he said, when following the research of the alchemists of that day, rapid advancement was made in the realm of science.

He referred to more recent developments in the field of scientific and chemical research, stating that it was now definitely known that there are 92 elements and from three hundred to four hundred thousand compounds. While the elements themselves had been subdivided into atoms, and again into electrons and protons.

It was probable, he believed, that matter and energy were one and the same thing, although that theory had not yet been proven.

Jacob Low, ably moved a vote of thanks to the speaker and to Mr. Zarfas and his troupe of entertainers; the motion being extended by A. B. Gates, president of the Kiwanis Club.

Friday 13 Happy Day For Lindsay Couple

LINDSAY, Ont., April 13.—(C.P.)—Friday 13th, hoodoo day for many this year is a happy day for Mr. and Mrs. Felix Gassien. of Lindsay, who are celebrating their 60th anniversary of their marriage.

They cannot remember whether or not the 13th of April on which they were married 60 years ago was also a Friday.

"All I can remember," Mr. Gassien said, "is that it was a bright sunshiny day, and the happiest day of my life."

FIND NUN'S BODY

ST. GREGOIRE, Que., April 13 (C.P.)—The body of Sister St. Charles was recovered from the debris of the St. Gregoire Convent of the Sisters of St. Joseph and St. Vallier which was destroyed by fire early to-day. The nun's remains were found by firemen after a four hours' search of the ruins.

HEADS SISCOE MINES

MONTREAL, April 13 (CP)—J. B. Lynch, of New York, was today elected President of Siscoe Gold Mines, Limited, following the defeat of a slate headed by former President J. T. Tebbutt, of Three Rivers, Que., in the ballot for the directorate following one of the bitterest proxy campaigns in the history of the company.

Toronto Livestock Review

TORONTO, April 13 (CP). Trading was dull on all classes of livestock throughout the week on the Toronto Livestock market. Lack of fresh cattle receipts on the final day, however, enabled a practical cleanup at the close.

Lamb prices showed the only advances at the close, with other classes registering losses. Calves led the way with a drop of $1, followed by sheep with a drop of 50 cents. Butcher cattle lost 35 cents while all other classes of cattle closed 25 cents lower than the previous week's level.

After a steady opening weighty steers dropped 25c on Tuesday and held steady for the balance of the week closing at $4.85 to $5.90. Plain steers sold downward to $4.75. Butcher cattle opened at $5.25 to $5.75 but lost 35c during the week closing at $5.45 for tops.

Butcher cows sold at $3.75 to $4.25 early in the week but brought a top of $3.50 on the closing market. Bulls sold at $3.25 to $3.50 for bolognas with a few tops making $3.75. Fed calves ranged from $5.50 to $7 according to quality.

Veal calves opened steady selling at $5 to $7 for the bulk of the supply but weakened badly, due to heavier runs and inferior quality to register a loss of $1 at the close. Good to choice vealers closed at $6 to $6.50 with the majority of sales between $4 and $6.

Hogs opened 25c lower at $7.15 f.o.b. for bacons $7.40 off truck and at $7.90 weighed off cars. Closing prices, however, showed a gain of 10c with prices closing at $7.15 to $7.25 f.o.b. for bacons, $7.50 off truck and at $7.90 to $8 off cars.

Lambs got back a little of the previous week's drop registering a gain of 25c at the close. Good lambs sold at $8.25 with spring lambs ranging from $5 to $8.50 each. Culls brought $6 cwt. Sheep sold at $3.50 for best ewes.

COOKING UTENSILS

In a home where there are several children and another addition to the family is expected shortly, there are very few utensils with which to cook food. A couple of tin dishes are about all that can be mustered when the meal is to be prepared. Anything in the way of cooking apparatus would be welcomed.

Kindly telephone Miss McCarthy at The Examiner and anything of the sort would be gladly called for.

SOMETHING ODD ABOUT DR. PRATT

tified that a handkerchief taken from the pocket of Dr. Pratt after he was arrested following the fire showed blood stains.

Constable Dixon said that he was positive the stains on the handkerchief were blood stains.

"How do you know that," asked Donald Smith defence counsel.

"Well I know it was blood" replied the witness.

Constable Beckett who arrested Dr. Pratt after the fire stated on the witness stand that the manner in which Dr. Pratt spoke to firemen at his home and the thickness of his speech led him to believe the doctor was drunk the night of the fire.

Constable Beckett also testified that he found a box of matches and a set of false teeth under the bed in Miss McLean's bedroom.

C. W. Bell, K.C., of Hamilton is conducting the case for the crown and Donald C. Smith, chief counsel for the defence.

Just before adjournment at noon the grand jury brought in a report on the finding of their inspection of the jail and other public institutions in Perth. They found the jail to be in clean and sanitary condition. There were three inmates in the jail, they reported.

Condition Of Clothing.

Mr. Bradley continued his evidence. C. W. Bell, K.C., M.P., Crown prosecutor, questioned witness regarding the condition of Dr. Pratt's clothing on the night of the fire.

He said Dr. Pratt's clothing was covered with ice as if he had fallen. Witness said it was sleeting that night.

"When you went to Dr. Pratt's house did you hear any sounds?" asked Mr. Bell.

"Yes, I heard moaning," replied the witness.

After Dr. Pratt came from the hospital the following Thursday or Friday after the fire, did he show you any books, questioned Mr. Bell.

"No," said Mr. Bradley.

"Well, how long after did he show you any books?"

"A short time."

"Did you take charge of the books?"

"Yes, I did."

Witness related how he thought that Dr. Pratt had not opened the books as they were still wrapped as they had come from the factory.

Witness said when the books reached him they were tied up with a cord. Later on, he related how J. A. B. Dulmage, assistant Crown prosecutor, came to witnesses' home and took one of the books from the package.

Turned Over Books.

Mr. Bradley said he turned one of the books over to Mr. Dulmage and later the remainder to Inspector Hammond.

"How did these books look?" asked Mr. Smith.

"They looked as though they had been in water," replied witness.

"On the night in question was it slippery? You were out twice that night?"

"Yes, it was. The steps on Dr. Pratt's home were covered with snow and ice."

Mr. Smith questioned witness as to his visit to Dr. Pratt's home on the night of December 30.

Mr. Bradley related about a radio in Dr. Pratt's home which was not working properly.

"While you were there did you hear anyone coming down the back stairs?" asked Mr. Smith.

"No."

"Did you hear any dishes or glasses rattling?"

"Yes, I did. I think it sounded more like glasses than crockery," witness said he could not see into the kitchen.

"Did the doctor appear to be in good humor?"

"There seemed to be something wrong with him."

"Did you smell any liquor off his breath?"

"I was not close enough to him."

"How did he walk?"

"Just as usual, you couldn't tell whether he was drunk or not by his walk as he has a peculiar gait."

Witness said when he returned home he listened to the radio and retired at 12.30 o'clock.

"What time did Dr. Pratt ring your door bell?" Mr. Smith asked.

"About two o'clock," said witness. Dr. Pratt rang the door bell and also kicked the door. He appeared to be in a hurry to get in. "I dressed a little before I went downstairs."

Mr. Bradley said he was positive Dr. Pratt said to him when he came in, "For God's sake, Mr. Bradley, there is a fire over at my place, come over."

Can't Find Eva.

Witness said he was not sure whether Dr. Pratt said, "I can't find Eva." He might have said, "I can't get Eva."

"The housekeeper's body was lying on the top floor, about six inches from the step," said Mr. Bradley.

"When you saw this woman at the top of the stairs, was there anything you could do for her?" questioned Mr. Smith.

"No, there was nothing. She was not burning, and if I had touched her the skin would have come off. It was badly burned."

Witness said he did not notice any signs of burns on the doctor's hands or clothes.

Referring to his visit to the police station to see Dr. Pratt the day following the fire, Mr. Bradley said the doctor said to him, "Why didn't you tell me Eva was dead."

He was crying when he said that.

Witness related how there was signs of burns on the door jam about fourteen inches from the floor leading from Eva's room. There were no burns close to the floor.

Bill For Coal Small.

"Was it true that Dr. Pratt owed you a small bill for coal?" asked Mr. Smith.

"Yes, a very small bill."

Previous to the fire, witness said he had been in Dr. Pratt's bedroom and saw a lot of surgical instruments, including hypodermic needles.

"Did you ever see Dr. Pratt without his false teeth?"

"Yes, when I visited him in the fall. There was a set of false teeth on the floor of his bedroom."

During numerous visits to Dr. Pratt's home, following the fire, witness said he had looked at bed clothing in various rooms.

At this point court adjourned for ten minutes."

DILLINGER RAIDS

were seized by police to-day in a raid on an apartment house and subsequent automobile chase and police were checking on the possibility one of the prisoners was Clyde Barrow, Texas desperado.

The apartment house raid resulted, police said, from a tip that Barrow and members of his gang were in hiding there.

Two men and a woman sped away from the place as officers arrived. Four men and three women were arrested and other officers were called to give chase to the fleeing trio.

Later police arrested two men and a woman in the car on the Hot Springs-Malvern highway. The men gave their names as B. H. Thorney and Cliff Kell. The woman, believed by police to be the wife of the man who gave the name of Thorney, had a six-months-old baby.

COMEDY FILLS MARMORA HALL

"Where's Grandma" is Excellently Staged by Members of St. Paul's A.Y.P.A.

DANCING FOLLOWS.

MARMORA, April 13 (Examiner Correspondence).—For the second time in a week, Marmora Town Hall was filled to the door on Thursday evening, this occasion being the presentation of the three-act comedy drama, "Where's Grandma?" by St. Paul's A.Y.P.A. members.

The comedy had good story value, five characterizations, and produced many rounds of laughter.

Grandma is a delightful lady who first shows off in sophistication to impress the grandchildren she seeks the fulness of their love and makes rather outlandish attempts to impress them with her spirit of youth. As she later acts her real self, she is all the more appreciated by the young folk.

The cast of characters was as follows: Grandma, Miss Marjorie Hudgins; Gretchen Blake, Miss Hilda Phillips; Bob Blake, Norman Smith; Jack Worley, George O'Neill; Lucy King, Miss Fay Buskard; Arline Tweedsdale, Miss Dorothy Lumsden; Carol Worley, Miss Margaret Johnston; Midnight, Randall Melville; Dahlia, Miss Annie Bailey.

The portrayal of all the characters was of a high grade for amateur talent. Between the acts the orchestra played lively selections. After the fall of the curtain, seats were cleared for dancing.

was informed that more than a score of witnesses had been called, and that the trial might take up several days if all the evidence was heard, and the question of "in loco parentis" considered at the conclusion. As an economy to all parties it was suggested that the legal point as to Horace Walkey's position in regard to his sister's affairs should be decided first, and if His Lordship found that the plaintiff's contention should be upheld the trial should then continue.

The evidence and also the argument on this point was closed at 6.30 p.m., and Mr. McRuer formally moved for dismissal of the case.

Early in the trial it was disclosed that Lillian H. Walkey, now 53 years of age, is a person of arrested mental development, possessing the intelligence of a child of ten or eleven years, and that she boards with Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Kohn, 172 Brock street, Peterborough.

Horace Walkey had been for years an employee of the Bank of Montreal in Peterborough, was manager of the branch at Oakwood, west of Lindsay for some time, and was then transferred to Belleville, where he was engaged at the time of his death. He was unmarried.

Personal Elements

R. A. Whitely, estates officer of the Royal Trust Company was the first witness examined by Mr. Huycke, with supplemental questions by Mr. McRuer and Mr. Gordon. A summary of this prefatory evidence indicated personal aspects of the background of the action.

Mr. Whitely said he understood that William Henry Wakley, father of the plaintiff, died in 1919 bequeathing to his wife, Beatrice H. Walkey, an estate valued at $13,-891.

Mrs. Walkey died in September, 1924. She did not leave a will, and by this intestacy her estate probated at $3,062 passed to Horace Walkey and the plaintiff. Apparently a trust account was funded some time prior to the mother's death from distributable assets of Mrs. Walkey's estate.

The estate was administered by Mrs. Walkey, and after her death no formal administration papers were taken out by Horace Walkey. On his death the Royal Trust Company became administrators of the estate. Mr. Whitely stated that he could not find any papers in the mother's and son's estates relating to a trust account. He added that there did not seem to have been any division of the estate between Horace Walkey and his sister following their mother's death.

Evidence indicated that he had made several withdrawals from the trust fund for his own benefit, but they were at least partly balanced by personal contributions to the fund. Another fact emphasized by Mr. Huycke that although he was entitled to half the estate left by his mother, he did not take advantage of that right, but disbursed virtually the entire fund for the benefit of his sister.

Horace Walkey Estate

Mr. Whitely produced a list of the assets of the Horace Walkey estate totalling $7,613.92, which passed to his sister, also several sheafs of cheques drawn by him on the Walkey trust for the maintenance of his sister. Most of them were for monthly sums of $36 beginning with December 10, 1924, and continuing to October 1, 1932, the date of the last cheque he issued for this purpose of his sister's maintenance, prior to his death.

Cheques paid to the late Mrs. Chas. Reynolds of Peterborough amounted to $1,890.11, to Mrs. Albert Weese $69.40, and to Mrs. H. P. Kohn $1,889. Some other cheques were for sums ranging to $200. Payments from the trust were also made to the Peterborough Utilities Commission, the Bell Telephone Company, and to the city of Peterborough for taxes, and there were other cheques in payment of personal bills for his sister's needs. One cheque was for $378 to A. Comstock, covering the expenses of the funeral of Mrs. Walkey.

Mr. Whitely stated that the trust account had been wiped out, and was overdrawn by $374.38. Its remaining asset was the Walkey residence on Benson street. It has been vacant eight years up to the time Horace Walkey was killed. The Royal Trust Company had it repaired at a cost of $1,500, and it has been occupied since then up to the present.

Lillian Walkey testified that she and her brother were born at Bailieboro. After her mother's death she had lived with Mrs. Chas. Reynolds for more than four years, followed by a few months with Mrs. Weese, and since then with Mrs. Kohn. She said her brother had paid for her board, and since then payments were made by the Royal Trust Company. She had not personally handled any of the money of her mother's estate. Miss Walkey said that her hair was "done up" by Mrs. Kohn, as she was unable to do it herself, and that Mrs. Kohn always accompanied her when she went for a walk.

Dr. J. M. McCulloch

Dr. J. M. McCulloch of Peterborough testified that Horace Walkey had been injured in a rugby game when he was about eighteen or twenty years old, suffering a spinal injury which had resulted in paralysis of his left leg. Otherwise he was in perfect health at the time of the fatal accident, and his life expectancy was that of a normal man. Miss Walkey was obviously a case of arrested mental development. Her intelligence in some respects was equivalent to that of a child of ten or twelve years. Dr. McCulloch expressed the opinion that her condition might have been caused by a birth injury.

Mrs. Ada Kohn informed the court that Horace Walkey had not made any arrangements with her in regard to his sister's maintenance.

"After her mother's death she expressed a wish to stay with me, and the arrangements I think were made by her friend Mrs. Conway. Her brother paid me $36 a month."

Mrs. Kohn said that Lillian Walkey had few activities. She had a bird which she cared for, she could not read, but she did considerable knitting. She could go down stairs alone, but couldn't accend them unaccompanied. Witness said she always went with Miss Walkey when she walked outdoors.

Motion For Dismissal

This concluded the evidence in the introduction to the trial, and the jury retired while counsel presented argument on Mr. McRuer's motion for dismissal.

Mr. McRuer contended that the legal phrase "in loco parentis" implied a definite undertaking by which the care and oversight of a child was assumed by an adult. Such a person took over the office and duty of parent to make provision for the child.

It means the taking to one's self the duty of a father in making proper provision for a child. In this case, Mr. McRuer said, there was no direction of Lillian Walkey's affairs by her brother. The case for the plaintiff's might be stronger if Horace Walkey had taken his sister into his own home; but she simply went to Mrs. Reynold's home, and her maintenance was paid out of her mother's estate. There was no evidence that the brother had paid for her maintenance. He kept the trust account, and issued cheques for his sister's maintenance out of that account.

Horace Walkey came to Peterborough from time to time, but in a period of five years the sister had never seen him. Mr. McRuer continued. From 1923 to 1929 she had seen him only three times.

"How does all that establish the relationship of "in loco parentis"? There is no authority for it in any case in Canada."

Mr. Huycke's Argument

W. F. Huycke, for the plaintiff, pointed out that the phrase was "in loco parentis" and not "in loco patris," the relationship of a parent but not of a father. The word parent was of wider import than the word father, that there was not the same degree of authority and obedience signified.

Horace Walkey had been removed from Peterborough to Oakwood, only thirty-five miles, and there was no special reason why he should visit his sister every time he came to Peterborough. Mr. Huycke emphasized the fact that Horace Walkey was entitled to half the estate left by his mother, but from 1925 to 1931 he did not draw even five cents from the funds for his own purposes. All the payments went for the benefit of the sister.

His Lordship—What would have been the effect if these payments had been made by a stranger, that is by some one who was not a brother or a relative of any degree? Would the stranger be "in loco parentis" to her?

Mr. Huycke hesitated to express an opinion on that hypothetical instance, but said that possibly it would not be the position of a parent. He added that by foregoing his share of the estate Horace Walkey was contributing to his sister's maintenance. It was shown that $8,197.52 had comprised the trust account, and Horace Walkey had received for his benefit about $1100. The sister obtained the benefit of all the rest.

Mr. McRuer — All they show is that the brother gave his sister most of his share of the estate, and a few personal cheques. But where is the supervision and the direction that would be assumed by a parent when he did not go to see her. It was also brought out that the trust account was established some time before their mother died. And apparently it was her wish that the trust should be used for the maintenance of Lillian Walkey.

Mr. Gordon touched on some of the points of the case, and after further argument, His Lordship informed counsel that he would withhold his decision until court opened in the morning.

SATIN GOWN ELEGANTLY SIMPLE

Myrna Loy shows back and front views of white satin evening gown.

By LISBETH

Frills and ruffles, flowers and other dados galore decorate evening gowns this season.

So in all this galaxy of crisp ruffled silhouettes, or softly draped dittos, an occasional gown of elegant simplicity shines forth in distinguished manner.

Such a dress, of which satin, is worn here by Myrna Loy, both front and back views being shown. The draped decolletage, cut to the waist at the back, and accented by a double diamond and ruby pin at the front, is graceful. The lower part of the skirt has subtly cut fullness, with a slight train incorporated into the seam at the center of the back.

Of a deeply religious nature, Mrs. JoJhnstone was bright and cheerful under all circumstances, and though almost totally blind for the past ten years, was never known to murmur at her lot.

Besides her daughter, Mrs. Swain, she leaves a family of five to mourn her passing. They are James Johnstone of Trent River road, Robert of Drinkwater, Sask., Osborne of Vancouver, Mrs. W. R. Cook of Summerville, Mass., and Mrs. James Campney of Trenton.

The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon, with service at the house, and interment at Maple Grove Cemetery.

LONG OPPOSITION TO RELIEF BILL

event of an emergency developing out of the economic stress now prevailing.

What About Cutten?

The name of Arthur W. Cutten, Canadian-born grain trader of Chicago, was dragged into the discussion yesterday when William Duff (Liberal, Antogonish - Guysboro) wanted to know if it was true Mr. Cutten sold grain on the Winnipeg market to John I. McFarland, who has been conducting market stabilization operations backed with a Government guarantee.

Mr. Duff did not press for a specific answer but switched to the case of the Canso fishermen who, he said, could not obtain a guarantee of $15,000 to outfit themselves for spring fishing while the Government was guaranteeing millions of dollars to aid the Western farmers.

The Canso fishermen had not asked for a guarantee, said Mr. Bennett. They had asked to be brought under the scope of the marketing act which Parliament had not yet enacted. He accused the Nova Scotia representative of playing politics, of attempting to set East against West and of suggesting the farmers of Western Canada should be driven out of business.

So long as his government was in office, Mr. Bennett declared, all parts of Canada would be treated alike in the matter of relief. The basis of relief would be necessity and no favors would be shown.

Sweep Bill Passes Senate

Within a few days the House will be called upon to express its view ou the question of legalizing sweepstakes in Canada for hospital purposes. Yesterday the Senate gave third and final reading to the bill sponsored by Senator G. I. Barnard of Victoria by a recorded vote of 37 to 20. Both party leaders. Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative, and Hon. Raoul Dandurand, Liberal, opposed it to the last. It is assured of a non-party vote in the House of Commons.

Intimation the coming budget would give effect to further changes in the trade agreement between Canada and the United Kingdom was the Prime Minister's answer to a query about reports from London that Canada's preference might be limited. Mr. Bennett pointed out the treaty provided for alterations by mutual consent and certain alterations had been made in the budget last year.

Ban On Commuters.

Representations have been made to Washington in connection with legislation introduced in Congress to excluding Canadians from the right to commute across the international border, was another piece of information Mr. Bennett supplied.

No definite action could be taken until the bill became law, he said. Similar legislation had frequently been proposed at Washington but had so far always fallen short of enactment.

A move to provide the elder statesmen of the Senate with more work was launched yesterday by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Government leader in the Upper Chamber carrying out one of the suggestions made in the recent debate launched by Senator Charles Murphy.

The plan is to have all private bills receive their first, and consequently detailed, review in the Senate. To this end Senator Meighen's resolution proposes that the fee for private bills introduced in the Senate remain at its present level, but the fee for bills introduced in the House of Commons be substantially increased.

CLAIM 'LOST' EXPLORER ALIVE ACTING AS SPY OF THE BRITISH

Moscow Paper Charges Disappearance of Col. Fawcett a Frame-up.

POSSIBLE SOLUTION.

LONDON, April 13. — A new and sensational theory concerning the disappearance of Col. P. E. Fawcett noted explorer, in the Brazilian jungles in 1926, was claiming attention in London to-day

A Soviet Russian paper, the Moscow Evening, charges that the disappearance of the colonel was a frame-up to which the British Government was a party and that Fawcett is alive and well—and serving the Government as a spy.

"He is a second Colonel Lawrence and his reports back to the British Government fill two fat volumes,' said the paper.

The suggestion was branded as ridiculous by the British Foreign Office, but some color is given the charge by the fact that Mrs. Fawcett has never given up her husband for dead, and has repeatedly stated that she expects to see him again.

A "disappearance" arranged to mislead foregn governments aware of the identity of agents working against them would not be a new thing in Europe or in Britain. There have been numerous instances of officers who were needed by their governments as intelligence agents having been reported dead officially, only to bob up under separate identities in foreign countries.

There have even been cases in which officers allowed themselves to be publicly disgraced and discharged from the army in order to give enemy governments the idea that they no longer have any desire to serve their country.

Is Reported Alive.

However, the Moscow paper's charges concerning Colonel Fawcett are given little weight because the Soviet writer claims Fawcett was sent to Brazil to prepare for the seizure of a section of the territory by either Japan or Great Britain. This possibility is ridiculed.

There have been recurrent reports from Brazil, supposedly coming from the interior through wild natives, that Fawcett is alive and being held captive there.

A Foreign Office spokesman said to-day that the British Consul-General in Rio de Janeiro has done everything possible to secure information concerning Colonel Fawcett and his party, but has found nothing to indicate that the explorer is still alive.

"We have long presumed him dead," the spokesman added.

Peter Fleming, head of one of the rescue expeditions sent into the jungle after Fawcett, declared the chances of the explorers being now alive are about "thousands to one." He explained:

"It is conceivable, but only remotely so. If he is still alive it is probable that he is either mad or that he has lost his memory. It is incredible that Colonel Fawcett would have voluntarily remained in the district, where he is supposed to have been lost, for more than a few months.

"He could have found friendly natives within a hundred miles.

"My opinion is that he was killed by members of one of two tribes which abound in those areas, and who cannot be relied upon."

Brownlee Favorable B.N.A. Act Revision

EDMONTON, April 13 (C.P.)—Satisfaction with Premier R. B. Bennett's announcement that early revision of the British North America Act is favored was expressed yesterday by Premier J. E. Brownlee of Alberta.

"I have publicly placed myself on record several times during the past two years in urging revision of the B.N.A. Act," said the Premier.

"It is my opinion, however, that there is need for a revision wider than merely social legislation. From the standpoint of social legislation, such matters as insurance, hours of labor and minimum wage laws should come under a central government to give most satisfaction in Canada. I am equally of the opinion there are other matters that would be best under provincial authority. The taxation field is in the greatest need of revision at the present time," said Mr. Brownlee.

Malady Causing Skin to Mummify on Chicago Girl Has Doctors Puzzled.

CHALK IN SYSTEM.

NEW YORK, April 13 (C.P.) — Life looked brighter to-day for three or four children suffering from rare diseases, but for one of them, at least, the respite was only temporary.

Seven-year-old Benny Hendrick, whose muscles are slowly turning to bone, was back home near Wilkesbarre, Pa., and neighbors said they saw him playing yesterday in the rain.

Benny spent six weeks in a hospital where doctors worked in vain to correct a glandular disturbance that is producing an over-supply of calcium, bone-making chemical, in his body. As he played by the side of his widowed mother's cottage he seemed to be enjoying himself, neighbors said, despite the limited movement due to his stiffening body tissues.

Of three little four-year-old girls suffering from Leukemia, a condition that results in elimination of the red corpuscles from the bloodstream, Roma Garrett, at an East View, N.Y., hospital had a fine day yesterday.

If she hoped she would get well, however, she was doomed to disappointment, according to physicians. The lethargy which results from the disease was very akin to death on Monday when a blood transfusion was given. Roma rallied, delighted in new found strength. Yesterday she also felt well until late afternoon.

Few More Hours of Life

The blood transfusion was not given as a treatment physicians said. It was given when hope had been abandoned and only to keep the child alive a little longer.

There was not much change in the condition of the other two little girls.

Willie Mae Miller, at her home in Memphis, Tenn., still plays with her dolls, singing bits of improvised melody which as the day wears on becomes her own lullabye. Her mother says she is "slightly improved. A bio-chemist is treating her with a liquid diet and says he can cure her. Doctors at a Memphis hospital where X-ray treatments were recently stopped say she cannot recover.

Theodora Alosio, at Christ Hospital, Jersey City, is in a "serious" condition, and has shown no change in the past few days. Her case is far advanced. Her dolls lie unnoticed on the foot of her bed. She is utterly weary.

Skin Mummifying

Already the tissue beneath the skin of her face has virtually disappeared and the skin is drawn taut across the bones.

Scientists call the ailment from which Genevieve has been suffering since she was year old "scleroderma with calcinosis." They explain that this means increased deposits of calcium, or chalk being laid under her skin, which itself is atrophying. They are uncertain as to the cause but believe that it may be caused by a decreased activity of the parathyroid glands.

Chalk deposits—some of them a half inch thick, have appeared beneath the skin of the girl's arms and legs, hampering her movements.

Simple Rules Prevent WEARINESS

Do you know that there is a simple, natural way to stay on the high-road of good health and to end those days of weariness when body and brain seem sluggish and heavy? There is. And it is just living right, plus being sure that you are not unconsciously suffering from incomplete elimination of body wastes.

Eat moderately. Sleep sufficiently. Get lots of fresh air, exercise and recreation. Don't worry. And make sure of complete elimination by taking a stimulating, pleasant-tasting glass of Andrews Liver Salt once or twice each week.

Do not make the mistake of supposing that just because your habits are regular your system is functioning perfectly. It is because your eliminative organs are not functioning fully that you go through days of weariness, or suffer indigestion and headaches. The weekly or twice-weekly bracing glass of Andrews Liver Salt will help Nature to sustain complete elimination, and thus give you a zestful appetite, and sustain you in vigorous health.

Prevention is better than cure. Begin now to observe these simple, inexpensive Andrews Rules for Health. Get Andrews Liver Salt from your druggist. In tins, 35c and 60c. New, large bottle, 75c. Sole Agents: John A. Huston Co., Ltd., Toronto. 9

JIG-SAW PUZZLE

Editor of Examiner,

Sir,—Personally my opinion of your interview with J. S. Bell with regards to what Canada needs is more of a jig-saw puzzle than that of a sensible discussion. He outlines the principles of a genuine Christian as being considerate of others and wholly loyal to his friends, will lend a hand to the friendless, will love consistency, is not clamorous for his own interests, will not place principle above any individual and will hate hypocricy. Judging from Mr. Bell's definition of a genuine Christian he can not claim to come within the Christian area with such accusations against Rev. Sutherland as the interview presents. He accuses Rev. Sutherland of abolishing the opening prayer at the C.C.F. club meetings. This was abolished at a regular meeting of the members, by the members, for reasons discussed at that meeting. He also refers to other matters during his term as president of the local C.C.F. club which would be better in his own interest to be left out of discussion.

A. Murray.

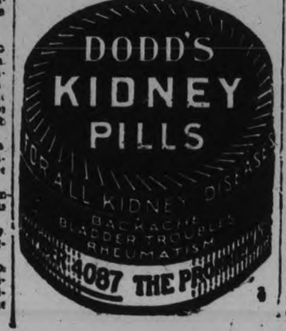
TRYING TO SCARE PEOPLE.

To the Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—We, the Women's Auxiliary of the unemployed of Peterborough have carefully read the explanation of Section 98.

We wonder if that person whose object it was to bring it before the public knows how many times the people have read about it in the press. If Section 98 is the conviction that could be applied toward a majority of people why can it not be applied toward the few who keep us in this miserable condition, how much longer do we mothers have to worry over our families and raise good loyal citizens? Are those who demand loyalty to our country, are they loyal? We say, No! You are trying to scare the people with Section 98. You want them to starve to death and yet be loyal citizens to the Boss Class. Does the Boss Class understand their disloyalty? Do you understand that our next generation is going to be a discredit to their present loyalty?

Our right of a livelihood can not be scared away by Section 98. What we want is a right to live and bring up a healthy generation. Quite a lot is said what could be done to



Now Is The Time For "Sugaring" Festivals

Sugaring operations attract thousands of visitors throughout the country each spring. These sugar camp photos are typical of scenes being enacted all over Eastern Canada and the United States. At LEFT, "syruping-off" the finished maple syrup from the last of the series of four evaporating vats through which the sap passes as it gradually thickens and becomes syrup; upper right, how early settlers poured the sap into an iron kettle over which a piece of fat was suspended to prevent overboiling; lower right, a brace of young oxygen hauling a sled with a barrel containing sap to the evaporating vats.

disorderly people under Section 98, yes, who bring on the disorderly conduct? Who has arms and batons? But wait, we mothers have something to say to that. It is our sons you are so proud of. It is our flesh and blood we mothers hope when the time comes our sons, the sons of this country will not be disloyal to their people and country.

Thanking you for the space in The Examiner.

Jean Perry,
Secretary.

TO JOHN BEGGS

To The Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir, — On reading John Beggs poetic outburst in The Examiner of Wednesday evening, I was struck by the fact that he had not read all that I have written about Russia. In my article on the new Treaty between Russia and the United States, Russia had made a radical turn in her policy. The masses of the Russians are not ardent followers of Lenin or Stalin. The hold of these men on the great masses of the Russian people is rapidly lessening.

John Beggs has considerable ability as a writer. To begin with he has the right spirit. To go on to characterize him he is blessed with his share of humor. Then, to naturally turn prose into rhyme is no small gift. But his lines are not soft lines. They have a little bite in them. That is all to the good. That is wit. Wit punctures. This touch I enjoyed. Wit laughs at you. The writer does it because it makes him feel superior to you. But when you please him with what you have written he admits you are superior to him.

Everybody feels that they have a right to criticise a writer. And most of them do it just as a mule criticises things by shutting both eyes and letting drive with both his hind legs. John Beggs is different. To get the full force of a mule you must be near him. Instead of a kick John Beggs weights his lines with:

Quips and cranks and wanton wiles,
Nods and becks and wreathed smiles,
Sport that wrinkled care derides,
And laughter holding both his sides.

John Beggs ought to be read often in The Examiner. His lines hold the attention. They drop out of him like the song from the voice of the April robin.

MR. HENRY AND THE HOTEL BED-ROOMS

To Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—Premier Henry, speaking recently in Toronto, dwelt at some length on the question of liquor in hotel rooms and referred especially to its presence at dances, banquets, etc.

The hotel bed-room situation is one of the fine results of the folly of Mr. Ferguson in creating fictitious residences. It presents itself in two aspects.

That associated with dances, banquets and conventions is against the spirit and often in violation of the letter of the Liquor Control Act which seeks to prevent liquor being consumed in public places. Its presence on such occasions has been notorious. Twice it has been the occasion of outstanding action in the courts; yet never once, so far as we know, has the Attorney-General, who is supposed to exercise an even-handed administration of our liquor law, raised a finger to deal with this outrageous situation in which people of social and commercial standing are involved.

In regard to the other aspect of the hotel-room drinking, does Mr. Henry really care? For three years his attention has been called to the matter by the Temperance Convention with suggestion that the law be amended. The purpose of the residence provision, so far as it touches hotels, was presumably to allow the travelling man to have liquor in his room and possibly to have a glass with a friend. The Act was supposed to discourage public drinking; hence the ban on banquets with liquor on which Mr. Ferguson was somewhat emphatic. The convention suggested that where more than three persons (a hotel-man recently said to the writer, make it two) were present in a hotel-room where liquor was being used that the room automatically becomes a public place. This would have largely taken care of the disturbance and injury to which the hotel-keeper has been subject. The convention further suggested that when a woman, not a member of the family of the person in whose name the room is held, was present in mixed company in a hotel-room where liquor was being consumed, the room automatically become a public place. This would have put a check on the immorality. Both Mr. Price and Mr. Henry ignored these constructive suggestions.

During the debate on the second reading of the Bill, definite attention was called to the hotel-room situation by Mr. S. C. Tweed, who stated he would vote for the measure if Mr. Henry would put in a clause banning liquor from the hotel bed-room. On this suggestion Mr. Henry was silent.

I have before me a copy of the letter sent to the Premier of the province by the Hotel Association, dated October 20, 1933. In it the tourist home and camp are berated as sources of immorality, but not in a single syllable does the letter even suggest that such a thing occurs in a hotel bed-room. How sincere is the Hotel Association in its outcry re immorality and how strikingly does Mr. Henry's failure to act parallel their silence on this matter?

The establishment of the beer-room will do little to relieve the bed-room situation, the evil of which is often designed. Unless the beer-room or dining-room is kept open until all sorts of unreasonable hours, it will not meet the demand now created in connection with dances and banquets. The woman who goes to a hotel bed-room to drink with a man is even yet happily the exception; moreover, she is already careless if not shady. But the young stenographer or clerk who goes quite properly with a friend or a group to a restaurant after the theatre and who may under such circumstances and the plea that beer and light wines are harmless, be induced to drink, and who then must drive home possibly alone in a car with a man who has been drinking, will be legion. And the car may be a menace as well as the hotel-room.

Modesty is the first line of defence of virtue. Liquor inevitably tends to suspend the inhibitions that lie behind it and it is not strange if undesirable results follow its use. If Mr. Henry will examine the record for illegitimate births in Ontario, he will find that in the first five years after the War—that period of supposed abandon—as compared with the five-year period ending with 1914, the average yearly increase of illegitimate births was just one for every 5000 living births. If he will further compare the first five years under the Liquor Control Act in Ontario with the last five years under the Ontario Temperance Act, he will find the average yearly increase of illegitimates per 5000 live births is just 50.

What will it be when we spread beer and wine in all sorts of seductive places where innocent girls and well-meaning but impulsive boys will almost inevitably be induced to take it?

A. J. Irwin.

HODGSON TO SEEK TORY NOMINATION

Haliburton Lumberman Candidate for the Party Convention in Victoria.

LINDSAY, April 13 (Examiner Correspondence) — Clayton Hodgson, lumberman, of Haliburton, announced to his friends yesterday that his hat was in the ring for the nomination as Conservative candidate for the new riding of Victoria and Haliburton in the forthcoming Provincial election. The convention to select a party candidate will be held in Lindsay some time in May. Mr. Hodgson believes that it will require a man from the north country to carry the riding for the Government. He has been an active worker for the Conservative party for a number of years.

Reports from the district are to the effect that the fall wheat has suffered considerable damage during the past fortnight. In some sections, it is said, the entire acreage has been destroyed as a result of frost.

Potatoes Scarce

A scarcity of potatoes is reported in this district. This is due to the fact that many bushels of the tubers were destroyed in the pits by the heavy frost in the winter. Many farmers who stored their potatoes in their cellars also suffered heavy loss owing to the unusual cold weather.

Mose Groselle, a veteran shoemaker, father of Mrs. Frank Guerin, and brother of Joseph Groselle, both of Peterborough, celebrated his seventy-third birthday yesterday. His parents came to Lindsay from Quebec seventy-five years ago.

As a result of Wednesday's heavy rainfall, the bottom has commenced to drop out of the sideroads in this district, and motorists, especially drivers of trucks, have their troubles. Reports from Bethany district are to the effect that the mud is axle deep in some places, while in the northern part of Victoria County, traffic has been practically suspended on some roads.

The sudden death took place on Tuesday of John McFayden, of Bolsover, one of the best known farmers in the district. The deceased, who was in his sixty-fifth year, was unmarried, and was a member of Victoria Lodge A.F. and A.M., Kirkfield.

FIRE RINGS BELL, COUPLE ESCAPE.

PITTSBURG, April 13 (C.P.). — Aroused from sleep by the incessant jingle of their doorbell, Mr. and Mrs Joseph E. Beech discovered their home in flames. The couple escaped.

Firemen, who estimated the damage at $4,000, said the blaze caused a contact which kept the bell ringing.

NO EXPERIMENTS in the New Ford V-8

THERE are no experiments in the New Ford V-8 for 1934. No little things blown up big to make sales. No fancy coined names. Just solid substantial value.

That is why we say you buy Proved Performance when you buy a Ford V-8. The reliability and dependability of its V-8 engine, clutch, transmission, torque-tube drive, rear axle, frame, spring suspension and every other vital part have been proved by millions of miles of use by hundreds of thousands of owners.

Keep those points in mind when you are deciding which car to buy in 1934. You're always more sure of 100% satisfaction when you buy a car that has proved its worth and withstood the test of time.

The Most Economical Ford Ever Built

You get proved economy as well as proved performance when you buy a New Ford V-8. It gives exceptional gasoline and oil mileage and saves you many dollars because of its reliability and freedom from repairs. Scientific dynamometer tests show that the Ford V-8 engine delivers more horsepower per gallon of fuel than any Ford engine ever built.

CHRIST THE WAY OF SALVATION

"Real Estate in Day of Receding Values" Subject of Dr. Rolls' Address.

INHERITANCE OF SAINTS.

"Real estate in a day of receding values" was the interesting subject dealt with by Rev. Dr. C. J. Rolls last evening at Murray Street Church, before an audience that almost filled the main body of the building. In elucidating his theme, he later revealed that this "real estate" was concerned with the "inheritance of the saints," or the heritage of Christians. Basing his remarks on the epistle to the Ephesians, chapter 1, he showed how this inheritance belonged to the ineffable; it was always referred to in the negative—no sorrow, no trials, no light, etc., because words fail to describe it. Love is like that, as shown in Cor. 13:4-6; it is given in negative terms, and the human vocabulary cannot determine its full significance. Our inheritance is in the realm of the ineffable.

The epistle of Ephesians stands highest in revealing spiritual truth, he asserted; it contains the wealth of the church, wealth that will remain when all material forms of wealth is gone. No one can worship without this wealth, for worship is giving, and we must possess to be able to give. Material gifts represent only one phase of this giving in worship; but before an individual or a church can truly give, it must possess this spiritual wealth.

How may we possess this spiritual wealth? Christ said: I am the Way. There are seven ways mentioned in the Old Testament, and He fulfils them all. In the New Testament, the city of God has the throne, the water of life which leads it it, and the tree of life in the midst of it; all of these symbolize Christ, as "The way, the truth and the life," and all are meant to show that He is the only way of salvation.

Describing this wealth of the Church in more detail, the speaker showed how the position of the church is impregnable in Christ, how all its work must be done for the praise of Christ, how God has furnished the church with all it needs to meet the challenge of the world, and how it has met such challenge against Judaism, Heathenism, Imperialism, Romanism, and to-day in the struggle against materialism.

In conclusion, he exhorted his hearers to believe in the promise of God, for He can help always out of His riches in glory.

Rev. Sutcliffe led the opening devotions; Dr. Barr led in prayer, and Rev. Millyard closed with the Benediction.

POLICE STATION LOOTED OF BULLET-PROOF VESTS

WARSAW, Ind., April 13 (C.P.).—Two men carrying machine guns, one of them said to resemble John Dillinger, notorious Indiana desperado, raided the Warsaw City Police Station early to-day and obtained two revolvers and four bullet-proof vests.

The men fled in a black sedan, and officers in all surrounding towns were notified to watch for the car.

Jud Pittinger, night policeman on duty, who was slugged over the head by one of the gunmen, said he was "quite positive" one was Dillinger, but was unable to recognize the other.

IT'S LIVER THAT MAKES YOU FEEL SO WRETCHED

Wake Up Your Liver Bile and Get A New Lease of Life. No Calomel Is Necessary.

For you to feel healthy and happy, your liver must pour two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels, every day of your life.

Without that bile, trouble starts promptly. Your food just won't digest the way it should and your bowels are sluggish. Poisons inside you and your entire system is undermined by this poisonous waste matter. You have indigestion—the discomfort of gas, bloating, heartburn and sourness. You are prey to headaches. Have a tongue like cotton-wool, a nasty taste in your mouth, bad breath and ugly skin. You haven't anything like the pep a healthy person should have. In fact you are generally wretched.

How can you expect to clear up a condition like this completely by taking mere bowel-movers like salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum, or roughage? They can't wake up your liver bile!

Avoid calomel (mercury). Buy yourself a box of old reliable Carter's Little Liver Pills. All vegetable, sure, gentle, safe. They'll wake up your liver without upsetting you. Bring back the glad-to-be-alive feeling, once more.

Don't waste your money on substitutes. Be definite. Ask for Carter's by name and get them. Look for the name, Carter's, on the red label. 25c at all druggists. 67

BIG NEED EXISTS EYE CLINIC WORK

MANY CASES WAITING.

That a real need exists for eye preventive work among underprivileged children, whose parents are unable to afford their children necessary treatment, has been demonstrated very forcibly since the local Kinsmen Club first committed themselves to this form of activity as their major item in their service work program.

Each week brings its new quota of children, who are provided with eye examinations and treatment or glasses where such are found to be necessary, and with the growing number of cases the Kinsmen are faced with the need of money to carry on the work.

While the value of the eyesight cannot be measured in terms of dollars and cents, money is none the less, the urgent necessity for the continuing of the Kinsmen service work, and in order to replete the treasury the members of the club, with the assistance of a wide-awake group of girls are selling tickets for the big musical comedy to be presented under Kinsmen auspices in the Grand Opera House on Thursday and Friday of next week.

In patronizing the effort, which is being produced under the title of "Show Boat Days" by Canadian Productions of Hamilton, people are reminded that in addition to helping along a worthy cause, they are also going to witness what promises to be the best amateur production of its kind ever staged locally.

With a gigantitc cast of some eighty local people who have entered whole-heartedly into a strenuous period of rehearsal, the show is to be staged against a background of attractive scenery; bright and colorful costumes; to the accompaniment of catchy song and dance numbers fresh from Broadway.

The production embraces a cast of eleven characters; a chorus of fifty picked local girls; and a Kinsmen minstrel troupe.

In the knowledge that they are appealing on behalf of a worthy cause, and that the type of entertainment they are offering is of highest calibre, the Kinsmen are confidently seeking generous public support which is all that is now necessary to ensure the success of the biggest venture undertaken by the club.

2 SETTLEMENTS IN PAY DISPUTES

Nash Workers and Lake Boat Carriers Agree to Concessions from Companies.

UNREST SPREADS.

NEW YORK, April 13 (CP).—At least two developments gave a brighter hue to-day to the black United States Industrial situation.

Ten per cent. wage increases were announced last night for all workers on boats operated by the Lake Carriers' Association. If all 400 boats operated by members are in service this year, about 13,000 persons will receive the increase.

Employees of the Nash Motor Company's Kenosha, Wis., plant voted to accept new wage concessions from the company and end a six weeks' strike.

Elsewhere unrest grew and in some places was marked by violence.

A strike of tool and diemakers in 45 of Detroit's 62 job plants became effective at midnight. Approximately 3,800 men are affected. The other 17 plants, employing 1,200 men, negotiated separate agreements.

Two thousand workers at the Electric Autolite plant in Toledo, O., dropped negotiations for a five per cent. wage increase May 1 and walked out.

900 Vote To Quit.

Two branches of the Glove Cutters Union at Gloversville, N. Y., comprising 900 of the 3,000 union members, voted to walk out at 5 p.m. to-day unless their wages are increased.

Two pickets at the Cleveland Worsted Mills Company plant were shot, one suffering serious wounds. They told police an unidentified man fired at them with a shotgun. A strike has been on at the plant for several weeks.

Two mill employees who have remained at work during the strike of knitters at three Indianapolis hosiery mills reported bricks were thrown through windows of their homes.

Striking aircraft workers in Buffalo expressed unconcern over threats of the Curtiss Company to move operations to a Baltimore plant. Almost 2,100 workers are involved at two factories which have contracts for about $5,500,000.

CANTEEN FUND AIDS GARDENS

Canadian General Contributes $20 to Aid in Relief Gardens.

VERY WORTHY CAUSE.

A few days ago The Examiner published an appeal by A. B. Cunningham on behalf of the Garden Plots Committee for subscriptions that could be used to help out householders who are striving to keep off relief, so that they may be furnished with seeds or plants in order to grow their supply of vegetables this season. Yesterday a letter came from R. E. Layfield, Chairman of the Canteen Fund at the Canadian General Electric Company, with a subscription of $20.00 from that organization.

The letter and subscripton is much appreciated by the Garden Plots Committee.

Mr. Layfield, in his letter to R. M. Glover, the treasurer, said:

"I enclose herewith a cheque for $20.00, which is donation towards the relief garden committee's work from the Canadian General Electric Co. Limited's Canteen Fund.

"This is splendid work and we all watched it with a great deal of sympathy last year and hope you will have even better success this season than you had in 1933, which, however, would be hard to beat."

Subscriptions Received

Canadian General Electric Company Canteen Fund	$20.00
R. E. Layfield	2.00
F. E. Kerr	1.00
H. G. Park	1.00

Other subscriptions would be gratefully received by the committee.

KELLOGG COMPANY INCREASES WAGES

Increase of 10 Per Cent. Made in Wages of All Workers in London Plant.

LONDON, Ont., April 13. — The tenth annual banquet of the employees of the Kellogg Company of Canada Limited was held in the Hotel London, in the City of London, Ont., recently.

W. P. Butler, Manager of the London organization, and C. G. McCormick, Canadian Sales Manager, acted as chairman and toast master.

Mr. McCormick extended the greetings of the sales organization and men in the field to the office staff and factory employees. Charles Baumgart, General Sales Manager of the Kellogg Company, expreseed the great pleasure it gave him to be present and join the Canadian employees on this festive occasion.

W. P. Butler announced that, starting Monday, April 9, the wages of all factory employees and office staff at London would be increased 10 per cent. Eugene McKay, General manager of the Battle Creek plant, corroborated Mr. Butler's announcement, and stated that Mr. W. K. Kellogg had felt that, despite the fact that the Kellogg Company had never decreased wages at any time, this advance was warranted by the present outlook for increased business during the present year.

The Kellogg Company plant has recently augmented its staff to such an extent that all previous records for number of employees have been exceeded. The largest newspaper advertising campaigns in the history of the Canadian company are also planned for 1934.

HOPE WANES FOR FLIERS LOST IN HANGCHOW BAY

SHANGHAI, April 13.—(A.P.)—Hope gave way to grave concern to-day for three flyers lost with their plane since Tuesday somewhere in the region of Hangchow Bay.

Experts had been confident the trio— James Frink, Miami, Fla. Robert Gast, Louisville, Ky., an Ivan Carlson, Donna, Texas—mere ly had been forced down by storms

Searchers believed the men, with a Japanese business man who wa accompanying them as a passenge on a flight to Canton from Shang hai, would be found in thei amphibian plane floating in th bay of awaiting rescue on one o the Bay's many islands.

But late to-day, with 15 air planes, two tugboats and score of fishing junks participating in the search, friends expressed fear the plane had crashed in the sea

Capt. Frank Hawks in his huge bomber led the hunt from the air to-day.

MUSKRAT CATCH HAS BEEN SMALL

Very Small Run of Rats Reported Taken From Rice Lake.

QUALITY OF FUR GOOD

BAILIEBORO, April 13 (Examiner Correspondence)—The muskrat season is now well advanced and up to date the catch in the Rice Lake area is far below normal. Only a very small run of muskrats has been reported and it seems to be the general opinion of older and experienced trappers that the catch will be very small this spring.

There has been a difference of opinion regarding the animals having been frozen during the severe winter months. It is considered that a portion of the fur bearing animals were destroyed by the heavy frosts.

W. Dixon of Bewdley claims that the year old animals left their winter quarters during the cold weather and many were destroyed by animals and owls as well as being frozen by the frosts. Many trappers in the district relate that there are few if any of last year's kits among their collection of furs. A number of trappers claim to have discovered numbers of small muskrats frozen to death in their marshes. H. McMahon says that the effects of the frost can be noticed on the bodies of the animals being trapped.

Owing to the heavy ice on the lake and marshes the run has been slow and trappers have found it very difficult to obtain sets to catch the muskrats.

Generally speaking the quality of the rat hides seemed to be of a good grade.

Policing In Yukon Subject Of Address

LAKEFIELD, April 13 (Examiner Correspondence)—David Sylvester of the Provincial Police force was the special speaker at the Efficiency League on Monday evening. He gave a very interesting account of his work with the Mounted Police in the Yukon Territory.

Constable Sylvester spent five years in the Yukon. Before beginning his address Mr. Sylvester favored his audience with a vocal solo entitled "In the Garden." Other items on the program which was in charge of Miss Mary Webster, included a recitation by Ruth Grotefeud, a duet by Betty Brown and Muriel Miles, mouth organ and jewsharp selection by Cecil Darling and Harry Northey and a solo by Mrs. Mae Millen.

Rev. W. R. Archer closed the meeting with prayer. The program was a delightful novelty which was not only exceedingly entertaining but also instructive.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

The decline in butter prices on the Montreal dairy and produce market which has been in progress for the past several days was checked yesterday, with quotations holding steady at the week's loss. No. 1 grade butter in carlots or less was quoted at 27c to 27¼c a pound for Westerns or New Zealands, while ungraded butter brought 26½c to 27¾c. Receipts totalled 1,616 boxes.

The egg market held steady, with a firm undertone being noticed. Receipts were considerably under a week ago, with 1,412 cases being offered for sale, compared with last Thursday's total of 3,855 cases. Graded shipments in carlots or less were quoted at 19c a doben for A-large, 18c for A-medium, 17c for B, and 16c for C.

Quebec potatoes again sold at $1.05 to $1.10 per 80-pound bag, and New Brunswick Mountains at $1.10 to $1.15 for similar quantities. Prince Edward Island Mountains in 90-pound bags brought $1.30 to $1.40.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Sharp downturns of grain prices, with corn and oats in the van, accompanied general liquidation yesterday on the part of holders of May contracts.

Corn tumbled 2c a bushel to the lowest level since Nov. 1. Uncertainty over pending legislative measures affecting commodity exchanges did much to promote a decided increase of selling that included execution of many stop-loss orders.

Wheat closed weak at virtually the day's bottom figures, 1¾c to 1⅞c under Wednesday's finish; corn 1⅝c to 1⅞c down; oats, 1⅛c to 1¼c off, and provisions unchanged to a decline of 2c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, April 13. — Houses with Eastern and Southern connections threw large quantities of wheat into the pit of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday as Chicago values slumped, and futures quotations sagged to show net losses of ⅞c to 1c at the close.

The market wound up at bottom levels, May wheat at 67c, July at 67¾c and October at 69⅜c. Liquidation in the coarse grain markets also had its effect on wheat prices.

Support was difficult to place, but there was good buying despite the fall in prices. Shippers were of the opinion export business accounted for a large portion of the purchasing. Volume of business was quite heavy.

Demand for cash wheat and coarse grains continued indifferent. Scattered support was insufficient to cope with the pressure of near-by offerings in the coarse grains pit and prices in these commodities showed sharp declines.

Police Court

Friday the thirteenth was lucky for a local youth who appeared in Magistrate Langley's court this morning. The youth, who admitted that he has been of considerable trouble to police, pleaded guilty to vagrancy and announced that he was turning over a new leaf.

Chief Newhall asked that suspended sentence be granted. "We are going to see if we can't get him a job on highway work," he said.

"I'd like to go" the young man said. So the magistrate adjourn the case for two months "to see how he gets along."

Plans under discussion by the French Government call for the expenditure of $263,000,000 for aviation within three years.

JUDGE WEARING IS UNDER FIRE LONDON'S MAYOR

Operators of Gambling Joints Believed to be Getting Protection.

GET NEW POLICE CHIEF.

Judge Described as "Biased, Top-Heavy and Lop-sided."

LONDON, Ont., April 13.— Mayor George Wenige's promised exposure of gambling conditions in London developed upon delivery at a ratepayers' meeting here last night into a slashing criticism of County Judge Joseph Wearing.

The Mayor asserted that he had received complaints from many London women that men were spending money badly needed in their homes to enrich bookmakers, and he added in answer to a question, "I believe that operators of these gambling joints are getting protection."

He voiced the complaint that he had asked Police Chief Harry Down for a report on what was being done to suppress gambling and had received the answer, "Do you think I am crazy enough to give you that information?"

Thereat he called Wednesday's special meeting of the commission, which is reported to have ended with the Mayor challenging Judge Wearing to resign and run for the mayoralty as a test of popular support. Last night he said his complaint is not against the officers of the department, but he said if he cannot get the desired information from the police chief, he will get it from a new chief.

Describing Judge Wearing as "biased, top-heavy, and one-sided," he protested that the Judge "leans against investigations."

"Surely an every-day county court judge cannot come into London from Peterborough and tell you people how to run our city," he said.

Money taken from poker bettors is placed on "dummies" and reaches the pockets of "touts," he said. The chief had told him of the difficulties of getting convictions, but he said he does not want convictions, but only to drive the gambling places out of business.

TOWN REVERTS TO LAMP DAYS

Council Shuts Electric Light Off After Losing Court Case to Citizens.

DEMANDS NEW TRIAL.

BLAIRMORE, Alta., April 13.—(C.P.)—Almost forgotten days, when coal oil lamps and candles provided illumination for the homes and places of business in Blairmore, were on the way back to-day. From attic store rooms, old ornate parlor lamps and the plainer "Kitchener smoker" were brought out today as Blairmore housewives prepared for a "dark night." Others, not so fortunate, had secured a plentiful supply of candles.

By order of the city council, electric power in Blairmore will be cut off to-night at midnight. The council, charging they have been denied justice, issued the order early this week. In a recent court case a local resident won an appeal before a district court after conviction by a magistrate of stealing electricity. The council wants the case re-opened and demands the Attorney-General take action. Otherwise Blairmore will remain a "lamp-lit" town.

Blairmore, with a population of 1,400, is an important mining centre in the Crow's Nest Pass. Mines in the area will not be affected as they have their own power services.

DENY PERUVIAN TREASURE TALE

$50,000,000 IN CACHE.

SYDNEY, Australia, April 13. —(A.P.)—Tales of the discovery of buried Peruvian treasures valued at $50,000,000 sprang up to-day coincident with the return of an Anglo-French schooner expedition to the Tuamotu Archipelago in the South Pacific.

The leader of the expedition, which included a mining engineer, a chemist, a submarine engineer and a London newspaperman, denied gold had been found, but said the party had located the submerged island sought.

On this island, according to a private map now in safe-keeping in a Tahiti bank, is a gold trove buried many years ago.

The leaders of the expedition are planning to return to the site in June, 1935.

It was reported from Pepeete, Tahiti, Wednesday, that the expedition had located an enormous cache of pirate gold on a lonely South Seas island and that the French Government had ordered a guard posted and had taken steps to claim half of any treasure found.

Obituary

MRS. ELIZA JANE MOYNES
The death occurred on Thursday of Mrs. Eliza Jane Moynes of Fenelon Falls, at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Sarah Payne of North Monaghan Township. She was 72 years of age, and passed away after a brief illness.

A daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Brockenshire, the deceased was a native of Fenelon Falls and had spent the greater part of her life in that district, where she was held in great respect and affection.

Predeceased by her husband, she leaves one brother, John Albert Moynes of Fenelon Falls; also two sisters, Mrs. John Palmer of Fenelon Falls and Mrs. Sarah Payne of North Monaghan Township.

The funeral is to be held on Saturday at 2 p.m. from Zion United Church, Fenelon Township, with the Rev. Isaac Snell officating.

Interment at Zion Cemetery.

STEVENS TO USE PROBE FINDINGS IN MARKET ACT

May Take No Action Till Price Spread, Mass Buying Inquiry Ends.

TRUCKERS ASSAILED.

Stockmen Agree Shipping Direct to Packers Bad for Trade and Farmers.

OTTAWA, April 13.—(CP)—Implementation of some of the findings of the price spreads and mass buying committee of the Natural Marketing Act now before the House of Commons appeared as a possibility today following a statement made in the committee yesterday by Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce and the chairman of the committee.

The Marketing Bill as it stands is broad enough in its terms to effect a new set-up for the livestock trade which has been the subject of the committee's scrutiny for the past week or so. Mr. Stevens intimated, however, the bill might not be proceeded with until the committee had made its findings. The next meeting of the committee on Monday will consider the question.

Yesterday's sitting of the committee was again devoted to livestock and three Toronto stockmen gave evidence. All were agreed the present widely followed practice of farmers shipping direct to packing plants instead of to the livestock markets was bad for the trade and bad for the farmers.

Bonus for Truckers
Truck operators, Ross Chapman stated, were in some cases paid a bonus to take livestock direct to the packing plants.

The truckers further, he said, were not content to sell livestock, particularly when this involved matching wits with the skilled and marketwise packing company buyers. Another count against the truckers was that they, in some cases, did not render a proper accounting to the farmers who entrusted their livestock to them. They simply turned over the money and the farmers had no way of knowing whether he was getting the best possible price.

The committee also heard an argument from Harry Talbot, a Toronto commission merchant, against the contention present commissions for the sale of stock on the open markets are excessive. He claimed if they were lowered the firms would be forced out of business. The business was not highly profitable at present but a lower return would mean disaster.

Pair Given Prison Terms For Assault

LINDSAY, April 13 (Special to Examiner).—The Police Court was crowded to overflowing capacity today when two local men, John Walton and Frank Brimmel, appeared before Magistrate Jordan to answer to the charge of assault with intent to do bodily harm.

This case is the outcome of a vicious assault on Charles Lee, Chinaman, and manager of the Capitol Cafe on Sunday, April 8th. County Crown Attorney Anderson, in reviewing the case, told of the attack upon Lee by the two men, and severely castigated Brimmel, who is a married man, and who has appeared in court before. Lee is still in hospital, suffering from the serious injuries received. The accused were sentenced to three months in the Ontario Reformatory and seven months indefinite.

Relief Officers Meet In Toronto

A. G. Metheral city relief officer, was in Toronto yesterday attending the conference of relief administrators of the larger centres of the province with J. A. Ellis, secretary of the Ontario Unemployment Relief Committee. Various phases of relief administration were discussed, particularly the government's proposal to increase food allowances 25 per cent.

Mr. Metheral said that everything about the meeting was requested to be kept secret. No definite program was decided upon, he declared.

SOCIETIES MEET IN MILLBROOK

W.A. of St. Andrew's Church and League of Grace Church Meet.

PLAN FUTURE EVENTS

MILLBROOK, April 13 (Examiner Correspondence)—The vice-president, Mrs. (Dr.) L. H. Rae, presided at the April meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Andrew's Church, held on Wednesday; the president, Mrs. W. W. Jones, being unavoidably absent.

Forty or more members were in attendance, and the business of the day was concerned with the quilting at the May meeting, Mrs. J. Spence and Mrs. A. J. Henderson being responsible; workers will gather at the church at 9 a.m. to set up the quilts, and the Mission Band, under Mrs. P. Stinson, will serve tea, adding to its funds in this manner annually.

Allocation Cut $75

The treasurer announced that fourteen annual members have paid their fees to date, and Miss Hetherington reminded the gathering that the allocation this year, while down by $75, is still $500 for the three organizations, divided into $350 for th Auxiliary, $100 for the Circle, and $50 for the Band.

Mrs. Ross Edmunds, convenor of Group "B," took the chair for the program; Mrs. D. Lunn reading the devotional leaflet, "Jesus in Jerusalem," and Mrs. H. W. Johnston and her sister, Mis E. Hansman, of Port Hope, being heard in duet, "I Looked to Him." The Easter Responsive service, "Loving and Living," gave everyone an opportunity to take part, Mrs. F. A. Kidd taking the Easter message in scripture. The study book chapter on the present religious situation in China was taken up by the leader, Mrs. McDowell, Mrs. George, and Mrs. W. Theobald, Mrs. Rae closing the meeting with prayer.

Grace Women's League

The April meeting of the Women's League of Grace Presbyterian Church was held Wednesday; the president, Mrs. Charles Thorndyke, occupying the chair.

The secertary, Miss Ethel McKnight, read a letter of thanks from Mrs. F. J. Deyell for fruit sent during her illness, and the discussion of business items included the decision to pay for the repairs needed for the windows of the church; the Board of Managers to see that the work is done in a proper manner.

On motion of Mrs. J. H. Paul and Miss Mary Eagleson, it was decided to purchase new offering plates for the church, the president and Mrs. J. R. Eakins to buy same. Each member was expected to donate one dozen eggs at the April meeting, and these were gathered; those who had not brought the eggs giving the price of one dozen instead; talent money was also handed in, amounting to $3.00.

On account of bad roads and weather, the atetndarice was smaller than usual, and it was decided to hold a second meeting on April 24, at the home of Mrs. Mervan Kinsman, when afternoon tea will be served. The committee made responsible for program and tea were Mrs. Kinsman, Mrs. W. T. Deyell, Mrs. S. Weatherup, Mrs. H. R. Williams, Mrs. E. L. Armsrong Mrs. J. D. Armstrong, and Mrs. H. C. Lord.

The meeting was dismissed with prayer, and a social hour enjoyed though the tea which had been intended for Wednesday's gathering was dispensed with; left over until the second special meeting arranged for April.

Home and School Association News

QUEEN MARY SCHOOL

The April meeting of the Queen Mary Home and School Association was held in the hall of the school on Monday evening.

The president, Mrs. J. E. Middleton, presided and opened the meeting with the Lord's Prayer. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and adopted and several items of business discussed. It was decided to hold the paper collection this week and to continue the supply of milk during April. Several bills and a donation to the Courtice memorial were authorized to be paid.

The creed of the association was then read after which Mr. C. E. Clark gave a very pleasing solo.

Mrs. F. L. Roy, the delegate of the association to the Home and School convention in Toronto, at Easter, gave a most interesting and informative report. Many helpful ideas and suggestions were given which should prove an inspiration to the association and help them to carry on in a bigger and better way.

Miss Cairns' room again won the banner.

Mr. Clark again delighted all with a solo and the meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

It is interesting to use prepared cereals with your foods instead of the usual flour and bread crumbs. These cereals are handy to use and good to taste.

Today's Recipes

Baked Fish—(Spencer Method)—One pound fish fillets, one-third cup milk, salt, two cups corn flakes or crisped wheat or rice, two tablespoons cooking oil. Cut the fish into pieces for serving. Dip in salted milk. Roll the cereal into fine crumbs. Dip fish into cereal crumbs, arrange on well greased baking sheet and bake in a hot oven, 500 degrees Fahrenheit, for about ten minutes. This amount serves four.

FACTS AND FANCIES

Luncheon Rolls

One cake yeast, one cup milk, scalded and cooled; two tablespoons sugar, three cups sifted flour, three tablespoons butter, one egg white, one-third teaspoon salt. Dissolve yeast and sugar in milk which has been scalded and cooled to lukewarm. Add one and one-half cups flour and beat well. Add sugar and fat creamed together and egg white, well beaten. Then add remainder of flour and salt. Knead lightly. Turn into a greased bowl and set in a warm place to rise until double in bulk. Remove from bowl, shape, let rise and bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees, ten to fifteen minutes.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

A well-known magazine writer, who usually spends her summers as a life guard at a northern beach, was commenting the other day on the apparently lack of pride some girls denote by revealing their poorly-proportioned figures in scanty bathing suits. She claims that before donning a bathing suit, every girl should look over her figure, and then feast or fast as she sees fit. And there's a good deal of wisdom in those words.

Personally, however, I think that there are going to be just as many girls feasting in order to gain, this season, as there are girls fasting in order to reduce. For women are beginning to realize that soft, slender contours are more lovely than thin, sharp, angular lines. They're beginning to realize that the too-thin girl is just as far from figure loveliness as is the fat girl.

As I told you recently, any normal girl can gain weight through proper dieting and through the aid of tonics such as cod liver oil and halibut liver oil. But another important thing is that the thin lass also should exercise. There are many girls who believe that exercise is only for fat women. And they're afraid that if they're too active, they may become even thinner than they already are.

This idea is entirely wrong, of course. For exercise helps women to gain weight and acquire curves just as effectively as it does to assist heavy women in losing weight. Exercise makes the tissues active and healthy. And when a thin woman exercises, firm smooth muscle develops in her undernourished tissues. For the exercise stimulates her circulation and enables the blood to carry nourishment to her starved tissues.

Another reason why the underweight individual should exercise is because, if she is on a weight gaining diet, she may acquire added poundage only on certain parts of her body. As a result, her figure would not appear evenly proportioned. Proper exercising not only helps to develop the body, but also molds it upon harmonious lines. All such exercising, however, should be done with slow, rhythmic movements, in order to relieve nerve tension and to improve the tone of the entire body.

ROSENEATH W.M.S. SPECIAL SERVICE

Mrs. W. M. Thompson Gives Splendid Talk on Mission Work.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, April 13. — The Women's Missionary Society held their Easter Thankoffering service on Sunday morning when Mrs. W. M. Thompson of Cobourg, was the guest speaker and delivered a splendid address on mission work done throughout the country.

Taking her topic from Jerusalem to Jerusalem, the speaker kept her audience interested in her talk, especially when speaking of the leper colony in New Brunswick and the lazaretto building that was built, and is still in use on the shores of New Brunswick.

Mrs. Thompson also referred to Rev. J. E. Davis, a former Wicklow boy, who went as a missionary to India, and after years he contracted leprosy, later coming back to Canada; he worked on a farm near Cobourg until his death in 1916. Rev. Mr. Davis was one of the greatest missionaries and his name lives on forever.

With the spirit of giving quoted the speaker said "What is given is all given back to us again." Our gifts may be small, but great things can be accomplished out of small remnants.

Mrs. Delbert Brisbin read a passage of Scripture from St. John's Gospel, chapter 15.

Prayers were offered by the pastor, Rev. R. W. Paton, and the missionary hymns, with the anthems, "Awakening Chorus," and "Show the World just where you are," were exceedingly well rendered by a full choir under the direction of Mrs. Lily Turner.

The offering was most gratifying, amounting to $16.73.

HEPBURN, PARLIAMENT, TO ADDRESS CONVENTION

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent.)

CAMPBELLFORD, April 13. — The Hon. Nelson Parliament, Provincial Liberal Leader Mitchell F. Hepburn, and W. A. Fraser, M.P., will be the three main speakers when Northumberland Liberals met in convention at Warkworth on Wednesday, April 25th, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the coming Provincial election. This date has been definitely settled upon and all arrangements made for the convention, which will be held in the Town Hall on the above day, commencing at 1.30 p.m

Your Health
By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

There seems to be no question that it is a great disadvantage to be a male, so far as the possiblity of serious disease is concerned.

This startling conclusion is based upon very careful studies that have recently been reported from one of the large clinics of the country in the official bulletin of The American College of Physicians.

Considering those diseases which are common to both sexes, the male is afflicted far oftener than the female, and that is not entirely due to the bad habits that man acquires, I am happy to be able to report that it applies also to diseases which cause death before birth. "Venery, alcoholism, exposure, overwork, and various other factors, may influence the susceptibility to disease and the greater mortality of the adult male, but they are only straws placed on the greater burden of his sex-linked weakness There seems to be no doubt that, speaking comparatively, the price of maleness is weakness. How ironical, therefore, seems the precept of the apostle: 'Give honor unto the wife as unto the weaker vessel'."

For instance, in diseases of the digestive tract, the only diseases which affect women predominantly more than men are gallstones and cancer of the gall bladder. The poor men have a long list of things, with perforated duodenal ulcer, and including cancer of the large bowel, cardiospasm, acute appendicitis and sarcoma of the stomach, all more frequently than women do. When it comes to diseases of the heart and circulatory system, it looks as if nature just naturally went out and put the women aside and knocked the men on the head right and left. Only two diseases in this group are more frequent in women than in men—varicose veins and mitral endocarditis.

So it goes. What is the cause of it? Nobody knows. Philosophy might say that a wise nature, knowing the male to be numerically less important in the scheme of reproduction, is less careful of them. But it is strange that she should conceive them in superabundance only immediately to begin to reduce their number by death.

The nutrition rate (metabolism) of males is a little higher than females. It is thought that femaleness is characterized by preponderant building up of tissues, and maleness by preponderant tearing down.

Of some practical importance in these studies is the fact that at least one disease, hemophilia (spontaneous bleeding) occurs only in males, and may be checked in them by the use of the female sex hormone. It is possible that the same treatment might apply to certain other strictly male diseases.

It is strange that with all this there should not be an evident preponderance of women in the world, but apparently the diseases which are peculiar to them, especially the risks of childbirth, seem to even up the scales. Perhaps there are more old women in the world than men; I never happened to notice.

Weddings

OLAN—PATTERSON

MILLBROOK, April 13 (Examiner Correspondence) — An early spring wedding was quietly solemnized at the parsonage, King St. on Wednesday, April 11, at three p.m. when Edith Martha, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Patterson, of Carmel, formerly of Peterborough, became the bride of Luther Wellington Olan, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Olan, Rev. W. W. Jones, B.D., officiating.

The bride, who wore a becoming blue ensemble, was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret Patterson, whose suit and hat with matching accessories were in silver grey, while the groom was supported by Mr. Austin Warr. Following the ceremony return was made to the home of the bride's parents, where the wedding dinner was served.

Upon return from their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Olan will reside on the home farm at Carmel.

Mrs. W. R. Widdess of 292 Stewart street lent her home on Wednesday afternoon for a delightful and well attended Tea Musicale held under the auspices of the Women's Association of Trinity United Church. The guests were received by the hostess and the president of the W.A., Mrs. F. C. Neal. Assistants in the living room were Mrs. W. A. Sanderson, Mrs. J. Wolstenholm and Miss Tena Mathers. Mrs. N. D. Seaton was convenor of arrangements for tea, assisted by Mrs. G. N. Gordon and Mrs. G. E. Porter. The tea table was lovely with a lace cloth and a centerpiece in a beautiful bowl of shaded green and yellow glass filled with yellow roses. Sheffield silver candlesticks held green candles and a handsome silver service completed the attractive tea table arrangement. Tea was poured by Mrs. F. C. Wooton and Mrs. J. J. McBain, and assistants were Mrs. F. C. Ferrier, Mrs. R. Cowan, Mrs. R. Nichols, Miss Lulu Morrow, Miss Leone Walsh and Miss Margaret Widdis. A table of home-made candy, in charge of Mrs. R. J. Kidd, assisted by Mrs. D. Bissell and Mrs. G. S. Mattice, was prettily done with a cloth of yellow. The Easter color scheme was repeated in the silver of the bowl that held yellow daffodils, lavender phlox and pussy willows, and the lavender and yellow colorings of the pretty boxes of candy. At this table a novelty on sale were dainty bags of lavender flowers. A table of home-made cooking was looked after by Mrs. J. Juby, in the sun room, and Mrs. A. Fife acted as treasurer. An enjoyable program rendered during the tea hour and supervised by Miss Mabel Clarry, included vocal and instrumental numbers. Mrs. R. Cowan sang, "Who'll Buy My Lavender?" and "When Maidens Go-A-Maying"; Miss Alma Blanchard sang "Bird Songs at Eventide" and "Where My Caravan has Rested"; Miss Margaret Wolstenholm sang "A Prayer in Absence" and "Wake Up"; Miss Loreen Piper's piano solo was Chopin's Scherzo in B flat Minor, and the Borland Trio (Mrs. C. P. Borland, pianiste, Bob Borland, violinist, Jack Borland, 'cellist), played "A la Bien Aime" and Chaminade's "Serenade." The accompaniments for the singers were played by Miss Clarry.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Men are forever making fun of the litte finger towels which adorn the bathroom towel racks on party nights. They say they are too tiny and too thin for any good use—and we sympathize with the men, for more often than not the whole towel is wet through the minute we pick one up.

* * * * * * *

Here is our idea of a remedy. Party towels designed especially for men. Make them of heavy linen, and make them in colors which are strong and bright, not any pastels. Then don't hang them daintily and forbiddingly, but put a nice big pile of them on the bathroom table or shelf where a man is apt to grab one.

* * * * * * *

If the bathroom is done in pale blue, yellow, pink or lavender, the men's towels should be in the strong, deep shades which blend with the light color scheme. Tans and browns, navy and light blue, deep purple (some red is sure to catch the eye) any of the stronger tones will help take the curse off the diminutive size. And even the size of the men's towel might be a little larger than the usual modern finger towel.

* * * * * * *

Try some of these special men's towels from some of your old linen costumes, and see if they are not popular with husbands you know.

BOOK, 'NEGRO ANTHOLOGY' BANNED FROM TRINIDAD

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, April 13. (C. P. Cable).—The "Negro Anthology" written by Miss Nancy Cunard, daughter of the British shipping family, was banned from Trinidad to-day by an executive order-in-council.

The order described the book as a "seditious" publication, though it was not stated immediately what sections of Miss Cunard's work had been objected to by the legislators.

Most of the book was written in New York's Harlem section after Miss Cunard had been disinherited by her mother for associating with negro artists. She lived in a hotel in the negro district to be "close to her subject."

Miss Cunard is the daughter of the late Bach Cunard and Lady Cunard, the former Maude Alice Burke of New York and California.

South African Relics Restored By The King

LONDON, April 13.—(C. P. Cable) — Restoration by His Majesty of two historic relics to South Africa, after they had lain in Windsor Castle for years, was announced today. They are the flag of the short-lived Stelleland republic and a silken banner combining the flags of the Transvaal and Free State Boer republics, the latter presented by the women of Pretoria to General Botha during the Boer War.

Stelleland existed as a republic from 1883 to 1885 and the flag mentioned is the only one that was made. It was delivered to General Sir Charles Warren, commander of the 1885 expedition for the pacification of Southern Bechuanaland, with the request he would present it to Queen Victoria "That she may be pleased to keep the Stellelanders under her protection."

COOKING SCHOOL BROUGHT TO END WITH BIG DRAW

PRIZE WINNERS.

(By Jean Wagar)

"Happy to meet, sorry to part, hoping to meet again," seemed to be the keynote of the last session of The Examiner Cooking School for this year, when the crowds filled the last seats in the topmost gallery of the Grand Opera House.

Frances, Thompson, who has won a sure place in the hearts of Peterborough women, was her brightest and most radiant self and her inspired cooking was accompanied by a rapid fire of witty comment that kept her audience in constant good humor.

One of the most noticeable things about the school is that one sees so many of the same people present at every session, many of them arriving early enough in the afternoon to get into the front row every day. This is not only a tribute to the lecturer but also the home-making insincts which inspire women to reach out for further instruction in housewifely arts.

Days Not Wasted

A sure evidence that they feel these three days have not been wasted was the regret evinced by many of them that the classes were over for this year, and the hope expressed that another school would be held next Spring, if not before that.

Seldom has any enterprise gained such popularity in Peterborough, and Miss Thompson, the conductor of the class, ha s been unanimously invited to pay a return visit.

This last day was the best of all. There were many special and popular dishes demonstrated, some of which were of a decidedly masculine flavor.

You know if the "chief" is being brought home to dinner, or if there is to be a stag party at your house, take the tip and serve something like Miss Thompson's Roast Pork with Apples, or her delicious Baked Ham, for men like such. There is no doubt but that a man would rather have more of the same than a little of something else, for men prefer lots of food to dainty dishes —food that is easy to eat and does not require a surreptitious chasing around one's plate only to have it evade your fork and scoot on the tablecloth.

These meat dishes meet all his requirements, while if you want a meal that simply can't go wrong, serve the sausage rolls which were made from Thursday's program.

Isn't it a pity that so many people have so little interest in cooking they always serve the same thing in the same way, when they might have, for instance, Salada Raisin Cup Cake. Just a slight variation in ingredients—that cup of strong Salada tea—instead of milk—yet it makes all the difference in the world both as to flavor and coloring.

"Ginger Snap" Sauce for baked fish is another new adventure in varying menus. Here's a thrilling answer to the age-old problem, "What shall I serve for luncheon to-day or supper to-night?"

It takes dessert to bring dinner to a happy ending, so Miss Thompson introduced a new-comer among delicious desserts—Vi-Tone Mousse, made from this simple recipe: Half can caramelized condensed milk; 6 tablespoons Vi-Tone; 2 cups whipped cream (beaten stiffly).

Method—Caramelize the contents of one can condensed milk by boiling it for three hours. When removed from can take half the quantity and mix with the Vi-Tone. Add the whipped cream and turn into tray of the General Electric refrigerator until firm. Note: This dessert will keep in the refrigerator indefinitely without going flaky. Its so easy—try it.

Though Spring may be just around the corner, like prosperity, Old Winter still keeps a tight handclasp. However, we can once in a while evade him and have "tropical" viands if not warm weather. Then, too, the question, "What did I serve them last time?" never comes up, when we serve Tropcal Toasted Sandwiches, for they are entirely new, and very delicious. The filling is just a cup of grated cheese, ¼ cup of seedless raisins, and one-third of cup of finely chopped pineapple, and everybody loves them.

Dramatic Event

Making a cake is really quite dramatic. There is something fascinating in watching an expert blend the butter and sugar into a creamy foamy mass, stir in the egg, incorporate the Purity flour, milk and flavoring, and the all-needful Egg-O, and finally whip the entire contents into a smooth, delicately-fragrant batter.

Even while waiting for the oven to do its work, the crowd sat in pleasant suspense.

When the light, tender, golden layers appear, the action was brought to a grand climax, especially when the ladies learned that a prize was to be offered for just such a cake in the near future.

Enjoyed the School

Before bidding her friends (as Miss Thompson always refers to her audience) good-bye, our lecturer said she knew that the ladies had all enjoyed the school, because of their splendid attendance and excellent attention. She expressed her indebtedness to The Examiner and thanked them, as she graciously presented Mr. Glover, the president, with the luscious Baked Ham, and Mr. Taylor with a lemon pie. Miss Thompson also expressed her appreciation for the many courtesies extended her by the local merchants and manufacturers.

Mr. Glover, of The Examiner, in a few brief words, expressed his thanks to everyone who had entered into the spirit of this great enterprize, especially the lecturer, Miss Thompson, and her aide, Miss Vincent. This year's school, he said, is believed to be the best yet sponsored by The Examiner, and thanks are due all the merchants who assisted in making it so great a success.

Real camaraderie existed and the classes each day were eagerly awaited and the ladies of Peterborough will retain many pleasant memories of this 1934 school.

The final list of prize-winners was greatly augmented by the presentation of the major prizes, which included many pieces of equipment. Thursday's first prize was won by Mrs. W. H. Wheeler, who in turn drew the coupons for the other happy winners; Miss Vincent drawing for the major prizes. The list appears as follows:

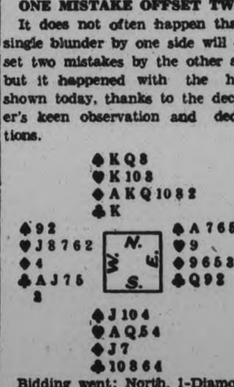
ONE MISTAKE OFFSET TWO

It does not often happen that a single blunder by one side will offset two mistakes by the other side, but it happened with the hand shown today, thanks to the declarer's keen observation and deductions.



Bidding went: North, 1-Diamond: South, 1-Heart; instead of forcing with a bid of 3 diamonds, North made the mistake of bidding 4 diamonds. His partner wnodering whether it was possible that a small slam could result, intending to bid 5 diamonds, thought of the possible which East doubled, North and South had made two mistakes. Now West made a single blunder which threw his partner off.

Only a king lead, when partner has ace or queen, or in case he can ruff the third round, does one echo. When East led his ace of spades, West should have played his 2, to request a shift, but he made the mistake of playing his 9, which could be proper only in case he held the missing king. North dropped his queen to leave future entry to dummy. East led his 7 of spades. Dummy played the 10, West the 2 and North won with the king.

The next six tricks were won in trumps. East followed suit four times, then he discarded two low spades. Dummy played two trumps and discarded four clubs. West played a single trump. Next he echoed with the 5 and 3 of clubs, to show his ace. West let go his 2 of hearts, then he discarded his 7 of clubs, followed by his jack.

At the end of the eighth trick West had shown plainly that he was holding the lone ace of clubs and four hearts—presumably headed by the missing jack. When one is able to finesse either way it is customary to lead high from the short end of the suit and finesse the longer end. Instead of laying down his king of hearts, then either finessing the lower honor or trying to drop hearts in three high leads, the declarer led low from his hand. Dummy's queen of hearts won. A low heart was led from dummy and the declarer won with his 10. He led his king of that suit. Dummy was put in the lead with its good jack of spades, winning the twelfth trick. Upon dummy's ace of hearts the declarer let go his only club, thus fulfilling his small slam contract. The jumped bid by North indicated strength in his partner's hearts, making East's second lead a club.

Three Children Leap To Safety From Fire

CHARLOTTETOWN, April 13. — (C.P.).—Three children, trapped in a burning tenement house here today, were rescued by a group of men who ripped off the main door and held it above their heads on the steps while the three jumped on it from a second storey window.

The fire raced quickly through the three-storey structure and made 23 persons homeless. Most of the tenants fled in night clothes. When the alarm was given out the three children of Mrs. P. Callahan lagged behind and met a wall of flame when they attempted to run down the stairway.

The building, corner of King and Pawnal Streets, was owned by Willard Jordan, who said he could not readily estimate the loss. Firemen thought it would be about $1,000.

266,850 SLUM HOUSES TO GO DURING AMBITIOUS CRUSADE

Government Provides Work For 110,000 In Five-Year Campaign

MOVE THOUSANDS

London.—Details of the government's plan for ridding Britain of slums were issued recently in a white paper. Within five years, according to the programs submitted by local authorities, the government has planned to demolish 266,851 slum houses, build 285,189 new houses, rehouse 1,240,189 people, spend £115,000,000.

This is the result of the government's decision to generate a national movement to deal with the housing problem, and to end the evil of slumdom by more concentrated and speedier methods.

Local authorities were requested last April to submit their schemes for removing slums. Out of 1,716 local authorities 1,428 have produced schemes which have been approved and accepted by the ministry of health.

These schemes cover areas in which lives 90 per cent. of the population of England and Wales—36,000,000 people.

The programs of 288 local authorities have yet to be approved. These will provide another 12,000 houses and rehouse 53,000 people.

Fifty-two authorities, most of them comparatively small, have not yet submitted schemes.

Appoint Housing Minister

Publication of the program, which is in the nature of a housing crusade, revived the speculations regarding the appointment of a special housing minister to handle the situation.

Obviously it is a matter requiring concentrated attention, and as Geoffrey Shakespeare, parliamentary secretary to the ministry of health, has been in such close touch with all thep reliminary organization of the campaign, it was suggested that he might be permanently placed in charge of a special department to ensure the success of the crusade.

In view of the government's proposals, it is of interest to note that since 1875 (a period of 58 years) 198,000 people have been removed from slums.

Under the crusade, in which the local authorities must play a big part, it is estimated, and with optimism asserted, that 248,000 people will on an average be removed from slums and rehoused each year for the next five years.

According to official estimates, within five years the slum problem will have been solved. To complete the survey and assist the progress of the programs the housing staff of the ministry of health has been increased.

The capital cost of the campaign is to be £115,000,000. The exchequer contribution in the first year will be £620,000. This sum will rise to £3,100,000 in the fifth year, at which figure it will remain over a period of 40 years.

60 MILES SEPARATE TWINS' BIRTHPLACES

One Child Born Two Days After Other

London.—A woman has given birth to twins, one child being born 60 miles from the birthplace of the other, and 48 hours afterwards.

Some weeks ago Mrs. James McLennan gave birth to a child in her home on the tiny island of Scarpa. She was attended by an untrained midwife of 86, who considered it essential that the mother should have more skilled attention.

Mrs. McLennan embarked on a 60-mile journey over rocky paths, the open sea, and finally landed at Stornoway, where she gave birth to a second child. At Scarpa Mrs. McLennan and her baby were put in an open boat and rowed to the neighboring island of Harris, where they underwent another journey by road until Mrs. McLennan could be placed in expert hands, and prepared for the further land and sea journey to Stornoway.

KING AND SOLDIERS STALK EACH OTHER

No Harm Meant In Search For Raiders

Cairo.—An adventure of King Alfonso during his recent big-game hunting expedition in the Sudan, in which his party and a patrol of the Eastern Arab Corps mistook one another for raiders and spent some time stalking each other, was described by the king's aide-de-camp.

The incident took place in the Rinder river area, and when both parties, after much cautious stalking, became satisfied that neither meant the other harm, they met.

The Arab corps detachment was under an English officer, who recognized King Alfonso, and explained that his patrol was on the look-out for Abyssinian raiders.

He said the king had got a wonderful bag of various game, including a lioness—it was the king's ambition to bag a lion. The king also had an exciting elephant chase. He hunted an old elephant from 10 a.m. till sunset, but with no effect.

CENTENARIAN ENJOYS LIFE

Sleeps Few Hours, Reads Novels and Plays Whist

London.—Meet the centenarian with the school-girl complexion — Mrs. Sarah Guy, of Freegrove Rd., Holloway, who celebrated her 103rd birthday recently.

In addition to possessing a creamy complexion which many a young girl might envy, Mrs. Guy is unlike the majority of her generation.

She likes the modern girl. She does not object to lipstick, rouge, powder, silk stockings, long skirts, short skirts, or even shorts for sports. She reads a minimum of six novels a week. She walks up and downstairs by herself. She retains her passion for whist. And she has no formula for old age. "I go to bed late and get up early—I like it," she says.

BATSMAN FINDS REST BY CORNISH SHORES

"Duleep" Lives as Hermit to Regain Health

Bodmin.—In a quiet little village nestling in a secluded Cornish bay 30 miles from here, K. S. Duleepsinhji, once England's most promising batsman, is living almost the life of a hermit, thinking only of one thing—getting well again.

It was the development of his illness at the height of his cricket career which prevented him from travelling with the English Test team to Australia in September, 1932.

Since then he has been moving from place to place seeking only the quiet and solitude which are essential for his recovery. He is the only guest in the hotel there, and he sees fewer than half a dozen different people, for he rarely leaves his rooms.

ENGINEER CHASES OWN LOCOMOTIVE

Catches Driverless Engine on Upgrade After Pursuit In Auto

Paris.—A goods train that ran away from its driver and stoker, and was only stopped after a motor car pursuit, nearly caused a collision on a single-track railway line from Chatillon-sur-Seine to Troyes.

The train had pulled up on the line, and both driver and stoker had got down from the cab to examine the trucks, when the locomotive started again. The driver and stoker rushed after it, but it gathered speed so quickly that they were unable to overtake it.

They stopped a motorist passing on a road running parallel to the railway, and drove to the nearest telephone. Calling up a stationmaster several miles further down the line, they told him what had happened, and that official hurriedly had a passenger train, which was going towards the driverless train, diverted into a siding.

Meantime the motorist, the driver, and stoker dashed in pursuit of the runaway. They caught it up at a gradient where it had slowed down through lack of steam pressure, and the driver clambered into his engine and stopped it.

LEARNS OF FORTUNE AFTER DECADE PAST

Money Lies Unclaimed Till Chance Meeting

Liss.—The wife of a grocer in this village has come into a fortune of £6,000 after it had been lying in wait for her for 10 years.

She is Mrs. E. Fox, who over 25 years ago, and before she was married, was a companion-help to a Mrs. Matthew of Herne Hill, London.

Mrs. Matthew suffered a breakdown in health and, while she was being treated, Mrs. Fox, though no longer in her employ, was a constant visitor until she married and went with her husband to the Isle of Man.

Visiting London recently, Mrs. Fox met by chance a nurse who had been in attendance on Mrs. Matthew, who died 10 years ago. The nurse congratulated Mrs. Fox on her good fortune, of which she had heard nothing.

Later she learned that a firm of solicitors had been advertising for her in her maiden name and wished to tell her that she had been left the entire estate of Mrs. Matthew.

NOW FOR THE STRETCH AND PLAUDITS OF THE CROWDS

Oh, to be in England now that April's here! No doubt the poet was thinking of the racing season in the old land, with its picturesque crowds and animated wagering. "SPIRIT WORLD A REALITY" SIR OLIVER LODGE CLAIMS

Tells World All Is Well In What May Be Last Broadcast

WHISPERS MESSAGE

London.—With a whispered "Goodby," Sir Oliver Lodge, the scientist, who is 83, recently bade what he himself admitted might be his farewell to Great Britain.

He was speaking on a radio hook-up in a series of talks about the "Unknown," and after delivering a very impressive address on his absolute belief in life after death he ended with a most moving epilogue:

"I am greatful to the authorities of the B.B.C. for allowing me to express my mature convictions unhampered in what may possibly prove my last talk to you," he said. "If it should happen that my work down here is done, or nearly done, let me take an effectionate farewell. Goodby."

His voice which throughout had been rather quiet, faded in the last word to little more than a sigh.

His talk must especially have touched those who have lost children, for he said: "I constantly receive letters from bereaved people who are in deep distress at the loss of children or young persons.

"I can only pass on the information that has been vouchsafed to me and assure them that all is well with their loved ones and that the children are taken care of by good people.

"The veil between the two worlds is wearing thin. It is possible, given the right conditions, to communicate with those we call the dead.

"They are still mindful of our love for them, and they reciprocate it fully. They are hurt by our excessive grief at their loss.

"They do not think of themselves as dead, but as now fully alive, free of the clogging body. They assure us that all is well with them and that love bridges the chasm."

During his address Sir Oliver Lodge stated that he himself had been convinced of survival after death since 1889.

FOUR BOYS ARRIVE AT WEE GIRL'S HOME

Stork's Burden Leaves Mother Happy, Father Speechless

Birmingham.—Four boys were born to Mrs. Ivy Beatrice Hitchins, aged 23. The births took place in the Maternity Hospital, Loveday St., it being the first time quadruplets have been brought into the world in this hospital, which was opened in 1906.

Mrs. Hitchins, who also has a two-year-old daughter, is the wife of a painter and decorator.

"What can a man say about a thing like this?" he asked when congratulated. "The doctor says the boys are perfect. They are up to standard in weight and size. My wife is happy and remarkably well."

"DAVID" LOSES BOUT BUT GAINS OVATION

Boxer "Goliath," Nine Inches Taller, Wins by K.O.

Uxbridge.—The smallest man in the British services—so small that his uniform has to be specially made for him—stepped into the boxing ring here recently—a case of David and Goliath, but David lost.

David is Flight-Sergeant McCarthy. He gave away ten years and nine inches to his opponent, Baxter of Calshot, for he is only four feet ten inches tall, takes No. 5 in boots and is 42 years old.

He only fought because there was no flyweight to represent Uxbridge in the finals and semi-finals against Calshot.

Cries of "slaughter" went up from the ringside when it was announced that he was to meet Baxter.

He fought valiantly amid laughter as his bald head appeared between his opponent's knees. In the second round protests went up to stop the fight.

He finally took the count—but what an ovation he received.

Calshot won by two points.

ACCIDENT TOLL IN VILLAGE

South Mimms. — This village of three thousand people, in Hertfordshire, has an average of one death a week from road accidents. "Our little village seems to be used exclusively by motorists for speeding," the vicar declares.

VAMPIRE BITES BOY CAUSING HIS DEATH

Trinidad Seeks to Destroy Bloodsucking Menace Of Night

Port of Spain.—The vampire bat, bloodsucking terror of the West Indies and of the tropical forests of South America, has claimed another human victim.

An eight-year-old boy has died at Arima, Trinidad, after being bitten by one as he slept.

The bat attacked the boy and he was rushed to hospital. He was found to be suffering from the dreaded Trinidad disease, a form of creeping paralysis, and all efforts made to save him failed.

A small fur-covered animal with a few widely spaced teeth, the vampire, although it exacts a continuous toll of cattle in Trinidad rarely attacks human beings.

During the day it sleeps in caves or hollow trees, appearing by night to seek the blood on which it lives.

When it attacks either human beings or animals as they sleep it is said to pierce the skin and suck the blood without awakening them.

Each year the legislature here appropriates funds to fight the vampire menace. Recently it was claimed that an effective serum had to be found for the paralysis which often results from the animal's bite.

There is a belief among the native people that the souls of the dead occupy the bodies of the vampire bats.

SICK GET POACHER'S BAG

Game, Illegally Shot, Given to Hospital as Laborer Imprisoned

Norwich.—A poacher, now in prison for his offence, has been the means of supplying the patients of the Norfolk and Norwich hospital with a rare delicacy.

William Macrow, a laborer, was charged at East Harling with being in possession of 14 pheasants, a gun and a rabbit. He was sent to prison, and the gun and the pheasants were confiscated. The magistrates thought it a pity that the pheasants should be destroyed, and at their suggestion they were sent to the hospital.

The secretary wrote that the pheasants had duly arrived, and were much appreciated.

VICAR IS THOUGHTFUL

WITH GIRL TIED TO HIM MAN LEAPS INTO CANAL

Tragedy Mars Romance Near Shakespeare Memorial Thearte

WAS UNEMPLOYED

Stratford-on-Avon. — A 22-year-old girl described here how a young man of whom she was very fond tied her to him with her scarf and then leaped into a canal lock where, still bound to her, he died.

The girl, Ethel Langston of Coseley, was giving evidence at the inquest on Albert Gough, aged 22, of Cross St., Bradley.

Men heard the cries of a woman and found Miss Langston struggling in the water with Gough's body tied to her by a scarf.

In answer to the coroner Miss Langston said: "He got me there and I begged him to come home. He said he had no money and I told him people would give us help if we went and asked.

"He then took my scarf from my neck. I was too terrified to speak. The next thing I recollect was that he gave a leap and I was pulled into the water with him.

"I yelled and Albert put his hand over my mouth, but I pushed it away. The last thing I remember about him was that I looked into his face and saw he was dead.

"I felt him pulling me under and I tried to keep him up. Then I grabbed something—I did not know what it was."

She told the coroner that she had not wished to do anything like this and had no idea what Gough was about when he started to tie her up.

She was very fond of him and was very happy, but he was depressed because he was out of work.

TOWER TO HONOR DEAD

Liverpool. — Gifts amounting to £220,000 to pay for the building of the 327-foot tall central tower of the new Liverpool Anglican cathedral are to be given by Lord Vestey and Sir Edmund Vestey in memory of their father and mother, the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Vestey.

The gifts were made known to the cathedral executive committee in a letter from the chairman, Sir Frederick Radcliffe.

WAR VETERAN DIES AGED TWENTY-ONE

Pigeon Wounded By Bullet While Carrying Message

Scunthorpe.—V. Parish is mourning the loss of a war veteran who has just died at the age of 21. He was two years old when he "enlisted," but wore no uniform, was nameless and carried no weapons.

He was known to the admiralty as "No. 12," and his war service ended when a German bullet caught him through the wing and he was retired from active service.

The last message "No. 12" carried was torn from his leg by the bullet that pierced his wing, but somehow he managed to reach his destination and was nursed back to health and retirement in the loft.

His death at 21—a big age for a pigeon—means that in all probability the last survivor of the "feathered army" has passed away.

THIS "MONSTER" GROWLS

Yorkshire Steals Loch Ness Thunder, Taking Coastguard's Story

Filey.—Is there another sea monster off the coasts of Britain?

H. Harbert, a coastguard in Yorkshire, claims to have been within six yards of a creature that was:

Thirty feet long, with an 8-foot neck; had a head shaped like that of a tortoise, and a mouth 1-foot wide, and eyes as big as saucers and they glowed like motor-car headlamps.

"It was a most gruesome and thrilling sight," Mr. Harbert said.

He said he was scrambling over a path on Filey Brigg, near the water's edge, in the darkness when he heard a noise like a dozen dogs growling. He switched on his torch and saw the creature.

"I threw stones at it—after retreating some distance. It growled back fiercely, then disappeared into the sea."

FLAMES TAKE TOLL OF STATELY HOMES

Suspect Incendiarism In Fires Where Priceless Paintings Lost

London.—Because of the alarming number of mysterious fires among the "stately homes" of England, an investigation is to be held.

News of the destruction of Lord Fortescue's Devonshire seat, Castle Hill, Filleigh, near South Molton, follows within five weeks the fire which destroyed Gatton Hall, near Reigate, Surrey, the home of Sir Jeremiah Colman, when many art treasures were lost.

Some comment has been aroused by the fact that only recently there was another fire at Castle Hill.

Smoke was seen coming from the cellars, and when Earl Fortescue went into them with a member of his staff, fumes prevented him from reaching the seat of the fire.

South Molton fire brigade found that crude oil burners, which are part of the heating apparatus, were alight on the outside.

There are points of similarity in many of these recent mansion fires which are causing serious public concern. No explanation of fused electric wires, faulty central heating systems, or the overheating of fireplace hearthstones seems to account for the burning of one well-built country house after another.

By a process of elimination only one theory—that of incendiarism on the part of some mysterious arson gang—remains to account for many of them.

Sir Jeremiah has been going two or three times a week to Gatton Hall, and is still seeking some reasonable explanation for the outbreak which occurred while he and his wife were on the Riviera.

MARTYR TO PAIN TO AID HUMANITY

Suicide Requests Doctors Diagnose Her Disease for Others

Liverpool. — For months Gwen Davies of Stanley Rd., Kirkdale, suffered untold agonies.

Doctors examined her, but they were unable to trace her mysterious malady.

In the sundown of life — and that life a burden—the aged woman made an heroic resolve she would martyr herself so that clever surgeons might trace the cause of her agony, and, perhaps, find a way to aid other sufferers.

Mrs. Davies was found gassed in a chair in her home. A note was pinned to her woollen jacket.

It expressed a wish that doctors should make a post-mortem examination in order to find out her complaint, and so help others similarly afflicted.

The local coroner said that a doctor had made a post-mortem in answer to the woman's wishes.

COCK-FIGHTS GO ON AS POLICE MYSTIFIED

Plan International Match, England vs. France

Appleby.—Despite intense activity on the part of the Westmorland police, cock-fighting is still being carried on at secret "mains," and it is now learned that an international match in the Lakeland has been arranged for next month between England and France.

Police know that the match has been arranged—but what they cannot learn is where it is to take place.

Only those "strictly in the know" possess that information; and only once in recent years has such a secret been divulged to the authorities.

That was when one enthusiast told the police in order to settle a score with a rival who had failed to honor a "sportsman's agreement."

Oddly enough, among those said to have been present at an intercounty match on the borders of Westmorland and Lancashire was one of the magistrates who sat on the bench and imposed heavy fines on the enthusiasts arrested with the aid of the "traitor."

SMOKING TO BE ALLOWED ON GIANT NEW ZEPPELIN

World's Largest Air Monster Nearing Completion in Germany

HOT, COLD WATER

Friedrichshafen — Passengers on the new Zeppelin L.Z. 129, now nearing completion in a hangar not far from the shores of Lake Constance, will have many comforts that have never been provided hitherto in a Zeppelin.

The L.Z. 129 is a bigger and better sister ship of the Graf Zeppelin, the dirigible that has worked services across the South Atlantic to South America with clockwork regularity.

The middle section of the new airship, consisting of eight main and 24 auxiliary ribs, with a total length of 363 feet, was finished as far back as last July.

At present only the stern skeleton, with its complicated steering apparatus, remains to be set in position.

Without the stern section, the ship measures 367 feet, but the completed length will be 744 feet—some 40 feet longer than the Graf Zeppelin.

Despite the only slightly greater length, however, the L.Z. 129 will have almost double the gas capacity of the Graf Zeppelin.

Its circumference will be 41.20 metres (134 feet) and the new airship will carry 200,000 cubic metres of gas, as compared with the Graf's 105,000 cubic metres. The new airship will be the largest in the world.

Meanwhile, the interior construction is progressing rapidly. The passenger cabins are nearly finished. They will contain hot and cold water pipes, which are now being laid. The waste water will not be discharged, but run into a special tank to serve as ballast.

Other innovations to be installed in the airship will be an electric lift to facilitate loading and unloading cargo, and huge wheels, fixed to the pilot gondola and the lower fin, to assist landing operations. These wheels can be turned in any direction.

The airship will be the first German airship on which smoking will be permitted. This has been made possible owing to the use in the airship of helium gas, hitherto used only in American airships.

The Zeppelin works have specifically barred silk or wool as covering material. Long experience has shown that silk or artificial silk is not sufficiently waterproof, while wool is lacking in elasticity.

Engineers of the Zeppelin works claim that in varnishing the L.Z. 129, they have greatly improved on the mixture used for the Graf Zep-

OCTOGENARIAN'S PLAN FOR MARRIAGE FOILED

Kidnappers Drive Him Far From Altar

Melbourne—A wedding did not take place at Horsham (Victoria) because the bridegroom—an eighty-year-old retired farmer—was kidnapped when about to leave his home for the church.

Fifteen minutes before the time fixed for the wedding a car drove up. The occupants offered to drive the aged bridegroom to the church. The offer was accepted, but instead of going to the church the car took him to a mysterious hiding place.

PLAN PROTECTION AGAINST PIRATES

Nanking Government Takes Action as Boats Raided

Shanghai.—Following an unprecedented number of piracies along the China coast in the last few months, the Nanking government has adopted several anti-pirate measures to be enforced immediately to insure the protection of ships and passengers in Chinese waters.

By enlarging and improving the efficiency of the navy coast guard, particularly between Shanghai and Hongkong, where piracies have recently occurred with embarassing frequency, government officials hope effectively to check the activities of the buccaneers.

From Chinese warships stationed at places where piracy is frequent, foreign and Chinese steamers are to receive equal protection in the event of trouble. Bias bay, between Hongkong and Swatow, and the mouth of the Yangtse river, the two most notorious of the marauders' strongholds, are to be patrolled with increased vigilance. In the event of steamers going aground or hitting a submerged rock in the Yangtse, the water police will afford protection for vessels in distress are frequently the targets of pirates who, armed with machine-guns and rifles, swarm about the disabled ship in sampans and junks.

Under the new regulations, it is provided that steamers may request a search and examination by the the police or by the navy of suspicious passengers, for more often than not piracies at sea are inside jobs, accomplished by marauders, who, in disguise, board the ill-fated ships in port.

EGYPTIAN BEER MUGS USED BY KING ZOSER

Inscriptions in Ink Found on Cups of Ancient Monarch

Cairo.—Beer mugs and wine cups used by an Egyptian king who ruled in 3000 B.C. are among the remarkable discoveries just unearthed in the tomb of King Zoser.

Excavators of the Egyptian government, who have been exploring the Pyramid Sakkhara, which is erected over Zoser's tomb, came upon great solid stacks of table vessels made of stone. These formed part of the king's funeral furnishings.

There were jugs, cups for wine and beer, and jars which probably contained the perfumed ointments with which the ancient Egyptians anointed their hands in preparation for each meal. The vessels weighed over 60 tons, but the greater part of them were broken in a rock-fall.

Inscriptions in black ink were found on a number of the vessels, with names, texts and titles in very early form of hieratic script. These rare inscriptions are of considerable interest to Egyptologists.

Two alabaster sarcophagi were discovered, containing the remains of two royal ladies, obviously members of the king's family. In one sarcophagus was a coffin made of six-ply cedar wood, indicative of the carpentering skill of early Egyptians.

ELECTRIFY FISH STREAM

Corvallis, Ore. — The school of engineering at Oregon State College is building an "electric fish stream" device to be installed at the new Bonneville power dam on the Columbia river. The electric guideposts under water will guide salmon up "ladders" specially built for them.

LABOR OF SIX YEARS LOST AS OIL GOES UP IN FLAMES

Rejoicing Turns to Gloom When Spouter Hits Electric Cables

BURNS FOR DAYS

Casablanca.—In the streets of Casablanca crowds of Europeans and Arabs stood gazing at a column of glowing red flame and black smoke swirling into the sky on the distant horizon.

For them this pillar of fire in the desert was a beacon signal of the highest hope.

It issued from the first great oil well which has been found on French territory — an oil well which promises to make France independent of foreign oil production. But at the same time it is a signal of bitter chagrin.

Success Crowns Search

For six years an army of prospectors — French, Roumanian, British and American — have been searching the desert mountain for oil. Recently they struck it, under the arid sand and rock of Mount Tselfat, 25 miles from Fort Lyautey.

The oil spouted at such an enormous velocity and in such a vast volume that when it struck some high-tension electric cables fifty feet high, the cables broke like string cut by a razor.

Immediately there was a short circuit. A sheet of flame flashed out, then a thunderous roar as the oil flared up into the sky in a gigantic geyser of liquid fire. Two men standing too near were fatally burned. For six days the fire raged, burning up millions of gallons of valuable oil. Experts watching the flaming gusher gauged the output of oil at 1,800,000 gallons a day, and almost all of it is going tragically to waste. Only a small proportion—20,000 gallons a day—is being saved, capped off by a hastily bored side vent.

CHARGED FOR REPAIRS

Boston—One of 36 charges brought against Howard B. Gill, suspended superintendent of the Norfolk state prison colony, was that a $651.14 item for a hernia operation on an inmate allegedly was entered on the prison books as "repairs and renewals".

USED BOYHOOD SKATES AT 80

Chauncey, O.—George Harvey Nye, who has just celebrated his 80th birthday anniversary, skated here recently on a pond where he skated 65 years ago. Nye used the same pair of wooden skates he bought when a boy of 15.

IOWA CITY HONORS SLAVIC PRESIDENT

Half of Population Joins in Birthday Celebration

Cedar Rapids, Iowa.—When President Tomas G. Masaryk of Czechoslovakia celebrated his birthday in his native land, half the inhabitants of this Iowa town did him honor.

Half the city's residents are of Slavic descent, either directly or indirectly, and they all retain a strong love for their native country and its ideals. Plays in the Bohemian, prayers, and dances made up the ceremonies in which the Czechoslovakian president was honored.

Woman Gives Hospital 40 Sovereigns as Thank-offering

London.—An aged woman's gift to a hospital, as a thank-offering for kindness received there when she was a child, was revealed here.

The woman, who was poorly clad, entered the secretary's office at the Royal Waterloo hospital in Waterloo Rd.

After telling of the treatment she had received there as a child, she pulled down her stocking, and forty golden sovereigns fell to the floor.

Some weeks ago a woman entered the hall, and thrust an envelope into the porter's hand. "For the secretary," she said, and departed. The envelope contained three £10 notes.

Last week she called again, and again gave the porter an envelope. This time it contained five £10 notes.

COSTERS MOURN BISHOP

Borough Market Folk Miss "Mr. Uff"

London.—The costers of Borough market have said farewell to their bishop.

They did it very quietly—almost shyly—in the cathedral where his body rested in front of the draped high altar an hour or two before the Bishops of Southwark, Winchester, Woolwich and Kingston came to the sanctuary to sing his requiem.

William Woodcock Hough—the man the costers mourned—was Bishop of Woolwich from 1918 to 1932. He was just "Mr. Uff" to the bluff, big-hearted porters of Borough market and the costers of the Old Kent Rd.

TRENT RIVER W.I. CHECKS HISTORY

Members Plan to Gather Facts of Early Happenings From Pioneers of Area.

PUT IN BOOKLET FORM.

HAVELOCK, April 13.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—A decisive step in the right direction was taken by the members of Trent River Women's Institute at their regular meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. P. Logan, Havelock, when it was decided to gather all the available information relating to the history of Trent River and the immediate district. This is one Institute activity recommended by the Historical Research Department of the Institute headquarters in Toronto.

The necessity of gathering this information while the older people are living to tell the facts, and point out the old landmarks, has been urged upon all the branches, and the value of information so gleaned cannot be over-estimated

Each member present on Thursday afternoon was appointed on the committee to find out anything of interest in connection with Trent River, and have it ready for the next meeting if possible.

Mr. D. Dart has generously offered his time and talent to the compiling of the facts when collected, and these will be made into a booklet.

It was also decided to have printed programe for the forthcoming year which in the Institute begins with the May meeting. Convenors were appointed to look after the programs for the twelve meetings in the year.

A letter from the department of Institutes at Toronto, replying to a request for a summer speaker, was read, stating that arrangements had been made to send a speaker to Trent River on June 14th, which is the regular meeting date of the branch.

A number of dainty knitted woolies sent by Miss Lillian Helliwell of Toronto, who is a member of the summer colony at the river, were on display and were much admired by the members. These are for distribution among the needy members of the community, at the discretion of the Branch officers.

The roll call, "helpful hints in housecleaning," was well responded to, and many favorite short cuts to spring cleaning were explained.

A reading by Miss B. G. French, a reading by Mrs. Dart and a contest under the supervision of Mrs. Scott were much appreciated contributions to the after business program, after which a dainty lunch was served.

Hostesses for the day were Mesdames J. Longmuir, T. Tyler, W. Lewis, A. Wight and P. Logan. Next meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Jas. Johnstone.

FOR AFTERNOON, EVENING WEAR

Three Models Show the Mode

Patricia Ellis in chartreuse green; right, Lois January wears royal blue crinkle crepe tea gown, and center, Vivian Tobin, in oyster white linen.

By LISBETH

For afternoon and evening milady plays safe in these frocks. They go places and make the right impression. The suit, center, would be as chic and cool looking on the morning round of shopping as attending Vivian Tobin in the hot summer afternoon.

The chartreuse green crepe evening dress left, has rope-like shoulder straps braided and ending in a V, where a rhinestone clip is placed.

Lois January, right, is ready for the cocktail hour or tea in the royal blue crinkle crepe tea gown. It has ruffled sleeves and a ruffle at the skirt hem, which has a slight train, a brilliant rhinestone buckle at the waist, and a row of white gardenias at the high neck. It's young and ducky, like Patricia.

Virginia Tobin chose the suit, center, to wear at Palm Springs, Cal. It's a simple oyster white linen with blouse and tie of striking Roman stripes. The jaunty bow is laced through slits in the cape, and the skirt has a fascinating high waistline that comes to a point in the center front. A brimmed hat of rough white wool completes her ensemble.

CONVENT BURNS NUN IS MISSING

Montmorency Falls Blaze Also Wipes Out Two Houses, and Damages Church.

WIND PLAYS HAVOC.

MONTMORENCY FALLS, Que., April 13 (C.P.). — Safety of Sister Saint Charles was feared for following a fire that destroyed the Convent of the Sisters of St. Joseph de St. Valier at St. Gregoire de Montmorency, near here, early today.

Six other buildings besides the 30-year-old three-storey brick convent, empty of day pupils, were destroyed by the fire that started in the furnace room of the convent The nun's residence, the homes of Mrs. Emile Mercier, Napoleon Mercier, and Mrs. Philias Mercier and two other buildings were burnt to the ground. The roof of the parish church caught fire and a hastily summoned section of the Quebec Fire Department battled to save the building despite a strong north wind.

The aged mother of Mrs. Napoleon Mercier, gravely ill, was rescued from their burning house with difficulty. Edmond Pouliot, secretary of the School Commission, and his son saved the Sacred Host from a chapel in the nuns 'residence, while the cure saved the Host from the parish church. The missing nun was cook at the convent

PRESENT TO-NIGHT OPERA "MIKADO"

Stage Alive at Grand Last Night With Brilliantly Costumed Japanese.

The Grand Opera House stage was alive last night with a throng of brilliantly-costumed Japanese. Their invasion of the peaceful city of Peterborough will last until late to-night, but, far from being warlike, they are the merriest people you would want to meet.

They will be here for the production of "The Mikado" to-night, when all the fun and frolic they have been practising for months will have its way and the audience will be treated to another of those very successful productions which have become a habit with the members of the choir and Men's Association of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

The outfits for this light opera, many of which have been on display for some time in a little glass alcove at the R. Fair Store, are colorful in the extreme. They are from the large stock of Mallabar, Limited, in Toronto, and add the final touch of gaiety and charm to the production, which had its costume rehearsal last night at the Grand, when the lighted stage and the gay Orientals who cavorted about it formed a real contrast to the darkened auditorium.

Don't forget—to-night—8.15, at the Grand Opera House—the production of "The Mikado," one of the gayest and most tuneful of the many clever Gilbert and Sullivan light operas.

Blame Trick Of Small Boy For Fatal Train Wreck

Authorities at Dora, Ala., believe this wreck of the engine of a fast passenger train, which was derailed near Dora while operating between Memphis and Birmingham, was caused by a small bolt placed on the rail by a small boy to have it "iron flat." Photo shows rescue workers at the scene. Engineer Tom P. Kelly was scalded to death, and Fireman Bert Davis was critically injured.

Omemee Veterans Commemorate Vimy

OMEMEE, April 13.—(Examiner Correspondence).—A delightful evening was spent by the members of the Omemee Veterans' Club on Monday, commemorating the battle of Vimy Ridge. About 25 veterans met at Mr. W. O'Neil's, past president of the club, at 8 o'clock, and from then until 11 o'clock cards and other games provided lots of fun for the boys. At 12 o'clock the table was laid with roast and stewed chicken, which was done justice by all present. Two minutes silence was observed in memory of those who fell at Vimy. The election of officers was postponed until November 11, when the annual banquet of the association will be held. Dr. McPhee, president of the club, warmly thanked Mr. O'Neil for his hospitality, which was thoroughly appreciated by all, and Mr. O'Neil replied in a few well chosen words.

The members of Lorne Lodge, No. 376, A. F. & A. M., Omemee, held their regular monthly meeting in the lodge rooms on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, with a splendid turnout present. An enjoyable evening was held by the members, and the future of the lodge looks very bright as shown by the marked enthusiasm of those present. Considerable work was accomplished, after which refreshments were served in the anti-room.

A very pleasant euchre party was held in the Orange Hall Wednesday evening under the auspices of the local Orange Order. Ten tables of euchre were played and the prizes were won by C. Endicott and Grace Chattan. Consolation prizes went to J. Chattan and Laura McConnell. The Orangemen will hold another euchre party on Wednesday the 25th.

Accuses Germany

JAMES LARKIN

A score of well-known Germans, some of them high in the Hitler regime, are understood to have been named by James Larkin, Irish radical, as directing sabotage activities in the United States before and during the world war. On the strength of the affidavit the United States hopes to have the American-German mixed claims commission reopen its suit against Germany for $40,000,000 damages resulting from the Black Tom blast at Jersey City, N.J., in which four persons were killed, hundreds injured and 300 carloads of ammunition were destroyed. Larkin, who was deported from the United States, in 1912, charges that German agents were behind the explosion.

JACK C. CUTHBERT IS CONTEST WINNER

Fifty-Six Cash Prizes Were Offered by William Wrigley Jr. Company.

Apparently there is some promising advertising material right in our midst. The mail to-day has proved it, for in that mail came a cheque from Wm. Wrigley, Jr. Company Limited of Toronto for one local person who wrote a prize winning slogan in Wrigley's Slogan Contest.

The contest was a simple—and yet a difficult—one; simple because the contestants had only to write a short slogan, difficult because they had to write something new which would compare favorably with slogans which have made Wrigley's famous all over the world. Fifty-six cash prizes were offered for the 56 best slogans.

Tremendous interest was shown in the contest. The Wrigley Company at Toronto was deluged with mail. Many thousands of slogans were submitted.

As a consolation prize to those who did not receive a cash prize, Wrigley's mailed out a Gift Package containing every one of their well-known famous flavors.

BEHIND the SCENES in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, APR. 12.—

It has often been said of Ann Harding that she isn't clothes conscious. Read this and decide. Several months ago, the star pressed that she asked the girl to design some gowns for her.. They turned out well—so well that friends and studio discovered her secretary, Lillian Templeton, drawing dress designs on the back of envelopes. Ann was so impressed that she asked the girl to design some gowns for her.. They turned out well—so well that friends and studio discovered her secretary, Lillian Templeton, drawing dress designs on the back of envelopes. Ann was so official were loud in their compliments.

The result is that Ann went to R-K-O and sold them on her secretary's unsuspected talents. Now, Lillian Templeton has been commissioned to design Ann's clothes for her next picture.

THE SUICIDE IN China of C. C. Julian, former millionaire California oil operator, had a strange echo last week in a local auction room.

While Julian's remains were awaiting shipment to this country, Everett Crosby (Bing's brother) was writing out a check for the oil man's fabulous set of flat silver. The set, which cost Julian $4500, was knocked down by the auctioneer for $450.

FILM CELEBRITIES are just like home folks after all. The bassinet which Arline Judge had for her youngster has been passed from hand to hand in the film colony. First, Pauline Gallagher borrowed it for her expected, then Mrs. Al Newman (the musician's wife) put in a bid. The traveling bassinet now goes to Mrs. Frank Capra, who has a brand new son. And when she is through with it, Sally Eilers will use it for her baby.

BEING A BRIDE is still a great thrill to Pat Paterson, but the little English actress finds herself in a curious position as a result of her elopement with Charles Boyer.

She was supposed to do a picture for British Gaumont, but now she's a French citizen and can't go back to her own country to work except under the strict Alien Artists Quota. All of which involves formal applications and no end of red tape, so Pat feels a little put out at the technicalities of governments.

Wha ever else happens, however, she is studying up on her French in preparation for her coming trip abroad to meet her husband's family. Both she and Boyer have a couple of more pictures to make at Fox, the lastof which they will do together.

The newlyweds will be leaving Hollywood in the early summer.

THE NEW censor-board in Spokane, Washington, touched off a powder keg when some of its members were instrumental in having 'Nana' barred from showing in the northern city. Theater-men leaped to the defense of the picture and now Samuel Goldwyn has hired a battery of attorneys to fight the ruling.

One of the lady objectors to the film is credited with this extraordinary statement:

"Anna Sten should have suffered more to pay for her wrongdoings. Death was not enough."

Oilers Take Game Lead In Toronto City Series

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES!

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

A hard fast practice swing just before driving off the first tee will add about 10 strokes to the average player's score. Why? Because it's like racing an automobile engine without oil. Muscles and joints should be loosened up, most of the important moves should be done smoothly before stepping on the gas. And like burning up the motor, you ruin the action of your muscles for the day by overloading them on the very first run.. Start each day with a short and very easy swing. Make several such swings before lengthening your backswing. And as you take a longer swing simply increase the scope of action, not the strength used.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Armstrong returned to Toronto on Sunday after spending the holidays the guest of the former's mother.

Mrs. Rutherford of Peterborough is having a new barn erected on her farm in South Monaghan to replace the splendid barn which was destroyed by fire last fall. J. Lang and sons are the contractors.

Mrs. N. Thompson is convalescing at her home after her recent illness in Nicholls Hospital' Peterborough.

Joe Barnard returned to Belleville on Monday to resume his studies at Albert College after spending the holidays the guest of his parents.

Miss May Tanner has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. J. Lancaster of the village.

Mr. Harry Barnard was in Cobourg this week as a member of the grand jury.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Brackenridge visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Perrin on Tuesday evening.

Mr. Roy Rutherford, B.A., Mrs. Rutherford and little daughter Mary have returned to Toronto after spending the past week the guests of friends in the village and in Peterborough.

The regular meeting of the Young Peoples' Society was held in the United Church on Tuesday evening under the capable direction of the missionary convenor. Miss Clara Seens. The leader was assisted in the devotional service by Herbert Dean and Rev. E. M. Cook. Miss Seens gave a very interesting paper on the field of home missions describing the place in work carried on by trained welfare workers. Arrangements were made for having the Bensfort United Church dramatic club present their play entitled, "There Goes the Bride," in the hall on Friday evening, April 20th.

LATE SPLURGE GIVES SERVICE 6 TO 3 VICTORY

Six of Nine Goals Scored in Action Packed Final 8 Minutes of Play.

GAME OPENS SLOW.

TORONTO, April 13 (C.P.). — St. Michael's College majors, monarchs of minor hockey in Canada, ruminated to-day upon the difference between the senior and junior series and wondered if they had bitten off more than they could chew.

For 58 minutes in thier game with Cities Service Seniors here last night the Irish countered blow for blow, but the Servicemen snot the works in the final two minutes, and St. Mikes reeled groggily off the ice under a 6-3 defeat.

The teams had played a 5-5 tie in the first game for the city title. A victory in the third game on Saturday will give the Oilers the decision.

All the action was packed in the final eight minutes when six of the nine goals were scored. The initial session was dull and the crowd of litlte more than 5,000 were somewhat piqued at the display.

Improvement was noted in the second session when the winners outscored their rivals, 2-1. When St. Mikes deadlocked matters at the 12 minutes mark of the third period the players went to work in earnest and finished off the performance with a flourish.

Three of the winners' goals were notched by George Parsons, their husky left winger. Jimmy Fowler, who made the play for the first two of Parsons' goals. Shorty Robinson, and Garney Large were the other marksmen.

DETROIT OLYMPICS NOT TO BE MOVED

General Manager of Olympia Says Hockey Rumors Without Basis.

DETROIT, April 13. (AP).—Reports that Detroit Olympics of the International Hockey League may be sold outright or "farmed out" to another city, last night were termed "without basis" by Louis J. Giffels, general manager of Olympia Stadium, home of the Detroit Hockey Club.

Rumor said the Minor League club which suffered a loss of $10,000 during a season in which it finished in a tie for first place in the league race, only to lose out in the play-offs, might be transferred to Springfield, Mass., or Hamilton, Ont.

"Although I have not talked with the owner, James Norris, Sr., I don't believe the Olympics will leave Detroit," Giffels said. "They have a good team, and the Red Wings need the club here, where it can be watched. I think they will be playing for Detroit next year as usual."

Growing demand for ray materials and the continued shrinkage of exports recently gave Germany its first unfavorable trade balance in five years.

Colorful Grappler

CARL VON LEHMAN

German mat artist who will be seen here tonight matched against Jack Kennedy in the preliminary of three bout wrestling card being staged in the Brock street rink under the auspices of Peterborough Baseball club.

PLENTY THRILLS ASSURED FANS TONIGHT'S CARD

Six Grapple Stars of Top Ranks Will Compete in Three Bouts.

TWO MAIN MATCHES.

Entertainment de luxe is on the cards for local sports fans to-night (Friday) when they foregather at the Brock Street Rink to view Peterborough's first show of light heavy wrestling, under the auspices of the Peterborough Baseball Club. Six grappling stars of the greatest magnitude have been gathered together by Matchmaker Tommy McClure, in an effort to provide the local customers with the finest sort of entertainment which light heavy wrestling can produce. Two of the stars, Young Angelo, the "Sicilian Flash," and Paul Orth, the "Tarzan of the Mat," are headliners in any man's show, and that goes for any city of any size on the continent. Whenever these two grapplers, moreover, appear on the same card but in different bouts, fireworks of the most sparkling kind are in order, because both are recognized bad-men, and their professional jealousy in this respect is reflected in their individual efforts to earn and retain the right to SOLE possession of the sobriquet, "The One-Man-Riot." On to-night's card they have, fuhtremore, been augmented as stellar attractions by no less than four other wrestlers, each in his own right a major drawing card. Thus Angelo, in one main match, of two falls out of three with a one-hour time limit, will meet Johnny Felix, of Tulsa, Okla., of which need only be said that he is always described by sports writers as "tough, rough and bad." In this frame all the finest points of rough-house wrestling should be brought out, as Angelo has more than his reputation as a bad-man at stake, and Johnny Felix has aspirations to qualify for a top-notch honors in the rough-housers' ranks. If possible, this bout, even more than the other two scheduled frames, should be productive of all the speed, skill, science, thrills and actions for which light heavy wrestling has come to have a name in the centres on the continent where the sport has been introduced as a main attraction.

Hair-Pulling Contest

In the other main bout on the card Paul Orth, the Toledo, O., "Tarzan of the Mat," will meet formidable opposition in the person of Musapha Pasha, the "Terrible Turk," of Istanbul, Turkey. Mustapha is a "cinch" to prove an excellent foil for Orth's arch-villainous tactics. Pasha always wears a super-mop of hair, and in view of Paul's firm intention of settling his claim to the super bad-man title, this hirsute appendage of the Turk's will likely appeal to the Toledo boy as the weakest spot in the Turk's armor, and hence this frame is likely to be productive in all the new angles of hair-pulling. This match should be second to none in the evening's entertainment.

In the curtain-raiser, Karl van Lehman of Germany, considered the best light heavy wrestler the Vaterland ever produced, will stack up against Jack Kennedy of Phoenix, Ariz. This frame, as distinct from the two main frames, will be one fall, with a 30-minute time limit.

The complete line-up is:

Mustapha Pasha, Turkey, vs. Paul Orth, Toledo, O.; two falls out of three; one hour time limit.

Young Angelo, Sicily, vs Johnny Felix, Tulsa, Okla; two falls out of three; one hour time limit.

TEDDY GRAHAM TO LEAD TEAM IN BRUCE LOOP

MOVE WITH "LEFTY."

TORONTO, April 13.—(CP)—Teddy Graham, the chubby defenceman of Detroit's Red Wings, is heading west today to play in an exhibition hockey series between the Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs. But the thoughts of the energetic towhead centre around those rookie Millionaires of his—and Lefty Goldsmith. It is baseball again for Teddy.

"You see, the idea is we have to beat Goldsmith," he grinned last night before leaving for Winnipeg. "Nothing else matters much this year except that I think I've got a team together that will do it. Wait till they see the pitcher I throw out there against Lefty."

"Bad Luck" to Graham

The great Goldsmith pitches for Southampton, Ontario Intermediate 'B' champions. He hurled a no-hit, no run game in leading the Fishermen to the title in 1932 and turned in another perfect performance last season when Southampton retained their championship. Graham's Owen Sound team— the Brooke Millionaires—plays in the same league.

"I don't care," said Teddy, "whether Southampton moves up to intermediate A company or not. We'll go up too. Goldy is the drawing card in the Bruce League and my team is going to play where the crowds are. We like to have Lefty around, whether we can beat him or not, and this year we'll beat him."

Importing Players

Like some other amateur baseball bosses in Ontario, Garham is doing a little "importing." He intimated that Owen Sound might expect to see a coupleof young American college boys with his Millionaires and one of them will be a pitcher—"and what a pitcher, but never mind, I'm not giving away details yet.

Jimmy Dowling, a Toronto senior catcher, is to line up with Owen Sound. It will be a mighty machine, the way the hockey star describes it and Mr. Goldsmith had better watch out.

"Let Leroy Goldsmith and Paul Thompson and those boys play ball for keeps in the summer," said Graham, "why there's far more fun running your own team." Teddy has been operating his for three years.

Only 94 persons in England now have an income of more than $500,000 0a year.

BIG AEX SOLD TO N.Y. RANGERS

Smythe Says No Radical Changes Will be Made in Leafs, However.

ONE DEAL PENDING.

TORONTO, April 13.—Before departing for Winnipeg last night, Manager Connie Smythe of the Maple Leafs, declared that rumors that four or five of the Toronto players would be sold, were not reliable. There will be only one more deal, if any, declared Smythe, and that may involve a player who has been a regular for the past two seasons and a former amateur star who has recently signed a contract. Negotiations are pending.

Smythe also stated that a wire from the New York Rangers was received by the Toronto Club yesterday, accepting the terms on Levinsky, and that big Alex. will be with the Rangers next season. Levinsky was in conference with Maple Leaf officials yesterday afternoon, and expressed himself as well satisfied with the deal. It was a straight cash transaction, but the Toronto Club would not make known the figure.

It is practically certain that before next season rolls around the Leafs will have three or possibly four amateur players signed. Bob Davidson is slated for a trial, and it is expected that "Pep" Kelly and Art Jackson, together with Reg. Hamilton of St. Michael's juniors, will be tendered contracts. Kelly and Jackson are said to be in no hurry to jump into professional ranks, and it is just possible that they will wait another year before doing so. In that event, they may play senior hockey next year, although Jackson has another year to go as a junior if he so desires. The Leafs have first call on them, however, for professional hockey, and if they sign it will be with the Toronto Club.

Smythe believes that even if he does not sign any new players that the Leafs are strong enough to go through another season with the present players on the club and lead their group. He is not convinced that the Chicago Black Hawks are the best team in the National League just because they won the Stanley Cup. The Leafs were careless on their home ice against the Red Wings, in his opinion, otherwise it would have been a different story, as far as the Stanley Cup finals were concerned.

Canadian Netters Suffer Elimination

PINEHURST, N.C., April 13.—(CP). Canada's Davis Cup stars, Walter Martin and Marcel Rainville, were ushered out of the north and scuth tennis tournament yesterday, as four of the ranking players of the United States reached the semi-final round.

Frank K. Shields of New York ranked first in United States and top-seeded for the tournament, eliminated Martin in straight sets, while Rainville won only five games, as Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas turned him back.

TRIAL DATES ARE ANNOUNCED FOR EMPIRE GAMES ATHLETES

Hamilton to Get Marathon and Men's Track and Field—Women's Events in London, Boxing in Montreal —Team Sails July 20.

By W. M. GLADISH
Central Press Canadian
Sports Writer

TORONTO, April 13.—Canadian preparations for the British Empire Games, feature fixture for the forthcoming summer season, are well in hand with the official designation of the dates for trial competitions for the selection of the athletic personnel of the Canadian team which will sail for London from Montreal on July 20.

The first of the preliminary events in the Dominion under the joint sponsorship of the British Empire Games Association of Canada and the Amateur Athletic Union will be the official marathon trial at Hamilton on June 16, which will be conducted in conjunction with the Dominion Interscholastic track and field championships at the stadium in Hamilton, where the first British Empire meet was staged with much success four years ago.

Next will be the National womens track and field trials at London, Ontario, on July 6 and 7, for the selection of the young ladies who will represent Canada in the Empire competition during the first week of August. In conjunction with these tests will be the Canadian championship meet of the Women's Amateur Athletic Federation of Canada.

Male athletes from all parts of the Dominion will gather at Hamilton for their British Empire track and field trials on Friday and Saturday, July 13 and 14, on which dates the Canadian championships of the A.A.U. of C. will be decided.

Canadian Championships in Toronto.

Following these events, the Canadian boxing and wrestling trials will be staged in Montreal under the direct auspices of the Quebec branch of the Amateur Union, the tentative dates for the ring bouts being Monday and Tuesday, July 17 and 18. The selected winners will remain in Montreal to board the boat on the following Friday.

Leading up to the British Empire boxing trials will be the Dominion boxing championships, which are scheduled to be held in Toronto on May 23 and 24, under the auspices of the Central Ontario branch of the Amateur Union. Various boxers who prove victors in the national titular tournament in Toronto will be sent on to the Empire trials, but the latter will be open to other contestants, of course.

All registered amateurs in the Dominion are eligible to compete in the various championship features of the A.A.U. and the W.A.A.F., but there is one requirement which must be recognized in connection with selections for the team to represent Canada at the games in London. This condition is that every member of the team must be a British subject and either born in the country represented or resident in that country for at least six months immediately previous to Aug. 1, 1934.

In charge of Canadian arrangements is Chairman W. A. Fry of the British Empire Games Committee, Dunville, Ontario, who is also vice-president of the Canadian Amateur Union. The secretary of the British Empire Games organization for the Dominion is M. M. Robinson, of Hamilton.

The Canadian Wheelmen's Association has also decided to send a team of riders to the Empire Games and their events will be held at the Fallowfield track, Manchester, on Saturday, Aug. 11, the closing day of the festival. The C.W.A. is planning to hold its 1934 Canadian championships as a feature of the Toronto Centennial celebration, probably on July 2, when the personnel of the cycling team will be picked. The president of the Wheelmen's Association is J. H. Smith, of Toronto, and the chairman of the Dominion Racing Board is Russell E. Coupland, of Toronto, who is the likely choice as manager of the team.

All entries for the games must be received in England by July 16, although alterations are permitted up to July 26.

TWENTY-THREE LEAFS DEPART ON THE PACIFIC COAST TOUR

Six Games Will be Played With Wings on Three-Weeks' Absence.

ADDED INDUCEMENTS.

TORONTO, April 13 (CP)—Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League were bound Westward to-day to display the major league brand of hockey in Winnipeg, Trail, B.C., and Vancouver. Twenty-three players are in the party that climbed aboard the westbound train here last night.

Two other players of Leafs, Buzz Boll and Ken Doraty, Regina flash, will join the players in Winnipeg. They left by motor earlier this week for Winnipeg with Coach Dick Irvin of the Toronto etam.

Six games will be played on the three-week tour. At Winnipeg, the teams will play Saturday and Monday. A game will be played at Trail, en route to Vancouver, where three games will be staged. If he journey has proved a success when the Vancouver campaign is completed, there is a possibility a tour of the United States Pacific Coast might be made, according to Conny Smythe, Leaf manager.

As an incentive for the players o show their real class, ten per cent of the pool will go to the winning team in each game and a trophy will be presented to the team scoring the most goals.

No alibis for their defeat by Chicago in the Stanley Cup finals were forthcoming from Detroit Red Wings as they prepared for the Western invasion. "We just couldn't put the bally thing in the mesh often enough," declared Capain Herb Lewis.

Public and private construction is increasing in Sweden.

While fishing of Clythness, England, recently, a crew hauled aboard a blue egg as large as that of a duck and supposed to be that of a sea bird.

Max Baer Confident Of Scoring Knockout

CHEYENNE, Wyo., April 13.—(A.P.).—Max Baer predicted here yesterday he would knock out Primo Carnera "before the tenth round" of their championship bout in New York, June 14. "I think Carnera's size is a handicap to him," declared the challenger, who is en route from California to Atlantic City to "dig into training."

"Carnera's force is in his right hand uppercut at close quarters," Baer continued. "I think I can stop that with close-in fighting and with short jabs with my left.

"Carnera defeated Loughran with brute strength—not by boxing. Carnera isn't a boxer. His biggest secret is tiring his opponents out by rusing them. I plan to outfight him during his rushes.

"I think the old boxing crowd is going to see another knockout. I have never predicted any of my bouts before. I've merely stated that I was going to do my best. But this time I expect to get a knockout before the tenth round. I might even accidentally slug him on the chin in the opening round and knock him out.

"I am in better condition than the public thinks. And I'm going to be in still better shape."

Baseball Notes

(By The Associated Press)

Philadelphia, April 13. (AP).—Manager Jimmy, Wilson of the Phils has it doped out that his proteges will make fewer runs but win more games than did Phillies teams of recent years. An improved defense and added speed are the reasons why "the other teams won't make as many runs either," he says.

Washington. — Casey Stengel, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, has discovered a starting pitcher to use in case Ray Benge is not in condition for the start of the season. He is young Emil Leonard, a right hander who came up from York of the New York-Lenn League.

Ashville, N.C.—Despite the New York Giants' poor record of seven defeats, three victories and a tie against Cleveland, the "big four" of their pitching staff hasn't made such a bad showing. Against Carl Hubbell, Bud Parmelee, Hal Schumacher and Fred Fitzsimmons the Indians have made 24 runs and 60 hits in 65 innings.

Charlotte, N.C.—The New York Giants' casualties so far this spring have been concentrated in the outfield and if anything more happens to their gardeners within a week or so they may be in trouble right at the start of the season. Fred "Dizzie" Walker went on ahead of the team some days ago to try to have his throwing arm repaired and yesterday Sammy Byrd sprained his right ankle in pre-game drill.

Chicago. — Manager Charlie Grimm to-day indicated he was all set on this lineup for the opening game against Cincinnati Tuesday:

Knoxville, Tenn. — If weather conditions are moderate, Lynn "Schoolboy" Rowe, the pitching hope for Detroit, will hurl for the Tigers this afternoon in their scheduled exhibition game with the Cincinnati Reds.

SCOTTY BOWMAN SUFFERS FROM BLOOD-POISONING

BELLEVILLE, April 13.—Suffering from blood poisoning in his right hand, Scotty Bowman, defence star of the Ottawa Senators, in the National Hockey League, is confined in the Belleville General Hospital. He is under the care of Dr. J. J. Robertson, who reports that the hand is progressing favorably. Bowman recently cut his hand, while visiting in this district. An infection later set in, necessitating his removal to the hospital. Beyond the infected hand, he appeared to be in excellent condition.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball, Lacrosse, Soccer Softball, Bowling, etc.

By C. J. P.

Rasslin' holds the spotlight around town this evening with a big pro card being staged at the Brock at 8.30. It'll run about two and a half hours, and should be swell entertainment. There are two main matches on this card, as the four finalists are all too prominent to shove one pair in a preliminary. Tommy McClure, the Toronto promoter, is giving Peterborough fans six grapplers who are noted for action, laughs, and more action—six matmen who either make the fans yell for them or at them. And that's what the fans love, a chance to exercise the old larnyx! Those who get seats up there tonight will see plenty of lively new tactics dished up by these rasslers, all of whom are strangers here but well-known in Toronto and other large centres. It'll be good.

• • • • • •

And since there isn't much else to write about these days, we'll have ourself a time of it and go to the mat with a few of the other Central Ontario sportswriters over baseball. It's lots of fun. For instance, our recent crack at the Kingston scribe produced excelent results and we are relieved to know that he is still alive and kicking—he's the best kicker the Central League ever had. All Spring there wasn't a peep from him on baseball, and we doubt if he knew what was going on as he never attended league meetings. But now he blossoms forth and strongly criticizes the Peterborough club for being willing to make a money guarantee to "ham teams from the Ulster League" and says Kingston and Belleville rate a vote of thanks for keeping out "such joke teams as were sent down from Toronto last year." He also knocks us for bringing in Knotty Lee, forgetting that Kingston had Knotty and wanted him again last year, and that they have Joe Daley. And he thinks a three-team league is okay.

• • • • • •

Well, it isn't for Peterboorugh, that's a cinch. And we can tell the Limestone scribe something he doesn't know but which the Kingston officers do and that is that Peterborough alone kept Kingston in the C.O.B.I. for years, no one else wanting them. And this despite the fact that it's a long hop from here to Kingston. And another thing, Kingston being in the league is why Oshawa wanted to pull out. Different Toronto loops would play an interlocking schedule with us and Belleville, but not with Kingston without a heck of a big guarantee. Anyway, we're glad he's finally realized hockey is over and baseball is starting.

• • • • • •

As for the Oshawa columnist, he is trying to convince fans there that he was right all along regarding the Dukes. He even challenges us to show him where he didn't bat 1.000 or at least .999. Okay. First, we must point out what the real difference of opinion was. It was whether or not Oshawa belonged to the C.O.B.I. and whether or not Oshawa would have to play in the C.O.B.I. this year. The Ulster Stadium League question wasn't brought up till late in March, whereas our argument started three months or so earlier, in fact right after the O.O.B.I. meeting in Peterborough around the end of November. Our statement was that Oshawa would have to play in Peterborough, Belleville and Kingston, so that the Dukes could not play elsewhere without the C.O.B.I.'s consent. Oshawa claimed they would not play in these towns and they even tossed away their franchise, but last week had to go pick it up and apply to the C.O.B.I. for release, after agreeing to play in Peterborough, Belleville and Kingston. Well, there you are!

• • • • • •

It's true Oshawa got pretty much what it wanted, but nevertheless Oshawa found out that it is still very much a C.O.B.I. team and had to go to this league to get into the Ulster Loop after the O.B.A.A. stated flatly it was backing the Central League up. We could quote two items by that writer, but will just use a few here: "It will never come to a showdown between Oshawa and the O.B.A.A."...."Next spring will not find Oshawa doing anything quite so foolish as playing as far away from home as in Kingston, Peterborough or Belleville"...."Wouldn't Ulster League be perfect saps to make a success of their very first year and then return to the O.B.A.A.?"...."We feel pretty sure the O.B.A.A. will ask the C.O.B.I. to forget about Oshawa"...."They will NOT be playing in the C.O.B.I. in 1934 as long as that long trip to Kingston remains!"....Those are only a few of the remarks that'll make the Motor City scribe's face red now—in view of what has since happened. And we'll bet him two bits he wont print this word for word in his paper!

• • • • • •

The following piece appeared in yesterday's Port Hope Guide: "At a meeting of the Girls' Softball League executive of the Y.M.C.A. at Belleville, discussion regarding the formation of a league with Peterborough, Port Hope, Cobourg and Belleville, was held. The idea received favorable comment from the officers and representatives present, and definite action will be taken at a meeting to be held April 17th. Preparations were made also for the annual Eastern Ontario Girls' Softball Association meeting which will be held in Belleville for the first time on May 5th. President W. B. Vandervoort presided at the meeting."

• • • • • •

Those who like to see the best in gymnastic prowness should head for the Y.M.C.A. this Saturday evening when the Ontario Leaders' Corps championships will be held, starting shortly after eight. More than a hundred athletes from various Y.'s in the Province will be battling it out in the annual conference and the best of the local boys will be in there, too. Teams of four, representing each corp, will contend for honors on the high bar, the parallel bars, the horse, and in various stunts, including comic. Should be good. Officers will be elected Sunday.

• • • • • •

Minor league baseball here needs an injection of something or other to get things started. Here we are in the middle of April and not a wheel turning. The City League is beginning to look alive but there will need to be a bigger representation at the meeting next week, and a bunch more entries before anything definite can be done. Those who put teams in the Southend Hockey League and the City Hockey League, and various merchants and manufacturers who are interested in Baseball both as a sport and for advertising, ought to get busy. It doesn't cost much money and it's a fine thing for the youngsters and for Peterborough. And the East Peterborough Baseball League should be bestirring itself if it's going to operate. All over Ontario, other ball loops are getting squared around for the summer, and we should be right in line.

• • • • • •

Sport hash: Local lacrossers are busy organizing and making plans for the season, but nothing new has come up lately . . . . At least half a dozen baseball men from here will attend that C.O.B.I. session in Cobourg Sat'day where big doings are anticipated . . . . Les Burton still has his eye bandaged but it is not thought to be seriously injured now . . . . When will the Y' basketball playoffs be staged? . . . . Moncton Hawks have left Toronto after smearing Detroit White Stars in the final game of that odd-looking series . . . . It still has Toronto sportswriters guessing; and, by the way, they're already thinking up alibis for St. Mike's loss to Cities Service team . . . . Lindsay's boxing committee has asked for Roy Hope and Norm McIlmoyle from here to box there April 27th, but we understand both boys have hung up their gloves.

"THE MYSTERY OF MR. X"

For pure, unadulterated suspense in one episode, at least, of this picture, it could hardly be surpassed. Anyone with a weak heart would do well to fortify it somewhat before watching this particular sequence in the story of the master crook who turned into a man-hunter and brought to bay one of the most fearsome of murderers.

Robert Montgomery was the perfect choice for the role of Revel, the blithe and carefree gentleman who appropriates an expensive diamond and then nearly swallows it in a glass of beer. This is one moment when the debonnair gentleman loses some of his pose. But the role fits him like a glove and his admirers will take to him more than ever. His expressive countenance is at its best, especially in the moments when he crosses mental swords with the Commissioner of Police, Connor (Lewis Stone). That last look is a gem, as he turns at the door to glance back at his prospective and rather unwilling father-in-law.

An ugly little frowsy man almost steals the honors from Montgomery. He has one of those priceless gems in the way of roles that occur only too seldom on the silent screen. Just as the small cockney, Herbert Mundin, can steal almost any part away from the bigger people, so does Forrester Harvey excel, as Palmer. His acting is a joyous highlight, as he portrays the unwilling but consistently loyal and slow-moving co-partner in theft of the blithe and careless young Revel.

We just wish, however, when Mr. Montgomery is so good an actor, that he wouldn't get fat. The spectacle of his artistic acting allied with the double chin which might easily eventuate should this increasing avoirdupois continue to unfold, it is too horrible to contemplate.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterboroughs Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner

Full name and address (complete) must be given in all samples sent in.

A. George Keith,
Norwood, Ont.

Your writing which is of all shapes and sizes, illustrates the fact that you are impatient, resent being told what to do and dislike anyone who is superior to yourself. It is as though you hold a grudge against people who are mentally your superiors. I know you will not agree with this analysis because it is the unvarnished truth, but there is a very great reason for telling you this so bluntly. You have the mental and physical makings of an independent, self-confident builder. You have the genuine qualifications for real courage and strength, but so far do not seem to realize this. It may be because you are either very young, or because age has robbed you of the pleasure of attainment. No matter what the reasons happens to be, I want you to know that you have it in you to make your own success. Now I point out the characteristics which require toning down in order to allow you to make what you would like of yourself. First and foremost is impulsiveness, and insufficient care and thought in planning. Next is too vivid an imagination, and I really do believe the other chief characteristic is your nervous temperament or health. You are born under the sign of Aries the Ram. June and July are fortunate months. Tuesday the best day. You are ruled by Mars.

Miss Edna McIlmoyle,
R.R. No. 4, Havelock, Ont.

Your writing shows exceptional ability for one who is as youthful as you are. I am glad to hear that you enjoy living on a farm, and I think that many others who have the opportunity to live on farms, do not half appreciate it. No doubt a good many of us will be as glad as you are to really have the early summer time with us, for this has been a long and trying winter. Your lovely letter made me think how much one should appreciate one's mother, and I am sure that although you have lost yours, her memory is very sacred to you for you were old enough to remember her passing. This incident in your life, should tend to make you more gentle and more kind to all mothers with whom you come in contact with in your sphere of life. Your writing shows that you will be generous, refined, methodical and sometimes secretive. You should be studious and modest, critical at times, keen mentally and a lover of order. You will have to guard against hurting the feelings of others through your natural propensity to tell them what you think about their belongings. Your number is eleven. Your sign Virgo, ruled by Mercury. February and November are your best months. Wednesday the best day.

Miss Shilah Martyn,
Millbrook, Ont.

What a pretty name you have, it sounds Irish. Is it? Anyhow it corresponds with your writing perfectly, in that you are rather a carefree person, full of joy of living, fun loving and humorous, generous and sympathetic. Perhaps a little too impulsive, but this is not a bad characteristic when coupled with all those other good ones as mentioned above. You should be thoroughly energetic and love of out of door sports, especially swimming. Your will power is not quite as strong as you would like it to be, and when you try to be strong willed, you seem to create the impression that you are stubborn. You are talkative and enjoy interesting conversations. You are sensitive sometimes, but not always. You should be fond of music and really would find a great deal of pleasure in voice culture. You are a bit of a dreamer, and sometimes quite difficult to understand. Later on you will find that you are interested in literature and art. Your memory should be developed with this view in mind. Your birthsign is Pisces the Fishes. You are ruled by Neptune. May and June are your most fortunate months. Saturday your best day. Eight is your lucky number.

Alma Grace Tedford,
Warsaw, Ont.

Thank you for sending in your birthdate. It certainly does bear out what I saw in your writing. You are really a young person, and your mental faculties become easily tired and discouraged. Try not to worry too much about things, and get all the sleep you can. If you could keep one particular pen for your writing, or one type of pen-nib which would be softer on the downstroke. I think your writing would improve. As it is you are nervous and temperamental, but your health seems to be the cause of this trouble. Your birthsign is Virgo, and so perhaps you will have to learn not to tell people what you think about them, no matter how much your own feelings are hurt. For that is a characteristic of your sign. You are ruled by Mercury, and this in time should give you greater mental powers. Your number is seven, and that also is very good. February and November are your best months. Wednesday the ucky day.

Dr. Wood's

Norway Pine Syrup

"Only a Trifling Cough I'll Soon be Rid of It"

Thousands have said this; thousands have neglected the cough; thousands have suffered from some form of bronchial trouble because of this neglect.

Never neglect a cold or cough; there can be but one result; the pulmonary organs may become affected and cause years of suffering.

Get rid of the trouble at once by using Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It strikes at the foundation of the trouble and relieves colds, coughs, bronchitis and other air passage affections.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, April 14

According to the aspects of the moon bearing rule on this day's affairs things are likely to be conspicuously out of the humdrum and routine. In fact there may be much excitement, confusion and probably disintegration or disruption, with sudden visitations or an abrupt avalanche of starting or chaotic developments. Radical and far-reaching change seems imminent, but this should not be embraced in an impulsive, excited or turbulent manner. Prudence, deliberation and well-governed behavior may be imperative in sidestepping disaster and disintegration.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of great changes, an uprooting of old conditions, with probably confusion, disruption and upheavals, which will only be complicated and heightened by an indulged tendency to headlong, headstrong, quarrelsome and tempestuous behavior. Calmness, restraint and wise counsel are urgently enjoined if the shoals of startling and precipitate events are to be successfully navigated.

A child born on this day may be inclined to be rash, impulsive, tempestuous, adventurous, possibly violent and eccentric, but may attain a place in the public eye.

SHE WAS CROSS AND TOUCHY

Not Fit To Live With

Put Herself Right with Kruschen

"I am 39 years of age," a woman writes, "yet some days I have been feeling and looking 100 years old. I would get fits of exhaustion for no good reason at all. I was not fit to live with because I would be so cross and touchy. I did not seem to have any ambition to do my housework or go out anywhere, and I was so tired all the time that I began to feel it was too much trouble to live.

"Two years ago I had sciatica all down my left side from the hip. My doctor says all this is caused through my nerves. I took Kruschen and found it helped me very much. Since I started taking it I am a different person. I am beginning to find life is worth living. My work seems a lot easier and I have a lot more energy."
—(Mrs.) M. C.

In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, the cause of ill-temper is ill-health. A soured mind has its source in a soured inside—the result of sluggish eliminating organs that allow waste matter to accumulate and poison the blood. The "little daily dose" of Kruschen puts an end to all this because it restores the eliminating organs to proper activity by providing them with the daily reminder and daily aid that they require.

Cleansed and invigorated blood is sent circulating all over the system, carrying new vitality to every nerve and new vigor to every limb. You are healthier. You are happier. You begin to believe that everything is for the best in the best of all possible worlds.

Argentina's public works program this year includes government buildings, schools, railways, irrigation, sanitation, and drainage projects, hydro-electric plants, harbor improvements, military barracks and flying fields.

CLEAR POLICIES NEED OF TO-DAY SAYS BENNETT

Challenges Opposition to Say it Was Squarely Confronting Issues Before Dominion.

MESSAGE TO OXFORD.

Points to Government's Achievement in Securing New Empire Markets.

OTTAWA, April 13.—(C.P.) — The immense problems of government to-day call for clear declarations of policy on the part of political parties and not a mere reputation of old-time party battle cries and platitudes which have served their day and generation, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett is convinced.

In a message to the people of South Oxford who will shortly go to the polls in a by-election to choose a member of parliament, Mr. Bennett challenged the Liberal party to say it was squarely confronting the issues before the Dominion to-day. The government's policy was clear, said Mr. Bennett. If the Opposition was serious in its bid for power it behooved it to offer an alternative policy in clear and unequivocal terms.

But in times of "national planning, of International adjustment," the Opposition was not even making out a fair case of criticism against the government let alone advancing a constructive policy.

The Gov't's Record

Liberals talked about wider markets, said Mr. Bennett. But the Government had secured the markets of the British Empire through the Empire Trade agreements and with one exception the Liberal members of parliament had voted against those agreements.

He challenged the opposition to show a single market they had gained during their nine years of office which the Conservatives had lost. Further he suggested a comparison of the markets they had gained while in office with those they had lost. He also challenged the Liberals to say what markets they would gain in substitution for the Empire Trade agreements.

His government, Mr. Bennett said, was ready and willing to make a trade agreement with the United States which would be fair to both countries but he would not make a bargain which would take away from Canadian farmers the price advantage they now had by reason of the home and Empire markets.

BODY OF MINISTER LEAVES FOR STATES

Irish Free State Leader Follows Cortege to the Railway Station.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, April 13 C.P.). — Crowds lined the streets for two miles to-day as the body of William Wallace McDowell, United States Minister, was carried on a gun carriage from his Legation to a railroad train, starting the trip back to the United States.

President Eamon de Valera walked in the cortege of mourners. So did former President William T. Cosgrave, the Lord Mayor of Dublin, and the staff of the Legation.

WRESTLER IS FINED.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 13.—(A.P.)—Chief Chewchki, a wrestler of fame as a "bad man," found the use of a blackjack in subduing opponents in the ring expensive—$25 to be exact—in Recorder's court yesterday.

The big Indian, who brought fans to their feet in amazement when he went after George Zaharias recently, was fined by Acting Recorder McBee, before whom he was given a hearing, on charges of assault and battery.

Chewchki and Zaharias had each won a fall, when the Indian pulled a blackjack from his trunks to go after the third fall. The referee used the blackjack to subdue the Indian.

HUNT TWO TRUSTIES

LETHBRIDGE, Alta, April 13 (CP)—Royal Canadian Mounted Police to-day were searching Southern Alberta for Ronald Bottell and Ralph Plackbuovs, trusties who escaped from Lethbridge Jail Farm here last night.

Police declined to divulge details of the pair's break for freedom. It was learned there was no disturbance as Bottell and Plackuovs walked off the farm property to freedom. Both were serving short terms.

Playing Safe

OMAHA, Neb., April 13. (CP) A couple of policemen were giving the car of George Jimerson, Beatrice, Neb., salesman, the once over when Jimerson came striding out of a store yesterday.

"What wrong?" asked Jimerson.

"The license plates on your car are the same as those on Dillinger's car only yours are Nebraska and his are Kansas" one of the officers replied.

Jimerson envisioned trouble so with police permission he obtained a set of plates from an Omaha customer and attached them to his car until he gets back to Beatrice where the "Dillinger" plates will be exchanged, he said, for a new pair.

SUDBURY RELIEF SUPPLY IS FINED

Magistrate Lists Warehouse Under Transient Trader By-law—$250 License Lacking.

APPEAL TO FOLLOW.

SUDBURY, Ont., April 13 (CP)—The Central Supply Warehouse, which operates a relief clothing store in Sudbury is a transient trader within the meaning of the civic by-law, and must pay the $250 transient trader's tax, Magistrate J. S. McKessock decided this morning; he fined them $1 and costs for breach of the by-law.

"I can find no similar circumstances in any other case, and I think it might be a good one for a higher court to pass on," Magistrate McKessock said.

Will Your Worship state a case for a Court of Appeal?" asked G. M. Miller, K.C., counsel for the warehouse. "If you wish," the Bench agreed.

Summing up the case, His Worship commented that the evidence disclosed that the sole owners of the Central Supply Warehouse are Thomas W. W. Learie and Robert Percy Sparis of Toronto and Ottawa, in partnership. The firm has only two warehouses, one in Toronto and one in Sudbury. Recipients of relief are given a voucher good for certain articles of clothing in the Sudbury Relief Office. They take this voucher to the Central Supply Warehouse, where they are given the clothing it calls for. The voucher is then sent to Toronto, and payment is made in Toronto by the City of Sudbury.

14 Days' Racing Is Allowed in 1 Meet

OTTAWA, April 13 (C.P.).—Canadian race tracks this year will have the privilege of holding continuous 14-day race meets, under an amendment to the criminal code now on the statute books. Up until now race tracks have been allowed two meets of seven days each, but they had to be more than 20 days apart. Now the 14 days' racing allowed may be held in one meet.

The bill was introduced by Raymond D. Morand (Cons., Essex East) and is designed to meet a difficulty encountered by a Windsor, Ont., race track. Racing is carried on almost continuously during the summer at Detroit tracks and the Windsor track found it impossible to arrange dates for two seven-day meetings which would not conflict with meets across the river.

MEGAN DENIES LABOR LEANINGS

STICKS WITH FATHER.

LONDON, April 13 (C.P. Cable) Miss Meagan Lloyd George, daughter of the former Prime Minister and Liberal member of the House of Commons for some years, to-day denied any intention of joining the Labor Party. Recent reports were that she and her brother, Major Gwilym, were consdering joining Labor.

"There was at one time a rumor that I had become engaged to some poor unfortunate or other," she added. "If those rumors had any foundation, a shy bride would have nothing on me, and the newspaper would have given me up as hopeless in that direction," she told a meeting.

"Now I am told I am joining the Labor Party. All I can say is that I am not aware of it myself and that applies equally to my brother, because if there is one united party in the House it is the Independent Liberals."

By "Independent Liberals," Miss Lloyd George referred to the Lloyd George family group, equally aloof from Sir Herbert Samuel's Opposition Liberals and Sir John Simon's Government Liberals.

COLORFUL BANDIT EXECUTED.

BASTIA, Corsica. — Jean Baptiste Torre, one of Corsica's most famous and colorful bandits, was executed here at daybreak to-day.

Torre perpetrated many murders durng his amazing career, killing a number of police officers sent to track him down.

Deny General Higgins Been Seriously Ill

LONDON, April 13. — (C. P. Cable.)—Reports that General Edward Higgins, chief of the Salvation Army since the death of W. Bramwell Booth five years ago, was seriously ill were authoritatively denied to-day.

The Salvation Army statement recalled that on his appointment General Higgins expressed the hope of retiring at the age of 70, which he reaches next November, but added his official retiring age is 73 years and it was the expressed hope of the bulk of commissioners wo form the Army's electoral body that he would remain in office for the longer period.

It was also announced that "self-denial" week conducted by the Army in the British Isles recently resulted in receipts of £149,000, an increase of $5,000 over last year.

PRATT HOUSEKEEPER WAS HIT ON HEAD

McQuibban Is Not Quitting Liberals

NEVER ASKED TO TAKE LEAD OF ANY PARTY

So Says House Chief Declining Comment on Rumor He May Head Dry Group.

"NO EASING LIQUOR LAW."

Announces He Will be Candidate in Wellington in Coming Provincial Election.

TORONTO, April 14 (CP)— In the midst of many rumors of his pending retirement from politics, Dr. George A. McQuibban, member for North-East Wellington and Leader of the Liberal Opposition in the Ontario Legislature, said to-day he would be a candidate in Wellington during the coming Provincial election.

Dr. McQuibban said he did not plan to break away from the Liberal Party and had "never been approached to lead any party." He declined to comment further on reports that he would break from the Liberal Opposition and head a new "referendum" wing, which would base its election campaign on "No loosening of liquor laws without first submitting a referendum or plebiscite to the people."

TORONTO, April 14.—(C. P.)—The Mail and Empire today says there is a possibility of a new prohibition party entering the Ontario general elections, headed by Dr. George A. McQuibban, Liberal House leader, who voted against the government's beer and wine legislation despite the party heads' decision to "acquiesce" in the bill.

The Mail and Empire says, "Discord in the Ontario Liberal party ranks had, it is reported, run such lengths within the past 24 hours, that before the election rolls around, a brand-new "referendum" wing may be in the field with candidates, and the present personnel and strategy policy of party headquarters in Toronto may have been dumped overboard."

The paper says the new party was rumoured in political circles all day yesterday. Dr. McQuibban who has been reported on the verge of quitting politics, conferred by telephone with members of his North Wellington riding executive and received their endorsation of his stand in the legislature on the beer and wine question the Mail continues.

Dr. McQuibban, according to the Mail and Empire, pledged himself to stand again for re-election.

Support Centres

The reported new party would appear on a platform of "no loosening up of liquor laws without first submitting a referendum or plebiscite." The paper says the major portion of the party's support will be drawn from the Central Ontario Liberal Association, comprising the riding, under redistribution, of South Ontario, Muskoka-Ontario, Victoria, Durham, Northumberland, Peterborough, Lanark, Prince Edward-Lennox and Kingston.

Dr. McQuibban's last week threats to "quit the game," because of his sessional "break" with Provincial Leader Hepburn, and because of his utter inability to get along with certain headquarters officials has, it is said, placed the party in a position where calls are now being sounded by both the Eastern Ontario and Western Ontario party associations for some systematic "smooth out" policy on the aggravating situation.

Let Him Go To It.

Mr. Hepburn is said to have twisted another knot in the party ravel yesterday when he declared, as reported in the Guelph Mercury, "if Dr. McQuibban wants to form a dry group let him go to it."

Alleged headquarters, mishandling of the McCaughrin case and the Gunning charges during the legislature session is said to have incensed officers of these associations to such an extent that a move will be launched shortly—if it is not already under way — to oust the officialdom complained of and to replace it with "new blood."

4-Year-Old Leukemia Victim Loses Fight As Cannibal Corpuscles Drain Her Life

Her illness had attracted the sympathy of thousands, and letters offering words of encouragement and hope came to her from Canada and all parts of the United States.

Physicians said from the first that there was no hope of cure for the disease in which the red corpuscles are routed from the bloodstream by an ever-increasing excess of white corpuscles. Too young to understand the seriousness of her predicament, she had laughed and played with her toys almost to the time of her death. She sang little songs that she made up as she went along.

Able to be on her feet several hours a day, she would be forced to go to bed when drowsiness overtook her.

WALKEY CASE IS ADJOURNED UNTIL MONDAY

Jury is Permitted to Return to Their Homes for the Week-end.

CALL TRAFFIC OFFICER.

Plaintiffs Close Case and Witnesses Called for Defense.

(By Staff Reporter)

COBOURG, April 14.—The Royal Trust Company's action for damages in behalf of Lillian Walkey of Peterborough against the Globe Printing Company and Roy F. McLean of Belleville was adjourned by Mr. Justice J. A. McEvoy late Friday afternoon until Monday morning, the jury in this case being permitted to return to their homes for the week-end.

After Thursday's spirited legal debate on the involved legal issue as to whether the late Horace Walkey, formerly of Peterborough, had held the responsibility comprehended by the phrase "in loco parentis" to his sister in the administration of their parents' estate for her benefit, the trial slumped down to the routine of just another automobile case.

The claim for damages in this case was based on the death of Horace Walkey who was fatally injured in a collision of a Globe truck and R. F. McLean's automobile, in which Mr. Walkey was a passenger, half a mile south of Centreville, November 7, 1932. Most of the witnesses yesterday had arrived at the scene of the accident shortly after it happened, and their testimony dealt chiefly with the positions of the truck and car on the pavement.

Counsel in this case are: W. F. Huycke and B. D. Hall for the Royal Trust Company; J. C. McRuer, K.C., Toronto, for the Globe Printing Company and G. N. Gordon, K.C., for the co-defendant, R. F. McLean.

The members of the jury are: Enoch Merriam, Harwood; Ivan Denicke, Percy Township; W. H. Darcy, Cartwright; John Paedon, Hope Township; Donald Crozier, Milton Niles and Thos. Bendall, Cobourg; Fred Rabey, Hope; Reg Foote, Port Hope; Jas. O'Brien, Newcastle; A. J. Balson, Darlington; Wm. Shotter, Bowmanville.

New Jersey Couple Found Shot In Hotel

PHILADELPHIA, April 14.—(AP)—Confronted by fictitious registration, police are trying to identify the bodies of a man and woman whose expensive clothing and jewelry afforded sharp contrast to the dingy hotel room in which they were found shot to death.

A strip of ferry tickets in the woman's purse and a label in the man's coat, indicated they were residents of southern New Jersey.

Because of the positions of the bodies and the fact that the woman was wearing her sealskin coat and a hat, detectives theorized that the man shot and killed her as she attempted to leave their room and then turned his pistol on himself.

That they were prominent, investigators felt certain.

Microphones and loud speakers have been placed on the sides and roofs of a mine in France so that warnings of danger may be sent immediately by and to the workers.

Unethical

HAVANA, April 14. —(C P)— Employes of El Canto and La Casa Grande, two of Cuba's largest department stores, went on strike because their wages were raised.

Not that they minded the raise so much, but the management it seems, ordered the higher wages without consulting the workers' union, a very unethical action indeed.

YOUTH IS KILLED GATHERING SAP

Centreton Boy Dies From Injuries Received When Team Bolts.

CAN UPSET ON WAGON

COBOURG, Ont., April 14. (CP). Stanley Honeywell, 18 year old Centreton youth, was killed near his home last night, when his horses bolted, throwing him out of a wagon.

Honeywell was out in a sugar woods and had loaded the wagon with a large can of sap. The can upset and the wagon went over a bump frightening the horses into a run; Honeywell was pitched forward across the whiffletree down to the ground, where he was picked up a short time later in an unconscious condition.

Dr. A. R. Richards of Cobourg was summoned but nothing could be done to save him. The youth dying some time later from internal inuries.

He was a son of John Honeywell.

New Life Substance Grows Frog In Week

HAMILTON, April 14. (CP).— Because McMaster biology students can't wait until the April-May examinations in order to get the "low-down" on the life history of the frog, Dr. Arthur E. Warren, assistant Professor of Biology at the college has taken the matter into his own hands.

Procuring a green frog, Prof. Warren has undertaken to speed up its metamorphosis from the tadpole stage to a fully-developed frog in time for the coming examination. About a week ago, the creature, then very small, was taken from its marshy surroundings, and at present swims about blissfully in a bowl of water into which a substance similar to thyroxin, a thyroid stimulant, has been poured. By next Friday, Dr. Warren predicted the tadpole will have developed into a full-grown frog. If left in its natural surroundings it would not reach the hopping and croaking stage until late in August, altogether too late for the examination. The exact name of the life stimulating substance is di-iodotryosin.

KINGSTON RELIEF OFFICER RESIGNS FROM OFFICE

KINGSTON, Ont., April 14. (CP) R. H. Waddell, relief officer for Kingston, has tendered his resignation and the same will come before city council on Monday.

Mr. Waddell stated he could not do justice to the position and at the same time devote 50 percent of his time to outside investigation, as ruled by the Welfare Board.

City Council on Monday also deal with requests of unemployed that they be given freedom of purchase and that they receive 25 percent increase in food allowances.

GEN. MACBRIEN PLANS TO TOUR ARCTIC LANDS

Will Visit Ports in Middle Hinterlands by Plane, Starting August.

HIRES PILOTS.

Admits Identity of "Mad Trapper" Shot in 1931 Has Never Been Cleared Up.

EDMONTON, April 14 (C P.). — Mysteries of the Arctic to-day were leading Major-General J. H. MacBrien ,Commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, to make an official tour of the frozen hinterland.

Recalling the pursuit of the "Mad Trapper" over the ice and snow three years ago and the slaying of two trappers in the Thelon River area, General MacBrien in an interview last night said the official Arctic tour would start likely in August.

He would be confined to visting posts by airplane in the Middle Arctic region and would be unable to go to the western posts which he visited a year ago. The force did not intend to ow nairplanes for its northern work as it was cheaper to hire planes, he said.

The "Mounties" had never been able to establish the identity of Albert Johnson, "Mad Trapper" of the North who killed one Mountie, wounded another, and wounded a member of the posse which finally hunted him down west of Akiavik, N.W.T., and shot him to death when he fired in reply to demands to surrender.

Capt. W. R. 'Wop' May, Canadian air ace, on that occasion aided the posse by searching for Johnson from the skies, and circled overhead as the hunters closed in on the hunted man.

Bad Man From U. S.

"My own guess is that Johnson was a bad man from the United States who desired to keep his identity a secret and succeeded admirably in doing so, General MacBrien said.

Scores of persons had written to R.C.M.P. headquarters suggesting Johnson might have been this man or that man but every lead came to nothing, the general added.

The general said police were still working on the mysterious murder of Olsen and Bode, trappers, in the Thelon game sanctuary.

The latest mystery—the finding of a skull on the short of Slave lake last year with the suggestion the owner of the skull had been murdered—is now being carefully investigated.

"We think the skull may have been that of Chester Graham, , a trapper, but are not sure yet. Police also found the wreckage of a canoe believed to have been Graham's" he said.

SEA DISASTER 21 YEARS AGO

1,490 People Lost Lives When Gigantic Liner Hit Iceberg.

OTTAWA, April 14.—(CP)—Twenty-two years ago tonight, the world's greatest vessel rushed across the black waters of the Atlantic ocean. There was a grind crash, a lurch, and the world learned with horror 1,490 people had drowned.

The vessel was the Titanic, 850 feet long and nearly 100 feet wide. Her tonnage was 46,000 and her engines developed 70,000 horsepower. She could travel at 21 knots an hour and was the most famous and luxurious vessel of her day.

Her maiden voyage brought some of the world's best-known citizens to her cabins. Many outstanding Canadians were on board. For the vessel had been called the "unsinkable," the "marvel of all time." A new idea was incorporated in her construction. She was divided into watertight compartments—a new departure in ship-building at that time but now common.

Struck Iceberg

With bands playing and flags flying the Titanic sailed from Southampton on that fatal first trip. She never came back. Slipping along at high speed, she struck an iceberg which ripped through her plates as though they were putty.

For His Dog

GREEN BAY, Wis., April 14.—(CP)—Rather than surrender his dog to be shot., George Gardipee went to jail to serve a 10-day term.

Gardipee clashed with the city dog catcher who found the dog running loose. He was fined $6.88 in police court and said he couldn't pay.

The judge ordered the jail term, but offered to suspend sentence if Gardipee would give up the dog.

Gardipee again refused.

WORLD WHEAT GROUP SETTLES ON PRICE PLAN

Small Committee Will Sit in London, Set Figures by Control of Exports.

MANY SAFEGUARDS.

Fixed Percentage Prices for Flour—Ban on Gov't Barter Dealings.

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

ROME, April 14. (C. P. Cable) The world Wheat Conference after four more hours of discussion today put its stamp of approval on an expert sub-committee's complicated plan for establishing a minimum world price for exported wheat.

The plan which contemplates a small committee sitting in London to fix the actual minimum price by rigid control of exports aided by many safeguards such as fixed percentage prices for flour and a ban on government barter dealings, was accepted by the World Conference itself with "verbal changes" it was officially announced.

The minimum price plan, achieved by the sub-committee after much labor, went through the main conference to-day with unexpected speed, an apparently stubborn Argentine resistance vanishing when, as the chief Argentine

Roosevelt Adopts "Tough Guy" Spirit

WASHINGTON, April 14. (AP)— President Roosevelt in a smiling, "tough guy" spirit, called United States Senate leaders to the White House to-day to straighten a disordered capital hill situation.

Out of this conference and a meeting to-morrow with House of Representative pilots, administration aides hope will emerge a legislative outline closer to Roosevelt-ain desires—and one that will mean early adournment.

As the chief executive stepped more firmly back on the governmental quarterdeck after two weeks at sea, many felt some hint of seriousness lay behind his jocular remarks about being a "tough guy" and willing to pass along the "tricks" he learned fighting sharks and barracuda.

It is known definitely that Mr. Roosevelt will insist in the week-end parleys upon his reciprocal tariff and communications control bills and upon a stock market regulation measure "with teeth."

BLOW RECEIVED PRIOR TO DEATH SAYS WITNESS

May Have Produced Unconsciousness, Victim Succumbing Later From Burns.

DR. KERFOOT ON STAND.

PERTH, Ont., April 14. — (CP)—A blow on the head from "a very blunt instrument," that "might easily have produced unconsciousness," was suffered by Miss Eva McLean prior to her death from burns suffered in a fire at the home of her employer, Dr. Wilton Pratt, 71 - year - old Smith's Falls physician.

Testifying today at the trial of the aged physician, charged with murdering Miss McLean, his 60-year-old housekeeper, and with performing 10 illegal operations, Dr. H. W. Kerfoot told Mr. Justice Patrick Kerwin and a Lanark County Assize Court jury, a post mortem revealed a bruise from a heavy blow, probably received before death.

Arrived at Dr. Pratt's home in answer to a call and that the sick woman was lying just inside the front room door. Witness said the woman was breathing heavily and was unconscious but her pulse was good. "The upper part of her body was terribly burned," he said. He took her to hospital.

Had Little Clothing On

"There was very little clothing on her body," he said. "Apart from her shoes and stockings there were three articles of clothing on her, a black slip, bloomers and remains of a vest."

"While you were with her in the hospital did she show any signs of consciousness?" asked Mr. Bell.

"There were signs of movements of the body as Miss McLean lay in the hospital but while I was there she did not regain consciousness," said Dr. Kerfoot.

"Did she regain consciousness enough to say anything."

"There was a slight moaning, but nothing distinguishable." Witness said he examined the body at Marsh's undertaking parlors where he performed an autopsy on the following Monday morning.

He said he found the cause of death due to extensive burns.

"In connection with the autopsy

FIND STARLING PUBLIC MENACE

Unanimous Verdict Indicated by Correspondence Received by E. H. D. Hall.

Extermination Demanded.

Evidence of the destruction caused by the European starling has been so positive and general from all parts of Ontario that both public and official opinion is becoming convinced that some action should be taken to exterminate this recent menacing newcomer among Canadian bird life.

This sentiment is more pronounced in Western Ontario because of the fact the starling has multiplied enormously in all the counties between Toronto and Windsor, and the same opinion is accumulating west of Toronto, and particularly in Central Ontario as the potential threat of the starling to agriculture, to orchards, to bird life, and also in other respects is growing more apparent.

Habits of Starling

Mr. E. H. D. Hall recently write to the Ontario Agricultural College for information regarding the habits of the starling, and also mentioning their rapid increase in this district. In the correspondence Mr. Hall received in reply are included a pamphlet by Jack Miner condemning the starling, also a report of their destructiveness by J. C. Martin, R.R. 3, St. Mary's, Ontario, and a voluminous compilation of quotations from letters to the O.A.C. from all parts of the province in answer to a question-

QUEBEC FLOOD THREATS TAKE SERIOUS TURN

Massive Ice Barrier Between Montmagny and St. Pierre Inundates Town.

WATER IN 50 STORES.

Farmers Marooned in Homes —Quebec City Streets Covered.

MONTREAL, April 14 (CP) — Solid masses of ice causing flooding of a section of Montmagny, Que., 35 miles below Quebec, and roads and cellars inundated in the Montreal district, floods in the Province of Quebec to-day assumed serious proportions.

On the south shore of the St. Lawrence River the South River, swelled by heavy rains and melting snow and its normal course blocked by a massive ice barrier between Montmagny and St. Pierre, spread over the main part of the town of Montmagny.

Over 50 business houses and homes were flooded in addition to the majority of farms on the north bank of the South River. High water forced the suspension of operations in the biscuit manufacturing plant of Henri Boulet, while nine feet of water was reported in the cellar of the jail.

Dynamiting Useless

Dynamite was exploded in the midst of a wall of ice that piled up at the Canadian National Railways bridge over the South River at Montmagny, but without effect. Farmers in the surrounding district were forced to remain in their homes.

In the City of Quebec streets in Stadacona Ward were flooded, while at Gros Pin cellars were reported containing several feet of water. Aided by a strong northeast wind caused the river to rise two feet at the Louise Basin.

Damages estimated at $100,000 were caused by the Riviere-Aux-Chiens at Ste. Therese, Que., near Montreal ,overflowing its banks. Two feet of water covered the main street while many cellars were flooded and numerous citizens were forced from their homes.

WEMBLEY STADIUM, London, April 14. (C. P. Cable).—England defeated Scotland by 3-0 in their international soccer classic this afternoon before a crowd of 92,000 persons.

Bastin of the Arsenal scored in the first half and Brook of Manchester City and Bowers of Derby County made it sure for England near the close of the match.

It was the 58th meeting between the ancient rivals and brought the record to 18 wins for England, 26 for Scotland and 14 draws.

Dr. Wm. Pakenham Quits Varsity Staff

Retirement of Dr. William Pakenham, B.A., from his important position on the staff of the University of Toronto was announced yesterday. Dr. Pakenham has been on the Varsity staff for many years, and he has been dean for some years.

He is well-known here, having received his secondary school education at the Peterborough Collegiate. Before continuing his studies at Varsity he taught school in the district.

ARSENAL BEATS LIVERPOOL 3-2 ABERDEEN DREW

Huddersfield Town Defeated Newcastle United Four to One.

EVERTON BEATEN.

Scottish Football Leaders Not Playing on Account of International.

LONDON, April 14. — (C. P. Cable.)—The Arsenal got another step nearer championship of the English Football League to-day when the gunners defeated Liverpool 3-2, although without the services of three of their best men taken for the International match.

The Gunners needed the victory because Huddersfield Town, only four points behind in the first division championship race, were garnering points at the expense of Newcastle United, beaten 4-1.

Chelsea scored a fine victory over Everton, while Birmingham could do no better than tie Aston Villa 1-1. As a result Birmingham are now near to Sheffield United on the relegation list, Chelsea being a point above the former, still in danger.

Grimsby Town Wins.

Grimsby Town, sure of getting up into the first division next season, had no difficultyl beating Fulham to-day, winning 3-1 at home. The deadlock between Bolton and Brentford for the honor of accompanying the Fishermen in promotion, however, remained after both elevens won their engagements at home to-day.

Manchester United continued to make a fight to escape relegation to the third division along with the luckless Lincoln City. The Unite beat Port Vale 2-0 to-day, while Millwall were losing at Burnley, and as a result Manchester is only a point below Millwall and Swansea Town.

Norwihch City, Third Division leaders, took a loss at Reading, but still have a substantial advantage. In the northern section, however, Barnsley got to within a point of Chesterfield.

GLASGOW, April 14. (C. P. Cable).—Scottish Football League engagements were curtailed to-day on account of the international match at Wembley, none of the leaders of the First Division being engaged. Aberdeen however drew clear into third position, getting a tie with St. Mirren, cup finalists in a scoreless game while Queen of South, hitherto disputing the position, were idle.

ALBERTA AIMING OUST GOVERNOR

Legislature Proposes Elimination of Office in All Canadian Provinces.

BE GREAT SAVING.

EDMONTON, April 14 (CP). — First legislature of the West to take formal action, the Alberta Legislature, to-day had proposed elimination of the office of Lieutenant-Governor of all Canadian provinces.

The Legislature last night adopted a resolution asking the Federal Government to forego any appointment to the Alberta office when the term of Hon. W. L. Walsh expires in 1936. At the same time it asked a change in constitutional legislation to permit the duties of a Lieutenant-Governor to be carried out in a less extensive way.

Long debated in the Western provinces, numerous moves have been made for abolition of the office to effect a saving in governmental costs. Groups of farmers in the three Prairie Provinces as well as urban groups have sought termination of the office but almost equal defence of the office came from other sources.

The Alberta Legislature members proposed to use the Lieutenant-Governor's house and grounds for a tubercular sanitorium.

TOBACCO PROBE TO BE OPENED SAYS STEVENS

Leading Growers to be Called to Give Their Side of Troubles.

AT SOUTH OXFORD RALLY.

Claims Weirdest Period of Speculation in Canada Was in King Regime.

INGERSOLL, Ont., April 14 (CP) —Conditions in the tobacco industry will be probed by the House of Commons Committee on Mass Buying and Price Spreads. Representatives of the tobacco growers will be be called before the committee within two weeks to give their side of the troubles in the industry, according to Hon. H. H. Stevens, Dominion Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Mr. Stevens made this announcement in an address here last night as he took the platform in the South Oxford Federal by-election campaign in behalf of the Conservative candidate, Hon. Donald Sutherland. Mr. Stevens made two addresses yesterday: one in Tillsonburg and the other in Ingersoll.

The whole situation in the tobacco industry will be scanned, the Minister declared as he replied to statements made by Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Dominion Liberal Leader. He denied Parliament had turned over its rights to the Government, and declared Mr. King had offered no suggestion for improving present conditions.

Although the Ottawa Trade Agreement, Mr. Stevens claimed, had resulted in improving Canada's trade within the Empire, Mr. King was declaring he would abolish these pacts if he came into power.

Goes After Mergers

He reiterated his opposition to placing business affairs in the hands of "a dominant few and believed it was preferable to have a hundred retail stores managed by local men than to have people thumb over a catalogue and send in their order by mail." He said mergers had appeared during the Liberal regime, and nothing had been done to stop this trend in big business.

"The Liberals have no right to talk about Mr. Bennett being a friend of monopolies, since most of these came into being during their own regime," Mr. Stevens declared.

Mr. Stevens stated he had found no indications there was a necessity of holding a general election, despite statements made by Mr. King.

In his Tillsonburg address, Mr. Stevens described the Liberal Government's term of office as the "weirdest period of speculation" in the history of Canada. He said mergers had taken place in the meat - packing industry, forcing small businesses to close down and resulting in one central profit-making institution.

Assumption Quintet Suffers Elimination

MONREAL, April 14. (CP) — A long step toward Dominion senior basketball honors was taken here last night by Nationale, Province of Quebec men's champions, in knocking the strong Assumption College, windsor, Ont., team out of the Eastern Canada semi-final.

Nationale defeated the Ontario titleholders 42-37, winning the Ontario-Quebec series in two straight games, having taken the first on Wednesday night 29-28. A third game, tentatively scheduled for tonight, is no longer necessary, and Nationale advances against Dalhousie University, Halifax, in the Eastern Canada final.

Keeping in Shape

PHILADELPHIA, April 14. — (CP)—The men Harry McIntyre works with went around to see him on his day off and found him waiting for them.

They had to go, for they are firemen, and he to wait, because the roof was burning. A blow torch with which he had been removing paint started the fire.

"H'ya" said Harry, the first one down.

W.I. LAYS PLANS SUMMER SERIES

Trent River Group Hear Papers on Historical Research —Housecleaning Hints Given.

CONTEST IS HELD

TRENT RIVER, April 14 (Examiner Correspondent) — Planning for the summer series speaker, hints for house-cleaning and "Historical Research" made a busy and the Department at Toronto, using River Women's Institute held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. P. Logan, Havelock. The members from Trent River were conveyed in Scott's truck together with a number from Havelock, there were twenty-four in attendance. Mrs. Hoffman, president of Havelock branch was among the number in attendance. After the opening ode and repeating the Lord's Prayer, the secretary, Mrs. Harry Mann read the roll call, the answer of which was house-cleaning hints. Fruit was ordered for the sick. Letters, acknowledging fruit and cards were received and read. A letter was received from the department regarding the summer series speaker who would come to Trent River, Thursday, June 14. The dining hall of the United Church has been secured for the occasion. An invitation to the branches from Havelock, Belmont and West Seymour to join Trent River for this event will be given.

It was decided to cancel the fee of 10 cents at the May meeting and collect the annual dues instead.

The question of having programs for the year was brought up and it was decided to adopt the plan and arrange for the printing of same. Twelve members gave their names for holding the meetings for the year at their homes and they will appoint a time to meet and plan for the monthly convenors for the year.

An invitation was read from the Ladies' Aid of Trent River Church to attend the afternoon tea and sale of useful and fancy articles at the home of Mrs. Thomas J. Brown on Wednesday, May 2nd. The members accepted the invitation.

The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. James Johnston, the roll call, paying the yearly dues. Hostesses, Mesdames Walter Lewis, T. F. Ward, S. Rylott and Mrs. A. Buchanan.

Papers on historical research were read by Miss B. French and Mrs. Harry Mann. Mrs. Thomas Brown read an acount of the exceptional weather during the past winter. Mrs. George Dart gave an example of the Institute work for strangers in a strange world. Read-sodium borate, 5 grains; strongest lone," by Miss B. French. Mrs. John Scott had charge of a contest.

RELIEF BILL IS ADVANCED STAGE IN THE COMMONS

After Two Weeks of Discussion Bill Passes Committee Stage.

BUDGET ON WEDNESDAY.

Fixing Definite Relief Expenditures Be Dangerous Bennett Declares.

OTTAWA, April 13.—(CP)—After nearly two weeksof discussion the government's 1934 Unemployment Relief Bill stands ready for third and final reading in the House of Commons. At times bitter, the debate covered a wide field.

The opposition waged strenuous verbal warfare against the "peace order and good government" and "blank cheque" clauses of the bill and Prime Minister R. B. Bennett at one time accused the Liberals of deliberately delaying passage of the measure and at another charged some Liberal members with attempting to arouse sectional feeling and set east against west for political purposes.

Just before the House adjourned last night the bill received the approval of the committee of the whole. It will likely come up for third reading Monday. Several Liberal amendments went down to defeat which were designed to curtail the large power given the government by the bill. The "peace, order and good government" clause authorizes the government pass orders-in-council on any matter "in addition to the provision of any statute." The "blank cheque" clause authorizes it to spend any sum it deems proper on relief.

Seven Progressive members voted with the government on an amendment to alter slightly the "peace, order and good government" clause drawing from Hon. Ian Mackenzie (Lib. Vancouver Centre) the statement that they were evidently prepared to accept anything the Prime Minister asked them to.

This precipated a lively tilt between the Liberals and their fellow oppositionists of the left wing Angus McInnis (Labor Vancouver South) said Mr. Mackenzie apparently thought a thing was good if done by a Liberal government but wrong if done by a Conservative government since he had raised no objection to the wide powers assumed by the Liberal government of British Columbia.

Budget Day

Next week the House will have a new interest for Wednesday will be budget day, Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, indicated. In the interval between the passage of the relief bill and the budget the House will likely be asked to vote some more estimates.

TRAIN WRECK AIMED AT FEY

RADICALS SUSPECTED.

VIENNA, April 14 (AP)—Train-wreckers who derailed the Vienna-Paris-London express were trying to kill Emil Fey, Vice-Chancellor of Austria, it was learned to-day.

Fey was travelling to Salsburg in the saloon coach of the train when the locomotive, mail car and baggage car plunged into a ditch between Wels and Linz, capital of Upper Austria.

Although the Paris-bound train was travelling at fairly high speed, the sleepers and the other passenger coaches remained upright. Their occupants escaped with a shaking up.

Two persons, the fireman and a postal employee, were killed and a score of other trainmen and other postal employees were injured.

Authorities announced that the Left Radical group was suspeoted of carrying out the wrecking plot. Police were trailing suspects. They indicated they expected numerous arrests soon.

WESTERN TOWN ESCAPES RETURN TO LAMP DAYS

BLAIRMOHE, Alta., April 14. — (C.P.). — Old-fashioned kerosene lamps and candles by the dozen went back into reserve in scores of Blairmore homes to-day.

Meeting in special session last night, the Town Council reversed its decision to cut off all electric light power because the town lost an appeal against acquittal of a ratepayer on a charge of stealing electricity.

Instead, a conference will be held between town officials and the Attorney-General's Department of Alberta at Edmonton, when the whole situation will be reviewed. Pending the outcome of the conference, electric power will be sold as usual to consumers.

NAZI-CATHOLIC BATTLE ON

HOENIGSBERG, Germany, April 13 (AP)—Members of the East Prussia Nazi Youth Organization rallied behind their leader to-day for a "finish fight" for supremacy over the Catholic Youth Movement.

Their chief, Herr Ammerlahn, told a mass meeting last night that that the Nazi Assocation was prepared for the battle and intended to see it through.

INSULL STARTS VOYAGE HOME

Down-hearted Captive Cheered by Hope Wife May Join Him at Catania.

SITS AT CAPTAIN'S TABLE.

S.S. EXILONA, bound for the United States from Smyrna, Turkey, April 14 (AP).—Samuel Insull, homeward bound in the custody of a United States official, was cheered to-day by the possibility he may be joined for most of the long journey by his wife.

The Exonia is holding cabin accommodations open so that Mrs. Insull may embark at Catalina, Sicily, if she can make arrangements. She is now in Athens.

It was understood Mrs. Insull's party would number six. The booking, however, was indefinite.

The Exilonia, nosing through the Aegean Islands at 12 knots an hour, is expected to reach Catania late in the day on April 16.

The down-hearted captive, who sought to put aside his worries by exchanging anecdotes with the American diplomat in whose custody he is being returned, was assigned to the captain's table to-day.

THIEVES ENTER HASTINGS SHEDS

Looking for Outboard Motors in River Boathouses Belief of Constable.

LOOT SMALL.

HASTINGS, April 14 (Examiner Correspondende). — Thieves made a wholesale break-in of boathouses on the south side of the river some time during the week. The majority of the owners were down on Sunday and everything was in perfect condition. On Friday afternoon William West who is a county constable was engaged in some work near the cottages when he discovered the boat houses had been entered. The following boat houses were entered, Messrs. Hogarth, Warrington, Kingsmill, Allen, Dufforts, and Page of Toronto, and A. L. Jexs of Cobourg, the latter's cottage and woodshed were also entered. Speaking to the Examiner late on Friday night Mr. West was of the opinion that the thieves were looking for motors, but he felt that their loot was small.

A Fightin' Pup

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., April 13. (CP)—The story of a small terrier that trailed and fought four wolves arrived here to-day from Newberry, Michigan. The terrier, Mickey, owned by Dan Shepard, caretaker of the Whorl Club in Newberry, had gone hunting with his master when they crossed tracks of four wolves. Mickey set out to trail the animals and within a few minutes Shepard heard him whining. He fired his gun in the air to frighten away the animals then set out to look for the pet. At the end of a trail of blood he found the dog torn and with two ribs broken. Mickey is recovering.

NURSE CLAIMS OATHS UTTERED BY HOUSEKEEPER

Undertaker Also Testifies Woman Appeared Cursing Someone on Way to Hospital.

DR. PRATT TRIAL.

Sixteen Witnesses Remain For Crown and Ten for Defense.

PERTH, Ont., April 14 (C.P.). — When the murder trial of Dr. Wilton Pratt, 71-year-old Smiths Falls physician, opened to-day, 26 witnesses were still to be heard. Thirteen witnesses for the Crown have concluded their testimony and 16 more will be heard along with 10 defence witnesses.

Dr. Pratt is charged with the murder of his 60-year-old housekeeper, Miss Eva Elizabeth McLean, who died last December 31 after suffering severe burns in a fire at the Pratt home. The Crown alleges she had been knocked down and drugged.

Yesterday at the trial before Mr. Justice Patrick Kerwin, Constables R. W. Dixon and James Beckett of Smiths Falls testified they believed Dr. Pratt was drunk on the night of the fire. Constable Beckett said he had often seen Dr. Pratt and Miss McLean together, but he had not seen Miss McLean drunk, although he know she had been drinking on several occasions.

Speaks To Women.

As the aged doctor left the court room yesterday he stopped to speak to his daughter and sister who attended the hearing and the women appeared pleased after a few words with physician who faces 10 charges of performing illegal operations besides the murder charge.

Constable Dixon said he had found what he believed was a blood-stained handkerchief in the doctor's pocket.

When removing Miss McLean to hospital after the fire, Gordon Marsh, undertaker, said she was semi-conscious and "kept repeating sounds which gave me the impression she was cursing some one."

The burned mattress on the woman's bed was exhibited along with burned matches. Miss Margaret Findlay, nurse supervisor at Smiths Falls Public Hospital, said Miss McLean's body had been terribly burned and her face also was burned. Miss Findlay also stated the woman muttered swear words as she lay unconscious on the hospital bed.

The nurse said Miss McLean swore and muttered that "I want to get up."

FROSTS IN JUNE BLASTED CROPS

Talking of Hard Winter, Old-Timer Recalls Tales of Chilly Summers.

KINGSTON, April 13 (C.P.). — Prophets of doom who fortell dire consequences of the severe winter should turn to the records of other years when Canada was sparsely settled. Five years ago a snowfall in the middle of May caused concern in these parts, but read what an old Kingstonian wrote of the year 1832:

It started on May 11. "That day," says the old Kingstonian's records, "I shall never forget. The 79th Regiment of Kilties was expected to arrive in Kingston from Prescott on the steamer Great Britain . A fearful snowstorm prevailed that day, fully six inches of snow falling. The next morning Hon. John Macaulay, then manager of the Bank of Upper Canada, came over to where I was working, broke the ice in a barrel and measured it. He said it was an inch thick. The trees were all in bloom, but there was no fruit that year, neither apples, plums, gooseberries, currants nor anything else. The frost had destroyed all the buds."

Some old-timers, long since dead, used to speak of the "summerless" year 1816 and say there was not a month that year in which there was not frost or snow. In fact it has been said there was snow on the ground from the middle of June, 1816, until April the next year. Nevertheless records in the Quebec Gazette of that year indicate conditions were not as bad as the old-timers made out.

Not So Bad In 1816.

Of June 6, 1816, the Quebec Gazette said: "From 11 o'clock till 12.30 this day there has been an uninterrupted fall of snow in this city." On August 22 it said: "The weather since the beginning of this month has been uncommonly favorable for the fruits of the earth of every description. On Thursday a great deal of rain fell which threatened some hurt, but yesterday the sky became clear with a pleasant breeze which has removed the bad effects of the rain.

"Contrary to all expectations, the wheat harvest will in some sections be very abundant, and in others at least a middling crop. Barley is said to be productive beyond former years, the grain of astonishing weight. Upon the whole the farmers were never more agreeably disappointed. We are happy to learn the same may be said of Upper Canada."

In its issue of October 10 the newspaper said of September: "On the 11th a severe frost was experienced. The 19th and 20th were extremely warm; the 26th, 27th and 28th the frost was so severe as to complete the destruction of the potato crop which escaped that of the 11th." The earlier frost, it reported, destroyed the Indian corn crop and "it is doubtful whether seed may be obtained for another year."

It said the potatoes "cannot be rated at more than half a crop. The meadows have made little progress since they were mowed. The country has seldom witnessed so great a want of green food for feeding of stock as has been experienced the past summer."

MORTALITY IS HIGH IN SPRING LITTERS

Too Close Confinement and Lack of Iron in System Blamed.

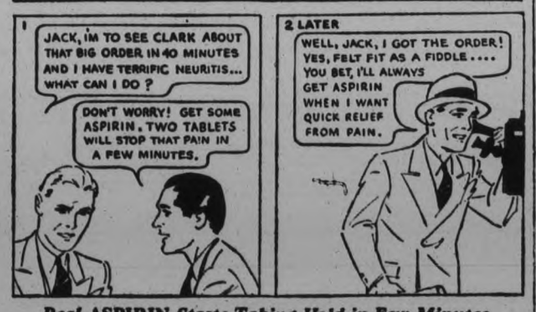
Agricultural Representative A. D. Runions states that he is receiving reports practically every day from farmers who in many cases have lost their entire litters of Spring pigs. In many cases the trouble can be traced to too close confinement of the brood sows on account of the extreme weather during the past winter, while in other cases the trouble seems to have been caused by a lack of iron in the young pigs' system. In the majority of these cases, the young pigs are apparently normal at birth and thrive very well until about ten days to two weeks of age, and then became pale and weak and if the trouble is not corrected, the majority of them die within a few days' time and the remainder become stunted.

To correct this condition, Mr. Runions suggests that farmers supply the youngsters with some form of iron. Reduced iron can be secured at practically all drug stores and the amount that can be lifted on a ten-cent piece is sufficient for one treatment. The young pig is held and the powder dropped on its tongue. The treatment is repeated every second day.

The pigs respond very rapidly to the treatment and five or six treatments usually is sufficient. The reduced iron is inxpensive and as it can be easily given, the treatment is within the reach of every farmer.

When they celebrated their diamond wedding recently Mr. and Mrs. Henry Deacon, living near Winchester, England, were felicitated by the king.

Quick Relief Now From Neuralgia



Real* ASPIRIN *Starts Taking Hold in Few Minutes

Now comes amazingly quick relief from headaches, rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia . . . the fastest safe relief, it is said, yet discovered.

Those results are due to a scientific discovery by which an Aspirin Tablet begins to dissolve, or disintegrate, in the amazing space of two seconds after touching moisture. And hence to start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glass, here, tells the story. An Aspirin Tablet starts to disintegrate almost instantly you swallow it. And thus is ready to go to work almost instantly.

When you buy, though, be on guard against substitutes. To be sure you get ASPIRIN'S quick relief, be sure the name Bayer in the form of a cross is on every tablet of Aspirin.

WHY ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop an Aspirin Tablet in a glass of water. Note that BEFORE it touches bottom, it has started to disintegrate.

What it does in this glass it does in your stomach. Hence its fast action.

The Golden Text

Matthew 6, 12—"Forgive us our debt, as we also have forgiven our debtors."

Sabbath Message For The Shut-Ins

Written for The Examiner by the Ministers of the City.

A MESSAGE FOR A PERPLEXED AND TROUBLED WORLD.
(Rev. F. M. Wootton, Trinity United Church.)

LOOKING out upon the world to-day, we are persuaded that there is something radically wrong. From whence cometh this winter of our discontent and suffering? Let us be honest and confess it comes from ourselves. We have violated the laws of God and ignored the fundamental law of Jesus, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Humanity presents the picture of frantically scrambling to get out of a pit it has digged for itself. Disillusioned, disappointed and in despair, it is seeking for a way out. Where shall it be found? Will any materialistic philosophy show the way? Any socialistic scheme on golden utopia of man's dreams? Long ago in the midst of a troubled and perplexed world the poet wrote, "The heathen raged; the kingdoms were moved; He uttered His voice; the earth melted. Behold the works of the Lord, what desolations He hath made in the earth He maketh wars to cease to the ends of the earth, He breaketh the bow and cutteth the spear in sunder; He burneth the chariot in the fire." This describes a post-war period, and in that day the poet heard the voice of God saying, "Be still and know that I am God!" Here was the way out.

What we need in this day is a fresh conviction of the reality of God. "In the beginning God." The world started right, and is not running away. "The Lord God omnipotent reigneth." He holds the world in order and all is not darkness and confusion.

The most absurd philosophy of life is that this world is run haphazard and by forces we do not understand. The world is not losing out, but is going on to larger and better things. God is not only in the heavens, but on the earth. I believe this because I believe in the steadying and guiding power of a great personality, one who has been revealed in terms of human life, and whom I am privileged to call my Father. Without faith in God we are, as Goethe says, "troubled wanderers on a darkened earth." Inspired by His faith, we can sing:

"Still will we trust, though earth seem dark and dreary,
And the heart faints beneath His chastening rod,
Tho' steep and hard, our pathway worn and weary,
Still will we trust in God."

Faith in God, faith in my fellow-man, faith in myself—these three are absolutely essential for any true philosophy of life. Unhappy is the man who is stampeded by any philosophy or religion of pessimism. Possess the soul in patience.

One of the most precious lessons in life is to learn to evangelize its sorrows. To mould them into the pure gold of character—this is what Paul did. He speaks of the affliction that "worketh for us afar more exceeding and eternal weight of glory." Threatened with the loss of all things, the noble Albert of Belgium exclaimed, "I have not lost my soul!" Let us make sure of THAT!

Cathedral Musings

IT is truly said that an ounce of experience is worth a ton of theory. This is true of every phase of human endeavor, whether it be of the material, spiritual or intellectual planes of activity. Nowhere perhaps is it so vitally necessary, and nowhere is it so woefully lacking as in the spiritual side of our natures. We pride ourselves on having faith and we never stop to think whether that so-called faith is merely a blind credulity based on another's say-so, or a living faith based on knowledge and actual experience. Faith that is based upon hearsay is not and never can be practical, and it can never bear any real relation to our personal needs. It is this abuse of the word faith and the consequent divorcement of God and man that has brought society to the state in which it now finds itself. If faith is not practical it is worse than useless being merely a will of the wisp and not a true guide. St. Paul did not have a vague belief that he saw the vision on the road to Damascus, he KNEW that he did, and that knowledge, that experience, changed him from the bitter, zealous persecutor into the champion of the new religion. Always the great truths are simple, their very simplicity baffles worldly wise. The Master did not teach a complex system of theology, neither did He invent a multitude of sects and creeds. He did, however, teach a few basic truths for men to put into practice, and by which, if men did put them into practice, they would be led into a knowledge of God, and a kingdom of happiness, both in this world and the next.—Frater IX., Rosicrucian Order, San Jose, Calif.

God deals with us as we deal with our fellow-men.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Religious and Social Questions Answered By DR. WYLIE CLARK

I real somewhere that God cannot leave so fine a thing as a human soul on a rubbish pile. Why can't He?—B.R.

A good egg is a fine thing. A bad egg is a rotten thing—a thing to be cast away. So is it all through life, good things are honorable and useful, but bad things are the reverse and are to be destroyed. A good man or woman is the finest thing in all the created things we know, and a bad man or woman is the greatest disappointment in all the hopes of the universe.

Dr. Wylie Clark

The condition of the egg decides where it goes, and so it is with the soul. With all that God may do the soul may continue—willingly continue—in its choice of sin.

We must not forget that there is a vast difference between "good" and "bad." We must also remember the difference between what a soul is and what it might have been.

It is not what might have been, but what is, that finally decides the question. Even God, Himself, has to permit the sinning soul to go its own way and at last be a castaway.

In what part of Jerusalem was "The City of David," and why was it so called?—C.D.

It was the name given to the stronghold which David took from the Jebusites. The situation was evidently in the southeastern part, near the Pool of Siloam and north of the juncture of the valleys of Hinnom and Kidron.

In the sentence, "Thanks be to God who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ," what victory is meant? —A.F.M.

This verse comes at the close of chapter fifteen of first Corinthians. Paul has been leading his readers on a march of victory—a march in which is celebrated the conquest of death and the triumph of life. Death is swallowed up in victory and the grave is defeated.

In the resurrection of Jesus the assurance of this victory is announced, and those who can believe are delivered from the fear and end which seemed to lie in the tomb. No greater victory could have been won and no better promise could have been given.

Through this victory death becomes only an incident in the life of the believer and, like all other happenings, contributes to the development of eternal life.

What is meant by saying, "The wisdom of this world is foolishness with God?"—W.P.

The wisdom of this world concerns itself about the things of this life. The amount of money we may obtain, the number of possessions we may accumulate, the positions to which we may attain, the ambitions we may glory in, the learning we may boast, the pleasures we may follow, and the appetites we may indulge are all tied up to a purely selfish expenditure of our abilities and energies. In all this we are worldly wise, but have only the things which must be left behind when we leave this life—that is, they belong to this world, and cannot be retained apart from it.

For anyone to seek only these things is to commit extreme folly; because he has neglected to seek and to acquire those things which pertain to God—righteousness, peace and joy in the Holy Spirit.

What does it mean to spiritualize economics?—E.S.

It means to make the economic order Christian through and through. If we have the Spirit of Christ in our hearts and faith then we are to put that spirit into all business transactions and relationships. Human life and not profits is to be our first consideration. The souls of the people are not to be crushed by the oppression upon their bodies in getting a living and having a mere existence.

During these days this spirit is struggling in many ways to find recognition and gain supremacy.

It is through the church that this spirit should manifest itself and bear fruit. If the church refuses to act or moves too slowly we may be certain that through some other channel this spirit will assert itself and show its power. If guided wisely this spirit will prove the salvation of the world, if misdirected—lowing accounts:

He who cannot give a penny may yet flood another's life with sunshine.

Happy he who through all the vicissitudes of life holds fast his faith.

Two main features of gentility are propriety and consideration for others.

One must be able to compel the trivial to the expression of the sublime.

Of all the beautiful things, the most beautiful is a complete human life.

The men who try to do something and fail are infinitely better than those who try to do nothing and succeed.

The Sinai Bible

ONE of the most precious treasures of Christendom has been secured by the British Government from the Soviet Government in the purchase of Codex Sinaiticus.

The Sinai Bible was secured for the Emperor of Russia and the Orthodox Church of the East in 1859 and has since remained a treasure of the Eastern Church. The Codex probably dates from the fourth century and is of immense value in establishing the true test of Scripture. Following the political upheaval in Russia, the Codex passed into the hands of the Soviet Government and some fears were entertained for its safety. However, it has been well cared for, and three years ago was seen by Mr. Maggs, a London bookseller, in Leningrad. Negotiations with the Russian Government were then opened and announcement of their completion was made at the end of 1933.

Of the £100,000 which is to be paid as the purchase price the British Government undertook to contribute pound for pound, that is, it will find half the amount, relying on public subscriptions for the remaining half. The Bible societies have been asked to assist, not in the way of making any financial appeal, but by providing a channel through which those who desire to contribute might do so. The Bible Society has made it clear that it is making no appeal for funds, and that amounts contributed for the Codex in no way benefit the Bible Society. The Upper Canada Bible Society in Toronto has announced, however, that it will gladly receive and acknowledge and in due time forward to London any amounts sent it plainly marked "For Sinai Bible Account."

This previous manuscript is unfortunately incomplete, but it includes all the New Testament and nearly half of the old. It is beautifully lettered in Greek characters, and copies of certain pages made by photographic process are obtainable from the British Museum where the manuscript now is.

He that takes time to mourn lacks time to mend.

Jesus Teaches Forgiveness

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Matt. 18:15-35.

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

Copyright, 1934, by Central Press Association, Inc.

After Jesus told his disciples the parable of the shepherd seeking the one lost sheep he proceeded to teach them how they should forgive folks who had wronged them. Peter asked whether seven times was often enough. Jesus replied, "Not seven times, but seventy times seven."

We are to make every effort, first privately, then in company with others, then with the help of the whole church to make up with folks who have wronged us. Jesus promises such a church that "Where two or three are gathered in my name there am I in the midst of them."

To teach us to forgive he told a story of a king whose servant owed him ten thousand talents, equal to millions of dollars. When the servant begged for patience the king freely forgave the enormous debt as God in Christ has forgiven us. But the servant was not grateful.

This forgiven servant found a fellow servant owing him only a hundred pence. To his pleas for mercy he paid no attention, saying, "Pay me what you owe me". Hearing of this the king imprisoned him until he should pay his debt.

NEEDLESS DELAY.

The prolonged debate going on in the House of Commons over the Government's relief bill is the sort of thing that disgusts a great many Canadians with politics.

The passage of this legislation has been held up for weeks, and to the man on the street there does not seem to be any sound reason for the delay.

The Opposition, of course, is entirely justified in making it clear that it is emphatically against the principle of the "peace, order and good government" clause in the bill, but having clarified its position in that respect, there does not seem to be any good purpose served by blocking the legislation day after day.

In the first place, it will in the long run be carried in spite of the Opposition.

In the second, there is the fact that a similar clause has been in existence for the past three years, and nothing that has happened as a result of this power being extended to the Government justifies any prolonged opposition to the measure at this stage of the game.

However, political partisanship seems to demand a show being put on, and so the relief bill is being obstinately opposed with the result that the Government has been without any authority since the end of last month to continue its relief program, and days that might be devoted to the discussion of important business are being wasted in a blockade that must eventually be lifted.

THE PROPER ATTITUDE.

When Mayor Stewart of Toronto reprimanded an unemployed deputation the other day because they attempted to present a list of "demands," he took a stand that will earn the approval of all thoughtful citizens.

There is a certain type among those on relief who need just such a sharp rebuke as Toronto's chief magistrate administered when he remarked, "You come in here next week with a 'demand' and I'll have you taken out by a police officer."

The sooner it is realized that relief is being provided because of a sincere desire on the part of those who are able to pay that less fortunate citizens should be taken care of, and not because unemployed persons have a right to "demand" a living from the rest of the community, the better it will be for the whole country.

The majority of the people who have had to seek assistance realize that fact, and have been wonderfully courageous and patient in the face of unprecedented conditions; it is a noisy minority composed of agitators and their dupes that that cause all the trouble and that formulate impossible requests which they present to the authorities as if they were entitled to every concession they see fit to "demand."

No deputation that asks for a hearing in the proper way and in the right spirit should be refused an opportunity to present their case, but when municipal authorities are interviewed by delegations who begin their presentation by "We demand," the only logical course is a flat refusal to listen further.

LEGALIZED SWEEPSTAKES.

It is interesting to note that while the Canadian Senate has given third reading to a measure legalizing sweepstakes in this country, the British Government has just introduced a bill in the House of Lords making it an offence to sell tickets for sweepstakes in England, Scotland and Wales, to send money out of the country for them or to receive money as winnings.

The bill also bans the advertising of a lottery of any kind, and the publication of lists of winners in the newspapers, while newspaper competitions in which the element of skill is not paramount are also prohibited.

Just at a time when certain members of Canada's Parliament would open the gates wide to this form of gambling, the British Government has decided to put its foot down firmly upon all kinds of lotteries.

The measure proposed in the Old Country is so sweeping that it is declared that such events as the Irish Free State sweepstake will be practically put out of business; although it remains to be seen whether the instinct to take a chance which seems to be a fundamental part of human nature will be killed by the drastic legislation.

So far as Canada is concerned, there does not seem to be even likelihood of the Sweepstakes Bill passing the House of Commons, despite the approval of a majority of the Senate and the fact that the vote in the lower chamber is to be taken on a non-partisan basis.

Many members of the Commons are known to be strongly opposed to legalized sweepstakes, and it is predicted that the measure will fail to weather the storm.

ON THE SPOT.

Undoubtedly the pre-election announcement by the Ontario Government of a 25 per cent. increase in relief food allowances has put the municipalities "on the spot."

While the majority of municipal relief boards are convinced that there is no justification for granting bigger allowances at this time, the publicity given the offer of the Government is causing strong pressure to be exerted in favor of the increase, and municipal governments which refuse to yield are placed in the position of depriving their unemployed citizens of something the provincial administration has stated they should have.

In spite of the situation, however, The Examiner believes that local relief authorities should take no action in regard to the Government offer; as we understand it, there is nothing compulsory about the announced increase, and municipal governments have it in their own hands to decide whether or not more relief shall be given.

The amazing feature about the announcement from the Henry Government is that, although relief is provided jointly by Provincial and Federal Governments and the municipalities, each contributing one-third of the cost, Queen's Park has apparently authorized an increase in relief without consulting the two other contributing parties.

Certainly the approval of the municipalities was not sought, nor is there any record of the Federal Government being approached in the matter.

Coming on the eve of a provincial campaign, the whole transaction has an off-color appearance, and the municipalities should refuse to be stampeded into backing up what looks like nothing more or less than an election gesture.

It is remarkable state of affairs if one partner in the relief scheme can off its own bat commit the other two contributing members to a 25 per cent. increase in the relief burden, already a troublesome load to carry.

A POPULAR SYSTEM.
(Chatham News)

An outstanding example of the success which has followed the establishment of council-manager government is provided by Two Rivers, Wisconsin, a city of 10,000 population, which has passed through another turbulent depression year with a surplus of $65,196.

Two Rivers is listed by headquarters of the International City Managers' Association in Chicago as one of the number of smaller cities making an outstanding success of this form of government.

The showing there was made with a low tax rate of $25 per $1,000 valuation, a rate attained only after several years of the city-manager regime, and with the burden of relief on a par generally with other cities its size. The tax rate in 1924 was $35.38, and steadily decreased through the decade.

Total receipts of $384,465 have been reported for 1933, with operating expenditures listed at $232,913 and outlay expenditures $86,355.09, bringing combined expenses to $319,268.

With responsibility centrally located in the city-manager's office, this record has been achieved without impairing or curtailing service to the public in any way.

The $65,196 revenue excess over expenses was attained by strict measures of economy and supervision under the rule of the manager.

The Two Rivers fire department report shows what is believed to be one of lowest 1933 fire loss marks in the natioh, a mark of 4 cents per capita. Police records also reveal a negligible property loss with a good record of stolen goods recovered and speedy justice administered to lawbreakers.

This recital of success in Two Rivers is decidedly interesting in this city where the council-manager form of government prevails. It shows what can be done when this system of control is given a fair chance to succeed and is accorded hearty co-operation of all civic representatives and officials.

CONDITION OF YOUTH.

One of the most unfortunate effects of the depression has been the plight in which many of our young people find themselves to-day, as they are ready to step out into the world to take their place among people and events. It is estimated that there are about 6,000,000 young men and young women in the United States, for instance, who are out of jobs, and one of the greatest problems of the government in the country to the south is to provide them with employment.

The figures for this country are not available at the moment, but it is quite evident that a similar problem exists in Canada. The condition in the States has been the cause of a warning issued by the New York Committee on Mental Hygiene, which finds in extended joblessness a grave menace to the mental balance of the young people. This committee regards this unemployment as a serious thing which tends to cause "a growing sense of guilt, discouragement and even chronic malcontentment," and once this state of mind is created it is difficult for them to adjust themselves to the society in which they live.

It is one thing to point to this problem, but an entirely different thing to indicate the solution. It cannot be denied that a large number of our population are still unemployed, and while under certain conditions of disaster the rule is to consider the "children and women first," the opposite is true with unemployment, the only fair rule being to provide work for the married men before all others. Thus these young people, eager to take their place in the world of commerce and professionalism, are compelled to temporarily stand aside.

The suggestion that idleness may have an undesirable effect upon their minds, indicates the deplorable problem thus created. Fortunately we are emerging from the worst of unemployment, and plans are being made to hasten the ushering in of better days, but the problem of our young people is one which should be borne prominently in mind, even though immediate action may not be possible to restore to them what is undoubtedly their just due.—Chatham Daily News.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Ontario Cabinet is to enter the provincial election unchanged, despite the opinion that Mr. Henry proposed to shake up his batting order to get more punch for the campaign.

Mitchell Hepburn replied to a radio speech by Premier Bennett at a South Oxford campaign meeting the other night. That seems to be taking an unfair advantage, for his audience could not tune the Liberal leader out, while they could get rid of the Premier by merely twisting the gadget on the dial.

Two Conservative members of the Legislature have been elevated to the bench, and will undoubtedly have more ease of mind with an election in sight than their former colleagues in the House.

If the dry forces and the C.C.F. enter the provincial campaign on a large scale, the situation in many constituencies will give the political experts some food for thought.

South Oxford's much-addressed electors will now proceed to say it with ballots. It would be helpful to know how many voters have changed their views as a result of the oratory with which the riding has been flooded in recent weeks.

STORM DRIFT

CHAPTER 38

Viola's clutching fingers stirred in Tiggie's, but for the passage of many terrible seconds she only gasped out her anguish in a silence more poignant than any attempt at speech. At last, after an interval of suffering which to him seemed well-nigh unendurable, she moved her head slightly so that her face was partly visible to him. Her breathing grew quieter and the grip of her hands became less tense. She spoke very faintly, so that he scarcely caught the words. "I'm so sorry."

"Sorry!" whispered Tiggie into her hair. "Sorry! Oh, you poor little girl! Poor darling!"

She moved a little further so that her white forehead was close to his lips. She said nothing, yet after a moment or two the knowledge came to him as though she had spoken that she would have him take that which she had not the strength to offer. He bent a little lower and very softly kissed her temple.

Her fingers moved again, gently closing upon his. The paroxysm had passed, but she still gasped fitfully from time to time. He thought that her breathing was growing slower, and an awful fear gripped his heart. He sat, holding his own, listening to it. And the long rhythmic wash of the waves on the shore rose up like a solemn chant, seeming to fill the sun-lit spaces with music from another world. It was as though they two, alone on their raft, drifted in from the stormy waters to a strand unknown.

He still kept her hand, fondling it against his cheek, but he made no attempt to rouse her, dreading a return of the suffering almost more than the possibility that she might slip beyond it. Motionless and silent, he knelt there, watching till presently she stirred again and opened her eyes upon his face. But yet for a space she did not speak, lying there gazing at him with those deep misty eyes that seemed to be trying to tell him something that words could not utter.

It was he who at length broke the silence, softly stroking the thin childish wrist. "You're feeling—a little better now?"

Her faint smile showed like a far-off gleam of sunshine. She spoke, haltingly, with effort. "I wish—I could tell you—how I feel. But it's better—perhaps—you should never know. It was nice of you—to say you loved me."

"I do," he said. "Child, I love you with all my heart."

She caught her breath in a sigh. "That is—so like you," she said.

There followed another spell of silence. She lay relaxed—too weak, he thought, to suffer any more.

Then again her voice came to him, very low, with a touch of pleading.

"Tiggie," she said, "don't—don't tell anyone—about you and me! Let's keep it—a secret!—Do you mind?"

"I will do whatever you wish," he told her steadily—"just whatever you wish."

She smiled at him again—her eyelids slowly drooping. "Thank you, Tiggie," she murmured. "Thank you." And then, as her eyes closed, "Good-by, dear—good-by!"

She uttered another short sigh and lay still. And to Tiggie, watching, it seemed as if a dark shadow crept over her face as though a veil had fallen between them.

He got to his feet without sound, with a bewildered feeling that he ought to call someone, just as the nurse entered, spotless and practical, and came to his side.

Tiggie turned to her helplessly. "Look! What is it? Is she—is she——"

"No—no!" kindly she reassured him as though he had been a scared child. "It's just a little faintness. She'll be better presently. You leave her to me. It'll be all right."

Tiggie felt that he had been given a definite order and there was nothing left but to obey. Silently he drew back from the bed, giving place as it were to the higher authority, and then, no further notice being taken of him, crept away on tiptoe, refraining from looking back because of the fear that lay like a dead weight at his heart.

Harvey joined him outside the cottage, took him by the arm and gave vent to cheery prognostications which, so far as Tiggie was concerned, might have been uttered in a foreign language. He steered him gently at the same time in the direction of "The Sea Lion", and when he got there, impelled him to the bar-parlor and called to Joe Penny for a drink.

The landlord, delighted to oblige, brought drinks for two and showed a disposition to linger for a gossip which was instantly and rather brutally frustrated by Harvey.

"No, we don't want to talk. "We're busy. You go and attend to the rest of the world! If we want any more, I'll let you know."

So Joe Penny retired, and Harvey stood over Tiggie with grim insistence while he gulped down some of the drink provided. That accomplished, he relaxed somewhat and sat down to drink at his own leisure.

"You stay quiet for a bit, old chap!" he said. "You've had a damned trying time, but there's nothing more you can do, so stop trying!"

Tiggie leaned back on a horsehair sofa and wiped his forehead. "She's going to die, Harvey," he said.

"Rot!" said Harvey. "That's all you know about it. Girls of that age don't die so easily. Besides, there's your friend Spot. He wouldn't let her."

"Spot can't help her," said Tiggie.

He sat miserably bowed, his hands clasped between his knees, his eyes on the floor. Harvey clapped an urgent hand on his shoulder.

"Pull yourself together, man! What's the good of believing the worst? Don't you know it never happens? Drink a little more! It'll put life into you."

Tiggie obeyed with pathetic, docility. Now that there was no more to be done his courage seemed to be ebbing away. It had been a terrific battle. To a man of his easy temperament, little accustomed to make any great fight to attain his own ends, it had seemed colossal. And now, apparently, it was all to no purpose. He was to stand by while the edifice of his hopes raised by such painful effort crumbled into dust. The hand he had grasped in the height of the storm had slipped once more from his. He was powerless to hold it, powerless to help her. He had pitted himself against the inevitable, and he knew now the bitterness of utter failure. And because of the fight he had made, his defeat was all the harder, for that for which he had fought had become tenfold more precious to him during the conflict. In losing her now, he lost everything that made life worth living. It was as though he had multiplied his stake in the hazard to the utmost limit and beyong it, and now all was gone. He faced total ruin.

But Harvey remained—Harvey, the bizarre of soul, who viewed the drama of life from the extraordinary angle of a critic seated comfortably in the stalls, an independent witness of its tragedies and its joys. He was so sure that all would end well that it almost needed an effort of common sense to disbelieve him. Not that he wanted to look on the dark side, but he had seen too much to allow any self-deception. The shadow of death was too near to be ignored. He had seen it on her face and in her eyes. Notwithstanding the optimism so resolutely pressed upon him, he could not rid himself of the ultimate conviction that when next he looked upon that face those eyes would be forever closed.

The drink that Harvey pressed upon him restored his self-control, though it scarcely altered his outlook. He got up when it was finished with a weary sense of restlessness. Impossible to remain quiescent while up there in the little stone cottage on the cliff the life that meant so much to him hung in the balance!

He turned to the door and wandered out aimlessly, conscious of Harvey swiftly gulping the rest of his own drink to follow him. The noonday sun beat fiercely upon him, but he only realized it when Harvey pushed his hat into his hand. Then, cramming it over his eyes, he moved blindly towards the shore. For the next hour or more he would live an eternity. No doubt Spot would finally come and tell him, very gently, when it was all over. He had got to fill in time until that happened.

The children had gone in to their midday meal and the beach was deserted. With a kind of stubborn endurance, he tramped down to the dancing waves that swirled over the low rocks. His pipe was in his pocket and he felt for it mechanically, but when he found it he did not take it out. He stood on the very edge of the sea and looked out to the skyline, like a lost dog washed up from a wreck seeking his master. Everything in the world seemed to be alive and joyous except himself. The sparkle and the beauty hurt him vaguely. Had it been a day of gray desolation, it would have been somehow easier to bear.

He was glad that Harvey did not accompany him. He needed solitude just then, and it was decent of old Harvey to realize it; though what he was going to do now that he was alone he did not know. Last night, in accordance with little Joyce's earnest desire, he had made a definite effort to pray, but he did not feel that it had been a great success. It had been like knocking feebly at an iron door that barred all progress, and after a time he had lost heart and ceased to knock. Today he had not even the strength to attempt it, weighed down as he was by the awful conviction that nothing that he did now could make any difference. He was worn out with vain effort. All that was left was to stand and endure.

After a time he began to walk along the edge of the spreading wavelets, his feet crunching, through the shingle on which they broke with a soft tinkling sound in strange contrast to the roar of the breakers outside the bay. He came to the rocks and began to climb over them. The tide was coming in, and each wave that ran curling up the beach was a little deeper than the last. It was like life, he reflected What was the good of trying to stave off the inevitable? Even the granite of which the cliffs were made could not do that forever. They had to crumble, everything crumbled before the overwhelming forces of Destiny.

A Thought

A FRIEND

A friend—it is another name for God,
Whose love inspires all love, is all in all;
Profane it not, lest lowest shame befall!
Worship no idol, whether star or clod!
Nor think that any friend is truly thine,
Save as life's closest link with Love divine.

(By Marshall Maslin.)

A PIECE OF PAPER

Here's a piece of clean yellow paper....I slip it into this typewriter, take my feet from off the desk, square myself before the machine and go to work. No matter how lazy or stupid I feel, no matter how I may itch to be loafing along a mountain road somewhere, this job must be done....So I sit here, putting one word after another onto this piece of paper. Making something more than a piece of paper. Hoping I may improve it. Fearing I will not....One thing I do know. When I have finished this writing, when I take this paper from the machine, what I have written will be so much less, so much weaker, than I intended it to be. It has always been so. I have always been dissatisfied with the words that come forth from these fingers onto the clean paper.

The paper will travel to the composing room. A man will take these words and put them onto little metal slugs. The slugs will be locked into a "form." A piece of soft cardboard will be placed over the type and the "form" and the soft cardboard will be run under a heavy roller. Thus these words will be impressed into the paper. Downstairs liquid metal will run into those hollows in the paper to make a half-cylinder of more metal and those half-cylinders will be locked onto a great press....Long sheets of clean, white paper from great rolls will run over those cylinders and these words of mine will come out in this newspaper.

Here they are now. The yellow paper is thrown away. The metal is melted and goes back into the pot. The newspaper is read and used to start tomorrow morning's fire....These words of mine go up the chimney in flame and smoke. What is left?

You sit here and think of your own life. Of all you have done and intended to do. The little acts, the big ones, the failures, the achievements; your life, the life of many generations, all the lives that have been....And you hope that just one of your accomplishments was important. That one of them lasted and helped some other fumbling mortal ahead....Just as a man who writes hopes that just one of his words, phrases, articles did a scrap of good in this world, helped one other man, strengthened him, gave him courage....And it makes you feel like praying.

Foreign Affairs

THE UNITED STATES
Assembling the Facts in the Controversy or Realities in the Form of a Short Story.
(By H. W. L. MAHOOD)

Stories are built out of personalities, and events, and scenes. This is, The Story of The New Deal. Not everything about this venture in American government can be written in short compass. But some things characteristic will be recorded. The setting will be the Southland. If the New Deal holds the secret of recovery, it ought to succeed in this locality. Everything needed for food and clothing suitable to the climate grows there. Winter never shows its face. Summer games are played the year round. To live is cheap for rich and poor.

Here comes a big man. We are riding through the State of Mississippi. The big man is Marion M. Riley. He is quite well known in his native state. A few years ago he was a candidate for the Governorship. A dozen more votes would have elected him. The reader will be interested in his replies to a few questions. What do you think about the prospect of recovery? —"You know," he said in a confidential tone, "there are too many people altogether. What we need is a war. That'll thin them out and start things humming again. The trouble is that I can't seem to get anyone to agree with me. The American Legion boys aren't saying much, but there isn't a one who isn't sorry he went over. Sentiment's against war. Yes, but that doesn't mean anything. You know how it is. When the flag waving starts, and the band begins playing, and everybody's making speeches about atrocities—everything changes then. It can be whipped up easily."

Mr. Riley, have you studied the working of Federal relief in your state?—"Well, yes. Just as long as the government keeps pouring money into the state the people will keep asking for charity. But it is not this willingness to take charity that's bothering me so much as everybody talking about imposing higher personal taxes. What scares me is when you get a man like my partner, who has more money than I have, saying that the government ought to redistribute the wealth of the country. He says it is right, morally right, and legally right for a government, whose people are starving, to confiscate part or all of the wealth in the hands of the few. You'll be surprised how many of the people are talking like that now, substantial citizens, too, who are ready to have their own money taxed heavily if the same is done to the huge fortunes."

"They think the whole cause of the depression is the concentration of wealth in the hands of the few. There's a good deal of unrest in this state and a lot of sentiment against the rich. They feel that the government has not only allowed, but helped the rich to get richer at the expense of the poor. And feeling the way they do, I tell you that I am afraid to think of what might happen if government money stops coming here."

"Take my own city for instance. Meriden is an industrial city. Great railroad shops have been built. It's always been a strong union place, and you'd expect that sort of talk, but now you find it in the farming areas. These union men were pretty conservative, but you know what happened? They and a lot of unemployed organized themselves and demanded that the C.W.A. money be turned over to them for distribution, instead of to public officials. That's what is the matter with Labor.

"They just seem to want somebody of their own picking to handle everything. They don't trust the man in public office any more."

"Well, sir I tell you it looked like trouble. They were so mad when they were turned down, that they were going to smash the C.W.A. office. There was plenty trouble in the air. I had to talk to them—I am a union lawyer, you know, and they know I'm always for the union men, and the workmen. A couple of other leading citizens talked to 'em, and told them to get back of the President. We finally managed to keep that unemployed meeting from breaking up in a riot."

Riley has a method for recovery. Put the men back on the land where they can grow their own food, and their own raw material for clothing." If everybody works the land and grows his own vegetables they'll have enough to eat."

How will they get money for clothes and taxes?"

"Sell the surplus produce."

"To whom—if everybody works the land?"

He shrugged his shoulders.

"It's beyond me," he finally said. "What do you think?" There was no answer from the questioner. Riley left the train. He was a puzzled politician. Mississippi people are as much puzzled as was Riley when he left the train at Jacksonville.

A few miles out of the city a farmer got on the train. He was heavy set, and unshaven. His face was as red as a beet. His hands were hardened by many years of exacting toil. From the windows groups of negroes could be seen in fields where cotton and grain trash were being burned. Here our story comes to the end for the present. The farmer will say his say.

Loot Is Recovered In C.N.R. Ice House

Railway detectives are investigating the discovery of buried treasure in the C.N.R. ice house on Bethune street by workmen of the Allin Ice Co. yesterday. Digging in the sowdust the men uncovered two bags of chewing gum and life savers.

The bags are thought to be the loot of thieves who broke into a C.N.R. freight car several weeks ago.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 14 (AP).—The stock market was almost at a standstill in to-day's brief session. Trading was the dullest since the early part of January.

The more active issues held to narrow grooves and price changes generally were unimportant. The close was fairly steady. Transfers approximated 500,000 shares.

TORONTO MINING.

TORONTO, April 14 (CP).—The mining section of the Toronto Stock Exchange merely crawled along in the closing session of the week, with trading almost at the disappearing point in the big issues. The general tone improved near the close.

In the secondary gold group, volume was substantial in Howey and Siscoe, with the former off a cent to $1.26 and the latter up 10 cents to $2.50.

Hollinger, Dome, Pioneer and Teck Hughes were unchanged, and Lake Shore was off about 25 cents. Wright Hargreaves gained 15 to 9.90.

TORONTO NDUSTRIALS.

TORONTO, April 14. —(C.P.) — Trading was concentrated in the Oils, Distillers Seagrams, Ford 'A', Nickel and Loblaw 'A' in to-day's two-hour session on the Industrial Board of the Toronto Stock Exchange and the price structure was barely steady.

Imperial Oil and International Petroleum were well out in front for volume and Pete closed with a gaing of ⅜ at 26⅛ and Imperial closed unchanged, having run into sufficient profit-taking to erase the morning advance to a fraction above 15.

Distillers Seagram showed the only action of importance in the Distillery group, and a gain of ¼ to 21 was registered, Industrial Alcohol closed unchanged at 16 and Walkers common weakened ¼ to 43¾. Brewers and Distillers closed unchanged.

Fully 120 tons of sponges were gathered in the season just ended by 900 boats operating in the Mediterranean from Tunis.

JOHN DILLINGER AGAIN VANISHES

Desperado Evades All Blockades—Girl Friend Held for Aiding Previous Escape.

UNDER HEAVY GUARD.

CHICAGO, April 14 (AP)—John Dillinger, No. 1 vanishing outlaw of United States, has vanished again.

The "here to-day and gone tomorrow" criminal left a cold trail in Indiana, where he replenished his arms at the expense of the Warsaw, Ind., police early Friday. Road blockades and scurrying squads of officers determined to shoot on sight failed to catch him.

While fortune smiled on Dillinger one of his girl friends, Miss Evelyn Frechette—like some of the other acquaintance of the notorious public enemy—was not so fortunate. She was held in $50,000 bond for a hearing April 21 on the question whether she shall be extradited to St. Paul on a charge of helping Dillinger escape a machine gun trap in a St. Paul apartment house.

Shortly afterward deputy marshals raided a safety deposit box of the Lincoln Safe Deposit Company on the north side, presumably to recover bonds and cash stolen by the Dillinger mob from banks in Mason City, Iowa and Sioux Falls, S.D. Only a small amount of cash and some jewelry were found, but the raid gave rise to a report, which was denied by the authorities, that the Frechette girl had, in the language of the underworld, "squealed."

Despite the denial extraordinary precautions were taken to cope with a possible attempt by Dillinger to take her from Federal officers who had held her in Communicado since last Monday.

EGGS PLENTIFUL ON LOCAL MARKET

Butter Generally Priced at 30 Cents, Potatoes $1.50 Per Bag.

A little pet pigeon was turned into a roasted squab and came to market this morning, all ready for the plate, a delicacy that might be bought for twenty-five cents.

There were hundreds of dozens of eggs in the basket section and few buyers. One man was determined that the price in the paper should not be quoted at less than eighteen cents a dozen, declaring that the lower-priced eggs were not worthy to be mentioned. But there were upwards of twenty vendors who went as low as 15 cents a dozen, and several were selling at 14 cents.

"I grade my eggs and charge accordingly," said one woman whose quotations ranged from 16 to 18 cents a dozen. This lady also referred to the fact that pointed eggs are not as good buying as those with more blunted shapes.

Butter was generally priced at 30 cents a pound, with several dealers selling at 27 cents and a couple at 26 cents a pound.

Fowl was fairly scarce. Year-old chickens were 16 and 17 cents, with six-months' birds at 18 cents a pound. A setting of duck eggs (12) was 50 cents.

Horseradish in little glass jars was selling at 15 and 20 cents and home-made loaves of bread, white and crusty, were 12 to 15 cents.

Little cakes of maple sugar were 10 cents each. Maple syrup ranged in price from 50 to 65 cents a quart.

Potatoes were $1.50 a bag, and Irish Cobblers $2.

Little collie pups were $1 each, and Angora and Belgian rabbits 25 and 35 cents.

A fresh fish vendor had plenty of patrons. Pike and perch were priced at 10 cents a pound, with mudcats at 15 cents.

Spy apples were 40 cents a peck, Peewaukees and Starks were $1.25 in bushel hampers.

The meat man had various products on view. Big, placid pigs' heads were 30 cents each, pork livers were 25 cents and beef liver was 10 cents a pound, calves' tongues were a dime apiece, a sheep's head (fine for roasting, declared one customer who regarded the brains as a special tidbit), was 15 cents, the heart of a baby beef was 30 cents, and you could buy a combined package of sheep lights, liver and head, for 40 cents.

Baby beef, nine months old, was 8 and 10 cents a pound, young mutton was 12 and 13 cents, pork was 12 and 14 cents generally, although one man offered his supply at 10 and 12 cents a pound, in front and hind sections.

Little pigs were $8 a pair.

There was no sale for wood, said the dealers. Soft maple in prime quality was $9 a load, a smaller load was $7.50, and mixed wood sold at $5 a load.

BLOW RECEIVED PRIOR TO DEATH

what contents did you find in her stomach" asked Mr. Bell.

"Very little of everything. There was no undigested food", said witness.

No Sign of Alcohol

"During the autopsy I examined the internal organs and found everything practically normal. There was no oder of alcohol."

"Are the burns you described very painfull," asked the Crown.

"Yes, very" said Dr. Kerfoot.

Witness said the woman must have been unconscious at all times or else she would have uttered some outory. Digestion would have been suspended, he thought, after the burns had actualy occurred.

Dr. Kerfoot said that during a post mortem by Dr. E. R. Frankish there was discovered a sign of a bruise on her head. He (Dr. Kerfoot) thought this bruise was caused before death.

"The injury meant a blow of some kind by a very blunt instrument," he said.

"There was no cut on the outside of the outer scalp. The blow was a heavy one. The blow might easily produce unconsciousness," he said.

Cross examined regarding the absence of alcoholic odor from the stomach content, witness admitted it was "quite possible for a person drinking heavily to become sick and eject contents of the stomach. More difficulty would be experienced in detecting ordor of gin than other strong liquors."

Found Doctor Pouring Drink

Chief of Smith's Falls Police, G. C. Bromley, said the doctor was pouring himself a drink of gin in the kitchen when witness arrived at the home. Witness produced a bottle from which he said the accused poured the drink and from which he offered one to the Chief of Police.

In Miss McLean's bedroom the bed was not tossed and "there was no sign of scorching on the bedclothing," said witness. In the doctor's room witness said he found the burned bed, and on the dresser were several boxes labelled "morphine sulphate, hypodermic tablets, hyacin bromide and ethul tetranate." After Pratt was arrested, the Chief said, officers found a bottle in his coat pocket containing hypodermic tablets, morphine and a trophine.

MAJOR BENNETT CHAPTER HOLDS MONTHLY MEETING

Miss Violet Davidson, the regent, had charge of the meeting.

Miss Jean Howson read three letters received in acknowledgment for money donated to the Well Babies' Clinic, the Humane Society and Red Cross Hostel.

Plans were made for a party to be held Wednesday, May 23, with Miss Helen Cole as general convenor. Those assisting are the Misses Helen Tewsley, Pat McClellan, Lillian McClellan, Dorothy Henderson, Eileen Sanderson and Isobel Duthie.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

The next meeting is to be held at the home of Miss Whipple Kelly, McDonnel street, Thursday, May 3.

aire which had been circulated as a means of obtaining information and opinions regarding these undesirable birds.

This symposium is a sweeping indictment of starlings without one comment to their credit, and it is Mr. Hall's intention to place the information before Mayor Denne and the city council in the hope that some concerted action may be started here to check their increase.

A few quotations from the correspondence are cited herewith, and other references to the starling may be made in the near future:

"One man in this locality who grew six hundred to a thousand baskets of cherries, cut down all his trees last Fall. I would be pleased to get a good poison and the manner for setting out." Thornbury, (Grey County).

"The chief complaint against them is the way they will pick a hole in a half matured apple."

"They are driving out all the other birds except sparrows." Brooklin.

"The worst menace the fruit grower has ever seen. Shooting will not keep them away." Cainsville, Brant county.

"In a few years they will take all the wheat a farmer grows." Cainsville.

"Have had no bluebirds nesting for three years. Starlings have pre-empted natural bluebirds' nesting places." Beamsville.

"We lost tons of grapes through starlings." St. Catharines.

"Last Fall one flock destroyed around three tons of my grapes within about twenty minutes." Vineland Station.

"There will have to be a drive made to exterminate this bird or they will ruin all the cherry and berry crops in this district. Shooting is too slow." Clarksburg, Grey county.

"Becoming a very destructive pest. Must be dealt with as soon as possible." Waterdown, E. Flamboro township.

"If the starlings are not checked, the woodpecker family, the martins, bluebirds and small owls will be extinct." Woodstock.

"I believe very drastic measures should be put into force to exterminate the starlings." Warsaw, Peterborough county.

"The only good starling is a dead starling." Dresden, Kent county.

Several hundred similar expressions comprise the summary of replies to the O.A.C. questionnaire, an unanimous verdict against the starling.

Dunfermline, second division leaders, won at Morton by a 2-0 score and extended their margin to two points. Stenhousemuir and Arbroath remained deadlocked for second place which also carries promotion. Arbroath was tied by King's Park while Stenhousemuir beat Raith Rovers 5-4, the teams being on even terms back of Dunfermline.

BELFAST, April 14. (C.P. Cable) Linfield had a runaway victory over Cliftonville in the final for the Irish Football Association Cup to-day, winning by 5-0.

Decision Reserved Toronto Inspector

TORONTO, April 14 (C.P.). — J. Palmer Kent, secretary of the Toronto Police Commission, said to-day the Commission had reserved decision on three charges against Inspector Douglas Marshal which arose from a police raid on a Jewish restaurant last week.

Kent said the inspector had been cleared on allegations pertaining to liuor but the board had not made known its attitude on three other charges involving abuse of men found in the establishment.

The statement by Kent was corroborated by Mayor W. J. Stewart, who said he received a threatening letter, stating he would meet the same fate as Johnny Copp, University of Toronto student, killed by a burglar, for his attitude toward the charges. The letter was turned over to police officials.

MAKING CLEAR RECENT INTERVIEW

Mr. Bell Said Genuine Christion Puts Principle Above Any Individual, Not the Reverse.

In an interview with Joseph S. Bell, former president of the C.C.F. Club, the other day, the addition of a word credited Mr. Bell with saying something quite different to his actual statement.

Defining the qualifications of a genuine Christian. Mr. Bell said that such a person would place principle above any individual, but in the published interview the interjection of the word "not" before "place" changed the whole meaning. In the same report, speaking of the elders of the Keene congregation. Mr. Bell was quoted as saying that "doubtless those worthy elders need defence." In this case "no" was omitted from the original remark, which was to the effect that the elders needed no defence.

RONALD HOAR LAID TO REST

Season's First Drowning Victim Buried in Little Lake Cemetery.

MOTHER'S DEVOTION.

A small white casket containing the remains of 3-year-old "Ronnie" Hoar, who met his death by drowning in the swollen waters of Jackson Park Creek, was this afternoon borne to the grave by four small boys who reside in the neighborhood of the bereaved family. Interment was made at Little Lake Cemetery, following services conducted at the family residence, 490 Gilchrist Street, by the Rev. Dr. H. W. L. MaHood.

Addressing the large throng of people who had gathered at the house to share the grief of the stricken parents, Dr. MaHood referred to the action of the mother in plunging into the creek in an ineffectual attempt to save the life of her child as having been the very highest expression of maternal love and courageous devotion. He also made reference to the gallantry of "Ronnie's" 6-year-old brother Kenneth, and spoke in terms of high appreciation of the prompt action of Ernest Smith and Jack Callaghan, who had averted what might well have been a triple tragedy.

The grief-stricken parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hoar, were accompanied to cemetery by Mr. and Mrs. Hoar, Sr., by Mr. Lustic (father of Mrs. Harold Hoar) and by Messrs. James, George, Clare and Frank Lustic, brothers of the bereaved mother.

The pall-bearers were: Ronald Lucas, Roy Millen, Ward Weaver, and Gordon McCarthy.

STRIKES SPREAD QUICKLY IN U. S.

100,000 Oil Workers to be Called Out if Present Code Adopted.

SHIPYARDS TO CLOSE.

NEW YORK, April 14.—(C.P.)—Strikes and threats of strikes continued to dot the United States' industrial map to-day.

A bright spot was an announcement that a $300,000 expansion programme of the Homer Laughlin China Company at Newell, W. Va., will result in employment for 350 men.

Elsewhere the situation was troubled. The head of the Oil Workers' Union announced in Washington that 100,000 men would be called out within 48 hours if wage differentials planned for the oil code were adopted.

A strike of 68 soda workers at the Viscose Company factory at Lewiston, Pa., against too short a lunch period spread throughout the plant. Union leaders estimated 3,000 are out.

From Pottsville, Pa., a call to strike Monday went out to miners in four colleries of the Philadelphia Coal and Iron Company. A union spokesman said the company had failed to keep a wage agreement. He estimated 2,700 miners would be affected.

All fires at a shipyard in Camden were ordered extinguished when settlement of differences between 3,000 striking workers and their employers became remote.

Workers returning to the mine yesterday were fired on from ambush.

From Washington came word that an important declaration of administration attitude toward monopolies and labor in connection with the National Recovery Act had been drawn by Ronald Richberg, general counsel of N.R.A. When or whether it will be made public was undetermined.

ITALY ORDERS CUTS IN WAGES

Will Lower Cost of Living So Nation May Compete in Foreign Markets.

SECOND DEFLATION MOVE.

ROME, April 14 (A.P.). — The Council of Ministers to-day decreed sweeping reductions in salaries and the cost of living in order to place Italy in a position to compete with other nations in the foreign market.

The council, over which Premier Mussolini presided in person, ordered all rents in Italy reduced 12 per cent.

Government employees' salaries were cut from six to 12 per cent.

All other costs, such as food, transportations, and utilities, are to fall in proportion so that Italy can manufacture goods that will have even price changes with those of other nations.

This is the second such nation-wide deflation in three years, another having been ordered in October, 1930, along almost the same lines.

Menace Of Strikes Growing In France

PARIS, April 13 (C.P.). — Week-end strikes and demonstrations in protest against the cutting of the pay of government functionaries and reductions in war veterans' pensions got under way slowly in France to-day.

A Communist one-hour postal strike failed to make itself felt, but the menace of disorders grew with a new call for a "general strike" of miners beginning April 16 against "Fascist assassins" as a result of the riot and slaying of Henin Letard on Wednesday night.

There a miner was killed and 14 persons were injured in a clash which developed when workmen, most of them Socialists and Communists, forced their way into a hall where Young Royalists were meeting

PARLIAMENT HILL HEARS

By WILFRID EGGLESTON

A member of the staff of the national revenue department, whose work brings him into contact with business men, says that the best "collection yarn" he has ever run across goes as follows:

A manufacturer in one of the larger cities sold a consignment of jewelry to a dealer in a small settlement. The dealer, objecting that the goods were not up to the advertisements, refused either to accept the shipment or to pay for it.

The manufacturer determined to sue the dealer, but, before doing so, he took the precaution to write to the banker in the town to see if the dealer had anything which could be seized to satisfy a judgment, and also to the local postmaster, with the idea of getting a line on the man's social standing. The manufacturer wanted to know the latter to find out if he was the kind of man whom the very threat of the odium of a legal action might persuade to "cough up."

In due course the bank reported that the man's credit was A1 and the post-office gave him credit for being a man of the highest social standing. Satisfied, the manufacturer decided upon legal action. He wrote a firm of lawyers in the town and gave orders that the necessary action be instituted.

Shortly afterwards the manufacturer was greatly surprised to receive the following letter:

"Dear sir: The undersigned is the storekeeper on whom you tried to unload your rotten jewelry. The undersigned is also the banker to whom you referred to find out my financial standing. The undersigned is the postmaster who was asked to report on my social standing. The undersigned is a partner of the legal firm which you commissioned to take action in the case, and, if the undersigned were not also the pastor of the local Methodist church, he would tell you to go plumb to blazes!"

Senator Charles E. Tanner tells with glee the story about the two holiday makers who were tramping it toward Ballinsloe. Inquiring about distance, they were told they were eight miles off. After hiking along about another five miles they inquired again, and the reply again was "about eight miles." Further on, they made inquiry again, and once more the answer was, about eight miles to Ballinsloe.

Said one to the other at this juncture (according to the genial senator): "Glory be to God, Mike—at least we're holding our own!"

Ted Garland, M.P. for Bow River, has a cheque in his possession for a thousand dollars, but he has never tried to cash it.

The document was sent to him (it is drawn on the Bank of England and is in his favor) by one of his constituents, a miner, who claims that there should be in the vaults of the Bank of England thousands of pounds in the miner's name.

All the miner wants Ted Garland to do (in return for the cheque) is to get the fortune for him. When he obtains it, he intends to invest it in Canadian real estate and develop the resources of Canada. In particular he knows where there is placer gold on the Kootenay in paying quantities "if I had machinery to work the same."

Unfortunately Garland has never been supplied with anything which would give him the slightest reason to believe that the correspondent has had anything more than a pipe-dream.

I hear....that two former prominent agriculturists of Ottawa will be candidates in the forthcoming elections, H. S. Arkell, who was livestock commissioner, in the Ontario provincial election, and Dr. Grisdale, who was deputy minister of agriculture, in the Federal election....It would be rather odd if Dr. Grisdale became the next minister of agriculture....Because he would have under him the man (Dr. Barton) who succeeded him when he was let out by the present government....It wouldn't be the first time a man who had been the deputy minister of a department should later go into politics and become the minister....Mackenzie King was the first deputy minister of labor and afterwards minister.

The popular song, "The Last Round Up," has produced some eloquent letters to the editors of various papers explaining the origin and significance of the term "dogey" (get along, little dogey). Senator Dan Riley, who should know, says that the term was applied in the old range days of the prairies and the foothills to cattle which used to be brought in from Manitoba to the Alberta ranges. They were miserable creatures, many of them thin, straggly and of a mixed strain, but once out on the buffalo grass they fattened up quickly and became marketable.

The term "maverick" applied to an unbranded calf, says Col. Harry Mullins, another of the parliamentarians whose earlier days were spent in the saddle on the Alberta range, came from an Irishman who ranched down in Mexico years ago. He used to run his herds with those of other ranchers. All of the others used a distinctive brand. Maverick, being a tender-hearted Irishman, didn't like to think of his animals being seared with the hot iron, so he persuaded his neighbors that he should run his herds without a brand.

Thus every animal without a brand became a "Maverick" and the Irishman's tender-heartedness paid him good dividends. He acquired all the young strays from other parts of the country which had not yet come under the branding iron.

Police Of Two Counties Called On Hunt As Prince Of Wales' Terrier Wanders Off

WINDSOR, England, April 13 (AP)—The Prince of Wales has lost his dog—Jigs, a little Cairn Terrier with long black whiskers under his chin—and the police of two counties have been called out to assist in the search.

Jigs, who with his girl friend Cora, a little blonde Cairn, often accompanied the Prince on strolls through Windsor Forest, disappeared during the night from Fort Belvedere, the Prince's country house.

To-day, while employees of the royal estate were beating the bushes thinking Jigs might have become lost there, Berkshire and Surrey police were combing the roads.

The Prince was in Glasgow, but t was reported the telephone wires were kept hot by searchers informing him of their progress.

Final Plans Made Father-Son Supper

Mrs. T. Wallace, Sherbrooke street, lent her home on Thursday afternoon for the regular monthly meeting of the Women's Association of Knox United Church. The president, Mrs. Londerville, presided, and the attendance was large. The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. McCurdy, who read the 20th chapter of Matthew, and Mrs. Watt led in prayer. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, also the financial report from the treasurer, and the report from the convenor of the flower committee. Final plans were made for the father and son banquet to be held in the lecture hall on April 23, and arrangements were also made for the super health aluminum supper, the same week. Tentative plans for the summer's work were discussed, but these were left over for further consideration in May. Two very pleasing vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. Geo. Wallace, and were much appreciated by all present. The singing of three verses of "Onward Christian Soldiers" and the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison brought the meeting to a close. A social hour followed, the hostess and her group serving dainty refreshments. Mrs. Londerville tendered a vote of thanks to Mrs. Wallace for her hospitality.

U. S. CIGARETTES COSTLY ON CANADIAN TRAINS

FORT ERIE, Ont., April 13—(CP)—United States citizens, travelling on through trains into Canada in club or dining cars, will be allowed to purchase American cigarettes in future, but they will pay dearly for the pleasure. Cigarettes which they bought on the southern side of the border for 15 cents a package will cost them 55 cents when the wheels of their cars have passed over the line.

Formerly all smokes were sealed when the cars crossed the lines and were not opened again until inspected by customs officials on the return run. A new ruling, however, makes it possible to buy American at any point.

EIGHT PRIZES FOR YOUNG ESSAYISTS.

Contest For Second and Third Book Pupils by Humane Society.

Children of all the second and third books in the city and rural schools are reminded of the Humane Society's contest for them this month in essays or compositions on the subject "What it means to be kind to animals."

They have all this month to write the essays they are thinking of submitting for the prizes that will be announced in another week, and while there is ample time ahead of them they should not postpone their work too long.

Will the best composition come from city or county? Rural children have the broader and more practical knowledge of animals, and probably have some advantage in writing on this subject of kindness to animals. Something specially interesting is expected from the young people of the county, and it is hoped that teachers will at least remind them of this contest.

There will be four prizes for rural pupils and four other prizes for city children.

New emphasis is being placed on the teaching of civics and humanitarian principles these days, and the infuence of the teachers of younger children in cultivating these qualities is not only generally recognized, but it can obtain assistance by such little enterprises as the Humane Society's contest on the subject "What it means to be kind to animals." It is confidently presumed that our young citizens and adults of tomorrow are moved by a proper and healthy interest in animals and their treatment, and for that reason it is expected that many of them in the second and third books will submit essays to the Humane Society in care of Dr. Thos. Johnston, Monaghan Road.

NEW CONVENORS NAMED BY I.O.D.E.

5 EXTRA COUNCILLORS.

HAMILTON, April 14 (C.P.). — Some changes were noticed in the list of Provincial convenors appointed at the executive meeting, which followed the close yesterday afternoon of the 14th annual convention of the Provincial Chapter of Ontario, I.O.D.E. Mrs. H. S. Griffin, Hamilton, was re-elected convenor of immigration, and Mrs. Lorne Reid, Niagara Falls, will continue as convenor of child welfare. Mrs. G. A. McCarthy, Toronto, succeeds Mrs. H. E. Moore as Navy League convenor. Mrs. Lionel Millen, Port Nelson, and Mrs. R. N. Wolfenden, Grimsby, have exchanged places as convenors of Girl Guides and League of Nations—Mrs. Millen becoming the Girl Guide convenor and Mrs. Wolfenden, League of Nations convenor.

Mrs. Gordon Henderson, Hamilton, succeeds Mrs. W. R. Dunn, also of Hamilton, as distinguished visitors convenor. Mrs. Dunn was appointed third member of the war memorial committee. Mrs. W. B. Hill, Toronto, continues as press convenor, and Mrs. Wilbur Best of Toronto was appointed convenor of films, succeeding Mrs. Ross Beckett of Brantford, who retired.

Mrs. M. B. Morden, Hamilton, is succeeded as convenor of soldiers' and ex-servicemen's welfare, by Miss Margaret Edwards of Hamilton and Miss Dwyer of St. Catharines was appointed constitution convenor.

Five extra councillors were elected, according to the constitution, by the executive late yesterday. These are: Mrs. C. D. Hickey of Hamilton, Mrs. H. R. Laurie of London, Mrs. W. H. Liens of Toronto, Mrs. H. A. K. Drury of Ottawa and Mrs. F. C. Haggart of Windsor.

WORLD WHEAT

degegate informed the Canadian Press to-day, the Argentines took the viewpoint that the minimum price plan covered the Argentine's claim for increased export quotas.

Dr. Thomas A. le Breton, head of the Argentine delegation, said that acceptance of the minimum price scheme linked up with the Argentine demand for a bigger wheat export quota. "In our view," said Dr. le Breton, "they are all one question."

Minimum Price Unfixed

It was emphasized the scheme in itself does not fix a minimum price; it merely outlines a method by which a minimum price may be maintained once it is established. It makes provision for the necessary machinery and for scaling differentials in the price for respective countries.

It did suggest, however, that the first schedule to be drawn up by the proposed London control committee should be an increase of 5 to 10 per cent of the present price of Manitoba No. 2 wheat, standard of wheat the world over.

Agreement by the conference on the price scheme marked conclusion of many months of work. It is now up to the 15 governments represented in the conference to ratify the plan and put it into operation.

The conference will continue this afternoon with questions of detail and will then take up the question of denaturing wheat to make quantities of it fit only for livestock feed.

Committee of Four

But in reaching agreement on the plan, the conference had achieved its main objective—devising a scheme for raising the world price of wheat. To-day the details of the scheme were still undivulged, but it was learned the kernel of the plan was establishment of a committee of four to sit in London to supervise wheat movements of the signatory exporters and thereby maintain the minimum price which itself has yet to be established.

Further, it said the adjustments made in London must be so fixed as to keep the supply strictly in accord with demand and thus not interfere with the minimum price system.

The most interesting feature of the sub-committee's report is the proposal for creation of a price committee of four experts to sit in London and meet at least once a month to study of wheat export movement in relation to quotas and to raise or lower minimum prices of individual exporting countries should they be selling too much or too little wheat in relation to their quotas through prices.

The sub-committee also recommended that exporting countries whose domestic wheat price is lower that the export minimum to be agreed upon raise that price to a new level partly through reducing their stocks. It was recommended the new system go into effect June 1.

GRAIN SHIPPING STARTS APRIL 15

Heavy Movement Expected Through Lindsay—Pasteurization is Let Drop for Present.

FIND NO LOCAL NEED.

LINDSAY, April 14 (Examiner Correspondence).—According to announcement in C.N.R. circles yesterday, an important movement in grain is scheduled to start on April 15 from the head of the lakes through Lindsay to the east. It is expected that 1,500,000 bushels will be moved.

The waters in Burnt River have risen to such heights that the C.N.R. tracks on the Bancroft-Howland line have been flooded. Train service was held up on that line yesterday. Connections are made with this line with Lindsay and Haliburton at Howland Junction, near Kinmount.

The local Board of Health announces that the per capita expenditure for health administration in the town during the year was 46 cents—$500 lower than the cost in previous years. One hundred and twenty-three residents' deaths were recorded. Fourteen died of cancer. There were 123 resident births during the year. The Board discussed the question of pasteurization of milk. It was generally agreed that compulsory pasteurization would be a good measure, but that it was not actually needed locally at the present time.

At yesterday morning's session of the police court, Percy McGill, town, was sentenced to seven days in the county jail by Police Magistrate Jordan on a charge of driving a motor car while intoxicated.

AUTOMOBILE SALES ARE ENCOURAGING

Looks Like a Bumper Year for Automative Industry—March Biggest Month Since 1931.

OSHAWA, Ont., April 14.—A shower of April orders is watering the hopes of the Canadian automotive industry for a bumper year. Latest registration figures—a good index of activity at the plant of General Motors of Canada Limited here—are in striking contrast to the figures for the early part of 1933, according to C. E. McTavish, general sales manager. Reports from the Province of Ontario, for instance, show that Chevrolet sold more cars in the last ten days of March this year than it sold for the whole of March last year, and for the whole month, Chevrolet sales were almost exactly double what they were last March.

On The Upgrade

In the City of Toronto, the sales upturn in recent weeks has been still steeper. Chevrolet sales in Toronto in March this year were the largest of any month since May, 1931. Chevrolet's total of 626 new cars in Toronto last month represented more than were sold in the whole of Ontario in the same month last year. It was more than the total number of Chevrolet sales in the whole of Canada for February of this year. Toronto sales in February were nearly three times as good as they were for the same period a year ago. Incidentally, Chevrolet, during March, sold in Toronto more than twice as many units as any other car. The record was nearly as good in the whole of Ontario.

Demand is General

The demand for cars is fairly general in all parts of the Dominion, Mr. McTavish said. Dealers in many communities are placing their orders much earlier this year than last. Orders from the West and the Maritimes are following the same trend as in Central Canada. The result is that the production schedule at the factory here is far in excess of the busiest period of 1933. The demand abroad is also extraordinarily good and production for export so far this year shows an increase of 700 per cent over the same period last year.

In The Automotive World

WEEK-BY-WEEK

RECOVERY HAND-IN-HAND

Production schedules in Canada's automobile plants have gone skyrocketing, and more is being heard about the automotive industry leading the country back to prosperity. It's no difficult matter to see how the industry wields a mighty influence, for when it makes progress it does so hand in hand with other producers and suppliers. For every worker in an automobile factory, it is estimated, there are eighteen people employed selling cars, mining coal, iron, copper or some other mineral for use in a motor car, or working in garages, gas and oil stations, battery shops, tire and accessory stores. And thousands of freight cars in Canada's railway come out of hibernation when the motor car factories speed up. The pulsation of activity is felt even beyond the borders of the country, and Canada's eastern ports are even now busy loading export cars on ocean-going ships.

LaSALLE IS PACEMAKER

Pacemaker at the Indianapolis speedway this year will be a LaSalle roadster, built by Cadillac Motor Car Company. Annually, one of the outstanding cars of the day is selected by the management of the motor speedway for the interesting and important task of leading the competitors off to a running start. Last time a LaSalle paced the 500-mile race it sent George Souders, an unknown student, to a surprising win. This ye'ars classic takes place May 30th.

—:—

LIGHTS vs. ACCIDENTS

About the only way to find out whether highway illumination will prevent acidents or not is to put a system of lights in operation on a dangerous strip of road and make a test. This is just what Ontario highway officials propose to do, and for the purpose have chosen a section of King's Highway between Grimsby and the Stoney Creek-Hamilton forks, described as the most dangerous stretch of highway in the province. If the experiment results in decreasing the toll of accidents on this thickly-travelled road, the advocates of highway lighting will have a strong case for extension of the idea.

HIGH SPEED DETOURING

He was going along the highway 70 miles an hour in his new 1934 Chevrolet coupe. Suddenly a truck pulled out on the pavement, completely blocking it. What happened? Here's the rest of the story in the words of the driver of the coupe, H. B. Moore, Indianapolis manufacturer: "To keep from hitting the truck head-on I had to take the ditch, hitting a ten-inch train tile, breaking a left rear wheel and blowing out a tire, then made a perfect horse-shoe turn on a farmhouse lawn and back across the ditch, coming to a stop on the highway right side up, thanks to 'knee-action'." Knee-action front wheels, with their contribution to positive steering control, undoubtedly had a good deal to do with Mr. Moor's luck on his forced detour.

OVER 3,000,000 TOURIST CARS

A total of 3,096 887 tourist automobiles from the United States entered Canada in 1933, of which 2,233,418 came in for a period of 24 hours or less; 863,136 on 60 day permits and 333 on permits good for six months. Of the total, 2,339,097 came to Ontario; 436,385 to Quebec; 152 503 to New Brunswick; 102,863 to British Columbia; 31,700 to Manitoba; 17,701 to Saskatchewan; 15,366 to Alberta; 6,209 to Nova Scotia; and one to Prince Edward Island.

THE "BACK SEAT CLUB"

While the percentage of women drivers is steadily increasing, more than 75 per cent of the women in the car-owning group are members of the "back seat club", according to information obtained by Oldsmobile from various motor vehicle officials, who made a check of the driving licenses which they have issued. Information from a number of sources show that approximately 24 per cent of those having drivers' licenses are women. They prove the point that most members of the "back seat club" are women and it is to them that Oldsmobile's new "knee-action" cars are going to make a special appeal. The reason is that this new type of car affords a degree of comfort in the back seat that has not been approached hitherto. The car does not bounce or pitch going over bumps and holes in the pavement, and it glides over the roughest roads smoothly. The wheels just step over obstructions without disturbing the passengers.

THAT SPRING FEVER

When a car is hard to start, sluggish, pick-up is not what it used to be, and looses power on hills, the chances are that the spark plugs need to bec leaned. Spark plugs will function properly without attention for about 3,000 miles. After this they should be cleaned and re-gapped. Often new car performance is restored by this simple operation.

Home and School Association News

MAY'S SCHOOL.

There was a splendid attendance at the April meeting of May's Home and School Association on Monday, April 9th, at 8 p.m. Mrs. Briscoe, president, was in the chair. Reports were read by the secretary, Mrs. K. Denoon, also the treasurer's report. During the business period it was decided to hold a pot luck supper at the May meeting to stimulate the attendance.

The delegates, before presenting their reports of the annual Home and School Federation, voiced their appreciation to the Association for the opportunity afforded them in being appointed delegates to the convention.

Mrs. Briscoe's report was very encouraging, in which she emphasized the necessity of closer fellowship between teachers and parents.

Mrs. Geo. Cunningham's report dealt with the desirability of having more musical training in the schools.

Household Hints

MENU HINTS

Salmon and Asparagus
Baked Potatoes
Stewed Tomatoes
Carrot and Raisin Salad
Lemon Pie Tea or Coffee

It's extravagant, I know, to buy asparagus thus early in the season, but it does taste so good, and in the way it is used in this menu a little bunch goes a long way.

Today's' Recipes

Salmon and Asparagus.—Make a white sauce of two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, one and one-half cups milk, one-half teaspoon salt, a few grains of paprika and the strained liquor from one one-pound can salmon. Add two beaten egg yolks and one tablespoon lemon juice. Arrange the salmon in a buttered baking dish, covered with the sauce and lay on top one-half bunch fresh cooked asparagus stalks. Cover with four tablespoons bread crumbs and four tablespoons grated cheese and bake in a hot oven, 375 degrees to 400 degrees, for about 30 minutes. Serves eight.

FACTS AND FANCIES

Salted Filberts

Place two cups of filbert nut meats in a saucepan and cover with boiling water for eight minutes. Drain off water and peel off skins. Place about a half cup of olive oil in frying pan and when moderately hot add nut meats and fry until delicate brown. Stir constantly. Place on brown paper or in brown paper bag on removing from oil and shake or stir about well. Salt to taste and set aside in dry place until used.

Children's Rusks

One cake yeast, one tablespoon sugar, two cups milk, scalded and cooled; three cups flour, one-half cup butter, one cup sugar, one egg, one cup currants or raisins, three cups additional flour, one-half teaspoon salt. Add yeast and first amount of sugar to milk which has been scalded and cooled. Add flour gradually. Cover and set aside in a warm place until light. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, creaming the white. Add wel-beaten egg. Stir this mixture into the sponge. Add fruits, and flour, which has been sifted with the salt. Knead lightly. Turn into a greased bowl and set in a warm place to let rise. When light shape into rolls. Place in well greased pans and let rise again double their size, about an hour. Brush over with beaten egg white diluted with one tablespoon water. Bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees, about fifteen minutes.

A largely attended meeting of the Peterborough Vegetable Growers and Canning Crop Growers of the district was held in the office of the Agricultural Representative on Tuesday evening.

R. J. Bryden, Chemistry Department, O.A.C. Guelph, and E. K. Hampson of the N.V. Potash Company, Hamilton, were the special speakers.

Mr. Bryden gave a very thorough and practical talk on "Soil Fertility" dealing specially with the necessity of keeping the soil balanced as far as food materials were concerned, if satisfactory results were to be received.

Mr. Hampson dealt chiefly with deficiencies in the soil and explained how the various crops reacted to the lack of minerals. His talk was illustrated by slides showing the various stages of development of some of the more important crops.

J. B. Nelson, former Agricultural Representative, was also present, and in the course of a few remarks complimented the growers on their success, stating that he was pleased to be able to sit in again at one of their meetings.

V. S. Milburn, vice-president of the Ontario Milk Producers' Association, briefly outlined the new "Natural Products Marketing Act," which was recently introduced in the House of Commons by Major Weir, Federal Minister of Agriculture.

A vote of thanks to the speakers was moved by Agricultural Representative and seconded by J. A. Williams.

Bruce Johnson, president of the local Vegetable Growers, occupied the chair.

Former Ottawa Woman Is Now Known In The North As "Mrs. Peace River"

By THELMA ATKINSON.

EDMONTON, Alta., April 13.—We hear many stories of brave pioneers who leave comfortable homes in the east and go "up north" to make their way. But few, if any, tell of such steady work toward a goal and such willingness to help others as does that of Mrs. Emily Crawford, better known as "Mrs. Peace River."

She has earned her title, this tall woman with snow white hair and dignified bearing, who in 1912 went into the north alone with only $150 to her name, and who to-day owns more than 1,000 acres of good farm land.

Mrs. Crawford was born in Ottawa. Her father was Scotch and her mother of United Empire Loyalist descent. It was after the death of her husband that she decided to seek her fortune in the west. She was the only woman making the long journey into the Peace river country that spring of 1913 but she enjoyed every minute of the trip. Travelling by canoe and horse—although she had never ridden in her life before—she looked the country over thoroughly before selecting Fort St. John as the place to start her home. It was then only a tiny place with Hudson's Bay and Revillon's stores and provincial police headquarters.

A "Mother" to All.

Hers was the privilege of watching the great Peace country grow. She has taken a motherly interest in all who have followed her in. She has not only been a friend in sickness and distress to the settlers, but has brought many of their cases to the provincial and federal governments, to secure for them the best in health and educational services. She has also been instrumental in getting markets and roads to enable them to sell their produce.

President of the Conservative association at Fort St. John, Mrs. Crawford is a member of the board of trade and regent of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire for Canada's farthest north chapter.

CAMPBELLFORD RESIDENT PAYS $10.00 PENALTY

John White Convicted in Police Court—Mrs. Dennis Lays Charge.

EVERY DOG FIGHT.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 14. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—Found guilty by Magistrate J. M. Bygott on a charge of unlawfully assaulting with intent to cause bodily harm, John White, 54, of Campbellford was fined $10 and costs when he appeared in the Campbellford Police Court yesterday afternoon. White, who was defended by J. R. Douglas of Campbellford, pleaded not guilty to the charge.

The case arose over a dog fight which took place on the morning of April 10, on the back lawn of Mrs. Maude Dennis of Campbellford, when her dog 'Buddy' got tangled with White's dog.

In evidence submitted by Mrs. Dennis, who laid the information against White and was represented by N. Alex MacColl, she stated that she was raking the lawn on the said morning when the White dog came on the property and started to fight with her dog, which at the time was muzzled. Going into the cellar she got a broom and started to hit the dogs in an endeavor to get them parted.

White, who lives one house removed from the Dennis property, saw the fight and picked up a stick and came to the scene of action, and Mrs. Dennis claimed, hit her across the wrist and on the forehead, the bruise from which was still to be seen and which she exhibited to the Magistrate.

White, however, claimed that he did not strike the plaintiff, but raised his stick to prevent her stick from hitting him. He eventually parted the dogs, but not he claimed, until the Dennis dog had badly bitten his dog's ear.

The case was a lengthy, one lasting all the afternoon, many witnesses being heard. For the plaintiff, Bob Morrison, Douglas Southern, Ed. Counighan and Mrs. Maud O'Sullivan took the witness stand.

On behalf of the defendent, Douglas Smith, Ray Archer, his wife, Mrs. White, and daughter, Miss May White, gave evidence.

Giving sentence, Magistrate Bygott said that he could not give too much credence to some of the witnesses who were not on the lot when the dog fight took place, and that he was not satisfied with the evidence of Smith. He did not think Mrs. Dennis would take a stick and hit herself on the head nor accuse anyone else of doing it if they had not done so. "This sort of thing cannot go on," he said. "A person cannot walk into another person's yard and take possession."

MRS. THOMAS BARRIE

A former resident of the Westwood and Roseneath districts, Mrs. Thomas Barrie died on April 4th at her home at Tugaske, Saskatchewan. Before moving to the West, Mrs. Barrie was well known in this district.

EDWARD STEWART KEEGAN

CAVAN, April 14 (Examiner Correspondence).—The village of Cavan has been called upon to suffer the loss of one of its oldest and most respected citizens in the person of Edward Stewart Keegan, who after a lengthy illness, passed peacefully away at 10 o'clock on Tuesday night, April 10th. The deceased, who at the time of his death, was in his 82nd year, was the son of the late Edward and Eliza Keegan, of Wexford County, Ireland, who when they came to this country, settled on the Seventh Line of Cavan.

The deceased was a veteran of the Northwest Rebellion. For a number of years he was actively engaged in grain buying, at Oakwood, Clairmont, and Millbrooke. Later on, he started farming with his brother James, who predeceased him ten months ago.

The deceased was a valued member of the Orange Order of many years' standing. He was also a member of Masonic Order, being identified with J. B. Hall Lodge, No. 145, of Millbrook. In politics he was a life-long Conservative.

The funeral, which was held on Thursday, April 12th, was attended by a great concourse of people, who came from far and near to pay their tribute of respect. The service was in charge of the Rev. Dr. Lang and the Rev. J. E. Whithame of Mallorytown, a former pastor, delivered a beautiful and inspiring message. During the service, Miss Annie Tinney sang a beautiful solo, "He Wipes the Tear From Every Eye."

The interment was made in the 9th Line Cemetery of Cavan.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

A goodly thing it is to meet
In Friendship's circle bright,
Where nothing stains the pleasure sweet,
Or dims the radiant light
No unkind word ou lips shall pass.
No envy sour the mind;
But each shall seek the common weal—
The good of all mankind.

MILLBROOK

"Cleaning a Burnt Pan' was a demonstration at an Institute gathering held on Friday afternoon, the visiting demonstrator, sent out by the Department at oTronto, using an aluminum pan and stewing tomatoes in it over a slow fire for nearly an hour while she gave her talk along practical lines of homemaking.

Nothing had happened to the pan by the end of that time, but now the demonstrator said she "would show you what happens when you busy housewives are in a hurry." Pulling the sauce pan over a hot fire, on the lid at the front of the range, in less than five minutes the whole thing was a burnt mass as black as soot, and as hard as the pan itself.

General exclamations that the pan was ruined were just what the visiting lady was expecting, though to the surprise of all present when asked to taste the tomatoes from the pan it was found that there was no scorched flavor, hence the conclusion voiced by the speaker that "you see it is quite safe to serve the contents of an aluminum pan, though they have been well scorched on the bottom, for this burned taste does not permeate the whole. Score one for the aluminum sauce pan." This 'dig' was intended for some of those present who had rather loudly voiced their preference for granite ware in their kitchens, declaring that "aluminum is very nice, but too slow in cooking."

Dealing then with the lamentations over the 'ruined' pan, the demonstrator proceeded to pour boiling water into the black mess, which of course was still hot, letting it boil well for fifteen minutes while she busied herself and her audience with other matters, then attention was again turned to the vessel on the stove.

Taking a clothes pin the guest speaker scraped all she could of the burned matter from the pan, and then with the aid of steel wool finished the job, leaving the pan practically as good as new. Eager questions brought out the 'secret' that the whole success depended on keeping the pan hot. "I have learned one thing," said the branch president smiling, "and that is when my teen age daughter takes my best aluminum kettle on one of her group hikes, makes coffee in it over a camp fire, and brings it home blackened so I was sure it had been hopelessly spoiled, I can just take all that nasty black off with the 'secret' we have had demonstrated to-day — that is, pour boiling water into it, and then use steel wool. I can hardly wait to get home and try it out on my 'pet' preserving kettle."

Turning to something entirely different from cooking, and accompanying problems, the visiting helper, in reply to several queries, told of an 'unfailing prescription' for a lovely cold cream that could be made at home, and that would always prove satisfactory. Having the ingredients at hand, the demonstrator made the cream afterwards giving the proper contents and quantities every note-book coming into use for the information to be copied.

"This is the formula given to the nurses at the John Hopkins Hospital, and is the same as that used by a noted manufacturer, I am told, but you can make it at much less expense than buying the finished product, and have a larger amount as well."

Contents: Spermacetti, 125 grams; white wax, 120 grams; expressed oil of almonds, 560 grams; sodium borats, 5 grams; strongest rose water, 190 grams.

Method: Make fine shavings of spermacetti and white wax, and melt over hot water. Add the oil of almonds and stir well, continuing a gentle heat; then gradually add the rose water in which the sodium has been previously dissolved, and keep stirring rapidly until it congeals. Remove from the heat, and beat until stiff. Add oil of rose if desired, and the demonstration added a few drops of attar of roses, everyone was delighted with the smooth, daintily-perfumed cream, and it was safe to predict that in possibly every home this cosmetic would later on be found on bureau, or dressing table.

HARVARD STUDENTS' PEACE DRIVE BECOMES OUTDOOR COMIC OPERA

Chowder Club Members Hurl Vegetables and Join Parade Shouting "We Want War."

SPEAKERS SHOUTED DOWN

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 14 (A P)—A meeting of Harvard students which was planned to be a serious demonstration against war took on the aspects of a comic opera yesterday as grapefruit and onions were thrown by students in the Harvard yard and members of the Michael Mullins Chowder and Marching Club of Harvard marched among the peace groups shouting "We want war" and "Down with peace."

The meeting, called by the National Student League and the League for Industrial Democracy, two anti-war students groups, attracted more than 2,000 students to the yard, most of whom gathered on the steps of the Widener Library.

Scarcely had the meeting got under way than the Chowder boys put in an appearance. One of them, dressed as a Boy Scout, blew loud blasts from a tin trumpet. Another, dressed in Nazi garb, incessantly repeated the salute, "Hail Hitler," and still another, in the caricature costume of an anarchist, cast a fake bomb into the crowd. Shortly after their appearance other students began the vegetable throwing.

While the anti-war groups attempted vainly to address the crowd a vociferous group broke into a rollicking song calling upon the students to "Fight, Fight, Fght."

WALKEY CASE IS ADJOURNED

motorcycle patrol officer of the Ontario Provincial Police, said he arrived at the scene of the accident about 7.30 a.m. He said the right wheel of the truck was about three feet from the east edge of the pavement, and its left front wheel was a foot or more on the west side of the centre line of the road. The truck was facing the north west. The sedan was pointing in a southeasterly direction. Its left front wheel was three feet to the east of the centre line, and the right front wheel was on the west side of the centre by two or three feet.

"The only skid marks I saw were those made by the rear wheels of the truck. They had skidded 6 feet, 6 inches toward the east side of the pavement."

Apparently the vehicles had collided almost in the centre of the road, probably a foot or two on the east of the centre line, Mr. Hornick recalled, confirming evidence given by him at the coroner's inquest. He measured the width of the pavement, found the position of the centre line and observed that the front of both cars was practically astride of the centre line. He also measured the skid marks of the trucks rear wheels.

"And you made no measurement in regard to the sedan, only the Globe truck?" Mr. McRuer asked.

"I measured the position of the fronts of both. I wasn't interested in a civil action. I made measurements only for police court purposes."

Mr. Hornick said he did not get the names of motorists who arrived there.

"I was too busy trying to get ambulances to take the injured men to a hospital," he explained.

To Mr. Gordon, witness said the truck's skid marks extended across the road from west to east.

The truck left rear wheel was three feet east of the centre line. The impact flung the load of papers forward pinning the driver of the truck against the steering wheel, and his feet were caught fast by the engine being pushed back in the collision.

Driver of the Car

Roy F. McLean, Belleville, of the Bank of Montreal staff, driver of the sedan in the collision, said that there was no fog where the accident happened.

The Globe truck suddenly loomed up in front of him about fifty or sixty feet away, Mr. McLean said.

"I was driving on the west side of the highway, and so was the truck, I applied my brakes, but that is all I remembered. I was unconscious for a few minutes."

Mr. McLean told Mr. Gordon that he had turned on the headlights of his car, but the truck lights were not turned on.

"My car was about three feet in from the west edge of the pavement. I know that because I had been watching the shoulder on that side."

Mr. McRuer—"You say the truck had no lights. Can you conceive any reason why a driver should turn of his lights at that time of the morning?"

"No."

"Unless he intended to commit suicide. Have you a really clear recollection on that point?"

"Yes."

Mr. McLean said that neither truck or car swerved in the imminency of a collision. In that case, Mr. McRuer argued, the collison should have been on the west half of the road, because witness said the truck had loomed up directly in front of him. But it had been proven by other witnesses that the cars were locked astride the centre of the road, not pointing north and south, but diagonally toward the northwest and southeast.

Saw Car At Centreville

Jacob Isbister of South Monaghan said the accident occurred half a mile south of Centreville. He saw an automobile going south shortly before the accident.

"I noticed that its tail light was on," Mr. Isbister said. "About three minutes later I heard the crash. No other car passed me in those three minutes. The automobile was going very slowly, about twenty-five or thirty miles an hour."

Mr. Huycke informed His Lordship that this evidence concluded the case for the plaintiffs.

Thos. R. Shield, managing director of the Ontario Honey Producers, arrived at the place of the accident at ten minutes to seven on his way from Peterborough to Toronto.

"I passed around the wrecked cars on the west side. I don't think I had to go out very far on the shoulder."

Mr. Shield told of helping in first aid to the wounded men.

"The right rear wheel of the truck was a foot or eighteen inches from the east edge of the pavement. The right front wheel was 2 or 3 feet from the east edge of the pavement."

K. G. Poole, Belleville commercial traveller was the second arrival at the accident. His estimate was that the rear right wheel of the truck was one foot eighteen inches from the east edge of the pavement and the right front wheel two feet from that side.

ROSENEATH W.I. NAMES LIBRARIAN

Lively Program of Songs, Readings, Talks, Contests Follow Business Sessions.

ROSENEATH, April 14 (Examiner Correspondence).—The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. M. D. Brown as hostess. There was a goodly attendance of members and several visitors giving the meeting a delightful social atmosphere.

Opening with the Institute Ode and repeating The Lord's Prayer in unison, Mrs. Nichol, the president, concluded with the business and remaining program.

Favorable reports were read from the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Charles Sandercock, among them, she reported on the last crokinole and euchre party, when $15.15 was realized.

On motion by Mrs. Wilbert Smith and Mrs. Barton Thackeray, that Mrs. Annie Lapp be librarian for another year at a stated salary. Carried.

Mrs. Frank Nichol, Mrs. Albert Tucker, and Mrs. Charles Sandercock were appointed a committee to arrange for May 24th, which is called Institute Day, in Roseneath. A play will be arranged for the evening.

Correspondence of thanks was read from Mrs. John Tilley and family, Toronto, expressing appreciation for flowers received for her mother, the late Mrs. William Jackson; also from Mrs. Dinah Robins and Mrs. Marcus Radley for good cheer received.

Mrs. Neil Brisbin and Mrs. Ednel kindly volunteered to be responsible for the program in May which will be the annual meeting, when all members and those interested are requested to attend.

A cheerful program followed, including a piano solo by Miss Marjorie Tucker; a reading by "Aunt" Mary Brown, the oldest member of the nstitute, entitled, "Not a Bit of Use to Worry"; a reading by Mrs. Albert Tucker, "The Two Sides of It"; Mrs. Sam Ryan gave a talk on the motto, "To Err Is Human; to Forgive, Divine." Mrs. Albert Halstead gave a splendid article on "Success." Mrs. Barton Thackeray did justice to the topic, "Pioneer Women."

The roll call with "My Favorite Hymn," was responded to nicely by the members

Mrs. Earl Waldie conducted a contest that was educational and yet puzzling.

Mrs. Frank Nichol put on guessing the number of pieces of macaroni in a can and this was won by Mrs. M. D. Brown.

A hearty hand-clapping gave thanks to Mrs. Brown for her kind hospitality and the singing of "God Save the King" closed the program.

Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Brown and her assistants, and a delightful half hour was spent in social intercourse.

Immediately after the lunch, Mrs. Nichol called order, and Miss Jessie Johnston, through the kindness of Miss Helen Barrie, had on exhibition the needlework of the girl pupils from the Junior room of the Roseneath school. The aprons and wash cloths made by these "little women" received many pleasing comments. Later, it is expected that sewing or work done at school will take a prominent part in the Women's Institute..

Editor In Stirling Goes To Smiths Falls

SMITHS FALLS, April 14.—A. E. Dobbie, who is at present editor and proprietor of the News-Argus of Stirling, Ont., will shortly join the staff of the Record-News, Smiths Falls, as editor of the Record-News and manager of the Record-News Limited. Mr. Dobbie has been a successful newspaper man in all its branches throughout the major part of his life, and he comes to Smiths Falls with twenty years' experience in the weekly newspaper field in Owen Sound, Georgetown, Petrolia and Stirling. The News-Argus of Stirling, which he has managed for eight years, is one of the brightest weeklies throughout Ontario. Besides being a successful newspaper man, Mr. Dobbie has been active in the affairs of the community, and has served on the Municipal Council, the Board of Education, and the Library Board. Mr. Dobbie is taking over the management f the Record-News at the end of April.

RELIEF BILL IS ADVANCED STAGE

particularly William Duff (Lib., Antigonish-Guysboro) and Hon. Peter Veniot (Lib., Gloucester) for assistance to Atlantic coast fishermen brought from the Prime Minister the assurance the Stevens' Committee on price spreads and mass buying would investigate the fishing industry. It would find out if anything could be done to raise prices.

No suggestion had been advanced any of the powers taken by government under the relief measure in previous years had been abused said Mr. Bennett. So far as he was concerned he would be glad if it were not necessary to ask for wide powers but it was his duty to place himself in position to act promptly for the benefit of the country in an emergency.

Experiments taking place

Greater experiments were taking place in many parts of the world, he added, which were bound to have their effect on this country. It was because he sincerely believed the powers sought were necessary that they were inserted in the bill.

Fixing of a definite maximum sum for relief expenditures would be dangerous, he argued, because the various provinces would claim a share of that total on the basis of population and the government might be forced to spend the whole though all of it were not needed. This would alter the basis of relief from necessity to what could be obtained.

The government did not look upon a greatly extended back-to-the-land movement as feasible, Mr. Bennett said. It would continue to assist the provinces in settling people on the land on the basis of careful selection.

ALDERVILLE W. A.

Ladies of St. James' Church Plan to Try "Travelling Suitcase" to Raise Cash.

ALDERVILLE, April 14 (Examiner Correspondence). — Mrs. R. B. Nichol was hostess to the members of St. James' Women's Auxiliary on Wednesday afternoon with the president, Mrs. Herbert McCracken, in the chair. The Bible reading was read by Mrs. Ross McCracken. Reports were read by the secretary, Mrs. Frank Brown, and treasurer, Mrs. R. B. Nichol. Little Jean Braithwaite favored the gathering with a recitation, "A Chip Off the Old Block." On motion by Mrs. Timlin and Mrs. Nichol it was decided that Mrs. William Houghtailing be a delegate to attend the annual convention in Toronto from April 30 to May 5. Mrs. James Timlin read a splendid article on "Why we should support Arctic Mission Work." It was decided to adopt the travelling suit case as one way of making money for the society. Each member to bring an article with price of value and each member to take the suitcase and sell what she can for one month, and then bringing it to the meeting for another member, and so on throughout the year.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the hostess and the meeting closed with the singing of a hymn and repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison. Dainty afternoon tea was served and a social chat held on planning ways to make money for the society. Members took with them material to make up articles for a bale in September.

FLOODS STILL MENACE OTTAWA VALLEY AREAS

OTTAWA, April 14.—(C.P.)—Although the menace of spring floods has not entirely passed from the Ottawa Valley conditions to-day are reported somewhat improved. The town of Cobden is one of the worst sufferers as its electric power plant was put out of commission and a bridge and highway damaged.

The waters of the Quyon river receded yesterday from the streets of the village of Quyon, Que., as an ice jam was dynamited and the low-lying lands at the mouth of the Gatineau river at Gatineau point are in less danger following a rop of several inches in the level of the Gatineau.

So many workers in England are using bicycles that firms are providing special accommodations for the machines.

HASTINGS Y.P. PRESENT PLAY

Three-Act Comedy, "The Private Tutor," Draws Full House.

PARTS WELL TAKEN

HASTINGS, April 14 (Examiner Correspondence) — The three act comedy "The Private Tutor" was admirably presented in the town hall on Wednesday evening under the auspices of St. George's A.Y.P.A. and was greeted with a full house. Although it was their first appearance on the stage it can well be said, it was one of the best amateurs have presented in the village.

The cast of characters included five men and three ladies, particularly chosen and well schooled under the capable direction of Miss Della Plant.

The stage was suitably arranged as a setting for the play, Act I taking place in Fred Spencer's rooms at Clearfield College. Act II in the Spencer home, one week after Act I and Act III in the Spencer home, ten minutes after Act II.

The cast of characters were Fred Spencer (Eric Pulfer) who believes experience is the best speaker; George Corother (Nicholas Dainard) his chum, who also seeks experience; Mr. Spencer (Harry Tyrrell) father of Fred, who owns his oil well; Hans Dinkledorfer (Rae Pulfer), his undoing, the leader of a little German band; Richard (Eddie Radford), a butler at the Spencer home; Mrs. Spencer(Bernice Dainard), Ned's mother, who feels the responsibility of the oil well and has social aspirations; Dolly Spencer (the leading lady); his sister, who has a mind of her own and Miss Snap (Jesie Kirk), a detective.

The rector, Rev. H. G. Battersby acted as chairman for the evening. Between acts the audience was favored by solos from Master Leslie Sage, chorister of St. John's Church, Peterborough who sang "Daddy," and "The Big Black Bear" which called forth warm aplause, an encore being demanded and a humorous response given. Miss Margaret Battersby also delighted the audience by singing "Life's Lullaby" and "The Bachelor Owl."

LIVELY MEET HELD BY TRINITY Y.P.S.

Hastings Members Enjoy Musicals, Recitations and Address.

HASTINGS, April 14 (Examiner Correspondence) — Forty - eight members were present at the regular weekly meeting of Trinity United Church Young Peoples' Society held in the basement of the church. Miss Claudine Hoard, missionary convenor had charge of the meeting. After an opening hymn Mrs. Albert Brooks led in prayer followed by the scripture reading by Miss Carrie Doxsee.

A splendid program was given, arranged by Miss Hoard which included a reading by Miss Jessie Lamb; duet, Mrs. Gordon Faux and Winnie Huycke; recitation, Miss Verla Krinklow; instrumental, Miss Marjorie Scriver; reading, Mrs. Small; topic, "M'ssionary Work in Korea," Mrs. Arthur Beamish; duet, Misses Helen Turner and Mildred Sherwin; reading, Mrs. Albert Brooks; saxaphone solo, Mr. W. W. Knight. Meeting closed with the mizaph benediction.

GERMANY BE UNABLE TO PAY

PHILADELPHIA—Dr. Robert Va-Leur, of Columbia University, said in an address for delivery to-day that Chancellor Hitler's policy of economic nationalism, plus the high tariffs of Germany's creditor nations, will result in that nation's ultimate inability to pay "even her private debts."

TOOK PILLS FOR YEARS, THEN CEREAL BROUGHT RELIEF

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Corrected His Constipation

If you are troubled by common constipation, read this letter:

"Just a word in appreciation of what your ALL-BRAN has done for my health. For years, I had been doping myself with pills and other dopes for constipation.

"I decided to try Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Now I am in good health, and haven't taken a drop of medicine for six months." — Thos. F. Little (address furnished upon request).

Headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness — any one of these may be caused by common constipation. Yet this condition can be corrected, usually, by eating a delicious cereal.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to help promote regularity. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much safer than patent medicines! Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal.

If serioualy ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN makes no claim to be a "cure-all."

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Get ALL-BRAN, and not a part-bran product. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

FARMER-LABOR GROUP ISSUES ELECTION AIMS

Saskatchewan Unit Hopes to Free Country of Impossible Interest, Debt Burdens.

HALT DISPOSSESSION.

Will Build Up Reserves Against Crop Failure—Want Religious Freedom.

SASKATOON, April 14 (C.P.). —Undertaking to "free the country of impossible interest and debt burdens," to build up reserves against crop failure, and to prevent dispossession of farms and homes, the Farmer-Labor group, Saskatchewan Unit, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, issued a declaration of policy to-day in connection with the Saskatchewan elections to be held sometime this summer

"The group pledges itself to prevent your dispossession by financial corporations and will definitely place interests of humanity before those of financial interests and bondholders," it states

Saskatchewan's debt exceeded $140,000,000, bearing high interest, and group would "demand from the Federal Government the right that banks now possess to deposit Saskatchewan bonds with the Department of Finance and receive the necessary currency in exchange In event of refusal "we demand the right to institute our own token system to provide for our internal services, such as education, hospitalization, and mothers' allowances." Provincial and municipal debts would be consolidated to save millions in interest.

Right of Exchange.

"We must demand from the Dominion," it continued, "the right to exchange our commodities for things we need from outside. To secure this we must seek co-operation of neighboring provinces whose need is similar."

Saskatchewan's educational system would be unified under a non-political commission to ensure equal educational opportunities for all, the statement went on. A provincial unit of education to equalize costs, provide adequate facilities and promote efficency, would be set up.

The socialized health scheme would provide health services free of individual financial liability, leaving patients free to choose a practitioner, wherever feasible; and "adequate remuneration for those rendering these essential services to society."

In conclusion the declaration states the organization stood for religious freedom as an inherent right of society.

FRENCH BUDGET IS BALANCED

Cabinet Announces Reforms Under Way as Veterans Threaten to Clean Up Nation.

FEW FIGURES GIVEN.

PARIS, April 14 (C.P.). —Premier Gaston Doumergue finally balanced France's budget to-day.

The Cabinet adopted five decree reducing French pensions. These decrees completed 4,000,000,000 francs ($264,400,000) in economies effective immediately.

The budget, as voted March 1, provides for ejpenditures of 48,318,570,000 francs (about $3,000,000,000) with a surplus of 9,000,000 francs, but the government admitted it had over-estimated the probable receipts.

So it set itself the task of finding 4,00,000,000 francs about evenly divided between reduction of expenses and an increase in receipts.

The exact figures of the revised budget will be known only when the decrees are full yeffective.

Answering the war veterans' ultimatum that they would clean up France if the Government did not, the Cabinet announced judicial and administrative reforms are already under way.

PUBLIC WORKS SCHEME READY

Bennett Intimates No Hopes of Large Appropriations For Small Items.

MAY BE SOME WHARVES.

OTTAWA, April 14 (C.P.). —The public works which will be initiated by the Dominion Government in connection with relief of unemployment will be "along the line of the suggestions that were made by the Construction Association and other industrial groups throughout the country during the last few months" Premier R. B. Bennett told the House of Commons yesterday.

Later he stated that "the Government proposes to introduce a Bill dealing with public works and a schedule would be attached to it indicating what the proposed works were. He did not hold out any hope that there would be large appropriations covering small items. He intimated, however, something might be done along the lines suggested by Hon. J. L. Ralston (Lib., Yarmouth-Shelburne) that certain small wharves and other works of that nature be built.

Some time ago building organizations submitted suggestions to the Government of public works which might be advantageously carried out at this time, following a convention in Toronto.

THREE DROWNED IN NEW ENGLAND

Clear Skies and Lower Temperatures Expected to Ease Flood Menaces.

HIGHWAYS CLEARING.

BOSTON, April 14. (CP)—Clear skies and lower temperatures today promised to halt New England's rising river waters, which took three lives.

The peak was expected to-day along the Connecticut River in western Massachussetts and the Merrimack in southern New Hampshire. It was expected the waters would recede without further danger or serious damage.

Lowland highways along the northern extensions of the streams began to drain last night and railroad crews and road workers already were putting flooded areas in shape again.

A body, believed to have been that of a woman, was caught in a tree trunk at Turner's Falls and for 10 hours was tossed about. Just as state troopers were about to pull it from the tangled trunk it was swept away.

Herman Morrill, 70, drowned at Littleton, N.H., while trying to take up a foot bridge that crossed a swollen brook; and at Newton, Mass., Robert Martinz, five fell into the Charles River and drowned.

Streets and sidewalks were flooded at Concord, N.H., last night where the Merrimack roared 8.4 feet high over the flashboards of a dam.

Funeral (private), from 119 Glenforest Road, Toronto, Friday, April 13th. Interment at Prospect Cemetery.

EDWARD YOUNG PASSES AWAY

Merchant and General Storekeeper at Young's Point For 36 Years.

FUNERAL ON MONDAY.

YOUNG'S POINT, April 14.—Death last night removed one of the most familiar figures in this section of Peterborough County in the person of Edward Young, merchant and general storekeeper, here for thirty-six years. In declining health since an operation he underwent seven years ago, Mr. Young passed away at the age of 74 years.

Born in Ennismore Township, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Young, he had lived in Young's Point since early childhood and before entering into business on his account had been captain for the Stoney Lake Navigation Company on various steamers running between Peterborough and Lindsay.

Besides his widow, Mr. Young is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Arthur Langlois of Windsor, and Miss Clara Young of Young's Point; also two sons, Edward Young, Jr., of St. Michael's College, and John Young at home; and one brother, Frank Young of Young's Point, and two sisters, Mrs. Frank Young and Mrs. (Dr.) R. Fraser, both of Denver, Colo. A brother Walter died recently.

In politics Mr. Young was a staunch Liberal and took active part in election campaigns in his own community.

For a quarter of a century he had also been a member of the Knigths of Columbus, Peterborough Council, and was actively identified with St. Marys church.

The funeral is to be held on Monday at 9 a.m. at St. Marys church, followed by interment at St. Mary's iemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

WALL—In loving memory of Mrs. Maud Wall who died April 15, 1932.

Our mother is sleeping, so free from all pain;
Oh wake her not, sweet spirit, to suffer again.
She slumbers so soundly—oh let her sleep on;
Her sickness is ended, her troubles are gone.
Just think how she suffered and moaned with pain;
In the long night hours we soothed her in vain;
'Till God in His mercy sent down from above
An Angel that whispered a message of love.

OPERA MIKADO REAL DELIGHT TO GOOD HOUSE

Gay, Colorful Affair Presented by St. Paul's Organizations.

PARTS WELL ACTED.

In Many Ways It Was Best of Many Fine Dramatic Productions.

(By Jeanette)

The old Opera House that has resounded in its day to applause for many a professional and amateur show, echoed last night with the plaudits of the audience, numbering between seven and eight hundred people, that watched the production of the immortal Gilbert and Sullivan masterpiece, "The Mikado" (produced by permission of Rupert D'Oyley Carte) by the choir and Men's Association of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. Direction was by Martin B. Chenhall, A.R. C.O., assisted by Martin Chenhall, Junior.

It was a gay and colorful affair that shut fast the gates of depression and worry for several hours and allowed the men and women who watched and listened to enter into that blithe spirit of fancy-free drollery, that animated land where nothing really matters very much and where music brightens the heart and brilliant colors paint a picture of youth and light-heartedness—the land in which the famous partners dwelt before they fell out over a red carpet and defrauded the world forever of the fruits of their combined genius. The melodious lyrics of Sullivan, the fantastic yet measured foolery of Gilbert, what can equal them in the way of entertainment? And they never go out of style.

It was in many ways the best of the many fine dramatic productions that are chalked up to the credit of these two organizations of St. Paul's. Each member of cast and chorus alike appeared to be right up on his or her toes, and the result was eminently satisfying.

Most people are familiar with the story of this vivacious and animated comic opera in which Nanki-Poo, son of the reigning Mikado of Japan, flees the court in the disguise of a "second trombone," rather than marry the elderly spinster Katisha, she of the sublimated shoulder and elbow, who announces herself as an "acquired taste" (like olives), and who has spent much time in unsuccessfully endeavoring to capture the fancy of the wayward youth. Her wrath at his escape is extreme.

Nanki-Poo (Stanley Willis is admirable in this role), playing his Japanese banjo, the samisen, wanders to the city of Titipu, the little city with an important complex that is reflected in the words of its people. He is in search of the fair maiden who has captured his fancy at a chance encounter.

The "Snickersnee."

But the damsel, the delectably-named Yum-Yum (Mrs. Bruce Munro leaves nothing to be desired in this part), is unfortunately betrothed to another. And that other is the redoubtable Ko-Ko, the Lord High Executioner, who has a ferocious demeanor, and is a person who talks about his wicked "snickersnee" and wields a lengthy fan with such "swishing" effect as to give a dramatic impression of a man about to engage in the terrible duties of his office.

This role was one of the highlights of the production. The youngest member of the group of principals, Donald MacKay, gave a performance that was brilliant in the extreme. His light-footed antics and the manner in which he threw his whole heart and soul into the business of wooing the fearsome Katisha, with the goad of a threatened demise in boiling oil obscuring his reflections on the lady's lack of pulchritude, was almost professional in its scope.

Ko-Ko accepts his duties in the light of "purely nominal" labor, but sobs dismally later when he realizes that he is "unable to kill anything."

Then there is his right-hand man, Pooh Bah, the Lord High Everything Else, who combines about eight high offices of state in his person and boasts of his "protoplasmic ancestry." His "good meals go before him," for his paunch is extraordinary. He can certainly "take it." The manner in which he pitches himself face down resoundingly on the boards of the stage is almost incredible, and he comports himself at all times in a manner that makes him one of the outstanding members of the cast. He is the funny man and portrays to the life that essence of dignified officialdom that the creators of the piece must have had in mind when they formed it, for Gilbert and Sullivan were renowned for lampooning the pompous men of their day.

Adam Sands, Senior, who added much to the joy of life for the audience last night, has the part of Pooh-Bah.

The trio of talkative and ridiculously dignified officials is completed by the tall and formidable-looking Noble Lord, Pish Tush, a role in which John Fowler acts with dynamic force.

Moon of Honey

Nanki-Poo, when he discovers that his beloved can never be his, resolves to drown his woes in death, but Ko-Ko persuades him to allow himself to be executed publicly instead and describes the obsequies ("there will be bands playing, and a Dead March, and when it is all over, fireworks will be let off"), in such a graphic manner that the disappointed lover yields, bargaining craftily, however, that Yum-Yum shall be his bride for the month he has to live. Nanki-Poo and Yum-Yum have had a sentimental meeting on the stage when audible kisses behind fans demonstrate the fact that love, besides "laughing at locksmiths," also jeers courageously at a Mikado, even though a violation of a law against flirting is punishable by death.

Yum-Yum, who is attended by a pair of captivating maidens, the charming Pitti-Sing (Miss Emma Lou Chenhall), and the dainty Peep-Bo (Miss Isabel MacKay), assents with giggling effectiveness, but balks later at "such a stuffy death," when it is discovered that she must be buried alive after her husband is executed.

But all this transpires after the arrival (and disappointed withdrawal) of the elderly spinster, Katisha, who comes in search of her errant "bridegroom-elect." With the appearance of Miss Jessie Pattison on the stage a new vitality permeated the scene. Her dramatic rendition of the role made another of the outstanding episodes of the play.

Katisha departs, breathing wrath, and informs the Mikado (George East), who arrives hurriedly in all the glory of a marvellous satin suit and glitering head-dress, to demand that his son fulfill his promise to the defrauded spinster. But Ko-Ko, who has become pettishly temperamental over the whole business of slaughter, has sent Nanki-Poo and Yum-Yum off to be married and invented a tale of the former's execution which he hopes will satisfy the bloodthirsty cravings of the ruler. The Mikado listens with relish to the gory details as related in fanciful imagery by Ko-Ko and Pooh-Bah (who even causes the decapitated head to bow farewell to him), and Pitti-Sing. Imagine their woe and immediate prostration to the earth when Katisha informs the "honorable Gate" that his own son is the chief actor in the bloody recital.

Love Scene

All seems lost when Ko-Ko decides to woo and wed Katisha and thus smother the embers of her wrath. His affecting scene with the wrathy dame, who melts finally in characteristic style and stoops to sob limply on his astonished breast, is one of the most delightful of the many fantastic episodes.

So all ends merrily and the oil never gets to the "heated cauldron" that awaits it.

"The Mikado" abounds in lightsome lyrics and captivating music Pre-eminent among the musical numbers was the duett between Katisha and Ko-Ko; "There Is Beauty in the Bellow of the Blast," which demanded a repetition of the finely-blended duo and might have been repeated a third time, so well was it received.

Mrs. Munro had the famous solo, "The suns who rays are all ablaze" ("The Moon and I..) and sang it with beautiful high tone and dainty effectiveness.

Katisha's solos were lovely, with Miss Pattison's rich, warm contralto at its best in several superbly-sung numbers, including, "Bow, bow, to the daughter-in-law elect," and "The hour of gladness is dead and gone."

And what could be more effective than the song with which Ko-Ko beguiles Katisha's fancy: "On a tree by a river, a little tom-tit sang," as rendered in Don MacKay's smooth tones, or the sweet song of Nanki-Poo, "A wandering Minstrel I," in Stanley Willis' pure, clear tenor.

There was much applause for George East's solo, in which he discourses on "My object most sublime," and for the delightfully whimsical trio sung by Messrs. MacKay, Sands and Fowler, all about the famous criminal who "sits in sullen silence in the dull, dark dock. Awaiting the sensation of the short, sharp shock of a cheap and chippy chopper on a big black block."

The choruses were gay and colorful additions to the general musical attraction of the production, as were the light, tiptoe dances in which the men, strangely enough, seemed to do better than the maidens. The "Three Little Maids from School" trio, by Yum-Yum and her companions, was as springhtly as always. Miss Chenhall and Miss MacKay had several pretty, brief numbers.

Fine Makeup

Possibly the costuming contributed to the inaction of the feminine feet. It must be difficult to dance at all in enveloping folds such as were manifest in these gay, brilliantly-colored silken kimonas, with their broad obi sashes, their ear flowers and fluttering fans. Whereas the man had the advantage of wide-spreading trousers.

Deftness of makeup transformed in amazing fashion the actors and actress in this presentation. There was never a blonde in sight. Heavy wigs of black covered the ladies' tresses and turned them into stunning Japanese maidens. While yellow powder, slanting eyebrows and wigs with shaven fronts achieved a ferociously and gorgeous adjunct to the piece.

The settings were contrived very satisfactorily and the lighting effects were adequate. The music was exceptionally well played by an orchestra led by Mrs. E. M. Foster, while the Sunday School orchestra of St. Paul's played an old favorite, "Over the Waves," with splendid smooth effect, during the intermission.

During the intermission also, a dainty little tot came out to do a bit of a toe dance and advertise the forthcoming "Y" Pageant.

At the conclusion of the performance, lovely bouquets of flowers were presented to the lady principals of the cast by little Phyllis Jane Abbott and Jane Hall

Minor parts, all appropriately and brilliantly-costumed, were taken by Garth Cowan (Axe Bearer), the Misses Mary Sedgewick and Ivy James (attendants), C. A. Lawrence, R. Wilson, S. Hall and B. Williamson (soldiers), W. J. Armstrong, J. Best, Bob White and John Till (coolies). The soldiers were especially gorgeous.

Chorus girls were: Mesdames Board, Coleman, T. Barrie, J. C. Smith of Lakefield, Strong, J. Fowler, Hemphill; the Misses Marion Armstrong, Phyllis Coleman, O. Cullen, Margaret Duthie, Isobel Duthie, Agnes Dell, Alberta Hunter, Isobel Hamilton, Emily Hemphill, Marion Irvine, Ivy James, Sybil Jackson, Kay Lsbister, Alma Rutherford, Clara Patterson, Mary Sedgewick, Sarah Sands, Lulu Smith of Lakefield, Grace Thompson, Margaret Reid.

Chorus men. — John Anderson, William Anderson, Robert Clyde, Alex Graham, Horace Hope, George Hall, T. McPhate, Don Ross, Fraser Skinner, Dion Snelgrove, William Young, H. March, John Dundas, John Sage, A. Davidson, C. Morrow, E. Watson, Dr. J. C. Smith of Lakefield.

Other Assistance

Hurrell Dodds was business manager, and those in charge of various sections were as follows: G. Wilson Craw, publicity; R. Thompson-Currie, costumes; Robert Haddow, program; H. H. Lush and Miss Eleanor Dodds, make-up; Horace Hope, stage manager. E. Searight is secretary, and J. W. Armstrong, treasurer. Wardrobe mistresses were Mrs. James Fowler and Mrs. Hemphill.

Taking part in the special dance number were the Misses Alberta Hunter, Margaret Duthie, Mary Sedgewick, Marion Irvine, Sarah Sands, Clara Patterson, Alma Rutherford, Kay Isbister, Isobel Hamilton, Emily Hemphill, Grace Thompson, Marion Armstrong, Ivy James, Sybil Jackson and Phyllis Coleman.

The Opera House orchestra was composed of the following members: Mrs. E. M. Foster, leader, violinist; A. M. McKeown and S. Northrop, violins; T. Smith, 'cello; W. Townsend, clarinet; Walter Miller, trombone; W. J. Cunningham, bass viol; W. Hughes, cornet; Robert Beach, drums; Miss Pearl Smith and M. B. Chenhall, Senior, piano.

Ushers were G. W. Craw, R. Haddow, Don Loucks, Gordon Hill, Jack Bennett, J. W. Anderson, Roy Taylor, Walter Perks, C. E. Blewett, H. G. Mason, A. Sollit, Jack Gillespie.

Reg Turner was at the door, and the Opera House staff included the manager, J. A. Stewart; Thomas Stenton, electrician; B. Clute, carpenter; Mel Morgan, Property man; P. Adamson, grip; R. Graham, flyman.

Furniture was lent by Comstock Brothers.

CANADIAN ART IS SOMETHING TO BE PROUD OF

Trend Has Been Towards Interpretation of Canadian Environments.

EXTENSION LECTURE.

George Pepper of Ontario College of Art Addresses Audience in Y.M.C.A.

"Canada has a distinctively Canadian art of which it may be proud," George Pepper of the Ontario College of Art declared in an address at the Y.M.C.A. last evening. "The trend in Canadian art has been toward the interpretation of the Canadian environment—the virile ruggedness of the hills and mountains, the beauty of the waters and the grandeur of the forests—just as it is found. In abiding by that trend, the artist is working in a fresh and fertile field."

Developing the topic, "Canadian Painting," Mr. Pepper spoke to an appreciative audience as one of the lecturers on the university extension lecture course being sponsored by the Friday Night Supper Club. He substituted for Arthur Lismer, the speaker originally scheduled for last evening, when unexpected illness prevented Mr. Lismer's appearance. A series of lantern slides of well-known Canadian paintings, illustrative of the various features of the talk, complemented his lecture.

Dealing with the history of Canadian art, Mr. Pepper pointed out that Canadian art is not very old. Since it has no extensive history dating back to the Middle Ages as the art of European countries has, the student of Canadian art must concern himself with the relatively modern development of painting in Canada during the past hundred years, he said. Back beyond one hundred years there was practically no painting done by white men in Canada.

Jacobi and Kreighoff.

Before 1900, Canadian artists could be divided into two categories, he continued. There were those who were natives of Canada but went to Europe to receive their training and the artists native to Europe who, with the European training, came to Canada in maturity to paint Canadian scenes. Canada had no artists of distinction free from the European schooling. Artists native to Canada found little epcouragement here, and when they went abroad to study, generally stayed away. European artists who came to Canada painted fine pictures from Canadian scenes and subjects, but their works lacked the Canadian feeling. Outstanding among these earlier painters, the speaker said, were Jacobi, the Russian, and Kreighoff, of German birth.

While Kreighoff sensed the fertility of the Canadian field, painting some noteworthy canvasses from scenes in the everyday life of the habitant around Montreal and Quebec, the first indications of a truly distinctive Canadian art come from the works of three or four younger artists, Mr. Pepper said. Homer Watson, Cruikshank, Cullen and a couple of other painters pointed the way to a Canadian art free from the Old World restraints. Cruikshank recognized the pioneer aspect as the predominant aspect of life in Canada and undertook to interpret it sincerely. While Watson never completely freed himself from the old traditions, he caught a genuinely Canadian spirit in a number of his paintings. Cullen, who died quite recently, saw in the Canadian winter one of the most important sides of Canadian life and undertook to present it despite the unpopularity of the theme.

Tom Thompson.

Tom Thompson, Mr. Pepper continued, made a greater contribution to Canadian art than any other. When he started his art work he had no great technical knowledge and never felt himself a painter, but he knew the north country from an artistic viewpoint as few others have been privileged to know it. His friends sensed an unusual quality in his paintings and encouraged him. In four years' time he reached an unprecedented pinnacle. How far he would have climbed in the world of art if he had not been taken by death at the end of the four years in 1917 can only be guessed.

Movement to Wilds.

It was Thompson who started the movement of Canadian artists to the wilds. The wild, rugged scenery of the more sparsely populated areas in Canada had always been regarded as unworthy of portrayal, but Thompson, through his works, demonstrated the real significance of Canadian scenery. Not always were the moods pleasant in the scenes which caught his eye, but he painted them as he saw them, ignoring the recipes of classical tradition.

A. Y. Jackson, Arthur Lismer and J. E. H. MacDonald are among the outstanding painters who have followed closely the lead of Thompson, the speaker said. Jackson's works have a virility, a sincerity and an expressiveness that is quite Canadian. In most of his paintings his interest in the subject of his study for its own sake rather than an interest in the presentation of some particular artistic techique is to be observed. By his painting, "September Gale," Lismer qualifies himself as a sincere interpreter of the true Canadian environment. MacDonald adhered to the Thompson spirit in painting "Beaver Dam," and in a number of paintings of scenes in the Rocky Mountains demonstrated a mastery over this type of national scenery which few others have attained.

STAMP CORNER

By M. A. BESSEY

NEW CARTIER STAMP

Definite announcement has just been received, that the post-office department of Canada will issue a special double-size pictorial postage stamp to commemorate the four hundredth anniversary of the landing of Jacques Cartier on Canadian soil.

The denomination of the new stamp will be three cents, the color, blue, and the vignette will depict the scene on board Cartier's ship when it approached land.

Definite date of issue has not been announced, and just as soon as it is, we will include it in our column, so that collectors wishing to secure first-day covers may have an opportunity of doing so.

New Postage Dues

Just recently postage dues of two, four and ten-cent denominations appeared in entirely new designs. The two cent is illustrated above, and it will be noted that this is the most radical change from the original issue that has been made to date. The color remains the same —violet.

German Air Mails

The Swastika, emblem of the Nazis, has finally made its appearance on postage stamps. The Eagle, emblem of German royalty, is shown from that of a few years ago, apparently its use on the present issue of air mail stamps is more to denote "flight" rather than an indication of German character.

The new issue of "official" stamps of Germany portray a large Swastika as the central figure.

China

A new edition of the 1932 Martyrs type, has just recently appeared, which we illustrate. There are also three stamps of the same type and denomination, each with different overprints for use in different Chinese provinces. Students of Chinese stamps, must find plenty to keep them busy, with the numerous color changes, overprints and minor varieties that are always coming to light.

U.S. Maryland Commemorative

This is a beautiful little stamp, which we illustrate, and would have liked to have seen it just twice the size.

It also appears that regulations of the postal union are not very binding, the color of the Maryland stamp being red, instead of the usual purple of three cent U.S. stamps, on top of which the new Cartier stamp of Canada will be blue instead of the usual carmine of our three cent denominations.

The new Maryland tercentenary stamp was issued on March 23rd, to commemorate the 300th anniversary of the founding of the State of Maryland.

It was in November, 1633, that the Ark and the Dove set sail from Cowes, Isle of Wight, England, carrying two hundred colonists under the guidance of Leonard Calvert. Landing on St. Clement's Island in the Potomac, now known as Blakistone Island, the colonists soon made their way to the mainland and it was at St. Marys City, where the stamps were first put on sale, that they made their first permanent landing.

Another U.S. commemorative stamp is to be issued for "Mother's Day." It will appear some time between now and May 12th.

Important Price Changes

The Scott Stamp and Coin Co., of New York, publishers of the Scott Standard Postage Stamp catalogue, announce, that, as of March 1st, 1934, present catalogue prices for all current and recent ssues of foreign stamps, except, except British colonies, have been cancelled, and are hereby increased 25 per cent.

We might also add, that, from our own experience, we are finding the prices of practically everything, British colonies, and others are showing substantial increases in England. This has a direct effect on our local market, and in the course of the next few months we expect to find a more settled state of affairs as regards the price of stamps, which will be considerably higher than those of last year and the present time.

LYCEUM CLUB GIVES AWARDS FOR DRAWINGS

"The Romance of Tea Caddy" Subject of Brief Address.

THE "SPACIOUS DAYS."

Art Association Inaugurated a Contest Among School Children.

"The Romance of the Tea Caddy," was the subject of a brief and very interesting talk given to the members of the Lyceum Club Women's Art Association, by Mrs. J. E. R. Munroe, at their last scheduled studio meeting for the season, held yesterday afternoon, at the Conservatory of Music, with a good attendance.

Later in the afternoon school children of the city came in to receive their prizes in the annual drawing contest conducted by the Association, and afternoon tea was served. Samples of their work, also the prize-winning drawings, in pencil and in colors, were displayed on the studio walls, and there was also on view a notable collection of lovely old tea caddies and boxes of various ornamental types, in varied woods and decorated with mother of pearl inlay and brass figures, one large box covered with a group of Oriental type in brass being a prominent example of the caddy which formed the subject of Mrs. Munro's talk.

The term "caddy," according to Mrs. Munro, comes from an Oriental word meaning "pound" or "measure."

Tea was first introduced to England in the 17th century by way of Holland, and the first Java tea sold at a hundred shillings per pound. Then from China came tea, selling at from £6 to £9 for a pound. It was the beverage of the wealthy and the noble.

Pope writing of ueen Anne, said:

"Here that great Anne, who three realms doth obey, Doth sometimes counsel take, and sometimes tay."

Pepys, the famous diarist, spoke often of his "dish of tea," and the great Dr. Johnson, of whom it was said, "his kettle never had time to cool," remarked of tea, that it "amuseth the evening, solaceth the midnight and welcometh the morn."

The first caddies to come to England were flat sided bottles, with stoppers, from China, which were later copied by the English potters, and were also later made from silver, Sheffield plate and pewter and fitted with a lock and key to guard the valuable contents.

The "Spacious Days"

In Elizabethan times, tea and sugar were unknown to England. When sugar first came into use and proved to be a very expensive luxury, it, too, was placed under lock and key, and the fashion sprang into being of using large wooden boxes fitted with compartments for the sugar and two caddies, to allow of the blending which became fashionable.

One popular box was known as the "sarcophagus" type, while others were of various shapes and materials. They were inlaid with pearl and ivory and banded and studded with brass. Some were lined with velvet or brocade in red, green or golden-yellow, while others had lining of red and green brocaded paper.

At various periods, the shapes of the caddies followed out the designs in furniture made famous by the Adam brothers, by Sheraton and Chippendale.

The three great tea-drinking countries of the world, said Mrs. Munroe, are Russia, Holland, the British Isles.

The president of the association, Mrs. W. Blackwell, voiced the expression of appreciation to the speaker. A pleasant interlude of the afternoon was a vocal solo by Miss Eleanor Brown, with accompaniment played by Mrs. D. R. Howat.

Mrs. Blackwell, at the conclusion of the tea hour, presented the prizes to the school children.

School Contests.

Last year, the Art Association inaugurated a contest among the pupils of the Public and Separate schools of the city, in which a series of small cash prizes were presented for the best studies submitted in four classes of drawings, figures from life, landscapes, flowers and design work.

This year a similar contest was conducted, and the prizes (75 cents for first place, 50 cents for second, and 50 cents for specials in each section), were presented as follows:

Figures: Fred Agnew of the King George School, Berta Belleghem of the Central School, and Arnold Campbell of the Prince of Wales School.

Honorable mention was accorded to the following pupils:

Flowers: E. Stewart, Marilyn Munroe and V. Patterson, all of the Central school, Dorothy Fredenburg, of St. Mary's Convent; Billy Henry, Mary Duncan, Muriel Theobald and Gwen Davies, all of the Queen Alexandra School; Irene Simpson and Gladys Brown, of the King George School; Dorothy Boyle of the Queen Mary School.

Landscape: Doris Williams of the King George School; Betty Middleton, Dorothy Bayle, Robert Robinson, J. Lillico, Zore Staysee, and Meredith Miller of the Queen Mary School, Herbert Galley, June Armstrong, Sherman Montgomery and Pearl Revoy of the Queen Alexandra School, Ronald Gyane of the King Edward School, Gordon James and Harold Gray of the Prince of Wales School.

Design: Effie Scott and Irene Simpson of the King George School, Max Goshen and Jeanne Moore of the Queen Mary School.

The committee in charge of the contests, the members also acting as judges, was composed of Mrs. T. Cruikshank (convenor), Mrs. J. E. R. Munroe and Miss Cameron Edwards.

At the Theatres

AT THE CAPITOL.

IN THE MOVIES NOW

Here's good news, girls. The world's most popular bachelor has gone into the movies!

At the Capitol next week we are to see a film called "The Life Story of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales," and His Royal Highness himself will play the leading role. It'll be the real thing, for he wears proper movie make-up and faces the camera and such, all according to directors' orders.

Don't make any mistake. The heir to the British throne hasn't taken on this movie job because he wants to cut out Clark Gable, though it's a safe bet that he'll outdraw any star you could name, but he waned to give a boost to the British film industry, in which he is keenly interested.

1 "Mary — I just don't know what to do with Junior. He whines like this all day long. And he hasn't one BIT of appetite!"

2 "I've gone through the same thing with my Polly. Don't worry — I'm sure all he needs is a good laxative. Give him Castoria tonight."

3 "Mary! I followed your advice—and you ought to see the smiles around here this morning!"

"I'm so glad, Sue. You see, Castoria is made especially for children. You'll find it's a wonderful help in relieving constipation. And it's a splendid laxative to give Junior when you notice a cold coming on, too. Often laxatives made for grown-ups are uncomfortably strong for little systems. They really do harm. I'm sure Junior loved the taste — all children do."

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

There is something stimulating to parents in the realization that the children of today are proving their ability while still youthful. In imagination they see these, their offspring, spurring ahead, not only to those of their own age, but overtaking and forging ahead of those of more mature years and of wider experience.

* * * * * *

When a child is a genius, or especially gifted or talented, he (or she), is able to grasp with amazing rapidity the meaning of instructions and to acquire technique at a very early age which would otherwise be beyond him. With this mental and physical equipment there is also a quality, not to be gauged by years, for it is ageless. But geniuses are rare, despite the fact that many parents' consider their children belong to the limited company. It is wiser to be slow in such classification while nurturing and cherishing what seems to be a spark of the Divine Fire found in geniuses. Above all care for the health of such promising youths and give them every possible opportunity for proper development of the ability.

* * * * * *

Apart from these exceptional children, there is the vast majority, the normal average. These children may be slow in developing their powers. They require time to lay the right foundation if they are to have sufficient technique to amount to anything worth while. It is a mistake to be "hipped with the passion for early success and youthful achievement." Give the young folk time to prove themselves. So long as they don't settle down to contentment with mediocrity, they are working toward some fulfillment. To put pressure on them may stunt the development of their powers. Provide as suitable an environment as possible for their progress and encourage rather than urge them to go forward.

* * * * * *

This waiting game on the part of parents is not easy, especially when they see others rising. The consolation to them has to come from the realization that achievement is laid on a cumulative foundation. Rome was not build in a day, but it was being built continually and steadily. It was neither a lazy nor a makeshift process, but a steady rising. Parents have the right to expect something of their children, but unless they foster abilities and do not push the youngsters ahead before they are ready, they may frustrate their own hopes.

Egg-o Cake Contest Closes On Wednesday

The cakes that mother used to bake have become a legend—but is it true that she is so far superior to her oldest daughter or to her newly-married youngest when it comes to a real test? Critics like to regard the younger generation as keen on parties but slow in the kitchen, quick on entertainment but a dud with the range. Here's a chance to test the relative merits of mother and daughter. All you have to do is to enter the Egg-O Cake Baking contest, follow their recipe for a Feather Cake, obey a few simple rules, and you may not only prove your cake-baking supremacy over the housewives of Peterborough but win one of a number of valuable and useful prizes.

It costs you nothing to enter the contest. Your cake—only one cake is allowed to each contestant—must be taken or sent to The Examiner, Wednesday, April 18, and the prize winners will be announced on Thursday, April 19.

Here is the recipe:—

FEATHER CAKE (One Egg)

¼ cup butter or other shortening.
1 cup fine white sugar.
1 egg.
2 cups sifted pastry flour.
2 level teaspoons Egg-O Baking Powder.
¼ teaspoon salt.
2-3-¾ cup milk.
1 teaspoon flavoring.

Cream the butter, gradually adding sugar and egg. Continue creaming until light and fluffy. Sift flour, baking powder and salt three times and add alternately with the milk to the first mixture. Add flavoring. Put in pan 8x8x2 inches and lined with wax paper. Bake in moderate oven (325-350 degrees F.) 35-45 minutes. This cake to be un-iced. All measurements level.

These are the simple rules:—

1. You must use Egg-o Double Acting Baking Powder.
2. The top or label of an EGG-O tin must accompany your cake.
3. Contestants may enter only one cake.
4. You must use the above recipe.
5. Judging will be on the points of texture, lightness, flavor, etc.
6. Contestants must abide by the decision of the judges.

The prizes are: first, Lady's Watch; second, Six Community Plate Salad or Pastry Forks; third, supreme Aluminumware Bakesheet; fourth, Five-Pound Tin Vi-Tone; fifth, Two-Pound Tin Vi-Tone; sixth, One-Pound Tin Egg-O Baking Powder; seventh, Half-Pound Tin Vi-Tone; eight Half-Pound Tin Egg-O Baking Powder.

Art Exhibit Of Work Unemployed Planned

An effort is being made by members of the Women's Art Association and The Examiner to have an exhibit of work done by unemployed men who have utilized in some way the leisure that this period of depression has forced upon them.

Some time in May, in one of the stores, the exhibit will be made. Anyone having handiwork of any type, no matter what it may be, is asked to come in to The Examiner and leave a note of their entry, so that some idea may be had of the entries in this exhibit.

It is hoped that the unemployed men of the city will co-operate in an idea that is designed for their benefit, to show to the best possible advantage the work that may be accomplished by the hands of those who are interested in making things.

Mae West Orders $17,000 Armored Car

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 14.—(U.P.).—Mae West's order for a $17,000 bullet-proof, stream-lined automobile was received here yesterday by the Duesenberg Automobile Company.

The automobile is to be built to specifications of the screen actress. It will be powered by a 325-horse power engine, capable of making 130 miles an hour and taking curves at a high rate of speed.

All doors and the windshield will be provided with bullet-proof glass. Work on the automobile will be rushed, and delivery made within a few weeks, Duesenberg officials said.

TENTING

JOLIET, Ill.—The state prison is so crowded (it has 3,770 convicts within its walls) that the authorities are going to let some of them camp out in tents this summer. The tents will be placed within the prison enclosure and there will be plenty of guards on hand to see that the outdoor boys don't run away.

DATE IS SET ANNUAL MEET

INTERESTING PROGRAM

WARSAW, April 14. (Examiner Correspondence).. — There was a good attendance at the Women's Institute meeting held at Mrs. Arthur Payne's home on Thursday afternoon, April 12. Mrs. Anderson presided. After the opening exercises the roll call with suggestions for next year's program brought: "Flower culture" grandmother's day, grandfather's day, picnic, friendship, meeting at Mrs. J. O. Crowe's home among other suggestions.

It was decided to accept Westwood W.I.'s invitation to unite with them for the summer series meeting on June 18.

Some Warsaw members had assisted at the organization of Westwood branch. Warsaw had never been there and Westwood is one of the recent organization. Lakefield branch also had invited Warsaw. Warsaw ladies had been at Lakefield organization and had also been their guests at other times.

It was voted to pay the bills of expense for the play, also to thank those who so kindly and so well took part. Mrs. Anderson, as oldest woman in the play, and president of the branch, most heartily thanked the young people who had given of their time and energy and had always been so pleasant. She also thanked those who had helped arrange the stage and lent articles to be used.

An invitation has been extended to put the play on in Peterborough on April 25; also at Buckhorn.

It was voted to ask the members of the cast to repeat the play in Warsaw and the proceeds go to the hockey club.

There was some assembly singing. Mrs. Theodore Douglas gave a very interesting talk on the League of Nations and read an explanatory article from a magazine.

Several bulbs, seeds and roots were brought for exchanging.

The meeting on May 10th will be the annual business one. There will be a roll-call on Friendship.

After the National Anthem Mrs. Payne served sandwiches, muffins and tea.

Cheese Factory Meeting

There was a good attendance at the cheese factory patrons' annual business meeting on Thursday afternoon, April 12. David Rose, one of the factory directors, was appointed chairman. Fred Crowe patron's secretary, read the minutes of the 1933 meeting which were adopted. The factory report for the season of 1933 is: Total pounds of milk, 934,494; butterfat, 33,369.17 pounds; cheese, 81,886 pounds; total value of cheese, $8,-105.55; total value to patrons, $6-708.59.

Feeding of turnips or rape to cows whose milk is sent to the factory is not allowed.

Whey will be sold at 10c a barrel.

Fred Crowe was appointed secretary and Fred Crowe and Arthur Edwards salesmen.

Wallace Anderson addressed the meeting regarding cheese factory Association. There was a good deal of discussion on the subject. It was voted that the Warsaw patrons are in favor of joining the organization.

On request E. Hawthorne gave a brief but interesting outline of the history of the Peterborough cheese board which had been in operation for fifty years before it was disbanded several years ago. He had always considered the disbanding a mistake.

A resolution was passed that it would be in the better interests of the cheese producing farmers to reorganize the Peterborough Cheese Board.

Mr. Moore, district dairy instructor explained some of the points of the present method of marketing cheese.

Charles Foster, representing the Canadian Packing Co., handled the cheese since the disbandment of the board offered to handle it again.

Mr. A. F. Choate spent a few days this week the guest of Mrs. Donald Davis.

Mrs. J. A. Crowe is home after spending an extended visit with her daughter in Keene.

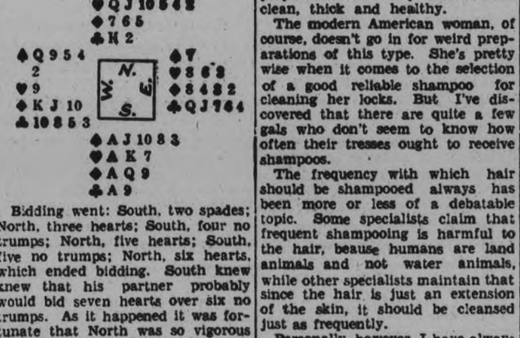
ECONOMIZING FINESSES

Take as few finesses as will answer your purpose, just as the declarer of this hand did.



Bidding went: South, two spades; North, three hearts; South, four no trumps; North, five hearts; South, five no trumps; North, six hearts, which ended bidding. South knew knew that his partner probably would bid seven hearts over six no trumps. As it happened it was fortunate that North was so vigorous a bidder.

The opening lead was the six of clubs. It would also have been a club had South played the hand at no trumps or spades. Dummy's ace won. The declarer dropped all opposing trumps in three leads.

Perhaps more than half of players in North's position would have tried a finesse of dummy's queen of diamonds, which would have cost a trick and ended by obliging North to try for a throw-off in spades. Other players in his position would have led two rounds of winning spades and then tried to establish the balance of that suit in dummy, to furnish means of discarding losing diamonds. North saw that taking a finesse in spades would enable him to discard what he required to go six-odd. If the finesse won North would lose no spade trick and obtain at least a single discard, so that a losing finesse in diamonds still would enable him to score his small slam. In case the spade finesse lost to the missing queen dummy would have two good spades upon which the declarer could discard both his losing diamonds.

North led his king of spades. When he led his two East showed out, but just the same the ten was finessed, and lost to the queen. A return lead of clubs was won with declarer's king. He led a diamond, won with dummy's ace, and upon leads of the ace-jack of spades North discarded his two low diamonds, fulfilling his six-odd contract.

Aside from the business-like way in which North played the hand for a sure six-odd, and from possible double-dummy methods, North could readily have fulfilled his contract in another safe manner. He could have won the second lead of spades in dummy, led the jack of spades through West, insuring the establishment of the ten, upon which to discard a low diamond. The diamond finesse would then have enabled North to win six-odd. It was a better method, as seven-odd might have resulted.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

Down in the southern part of India, women believe that the wings of bats are most beneficial for shampooing the hair. First they crush the wings and mix them with oils and other ingredients. Then they place the mixture in a sealed receptacle and bury it for three months. After that, they use it for cleansing and anointing their locks. And they firmly believe that this preparation will keep their tresses clean, thick and healthy.

The modern American woman, of course, doesn't go in for weird preparations of this type. She's pretty wise when it comes to the selection of a good reliable shampoo for cleaning her locks. But I've discovered that there are quite a few gals who don't seem to know how often their tresses ought to receive shampoos.

The frequency with which hair should be shampooed always has been more or less of a debatable topic. Some specialists claim that frequent shampooing is harmful to the hair, beause humans are land animals and not water animals, while other specialists maintain that since the hair is just an extension of the skin, it should be cleansed just as frequently.

Personally, however, I have always found that the best criterion for the average woman is to shampoo her hair whenever it becomes dirty. For a dirty scalp is extremely detrimental to hair health and loveliness. Dust, dirt and the excretions of the oil and perspiratory glands all accumulate on the scalp. If these accumulations are not removed, they grow rancid. Their poisonous acids tend to destroy the health of the scalp and hair. And the accumulations of the scalp and upset their normal action.

The problem of how often the hair should be shampooed is an individual one, of course. Generally, a normal scalp needs shampooing only every ten days or so. The dry scalp, of course, must not be shampooed too often, as its dryness may thus be increased. Once every two or three weeks is usually sufficient for dry hair. Oily hair, however, can stand a god number of shampoos, and even a weekly cleansing is not too much for this type of hair.

STUDENTS OPEN DRIVE FOR PEACE WITH RIOTING

Brooklyn Youths Attack High School Group Holding Aloof From Campaign.

EIGHT ARE ARRESTED.

Strikes and Walkouts Called on Colleges Scattered Over Eastern U. S.

(By Raymond Crowley).

NEW YORK, April 13 (AP). — A cry, "strike against war" resounded on many campuses to-day, summoning students to drop books at 11 a.m. and demonstrate for peace. Even before the movement got officially under way it resulted in bruises for about 20 persons.

A riot launched the peace drive in Brooklyn last night. About 500 students of an evening high school joined 2,000 other persons in trying to persuade 1,500 remaining students to join their ranks.

There was a melee, in which police swung night sticks and demonstrators swung fists and feet. After the wild turmoil was over, two policemen were treated for sprains and bruises, and a citizen for scalp wounds. Many others limped away before the ambulance surgeons could get to them. Eight persons were arrested. Detectives said known Reds led some of the groups of rioters.

The anti-war movement, described as nation-wide, gave authorities of many colleges some anxious moments, for they feared other clashes.

Strike Called.

One hundred students met in New York under the banner of the Anti-War League to plan meetings They said they were from Columbia, New York University, Hunter College, City College, Brooklyn College and other institutions. The call for the "strike" in New York and elsewhere went out from the Student League for Industrial Democracy and the National Student League.

Dean Morton D. Gottshall of City College warned that students cutting classes would suffer the usual penalties. The acting dean of Columbia College said he would remain neutral.

About 30 students at Massachusetts State College were said to plan an hour's walkout to-day. Girls at Smith College decided on an evening meeting instead. Undergraduates at Johns Hopkins called for a strike. At Springfield College in Massachusetts, 24 white crosses dotted the lawn as an anti-war protest.

The students at Haverford College, Pa., were at war over peace. One group sent word to President Roosevelt that it would not fight "in any war." Another said it would "uphold the good judgment of the Government" in case of war.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

There was some prejudice against contact glasses when they were first suggested, but apparently experience by careful men has shown that they have many advantages.

Contact glasses are those which fit under the eyelids. They look something like the shell of an artificial eye. These are of especial value to actors, actresses and athletes, who either for the sake of appearance or because glasses in frames would get in their way, cannot use the latter.

These contact glasses are little discs which can be fitted easily into the eye, and separated from the eyeball by a thin layer of normal salt solution. The advantages are said to be that it is impossible, mathematically and optically, to correct any error of refraction by placing a fixed lens half an inch in front of a moving eyeball, which is the condition which obtains when ordinary glasses are worn. Most patients wearing contact glasses for the first time exclaim over the clearness and brightness of objects, even though the central vision may be no better than with their old glasses.

In spite of prejudices which might naturally be held against them, they are said to be quite safe and, as a matter of fact, as far as danger from breakage is concerned, are safer than ordinary glasses. The eyelids themselves afford protection denied the wearer of spectacles. One patient was thrown from an automobile and knocked unconscious without breaking his contact glasses, whereas ordinary glasses would undoubtedly have been broken and probably cut his eyeball. Nor do the contact glasses appear to cause the irritation of the eyeball or inside of the eyelid that might be expected.

They are by no means new, having been made since 1887. They must be made very carefully and ground very accurately to suit the curvature of different eyes.

Of course, they are not supposed to be kept in the eye for a long period of time, but they can be kept there for four or five hours a day and even, with improvements in their manufacture, have been worn as long as 17 hours. Cases are on record of patients having gone to bed with contact glasses in because it was forgotten they were in position, which certainly would indicate that they were not irritating. Sometimes there is irritation in the lids, even though the fit to the eyeball is perfect. This, however, can usually be overcome by having the patient take the glass off at frequent intervals until tolerance has been established.

Horsemen Protest Against Longer Race Meetings

INSIDE THE PADDOCK

BY ART MURRAY

KENILWORTH track at Windsor is resembling the proverbial beehive what with new stables arriving every day to augment the large number already quartered there. The Seagram string got in the other day and are in the pink after a successful winter campaign below the line. Jim Bedame also checked in with Khorasan, the good handicap performer. The big fellow never looked better and seems headed for a successful season. The bugle blows three weeks from today and the familiar cry of "There Off" will be heard from H— to Hackney around the border city.

HOROMETER IS still our choice for the King's Plate, major event in the Canadian racing season with Pitchblende and Andiron have a small chance but it looks like a boat race for the McLaughlin color bearer unless he meets with an accident between now and Plate Day. The condition books for Kenilworth show that the Canadian breds are being well looked after, as about two races a day are exclusively for this class. Lloyd Gentry who trains the large stable for Harry Hatch has his charges on the ground and are further advanced in their training than any other stable that wintered on this side of the border.

WE NOTICE where our friend Guy Bedwell put over a winner the other day at Bowie when his Fair Billy got down in front to the tune of $34.65. This is the first win for Guy in nearly one year. It is quite different from a few years ago when he was trainer for the powerful J. K. L. Ross string which boasted such famous horses as Sir Barton who won both the Kentucky derby and The Preakness in the same year. Billy Kelly was also a member of this stable. This one is regarded by horsemen as the best named horse that ever sprinted the furlongs. In race track parlance he was known as "a gun from the gate."

IT WAS SIR BARTON that raced against the famous Man O' War at Kenilworth some fifteen years ago in a matched race. The purse of fifty thousand still stands as the highest purse ever hung up in this country. For the benefit of the younger racing fans we may point out that the best Sir Barton could do in this race was second. When the Ross string was disposed of Bedwell campaigned a string of cheap platers of his own and up until last year had been fairly successful. But as we remarked above this Fair Billy win is the first in a long time. The Old Fox as he is known around the tracks is a smart conditioner of horses and will gather a few purses as long as he is in the game.

PATCHPOCKET just missed by a nose his last out, in real good company so mark him on your cuff for a winning performance. Flaming Mamie is down at Bowie and will give the boys a surprise one of these fine days. This one is really a little better than the average plater. They have Uluniu over at Arlington Downs and word comes that he is ready for the word. Track conditions make no difference to this one as he is equally as good in the mud as in fast going.

ART HALLIWELL has his good plater Hurawav at the Texas course and is expecting to cop a heat with him before long. Here is another one that will win a race pretty soon at long odds. His name is Chehalis and he is at Arlington. Nipper Rowe the new starter at the C.R.A. tracks is schooling two-year-olds each morning at Woodbine and these babies should not be as nervous when they face the wire as in years gone by.

FOURTEEN DAY RACE MEETINGS MAY HURT GAME

Ontario Jockey Club is Opposed to New Plan as is A. M. Orpen.

DEVONSHIRE IN FAVOR.

TORONTO, April 14.—When the proposed amendments to the Criminal Code permitting a racing association to operate for two periods of seven days, or one period of fourteen days, were presented to the House of Commons, Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, intimated that the legislation would be so drafted that it would become effective only with the consent of the Provincial Governments, because these Governments were interested materially in the matter. Racing interests last night did not know if the legislation had been drafted in this manner.

The Ontario Jockey Club is said to be opposed to a continuous fourteen-day meeting, and will operate two seven-day meetings. The attitude of the Thorncliffe Association, which is said to be financially controlled by American interests, is not known, but since the dates for spring and fall meetings have been decided on it will not likely make a change this year. A. M. Orpen, operating Long Branch and Dufferin Park, is distinctly opposed to a continuous fourteen-day meeting, regarding it as a move toward longer race meetings generally. Longer race meetings, he said, will do great harm to the sport. He regarded a short meeting as satisfactory to all concerned.

The move for the fourteen continuous day meeting is said to have emanated from the Border Cities' Devonshire Racing Association, controlled by Charles Pfeffer. W. E. Wolatt, manager of the Devonshire Park, is said to have been responsible for the change. It is also said that the Devonshire interests are hopeful that the Detroit Racing Association, with its proposed 120-day meeting, will not run its full length and that they can operate for fourteen days. Racing interests believed that this was possible, particularly on account of the disturbed business conditions in the Motor City. The fear is expressed that the long 120-day meeting will result in an outcry from merchants and others. Last night it was recalled that Michigan banned horse-racing entirely, and that it was only restored last year. Excessively long meeting and their effort on general conditions, particularly retail, may, it is feared, bring another reaction.

Cattarinich Approves.

MONTREAL, April 14 (AP).—Decision of Parliament that each race track may, if it desires, hold one 14-day race meet instead of two seven-day stretches each year will be considered at a meeting of the Quebec Racing Association here next Wednesday, President Joseph Cattarinich announced yesterday.

Dates for the season will be allotted at the meeting at which all tracks in the province will be represented. Mr. Cattarinich said he favored a 14-day meet for Blue Bonnets, owned by him and his associates, but declined to express an opinion regarding the other tracks. There was little possibility, he intimated, that Dorval race track would be operated this summer. It had run "in the red" for several seasons.

At the meeting, Col. George P. Murphy and Thomas P. Gorman will represent Connaught Park; Leo Dandurand and Jules Dugal, Dorval; Frank Reitman and Lou Smith, King's Park; M. Schenker, Mount Royal, and Cattarinich and Senator Raymond, Montreal Jockey Club (Blue Bonnets).

THE KENTUCKY Derby will be decided three weeks from today and we are still stringing along with Mati Hari. There are three or four that are being picked by the experts but we think the Dixiana miss, barring accidents will gather in the money and all the prestige that goes with it.

Children of Sussex, England, have been appealed to by the Bishop of Chichester to collect money needed to build a new church at Whitehawk.

YOUNG ANGELO TAKES VICTORY WITH TWO FALLS

600 SEE SHOW.

Six hundred fans shivered while six wrestlers sweated through three bouts of a pro grappling card that lasted less than two hours at the Brock last night. Comedy was the predominant note as the paid performers clowned and battled their way through lively matches, and the customers kept up a steady stream of wise-cracks mixed with cheers and boos. It was a fair evening's entertainment. The cool weather kept down the crowd for the show which was put on by Tommy McClure of the Toronto Mutual Street Arena, under the auspices of the Peterborough Baseball Club. Injury to one grappler necessitated a switch in the program. Phil Lawson was referee, Fred Scates the announcer, and Nagle Phelan timekeeper.

In the preliminary, a negro calling himself the Black Panther tangled with Jack Kennedy, both lightheavies. It was an exciting tussle though both went in for considerable matwork. The colored gent suffered greatly for a time under a vicious head scissors, turning "black in the face," as someone remarked. He got in a few toeholds and bit of sly strangling but took a great deal of punishment throughout. Toward the close, the dark-hued wrestler went to work on Kennedy and had himself a fine time with no less than seven ring-shaking body slams, but alas! Jack crossed him up on the eight and caught the slammer with a neat flying body scissors to grab the fall in twenty-four minutes and take the cheers.

Turk Takes Victory.

Next on the program was an act by Carl VanLehman and one Mustapha Pasha, Terrible Turk. They were lightheavyweights and roughed it up plenty from the start, the Turk electing to be the big bad man and drawing down upon his head the wrath of those fans who were interested. He did everything but chop off the Dutchman's head with an axe, lack of a weapon cramping his style there. To make a long story short, Carl took the first fall in eleven minutes with three flying tackles that took all the "pash" out of Mustapha. They mixed after the bell, but no damage was done.

The second fall came in seven minutes of rough-housing and elbow smashes with the odd knee to the stomach or bite—Carl being on the receiving end of most of it. The moustached Mustapha made Van concede the fall with a double toehold that looked very painful.

The Turk thought he was Cantonwine and hung Carl in the ropes very neatly for the last spasm. But Carl resented it and came back with three flying tackles and got Pasha prone on his tummy with a double toehold. The Turk reached around and slapped Van on the back as a referee would. Carl must have thought he was with loving friends, because he trustingly got up and the bold bad Mustapha immediately pounced on him from behind and did him dirt, gaining the fall in eight minutes to the vast disgust of the assembled guests.

Wins in Quick Order.

The last setto was shorter with Young Angelo taking two straight falls—at any rate, he took two falls in a row—from another lightheavy, Johnny Felix. The Italian proved a rather rough lad and did not endear himself to the fans by his slightly off-color tactics. Nor did Johnny care for them, either. But he made a good fight of it till he had to concede a fall in twelve minutes. Angelo sewing him up with a combined toehold and armlock that caused much grunting, not to mention the groans.

The final frame was just three minutes old when Young Angelo was declared the winner. They tangled quite ferociously and did this and that to each other with much emphasis but Johnny came a cropper when he walked right into a crotch-hold which, with a violent body slam, put him "hors de combat" as the French laughingly say. And so to bed.

LONG LOST TROPHY MAY GO TO HAWKS

Beautiful Cup Valued at $1,500 to be Resurrected in Pittsburgh.

MONTREAL, April 14.—If it can be located, Moncton Hawks will have a beautiful cup to cherish in recognition of their winning the amateur hockey championship of North America, it was learned here yesterday.

Ten years ago Hamilton B. Wills, Toronto stock broker, donated a trophy for international hockey. It was never in competition, and now efforts are being made to resurrect it as an emblem of the championship won by the Hawks, Allan Cup winners, who defeated Detroit White Stars at Toronto this week.

Hockey was in its flush of enthusiasm in the United States when Wills donated the cup, and it was given into the keeping of William Haddock, Pittsburg, then President of the United States Amateur Hockey Association. But interest in hockey across the border waned for a time, and the cup was not competed for. Frank Greenleaf, Immediate Past President of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, states the trophy is a beautiful piece of workmanship in silver, and cost $1,500.

It was learned here the cup is presumed to be still in the possession of William Haddock, and at the request of W. A. Hewitt, Registrar of the C. A. H. A., Thomas Lockhart and John Filman left Toronto on Wednesday night for the United States in an effort to locate the trophy.

NEWARK AFTER JOHNNY HEVING

Hold-out Player Refuses Buffalo's Terms—Bears Bidding for Him.

LEAFS AT GREENSBORO.

GREENSBORO', N.C., April 14.—(CP)—Johnny Heving has kicked over the traces again.

Ten days ago the Toronto Baseball Club sold Catcher Heving to the Buffalo Bisons after the veteran flatly refused to come to terms with President George Oakley. Even top salary for the International League failed to loosen Heving from his front porch in Covington, Kentucky.

The sale to Buffalo had a string attached. The Buffalo club asked for a time limit to sign Heving. If the balking receiver came to terms with the Buffalo club on or before April 13 then the deal was official.

April 13 has come and gone, and Johnny Heving is still very much a hold-out.

He flatly refused top salary from the Buffalo Club as he did Toronto.

Bisons Give Heving Up

The situation at present finds Buffalo refusing to have anything more to do with Mr. Heving, and the whole deal as far as they are concerned is cancelled. In other words Johnny Heving is still the baseball property of the Toronto club.

Newark, Albany, Montreal and Baltimore have been interested in the Heving case. Buffalo had the first call and they failed to sign the player, so that lets the Bisons out. Manager Ike Boone and George Weiss of Newark discussed the situation over the long-distance telephone last night and there may be a deal brewing between the Leafs and Newark.

Everybody from Broad Street in Augusta to Fleet Street in Toronto knows that Manager Boone needs at least four first-class hurlers to round out a team that will give them all a battle in the International League this summer. There is a feeling that Johnny Heving would accept a Newark contract because of the New York Yankee connection. If Managing Director Weiss can give Ike Boone a couple of pitchers, a deal may be made.

As soon as the Maple Leafs arrived here today around supper time, Manager Boone and Secretary Leman hustled around to make connections with Branch Rickey of the St. Louis Cardinals organization who are spending the week-end in Greensboro and district. Boone is anxious to clear up the Pitcher Blake deal.

JORDAN'S HITTING WINS FOR DODGERS

Brooklyn Defeats Washington in Close Game Decided in Ninth.

WASHINGTON, D.C., April 14. (AP)—Jimmie Jordan's ninth inning single, his fourth hit of the game, scored Ralph Boyle with the run that gave Brooklyn Bodgers a 5-4 decision over Washington Senators yesterday.

The Dodgers gained a two-run lead in the eighth, only to have the American League champions tie the score in their half of the inning on a single by Manush, Cronin's double and a triple by Kuhel.

The National Leaguers, with Jordan and Stripp getting four hits each, collected seventeen safe blows off the combined pitching of Whitehill, Crowder and Russell. The first two kept the Dodgers' blows well scattered, however, allowing only one run each in six innings, but Russel was pounded hard.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, the cash and carry circuit finished its performance this week with the Chicago Black Hawks grabbing the Stanley tinware by beating Mister Jack Adams' N.H.L. titleholders 3 games in 4 starts. That's all right with me, although I'd like to of seen Mister Adams come through with both honors. The Wings, after a terrible start and dropping 2 games at home, made a great comeback, and they mighta turned the trick if Mister Ebbie Goodfellow hadn't failed to live up to his name and drew a penalty just when it hurt the most. That 2nd game in Chicago was anybody's up to that stage, and if the Wings had copped they woulda been tough picking with the 5th game at home. I'm nominating as the hero of the serious Mister Wilf Cude, the Wings' goalie, who played the final game with a fractured schnozzle and held the Hawks without a goal for ninety minutes of hockey. Any bird that can go out there with a bum peak and face the sharp shooting of a professional firing squad for a hour and ½ has got plenty of—well, he's a game guy, what I mean.

Some of the customers who think the Great War was fixed has been trying to tell me all these Stanley Cup playoffs has been rigged up. Well, all I can say that if that 3rd Detroit-Chicago game was fixed they surely coulda hit upon a better way to do it than to have Chuck Gardiner fan on a long shot from the blue line. If the Chicago goalie had wanted to make a present of the game to the Red Wings, I'd give him credit for more horse sense than to slip up on a long drive when all he would halfta do would be to loaf a little in a scrimmage round the nets. And anybody what heard the Hawks players over the radio at the end of that overtime battle that decided the serious and still thought the whole affair was just 1 of them things musta given the Chicago players high ranking as actors, because they didn't sound much like a gang what knew all along the cup was in the bag.

Just a word for them Moncton Hawks which perhaps ain't the greatest senior team this young country has produced, but yet has been good enough to cop the Allan Cup 2 years in succession and to win the North American amateur title this season. The Moncton lads ain't been getting a square deal from the Toronto press, simply because they ain't been saps enough to risk their honors in a couple exhibition battles mainly designed to help out the Maple Leaf Gardens. 1st they wanted the Hawks to play St. Mike's and then they suggested a serious between Moncton and the St. Mike's-City Service teams, for the Canadian championship no less, and because the Easterners wouldn't fall for anything so raw as that the newspaper boys have been cracking down on them. Well, I for 1 think the Hawks is right. They've copped the Canadian title 2 years in a row in the regular way, and why should they toss their prestige away in a gate-receipt serious to help the Gardens outa the red? Moncton ain't been very hot in their Toronto appearances, but was still good enough to come through, and remember them birds has played more hockey matches this season than the pro teams, so they gotta alibi for being a little ragged after the grind of 60 battles. The Moncton crew may be unpopular in Toronto, but 2 seasons hasn't produced a team to knock them off, and you can't take that away from them.

Our old college chum, Mister K. Lee, has been in town this week, and the ball season begins to loom up outa the mist. I don't know a heck of a lot about the summer program, but we'll be in there somewhere with a team that will be always fighting so long as Mister Lee is on the job.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

TUMBLING THE PINS

TWO TEAMS will represent this city in the annual five-pin tournament for the championship of the world at Toronto to-day. The Duffus' Alley entry captained by Fred Martin, and consisting of Bud Weese, Tommy Miller, Jack Playford, Fred Hickey and Fred Jones, left early this morning, and have high hopes of placing. Fred Jones will not bowl with the team, but will perform in the doubles and singles. The other entry, led by Chief Gimblett, also consists of an all-star line-up, with Bill Stanbury, Roy Lewis, Walter Firth and Fred Scates. The bowlers in this competition get the acid test, in having to roll on alleys polished smooth as glass, and with new pins. The teams represent the cream of the continent in the five pin realm, and the five players scoring the highest pinnage count in three games is recognized by the C. B. A. as world champs.

BOB WYLLIE'S wood spillers copped the second half of The Examiner Shop Bowling League last night at Duffus', when they battled to a split decision with Lacheur's team, who had to win every point to gain a play-off, but dropped the first game and pinnage. The winners will meet Barringer's heavy hitters next Friday night, in a three-game duel for the Shop Championship. The also-rans will be given a chance at prize money, in a consolation series to be run off at the same time.

REG DOUBT made a gallant effort to put Lacheur in the money when he rolled 232-221-220-673, but George Johnson packed in 244-176-204—624 for the opposition and Wyllie added 206-220-169—594. Team scores—Lachuer 714-700-757—2171. Wylie, 805-686-720—2211. Ron Taylor's trundlers shut out Killingbeck when Ralph Holyman scored 168-264-239—671, and the captain hit 236-187-234—657. Barringer dropped the works to Dunkley, with R. Pearse supplying the winning punch, bowling 234-246-176—656. Logan took Zeihr for a 3-1 ride in a close battle that saw pinnage won by 50 points. Dugan was top man for the winners with 199-176-260—635, and McCauley had 215-211-194—620. Pat Cullen rolled the highest score of the night, with Zeihr's team, when he spilled 228-254-224—706.

WATCH YOUR LEFT HAND IN LONG GAME, SAYS ALEX

(By ALEX. J. MORRISON

"Turn the left hand over. Turn it over so that you can see only the back of it!"

"You've probably been told this a good many times and right now, no doubt, you are in need of the very same advice. Why haven't you learned to keep your left hand in the proper position on the club? I know a few of the reasons.

It seems futile to attempt to do anything with this hand in the swing on account of its weakness. Furthermore, the positions advocated for this hand seem terribly awkward to you. But, the real excuse you have for not learning to keep this hand in the correct position is that it's much easier to let your right hand take charge of the club.

You feel that the strength of your right hand, along with the skill you already have in doing things with this hand, will offset any deficiencies in your left. It may do this in your short game, but when you come to shots where you have to hit the ball hard, any lack of harmony between your hands will certainly make you very inconsistent. The faulty position of your left hand then forces you to either cut across the ball, causing a slice, or to land on the ball with a closed clubface.

Now I'm going to give you a very good reason for learning the correct position of the left hand. As the accompanying (correct) illustrations show, the proper position of the left hand at the moment the clubface strikes the ball is the one that you have been asked to assume at the start of your swing.

I'm sure that if you'll make a habit of having it turned over when you first take hold of the club and of keeping it in that position as you start your backswing, you'll find that nine times out of ten your clubface will land on the ball properly. Below is shown the effect at impact when the left is not in command.

ENGLISH SOCCER CUP FINAL WILL BE A CLOSE STRUGGLE

Both Manchester City and Portsmouth Have Strong Half Lines.

100,000 ATTENDANCE

LONDON, April 14 (CP)—When the referee's whistle blows and a crowd reaching close to 100,000 settles in their seats in big Wembley Stadium April 28, two great soccer teams will turn on a clever brand of football to make the final for the English soccer cup probably one of the best-played in recent years.

Both Manchester City and Portsmouth, the cup finalists, confounded the experts to make their way into the final. But looking back on the way they got there, their success proves to be not so surprising after all.

Manchester City gained the final after beating such teams as Sheffield Wednesday, Stoke City and Aston Villa, walloping the latter club, famed cup fighters, into 7-1 defeat in the semi-final. Portsmouth, on the other hand, were called on to meet only one first division team, Leicester City, but they accomplished their task in convincing manner.

There is no "win-at-any-cost" attitude about the play of either finalist. They are content to battle the issue out on straight playing ability rather than falling to neck-or-nothing methods.

It may be taken for granted Manchester will not repeat their mistake of last year's final, when they were beaten by Everton. On that occasion they concentrated on avoiding defeat while Everton went out to get goals, figuring very rightly that attack was the best form of defense. The result was Everton won 2-0.

The cup final two weeks hence should be a great duel between the respective half-back lines. The axiom cup is won by the team with the best intermediate line has never been more truly proved than in this year's competition. Both the finalists possess halves who can control the ball well, hold it for an opening and find time to make a shot at goal.

Portsmouth may have a slight advantage, especially with Captain David Thackeray back in the line-up after injuries, while the unorthodox wanderings of Weddle at centre-forward will give the City something new in tactical problems.

Curiously enough Weddle, who got the hat-trick against Leicester City in the semi-final, and has scored seven cup goals this campaign, has never been a prolific scorer in the league.

But the same applies to Manchester City's attack. Strange it may seem with Tilson scoring four times against the Villa, neither team has a player in the league goal-scoring list with 12 goals or better. So it will probably lie between the half-lines.

GORMAN MAY NOT COACH HAWK CLUB

Uncertain Whether He Will Return to Chicago Next Season.

CHICAGO, April 14 (A.P.).—Chicago hockey fans, in the midst of a celebration over the victory of their Black Hawks in the Stanley Cup battle, yesterday read reports that Tommy Gorman, manager of the team for the last two years, would and would not be back at the helm next season.

Gorman, who departed for Ottawa yesterday to confer about his approaching duties as racing secretary, said his plans for next year were unsettled. He denied rumors that he would be replaced as manager, but in the same breath pointed out that his affairs were contingent upon the Quebec Racing Association, which gave him a two years' absence to teach hockey to he Hawks.

Major Frederic McLaughlin, owner of the championship club, said nothing has been done about reappointing Gorman again as manager, but that he had "taken it for granted that Gorman would be back."

Gorman also is reported to have received lucrative offers to manage other National Hockey League teams. One report was that he was asked to manage the Ottawa Club if that franchise is transferred to St. Louis.

Senior Basket Title Series At Edmonton

VANCOUVER, April 14. (CP) — Edmonton Grads and Windsor Alumnae will meet in a three-out-of-five game series at Edmonton for the Canadian women's senior basketball title.

The first game will be played Saturday, April 21 with games on April 23 and 25. If additional games are necessary the dates will be set after the end of the third game.

MOUND IS WEAK SPOT OF CUBS

Baby Bears' Pitching Veterans Have Lost Some Effectiveness of Other Years.

BRILLIANT FIELDERS.

IT IS THE fashionable thing among sport writers and baseball experts to pick the previous year's pennant winners to repeat. Especially if said pennant winner happens to be the current world champion nine.

Therefore, it is not surprising to see so many diamond chroniclers who selected the New York Giants early in 1933 to finish a bedraggled sixth or seventh lauding the same team this year and professing to see no possibility of their finishing less than first in the coming campaign.

However, if the Giants' 1933 victory was as miraculous as the said scribes, in covering up their bad guess of the spring before, claimed to to be—why are these same New Yorks such dead certainties this season? It's the same league, isn't it?

The Giants may win. At least they should come close. But to this writer the task of outgalloping the Chicago Cubs stacks up as a very strenuous job, even if the Giants are as good as their followers believe.

THE CUBS have a glaring weakness—when compared to the Giants—in the box. The Baby Bear pitchers are getting along in years and have lost some of their effectiveness. But they still rate very high when compared with the league in general.

And don't forget that the Chicago team has added plenty of batting power in the person of Chuck Klein. The ex-Philadelphian is one of the greatest hitters the National league has produced in many seasons and, though there are some who do not believe, with reason, he will hit as well in Wrigley Field as in Baker Field, he'll bring the team better batting than it has had.

The Chicago infield will do and so will its outfield. Gabby Hartnett is still a capable catcher.

If the Cub pitchers prove more effective than expected the Chicagos may beat out the Giants. Anyway, we'd pick these two to fight it out.

THIRD PLACE in the National league this year looks like a fight between the St. Louis Cardinals, Pittsburgh and Brooklyn clubs with the Pirates, possibly, having the best of it. But watch the Cards. Boston may horn in on the scrap, but the Braves late last year appeared to fold and the loss of Rabbit Maranville this spring is a stunning blow.

The Phillies, without Klein, are due to drop into last place, which the Cincinnati team will be only too glad to vacate. The Reds may not be much improved but they do not need to be to climb out of the cellar this year.

Brooklyn, with Casey Stengel; Cincinnati, with Bill Killefer, and Philadelphia with Jimmy Wilson start the season under new managers. Stengel and Wilson are getting their first chance at bench bossing.

While the National league may not expect a great six-club or so fight for the pennant, there is every prospect of a real two-team dog fight, lasting from the opening game until the finish.

SOFTBALL ASSOCIATION MAY IGNORE A.A.U. OF C.

GUELPH, April 14. — President E. B. Smith, of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association has called a meeting of his sub-committee to be held in Toronto this afternoon at 2.30, when one of the chief items of discusson wil be the recent action of the O.B.A.A. in deciding not to enforce their players to take out amateur cards. It is likely that the O.A.S.A. will follow this action.

Further work in the zoning system employed by the provincial organization last year in the playoffs will be done at this first meeting of the committee, while several other matters of business are on the agenda. The committee, appointed recently by President Smith is composed by P H. Randall, Toronto, chairman, W. L. Alguire, St. Catharines; secretary, Verne McIlwraith, Guelph; Fred Kent, Brantford, and Victor C. Collett, Toronto.

Old memories: How many oldtime ball fans recall the Petes' first senior team in O.B.A.A. competition? It was in 1918, and the team that won the Senior City League here was made up of: Jake Solomon, manager and utility player; Nagle Phelan, catcher; Howard (Moose) Kirn, pitcher; Frank (Mac) Geurin, first; Mike Sheehy, second; Roy Cherrett, shortstop; Mickey Murray, third; Jack McCarney, utility; and Curley Lebarr, Mac Murty and Bill Field in the outfield. The Petes had to play off with the Oshawa town winners and, after defeating 'em, tackle Hillcrests, Toronto winners. The Hillcrests won out and copped the O.B.A.A. senior title.

Pro pucksters often live a long way from the town they play for—as a matter of fact, amateurs often do, too! We see where the different Detroit Red Wings, N.H.L. champions are going for the summer, after finishing their Western hockey tour. Jack Adams will go to Napanee; Weiland has an insurance business in Boston; Lewis goes to Duluth; Goodfellow works at the Detroit Fair Grounds' track; Young and Aurie work at Ford's; Wiseman remains out west; Sorrell heads for his home in Wisconsin; and Graham to Chicago; William parks his chapeau in Tulsa; Bushwell in Montreal; Pettinger, Moffatt and Carrigan are all plainsmen in Western Canada; Frank Carson goes to Windsor; and Hap Emms to his electrical business in Barrie; Marker will stay in Detroit; and Abbie Cox, spare goalie, lives in New Haven.

• • • • • •

Jake Beckerman of the Westclox is going to put a men's' softball team in the City Softball League this summer, and that's good news. The Westclox always had a strong, popular outfit, and Jake was always a colorful pilot—and we're glad to see him back with his team after dropping out of the game for awhile. Jake says when he calls his first practise, he wants everyone who would like a tryout to attend as he'll give every one a chance, experienced or not. He hasn't a player in mind now and welcomes all candidates. And if the weather isn't suitable for an outdoor workout in a week or so, he'll have them up at the "Y" working out, so's they'll be loosened up and ready for an early start. That's a break for softball players. Oh, yes, one other thing—and we're heartily in accord with this—Jake informs us that he does not want players trying out with him if they also intend playing baseball this summer. The two games don't mix, and he knows it.

A bunch of the boys were roughing it up in the Brock Street arena ring—this was last eve at the pro grapple card. When out of the stand where 'twas fifty below, the wisecracks poured forth in a stream. Apologies to Bob Service, who wrote "The Shooting of Dan McGrew" without ever dreaming it would be applied to rasslin' — gunmen, yes, but hardly rasslers! The boys who apparently were playing the old daisy game of "she loves me, she loves me not" with each others limbs for petals put on quite a scrambling act, but they did a bit too much clowning—and it was a rather cold evening for pulling a Pagglacci. It left a lot of the customers quite cold. No doubt, the paid performers could have done better but they didn't seem to realise that we've seen quite a bit of pro grappling here and want all the trimmings.

However, the crowd wasn't too large, owing to the drop in temperature. And the referee must have been thinking of the gal friend in Toronto as he showed little interest in proceedings—apparently feeling that even if they hurt each other, what of it? At that, some of the mat tactics dished up were good. We liked the Terrible Turk, even if he was more Turk than terrible. And ditto the Black Panther who proved more black than panther-like. Too bad Paul Orth, who had been advertised to show here as the Tarzan of the mat, failed to arrive, having broken a leg or something in his Toronto bout the other night. The Fiery Wop wasn't half bad and we could enjoy a return of him and the Turk if they were thrown into the ring together—but then which would we call the villain? It's all very confusing. And we wish they wouldn't do such things as deliberately slap a man's back and make him think it is the referee signalling a victory. When he gets up, the back-slapper jumps him from behind. It's not nice—in fact, it isn't cricket. After all, man's inhumanity to man makes countless fans moan.

• • • • • •

But, one supposes, it's good clean fun and the boys and girls who pay their shekels certainly seem to enjoy the mad antics of the young beef trusts. We do, also. Angelo reminded us strongly of old Nazzy Poggi who used to look highly disgusted when his opponent would slap him in the face. Mister M. Pasha reminded us of a violinist who has just heard a blood-curdling ghost story—but no doubt his shock of hair standing on end has something to do with that. Kennedy and his rasslin' African opponent had us humming "Me and My Shadow" all through. As for Jawn Felix and Carl Van-Lehman—well, they merely reminded us of other pro rasslers. Nice chaps, you understand, but mixed up in a decidedly strange profession. Well, anyway, it was fun.

• • • • • •

This Rogers Hornsby is oneof the last of the old battling type of Big League ball managers. That guy can't even lace his shoe without a grand fight starting, with his smack in the middle of it. In fact, he was too tough for the St. Louis Cards, N'Yawk Giants—even under the fiery Jawn McGraw—and the Chicago Cubs. Now, he's managing and man-handling the St. Louis Browns and only yesterday tangled with Sam Gray, veteran hurler. It started when Gray claimed he had a sore leg and refused to chase flies in a practise. Later, Rogers ordered him to loan his sox to another player and Sam declined. So Hornsby fired him right there and then, and the club owners backed the manager up. Hornsby was a great batter and secondbaseman in his day, and is not through yet, but like Ty Cobb he is almost too hardboiled and tough to get along as a manager.

GUELPH LOSES FIVE REGULARS

Aggies' Championship Grid Collection Wrecked by Graduation.

AUTUMN PROSPECTS.

GUELPH, April 14.—With the regular college term ended for the majority of O.A.C. students yesterday, Coach Baldy Baldwin checked over his rugby prospects for next fall to find that no fewer than five of the 12 regulars of his 1933 Canadian Intercollegiate intermediate championship team will be lost to the Aggies through graduation.

In addition to George Mills, snap back and captain of the 1933 squad, the college is losing Tuffy Fitzgibbon, and Gordon Wright, inside wings; Alf. Hales, middle wing and Bob Keith, half-back, with the result that the centre of the powerful Aggie wing line will be badly shattered.

Baldwin is hopeful that some experienced talent will loom up with the next freshmen year which will assist him with his rebuilding operations, and is also counting on the services of two outstanding recruits, who were used little in last year's campaign, but who showed great promise. They are Ken Campbell, former Galt Collegiate star and Ray Scheifele, a fleet running half, formerly with the Kitchener Collegiate.

MONTREAL LOSES TO BROADVIEW Y

Toronto Juniors Win First Game of Dominion Cage Series 37-23.

MONTREAL, April 14 (C.P.).—No whit disturbed by playing on a strange floor, Broadview Y.M.C.A. of Toronto last night secured a fourteen-point lead in the Dominion junior basketball final here. The Torontonians defeated Canadian Pacific Railway A.A.A., 37 to 23, in the first game last night. The Dominion honors will be settled in the second game here to-day, as the Maritime champions, Glace Bay, N.S., Yacs, have decided not to continue in the hunt.

With an advantage in experience, the Toronto squad displayed a methodical type of game that enabled them to sift through the Canadian Pacific defence in formation plays. Short quick passing by the forward line, backed up by stout defensive work on the part of the rearguard, spelled victory for Broadview.

While the Montrealers were below form, they gradually improved as the game progressed and put up a stout fight for the honors. The shooting eyes of the Canadian Pacific squad were not quite adjusted on the hoops and consequently quite a number of baskets were missed. Outplayed, the Railwaymen had their attacks frequently split up by the Broadview defence just as a score seemed imminent.

Bill Breadon Stars.

Bill Breadon, tall well-built centre, was the star for the Toronto team with a total of 15 points to his credit. No. 1 man of the Broadview five, he raced through the Montrealers time after time to score field goals. In the second half he reached the top of his game when he tallied a total of 10 points—three baskets and four free shots. Sammy Back, Breadon's left flank man, wormed his way through for eight points as did Dave Samme, guard.

Vancouver Quintet After Western Title

RAYMOND, Alta., April 14. (CP) Vancouver Province, victors over Victoria Blue Ribbons, former Dominion champions, to-day packed their grips to journey to Winnipeg in search of the Western Canada men's senior basketball crown.

Playing a fast and sharp-shooting game, the British Columbia champions last night defeated Raymond Union Jacks, Alberta titlists, 41-34 to win the interprovincial series in two straight games. The British Columbians won the first game 46-31 and earned the right to meet Winnipeg Robertson Memorials, Manitoba champions in the Western final.

TOO MUCH TALK SPOILS FERRELL'S BALL CAREER

CHARLOTTE, N.C., April 14 (CP)—Wes Ferrell just talked himself out of being the greatest pitcher in baseball, in the opinion of Walter Johnson, manager of Cleveland Indians, with whom Ferrell has refused to sign because of salary differences.

"Ferrell was a great pitcher and still is, for that matter, but he just talks too much for his own good," said Johnson.

CANDIDATES IN LEEDS.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., April 14. — (CP).—W. C. Taylor, a Brockville produce merchant, announced today that he would be a candidate for the Conservative nomination in the new Provincial riding of Leeds, the party convention for which is to be held at Delta in a few weeks' time.

It is generally understood that Dr. H. A. Clark, also of Brockville, member for Brockville riding in the last House, will also contest the convention. The Liberal candidate already in the field is George T. Fulford of Brockville.

CRITZ REJOINS GIANTS

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 14 (CP) —Hughie Critz, veteran second baseman of the New York Giants, rejoined the club here yesterday after six days of treatment in a Memphis hospital for an infected ankle. Manager Bill Terry believes it will be impossible for him to start in the opening game of the championship season against the Phillies on Tuesday. Terry announced that Carl Hubbell will pitch the opening game.

Full name and address (complete) must be given in all samples sent in.

Catherine Patterson, Lindsay, Ont.

Your handwriting illustrates persistence, and shows that you are somewhat inclined to be stubborn if your wishes are crossed. You are honest and like other people to be so too. If you discover that someone has been unfair or untruthful to you, you will have no further use for that person. You do not like to be hurried, you seem to prefer to take your own time over anything. You keep appointments exactly to the minute, but never too early. You are rather set in your mannerisms, and it is difficult for anyone to try to persuade you to alter. You should be interested in dancing, swimming and all out-of-door recreations. Your mind is retentive, and your type make excellent school teachers, and homemakers, because of their attention to routine and detail. The biggest fault with your type of people as a rule is their tendency to argue. You are quite artistic and should be well able to make your own dresses, and with excellent taste too. Your lucky number is three. Your birthsign is Aquarius the Man. You are ruled by Uranus. April and August are the most fortunate months for important undertakings. Saturday is your lucky day.

Hamilton K. Humphries, R.R. No. 2, Norwood, Ont.

In reply to your letter with request for 'fortune telling' I must state definitely here, that there is absolutely no comparison to the work which appears in The Examiner, to that of fortune telling. In the first instance the study of handwriting is a scientific one, in which I have spent the greater part of twenty years. Numerology and Astrology are also scientific studies, and are simply added to the delineations of handwriting as a special favor to readers of The Examiner, because so many young people sent in writing which was not fully developed, and so I offered to assist them further through their number and horoscope. Of course you understand that not dates or numbers are necessary in the delineation of handwriting, nor is it necessary for you to tell me anything about yourself. I prefer to analyse the writing, before knowing anything about the sender. I hope I have made myself clear, and that you will have a better understanding of this scientific work. Now for your own writing: In the first instance, it is of English origin. It shows that your mental faculties are well developed, and that if you continue as you are trying to at present, there is no logical reason why you should not be successful. You are a little stubborn, and independent. Rather set in your ways, but a progressive worker if you like what you are doing. Your imagination is keen, and you are resourceful. You can be very exasperating too. As you grow older you will appreciate routine and discipline more than you do now. You will be able to learn from experience much more easily than you can learn from books. You should be neat and dignified, quite ambitious, energetic and self confident, but rather impatient. Your type resent intrusion into private affairs, and detest being corrected by others. I suggest engineering for you as a true vocation, and I hope you will try to learn all you can about this very interesting work for your future benefit while you have the opportunity to do so. The above is a correct delineation as represented in your handwriting, now I will look up your date for a number. I see that May is your birthsign. That according to you date gives you Taurus and ruled by Venus. Friday your lucky day. May and July the most fortunate months. Your number is three.

Willene Payne, Lakefield., Ont.

Your writing illustrates a very impulsive disposition, you do not seem to be able to keep from rushing into useless propositions. Of course you are very young yet, and so no doubt your mannerisms will change as you grow older. You have excellent qualifications, a definite mind, and the ability to master any project that you think is worth while. Your 't' bar crossings differ, and depict the versatility which is yours. Your will power of course can be developed into something much more enterprising than it is at present. You should be very fond of flowers, and I think you would derive a great deal of pleasure in the cultivation of plants. Your type as a rule develop independence at an early age, and they are loyal and true to their friends. Often your type of writing leads to literary endeavours in the line of fiction, because the imagination is very good. Your birthsign is Capricorn The Goat. You are ruled by Saturn. Tuesday and Saturday are your lucky days. March and November are your best months. Your number is ten.

Vera White, Norwood, Ont.

Your writing with its variable shape and size, and its forward leaning formations, indicates that you are quite a versatile person, and very much inclined to be impulsive in your generosity. You are fond of entering into debates because your mind is keen and agile. You should love flowers and music, be fond of out-of-door recreation and admire all things of good quality. The lower loop of your letter 'f' which is hooked and inverted shows that when you accomplish anything worth while, you do so with a grand gesture. The downstrokes in your letter 'm' show that you are quite willing to work hard, and that you enjoy being busy. You detest having much idle time on your hands, as it were. Your birthsign if Taurus the Bull. You are ruled by Venus. Friday is your lucky day. May and July are your most fortunate months. You did not give your age or year of birth, so it is impossible to give you a lucky number.

Elizabeth Davis, Lindsay, Ont.

Your handwriting represents you to be one who is reserved and somewhat inclined to be nervous. You are friendly to those who appeal to you but show indifference when in the society of people whom you do not admire. You would do well at an office positon where you would have to deal with figures. However, though you are willing to work, you refuse to have any interference into your plans. You are the type who would become quite stubborn. There is a certain amount of artistic talent shown in your capital letters and the size and shape of your small letter formations show persistence. Leadership, in a modified degree, and a desire to be out of doors are depicted in your lower loop formations. This could be carried out in physical culture.

Household Drudgery
The Bane of a Woman's Life

MILBURN'S HEALTH AND NERVE PILLS

Nature intended women to be strong and healthy instead of weak and sickly, but how can a woman have good health when she has to go through the household drudgery without any relaxation. Is it any wonder she becomes nervous and irritable, has hot flushes, faint and dizzy spells, shortness of breath, sinking and smothering sensations, and can't sleep at night.

Women who are weak and run down will find in Milburn's H. & N. Pills a remedy to strengthen the system and bring back the much desired health.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, April 15

Sunday's horoscope holds testimonies of great activity and interest in all pertaining to spiritual, mystical, emotional and intriguing affairs, with much of a surprising or perplexing nature to be developed in both private and business affiliations.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of rather subtle and unusual adventure, with much of conspiracy, intrigue, secrecy and mystification entering into their affairs, private and busness. In the latter be alert to duplicity, trickery, slander in private affiliations the tendency may be to the sentimental, emotional, mystical and psychic. Well directed this should bring happiness, beauty, high aspiration and spiritual unfoldment.

You Can Prove This
At our Cost

There is an old-fashioned idea,
That a tonic must be an ill-tasting medicine,
Put up in a large bottle.
But it is not stimulation
That the blood needs in the spring.
Winter life has left the blood thin and weak,
It must have iron to give it color and richness.
In Dr. Chase's Nerve Food iron is combined
With other valuable ingredients,
Which go directly to the creation of new, rich blood.
How would you like to put this great restorative
To a test in your case?
We shall send you a five day treatment free.
Clip this ad., and mail it to
The Dr. Chase Medicine Co., Toronto
And you will receive this liberal supply
In an attractive aluminum box,
Suitable to carry in pocket or hand bag.
Before the five day treatment is finished
You will understand why so many people
Prefer Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a spring restorative.

CANADIAN EXTERNAL TRADE POINTS DEFINITELY UPWARD

Report Shows Changes in Value of Exports and Imports Encouraging.

A. E. AMES' LETTER.

Pointing out that for the first time since the depression began, the downturn in Canadian external trade was decisively halted in April ,1933, and that ten months' figures since that date show that exports have been rising 25 per cent faster than they declined in the previous ten months, while imports have been rising only one-half as quickly as they fell, A. E. Ames & Co., Limited, in their April investment letter, find encouraging suggestions in the widening favorable balance of trade.

"The up-trend has been sustained," A. E. Ames & Co., Limited, state, "and gives ground for hope that we are in the initial phases of recovery. If this proves to be the case there is no doubt that it wil bring not only larger production and employment in Canada but a also improvement in our public finances and credit standing.

The reasons for such an expectation should be readily apparent to any observer of Canadian economic history. As in the case of other countries with large undeveloped resources, the course of our economic advancement has been affected by two important influences: first by the emphasis placed upon the development of these natural resources and extractive industries, and secondly by the inflow of outside capital attracted by the opportunities for profitable investment. As a result Canada has been able to produce raw materials such as grains, minerals and forest products not only to supply our own needs but, because of natural advantages, to compete in supplying the needs of other countries. Up to 1929 the proceeds of these expanding exports plus the proceeds of tourist traffic and foreign borrowings and investment put us in possession of funds to pay for our imports as well as the maturing principal and interest on our external indebtedness.

"In spite of our more self-reliant position it is because of this recourse to export markets, developed over a period of many years, with few sustained interruptions, that Canada, and some other countries in somewhat the same position, were particularly affected by falling exports and narrowing access to foreign capital in recent years. The simultaneous impact of both of these influences from 1929 to 1933 necessarily reduced the scope of internal business. In brief the volume and value of our foreign trade—and particularly in this phase of our exports—have a close connection with Canadian business conditions and credit standing.

"In April, 1933, the value of Canadian exports and imports had fallen to a maximum of 32 per cent. below the level in the midsummer of 1929. Over three-fifths of our foreign trade was eliminated by the decline in volume and value in these years. The largest part of the loss in trade was sustained with the United States, and as a result the United Kingdom, which in 1929 took only 25 per cent. of our exports, is now taking about 40 per cent of our exports. In 1929 we purchased about 70 per cent. of our imports in the United States and about 15 per cent. in the United Kingdom; to-day we are buying only about 55 per cent. of our imports in the United Staes and about 25 per cent. in the United Kingdom. Nor is the present tendency toward closer trade relations confined to the United ingdom. With Empire countries as a whole the proportions of our trade are changing. In 1929, 33.4 per cent. of our export trade and 19.8 per cent. of our import trade were with Empire countries; in 1933 the corresponding percentages were 8.0 per cent. and 33.1 per cent.

"In a world where economic nationalism is as intense as it is today, and where monetary uncertainities of the future could conceivably reverse the trend it would be obviously premature to draw any final conclusions form this rapid survey of Canadian external trade. Yet it isp robably safe to make these observations, whose value can only be tested in the future."

Shot!

PHILADELPHIA, April 14. — (AP) — Women screamed and police sprang into action to prevent a panic when a 'shot' rang out among the thousands of merrymakers at a "new deal" dance in the municipal convention hall last night.

In the back of the hall a man crumpled to the floor and police carried him into an adjoining room. Then it was learned that the supposed shot was a firecracker which some one exploded between the victim's legs. He had fainted.

PRICES SHADED WINNIPEG WHEAT

Lull in Foreign Demand During Past Week—Weakness in Outside Markets.

WINNIPEG, April 14. (CP).—A lull in foreign demand coupled with weakness in outside markets during the past six days shaded wheat values fractionally on the wheat market to-day. Further liquidation of government holdings was accomplished with appreciable amounts disposed of.

A large export trade in Canadian wheat featured trading during the early market period but this was followed by a slump in foreign buying which coincided with weakness at Chicago. Losses for the week which ended Friday amounted to only ½ to ¾ cents.

May futures showed the smallest decline to finish at 66⅞; July dipped ⅝ to 67⅝ and October ⅝ to 69¼.

Action in the Liverpool market was encouraging in view of the large movement of wheat from Argentine. This was construed as an indication of poorer crop prospects in Europe.

Latest statistics compiled by Broomhall show that Canada's wheat and flour exports in the first eight months of the season amounted to 63.2 percent of her quota under the wheat agreement or almost two-thirds of the movement accomplished in the first two-thirds of the crop year. Argentine cannot exceed an average of 1,300,000 bushels weekly for the balance of the season if the agreement is adhered to. Australian shipments have fallen away.

Cash wheat and coarse grains have shown little activity during the past week. No. 1 hard wheat held its premium of 2½ cents over the May future while No. 1 hard wheat held its premium of 2½ cents over the May future while No. 1 northern narrowed up to ¾ under May wheat.

ROSENEATH W.M.S

Members Spend Busy Day Making 4 Quilts—Supper Follows.

ROSENEATH, April 14 (Examiner Correspondence).—Tuesday afternoon was very busy for the members of the Women's Missionary Society when many of them met in the township hall and quilted four quilts, two of which were for a bale and two for customers solicited by members of the society. Any one wishing to have quilts done by the W.M.S. will be charged the small sum of one dollar for the work of quilting.

The president, Mrs. Albert Nill, called the gathering to order for a short period, when Mrs. Davey, the secretary, read the minutes, and from them a discussion on how to raise money was talked over and finally decided to hold an apron sale and home cooking on Saturday, May 19. The president also thanked the members and friends for their co-operation in helping along the good cause.

Supper was served, after which the finishing of the quilting closed the busy day.

Mrs. Reg. Crego kindly offered her home for the meeting in May.

Alberta's Liquor Act Amended By House

EDMONTON, April 13.—(C.P.)—Giving power to the Alberta Liquor Control Board to extend the hours for vendors' stores and providing for a single permit system, the Legislature to-day had given approval to the bill amending the Government Liquor Control Act.

Subsequently, the House by a vote of 27 to 20, with party lines broken in every group, referred the bill to the Agricultural committee.

This committee is to hear evidence from R. J. Dinning, chairman of the Liquor Control Board, as to proposals by F. C. Moyer (Ind.-Drumheller) to widen the Act to extend the closing hour for beer parlors and to permit bottled beer to be taken of licensed hotel premises.

Visiting Housekeeper Service Report

The following report of the Visiting Housekeeper Service instituted by the Red Cross in Peterborough about six weeks ago was given at a meeting of that organization by Mrs. C. J. Ray, Secretary of this Committee.

Following the discussion of the Executive Committee at the last meeting of the Red Cross, Mrs. Poole, who has had previous experience, was engaged on the recommendation of Miss McCready who is in charge of this work for the province and as instructed a committee consisting of a doctor, public health nurse, dietitian, social worker, a supervisor and two member of the Red Cross Board were appointed to take the matter in hand.

Mrs. Poole began her duties on February 28th and is working in co-operation with members of the Relief Board, this organization having found difficulty in meeting sickness in the homes and had other problems that are receiving close attention. The special committee from the two bodies is comprised of Mrs. Robert Harstone, Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, Mrs. C. J. Ray and Messrs. James Dutton, chairman, A. J. Metheral and R. M. Glover.

The committee decided that the public health doctor could attend to any cases requiring a doctor's advice and would be the representative from the medical profession on the committee. Since the nurse's duty is to give suggestions as to where the visiting housekeeper is needed and how she can help best in her work. It was felt that we could and need not chose any special one for the committee. The nurses so far have been most helpful and have suggested two cases particularly when Mrs. Poole has been able to render good service.

This combination committee has had two meetings. At the first one the extra members of the committees were chosen and ideas about the work were discussed. At the second meeting details regarding Mrs. Poole's work were arranged.

Before Mrs. Poole goes to a house as Visiting Housekeeper, permission has to be obtained from the woman of the house to allow her to come. About 30 calls have been made in this connection and about 16 of these have been successful. Mrs. Poole has already visited 14 homes. Her visits varying in length from half day to four days, depending on the need. To several of these homes she has been back once and in a couple of cases twice.

Whether the families are willing to have the Visiting Housekeeper or not representatives from the Red Cross who visits them is always well received. They seem interested in her work and promise if they are later in need of help, she would appreciate having her. All whom she has visited have seemed very grateful for her help.

Some of the reasons for her visits to the various homes where she has been are: Prenatal sickness, 4 cases; maternity cases, 2 cases; absence from home of mother, 2 cases; child with rheumatic fever and mother exhausted with 24 hour nursing, 1 case; inability to balance budget, 5 cases.

From observation during the six weeks that Mrs. Poole has been here, we feel that the Visiting Housekeeper service in Peterborough helps to fill a need that otherwise would continue to cause difficulty and greater distress. Homes in which mothers are ill and children are uncared for are hotbeds of sickness and discontent, especially when money is scarce and there is no one to plan it carefully.

Mrs. Poole has given her best since she has come. She seems to understand people amongst whom she works. In every home visited after she has been there, there is nothing but admiration for her and gratitude for her help. We feel that this work has accomplished a very great deal in a very short time.

In addition the Red Cross has a Nutrition Class at the Y.W.C.A. with Miss Dorothy Moir in charge, assisted by Miss Mary Comstock and our thanks are due these young ladies and the Y.W.C.A. for the use of the rooms.

YOUNG FRANCE IS RESENTFUL

Growing Army of Students More Bitter Against Present Authority.

DISILLUSIONED YOUTH

By LOUIS ROY
Canadian Press Correspondent

PARIS, April 14 (CP)—If ever a wind favored revolutions and roused wild dreams as it went, it is that which is blowing down from the height of Montmartre, twirls the sign "Rendezvous of Poor Bachelors" in passing, and fills the heads of those who enter with feverish enthusiasms.

"Bachelors" refers not to their loveless state, but to their citizenship in the republic of letters, as bachelors of art, of science, as doctors, lawyers, engineers and artists. They are the growing army of students. No matter how Paris may shrug her shoulders, this proletariat of intellectuals has already helped in the overthrow of four cabinets and made a regime totter.

It is the hour when the poor bachelors, emerge from the incognito of the crowd and turn their footsteps to the modest refectory under the swinging sign, half way up Montmartre. They hasten as invited to a banquet. Over their coffee and rolls at two cents, or their dinner at 10 cents, these scholars, nourished on Greek and Latin, and the higher calculus, yet dying of hunger, plot the future of France. Then, warmed by the coffee and the air vibrant with dreams, they soon leave the purely national point of views to pass on to world civilization.

Gather Every Night

They collect here and at Placedu Tertre, above on the height, every night by the thousands, these youths with the disillusioned and unflinching eyes. Already the lash of their laughter has driven from Montmartre the old and idle pleasure seekers, who had made of this former haunt of artists and writers a modern Babylon.

That was just a brush of strength. They know the future is theirs. They are sure that old and cynical politicians all over the world are plotting to betray them.

Nineteen thirty three in Paris was a year of centenaries. These youths who measure with their implacable glance the blind horizons which encircle them, believe that 1934 is the beginning of a new era of which they are the incarnation, whose revelation will astonish the world.

But there are two things they do not know, fear and humility.

On the hill, the terms "traitor" and "politician" have become synonymous, Geneve and the Legaue laughing stocks. There pass from table to table caricatures, sketched by the quick hands of artists there, caricatures of European politicians, hanging from gibbets, with ribald coments scribbled bmeneath. Then the laughter strikes the stars.

Grandiose phrases are bandied from table to table, such as "the death rattle of the universe"—"The ruins of a world about to be engulfed." The black and yellow lights outline the gestures, the faces of the crusaders of youth as they dine meagrely in the open air. Beyond the white dome of Sacre-Coeur cuts the stars. Far beneath Paris gleams, an ocean of lights.

Daily the coherts of youth grow in determination and numbers. The faculties of France will see 72,000 graduate this year as compared with 9,388 in 1920. The students at the University of Paris increase in numbers, 1,000 a year until they reach now 35,000.

Now and then, worn out with overwork, the double shift, as they call it, working at night at a trade, and in the day at the University, now and then a student kills himself with fatigue, or giving way to poverty or despair puts a bullet through his head.

Those nights, the comments, falling between silences at the Rendezvous of Poor Bachelors, have a more ominous sting. Then the rest take the memory of these poor brothers of Montmartre to make of it a bulwark against surrender.

More than half the workmen of London between the ages of 21 and 65 now receive wages of more than $15.25 a week.

ON THIS DATE
A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY
By Fred Williams

TWO FRIGATES OF KINGSTON

On this date, in 1814, there was a big time at Kingston, Upper Canada. The occasion was the launching of the two fine frigates, the Prince Regent, 58 guns and the Princess Charlotte, 36 guns. There had been a race in ship building between the United States at Sackett's Harbor, under Chauncey, and the British at Kingston under Sir James Yeo.

Our admiral had been terribly handicapped by shortage of men and material. He had done his best to convince both the authorities in England and Sir George Prevost at Quebec that the command of the lakes would be fought out on Lake Ontario; but got little satisfaction. He had engaged every carpenter to be had in Montreal, had worked his force night and day, and had his reward in the fact that the two vessels had been put in the water and only needed equipping to be ready for the fighting of the summer. The guns for the ships were on their way from Halifax, with much needed naval reinforcements.

Just then the United States requested an armistice, but Yeo was not to be trapped. He wrote to Prevost that the proposed armistice "would neither conduce to the credit of his majesty's government nor the honor of his arms, while it would enable the enemy to gain time for launching and equipping more ships, augmenting and concentrating his forces and bringing them to bear with redoubled force against us.

And it was decided to go ahead with preparations for battle. On May 4 a fleet of fighting ships left Kingston to attack Oswego and Sackett's Harbor. Oswego was captured, the enemy's ships sunk and much secured in the way of stores and provisions. It was a great and timely victory won chiefy on the use of the two Kingston-built frigates.

Another frigate, the St. Lawrence was launched September 10. She was the largest ship on the lakes, designed to mount 102 guns. She was completely equipped by October, but then winter arrived and when spring came the war was over and she never got into action. All three of those fine war ships were scrapped under the Bagot-Rush treaty, and all that is left of them is some rusted iron which can be seen in Collins bay and Kingston harbor on a clear day. Their grave was the bottom of the lake.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAINS.

F.O.B. shipping point: Wheat, carlots, 79c to 82c.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Sudden late upturns of wheat and corn prices yesterday more than offset new collapses earlier to bottom levels unreached by wheat since January 8.

Stimulus for rallying power shown by grains as the day drew to an end came largely from announcement that the United States Senate Finance Committee had voted to reduce from 5 cents to 1 cent per $100 valuation on the Federal tax on dealings in futures. Word was also received that Congress would probably adjourn May 15 without enacting proposed fresh restrictive measures affecting the operations of grain exchanges.

Wheat closed firm at the same as Thursday's finish to ⅜c higher; corn unchanged to ¼c up; oats ¼c to ⅝c off, and provisions unchanged to a decline of 2c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

After holding steady yesterday, butter prices resumed the week's decline during yesterday's dealings on the Montreal dairy and produce market. Fresh Quebec and Ontario butter, in carlots or less, was noted at 25½c to 26½c a pound for ungraded, according to quality, while finest No. 1 grade New Zealands or Westerns brought from 26½c to 27c. Receipts totalled 827 boxes.

The egg market was firm, graded shipments in carlots or less bringing 19c a dozen for A-large, 18c for A-medium, 17c for "B" grade and 16c for "C." A total of 1,702 cases was offered for sale. On the cheese market current make Ontario continued at 11¾c to 11½c a pound. Offerings amounted to 156 boxes.

Quebec potatoes brought $1.05 to $1.10 per 80-pound bag, and New Brunswick Mountains $1.10 to $1.15 for similar quantities. Prince Edward Island Mountains sold for $1.30 to $1.40 for 90-pound bags

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, April 14. — Wheat prices recovered the major part of their early weakness on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday, and closed with losses of only ¼c. May wheat ended at 66⅞c, July at 67⅝c, and October at 69¼c.

A further break at Chicago of about 1c, and continued weakness in the Winnipeg coarse grain futures carried quotations down at the start, but the Southern market recovered near the close, effecting a partial recovery here.

Trading through the pit was not large in volume. Selling pressure was lighter than Thursday, but in the absence of any real export demand it was difficult to hold prices up.

The cash grains market showed no improvement, while coarse-grain commodities sagged under near-by liquidation as traders switched to more distant futures.

Highway Workers Feature As Soloists

APSLEY, April 14 (Examiner Correspondence)—The Easter anthem's, Simper's "Awake thou that sleepest," and "Hallelujah, now is Christ Risen" were repeated by St. George's choir on Sunday evening, the tenor solo in the latter being admirably sung by Harry Andrew's, a member of London, Ontario Male Voice Choir. Basses were Ted Barnes and Harry Dayment, also of London.

These young men are working at Camp No. 6 on the new highway, and are quite an acquisition to the choir which has also been augmented by members of the W.A.

Cavan

Miss J. Swain, Lindsay was a visitor in Cavan this week.

Members of the C.Y.P.A. of the United Church, were guests of the Young People's Society in Bethany on Wednesday evening.

The Rev. J. E. Whithame motored from Mallorytown on Thursday and attended the funeral of the late Edward Keegan.

Miss McBrien, Peterborough was a recent visitor with her aunt, Mrs. N. Lamb.

The W.A. of St. John's Church, Ida, held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Dickens on Wednesday afternoon. The president, Mrs. Seeney was in the chair. During the business session, plans were made for the annual sale at the May meeting to be held in the parish hall.

Mrs. Warner, Toronto's the guest of her sister, Mrs. N. Lamb.

HASTINGS

Due to the very inclement weather on Wednesday the Women's Institute had to postpone their meeting for another week. The meeting will now be held on Wednesday, April 18th in the Council Chambers.

Mrs. Schofield Batteraby is a guest at the rectory.

The following attended the funeral of the late Richard Beamish in Norwood: Mr. and Mrs. John Beamish and son John, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Pulfer, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Trotter, Mr. and Mrs. D. Cleary, Mr. and Mrs. S. Beamish, Mr. and Mrs. A. Beamish, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Beamish, Mr. and Mrs. M. Waddell, Mrs. Thomas Williamson and son Richard.

OWENBROOK W. A.

Two Members Are Presented With Quilts and 21 Blocks Are Turned in.

OWENBROOK, April 14 (Examiner Correspondence)—St. Andrew's W.A. held their monthly meeting in the church on Wednesday with nine members present. The rector was unable to be present owing to the condition of the roads. The meeting opened with prayer by Mrs. J. Walker, followed by scriptural reading by Mrs. Shepherd.

Two members were presented with quilts and twenty-one blocks for new quilts were turned in by members, and work apportioned to each member. Four and a half flour bags were also supplied. It was decided to purchase seventeen yards of broadcloth for the completion of quilts. The meeting closed with all repeating the Lord's Prayer.

WIDOW, TWO DAUGHTERS BURN TO DEATH

DR. PRATT'S BED, SCARRED BY FIRE SET UP IN COURT

Crown Attempts to Reconstruct Scene of Housekeeper's Death as Told by Witnesses.

OFFICER DEPICTS SCENE.

Coroner's Evidence Barred—Others About to Testify Ordered Excluded Till Called.

PERTH, Ont., April 16. (CP).—The fire-scattered bed of Dr. Wilton Pratt on which his 60-year-old housekeeper, Miss Eva Elizabeth McLean was fatally burned last December, was set up in court today after Mr. Justic Patrick Kerwin and an assize jury, trying the aged physician on a charge of murdering the woman.

Burned sheets, matress and particles of clothing hanging from the spring were put before the court in an effort to reconstruct the scene described by witnesses who already had told of finding the woman dying in the doctor's home. Her own bed was undisturbed witness testified.

Mr. Justice Kerwin ordered Dr. C. L. B. Stammers, coroner of Smith's Falls, from the witness stand after it was revealed the doctor, who served as coroner in the inquest into the death of Miss McLean, had been in court while other witnesses submitted evidence.

The jury retired the Judge asked C. W. Bell, K.C., Crown Counsel to show that testimony he proposed to have Dr. Stammers present. Mr. Justice Kerwin, however, was advised the witness had been sitting in the courtroom and it was ruled he could not testify. The jury then recalled.

Witnesses Excluded.

Mr. Justice Kerwin also ruled that all witnesses, whether for this trial or any other case that might come

HARRY DETTMAN IS FINED $200.00

Pleads Guilty to Operating a Still in Galway Township.

DEBAUCHING OF YOUTH.

Described by Royal Canadian Mounted Police as one of the biggest moonshine operators in the Kinmount district, Harry Dettman, aged 48, of Galway Township appeared in Magistrate Langley's court to-day charged under the Inland Revenue Act with illegal possession of a still.

Dettman pleaded guilty and was given the alternative of paying $200 fine or spending three months in jail. Friends paid his fine.

Arrested Saturday

He was arrested Saturday morning near his home by R.C.M.P. Constable Wood, of Lindsay, who informed The Examiner that he had been watching Dettman on and off for the past six months. Dettman's still and several gallons of moonshine liquor, which Magistrate Langley laughingly described as "Whiskey Blanc," were seized in the police raid.

T. J. Carley, the man's counsel, urged clemency, pointing out that Dettman was the father of ten children and had never been convicted previously. Mr. Carley also

British Budget May Restore $250,000 Cut King George Voluntarily Took In '31 Crisis

LONDON, April 16.—(C. P. Cable)—Whether or not the royal family's own "pay cuts" will be restored by tomorrow's budget was an interesting question raised tonight.

His majesty imposed a reduction of $250,000 in the civil list, the annuities payable to their majesties and other members of the royal family, during the crisis of 1931.

Assuming the Chancellor of the Exchequer tomorrow announces restoration of all salaries, including cabinet ministers, to the former level, the civil list would alone remain unrestored. The cabinet therefore would most likely invite his majesty to order such a restoration.

The civil list totals $2,880,000, having been unchanged for many years except for the voluntary deductions announced by the king during the war and again in 1931. The Princeof Wales is the only member of the royal family not on the list, his personal revenue coming from the Ducy of Cornwall estates.

The Prince himself made a straight contribution of $50,000 to the national funds in 1931.

HOARE BLOCKED INDIAN EVIDENCE SAYS CHURCHILL

Used Pressure to Secure Withdrawals or Alterations "Die-hard" Leader Claims.

PROVES BOMBSHELL.

Accused Secretary Makes Denial—MacDonald Joins Him in Welcoming Probe.

LONDON, April 16 (CP Cable).—Winston Churchill, leader of the "Die-Hards" opposing the self-government proposals for India, sprang a bombshell in the House o. Commons this afternoon by charging that Sir Samuel Hoare, Secretary for India, and others had used pressure to secure withdrawal or fundamental alteration in evidence that was presented before the Select Parliamentary Committee studying the government proposals.

Saying he introduced the matter on a question of privilege "with the greatest reluctance,' Mr. Churchill asserted that after the Indian section of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce last May had drafted evidence for the Select Committee, Sir Samuel "set himself on preventing its presentation to the committee."

He told of a dinner at the London home of Lord Derby at which members of the Indian section of the Manchester Chamber met Sir Samuel "and two other ministers." Thereafter there was a long series of negotiations amounting to pressure to procure a fundamental alteration in the evidence, he charged.

The Chamber was induced eventually to withdraw its evidence and substitute "a ghost of the original evidence; a poor, shrunken, emaciated thing," Mr. Churchill said.

Well-Intended Action

He added he had no doubt the action of Sir Samuel and Lord Derby was well-intentioned, and he did not impugn their personal motives. There was no question of their personal honor, he said. But he submitted it was grossly irregular for members of a commission sitting in their official capacity, to press witnesses to alter their evidence.

The Speaker ruled that Mr Churchill had made out a prima facie case, whereupon Mr. Churchill moved that the matter be forthwith referred to the Committee for Privileges.

Sir Samuel said that he welcomed an enquiry as providing a chance "to prove once again that Mr. Churchill has found another mare's nest."

Welcome Inquiry

Prime Minister MacDonald, on behalf of the Government; Sir Herbert Samuel, for the Opposition Liberals, and Major Clement Attlee, Acting Labor Leader, also said they would welcome an enquiry.

Sir Samuel then said that during Lord Derby's dinner, so far as he remembered, Lancashire's trade with India was discussed. But there was not a word about the Manchester Chamber's evidence to be submitted to the Indian Committee, he declared.

In regard to other allegations, the Indian Secretary said he had a good answer to Mr. Churchill's statements and was not "terrified by the almost medieval penalties mentioned by Mr. Churchill."

The House agreed to Mr. Churchill's action.

The Committee on Privileges will consist of the respective party leaders and Lord Hugh Cecil, Sir Austen Chamberlain, Lt.-Col. H. H. Spender-Clay, Ian Macpherson, and Sir Thomas Inskip, the Attorney-General—five Conservatives, one National-Laborite, one National Liberal, two Laborites and one Liberal.

A Joy Rider

TITUSVILLE, Pa. April 16—(CP)—J. W. Norris, who is employed in an Oil City, Pa., bank has a pet Rhode Island Red chicken.

Norris hopped in his car the other morning and the little red hen jumped on the running board, only Norris didn't know it.

He didn't discover his pet until he got out of the car at Oil City after an 18-mile drive. There was the hen triumphantly sitting on the running board.

Paraguayans and Bolivians in Major Battle That May Be Turning Point of War.

AT FORT BALLIVIAN.

Scene of Fighting Centres on Most Southerly Bolivian Outpost.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, April 16 (C.P.). — Death estimates mounted to-day with reports of a major engagement that may prove the turning point in the long Gran Chaco warfare between Bolivia and Paraguay.

Reports of the casualties conflicted. At La Paz, capital of Bolivia, army leaders said Chaco advices indicated Paraguayan losses at 1,500 men. They added that a Paraguayan regiment had been surrounded with enormous losses.

Paraguayan military authorities in Asuncion, however, denied a regiment had been surrounded, as reported in the Conchita-Pilcomayo sector.

They added that figures show four Bolivians have died to each Paraguayan killed in the border war.

Key of Battle.

Fierce fighting developed several days ago when Paraguayan forces moved from three angles upon Fort Ballivian, on the shore of the Pilcomayo River. This is Bolivia's most southerly outpost.

It has long been maintained by observers that when fighting centered in this area it might become a turning point in a struggle which has flared intermittently for half a century.

The Bolivian army has retreated systematically toward the general area of Fort Ballivian since the crushing of the main Bolivian battle line at Fort Saavedra last December.

Should the fort fall, Paraguay is not expected to press the drive farther, and, should Bolvia hold it, no new Bolivian offensive is generally anticipated.

FINGERPRINTS MAY SOLVE MYSTERIOUS DROWNING

NORWALK, Conn., April 16.—(A. P.)— Solution of the mysterious drowning of Arthur Todd, 70 year old wealthy retired business man of Belle Island, was sought to-day in a few fingerprints.

The prints found on four empty glasses and an empty bottle on a table in Todd's pretentious home after he had vanished, led to the calling of New York State trooper fingerprint experts last night from the barracks at Hawthorne, N.Y.

The Connecticut State police were proceeding to-day on the theory that Todd was persuaded to take part in drinking at his home and then in some unexplained manner was drowned and his person rifled, the thieves making away with $8,000 in cash he is known to have had in a wallet.

RELIEF PAYMENT CUTS EXPECTED TO BE RETURNED

Old Civil Service Scale Easing in Entertainment Taxes Predicted for British Budget.

COMING TUESDAY.

Usual "Token Payment" Only Provision Probable for War Debts.

(By Thomas T. Champion—C.P. Staff Writer).

LONDON, April 16 (C.P. Cable).—Restoration of the cuts made in relief payments to the unemployed, restoration of civil service cuts and easing off in the entertainment taxes are confidently expected to be announced in the budget to-morrow.

Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, talked over the secrets of the budget with his fellow Cabinet Ministers. To-night and around 4 p.m. to-morrow (11 a.m., E.S.T.) they will be revealed to the House of Commons and the world at large.

It will be a far more cheerful budget than any since the financial crisis of 1931, when the Labor Government fell and the National Government came in with its "axe and tax" method of restoring financial stability—a method that finally produced a surplus of between $250,000,000 and $300,000,000 on the fiscal year ending last month.

Although it was generally expected the civil service cuts for judges, police, soldiers, sailors, civil servants and teachers would be restored along with unemployment benefits, the former may be postponed to October in order that only half might fall on the present budget.

Ministers Omitted.

It was not expected the 20 per cent. reduction in salaries of Cabinet Ministers and of 10 per cent. in salaries of other Ministers and members of the House of Commons would be restored.

The Chancellor was furthermore expected to provide nothing more for war debt payment to the United States than another small "token" payment looking to revision of the debt as early as possible.

Some uncertainty existed as to what the Chancellor would do with the stiff income tax. He is able to cut it by sixpence in the pound, or from around 25 per cent. to 22½ per cent. This would cost about $135,000,000. He may prefer, however, to reinstate the old rebates and exemptions, which would cost $120,000,000.

Industry, however, would benefit more by the direct cut in the tax and it was generally expected he would follow this course. It was fairly confidently expected also that he would abolish the new entertain-

NO MEN WANTED FOR ROAD CAMPS

Foreman of Burleigh Falls Road Camps Not Hiring Additional Men.

ORDER ONLY TEMPORARY?

Reports reaching The Examiner over the week-end that the work camps along the Burleigh Falls road are no longer hiring men who applied to the foremen on the job, were confirmed to-day by A. G. Metheral, relief officer.

"I understand that no more men are being taken on at the camps," Mr. Metheral said, when interviewed. "I am told that word came through from Toronto last week not to hire any more men."

Only Temporary

Confidence was expressed by Mr. Metheral that the present situation in regard to the road camps is only temporary and that a new plan is being formulated by Provincial officials and that later more men will be taken on at the camps. "Pending an announcement, however, it is useless for Peterborough men to make the trip to the camps in hopes of securing a job," he said. "The trip would only be wasted effort."

The Examiner learned from Peterborough men at the camps that it was announced last week that the new rate of 25 cents an hour had been established already at the camps. Mr. Metheral stated that he doubted if any such announcement had yet been made. "I don't think the whole program for the camps has been drawn up as yet or that any definite announcement has been made."

LOCAL OPTION DISTRICTS WILL BE RESPECTED

As Far as Gov't is Concerned With Beer, Wine Bill Says Henry.

SEEK POWER ON OTTAWA.

Re-arrangement of Cabinet Portfolios After Election Likely — Mum on Voting Day.

OTTAWA, April 16. —(CP)— "As far as the government is concerned," said Premier George S. Henry of Ontario today, "local option districts will certainly be respected in the operations of the beer and wine bill." The premier had been questioned concerning reports the provincial Liberal party would shortly issue its declaration of policy on the liquor question and possibly would go even further afield than the government.

Mr. Henry declined to give any indication of the date of the forthcoming general election, simply smiling when he was asked whether it would be held on June 14 or 21, and replying only 'possibly this summer."

He would be satisfied to return to power with majority of from 10 to 15 seats in the reduced house of 90 members, he said, "it would be easier and simpler for a government to carry on with a smaller majority that we have had, because, when there is a more even division of parties, you can always get more work out of the average member," he said.

Turn to Ottawa for Power

He expressed the belief the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission would have to consider developments on the Ottawa River in future, since the St. Lawrence Waterways Pact had been defeated at Washington. At present, he said, Hydro contracts for power would take care of the needs until 1937 or 1938, but under the agreement of the province with the Dominion in regard to power supply through the St. Lawrence scheme, Ontario was to receive 400,000 horsepower, the first lot in 1942.

There was room for a larger scheme of development at Carillon, he said, and "above the Chats Falls there are places where power could be obtained."

Again referring to the coming election, he declared there might be some rearrangement of the cabinet as to portfolios afterwards.

TEAM OF HORSES KILLED WHEN STRUCK BY AUTO

COBOURG, April 16.— On his way home Saturday night driving his team of horses, David McBride, who lives near Baltimore, Ont., was struck head-on by a car driven by Frank Lowe at Hull's Corners, one mile north of Cobourg, killing both horses, but McBride escaped with slight injuries. It is stated no lights were shown on the wagon. The accident occurred on a sharp turn in the road, making the vision bad for the driver of the automobile.

TRIO TRAPPED ON THIRD FLOOR OF INN BUILDING

Aylmer Tragedy is Laid to Invasion of Burglar in Store Below Apartments.

FIREMAN BADLY HURT.

Woman Seen to Fall Back Into Room From Window—$30,000 Damage.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., April 16.—(CP)—Trapped in their apartment on the third floor of the burning Aylmer Inn building at the main intersection of the town of Aylmer this morning, Mrs. Grace Witherell aged 28, a widow and her two daughters, Stella 11, and Dorothy 8, were burned to death.

Mrs. Witherell had intended moving to new quarters this morning.

Fire which turned the three storey brick Aylmer Inn building, formerly the Brown House, into ruins started in a grocery store on the ground floor. Apparently the store had been broken into, as David Herman, owner of the Inn, awakened by the smell of smoke discovered the door between the grocery and the Inn open and the inside of the grocery a seething mass of flames.

Herman rushed upstairs, calling out an alarm and all escaped with exceptionof Mrs. Wetherell and her daughters, evidently they had not heard Herman's cry of alarm until their escape was cut off.

After the firemen arrived Mrs. Wetherell was seen at one of the windowsof her apartment to cry out and then to fall back into the room.

Bodies Recovered.

Her Body and those of her daughters, were found later on the second floor in Mr. Herman's private apartment after the third floor had collapsed.

Clarence Gifford, Aylmer volunteer fireman, was seriously injured when the third floor collapsed.

He is now in Memorial Hospital, St. Thomas.

Gifofrd is a printer employed by the Alymer Express.

Gifford is a printer employed by Thomas, brought the firemen of St. Thomas to the scene in a hurry and they gave valient service in preventing the spread of the flames.

As it is Carroll's grocery and Munn's hardware, both located in the building owned by H Charlton, are damaged by fire, smoke and water. Total loss will run close to $30,000 or $40,000, with David Herman ,owner of the hotel building, the heaviest loser. He was partially insured.

Police Investigating.

While the fire was still raging Provincial Officer Shervill, on instructions from Crown Attorney Haines, whose home is in Aylmer, started an investigation into the cause of the fire.

The open door of the grocery and the rapadity with which the flames spread are regarded by the police as suspicious.

Mrs. Wetherell, victim of the fire, had been a widow about five years.

She had all arrangements made to move to another apartment this morning.

Didn't Know Anyone Missing

AYLMER, Ont., April 16 (CP)—While a mother and her two small daughters fought through fire and smoke in a fruitless effort to escape from the blazing Aylmer inn to-day, firemen were unaware anyone was in the building.

Fire Chief Mitrella of St. Thomas, who accompanied the auxiliary force to aid Aylmer volunteers, said he asked repeatedly if anyone was trapped in the building and was told there was not.

Other persons who were at the scene of the fire said they saw Mrs. Grace Witherwell at the window of her third-floor apartment. They saw her appear there for a minute before falling back into the blazing interior, they said. After the flames had subsided, firemen found the bodies of Mrs. Witherell and her children, Stella, 11, and Dorothy, 8.

A coroner's jury viewed the bodies to-day and the inquest adjourned until April 26. It was understood several witnesses were prepared to testify they saw Mrs. Witherell at the window of her burning apartment, while the Fire Chief said he was not told of this.

Farm Equipment

OMAHA, Neb. April 16.—(CP)—Jacob Gompert 69, farmer near Mitchell, Neb., is going to get a new pair of artificial legs and Uncle Sam is paying for them. The Omaha Federal Land Bank has closed with Gompert for a loan of $1,500 to buy necessary farm equipment. Among this equipment is listed a new pair of artificial legs for the farmer. Gompert lost his legs in 1912 when he was caught beneath a mowing machine.

C.C.F. PARTY OFF TO FRESH START IN PROVINCE

15 HOUR CONFERENCE.

Garland and Woodsworth Emphasize Keeping of Control Over Members.

TORONTO, April 16 (C.P.). — Overhauled and set on a new course the Ontario section of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation was prepared to renew its battle in the political field. Under a new constitution which placed discipline powers in the Central Council, the new Ontario C.C.F. branch was launched after a tumultuous 15-hour conference here during the week-end.

Alderman John Mitchell of Hamilton was named president of the re-organized body with Graham Spry of Ottawa vice-president. Thirteen persons were elected to the new executive.

After E. J. Garland, U.F.A. member in the House of Commons for Bow River and J. S. Woodsworth, Labor member in the House of Commons for Winnipeg North Centre and national president of the C.C.F., had emphasized the necessity for all members to follow the constitution, the conference decided only political groups whose members were willing to adhere to the C.C.F. program would be given membership.

Mr. Garland and Mr Woodsworth left no doubt of the C.C.F.'s intention of keeping strict control of its members. Mr. Garland urged those who did not approve of C. C.F. principles to leave the convention as the honorable thing to do.

Mr. Woodsworth declared he believed the party must have "discipline if it is going to amount to anything in the Dominion of Canada."

Group "Excluded"

A small group of the leftist element of the Labor Conference declared they considered themselves "excluded" after the constitution was approved. They failed in their efforts to alter the convention's stand regarding membership and the vesting of disciplinary powers in the central council and then broke into song with the 'Red Flag and the 'Internationale'

The Labor conference lost its fight to have trade unions permitted to join as members of the C.C.F. Mrs. E. Morton, secretary of the Labor conference, moved this be adopted but she was declared out of order by Chairman Angus MacInnis whose verdict was challenged but upheld by a vote.

Before nominations for officers were taken, Mr. Woodsworth urged all those taking posts in the party

20 Alexandria Homes Marooned By Flood

ALEXANDRIA, Ont., April 16.—(CP).—Some 20 houses in this village are surrounded by water today as a result of a sudden rise in the level of the Garry River following the collapse of a section of the bank several miles upstream.

The water rose 10 feet above its usual spring high mark. Apart from the flooding of basements and inconvenience little damage was done.

Pupils of the separate school will have a holiday to-morrow, however for the basement is flooded and the building practically surrounded by water. On some of the streets the water is three feet deep.

RED CROSS GAVE 1,196 LODGINGS AT THE HOSTEL

3,204 Were Provided With Meal Tickets During Past Winter.

HOSTEL IS NOW CLOSED

Oldest Man to Pass Through Hostel Was 71, the Youngest 11.

Haven for hundreds of wandering and homeless unemployed transients during past months of severe weather, the Red Cross Hostel on Hunter street closed its doors to-day.

Since the hostel was opened for the winter months on December 6 last, and up to April 9, which is as far as available records go at present, 3,204 transients were given meal tickets, while 1,196 transients received lodging at the hostel.

Even taking into account the number of meal tickets issued throughout last week, and the sleeping accommodation provided, the figures show a decrease over last winter when 4,226 tickets were given out, and 1,469 transients received shelter for a night.

Ages Range 11-71 Years.

Of the four thousand or more men who have passed through the hostel during the past winter, the oldest was G. Davis, no address, whose age in the records is given as 71 years. The youngest was B. Foley, of Toronto, a lad of 11 years of age, who was accompanied by his 19 year old brother.

Thomas Bass, attendant at the hostel, said the men were representative of all nationalities. He recalled one coloured man having been given a meal ticket, while he said there was an Armenian youth who slept at the hostel for a night, who upon being called a Turk by another of the transients, momentarily flared up and instinctively

HULL JOBLESS THREATEN RIOT

Police, Firemen Called Out at 500 Demand 50 Per Cent. Boost in Allowance.

LEADER ARRESTED.

HULL, Que., April 16.—(C.P.) — More than 500 Hull jobless threatened to riot to-day in protest against the relief they were receiving, and police and firemen were called out to quell a disturbance outside the Relief committee offices. Jean Paul Lafontaine, alleged leader, was arrested and will appear in court tomorrow.

Claiming the relief issued by the city was not sufficient for their ... the gathering asked they be given the same consideration as the unemployed of Ottawa.

Warned of the meeting, all members of the police and fire department were called to stand by for trouble, and finally they marched through the gathering and broke it up without difficulty.

A deputation from the jobless met J. A. Charlebois, city relief officer, to whom they stated their grievances. They asked that the relief agent grant, which now amounts to $2 per married couple with an additional 50 cents for each child, be increased by 50 per cent, and also asked the city provide necessary clothing and that they be required to work only for rent, not for food and clothing.

Mr. Charlebois declared he would present their claim to the Citizens' Relief Committee; and the delegation's spokesman declared they were not satisfied with his answer and would refues to do any work until a satisfactory conclusion is reached.

REPRESNTATIVE EXPECTED TO BE FINAL IN RIDING

Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King Winds Up Campaign — Speaks at Ingersoll.

TWO CANDIDATES.

Liberal Chief Claims Voting Set To-day for Fear of Budget Revelations.

INGERSOLL, Ont. April 16. —(CP)—South Oxford electors went to the polls today to name probably the last representative in the House of Commons this riding will ever have. After a campaign in which numerous notables on both sides of the House took part the electors were left to choose between Liberal A. S. Rennie and Conservative Hon. Donald Sutherland.

Today's by-election will almost certainly be the last polling held in this riding, as South Oxford will be merged with North Oxford in the next general election under redistribution provisions.

Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, leader of the last Liberal government, was the last speaker of the campaign in a constituency which returned last a Liberal, Thomas M. Cayley who died about a year ago.

Mr. King closed the campaign Saturday night with a speech in which he suggested the government insisted on holding the election today because the budget, which will come down Wednesday in the House of Commons, might contain news of increased national debt or heavier taxes.

Mr. King told his audience, which overflowed the hall in which the meeting was held, that a Liberal victory in to-day's polling would be interpreted by the government as the voice of the people of Canada, and if the administration adhered to British parliamentary practice, would precipitate a general election.

Assails Stevens Proposal

The Liberal leader derided statements of Hon. H. H. tSevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce that Mr. Sutherland should be sent to parliament to fight the battle of the constituency's tobacco growers on the ground he had investigated claims that a buyer's combine existed.

He said such a statement was either a threat or an attempted bribe and that Mr. Rennie was equally well fitted for such a task.

FRANKFORD PAPERBOARD PLANT CHANGES HANDS

Montreal, April 16 (CP)—Gair Company Canada, Limited, has taken over operation of the Canadian Paperboard, Limited, Mills at Montreal, and at Frankford, Ont., Campbellford, Ont., and Toronto, it was announced here. The Gair Company is a subsidiary of Robert Gair Company, Inc., of New York, of which the president, E. Victor Donaldson, was for many years identified with the paper industry in the Dominion.

After two months in their icy surroundings, the entire party of 102 men, women and children, were taken off their hazardous position in a series of daring airplane flights by a score or more of Russian airmen, who worked from April 10th to 12th, making the rescues. All members of the party are now safe at Cape Van Karem, in northernmost Siberia.

LIVELY WEEK FACING HOUSE

Rhodes Budget Expected to Show Substantial Deficit in Gov't Finances.

SEE FEW TAX CHANGES.

OTTAWA, April 16 (CP).—With a budget day in the offing and a Federal by-election taking place today, Parliament looks forward to an interesting week. Third reading of the 1934 relief bill will likely be the first order of business in the House of Commons to-day and Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, expects to present his budget on Wednesday.

All eyes are centred on the constituency of South Oxford to-day as the electors go to the polls after a lively campaign. Although there are varying views as to the significance of the vote, its result is awaited with interest.

Mr. Rhodes' budget will likely reveal a substantial deficit in the Government finances last year, for despite the fact revenue returns showed a highly satisfactory improvement in the latter part of the fiscal year, the first part of the year was disappointing.

As usual, the contents of the budget are closely guarded secrets and the press of affairs on Parliament Hall during the past few weeks has somewhat diverted attention from it so that there is not the usual orgy of speculation over it.

Tariff and taxation changes, however, are expected to be few. Certain alterations in the tariff structure to give effect to changes in the trade treaty with the United Kingdom agreed upon between the two governments will be revealed.

Unique Loot

ATLANTA, April 16.—(CP)—This little Negro took bankruptcy and almost got away with it.

Lawyer Thomas R. R. Cobb looked from his house to see three little Negroes making away with law books he had stored in the yard.

Cobb gave chase. One little Negro shook off his companions and with law in his wagon and law at his heels ran down the street.

The law at his heels prevailed. Cobb judiciously heard the Negroe's pleas and left him go —but not until he had recovered three bulky volumes of Remington on bankruptcy.

Beaver Factory Joins Cheese Group

CAMPBELLFORD, April 16 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — Patrons of Beaver Cheese Factory decided on a majority vote on Friday to take out membership in the Cheese Factory Patrons' Association, after Georve Van Volkenburg, president of the Northumberland County organization, and J. A. Murray, group cheese instructor, had addressed the gathering explaining the aims, objects, and obligations of this movement, and the matter had been fully discussed.

The meeting of factory patrons' was the annual spring function for the transaction of general business, included in which was the letting of some of the routes. Alfred Merrills, president of the company, presided over the gathering, which was exceptionally well attended.

RAILWAY KING, BANKERS DENY $10,000,000 DEAL

CLEVELAND, O., April 16 (A.P.)— O. P. Sweringen, railroad king, and two banker friends indicted with him, denied to-day that they engineered a $10,000,000 "paper" transacation to dress the front window of the Union Trust Company, now defunct.

"Perhaps I am a little bit old-fashioned," Van Sweringen said in answer to a County Grand Jury accusation, "but I still believe we are living in a government of law and I feel no concern over an outcome which is going to be determined in the unbiased, considered judgment of the court, where all motives, save those in pursuit of justice, are excluded."

The jury returned indictments yesterday against Van Sweringen, Joseph R. Nutt, former chairman of the bank's board and former treasurer of the Republican National Committee; and W. M. Baldwin, former president of the institution.

INVESTMENT BANKER DIES

MONTREAL, April 16 (CP)—One of Montreal's oldest investment bankers, William Hanson, 83, is dead here to-day.

Born in England, Mr. Hanson came to Canada as a young man with his parents and began his business career at Napanee, Ont., in the book and stationery line. Later he moved to Toronto, where he was manager of the Napanee Mills Paper Company.

Moving to Montreal in 1881, Mr. Hanson was named chief agent for the Dominion of Canada of the Travelers' Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn., retaining that position until 1932. In that year he joined the firm of Hanson Brothers, investment bankers.

CIVIL SERVANTS QUIT IN FRANCE

Marchers in 100 Towns and Cities Protest Against Pay Cuts.

RED FLAGS FLAUNTED.

PARIS, April 16. (A.P.)—Public service employees of France folded their arms for an hour to-day in a defiant "national protest day" strike against pay cuts.

The halt was devoted to demonstrations the country over against Premier Gaston Doumergue's recent economy decrees affecting government workmen and war veterans.

The manifestations of growing discontent by the government functionaries were preceded by parades in which red flags were flaunted throughout the provinces Sunday.

In the first of the two-day strikes and demonstrations yesterday, the Internationale was chanted in more than 100 towns and cities.

Marchers bore banners—"Down with the government"; "Down with the decree laws"; "Down with ruinous deflation."

Premier Doumergue who decreed 10 percent salary cuts for public service employees and followed with an order for reductions in veteran's pensions, remained unmoved by the turbulence.

His firm hand was seen by some in the dismissing of 99 employees of the Central Telegraphic Bureau of Paris. Daily demonstrations there caused an uproar last week.

The time of to-day's strikes was not fixed generally.

CAMPBELLFORD LADIES' TEA IS GREAT SUCCESS

CAMPBELLFORD, April 16 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The most successful ward tea staged this season by the W.M.S. of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Campbellford, was held on Friday afternoon by the members of Ward 2, in the home of Mrs. Alex Abar, when about sixty members and friends gathered to enjoy a very delightful entertainment. Numbers on the program included a soprano solo by Dorothy Stanley Windrim; a reading by Miss Rosina Clarke, and a very fine exhibition of the art of elocution by Mrs. J. Black. A bean contest was staged for which the winner was Mrs. Frank Menzies. A delightful tea was served by the ladies of the group.

TRANS-CANADA HIGHWAY HAS COST $12,374,319

OTTAWA, April 16.—(CP)— Progress made in the construction of the Trans-Canada Highway was outlined in the House of Commons by Premier R. B. Bennett. The amount expended so far was $12,374,319, and 1,357 miles had been constructed.

The mileage was divided: Nova Scotia 59, New Brunswick 65, Quebec 35, Ontario 830; Manitoba 46½, Saskatchewan 17½, Alberta 145, British Columbia 160. The figures were given at the request of I. D. Macdougall (Cons., Inverness).

Seeding Progresses Fast On Prairies

CALGARY, April 16. (CP)—With better than the average soil conditions, wheat seeding is making fast progress in southern Alberta, and by the end of the week, if the excellent weather conditions continue, more than 50 percent of the 1934 crop will be in the ground. Sowing is general to-day, and there is plenty of moisture to germinate the crop and carry it along until June.

Beet seeding is proceeding normally with a good seed bed, while there is a rapid growth of grass on the ranges. Livestock have come through the winter in excellent condition preparatory to going on summer pasture.

There was some soil drifting during recent high winds, but no serious damage was reported.

FLIERS GIVEN UP AS DEAD.

SHANGHAI, April 16 (A.P.). — Three American fliers missing since last Tuesday were given up by searchers to-day as dead.

The lost men are James Frink, of Miami, Fla.; Robert Gast, Louisville, Ky., and Ivan Carlson, Donna, Texas. Lost with them was a Japanese business man passenger.

Experts, weary from the strain of the fruitless search, abandoned their efforts to-day. They believe the lost plane sank in the sea.

BUS HITS TRUCK SIX PASSENGERS FLUNG TO DEATH

Terrific Crash on Ohio Highway Sees 12 Others Injured.

SEVERAL DYING.

Driver, Trying to Miss Parked Vehicle, Hits Another—Victims Sleeping.

ELYRIA, O., April 16 (U.P.). — Sleeping passengers were catapulted through the air to land dead, dying or seriously injured along the roadside early Sunday when the bus in which they were riding collided with a heavily laden produce truck.

Six of the bus passengers were instantly killed. Three of those were decapitated. Not one of the other 12 passengers escaped injury and several were not expected to live more than a few hours.

The wreck occurred near here when William Daniels, 30, of Pittsburg, driver of the Nevins Western Lines bus en route to Chicago, swerved to the left in a desperate attempt to miss a big truck parked alongside the road without lights. Just as he rounded the parked machine, his bus collided with a C-C-C truck followed by two trailers and loaded with 400 bushels of turnips.

The crash was terrific. The big bus careened into a ditch, tore up the ground for a distance of 100 feet and came to rest in a small meadow. Screams and groans of the dying filled the air.

Farmers Rush To Aid.

Residents of farm houses along the road rushed to the scene and attempted to render first aid. Ambulances from Elyria were called to carry the dead and dying to the morgue and hospitals.

All of those instantly killed were men. Seven women were among the 14 injured.

Daniels told police that he was driving along the highway at his usual rate of speed. He had left Pittsburg late Saturday night, and was due in Toledo at 6.45 a.m. yesterday.

"The road was clear. Most of the passengers were asleep," he said. "As we rounded a slight curve in the road I noticed a truck coming toward us. I pulled over to the right side of the road.

"Suddenly a big, black shape loomed up ahead of me. It wasn't more than 30 feet away. I realized that it was a parked truck, so I jammed on the brakes and swerved sharply to the left. But it was too late. The trailers on the truck crashed into the front end of the bus.

"God, what a crash. I sailed through the air. Then everything went black and the next thing I knew I was being picked up to be brought here to the hospital."

Lawrence Mason, writing in The Globe, has the following to say of the concert presented in the Eaton Auditorium, Toronto, on Saturday afternoon, by the Madrigal Singers: "The 'first gun,' so to speak, in Toronto's Music Week was successfully discharged by the Peterborough Madrigal Singers under the direction of Dorothy Allan Park last Saturday afternoon in Eaton Auditorium. After an impressive start with Dr. MacMillan's arrangement of the National Anthem, this excellent choir proceeded to sing a first-class program in first-class style, as is its custom. It showed itself thoroughly at home in the early contrapuntal school, in delicious Schubertian melodies and modulations, in subtle folksong airs and rhythms, and in a fine Elgar and Butterworth group. The second altos were unusually good; the first altos and second sopranos also shared the same high virtues—purity of line, note accuracy, trueness to pitch, beautiful tone, and homogeneous quality. The top sopranos were less satisfactory, especially in the single-voice leads; but they are the 'shock troops,' who have to bear the brunt of the battle, so that allowances must be made. The performance showed admirably finished workmanship throughout, and Mrs. Park drew some remarkably beautiful effects from her singers. All sang entirely from memory, a prime requisite for truly virtuoso choral work. Agnes Logan Green was the capable accompanist, and also contributed a brilliantly played group of piano solos."

Mixed Harmony

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont, April 16.—(CP)—A choral arrangement, unusual in composition but successful in practice, has been adopted in the church missions on the Algoma Central Railway. Both children and adults sing simultaneously off key and in different languages.

Congregations are composed of different nationalities and song sheets have been printed in several languages in order that those attending can enter into the service. And they do. A group in one corner will sing in English; Finnish church-goers interpret the hymn in their own tongue, and others sing in Swedish or Norwegian.

THE AWE OF NO TRUMPS

Many a game is lost because players seem to hold an opening bid of no trump in awe, declining to bid against it when they would do so against a suit. In the case shown here, had East and West made some show of strength, either they would have played the hand for a small score, or North and South would have played the hand at a minor suit and been unable to go game. Neither side was vulnerable.

Bidding went: South, 1-no trump, when his normal bid was 1-diamond, over which West could have bid 1-spade; North, 2-clubs, as West had passed; South, 2-diamonds; North, 3-diamonds; South, 3-no trumps, ending bidding.

The opening lead was the 2 of spades. Dummy played low. East played the 9 and South's K won the trick. The only chance for game appeared to be in case East held the K of clubs. Dummy's ace of diamonds overtook the declarer's 10, and the Q of clubs was led. East played low and the declarer ducked his J. When dummy held the trick a low club was led. As East played low the declarer's 9 won the trick. Then the ace of clubs picked up the missing K, leaving three good cards of the suit in dummy.

A lead from the declaring hand of a low diamond put dummy in the lead with the J. Upon the three good clubs the declarer let go his last spade and two hearts.

Last of all South took his two remaining diamond tricks, making 5-odd on a hand which could not go game at any make except no trumps, and which was possible to put down 3 tricks by double-dummy play. For a doubtful hand no trumps stands the best chance of going game, as any strength held by partner may be utilized to better advantage than at a trump make.

Before tomorrow, see how many East and West can make at no trumps on the followng hand. The opening lead is the 5 of diamonds.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

If you wish to have your rooms attractive you must consider outline decoration. This is not confined to shapes of furniture and articles in the room, although these play a part. It chiefly consists in the imaginary lines which are subtly registered on the vision by the linear contours of articles against or close to the walls. For example some articles are high, some low. The eye takes in these differences almost as clearly as if a line were drawn on the wall up and down and across the tops of the things. If there is a continuity of high or low pieces the outline decoration is monotonous. It is inartistic.

* * * * * * *

It is essential, therefore, to introduce variety in heights of articles and also in sizes lest any length mar a beauty of decorative outline. Fortunately there is in most persons an inherent, if unconscious appreciation of this essential detail of interior decoration.

* * * * * * *

There is the expression, breaking up the wall spaces, which in effect, brings about much the same desirable result. However, the decorative outline has nothing to do with depth of articles but of their flat silhouettes, while the bulkiness or lack of it comes into the equation when breaking up wall spaces.

* * * * * * *

In the consideration of outline decoration there immediately springs to mind built in bookcases, with their long even line across the tops. Good decoration not only sanctions these shelved walls, but recommends them, notwithstanding the unbroken outline. There are two ways of breaking the monotony until it actually dissolves from the picture. One is when book-cases are from floor to ceiling, and the other when they end part way up.

* * * * * * *

In the first instance the varying heights of shelves is restful to the eyes, and couple this with the infinite variety in kinds and colors of bindings, and no monotony exists. In the instances of low bookcases, the shelves have the variableness of heights just mentioned, and the tops provide excellent opportunities for decorative ornaments. The difference in height of these things and the open spaces left between them relieves the evenness of the outlines. Care must be used in positioning the ornaments so that good outline decoration results.

* * * * * * *

It is well to study the treatment of rooms already decorated and furnished, and see whether the outline decorations are good or whether changes should be made for improvement. Do not sacrifice comfort to decoration, but so manipulate the things to produce good outlines without diminishing other necessary and desirable qualities and characteristics. It is the combination of comfort with artistry that disinguishes good decoration.

WORLD LOOKING TO YOUNG MEN FOR LEADERSHIP

Y. M. C. A. Leaders Hold Annual Convention in City.

TORONTO MAN PRESIDENT.

Outstanding Address of the Convention Delivered by C. E. Sisson of Toronto.

"The world is looking to its young men for leadership to-day," declared Charles E. Sisson of Toronto, as he presented the conference address to more than one hundred Ontario Leaders' Corps members in the Y.M.C.A. Saturday evening. "In several European countries youth is in political control. While in Canada we have no need for Brown-shirt or Black-shirt organizations, we have a need for young men in other field of leadership. It is for you men to groom yourselves to take that leadership in the Dominion, in your own communities and within the association itself."

The speech of Mr son, a member of the physic mittee of the Y.M.C.A. N. al Council and a former Peterborough man, followed a banquet which opened the conference. Under the chairmanship of Hector McLeod of Peterborough, president of the Ontario Leaders' Corps, representatives from corps in Toronto, London, Galt and Kitchener as well as the Peterborough corps, had assembled. Toronto boasted the largest delegation with groups from the Central, Broadview, West End, St. Clair and Silverthorn associations on hand.

Alderman George A. Macdonald, in the absence of Mayor Denne, welcomed the delegates to Peterborough, recommending the city for inspection during their visits and speaking of the Y.M.C.A. facilities as the finest of any city of Peterborough's size in the province. As president of the Y.M.C.A., Ross Dobbin welcomed the young men to the association. R. G. Scott, president of the National Leaders' Corps, brought greetings to the conference from the Pacific Coast, Prairie Provinces and Maritime sections of the corps.

Broader Function

Building his address around the topic, "What Leadership involves in Character and Training," Mr. Sisson said: "The early conception of the function of the Leaders' Corps was the training of a band of young men to assist the physical direction of the association. My early experience with the scheme was distinctly along this line, but the function of the Leaders' Corps of to-day has broadened considerably to include leadership in fields beyond the physical field."

He spoke of the training necessary for a young man who wishes to qualify as a leader. "It is first well that we should appreciate the fact that we will require training. If we are going to be leaders, we must be fitted to stand out in front. Our abilities must be respected. Thus, if one is not prepared to pay the price in sacrifices of time, it is better that he should not seek to lead.

"An all-round development of leading ability is necessary; our physical, social, mental and religious sides being balanced and developed. While physical prowess alone is not sufficient qualification, all-round physical ability is extremely desirable. Also, leaders should be capable of guiding and helping in social and educational work. And, finally, but of first importance, leaders should be prepared to lead in the religious work of the association and should prepare for that work."

Character

Turning to the matter of the character required in a leader, he continued, "One of the chief functions of any system of training is to develop personality or character. Someone has said that success is a result of two parts personality plus one part brains, and in no effort is a pleasing personality more essential than in undertaking leadership."

Outlining the character most suited for leadership, the speaker named the essential features as friendliness, courtesy, ability to listen, open-mindedness, forcefulness and loyalty.

"We find ourselves to-day meeting a great confusion of terms such as 'over-production,' 'social reconstruction,' 'machine age,' 'maldistribution,' 'esonomic chaos,' 'law of supply and demand' and, around them all, 'depression'," he concluded. "The majority of us thought at the beginning of the depression that it was merely a periodic dip, but the persistence of this state of affairs has brought us to the realization that we are at a crisis rather than a depression. It is a crisis which calls for the most intelligent and unselfish leadership."

Leslie Crane

Leslie Crane, past president of the Toronto Central corps was elected president of the Ontario Corps for the coming year during the concluding session yesterday. Supporting him as vice-president will be Walker Wiley, past president of the West End Corps in Toronto, and Frank Caroll, president of the Toronto Broadview corps, as secretary. Wilfred Royal of the Toronto Silverthorn corps was chosen the fourth member of the new executive.

Rev. C. D. Daniel, pastor of Mark Street United Church, addressed the convention on the topic, "Achieving Service in Leadership," following luncheon yesterday noon. He took as a basis for his message the scriptural words, "Inasmuch as you have done it unto us, ye have done it unto Him."

Jesus came to the world as God, but did His work in the form of a man in the ranks, Rev. Daniel said. That is the ideal of service young men should have. Service should not be motivated by selfish desires of self-aggrandizement, but by the unadulterated desire to give service for its own sake. Man should be ready to offer that service in the ranks, unseen without praise.

"When you go out to service that should be your ideal," he stated. "Find out the people who need your service, for there are many souls in your communities who can benefit by your help. Give your service generously without seeking reward. It is not a spirit easy to achieve—it is a spirit to be achieved at great cost. His cost was to deny Himself and take up His cross.

Challenge of To-day

"We are living in a terrific time. We are living in a time when all the powers of Hell are arrayed against us. The challenge of to-day is for men who know their Christ, have the spirit of sacrifice and are willing to take up the cross. When we get such men we need have no fear for the future."

The Sunday sessions were opened with a devotional period in the morning led by Rev. J. D. Paterson, rector of All Saints' Anglican Church. Following the devotions, the delegates divided into two groups for discussion. Under R. G. Scott of Galt, one group dealt with the subject, "The Challenge of Leaders' Work in the Building," discussing the opportunities for service offered in the religious, gymnastic, social and educational divisions of the Y.M.C.A. program. The second group debated the topic, "The Challenge of Leaders' Work in the Community," under the guidance of J. C. McClenaghan of the local Y.M.C.A. staff.

E. D. Otter, acting secretary of the Y.M.C.A. National Council, led an open forum in which all delegates joined to discuss the matter of perfecting a leaders' program to meet the changing needs of the modern day. It was agreed that the program should provide, fundamentally, an understanding of the teachings of Jesus as applied to the individual and society and an understanding of the technique of leadership and of physical and recreational principles. The interchange of the experiences of various groups and a course of training by means of lecture and study courses were suggested.

HOW THE MONEY IS SPENT.

Interesting light upon where the money passed out in pay-rolls goes to has been furnished by an experiment carried out by an American battery company which recently paid its employees in silver dollars, 23,000 of which were passed out in Freeport, Ill.

It was easy to follow the stream of these "cart-wheels" because of their differentiation from cheques and currency, and accordingly a good line on the velocity and direction of subsequent spendings was obtained.

Of $11,064 accounted for a week later, it was found that grocery purchases led with $2,452 and buying in department stores came next with only a little less, and fixed price, chain stores, bank deposits, finance companies, public utilities, coal and lumber and drug stores followed in that order.

Less than half the silver dollars found their way into banks during the week, as against 70 per cent. in a similar test conducted ten years ago.

It may not be surprising to find that tobacco purchases topped candy buying by nine to one, but it is somewhat of a revelation that so far as the spending of these silver dollars went that barber shops took in seven times as much as beauty parlors.

Another surprise result is the fact that buying of gasoline does not occupy a prominent place in the list—in fact, was nowhere up with the leaders.

A FRESH START IN LIFE.

The story from Oshawa the other day of the mother of a crippled boy who heard Hon. W. G. Martin speak over the radio in regard to the objects of Ontario Crippled Children's Week and started out with her handicapped child for Toronto next morning to seek treatment for the child, made interesting reading, especially because of the happy ending.

A passing motorist supplied transportation, the proper authorities were located in Toronto, and before that evening the crippled lad was comfortably in bed in the Hospital for Sick Children, and surgeons who examined him are confident that an operation will cure him and remove the physcial handicap under which he is now suffering.

There was an instance in which the purpose of last week's campaign was realized one hundred per cent.

Throughout the province there must be many other children who could be cured or helped by the proper treatment, and whose parents are unable to pay the expenses involved.

It is to be hoped that through the publicity given crippled children's work last week that it will now be generally realized that the facilities for treating crippled children are available to every handicapped youngster.

There is no necessity for doing what this courageous Oshawa mother did, that is to start out on foot for Toronto.

Your nearest service club can give all the information necessary and start the machinery going that may give some crippled child a new start in life.

A POLITICAL DOG FIGHT.

The political situation in Ontario at the present moment is such as to justify the opinion that the coming election may develop into a "dog fight."

The beer-by-the-glass issue has thrown a large sized monkey-wrench into the machinery and has created possibilities of a split-up vote that makes it difficult indeed to accurately forecast campaign developments.

The Government is definitely committed to the wine and beer policy, and so far as has been disclosed the Hepburn Liberal group is in the same position, although Mr. Hepburn himself has not mentioned the matter since the Government bill was introduced.

Rumors that the Liberal members who voted against sale-by-the-glass in the House are to run as a dry group, headed by Dr. McQuibbon, the present House leader, have been denied at least as far as leadership goes by Dr. McQuibbon himself, but a great many people will be surprised if there is not an anti-beer section of the Liberal party in the field, as well as a number of independent dry candidates.

Then there is the C.C.F. which will most certainly be a factor in some constituencies, although the present outlook is that the Commonwealth may not enter into the provincial campaign on a major scale.

Altogether it promises to be a merry old mix-up when Premier Henry finally takes the plunge, and party lines in many instances will be cut straight across the middle, due to the interjection of the beer issue into the campaign.

THE HEALTH ASSOCIATION'S APPEAL.

The Peterborough Health Association is appealing to local citizens who are in a position to help for financial assistance in the splendid community work the organization has been carrying on here for many years.

Letters have gone forward to many residents, pointing out the necessity for subscriptions at this time, and The Examiner hopes that the request will be earnestly considered by the recipients.

The work of the Health Association is surely known to everybody, for it has been able to accomplish so much since its organization that the public should be thoroughly familiar with the activities of the association's nursing service, with what it has been able to do to provide nourishment to invalids without the means to look after themselves, and with the excellent work that has been done at the health camp for under-nourished children at Jackson Park.

In these and other splendid efforts the Health Association has helped a great many families, and it is impossible to speak too highly of the efficient and economical manner in which its activities have been carried out.

Without such an organization actively in the field it would undoubtedly be necessary to augment the municipal health service to include the work now done by the association, so that to have this most important responsibility taken care of through the medium of voluntary subscriptions for the greater part is a most helpful community contribution.

In a period such as we have been passing through there are necessarily heavy demands for the services of the association, which means that financial support from the public is vitally needed if the work is not to be curtailed.

The Examiner is satisfied that the public generally has been impressed with the record of the Health Association, and will be glad to come to its assistance at this time, knowing that the money contributed for this purpose will be usefully and economically employed.

CAN'T AFFORD IT.

Another "bright" idea brought to public attention is the illumination of Ontario's highways. Advocates of the scheme claim that 37 per cent. of the highway fatalities can be prevented by proper lighting of the main arteries of travel.

This undertaking, if it gets anywhere, will probably be introduced by stages. It is proposed to try it out on a stretch of pavement near Grimsby. The idea is to place approximately 21 lamps to a mile, about 25 feet above the road level. Promoters of the scheme maintain that 900 miles of the most "heavily trafficked" roads can be equipped with a suitable lighting system at an estimated cost of from $900,000 to $1,350,000. The annual charge for the use of the current would be additional. While this innovation would reduce the present power surplus and thus prove a great boon to Hydro, it is very questionable whether the results would warrant the expense.

No doubt illuminated highways would tend to reduce the number of accidents caused by glaring headlights. With roadways brightened by electric lights, the candle power of automobile headlights could be reduced and thus lessen a great hazard of night driving. However, this scheme to illuminate the main highways had better be deferred until the province can better afford it. It is ill-timed, since some urban municipalities have found it necessary to cut off a number of street lights to make ends meet.

Too frequently we have allowed ourselves to become saddled with burdensome debts because grandiose projects appealed to the imagination. Some of them turned out to be white elephants. But the taxpayer is still paying for them.—Kitchener Record.

HELPING TO CATCH SUCKERS.

This week we secured a copy of the old hometown paper. For a spell we looked through the names of people who had been away for Easter and those from the outside world who had been home, but that was not at all satisfactory. There were so few of the names which we recognized. Then we looked over the advertising columns, but the names of the merchants were different; only two did we see which were the same as they used to be when we went to the store with a coal oil can. The storekeeper in those days used to stick a small potato on the spout to keep the oil from spilling out, but, of course, that has nothing to do with what we started to say. There were three or four church notices, but the names of the preachers were different. Of course, ministers do move about considerably; that is to be expected.

But there was one item in the paper which sounded like the good old days. It mentioned no names, but it said this:

"Some of the boys are busy in the evening catching suckers in the creek."

We are glad the people who are running the paper to-day put that little piece of news in it. It was something to take hold on; it showed that all anchorage and connection with the place had not been severed. They used to catch suckers in the creek a good many years ago; they are still doing it. The creek, the suckers and the habits of the folk have at least remained. Splendid.

There may be a change in the method; we believe there has been in order to comply with the law. As we recall it catching suckers was done at night. We played a minor but rather an important part in the business, and that was the holding of a torch. The torch, we believe, belonged to the village band, and was used so the musicians could see the notes when the band played on the square on Saturday evenings or at garden parties or strawberry festivals.

The torch, for fishing purposes, was placed on a fairly long pole, and it required a careful training and considerable skill to hold the torch at just the right place. The light from the torch attracted the suckers, or it enabled the man with the spear to see them. At any rate the holding of the torch had a good deal to do with catching suckers. When the chap with the spear got a good poke at one that was the end of the fish, and they used to take a number of them every spring. Now and then the bearer of the torch was rewarded by being presented with a sucker. It was a slippery sort of thing to carry home, and by the light of the oil lamp on the kitchen table we can recall there was always sort of a sad and reproachful look in the eye of the sucker, and the folk were never enthusiastic about cooking the thing. But holding the torch when the men of the village were spearing suckers in the creek had a certain distinction; one felt that his place in the community was more or less assured by being asked to hold that torch; it was a form of recognition not lightly to be regarded. People have come and they have gone from the village; the stores have nearly all changed hands, but they still take suckers from the creek.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

South Oxford's verdict to-day will mean various things, according to the party affiliations of those who attempt to diagnose the result.

Hamilton's mayor announces that he will not be intimidated by demonstrations of unemployed, and he is right. Mob action cannot be tolerated in this country.

The blockade of the unemployment relief bill has finally been lifted. Why it was kept up so long is something most people will have difficulty in answering.

Mr. Henry should enlighten the province as to the election date so that the strawberry festival schedule can be drawn up without running foul of election day.

CHAPTER 39

Tiggie found a perch above the splashing water and sat down. Again his hand went to his pocket for his pipe, and again it came out empty. It might have helped him to smoke, but he could not while Viola lay there dying. He looked around him, but from where he sat he could not see the cottage though it was close at hand. A great outstanding boulder hid it from view. He leaned forward and bowed his head on his hands.

Dying! Dying! And what was death? A darkness—a sleep—a forgetting? But she had said she would not forget him—even when she was dead and he was sure that she had meant it. Only her need of him would be over then. He groaned aloud. When once the slender thread that bound her to earth was broken, she would never need him again, and it was her need, her pathetic dependence upon him, that had first won his heart. Back again over the old ground his thoughts wandered. He saw her standing alone by the deck rail, pale, shy, hesitating, not daring to appeal; yet how overwhelmingly in need of help! He saw her poised like a bird about to take wing into the dim vastness, though so terribly afraid of the deep waters. He clasped her again in his arms, felt her piteous sobbing against his breast, knew himself her only protector in a hard, uncaring world. And now she was faring forth alone once more whither he could not accompany her. She was not even sorry to be going, while to him, left behind, must come the anguish of bereavement.

How deep that anguish was only he himself could ever know. In that hour he faced it, and dumbly realized that he would never be the same again. The indelible mark of a great sorrow would be upon him and life would have lost its savor forever. For this love that had come to him was beyond his understanding inasmuch as it was greater than himself. It dwarfed everything of which he had had previous experience. It blotted out all ordinary things. It was not so much that she had wound herself about his heart by her soft and feminine appeal. She had become the very mainspring of his life—the one essential of existence. She possessed him in a fashion which he could not have explained or deemed possible. She was as it were a part of himself which he had never hitherto realized. She had touched a hidden spring within him and shown him that within his own soul of which he had never dreamed, which indeed—but for her—had never been. And now, whichever way he turned, her image rose before him—his spirit-love already out of reach, never indeed wholly within it, and now winging out of sight, forever lost to him, to be henceforth only a memory, haunting, elusive, undying, leaving his life a desert.

Oddly, almost unconsciously he began to look forward. He saw himself going back to the life he had led before he had met her, pictured the troopship that would take him back, breathed again the atmosphere of military discipline, military society—his world and not hers. Would he forget her even for a moment when the old sights and sounds and doings surrounded him? Would he be able even for a fraction of time to stifle the misery at his heart with the distraction of his normal life, or fill the awful emptiness in his heart with work or pastime? He knew he would not. Wherever he went in the future, the desolation would go with him. However he might smooth the surface, the depth would remain troubled. He might eventually grow used to his sorrow as—perhaps—a blind man grows used to the darkness; but it could never cease to be. His life was completely changed. Something had come into it, something had gone out. And with that mystic coming and going, the world had become a different place in his eyes. He was too old to take any other view. He knew that he would never love again—just as he knew that he had never really loved before. This—this that was so infinitely greater than passion—could never come twice to any man or woman. It came at all only to the few, and he had never thought that he would have been of the number. Perhaps he had never quite believed in it till now. Perhaps it was given only to those who knew it to believe. But once known, there was no denying it. It stood out all down the centuries—the Divine Miracle—passionless, ageless, deathless.

Yes—deathless! This thing was greater than death. It led on to that which was beyond. Mortality and immortality were its slaves. Eternity was its abiding place. It was greater than Death.

He raised his head as though a voice had suddenly spoken to him. He stood up on his rock—a square, unromantic figure—and faced the sun above him.

"Yes," he said. "Yes." And he spoke as a man speaks to his God. "It's greater than Death."

It was several minutes later that he turned with quiet purpose and left the spot. A child's figure was running to him along the beach. He went, unfaltering, steady as the rock on which he trod, to meet it.

Joyce, panting and dishevelled, finally flung herself against him. "Oh, Uncle Tiggie, the other doctor's come and you're wanted. But Daddy says, come quietly. Don't run too fast! There's something you can do."

He took her hand. It was as though an answer had come to the prayer he had not been able to utter.

"Thank God!" he said very deeply and steadfastly. "I'll come and do it."

* * *

At the entrance to the cottage Joyce left him. "Daddy told me not to come in," she said.

Tiggie entered alone, and was almost immediately joined by Spot.

The look of strain had not gone from the latter's face, though he smiled at sight of his friend. "Oh, good fellow! They said you were close by. Look here! I've operated, and that is all satisfactorily over. But the exhaustion is very great. The local doctor is here. He doesn't think she can weather it. But there's just a chance left. Come in here!"

He drew Tiggie into the little sitting room and looked at him critically.

"There's something I can do," said Tiggie.

"Yes, there is." Spot still looked at him with a searching, appraising eye. "But I've got to sound you first—make sure you're fit. If not we must try and get someone else. Afraid I'm no good. The East has got into my constitution."

"Do you think I'd stand by and let you?" said Tiggie with a sudden gleam in his eyes.

"No, I don't, happening to know you." Spot's voice had a very kindly note. "Well, let's get on with it! I've got to make sure your heart's in the right place first—though I admit I shall be very surprised if it isn't."

"Thank you for that!" said Tiggie, as he stripped off his coat.

Spot's examination was a very brief one. Quiet and composed as he was, he conveyed the impression that there was very little time to be lost, while Tiggie, mutely submissive, gave no cause for delay.

"You're all right," was Spot's verdict; "sound as a bell."

And Tiggie stood up and fastened his collar without a sign of agitation. Never in his life had he fumbled less. A new strength had come to him during that terrible hour of waiting. Perhaps it had always lain dormant within him, awaiting opportunity. As he followed Spot from the room he moved with the quiet assurance of a man who had put all doubts and misgivings behind him, and was ready to face the utmost extremity that life could offer unflinching.

Even when he looked once more upon the death-white, unconscious face of the only being on earth that mattered to him, he gave no hint of faltering, and the old country doctor who had come to Spot's aid bestowed a glance of shrewd admiration upon him. He was not accustomed to a self-control as complete as this. He might have deemed him phlegmatic but for one thing. As Tiggie took up his position in accordance with Spot's instructions, he laid his hand for a moment on the pale forehead of the girl into whose veins his own blood was to flow, and in that simple action he seemed dumbly to offer all that he had.

As Spot had said, there was just a chance; but it would be hours before they could know with any certainty whether success would attend this effort to seize it. So low had the vitality sunk that it might flicker out at any moment like a spent match.

He said as much to Tiggie when, the ordeal over, he drew him downstairs and made him rest on a couch while a meal was brought in.

Tiggie, somehwat shaken but still wholly master of himself, made valiant and characteristic response. "You haven't taken nearly enough out of me. Let's have another go presently!"

Spot laid a kindly hand upon him. "My dear chap, no! You've done your bit, and no one could do more. No, it's just a question of hanging on now. She may do it. She's young. Anyway, everything possible has been done to help her."

"You mean it's up to her now?" said Tiggie.

"To a certain extent, yes," admitted Spot. "There's a lot in the will to live, you know. I'm not sure that she has it very strongly." He gave Tiggie a glance of some significance with the words. "Look here! What about that husband of hers? He ought to be informed."

"Oh, shut up!" said Tiggie with weary impatience. "Let's stick to one thing at a time!"

"But I say!" protested Spot. "Suppose the worst happened! Suppose she——"

Tiggie's eyes suddenly came to his and in them he saw again the unaccustomed light of battle. "Just stop supposing," he said, "if you don't mind! I wouldn't if I could, and I couldn't if I would. I'm not going to say any more than that."

"Oh, he's a wrong 'un, is he?" said Spot. "Do you know, I suspected something. I told you so, didn't I?"

"You're always suspecting," grumbled Tiggie. "But it's beside the point, I tell you. Get her well! That's all that matters. There's no need to bother about anything else till you've done that."

"All right." Spot quitted the subject with obliging promptitude. "It's for you to say. Anyhow, you've done the lion's share in saving her. And now you just give in and be quiet like a good fellow! It's been a pretty big strain on you, and you've got to make up for it. Understand?"

"I'll be as quiet as you like," Tiggie said. "But I'm going to stay within call. And you've got to promise to call me if there's any change."

Spot looked at him again, as if there were something about him with which he was not quite familiar, and again conceded the point.

"Whatver you like," he said, "so long as you behave rationally and take care of yourself. I don't want you on my hands too, remember."

"You won't have me," said Tiggie with blunt confidence.

But though he thus asserted himself, he was in fact considerably exhausted by all that he had undergone and it was with relief that he finally obeyed Spot's mandate and took a rest.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

On this date in 1542 Roberval sailed from Rochelle, France, for Canada. On January 14th of the previous year Jean Francois de la Rocque, Sieur de Roberval, had been appointed by Francis I viceroy and lieutenant governor New France, a usurpation of the commission given to Jacques Cartier, which was cancelled probably through court intrigue. Roberval was given all sorts of money and supplies but failed to get the right sort of colonists. Cartier, disgusted at the delays, did not wait for Roberval, but sailed at what is now St. Johns, Newfoundland, in June, 1542. Cartier gave Roberval a good account of the country and some advice as to how to meet the Indians and sailed back to France.

Roberval came up the St. Lawrence as far as Charlesbourg, where Cartier had wintered and suffered from the scurvy. There also Roberval and his company suffered. Food was scarce; there were no medical supplies; disease was rampant; many died. Mutiny was added to other miseries. Roberval resorted to whip and torture to keep his underlings in control, but it was in vain. The colony was a failure, and was abandoned. Roberval and the remnant of the party returned to France with the most pessimistic accounts of Canada, of which they could say nothing good. But Roberval's court influence was yet good; he was appointed controller of mines of France, but is lost sight of about 1560. One story has it that he was murdered in the streets of Paris.

ALL OF US

(By Marshall Maslin.)

IT'S NOT ALL FOR THE BEST

If I fall down and break my leg, it's not all for the best.

I may say it is, but deep in my heart I'll know better.

Perhaps while lying for weeks on a bed with my leg in a cast, I'll do some useful thinking....I may make a decision that will change all the rest of my days....I may rise from that bed a wiser, even a better, man than before I broke my leg. But just the same I don't believe that the worst can ever be for the best.

You suffer a terrible sorrow. You lose a beloved child. And somebody, with his mouth pulled down at the corners, comes along and tells you, "It may be all for the best. Who knows? That child might have had a sad and tragic life. He might have lived to have infantine paralysis and be a cripple all his life. He is at peace now. All his troubles are over. It's all for the best!"

It is not. Or if it is, how could that fellow know? Is he a confidant of the future? Are the secrets of the unknown open to him? Whence cometh his "comforting" lugubrious foreknowledge?..It MAY be that times the evil we encounter brings down to earth, shocks us, frightens us, gives us a new picture of ourselves, and sets us another path. But it is our business to make that turn for ourselves, to see that new light, to find that proper path....Not ours, when trouble comes upon us to whine and sigh, "Perhaps it's all for the best!"

Not ours, either, to pour ashes of self-abuse upon our poor heads and cry, "It was all my fault. I must spend the rest of my days in tears and regret and in paying for my folly!"

We walk a narrow line between self-love and self-hatred, between pity and pride. All is not for the best but neither is all for the worst. ....There is death in life, but there is also life in death; bad in good, and good in bad.....Strengthen me when I suffer, but do not comfort me with soothing nonsense. I hope, as all men do, that I am strong enough to face what comes to me.

A Thought

ACQUAINTANCES

What we usually call friends are only acquaintances and familiarities brought together through some particular occasion or use, by which some little intercourse exists between our souls; but in the friendship of which I speak they are so tightly joined together one to the other, in so universal a mixture, that it effaces all signs of the seam by which hey were first joined.—Montaigne.

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

For whosoever will save his life shall lose it; but whosoever shall lose his life for my sake and the gospel's the same shall save it.—St. Mark 9:35.

Voice of the People

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner Office by 5 p.m. on the day before insertion. All letters must be signed by the writer, although a pen-name may be used when inserting non-controversial subject matter. Letters over 400 words will be cut down at discretion of the editor.

To The Editor of The Examiner,
Dear Sir—

I noticed in Mr. Burnham's last letter to The Examiner regarding the unemployed going on farms to solve unemployment he is a little more definite in his plans. Now he say he knows one farmer at least who wants a good man to work on his farm, where a house will be provided for him and his wife. That is a change in front from what Mr. Burnham's plans have been. What about these 10 acre farms, Mr. Burnham, you have been talking about? Then there is mention of unemployed men begging a chance to go on farms. Here is your opportunity, Mr. Burnham to place men in suitable jobs instead of in unsuitable jobs where they would be a square plug in a round hole.

Now for the others amongst the unemployed. How about advocating a plan to get them into suitable jobs. Supposing you draw up plans whereby the city would open up that street where Park street woodyard is. Build 50 houses on it. Loans could be obtained for such purposes either through the government or loan companies at 3 per cent interest. When these houses are completed, say at a cost of $2,000 each, put the unemployed into them that landlords have put out of their houses. These new houses would require no repairs for five years or so. Taxes on such houses would be about $60 per year. The city would pay 150 percent taxes and I feel sure that most of the unemployed men could pay $30 per year as rent. This with 150 per cent taxes paid by the city would give the owner of these houses 3 per cent interest on his investment until times get better.

Such a building plan would give a lot of men work for a long time. Prospective tenants unemployed could work until that $30 was earned to pay the rent for his house. Then he would not be under the mental strain for one year anyhow of the landlord refusing to take relief rents only.

Now, Mr. Burnham here is the raw material from which you can perfect a plan to lift a lot of men from the ranks of the unemployed for a considerable time and maybe at the end of that time something will turn up. A clever lawyer as you are and an equally clever politician can easily solve these problems. And in case you might think I am unduly siding with the unemployed I can assure that is not quite correct because amongst these can be found the traitor peddling his wares and carrying on the nefarious work of deceiving his fellowman. Again in the same ranks you also find men of the highest principle, so one black sheep doesn't make a flock.

Here's hoping that before the snow flies next winter Park street woodyard will be transformed into a beautiful street, where hundreds of men have found suitable work and the bailiff will have no business to come to their door.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the space in your valuable paper,
I remain,
W. S.

SENIOR GOLDS HOLD UP WELL

To-day's Turnover on Mining Board is Slow and Mildly Reactionary.

SILVER SHARES DOWN.

TORONTO, April 16. (CP)—Slow and mildly reactionary, to-day's turnover on the mining board of the Toronto Stock Exchange was the smallest in several weeks for a full session. Senior golds and base metals held up fairly well despite the weak tone on the New York market while silver and secondary gold shares showed a sprinkling of losses.

Recessions up to 40 cents were registered in the senior gold group. Lake Shore dropping that amount to $52.10 Dome lost 25 to $38 Hollinger 15 cents to $17.50, and McIntyre 25 while Teck Hughes and Whight Hargreaves added 5 to 10 cents each.

Volume was small in the base metals. Noranda drifted down about 30 cents.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, April 16.— (AP) — Stocks turned rather sharply downward under a late selling wave today. Weakness in grains was an unsettling factor. A dribble of offerings occurred earlier, but the volume at the start of the last hour taxed the ticker facilities for a time. All categories were heavy. Case, Auburn, U. S. Smelting and Armour of Illinois preferred lost 4 to 5 points at their worst. U. S. Steel, Du Pont and American Can were off 1 to 2. Transfers approximated 1,500,000 shares.

Toronto Issues Exhibit Firming Tendency as N.Y. Steadies in Late Trading.

LIGHT VOLUME.

TORONTO, April 16.—(C.P.) — Canadian industrial listings on the Toronto stock exchange reflected New York nervousness to-day and the close found narrow recessions showing for more than three-quarters of the active shares. Volume was also down over the Board except in Oils, Nickel, Ford A and Distilelrs Seagrams. As New oYrk steadied in the last half hour, local issues exhibited a firming tendency.

The Oils held up through a little profit-taking in the morning session but the definite show of weakness on the "big board" in the afternoon caused a light sell-off. B. A. ⅛ and International Petroleum closed ¼ lower at 26⅛.

Distilelrs-Seagrams traded in good volume and finished 3.4 lower at 20¼ while Walkers common lost 1½ to 42½ and Industrial Alcohol 1 to 15.

Brazilian, C. P. R., Ford A and Nickel all closed lower, losses ranging up to half a point.

Livestock-Produce Quotations

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, April 16 (CP)—Prices pointed towards higher levels on the Toronto Livestock Market this afternoon and although only one advance was registered, lambs gained 25 cents, firmness prevailed on all classes. Cattle trade was slow with early sales steady to a shade stronger. Salesmen were asking higher prices and only 700 head were sold by mid-afternoon. Calves were steady while hogs firmed to sell at last week's top. Sheep were strong.

Receipts were: Cattle, 2,620; calves 660; hogs, 1,310; sheep and lambs, 920.

Choice heavy steers brought $5.75 to $6.25, while good and choice butchers ranged from $5 to $5.50, with a few at $5.60. Butcher cows were stronger at $3.75 to $4, with good bulls at $3.25 to $3.60. Plain few calves sold at $6.50 to $7. The calf division continued steady at $3.75 to $6.25 for the majority. A few choice sold up to $7.

Hogs, after an unsettled opening, firmed to last week's tops of $7.25 f.o.b. for bacons, $8.60 off truck and $8.00 off car. Good western lambs sold 25 cents higher at $8.50. Spring lambs brought $5 to $9 each. Sheep were also stronger at $3.50 to $4 for good, light ewes.

Livestock Quotations.

Hogs, off car basis, selects, $1 premium; bacons, $8; butchers, $1 discount; heavies, $1.50 discount; lights and feeders, $1 discount; sows, $5.

NEW THEORIES IN PSYCHOLOGY ARE EXPLAINED

Kiwanian Carl S. Browne Discusses Behaviourist Views and Applies Them to Education.

A DANCING INTERLUDE.

Bevy From Cast of "Showboat Days" Give Rotary Club a Pre-view of Part of Kinsmen Show.

Recent developments in the realm of psychology, more particularly the theories of the behaviourists, and their application to education, formed the subject of a most interesting address to the Peterborough Rotary Club to-day by Kiwanian Carl S. Browne of the staff of the Collegiate Institute and Vocational School. Mr. Browne led his hearers into what was for most of them, a new and fascinating field of thought, and his presentation, backed up by his own experience as a teacher, was most thoroughly appreciated.

An enjoyable interlude was provided by a bevy of members of the cast of the Kinsmen's show "Show Boat Days," who in charge of George Zarfas ,the director of this unique musical entertainment billed for the Grand Opera House on Thursday and Friday of this week, did some of the effective dance routine featured in the performance. The following took part, Isabel Duffus, Thelma Buller, Edith Guiry, Jean Nicholls, Gladys Cowan, Florence Riley, Ruby Jackson, and Marian Moore, with Mrs. George Nicholls at the piano. The dance specialty was very snappily performed.

Rotarian Andrew Brown announced that through the kindness of Manager Jack Stewart of the Capitol, motion pictures showing crippled children work in Ontario would be shown in that theatre on April 19, 20 and 21, giving the public a chance to see what was being accomplished to cure or help handicapped children.

President Dr. A. Moir announced that Ross L. Dobbin, R. F. Downey, James Juby and Fred L. Roy as a nominating committee to select a field of ten members from which the new board of directors would be elected.

Rotarian James Juby expressed the regret of the club at the death of Melvin J. Hutchison, Past President of the Toronto Rotary Club, and former Peterborough resident, whose visit to the Peterborough Rotarians at the head of a Toronto delegation last year was recalled. A message of sympathy will be forwarded to the bereaved relatives.

Kiwanian Browne, who was introduced by President Dr. Moir, referred to the fact that there were two schools of psychology: the old, started by Aristotle many centuries ago; and the new, distinctly a product of the twentieth century. There were many theories in this new psychology, but the most interesting was that which had as its subject matter, behaviour and its method, experimentation. This was based on the theory that the behaviour of persons could be watched and checked up, thus enabling the reaching of conclusions on a scientific foundation. Such a plan might be thought to narrow the field, but as a matter of fact it was claimed that more progress had been made in psychology in the past 25 years than in the previous 2,000.

The behaviourists, the speaker said, did not believe in instinct in such qualities as curiosity, acquisitiveness, self-protection flight and the like. According to their theory these were all learned characteristics. To the educationist, Mr. Browne pointed out it did not matter a great deal whether these characteristics were learned or inherited.

Then the bahaviourists did not believe in the doctrine of formal discipline; they were not convinced that a pupil was helped in studying one subject by being taught another.

"The Department of Education," said the speaker, "is not entirely converted to the idea, but you can already see the effect of behaviourist propaganda in the curricula of the schools."

Such subjects as Latin and geometry, now highly thought of, would have to find some other excuse for remaining if the behaviourists were right in their views.

Again the behaviourists did not believe that right-handedness or left-handedness were innate. They had conducted numerous experiments to show that a child became right-handed or the reverse because of early training and environment.

The behaviourists likewise did not believe in mental life as separate from the physical; to them thinking was merely talking to one's self. They did not believe in such phrases as a "commanding personality." To them, personality was merely habit system.

There was no place in behaviourist psychology for memory; that was merely retaining a habit rather than remembering a fact, and the reason people recalled some things instantaneously was because they had over-learned those things.

The behaviourist did not believe in the importance of intellect, talent, capacity or special aptitude. Granted a certain physical inheritance all the rest was merely a matter of training and environment. They would not hear of the idea that a boy was a born mathematician; in fact, some behaviourists, notably Professor Watson, believed that by placing a child in the proper environment he could be developed along any particular line desired.

If this theory was true, the speaker said, a great before attention would have to be devoted to preschool education than was the case at present. He had given a good deal of attention to the behaviourist theories and had found some fitted in with his own experience as a teacher, and others were diametrically opposed.

Rotarian A. Mowat expressed the thanks of the Rotary Club to the speaker.

HAMILTON WINS 2 C.B.A. TITLES

Local Five-pin Bowlers Fail to Get in Money at Toronto Tournament.

SATURDAY'S RESULTS.

TORONTO, April 16.—Hamilton five pin bowlers were in the limelight on Saturday, the final day of the C.B.A. tournament at the Olympia alleys. Olympia No. 2 team from Hamilton rolled 3,694 to go into second place in the team event, while Colville and Wagner, also of Hamilton, won the doubles with 1664. The same pair also won the Western Ontario intercity tournament last week.

H. C. McKellar of Hamilton Victorias rolled 911 in the singles to take first place, while J. Walsh of Toronto won the grand aggregate.

A large gathering was on hand to witness the closing ceremonies in connection with the presentation of prizes. Everyone lauded the manner in which President George Grinyer conducted the situation. In a few well chosen remarks he thanked the bowlers in general and all those connected with the tournament for their support and co-operation without which success could not be attained. The winning team, that of Olympia No. 1, Toronto, consisted of Harry Cockrill, Jim Robinson, Bill Adams, Chas. Goodfellow and Eric Brooks (captain, was presented with the Brunswick - Balke - Callender Co. Trophy by Mr. Dalton Morrow, who represented the company.

DR. PRATT'S BED SCARRED BY FIRE

before him be excluded. A number left the room.

Constable Robert Wannell, Provincial Police officer at Perth, was then called. He said he went to 19 Daniel Street on Tuesday, January 2 last, to make an investigation into this case.

"Do you remember what the weather was like on the Sunday before?" asked Mr. Bell.

"Yes, it was sleeting," replied Constable Wannell.

"How do you know?"

"It was the only day this winter that the windshield wiper of my car could not work."

Witness said he went to Dr. Pratt's home on January 2 with Chief Bromley. The table in the kitchen was covered with bottles, the witness said, and there were a few broken glasses.

"Did you go upstairs?"

"Yes."

"Did Ellison Bradley point out anything to you?"

"Yes, the position where he said Miss McLean had lain."

Bedclothing Out On Ground.

Witness said he went into the room where the bedclothing had been burned. He said he saw some bedclothing outside the house and that it was frozen and imbedded in ice.

"Did you go into the front bedroom?"

"Yes."

"What did you see there?"

"It was a large room with a double bed and dresser in it. This room was Eva McLean's room.

Constable Wannell said he found none of the articles previously filed in court as exhibits on the couch in the hall. He said that maybe a sheet was there but none of the other articles. That was on January 2.

Besides the large frontroom there is another smaller room used as a storage room, said the witness. There were boxes in it containing papers, books, etc. The boxes had been opened.

Witness went into the room where the burned bed had been, where he said he observed four or five books and two suitcases.

The books were not wrapped in a parcel.

"Is there any of the books you could recognize?"

"Yes, the book on the top had a burn on it."

The Same Book.

A book was then produced in court and witness said it looked like the same book. He did not disturb the book but left it on the chair. The book was filed as an exhibit. The book was one that Mr. Dulmage secured from Mr. Bradley.

"What else did you see in that bedroom?"

"A telephone, burned bed and wash-stand."

"Did you see the two club bags later?" asked Mr. Bell.

"Yes, downstairs." replied witness.

"Was there anything taken out of them?"

"Yes, diaries by Inspector Hammond. That was on January 22nd."

"Did you look around for cigarettes?"

"Yes, but I did not find any. I later found a container with cigarette butts. That was in March."

"When you were there on the 2nd, did you see anything of teeth."

"No."

Witness said he took charge of the bed that was in Dr. Pratt's room.

At this point the bed was brought into court and set up. The springs with particles of cloth hanging to them were also produced.

Accused Unconcerned

A narrow carpet also found in the bedroom was brought into court and laid on the floor. Dr. Pratt showed no concern.

Witness said he found a large box of matches on the dresser and others on the floor.

Aside from the burns about the bed and door there was little evidence of fire in the room asserted Constable Wannell.

Cross examination was started by Mr. Smith.

In reply to a question by Mr. Smith witness said he saw three ginger ale bottles on the kitchen table at Dr. Pratt's home. He added that there were broken glasses.

"What room did you examine first?" asked Mr. Smith.

"The burned room upstairs," he said there were seven bottles in the room but later one was missing. Shown a photograph Constable Wannell pointed out where the missing bottle had been.

Witness said he discovered the bottle missing on January 22. There was a mark on the floor where the bottle had been, witness asserted. When the picture was taken there were only six bottles.

Here Mr. Smith showed the picture to the jury.

"Were there any pieces of cloth sticking on the doorjam when you examined it on Jan. ."

"Yes, about 12 to 14 inches from the floor."

Blueprint Produced.

Constable Wannell said the chair that the club bags were on was located about three feet inside the door to the left. The chair that the books were on was located near the other chair, he told the court. This was on January 2. At this point a blueprint was produced and Constable Wannell marked the location where he found the chairs.

"How many books were there on the chair?" asked Mr. Smith.

"Four or five," replied witness.

"When you examined the room, did you see this book?"

"No."

"Why did you examine the bed in Miss McLean's bedroom?"

"Because it was pointed out to me. I examined it to see if Miss McLean had been to bed the night of the fire."

"Did you notice a cover over the bed."

"There was a double sheet over the bed."

"What color was it?"

"Sort of white."

Witness said he turned down the corner of the sheet to see what was there. He did not examine the mattress at that time.

"All I found was a double sheet and a light blanket," said Constable Wannell "I did not look for any other bedding at that time."

He said he did not make a further examination of the bed on the 22nd.

Witness said he was in the room with Inspector Hammond

"On March 9," said witness, "I examined the bed clothing in Miss McLean's room, and found a dark quilt."

"This quilt was not on the bed when I examined it on the 22nd," he said.

Exhibiting a sheet, Mr. Smith asked witness if it was the one that was covering the mattress when he examined the bed.

"I could not say," replied the constable.

Cross-Examination then concluded and the court adjourned for ten minutes.

Inspector On Stand.

Inspector M. D. L. Hammond, Toronto, Ontario, criminal investigation branch, was called when court resumed after the recess. The Inspector received instructions to come to Smith's Falls to conduct an investigation into the case. He was examined by Mr. Bell.

He said he arrived in Smith's Falls on January 5.

"In the afternoon of January 6th I assisted Mr. Frankish at the post mortem at Marsh's undertaking parlors," said witness.

"That evening I got the services of Constable Wannell and Chief Bromley and others to assist in recovering the debris from outside Dr. Pratt's home."

"I got men to cut the ice from around the mattress and clothing and had the section carried away for examination. There was nothing left except a few small springs."

"We had it taken to the Town Hall for the purpose of having the ice thawed out. I am quite satisfied that the material had not been touched while it was thawing out.

After the thawing had been completed I found a section of a mattress, four pieces of sheets and a small portion of a patchwork quilt," asserted witness.

He said they were later taken to Toronto for examination by Dr. Frankish and Professor Rogers.

Articles Shown Court.

At this point Mr. Bell asked that the articles be brought into court and placed on the bed.

Witness said he had found brass eyelets on the floor where the burned bed had stood. There were 227 eyelets of the variety used for the purposes of ventilating the mattress found. Seventeen remained in the charred mattress witness declared.

"When did you go into the house?" asked Mr. Bell.

"The same evening. Chief Bromley came out and said Dr. Pratt wanted to see me. I went in and found the doctor in no condition to carry on a conversation. There was no conversation at that time, said witness.

"On January 19 I returned to Smith's Falls and placed Dr. Pratt under arrest.

"I went upstairs to where the fire had occurred. I observed the burned bed. There was no evidence of a struggle. A rug was lying on the floor between the bed and door."

"What examination did you make of any articles still in the room," asked Mr. Bell.

"Not very much at that time. I sat on the head of the stairs and made a sketch of the house."

Fire Only at Bed.

"Was there any indication of any fire in that room besides that on the bed?" asked Mr. Bell.

"No, there wasn't."

"Did you look?"

"Yes, I did."

"I got the eyelets on April 7th," said witness, in reply to a question from Mr. Bell.

Court adjourned at this point until 2.15 o'clock.

Dread Ossification Attacks Twin Girls

PHILADELPHIA, April 16.—(AP) —The dread ossification malady — which lays hold of its victims by gradually turning their muscles to stone-like hardness—was said by physicians today to have struck little Katherine and Margaret Maguire, 11-year-old twin-sisters.

Already the girls have developed a marked rigidity in their neck and shoulder muscles, and their arms are stiffening.

When physicians examined Katherine Haguire in 1931—at the time she first showed symptoms of muscle stiffness—they were inclined to the belief she suffered from arthritis. But, knowing arthritis did not strike victims so young, they probed further and diagnosed the symptoms as the ossification malady.

A few days ago, Margaret, showed signs of the same trouble. Hospital physicians and the family doctor, agreed on the belief she also is a victim of the disease.

World Sub-committee Suggests Manitoba No. 2 Price Be Lifted 5-10 Per Cent.

(By George Hambleton C.P. Staff Writer)

ROME, April 16 (CP Cable).—The World Wheat Conference, its main work over and ready for submission to the respective governments for action, plans to conclude tomorrow.

Behind the scenes to-day negotiations were under way to link up the export quota question with the new minimum price plan approved on Saturday. The Argentine is understood to be bargaining on acceptance of the minimum price plan in return for an increase in her quota under the London Pact.

The Russian export quota, not fixed in the London Agreement, also has to be determined. Expectations among the delegates are that an agreement on this point will be reached. The Russians are said to have shown a conciliatory attitude throughout the conference.

Among matters remaining to be cleared up by the conference is the question of denaturing quantities of wheat to render it unfit for human consumption. This is one of the methods whereby it is suggested governments of exporting nations can keep the internal price of wheat at least on a level with the minimum export price to be fixed

Spoil Grain for Bread

The idea before the Commission to-day was that a bushel of low-grade wheat be colored blue, then mixed with 19 uncolored bushels. The result is a mixture of five percent azure color which is useless for breadmaking but which, according to its advocates, has a peculiar appeal for poultry.

Meanwhile a list of suggested minimum export prices on the principal types of wheat enclosed in the expert committee's minimum price scheme was revealed to-day. The report does not fix prices itself; that is up to the committee suggested for London. The report is going forward to governments who are asked to make their stand known before the commission reassembles in London May 4.

These prices, it was pointed out, are only in the nature of suggestions. A sub-committee, meeting at London in May, will draft a final schedule.

Raise Manitoba Price

The commission expressed the belief it was not desirable to formulate a precise directive for the London sub-committee. However, it held the expert price of Manitoba No. 2 should be raised five or 10 percent and that the price of other types of wheat should be lifted in proportion to their present market prices in relation to Manitoba No. 2.

Canadian North No. 2, 24 shillings, 8 pence ($6.35) per quarter of 480 pounds;

Australian faq, 21 shillings, 10 pence ($5.62);

Argentine Rosafe, 18 shillings, 6 pence ($4.76);

United States white Pacific, 20 shillings, 8 pence ($5.32);

Soviet first quality, 18 shillings, 4 pence $4.71);

St. Paul's Church Filled To Capacity

Several were turned away last evening from St. Paul's Church when Rev. Dr. C. J. Rolls spoke on the subject: 'Is God's forgiveness real?' Discussing the subjetc from two angles: (1) the character of God and (2) the varied aspects of Divince forgiveness, he showed that the so-called contradictions of scripture were untrue, and that forgiveness met the varied experiences of humanity. Dealing with some of the conclusions of the scientist, he revealed that the Bible was not intended to be a book containing the latest information on scientific problems. It was the revelation of a forgiving God.

The choirs of the three co-operating churches were present, with St. Pauls choir rendering two anthems, and Rev. Sutcliffe singing a gospel solo.

Practical Service.

Commenting on the practical nature of the service rendered by the Red Cross Hostel, Mr. Bass remarked that probably thirty transients had been placed in permanent or temporary work in the city and district. The majority of the men had been placed with farmers, he said, although there were some of them who had secured a few days' work at their own trades.

All transients staying overnight at the hostel, it is interesting to note, were required to take a shower bath and have their underwear fumigated before going to bed. Facilities were also provided for the transients to do their own washing, while clean nightshirts were provided for each man.

Through the courtesy of W. Montgomery of 390 Water street, transients were allowed the privilege of free hair cuts throughout the season. Meals were provided by the American Hotel, Dick's Cafe, Mrs. W. H. Webb, Water street, Mrs. George Foster, Simcoe and Aylmer streets, and the Model Fish and Chip Cafe, Charlotte street.

Fell From Box Car.

With the opening of the hostel on December 6 last, records state, six transients stayed overnight. One of them, an 18 year old Jewish boy, arrived in from Belleville with a broken arm. He explained the injury by stating he had fallen from a box car at Port Hope.

The boy was advised to return to his mother in Toronto. After leaving the local hostel he returned some days later from Lindsay, with not only the fracture causing him some pain, but his fingers frozen into the bargain. After receiving medical attention from Dr. A. W. McPherson, it was decided that the boy should be allowed to remain at the hostel for a few days. Subsequently the boy received a long distance telephone call from Toronto, after which he was given a railway ticket that would take him home and his mother was wired the time of arrival of the train in the Queen City.

Records kept by Afred J. Bailey at this time states: "This was only made possible by the kind assistance of Mr. Glover, who wrote a cheque for transportation."

That the efforts of the Red Cross Society have been appreciated by the transients is reflected in an entry made by Mr. Bailey under date of Tuesday, January 9, in which he notes: "Received letter to-day from youth who went to road camp, expressing thanks for the assistance given him. He appears to be satisfined with his job."

Obituary

WILLIAM KINGDON.

TORONTO, April 16.— William Kingdon, nonagenarian citizen of Toronto, died at the home of his son, Arthur Kingdon, 119 Glenforest Road, in his 94th year. He was born at Taunton, Somerset, England, and on leaving school served an apprenticeship to a goldbeater in London, England. He then entered the service of the old East India Company and spent 11 years in India. He came to Canada in 1875, settling in Toronto, and became a pioneer in the decorative glass business. He was instrumental in establishing the first brilliant cut and sand blast glass works in the city. For many years he was a member of the Queen's Own Rifles and a bandsman. He retired about 30 years ago and was a widower. Surviving are five daughters, Mrs. H. B. Forster and Mrs. W. F. Buckland, both in England; Mrs. C. R Bromley, Ottawa; Mrs. Gilbert Pakenham, Peterborough; Ont., and Mrs. J. H. Jefferson, Toronto; four sons, Arthur and Sidney W. Kingdon, Toronto; Ernest and Fred Kingdon, in England; 31 grandchildren, and eight great-grandchildren.

MRS. FRED SHANNON

Mrs. Fred Shannon passed away Saturday evening at nine o'clock after a lingering illness. The news of her death came as a shock to her many friends. Her illness was not considered serious at first and almost before those near and dear to her could reach her bedside she passed peacefully away.

The deceased, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Simon was born in Peterborough and lived here all her life. She was a devout member of St. Peter's Cathedral, a member of the Catholic Women's League and the League of the Sacred Heart. She was an ideal wife and a loving mother, her heart was in her home.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband and one son, Fred Shannon, three brothers Dan and Dick Simons of New York City, James and two sisters Annie and Nell at home, another sister Miss Lillian Simon, R.N., passed away fifteen months ago.

The funeral will take place from the late residence, 545 Gilmour St. Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock to St. Peters Cathedral, thence to St. Peters cemetery.

CHARLES N. WELLINGTON.

MADOC, April 16.— (Examiner Correspondence.)—An old resident of Madoc, Charles Nelson Wellington, died at London, Ontario, on Wednesday, April 11, aged 77 years.

Mr. Wellington was born at Stirling on March 5, 1857 and at an early age came to Madoc with his parents. In 1882 he married Isabel Robertson of Madoc. About twenty-five years ago Mr. and Mrs. Wellington and family moved to Port Arthur, where they have resided since.

Mr. Wellington was a decorator by trade, a member of the United church and a staunch Liberal. He was always interested in all music, having organized and led the Madoc band for many years. After leaving Madoc he continued his interest in orchestral as well as band work.

Until two weeks ago Mr. Wellington enjoyed the best of health, when he suffered a stroke and his death came as a shock to his many friends and relatives.

The late Mr. Wellington leaves to mourn his loss, his widow, of Port Arthur, three daughters, Mrs. Geo. West, Madoc; Mrs. Harry Dulmage, London; Miss Margaret Wellington, New York, and two sons, Wesley, Port Arthur, and Alex of New York. One sister, Mrs. Margaret Weiss, of Detroit, also survives.

The body was brought to Madoc and service was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. West, Friday. Rev. G. W. Rivers, of Trinity United church, conducted the service. He was assisted by Rev. W. A. Hunter of St. Peter's Presbyterian church.

Messrs. G. B. Foote, W. J. Hill, F. Smith, W. Scrutton, G M Wright, F Curry, former associates of the deceased, acted as pallbearers Many beautiful floral tributes were received from relatives and friends. Interment was made in the Lakeview cemetery, Madoc.

The Markets

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, April 16. — Buying was not sufficient to absorb selling pressure on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange on Saturday and wheat prices reflected the easiness at Chicago with a downturn of ½ to ⅝ cent net.

Foreign demand was disappointing and the fact that progress toward price-fixing was made at the Rome Wheat Conference did not appear to have any effect.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 16. — Fresh downturns of grain prices on Saturday followed a renewal of liquidation by holders of the May delivery contracts.

Stop-loss selling of oats especially was an outstanding feature, with September oats tumbling to the bottommost figures since this season's trading in that delivery was begun. For the most part would-be purchasers of wheat and other grain futures adopted a waiting attitude pending clearer ideas as to probable developments at Washington about threatened restrictive measures affecting security and grain exchanges.

Wheat closed weak at almost the day's bottom level, ¾c to ⅞c under Friday's finish; corn, ½c to ⅝c down; oats, ⅞c to 1⅛c off; and provisions unchanged to a decline of 2 cents.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

Sharp declines in butter prices featured last weeks' trading on the Montreal Produce Market. The week ended with fresh Quebec or Ontario butter at 26¼c to 26½c, while finest New Zealand butter or Westerns brought 26½ to 27c. In the previous week, No. 1 sold as high as 31 cents a pound; the highest level in three years, and finished a week ago at 30 cents. Receipts totalled 7,326 boxes, compared with 5,518 boxes the preceding week.

The egg marekt checked the decline of the past few weeks to hold a steady tone. Graded shipments were 19 cents for A-large, 18 cents for A-medium, 17 cents for B and 16 cents for C, unchanged from a week ago. A total of 12,673 cases was offered for sale. The previous week receipts were 15,068 cases.

FIVE NATIONS REQUEST REAL SLASH IN ARMS

GENEVA, April 16—(A.P.) — An official demand for a real reduction of armaments as against stabilization at existing levels was filed with the League of Nations to-day by Sweden, Spain, Switzerland, Denmark and Norway.

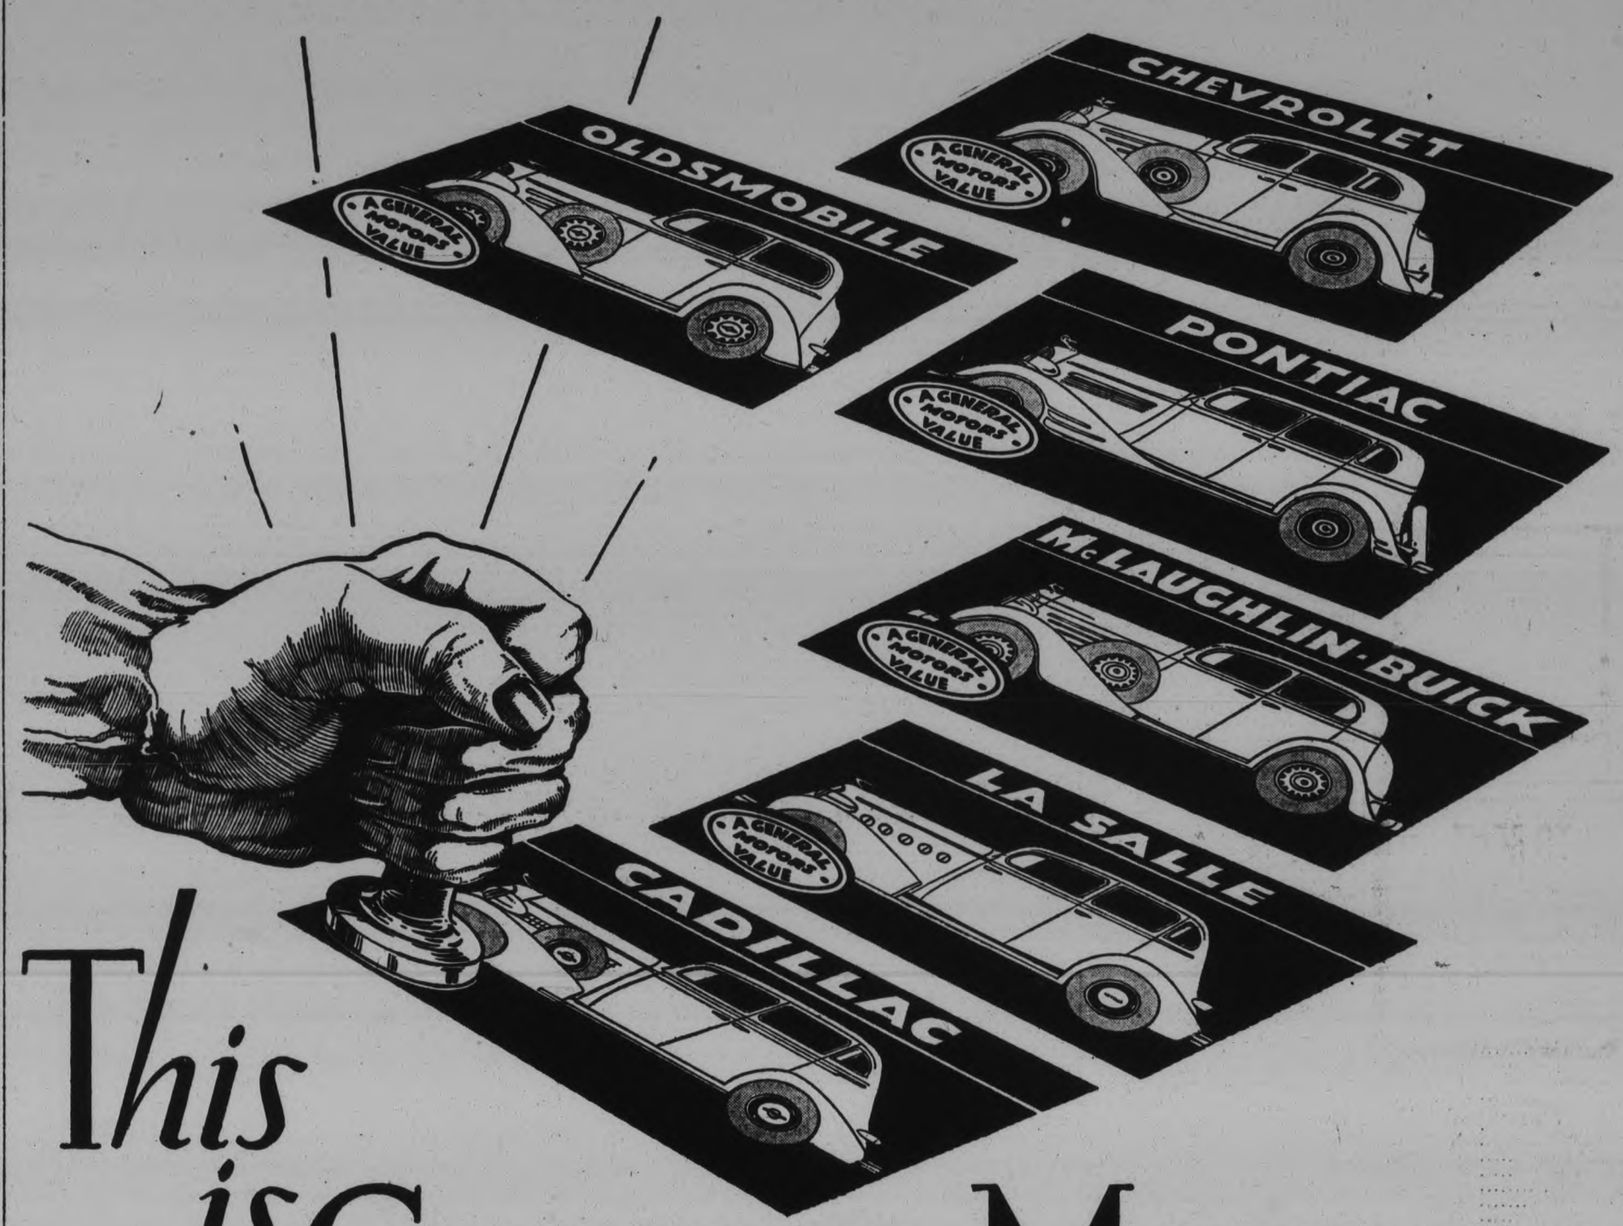
The nations insisted at the same time on definite guarantees of security against war.

The joint memorandum suggested there was danger in the rearmament of Germany on a large scale unless the powers made a real reduction in armaments.

Holland subscribed to the general tenor of the document although it was not one of the five signatories previously mentioned.

"AN EYE TO THE FUTURE - AN EAR TO THE GROUND"

—this describes General Motors' policy, a policy by which the public is given what it wants in better cars year after year, and yet is safely protected against ill-timed or dubious experiments



This is GENERAL MOTORS

SIX Canadian cars have captured the buying affections and loyalty of motorists in a fashion that no one can mistake. Chevrolet, Oldsmobile, Pontiac, McLaughlin-Buick, LaSalle, Cadillac. Each is a leader in its class. Each is a General Motors value.

Back of all these cars stands Canada's largest automotive organization, building into each, without favor, the same high quality and modern beauty. Their advancement is fostered by the unrivalled General Motors research laboratories and engineering corps. Their abilities are constantly tested on the great General Motors Proving Grounds. They are benefitted by the chain of General Motors Service that extends unbroken from end to end of Canada and on throughout the United States.

It isn't luck that gives unquestioned leadership to General Motors. This organization has too many friends—too deep a sense of responsibility to motorists—to make any experiment with finished models, or take any gamble on the customer's satisfaction.

What does guarantee the leadership of General Motors is the habit of checking the ideas and designs of our engineers against what the public wants. Months before production — through thousands of Customer Questionnaires—we invite motorists themselves to guide us in determining what they desire.

Looking at this public-minded attitude, you see why people have such confidence in anything that General Motors builds. They know they're dealing with a pioneer willing to listen as well as lead.

St. Alban's Mission Takes On New Life

St. Alban's Anglican Mission, held in the Orange Hall, Lansdowne street Brownton, is active again. In 1929 this mission was made a part of All Saints' Parish and recently has taken on a new lease of life with many activities underway.

This mission was founded in 1914 and services were held in homes in the district up to 1919, when the work was discontinued for a period of ten years when C. A. G. Spence went to Apsley as minister and a regular preacher was not available for the mission. Even before 1919 the mission had grown to such an extent that it was found necessary to hold the services in the Orange Hall. Under Rev. F. H. Gibbs the work of the mission was recommended in 1929. Miss Grace Tucker, now a missionary in Japan, did splendid service in maintaining the work of the Sunday School.

There are now 46 children attending Sunday School under the teaching staff of Mr. Rigby, Miss Alberta Hall, Miss Mary Edwards and Miss Evelyn Coleman, and the members of the mission are hopeful that soon the mission will have its own building.

In order to assist in the building fund members of the congregation and friends are now busily engaged in rehearsing for a pierrot show which will be presented shortly.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Satisfied With Two Wives But When Third Wished Upon Him Young Man Pulled Out

A young man of twenty-seven years, claiming to have two wives was probably one of the most interesting personalities among the cosmopolitan crowd of unemployed transients who sought temporary shelter at the Red Cross Hostel here during the season which ended today.

An Arabian by birth, a Mosiem by religion, Abdulla Marabout was immune to arrest for bigamy as he came of a nomadic Bedoin tride that practices polygamy.

Seven years ago Abdulla's shining domestic horizon was beclouded.

As if two wives wasn't enough for any one man, the tribe attempted to wish a third wife upon the hapless Abdulla.

Abdulla objecteed (and one can't blame him under the circumstances?), choosing voluntary exile in a strange new land, rather that accept additional marital responsibility.

He came to Canada, and now after seven years can speak fairly good English. He is a diamond setter by trade, and still apparently prefers the nomadic life. Or is he just one of the many victims of circumstance?

Who knows?

JEWS LAUNCH FUND CAMPAIGN

Canadian Organization Seeks $200,000 to Set Up 2,500 German Exiles.

IN PALESTINE.

Canadian Jewry to-day was embarked on its campaign for $200,000 to be used largely to establish in Palestine 2,500 young German-Jews. Inaugural banquets at Toronto and Montreal last night launched the campaign with a message from Prime Minister R. B. Bennett at Ottawa being delivered.

Under the auspices of the Zionist organization of Canada, the annual united Palestine appeal drew 1,000 to the Toronto banquet at which $15,000 was donated, and 600 to Montreal opening ceremonies where A. J. Freiman, Ottawa, president of the Zionist organization, was principal speaker.

Tragedy which has overtaken Jews in Europe, particularly under the Hitler Nazi regime in Germany, was the keynote of both gatherings. At Toronto Professor Alfona Goldschmidt, economist and scholar who has been exiled from Germany, declared Hitler's social and economic promises had failed to be realized but had inculcated hate. He estimated an unemployment increase in Germany of 2,000,000.

Lost Generation

Mr. Freiman characterized German-Jewish youth as "The Lost Generation of Nazi Germany." Children of noted Germans had been set adrift in a hostile world deprived of even the most elementary human rights by "the most degrading form of racial discrimination." It was hoped to establish these children in Palestine, where already 10,000 refugees had been placed under the settlement scheme of the Jewish Agency.

Recent political and social upheavals in Europe, Premier Bennett said, had uprooted thousands of Jews from their abiding places and they now found themselves practically homeless. "To a great many of these people Palestine," he said, "is indeed the only haven of refuge in which they may sojourn in peace and realize their age-old hopes and aspirations." Mr. Bennett paid tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Freiman for their work in all branches of philanthropic effort.

HARRY DETTMAN IS FINED $200.00

had something to say about the quality of the liquor exhibited in court. "At least there are no flies in it," the lawyer commented.

Constable Wood stated that he would be satisfied with the minimum penalty, but he added that there was no question that Dettman had been operating a still for a long time and had turned out large quantities of the potent beverage.

"How far does he live from Kinmount?" asked His Worship.

"About ten miles," answered the officer.

"I suppose some of his liquor has been sold in Kinmount?" further questioned the magistrate

"There's no doubt of it," was the reply.

His Worship spoke of the stories emanating from Kinmount of the debauching of young people in that district by bootleg liquor. "I'm not going to permit anyone to debauch our young people," he declared positively.

Mr. Carley urged that others besides his client had been supplying liquor to Kinmount residents.

"I want to warn you, Dettman, that if you appear before me again on a similar charge, you will get the highest penalty I can give you," concluded the magistrate.

ARRESTED FOR TORONTO POLICE.

ROBERT NAYLOR PASSES SUNDAY

Prominent Lindsay Resident Dies at Age of Seventy-seven Years.

FRED LONG SUCCUMBS.

(Special to The Examiner)

LINDSAY, April 16.—In the death of Robert Naylor at his late residence Sunday morning, the town lost one of its best known and most prominent citizens. The deceased was born at Valentia, Mariposa Township, seventy-seven years ago, being the son of the late Charles Naylor. He received his early education at the old Grammar School, Lindsay, and later graduated from the School of Pharmacy, Toronto. He conducted a drug store in that city for seven years, until his health failed him, when he came back to farm in his native township. About thirty-eight years ago he took up residence in Lindsay and was associated with the Rathbun Company, of Trenton, in the lumbering business. Later he purchased the Ingle Planing Mill, which he operated for a number of years. He was a member of the town council for three years and was also assessor. In fraternal circles he was a member of Faithful Brethren Lodge A. F. & A. M., and Court Lindsay, Canadian Order of Foresters. In religion he was a Presbyterian, and for a number of years was a member of the Board of Managers of the Presbyterian Church. He is survived by his wife, who was Mary Marshall, of Janetville; two sons, Stanley, of Toronto, Dr. Herbert, of Detroit, and one brother, Charles, of Aurora.

Another pioneer resident of Kinmount has passed away in the person of Frederick London, in his seventy-fifth year. The deceased was a native of Peterborough, his parents settling there from Germany. Later they moved to a farm seven miles north of Kinmount. About fourteen years ago the deceased retired from farming and took up residence in Kinmount. He is survived by his wife, three daughters and two sons.

The citizens of Kinmount have formed a Business Men's Association, with Dr. G. S. Harris as the first president. The object of the association is to build up and beautify the village, look after the tourist trade, and promote the spirit of civic pride. A committee was also appointed to wait on the government and urge the construction of a new dam on the Burnt River, which runs through the village. The old dam, which was built fifty-three years ago, was swept away by high water a few days ago. It was a wooden structure. In 1927 when the electric plant and grist mill was swept away in the spring flood, the old dam withstood the onslaught of rushing waters.

Since the announcement of a wage increase to workers in the construction camps, there has been a steady trek of unemployed to the camps in the northern part of Victoria and Haliburton. These men came from Toronto, Kitchener and other points in Western Ontario. They were under theimpression that all that was necessary in order to secure work was to present themselves at the camps and were sorely disappointed when informed that the camps were full and that no work could be given them.

The death took place at the Ross Memorial Hospital Sunday of a well-known resident of Verulam Township, in the person of John Elliott. The deceased resided southeast of the village of Dunsford. Two weeks ago he injured himself while assisting to remove a car from the Anglican church sheds in that village. A few days ago he was removed to the hospital. The deceased was born in Emily Township and was a son of late James Elliott. He was an ex-Reeve of Verulam, an ex-Warden of the County of Victoria; Past Master L.O.L. No. 96, Dunsford; Past County Master Victoria County Orange Lodge; Warden of St. John's Anglican Church, Dunsford; member of the Board of Managers Ross Memorial Hospital and county representative on the Board of Education. He is survived by his wife, one son, Earl, two brothers Hugh of Emily, and Alex of Dunsford; one sister, Mrs. W. Patrick, Emily.

Sweden's co-operative union increased its membership during the depression and 2,000,000 people now buy most of their goods from co-operative stores.

SEEK REDUCTION FIRE INSURANCE

Committee From City Council Interviews Canadian Fire Underwriters.

RATE IS TOO HIGH.

In an effort to secure a reduction in the fire insurance rates for the City of Peterborough, Alderman Malcolm McIntyre, chairman, along with other members of the Fire, Water and Light Committee and Fire Chief George Gimblett on Saturday interviewed officials of the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association in Toronto.

The committee, which also included Alderman Robert S. Cotton, Fred Tuggey, and James Ellis, received the assurance, according to Aledrman McIntyre, that the matter would receive serious consideration.

Peterborough, which is grouped in Class "C" has a fire insurance key rate of 50 cents per $100, which in the opinion of the Fire Chief should be reduced in view of the city's comparatively low fire losses, and the generally acknowledged efficiency of its fire fighting service and equipment.

Fire losses in Peterborough last year, the Chief stated, aggregated $48,243.29 and made very favorable comparison with fire losses in other cities in the Dominion of similar size.

The committee interview with the underwriters lasted for over two hours, when the question was fully discussed from various angles, it is learend. It was stated by insurance officials that Peterborough's average per capita fire losses during the past ten years amounted to $2.47.

FIRE IN SERVICE STATION

Oil which flooded over from an oil burning stove at Douglas Service Station 255 McDonnel street on Sunday afternoon, caught fire and necessitated the attendance of the City Fire Department. The brigade responded to the alarm at 2.11 p.m. and succeeded in getting the fire under control before any serious damage resulted.

This morning at 11.19 a.m. the department made a run to 485 Albert street to a chimney fire.

ment tax on cheap seats, but those who want a reduction in the taxes on gasoline and whisky were not so optimistic.

Milestone To Recovery.

"The prospective surplus," commented the Times, "will certainly be large enough to warrant description of the budget as the first milestone in the process of recovery.

"He may be confidently expected to follow as far as he can the principle that all classes who have contributed to this great achievement should be relieved. It would be silly to talk of an exact return of conditions of 1931 as the ideal because there were very many undesirable features in those conditions, corrected by the emergency measures.

"Nevertheless the principle of equality of reward following equality of sacrifice is broadly sound."

The largest surplus since 1923 has revived the war debt ghost and has led to criticism of the Government for "missing the psychological moment" for complete readjustment if not for cancellation.

"It will not be easy to convince the people of the United States," says the London Star, "that Britain, despite a budget surplus of $231,000,000 is actually not in a position indefinitely to continue payments.

"That surplus has been secured only by imposing almost intolerable burdens on all classes, burdens that cannot be continued merely in order that remittances may be sent with unfailing regularity across the Atlantic."

It is for the relief of these burdens that the public faces the morrow with an expectancy so optimistic that regardless of the demands the Chancellor meets he will be criticized unless all are met in full.

C.O.B.L. Refuses Oshawa Club Leave of Absence

EFFORT WILL BE MADE HAVE MOTOR CITY CLUB RETURN CENTRAL LOOP

Motion Passed No Central League Club Will be Allowed to Play Exhibition Games With Gibbard Team if They RefuseEntry

PRESIDENT TO APPOINT PLAY-OFF UMPS; MUCH BUSINESS DONE AT COBOURG MEET

The C.O.B.L. refused to grant Oshawa permission to play this summer in the Ulster Stadium Baseball League at a league meeting held in Cobourg Saturday. This and several other matters were settled by a large delegation. Peterborough, Belleville and Cobourg were the league teams represented, though the latter is not active in the C.O.B.L. this year. Kingston sent word that they were unable to attend but would abide by whatever transpired at this session. Messrs. Elliott and Gibbard of the O.B.A.A. phoned they could not attend.

With President Swanston in the chair, the minutes were read and Newt Thompson reported to the meeting as spokesman for the committee sent to the O.B.A.A. convention in Toronto April 6th and 7th. He pointed out that Oshawa had not been granted any leave of absence yet this year, as it was still up to the league, and not up to the members of the C.O.B.L. committee which had been sent up to talk the matter over and report back. He also stated that it was Kingston that had refused to guarantee Ulster League clubs more than they would pay C.O.B.L. clubs for an interlocking schedule this season.

Some discussion on making a better league of the Central loop took place, both Napanee and Oshawa receiving considerable attention. As a Belleville man pointed out a new angle to the Oshawa question—one not for publication till it is looked into—it was decided that Oshawa should not be granted a leave of absence this year to play in any other league but the Central League, and that Hugh Campbell of Peterborough and Ernie Rowsome of Belleville should visit Oshawa early this week and interview baseball men there with the proposition that the Oshawa club should play altogether in the C.O.B.L. this season. It was carried unanimously.

A motion was made and carried unanimously that if Napanee does not come into the C.O.B.L. this year, no Central League club be permitted to play exhibition games with Napanee. As it was pointed out, intermediate teams in that section refused to play with the strong Napanee team yet Napanee declined to step up to senior company.

It was moved and carried that each C.O.B.L. club hold back ten percent of the gross gate receipts of the season to form a pool out of which travelling expenses of the various teams would be taken at the close of the schedule. The schedule of the league is to be drawn up by Secretary Thompson and submitted to the clubs entered in a week's time, or whenever the entrants are definitely known. A motion was passed that not more than forty club passes be issued for any game, including the playoffs.

Prexy Appoint Umps

The question of umpires came up next, and it was decided that the appointment of umpires for all games, including playoffs, be left in the hands of President Swanston. The fees will be five dollars a single game, and eight dollars for two games in one day. The home team pays the fees and the visiting club pays the expenses of the umpire brought with it, who will be umpire-in-chief. The Spalding ball was adopted again this year, and the constitution of the league passed as it stood, the meeting then adjourned.

Training Trip Ends With Two Victories

GREENSBORO', N.C., April 16.—(C.P.).—Ike Boone hustled his Toronto Maple Leafs out of this city early last evening and headed straight for Albany to await the opening of the International season.

Playing in High Point yesterday afternoon with about 1,000 fans on hand, the Leafs won their second game in as many days from Greensboro, champions of the Piedmont League, by a 6 to 3 score. Saturday's game was 10 to 4 in favor of the Leafs.

OILERS TAKE HOCKEY SERIES

Goal by George Parsons With 81 Seconds to Play, Decides Issue With St. Mike's.

FINAL SCORE 5-4.

TORONTO, April 16.—Dazzling speed and all-round brilliant hockey predominated at Maple Leaf Gardens on Saturday night, as Cities Service Oilers outscored St. Michael's College juniors by 5 to 4 to capture the so-called city hockey championship series. The Mercantile champions had won the previous game, 6 to 3, while the first contest resulted in a 5-all overtime tie.

The result further demonstrated the difference between a high-class senior team and one of the greatest junior aggregations of all time. Experience played a leading part in the outcome of this series, which again stamped the battling Irish as a truly great age-limit team.

Witnessed by some 6 600 fans, the game was a wide-open battle of speed throughout, with the fighting Irish having a big edge in the territorial argument. Excitement was always at a high pitch, as the double-blue garden Students thrice came from behind to deadlock the count, only to see their rivals snatch victory with a brilliant goal with less than a minute and a half remaining to complete the game.

Parsons and Fowler Again

George Parsons, spearhead of many Cities Service victories this season, loomed up as the hero of the fray when he took dashing Jimmy Fowlers' perfect pass at the defense and whistled a low, hard drive into the net for the deciding marker.

Leafs Defeat Wings In Exhibition Tangle

WINNIPEG, April 16.—(CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs last night held a 12-8 victory over Detroit Red Wings as both National Hockey League teams rested before going into their second exhibition game here tonight.

A dozen goals were smacked behind Wilf Cude in the Detroit cage and eight beat George Hainsworth in the Toronto net in the first game here last night before 5,500 fans, many of them seeing their first pro. game. Detroit held a 2-1 lead at the end of the first period, but the Leafs reversed it to 9-6 at the end of the second and outscored the Wingers 3-2 in the final period.

CONSIDER THIRTEEN LUCKY

ST. THOMAS, April 16.—(Special)—From Port Stanley comes a Friday-the-thirteenth story today. The thirteenth annual meeting of the Port Stanley Bowling Club was held in the Community Hall on Friday evening, April 13, with thirteen members in attendance. Reeve Ezra Fahner of Port Stanley was elected President for the ensuing year. He declared thirteen to be his lucky number. He acquired his lumber business in Port Stanley on the thirteenth day of the month. J. A. Quinn was elected General Secretary of the Club, H. L. Fraser, Weekly Tournament Secretary and A. H. Ney Treasurer.

WATCH LEFT ARM ACTION, GAUGES BACKSWING LENGTH

By ALEX J. MORRISON

No one can tell you exactly how far back your should take the club in playing any shot.

Furthermore, the distance the club travels away from the ball doesn't matter so much as the manner in which it is taken back. For example, one player could take the club back just as far as another but it would remain for the efficiency of their movements to determine the amount of power they would develop in their downswings.

Obviously no two players would develop the same amount of power from the same length of backswing. This makes the distance the club travels away from the ball almost secondary. The most important thing is the method of taking it back.

"But," you may insist, "I want to have some gauge on how hard to hit the ball in order to send it a certain distance."

Ah, that's more sensible! The amount of force with which you'll strike the ball mainly depends upon the correctness of your back-swing. Now everyone knows that the fully extended left arm is a necessary part of the correct backswing. Simply take the movement of this arm as a gauge of the length of your backswing. Observe the distance you take this arm behind the ball. By so doing you will not only get a pretty accurate line on the length of backswing you need for a certain shot, but you will also be doing something that will greatly improve your whole swing and thereby make possible better scores. Note the action of the left arm in the illustration. Practice it!

CANUCK GIRLS CAPTURE THREE TRACK EVENTS

Toronto Lauriel A.C. Athletes Give Brilliant Display at Brooklyn Meet.

SHATTER RECORDS.

Stella Walsh of Poland Lowers Own World Mark in the 200 Metre Event.

BROOKLYN, April 16.—A group of Canadian girl athletes, having concluded one of the most successful attacks of Dominion lassies on United States Amateur Athletic Union championships, rode merrily homeward last night.

In their kitbags they had tucked away medals emblematic of the United States 400-yard relay title, 50-metre hurdles, and the 50-metre run for novices.

The girls from over the border, sporting the colors of the Laurel A.C. of Toronto, shone brightly in Saturday night's championship meet that saw two world records shattered as some 2,000 hardy track and field fans roared their approval. Besides their first-place medals, the Canadians carried home second-place awards in the 50-metre dash and team competition.

Stella Walsh, Poland's powerful Olympic sprint champion, who is rated the fastest woman runner in the world, lowered her own 200-metre record of 26.2 by 2-10 seconds. Yena McDonald of Boston, a member of the United States Olympic team of 1928, tossed the eight-pound shot 40 feet 11 inches to shatter her own best previous mark of 39 feet 3⅝ inches.

Laurels Provide Thrills.

However, it was the little band from Ontario's Queen City that furnished the competitive thrills.

Little Mildred Fizzell provided Miss Walsh with rousing opposition in the fifty metres. The Polish girl won in the last few strides, but only by a scant yard in seven seconds flat. Louise Stokes of Malden, Mass., was third.

Mrs. Edna Roxy Atkins kept the Maple Leaf to the fore when she nosed out Evelyn Hall of Chicago to win the 50-metre hurdles in 8.2 seconds, 6.10 seconds over Miss Hall's world mark. Leora Johnson, Chicago, was third.

Gwen Hughes followed this up by a great closing sprint to win the novices' dash in seven seconds flat, the time being identical to that of Miss Walsh in the regulation 50. Evelyn Stokel of Paterson, N.J., finished second to Miss Hughes, while Miss Connors of New York was third.

ASSUMPTION COLLEGE BEATEN BY QUEBEC CHAMPS ON ROUND NATIONALES TO MEET HALIFAX

Windsor Teams Capture Men's and Women's Intermediate Cage Titles.

PLAYOFFS IN WEST.

Toronto Broadview Defeats Canadian Pacific A.A.A.M. for Junior Honors.

(By The Canadian Press)

The Nationales of Montreal, whose two-straight triumphs over the favored Assumption College team of Windsor has boosted the stock of the Quebec champions to a new high, will try another hurdle to-night in the race for the Canadian senior basketball title. They start a best-out-of-three series against Dalhousie University at Halifax.

This is one Dominion semi-final series. The other stars to-morrow night at Winnipeg between Vancouver province, champions of the far west and Winnipeg Robertson Memorials, Manitoba title-holders. The Vancouver team reached the western final by downing Raymond, Alta., Union Jacks in two straight games.

Takes Double Honors

Windsor, whose senior challengers faltered in their first inter-provincial engagement, gathered in two more Ontario championships Saturday night. The Border cities Y.W.C.A. team captured the provincial women's intermediate title by defeating Toronto Parkdales 59-54 on the two-game round, despite the fact they were beaten 29-24 Saturday night.

Win at Kingston

Playing at Kingston, the Windsor Y.M.C.A. Arrows won the men's intermediate crown. They were beaten in the second game of the final series by Kingston 'Y' 223 21 but their lead from the first game enabled them to triumph on the round by 61-51.

These wins brought to four the number of Ontario basketball championships won by Windsor this season. Both senior titles were taken to the border, Assumption College winning in the men's division and the Windsor Alumnae team dethroning Toronto Ladies.

Toronto Broadview Y.M.C.A. won the Dominion junior championship at Montreal, defeating the Canadian Pacific A.A.A.M. team of Montreal for the second straight time. The score Saturday night was 31-30 and the round score was 68-53.

In the first game of the Ontario juvenile final series at Woodstock, Toronto St. Andrews downed Woodstock 31-22 to become favorites to capture the two-game, total-points round.

To-night at Montreal the Dominion semi-final intermediate series between Saint John Trumps, Maritime champions and Montreal Y.M.H.A. opens, with the second game Tuesday. Winners play Windsor Arrows for the national crown.

FORM INTERMEDIATE GROUP

LONDON, Ont., April 16. (CP)—It was announced here last night that a meeting to form a district O.B.A.A. intermediate group will be held next Saturday. Delegates are expected from Aylmer, Ingersoll, Tillsonburg and this city. Last summer's grouping had two London teams linked with Aylmer and St. Thomas, Ingersoll spent last season in Intercounty intermediate ranks and Tillsonburg was in the Tricounty independent circuit.

"Y" LEADERS OUTPOINTED BY TORONTO TEAM

West End Members Take Possession of Ontario Leaders' Corps 'Gym' Cup.

176 POINTS TO 137.

A trim team of acrobats representing the Leaders' Corps of the West End Y.M.C.A. of Toronto outpointed a strong Peterborough team and won possession of the Ontario Leaders' Corps gymnastic trophy at the Y.M.C.A. Saturday evening. In competition on the horizonal bar, the parallel bars and the side horse, the Toronto men totalled 176 points to Peterborough's 137.

Only the two corps entered the tournament this year, but some high-class apparatus work was displayed by the local team as well as the West End winners. The St. Catharines' corps, which has held the cup for the past three years, had no delegation present. The outstanding event of the annual convention gymnasium exhibition of the Leaders' Corps of the Province, the competition, was witnessed by a well-filled gallery.

The visiting team gained its greatest lead on the side horse, scoring 54 points against Peterborough's 37. On the horizontal bar they secured 57 points to their opponents' 43, and on the parallel bars the count was 66 to 57. The West End team consisted of Walter Ferris, Walker Wiley, W. Johnston and Fred Butler. Hec McLead, retiring president of the Ontario Leaders' Corps; Ronald Howarth, Carlos Routley and Newton Hamilton represented Peterborough.

Judges were H. B. Cowan and Harvey Bamforth of Peterborough, and J. Gabrielson of Toronto.

Tumbling Exhibition

A swiftly-moving exhibition of tumbling during the program won the oTronto Central corps the annual banner for the best demonstration of the gymnastic meet. Four nimble young men amazed the spectators with a wide variety of acrobatic rolls, dives, flips and cartwheels which bespoke years of conscientious training. The display ended as one of the troupe made a breath-taking dive to the mat over six of his comrades on their hands and knees.

Robert Bonney of Toronto, former Dominion gymnastic champion and at one time a gymnastic representative at the Olympics, joined with Jack McLead and Leslie Hall ,also of Toronto, to provide exhibitions on both the horizontal bar and the parallel bars during the evening. Their finished skill won repeated applause. Directed by Fred Hicken, the Galt corps staged an unusual exhibition of Danish gymnastics which won them the second place banner of the event. The West End corps contributed a spectacular dumbbell drill and a flying ring demonstration. For the dumbbell drill, the dumbbells had been converted to flaming torches and the gymnasium was placed in darkness during the stunt.

Plenty of comedy was provided by Carlos (Tiger) Routly and Frank (Bad Man) Leahy as they put on a burlesque of pro wrestling. The take-off was complete to the last grunt, not even the murderous attack of the referee after the final gong being omitted.

DUTY ON ROSES 15 CENTS

OTTAWA, April 14. (CP).—The value for duty of rose bushes, excepting dwarf Polyanthas and rose stocks for budding and grafting, has been fixed at 15 cents, it is announced by the Department of National Revenue. The valuation was fixed formerly at 20 cents. The 15 cents valuation applies to importations on and after April 12.

RANGERS START SPRING TRAINING

Commanding Officer Aims to Make Unit One of Most Efficient in District.

250 STRONG

The Peterborough Rangers have embarked upon another training season with an approximate strength according to Lieut.-Colonel G. G. Winterbottom, M.C., D.C.M., Officer Commanding, of 250 officers, N.C.O.'s and men.

His ambition Colonel Winterbottom stated was to make the battalion not only one of the most efficient units in Military District No. 3, but also an organization in which young men might find congenial and healthful recreation.

"We have facilities for recreation at the Armouries", he pointed out, "that are not fully appreciated as yet by the citizens in general. We have company and battalion socials, as well as the valuable training of a military character, including rifle shooting and drill."

"We aim," he continued, "to give the young men of the city a definite place to enjoy their spare time and at the same time discipline them sufficiently to make them more useful citizens."

While most of the officers of the unit saw active service during the Great War, the opening of the new season has seen the addition of several new junior officers.

On Friday evening next the Rangers are holding their annual dinner, in the Armouries, at which the guest speaker is to be Major General the Hon. William Griesbach of Edmonton.

A full schedule of activities for the regiment during the present season has already been drawn up and approved by Brigadier W. B. Anderson, C.M.G., D.S.O., Officer Commanding Military District No. 3.

Early in the present season there is to be a route march of the unit through the city, while in June the annual inspection and church parade of the unit is to be held.

The regimental picnic will be held in July, when it is probable that the Rangers will go to Midland.

Enthusiasm which the men are putting into their work was reflected in the opening night, in the large attendance at the drill parade.

ORILLIA GIRLS WIN

ORILLIA, April 16.—An Orillia girls' basketball team Saturday night defeated a team from North Toronto Collegiate 35-27. A rally by the Toronto girls failed to overcome the lead the Orillia players piled up in the first half.

Keen Competition Badminton Finals

Keen competition featured the finals in the championship playdowns of the Garrison Badminton Club. The games were played at the armouries Saturday evening and were watched by an enthusiastic crowd.

Results were:

Men's doubles championship — Lieut.-Col. C. H. Stuart and C. M. Rishor defeated Capt. R. J. Bolton and Capt. H. A. Craig, 10-15, 15-10, 15-8.

Ladies' doubles championship — Misses F. Adams and M. Morphet defeated Mrs. R. J. Bolton and Miss F. Hewitt, 15-7, 15-4.

Men's singles championship—Capt. H. A. Craig defeated Capt. R. J. Bolton, 15-4, 15-11.

Ladies' singles championship — Miss F. Hewitt defeated Mrs. C. M. Rishor, 11-2, 11-2.

Mixed doubles championship — Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Rishor defeated Miss F. Adams and Capt. R. J. Bolton, 15-13, 14-17, 15-8.

Ladies' singles consolation—Mrs. J. C. Green and Mrs. D. K. Anderson defeated Mrs. H. K. Clifton and Mrs. E. E. Nicholls, 15-9, 17-14.

Men's singles consolation— D. K. Anderson defeated W. Jackson 17-15, 15-12.

CANADIAN RUNNER FAVORED TO WIN BOSTON MARATHON

Dave Komonen, "Phantom Finn," Gets Call to Take Historic Race—Canadians Hold Record and Have Won Race Eight Times.

(By W. M. Gladish, Central Press Canadian Sports Writer.)

TORONTO, April 16 — Again this year many Canadian runners are pointed for the Boston Marathon classic, the first big international road race of the season, which is scheduled to be held over the brutal course from Hopkinton to Boston, a distance of 26 miles 385 yards, on April 19. Upwards of 20 Canadian gallopers from Ontario, Quebec, and the Maritimes will face the starter and there is every expectation that the Canucks will uphold the splendid traditions of their "fore-runners" and maintain the brilliant record by competitors from the Dominion in the gruelling grind.

Since 1900, when Jim Caffrey, of Hamilton staggered over the line a winner, there have been no less than eight occasions when the Boston victor was provided by the land of the Maple Leaf.

In every Boston Marathon for the past 10 years Canada has had from one to four finishers in the first 10 prize-winners—last year proved to be the climax in this connection when Canada's contestants in the honor group were: 2, Dave Komonen; 3, Richard Wilding; 4 Harold Webster, and 7, Walter Hornby, two each from Toronto and Hamilton.

Last year there were 33 entries from all parts of Eastern Canada in a field of 253 competitors, representing several countries, and the contest proved so fierce and the weather conditions so wilting that only 32 runners completed the course in the official three hours — and nine of the finishers were Canadians.

Tom Longboat, famous Canadian Indian runner, established a record of 2.24.24 for the Boston grind in 1907 and this stood for years until the course was changed. And the record for the present route is now held by a Canadian, John C. Miles, of Sydney Mines, N.S., who covered the full Marathon distance in 2.33.8 4-5 in 1929, when he competed in the colors of the Hamilton Olympic Club.

The team prize of the Boston Marathon has also been won by Canada, the occasion being the 1931 event when three members of the Monarch A.C. of Toronto, headed by Percy Wyer, who finished 5th, crossed the tape in front of all other teams.

Won Eight Times.

The records show that the Boston Marathon has been won by the following Canadians: 1900, J. J Caffrey, Hamilton; 1901, J. J. Caffrey, Hamilton; 1907, Tom Longboat, of Toronto; 1910, Fred Cameron, Amherst, N.S.; 1914, James Duffy Hamilton; 1915 Edouard Fabre, Montreal; 1926, John C. Miles, Sydney Mines, N.S., 1929, John C. Miles, Hamilton. This list, incidentally, shows that Caffrey and Miles have been double winners of the historic contest.

Dave Komonen, who is now a resident of Sudbury, Ontario, is sure to go to the post a favorite for the 1934 laurels, but anything is likely to happen in a long-distance contest in which a horde of aspirants set out to run each other into the pavement. By virtue of his 16-mile win in Toronto on Good Friday, Lloyd Longman, of Toronto, is favored to give a good account of himself. There are other good Canadians, including Percy Wyer, the 98-pound veteran of the Toronto Monarchs, who are primed for a good race.

The Boston winner of 1934 was Leslie Pawson, of Pawtucket, R.I., who played the wise trick of following the pace of the leading Canadians during the early stages of the race, and then pulled away to win.

Barney Ross Says He Can Lick Jimmy McLarnin, Hence the Fight

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copyright by Central Press Canadian.)

NEW YORK, April 16.—The true story of the making of the McLarnin-Ross match, most talked of incident in the sport world to-day, is of interest to all of us.

The managers of Barney Ross, the lightweight champion, were hesitating about putting their boy against the great little puncher from British Columbia. It looked as if the match might not be made when Ross, arriving in New York suddenly and unheralded, heard of their hesitation. He sent word to his managers at once.

Beaten Before They Started.

"Don't let that match get away from you," he said. "I want it. Nothing must prevent it. I know I can beat him. Make the match as quickly as possible."

The match was made.

This incident reflects Ross' psychological attitude.

Experienced fistic followers will tell you that psychology has a lot to do with the result of ring contests.

As this writer has said, most of McLarnin's opponents in the past have been licked before they entered the rink with Jimmy. Their imagination defeated them. They thought only of what he might do to them.

Ross is thinking of what he will do to McLarnin.

This little Jewish warrior is supremely confident when he orders the match himself. This is the stuff of all-time champions.

Old Pop Foster, cleverest, and most patient fight manager this writer has ever encountered, announces that his great little fighter, Jimmy McLarnin, is to train at Atlantic City for the milk fund fight with Barney Ross on May 28.

NEW FACES TO ATTRACT FANS IN MAJOR BALL

Strengthening of Red Sox and Cincinnati New Deal Balances Leagues.

NEW BALL IN NATIONAL.

Five Clubs Will Start Off 1934 Season Under Different Management.

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr., A.P. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, April 16 (A.P.)—Sixteen major league clubs, all of them enveloped in a brand new aura of optimism, will give the 1934 baseball season its big sendoff tomorrow, following to-day's preview at Washington, which brings together the Senators and the Boston Red Sox.

On every side only cheerful words are heard about the year's prospects. Players of a dozen clubs say to look for them in the World Series; less exuberant managers predict they will be at last close to the top; club owners already have their ears cocked to hear the turnstiles clicking at a merrier rate, and it's a faint-hearted fan who won't claim the pennant, world championship and everything in sight for his favorite club.

Close Races in Two Leagues

The pennant races in both leagues figure to be close. The swaps and purchases of the busy off-season bring a lot of new faces to attract the fans. The further strengthening of the Red Sox and the new deal at Cincinnati under the ownership of Powel Crossley Jr., figure to bring better balance in the standings, while the first Sunday baseball in Pennsylvania may help the Philadelphia and Uittsburgh clubs recoup their losses of recent years. National League magnates hope the new ball and increased slugging will attract more fans to their parks.

Under New Managment . .

Five teams approach the season under new management. In the American League, Mickey Cochrane is expected to lift Detroit's Tigers into a contending position and Bucky Harris guides the Red Sox. Casey Stengel of Brooklyn, Jimmy Wilson of Philadelphia, and Bob O'Farrell of Cincinnati are the National League's new pilots.

The 1933 pennant winners, the New York Giants and Washington Senators, have been installed as pre-season favorites to repeat, but recently the New York Yankees have gained an even rating with the Senators in the American League betting odds with Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit not far behind.

The world champion Giants have maintained their place as favorites despite their poor showing in exhibition games, the fact that they must open the campaign with Gus Mancuso and Hughey Critz still on the sidelines and with their hitting and pitching both below par.

MRS. LEONARD TO HEAD CLUB

Elected President at Annual Wind-up of Lakefield Ladies' Curling Club.

SATISFACTORY SEASON.

LAKEFIELD, April 16. (Examiner Correspondence).—The Ladie's Curling Club wound up their season with a social evening which took the form of a progressive euchre held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George N. Spence. Seven tables were played and the evening passed all too quickly. Prizes were won by Mrs G. E. Renwick and G. H. Spence and the consolation prizes by Miss Graham and Robert Spence.

After the serving of refreshments the ladies held their annual meeting and elected officers for 1934-35. The report of the secretary-treasurer showed a satisfactory condition which was highly gratifying at the end of the first season. The officers were all re-elected as follows: President, Mrs. Leonard; vice president, Mrs. H. E. Moore; secretary-treasurer, Miss Elsie Kidd; executive committee, Mrs. D. H. Charlton, Mrs. Fred Wannamaker, Miss Clarice Kidd.

In the absence of Mrs. Leonard, the president, Mrs. Moore took the chair for the election of officers. A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. and Mrs. Spence for the use of their home for the evening which had afforded so much pleasure to everyone.

DAY BY DAY

By C. J. P.

Button, button, who's got the button? That used to be a popular parlor game, and somehow we're reminded of it a lot lately. Only we substitute the word "Oshawa" for "button." This unusually contentious question as to where Oshawa will play senior ball this year has everyone connected with the case going around with that dazed looked common in people with severe headaches, drunkards, and men on the eve of marriage. We've explained the entire situation several times and we're darned if we'll do it again. Those who are interested know what's been going on, and those who aren't interested can return to their knitting and skip this latest dope.

• • • • • • •

Just when we thought the case was pretty well settled—even though unsatisfactorily from this league's point of view—the whole matter was turned upside down again Saturday. The C.O.B.L. met that day in Cobourg, with some twenty baseball men present from Peterborough, Belleville and Cobourg. Kingston phoned and said they couldn't make it but would abide by the rulings made at the meeting. Well, while various points came up, were discussed and either passed or rejected, the most interesting item dealt with Oshawa. Where would Oshawa play this year?

• • • • • • •

Newt Thompson of Belleville, speaking for the committee which had met the O.B.A.A. and the Ulster League on this point the week before in Toronto, told Saturday's gathering that the question was not settled yet. The committee had made the agreement to give Oshawa a year's leave of absence to play in the Ulster Loop with the Dukes also playing double-headers in the C.O.B.L. towns, but the agreement made was pending the approval of the Central League. In other words, the Central League committee hadn't the final say, but had to report their dealings back to the whole loop executive and get 'em okayed or turned down. Now, Oshawa thinks it's settled and so does the Ulster League. But the C.O.B.L. says, most decidedly, that it was not settled. And the C.O.B.L. has the backing of the O.B.A.A. over Oshawa on territorial rights.

• • • • • • •

Well, here's what they did regarding it Saturday: A motion was passed unanimously that the league does not grant Oshawa permission to play in any other league than the C.O.B.L. this year. That means—if this circuit can make it stick—that Oshawa must play all their games this summer in the Central League. The Ulster League and the T.A.B.A. can go dig up another team. The reason for the sudden decision must be kept on the Q.T. for a few more days. A new development came up making it look quite possible that the Dukes would be willing to toss aside that Toronto league and return to the C.O.B.L. as a full-time playing team. Hugh Campbell of Peterborough and Ernie Rowesome of Belleville were delegated to go to Oshawa early this week and thresh the matter out. The press was asked not to mention this new development until it had been tried out. We should know shortly what happens. This re-opening of the case will be quite a bombshell in a lot of quarters, but you've got to give the C.O.B.L. officers credit for battling for their rights.

• • • • • • •

R. A. Elliott of the O.B.A.A. phoned in a suggestion, but it's not necessary to go into that until this new angle is looked into. As for Napanee, the league feels that Napanee should step up to senior and passed a motion that if the team does not, then no Central League teams be allowed to play exhibition games with Napanee this year. A ten percent gross gate receipts pool will be divided up with the teams at the end of the schedule to cover travelling expenses. Umpires' wages were increased and other points passed before adjournment. One significant remark was made—but no mention was made by anyone present of breaking away from the O.B.A.A. —when the president asked what would happen if it again proved impossible to get Oshawa back in this league's regular schedule this year. A Peterborough man replied: "Well, we'll either have to dig up a new team in Oshawa then, or else drop out of the game for the season ourselves." And no one disagreed with him.

• • • • • • •

Quite a few folks lined the gallery at the 'Y' Saturday evening and watched some nifty gymnastics, it being the annual Ontario Leaders' Corps' gym championships. West End 'Y' of Toronto defeated the Peterborough team—made up of Hec McLeod, Ron Howarth, Carlos Routley and Newt Hamilton—by 176 points to 137. The work shown by various athletes was amazing, and a feature was the skillful action dished up by Robert Bonney, who is over fifty years old and a former Dominion champion and Olympic competitor. Frank Leahy and Carlos Routley staged another burlesque of pro rasslin' which went over big. All in all, 'twas a smart show throughout.

• • • • • • •

Down in Belleville the other day, a Peterborough 'Y' volleyball team took four games out of five from the Belleville 'Y'—both of which teams will compete in the provincial tournament in Toronto in the near future. The local lineup consisted of: Russ Kitchen, Cliff Cadd, Don Crawford, C. Richardson, H. B. Rhodes, Stan Payne and A. E. Dryland. With the Peterborough team on this trip were A. Fitzgerald, R. Payne, Doug Loomis and Bill Loomis.

• • • • • • •

Regarding softball, the Lindsay Post says: "The fans around Downeyville, Reaboro, and Omemee take their mushball seriously and support their teams almost 100 percent. It is believed that if Lindsay could hook up in a league of this nature, it would prove not only interesting, but profitable . . . . A cup could be placed up for competition and in between times exhibition games rolled in with Greenhurst, Bobcaygeon, Peterborough, etc. . . . . Peterborough is loathe to see their Lindsay rivals (Smith-Baldwins) drop out of the provincial circuit, and will try to persuade them to stay in the running."

• • • • • • •

Grab-bag: Local ball men who attended the meeting in Cobourg Sat'day includeed: Max Swanston and Vic Hamilton of the C.O.B.L.; and Hugh Campbell, Vern Dawson, Cyril Giroux, Pete Lang and Knotty Lee of the ball club . . . . But not a single O.B.A.A. man showed up, although three were invited . . . . 'Tis rumored Belleville plans on bringing in an outside ball coach this season . . . . Girls' Softball, City Baseball, and East Peterborough leagues will likely all meet here this week . . . . The Oshawa sportswriter called us this a.m. to find out what happened in Cobourg Sat'day and when told said: "For gosh sakes, do we have to go through all that again?" . . . . A good big man is better than a good little man, and even the great St. Mike's junior puck team knows this now—since they didn't win a game in three from Toronto Cities Service . . . . N. Thompson of Belleville said in Cobourg that Belleville would have guaranteed the Ulster loop "up to $50 more", but he didn't tell them that in Toronto . . . . A soccer meeting will be held tonight at eight in the Chamber of Commerce.

FAMOUS SCOTCH PRO SUCCUMBS TO ILLNESS

ST. ANDREW'S Scotland, April 16. (AP).—Andrew Kirkaldy, famous royal and ancient golf club professional at St. Andrew's died to-day.

Kirkaldy, known widely as the dean of professional golf, was ill only a fortnight.

He is surived by his widow, a son and three daughters.

A famous character throughout the golfing, Kirkaldy in recent years confined his official duties to sit in an arm chair on the 18th green.

At great events, however, such as championships and the Walker Cup matches he would edge up as close to the putters as possible at the 18th, always with encouraging words for the players.

SENATORS AND RED SOX OPEN SEASON TODAY

25,000 Fans Expected to See President Roosevelt Toss the First Ball.

THREAT OF SHOWERS.

Earl Whitehill and Bob Weiland (Red Sox) Will Start Opening Festivities.

(By Edward J. Neill, A.P. Sports Writer)

WASHINGTON, April 16 A.P.)—The first section of baseball's major league limited pulls out of the American League yards to-day on the long 1934 run, with the Washington Senators, as befits champions, in the drivers' seats; the Boston Red Sox belligerent passengers, and President Roosevelt the chief guest of honor in the observation car.

It's an old baseball custom, this dispatching of the pennant train in two sections every other year, so that here in the Capital of United States may be concentrated for one day all the pomp and ceremony of an inauguration.

Tomorrow the remainder of the American League clubs, and all eight of the National League teams, take up the pursuit race that will roar through the Summer months down to another world series climax in the Fall.

Even though there was a threat of showers to mar the festivities, a crowd of between 20,000 and 25,000 was expected to see Earl Whitehill, the left-handed veteran who alone stopped the New York Giants, in the Fall world series, attempt to start the Senators on another winning way after the customary march of players and officials to the flag pole, the usual Presidential wild pitch of the first ball, and the general photographing and visiting around of baseball dignitaries, headed by the league president, William Harridge.

In the normal course of events, the Senators expected to face another great left hander to-day, Robert Moses Grove, but the head man in the Boston rejuvenation is still suffering from a quaint ailment, a toothache in his pitching arm. Another southpaw, Bob Weiland, probably will sub for him, with Rick Ferrell catching him.

New Lineup With Sox

The Red Sox are practically unrecognizable as such. Julius Solters, a big rookie, and Carl Reynolds have joined Roy Johnson in the outfield with old Joe Judge, who once helped the Sox' new manager, Bucky Harris, win pennants here, at first base; Max Bishop from the "A's" at second, Bill Werber at short, and Buck Walters, third.

At the Theatres

AT THE CAPITOL.

"BUY EMPIRE GOODS"

H.R.H. The Prince of Wales is the leading exponent of "Buy Empire Goods!" and the forthcoming local premier at the Capitol on Wednesday evening of the feature length talking picture of "The Life of H.R.H. The Prince of Wales" which was recently produced at the Gaumont-British studios under the personal supervision of the heir of the British throne offers local newspapers an opportunity of preparing a "Buy Empire Goods" section and giving local stores and manufacturers an opportunity of effectively advertising their all-British products and thus acknowledge Britain's ambassador of trade or "royal travelling salesman" as the Prince is frequently termed. The "Buy British!" movement which, of course, applies to all products made within the Empire, will be helped as the popularity of the Prince with Canadians is greater than that of any other screen personality.

AT THE REGENT

"THE LOST PATROL."

This is an extremely tense, vivid picture that has a quality of terrible sincerity. It illustrates some of the horrors of the campaign in "Mespot," as the soldiers called Mesopotamia, in that cruel episode of the war which was one of the most senseless of the whole senseless affair.

A patrol of men, "going we don't know where, in search of we don't know what," becomes separated from its brigade in the wastes of the Mesopotamian desert. The young captain carries his orders in his head and when he falls, the victim to a sniper's bullet, the orders die with him and the men are left to do their best.

Victor McLaglen, the "iron man" of the picture, is the sergeant, and takes charge. The partol finds refuge in an abandoned Mohammedan mosque in the desert oasis that forms the hiding-place of the men during a brief space of time. Here a grim tragedy is enacted, with a grimmer ending.

It is an absorbing picture that holds the attention until the last moment. The photography is excellent and the acting marvellous. It has the same type of terrible earnestness as "Journey's End," and like that masterpiece, uses no woman in the cast. Only men have the stage and they do much better, just like "Journey's End" was much better enacted without the somewhat devitalizing influence of feminine acting.

McLaglen has one of his stellar roles that he knows so well how to enact. Boris Karloff is the unlikeable religious fanatic, Sanders, who makes the mistake of mixing the Bible and religious fervor with the warlike business of killing. Wallace Ford and Reginald Denny have fine roles.

However much the silent screen may be rightly blamed at times for its undoubted propagation of sensuality, it has one bright mark to its credit. Ever since the last war ended, it has done much to bring the fiendishness and utter folly of wholesale butchery to the attention of the public, in one way or another. "The Last Patrol," while picturing courage under fearful odds, has this end in view also.

—Jeanette.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterboroughs Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner

Full name and address (complete) must be given in all samples sent in.

Mrs. Brown,
Norwood Post Office, Ontario.

The handwriting as described on your sample for analysis indicates that you are versatile. Your disposition is quite changeable, but you will find that it is usually due to prevailing conditions. Your upper loops suggest that you have rather a romantic turn of mind and that you are an idealist. You have an artistic tendency which is peculiar only to you. It creates scope for your imagination and assists you greatly to pass time which otherwise might be spent in idleness. Your will power is developed to such an extent that there is no doubt as to your meaning when you make known your opinion on any problem which excites your interest. A literary field may offer an outlet for your imaginative talent. Your character is excellent and you are fair-minded. Your number is ten. Your birthsign Aries, ruled by Mars. June and July are your most fortunate months with Tuesday your best day. Your husband's number is three. His birthsign Libra the Balance. August and December are his most fortunate months for important undertakings. He is ruled by Venus. Friday is his lucky day, and in regard to your question concerning what he might best be adapted to in a vocation line at present. It might be well for you to send me a sample of his writing, and a sample of your son's writing too. Your son's birthsign ir Virgo. He is ruled by Mercury, which should make him a mental person. His number is three. His best day is Wednesday. His most fortunate months are February and November. The answer to your personal question is yes, because everything purchased this year will add labor and employment, and bring money back into circulation. Apart from that, yours is a noteworthy ambition, and I wish you much success in your new venture.

Mrs. Charlie Hellman,
Bonarlaw, Ont.

Your handwriting describes you as one who should be fond of china, fine linen and music. You possess an artistic tendency which is expressive of your own personality. You like to keep your home in order and love a well appointed table. You think clearly and deliberately. Your will power is excellent and you have determination. Disorder of any nature hurts you. It does not make you cross but it does upset you mentally for the time being. You are ambitious and possess a very good imagination. You usually complete any task which you think worthy of the undertaking. Your general character is good and you are energetic and intelligent.

Muriel Fox,
Cobourg, Ont.

Your handwriting reflects a gracious and ingenious personality. You are demonstrative and affectionate. You should be able to deal easily with the public. Therefore, I might suggest a position where you could come in daily contact with people. Your loop formations reveal an idealistic and romantic side to your nature. You are magnetic and intuitive yet somewhat inclined to be analytical and desire to know the reason for everything. You possess an artistic tendency, which should be developed, if only as a hobby. You are a lover of a good time, have dignity, and quite an individual, loving personality. You should be possessed with a good memory, and have a great deal of family pride. Your type as a rule are home lovers, and often make authors and speakers. Physical grace is determined in the lower loops of your letters, and indicates a love of dancing and swimming. You are generous and fair-minded, truthful and upright. Your sign is Cancer the Crab. You are ruled by the Moon. February and September are your lucky months. Monday the best day. Your correct jewels are Black Onyx and Emerald. The number 6.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, April 17

While this may be a lively and progressive day in many directions, judging by the dominant astral influences, yet there is much to call for prudent and careful manipulation. There is a menace of fraud, trickery or subtle undoing enmity especially in dealing with combines, rings or secret organizations. And also there is augury for petty quarrels, inharmonies and friction as well as minor delays or disappointments. But there are signs of personal pleasure and social, romantic or domestic gratification.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a rather lively year with some progress in business and great interest in domestic, social or romantic affiliations. But there is some menace of fraud, treachery or subtlety in negotiations with rings, combines or secret bodies, and petty quarrels may mar employment or annoy superiors, unless such tendencies be curbed.

A child born on this day may be versatile, friendly and kindly, although given to petty strife and unreasonableness which may make it difficult to get along with, especially in employment.

Are You Nervous, Dizzy?

THOSE women who suffer every month—who may have weakening drains, side ache or nervous headache, will find Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription just what they need. Read what Mrs. Wm. Jean McGregor of 6 Labatt Ave., Toronto, Ont., said: "Before the birth of my little girl, I had nervous headaches, pains in my back, no appetite, would feel dizzy and faint, and was so weak I could hardly keep up. I took two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it restored my strength, seemed to give me new life."

All druggists. New size, tablets 50 cts., liquid $1.00. Large size, tabs. or liquid, $1.35. Write Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

Ginrovitch On Way To Scene Of Murder

KITCHENER, Ont., April 16 (C. P.).—Chief of Police Hodgson left for Hamilton this afternoon, and it is understood that he will bring Jacob Ginrovich alias Tender, back with him in connection with Kitchener's 1925 girl murder case.

A week ago on Wednesday a girl's skeleton was dug up on Woodside Avenue near a point where years ago Ginrovich, who was to be deported, had written that he had buried a girl after giving her an overdose of cocaine. In Kitchener Ginrovich will be given an opportunity, it is understood, of convincing the police as to how good his memory is for places and events.

SUSPECT ENGINEER DEAD WHEN WRECK OCCURRED

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP)—Possibility that a dead man was at the throttle of the engine of the Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train which plunged off a viaduct in Pittsburg February 26, carrying 11 persons to their deaths, was suggested today by the Interstate Commerce Commission's Safety Bureau. Excessive speed on a curve was blamed by the Bureau for the wreck, in which 46 persons were injured.

The train did the last 24 miles of its run, including one stop, in 26 minutes.

The speed of trains on this curve under the rules was supposed to be not over 25 miles an hour.

"In view of the circumstances," the Bureau said, "it appears that Engineman Shaw must have been either dead or so incapacitated as to prevent him from taking the proper steps to bring his train under control."

BARROW CORNERED?

SHREVEPORT, La., April 16 (C. P.). — Officers to-day believed they had surrounded Clyde Barrow, the Texas bandit and killer, in his hideaway near Ringgold, La., about 30 miles south-east of Shreveport.

Shreveport policemen and deputies sheriff, reinforced by Texas Rangers, hurried to the section late yesterday after receiving word that Barrow was believed "trapped."

Rich in NEEDED MINERALS.. Famed for FINER FLAVOR

SERVING Sardines regularly is good for the whole household.... For these tiny, tempting morsels help remarkably to balance the daily diet by supplying three needed mineral elements—Iron, Calcium and Phosphorus.... In this respect, Sardines are among the most nutritious of all fish foods.... And it is so easy and inexpensive to be sure of QUALITY in Sardines—simply specify "Crossed Fish" brand.... These are the world-famous Norwegian brislings with the peerless "Crossed Fish FLAVOR".... Baby or matured as you prefer. 146

PREMIUM LIST IS ANNOUNCED HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY

One Option May be Selected for Each Dollar Paid.

1934 SPECIALS

A record winter for zero weather, loathe to depart, yet Horticultural work like the poetic brook, "goes on forever."

Selections for planting are agitating the gardener, no matter whether the area be large or small, or just a window box.

To assist all flower lovers the Peterborough Horticultural Society presents the 1934 option list for consideration of new members and also hope the many novelties will be the means of inducing other gardeners to take out a membership which costs $1. carrying the right to one option, enter in lawn and garden competition. Annual show, attendance at lantern lectures, also provides contact with keen students of horticulture prepared to exchange experiences.

Attention is specially drawn to option II. A one year subscription to "Canadian Horticulture and Home Magazine," many new and attractive articles on what to plant, the how and when, up-to-date items on new varieties of plants, shrubs, bulbs, the control of insect pests, etc., the magazine being worth the attention of all gardeners.

List of Premiums

1.—Two Incarvillea or garden gloxinia.

2.—Choice of two hardy garden lilies—Regale, Rubrum or Auratum platyphyllum.

3.—Two climbing or Hybrid Tea roses.

4.—Two special quality hardy chrysanthemums.

5.—Four hardy perennials; choice of phlox, aster, delphinium, scabiosa, funkia or iris.

6.—One shrub, Desmodium (this is a comparatively new thing, purple-flowered and having the habit of a perennial), or one double-flowering almond.

7.—Four boxes of annual vegetable or flower plants.

8.—Four bedding plants; choice of tuberous begonia, coleus, geranium or canna.

9.—Twelve named varieties of gladiolus in exhibition types.

10.—Twelve packages of vegetable seeds.

11.—A one-year subscription to "Canadian Horticulture and Home Magazine."

For members living in apartment houses, a choice of ferns or other house plants is offered.

Important

All applications for Options 1, 2, and 3 must be in the hands of the secretary not later than April 21st.

Cultural Notes

Incarvillea—Flowers large and showy, trumpet-shaped, rosy purple in colour, height 2 feet; June-July, requires good cover in winter to assure continuous growth from year to year.

Roses—To get best results procure and plant early; do not allow roots to become exposed to air between time of receiving and plant slightly lower than planting mark on bush.

Lily (Auratum Platyphyllum)—A large flowered type of Lilium Auratum, is stem rooted, requires planting 8 to 10 inches deep to base of bulb. For best results, ground should be well and deeply dug; place bulb in bed of sand to ensure throrough drainage, no fertilizers should be used, although leaf-mould or woods-earth is desirable.

Hardy Chrysanthemums — For best results plant in semi-shade; keep well watered, feed liquid manure when plants are in bud, for large flowers grow to one stem, nip all side growths. For mass of flowers, nip out the lead and allow plant to branch; requires winter covering.

Forward applications right now to President, S. T. Harris, Utilities Office, or to Secretary, W. G. P. Benton, Simcoe street, P.O. box 784.

$25.50; Dr. W. D. Scott, $8.38.

ENDEAVOUR, BRITAIN'S HOPE AMERICA CUP RACE LAUNCHED

Steel Constructed Yacht Christened by Mrs. T. O. M. Sopwith, Wife of Owner.

128 FEET IN LENGTH.

PORTSMOUTH, England, April 16 (AP).—'Endeavour' the yacht which will carry Britain's hopes across the seas as challenger for the America's cup, was launched successfully to-day.

Mrs. T. O. M. Sopwith, wife of the owner, smashed a bottle of champaigne on the hull, which was wraped with the Sopwith racing colors, saying:

"I nam you 'Endeavour' and with all my heart I wish you a cupful of luck."

A pile was jerked and the beautiful yacht slid slowly into the water with her crew aboard.

The launching of the blue racer, 128 feet of steel, drew hundreds of spectators. Months of careful work lay behind the ceremony.

The yacht is built entirely of steel except for her deck and deck fittings, the mahogany rudder and the boom. She has 128 feet of overall length with 83 feet on the waterline, a 22 feet beam and a draught of 15 feet. The lead keel weighs about 82 tons and is slotted for a center board, which will be worked from a winch below decks.

The construction of the mast provides one of the Endeavour's most interesting points. High tensile steel plates approximately an eighth of an inch think were electrically welded to form a tube about 170 feet long. This was strengthened at intervals with steel rings placed inside the cylinder much like the rings in a bamboo cane.

FOUR FAMILIES FORCED TO LEAVE BURNING HOMES

MONTREAL, April 16 (C.P.).—Four families were forced from their homes early to-day in a fire, believed of incendiary origin. The blaze started in a shed on St. Lawrence boulevard and rapidly spread to apartments above. Firemen worked for two hours before getting it under control. Property damage amounted to about $4,000; no one was injured.

The fire was said by police to be typical of a series of shed fires in Montreal lately, attributed to an unknown firebug. Members of the arson squad started an investigation.

Paraguayan Advance Halted, Heavy Losses

LA PAZ, Bolivia, April 16 (AP)—An advance of 10 kilometres by Paraguayan troops against the Bolivian stronghold, Oft Ballivian, was reported repulsed to-day with heavy losses to the attackers.

The Army Superior Command issued the following communication:

"Repulsing a drive in the Conchitas sector, Bolivian troops silenced the enemy throughout the front. The Superior Command congratulate the Command of the First Corps, which took part in the recent action."

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK — By R. J. Scott

FINE TESTS SHOWN BY DISTRICT HERDS

F. M. Rutherford's Herd Shows Record Hard to Beat—Wm. Matthews' Guernseys Good.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 16 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — Some fine cattle tests are recorded in this district with the recent inspection by E. C. Fielding, Government R.O.P. inspector of district herds. F. M. Rutherford of the "Carlsbrooke Farm" has at present eleven head on test and has made a showing that will be hard to beat. The tests are as follows:

Carlsbrooke Flora 2nd, 4.2; Carlsbrooke Goldie, 4.6; Carlsbrooke Jennie 4th, 4.8; Carlsbrooke Militant May, 4.8; Carlsbrooke Snowball 2nd, 4.2; Carlsbrooke Bonnie Maid, 4.0; Carlsbrooke May 2nd, 4.1; Madam Rose, 4.6; Menie Daisy, 4.3; Humeshaigh Cherry Nell, 4.2. Mr. Rutherford has the finest lot of calves from the above cows, and the present herd sire Harnebbel Dignity, that he has ever raised.

And in the first R.O.P. work in the Guernsey herd of William Matthews in last week's inspection, one 4-year-old, freshened January 16, produced 46 lbs. of milk per day; and one 5-year-old gave as high as 56 lbs. a day. The latter cow is good for 20 to 40 lbs. more a day by giving a balanced ration and three times milking. These cows were fed alfalfa and oats and bran twice daily.

pledge themselves to the C.C.F. program. He declared there were "government spies about. I saw them in operation in Glace Bay, Edmonton, Winnipeg."

"There are certain individuals here whose main object is to smash the C.C.F." Mr. Woodsworth declared.

Miss Macphail Shows Up

Miss Agnes Macphail, U. F. O. member of the House of Commons for Southeast Grey, appeared at the meeting and indicated she might be eligible for membership under the new constitution.

Miss MacPhail lost her membership when the United Farmers of Ontario dropped out of the C.C.F. in the belief they could best serve the farmer's interest by continuing independently. Their withdrawal followed the demand of the Ontario Association of C.C.F. clubs that the Labor Conference be expelled.

The clubs called for this expulsion because members of the Labor Conference had attended protest meetings in behalf of A. E. Smith, general secretary of the Canadian Labor Defence League, who was tried on a sedition charge and acquitted. The National Council of the C.C.F. had ruled against C. C.F. members attending such meetings.

Friction appeared in the ranks and the Provincial Council was suspended and the conference called to re-organize. The position of the Labor Conference in the movement will be decided at a meeting on April 22.

New Policies Adopted.

Vast changes are appearing in the country, Mr. Woodsworth stated in an address at a banquet in his honor. He declared the Government was being forced to adopt new policies and pointed to the natural Products Marketing Act, which, he said, was "one of the most Socialistic pieces of legislation ever brought into the House of Commons."

Suggestions made by his followers had been described as those of Bolshevists, but now they are being brought in by Conservatives, Mr. Woodsworth said. He reiterated the C.O.F. would remain independent of all old parties.

DOUBLE TAX ON BACHELORS

ROME, April 16—(AP)—Bachelorhood may be all right for bachelors but it doesn't suit the Italian Government.

The Cabinet to-day doubled the income tax on bachelors, thereby forcing every unmarried man in Italy to pay 50 per cent of his income into the national treasury.

BUYS STIRLING NEWSPAPER.

BROCKVILLE.—Hartley Tompkins, for 18 years associated with the Kemptville, Ont., Advance, has purchased the News Argus, another weekly newspaper published at Stirling, Ont., and will take over that publication shortly.

The 2nd Peterborough (Armour) Troop held their weekly meeting on Friday with ten members present. The meeting opened with flag break followed by instruction in morse code. Games played were finding the watch and whipping tag. Two members of the troop are working on their first class map test and H. McKnight and J. Partington are attending the fireman's badge instruction class.

The 1st Peterborough (St. John's) Troop opened their weekly meeting with flag break in horseshoe formation. This was followed by an inspection then a patrol-in-council meeting. Several games were played, while instruction was given in knot tying and morse signalling. At the camp fire the paper collection was discussed. Saturday morning members of the troop collected paper, the proceeds from the collection being for camp expenses this summer.

St. John's Cub Pack with fourteen members present were instructed in knots and signalling, while an observation game, rope ring relay and jumping the sack was enjoyed by the cubs.

At a recent meeting of the Peterborough Rover Crew plans were discussed for a hike during which the rovers will qualify for their first class tests.

The 6th Peterborough Troop held their meeting in charge of Scoutmaster E. Wolffe assisted by E. Creighton and W. Flint. The three patrols engaged in second class work, followed by an inspection in patrol corners. Plans were made for a euchre party to raise funds for the camp this summer. Scouts W. Flint, L. Thomas, L. Goulah and Jack Baldwin, are members of the Fireman badge class.

The 5th Peterborough (All Saints') Pack and Troop held a combined meeting, rehearsing for the parents night which is to be held in All Saints' Parish Hall at seven o'clock next Friday. The program is to include demonstrations of scout and cub work. Patrol Leaders A. Rose, and A. Houghton are attending Fireman and Knotters badge classes.

The 8th Peterborough (St. Andrew's) group had fourteen members present under leadership of Scoutmaster Vic Millard. The meeting opened with flag break followed by patrol inspection. Don Warren and Ross Hart were enrolled making a total membership for the troop of sixteen. Tenderfoot and second-class work was taught in patrol corners. Three members were instructed in second-class signalling.

The St. Andrew's Wolf Cub Pack had fourteen members present under Jack McKone. Instruction in the Union Jack and signalling was given, and several instructive games were played.

The local Association, under presidency of H. C. Sootheran, has approved a list of 'examiners' for proficiency badges and would like second-class scouts of the various troops in the Association to study and earn more badges than in past years.

Second-class scouts may qualify for and wear six proficiency badges. A large class of second-class scouts is being instructed in the fireman's and knotters badges by Fireman George Gimblett, Jr., of the City Fire Department. They will be examined at the fire hall when ready to take their examinations.

APRIL 27 SET FOR APPEAL

FORT ERIE, Ont., April 14.—Edward W. Tyrrill, Fort Erie's solicitor, was advised to-day hearing of the municipality appeal against the $700,000 valuation of the Buffalo-Fort Erie Peace Bridge set by County Judge Livingstone recently and counter-appeal by the Peace Bridge Commission, has been set for April 27 at Toronto by the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board.

This TESTED Remedy Will Restore Your Energy

A girl who works in an office, who got very little fresh air and sunshine, lost color, became enervated, and, on November 14, 1932, went to a physician's office in a Canadian city and had her blood tested. The result was alarming. The haemoglobin showed only 60 per cent., the red corpuscle count only 3,700,000. She was surprised to learn that she was anaemic, but was relieved when told that the condition could be corrected.

The physician knew the formula of a popular blood builder, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and told her to take two of the pills after each meal for a month and then return for another test. The second test was made on December 16 and showed an increase to 84 per cent. of haemoglobin (which surprised even the doctor) and a red blood corpuscle count of 5,408,000.

When it is explained that haemoglobin is the oxygen-bearing, life-supporting element of the blood and that red corpuscles are the carriers of haemoglabin it will be understood why the young lady felt renewed energy and ambition, or, as she put it, "felt like working again."

If you lack "pep," tire easily, are weak, pale, have palpitation of the heart and dizzy spells, get a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at your own druggist's and begin the treatment after your next meal. You take no chances. Dr Williams' Pink Pills are clinically tested.

THREAT OF JAIL RIOT MARS SPAIN'S HOLIDAY

MADRID, April 16. —(AP) — Reports that a Cabinet crisis impends marred Spain's celebration to-day of the third anniversary of the Republic.

The national holiday was clouded also by fears of country-wide jail riots by political prisoners.

The prisoners, thousands of them in all parts of Spain held since the abortive revolt of last December, threatened to riot in protest against the failure of the Government to grant them amnesty on the anniversary.

A bill which would have freed them was blocked last night. Reconsideration cannot begin until Tuesday.

On the same day, Minister of Peace Alvarez Valdz was reported planning to present his resignation because of recent criticism. Premier Aleandro Lerroux struggled to forestall a rift.

APPOINTED POLICE CHIEF

ST. THOMAS, Ont., April 14 (CP)—Police Sergeant William M. Ketchabaw, who has been acting Police Chief of St. Thomas since Herbert Gunson resigned in January, has been permanently appointed. He has been on the force since 1903 and a sergeant, 29 years.

DRUNK DRIVER SENT TO JAIL

BRANTFORD, Ont, April 14 (CP) —For driving while intoxicated, Edwain L. Townsend, Woodstock, was to-day given 14 days in jail. He pleaded guilty, having been picked up near midnight when he drove his car into a street car on Brant avenue.

Veteran Skipper Fights Ship-Burning

CHERRY VALLEY, Ont., April 16.—(CP)—One of Prince Edward County's veteran sailors, Captain Nelson Palmatier, will have a leading part in the annual marine service at Cherry Valley, as he has done for years. The service, held each Spring just before the opening of navigation at this Eastern Lake Ontario point, has been set for Sunday, April 22.

Captain Palmatier is an old-timer. He doesn't like to see vessels burned as a spectacle for holiday crowds, and adds his word to protest against any such fate for the Lyman M. Davis, said to be the last of the Great Lakes sailing vessels.

The Oliver Mowat was one of the vessels he knew well a half-century or so ago. In 1921 she was cut down by a steam barge off False Duck Island, and her last owner, Captain Thomas L. Vandusen, was lost.

HOW TO WASH CLOTHES 4 OR 5 SHADES WHITER

SAVE money on clothes—change to the suds that end washday abuse! No scrubbing with Rinso—no boiling. How that lengthens the life of clothes!

Cup for cup, Rinso gives twice as much suds as lightweight, puffed-up soaps. The makers of 23 Canadian washers recommend it.

Great for dishwashing, too—soaks away grease in a flash. Even pots and pans come shining bright in half the time! So easy on the hands.

Rinso's lively suds make all cleaning easier. Get a BIG box at your grocer's today.

ASPHODEL FARMER IS GORED BY BULL

Liberals Returned In South Oxford

RENNIE IS GIVEN 1,530 MAJORITY IN BY-ELECTION

Liberal Candidate Carries Riding by Largest Majority in 67 Years.

LEADERS TOOK PART.

Government Standing Remains Same in the House of Commons.

INGERSOLL, Ont., April 17 — (CP) — For the remainder of its political life, which will end with dissolution of parliament, South Oxford has decided to continue its adherence to the Liberal party. Almon Secord Rennie, Tillsonburg businessman, will move into Ottawa as the constituency's seventh Liberal member of the House of Commons since Confederation.

Traditionally Liberal, South Oxford spurned eager government overtures yesterday by electing Mr. Rennie with an unprecedented majority to the seat made vacant by the death last year of Thomas M. Cayley, Liberal, Hon. Donald Sutherland, former cabinet minister and the only Conservative who ever won a federal election in South Oxford, was soundly defeated.

Unofficial returns from the 63 polls in the riding gave the Liberal candidate a majority of 1,530. According to figures compiled by Conservative headquarters here, Rennie received 6,668 votes to Sutherland's 5,169. Liberal headquarters figures were somewhat different, giving Rennie a majority of 1,629.

Largest In History

Not in any federal election in its 67-year history did South Oxford give a candidate such a large majority as yesterday. In the general election of 1930, the late Mr. Cayley scored a narrow victory over Mr. Sutherland, who was Minister of Agriculture in the war-time Union government and a member of the Meighen cabinet.

The margin in 1930 was 55 votes. In 1926 Mr. Cayley downed Mr. Sutheland by 700 votes. In one of his own four previous victorious ventures did Mr. Sutherland obtain as large a majority as Mr. Rennie's. South Oxford's entity will be lost in the next election, the government's last redistribution bill merging the riding with North Oxford.

Three times Mayor of Tillsonburg but never before a candidate for federal office, Mr. Rennie ran ahead of his veteran foe from the start of the ballot-counting last night. His lead was established when the first scattering of results came in and later returns swelled it to record-breaking proportions.

Turned Down in Home Town

His home town of Tillsonburg was one of the few divisions to fail him. Mr. Sutherland gained an advantage of close to 100 there but the Liberal got it all back, and more, in Ingersoll which accorded him a majority of more than 200. Mr. Sutherland's East Oxford township farm is near Ingersoll.

Even before final returns had

Surplus of $195,000,000 is Announced By British Chancellor of Exchequer

(By the Canadian Press)

Features of the new British budget as revealed by Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, are:

The real surplus on the last fiscal year was $195,000,000. On the present basis surplus on coming year would be $145,500,000.

Employment increases reduced relief payments by $16,500,000; beer revenue was $15,000,000 over estimates. Tea and sugar revenue was lower, however. Lower revenue was expected from duties in coming year as inter-imperial trade increases in proportion to heavier-tax foreign imports.

With "the largest surplus in 10 years" he was able to announce these benefits:

Income tax cut from five shillings in pound by sixpence, or roughly 10 percent.

Unemployment relief, cut in 1931 crisis, will be fully restored.

One-half the pay cuts in the civil service will be restored July 1. This cuts the reduction to five percent.

Auto license tax of $5 per horsepower reduced 25 percent.

New duties imposed on patent leather, hydrocarbon and oil.

LILLIAN WALKEY CASE DISMISSED

Justice McEvoy Finds Horace Walkey Not in Position of Parent.

DAMAGES SET AT $8,000.

COBOURG, April 17 (By Staff Reporter).—The jury returned at 3.30 this afternoon in the trial of the Royal Trust Company's action for damages in behalf of Lillian Walkey of Peterborough, against The Globe Printing Company and Roy F. McLean of Belleville, in which Horace Walkey, former manager of the Oakwood branch of the Bank of Montreal, was fatally injured with two other men in a head-on collision south of Centreville November 7, 1932. The jury found Miss Walkey's loss would be $8,000, and that The Globe Company was 90 per cent. to blame and McLean 10 per cent. J. C. McRuer of Toronto again argued that Horace Walkey was not "in loco parentis) in position of parent in his relationship to his sister, and Justice J. A. McEvoy, who presided, dismissed the action on this ground. This nullifies the jury's verdict and Miss Walkey will not get any damages.

One other action remains on the docket which was presented to His Lordship at the opening of the assizes a week ago yesterday. The last case, Brown vs. Rankin, involves another traffic accident, but in contrast with the Walkey case, counsel intimated that it would probably be completed to-day.

Evidence for the defense was concluded yesterday afternoon in the Royal Trust Company case, followed by the customary review of the evidence by counsel, W. F. Huycke for the Royal Trust Company and Miss Walkey, J. C. McRuer of Toronto for the Globe Printing Company, and G. N. Gordon, K.C., for the co-defendant, R. F. McLean.

Mr. Gordon did not call any witnesses, and asked the jury to find that Mr. McLean was not liable for damages. He based his claim on the ground that the truck was on the wrong side of the road, was travelling too fast in the weather conditions of a heavy fog, and also that the truck's headlights were not turned on.

Mr. Huycke asked for damages for Miss Walkey on the ground that Miss Walkey had reasonable expectations of financial assistance from her brother, and Mr. McRuer argued that the weight of evidence showed that the truck was on its right path of the road and was not the offender in the accident.

M.O.H. REFUSES TO QUIT OFFICE

Doctor Will Carry His Case to the Ontario Court of Appeal.

REMOVED ONLY FOR CAUSE

TORONTO, April 17 (CP)—Dr. Christopher A. Campbell of Blanchard Township, Perth County, has given notice he will ask the Ontario court of Appeal to declare he has not been removed from his post as Medical Officer of Fullarton Township.

Because a physician residing in Fullarton Township became available for appointment to the office of Medical Health Officer of the municipality, the Township Council passed a resolution removing Dr. Campbell from the position. He applied at Osgoode Hall for a declaration that he was not dismissed properly.

Mr. Justice Nichol Jeffrey, who head the application, declined to make the declaration, and Dr. Campbell now will ask the Court of Appeal to reverse Mr. Justice Jeffrey's decision.

As grounds for the appeal, the doctor says a Medical Health Officer can be removed only for cause and that he was not given opportunity to show before the Minister of Health reasons why he should not be removed from office.

RONDEAU CAMP CHARGES FAIL

Charges Made by Fort Erie Youths Prove Unfounded.

NOW REFUSED RELIEF.

FORT ERIE, Ont., April 17 (CP).—Charges made by eight Fort Erie youths to the effect that conditions at Rondeau Camp, where they had been employed, were deplorable, had been proved unfounded, according to C. H. Fullerton, Deputy-Minister of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests.

Investigations made by Foreman T. Scott showed the youths had been discharged from the camp because they attempted to tell the official how to operate it. He denied the use of lead tableware, as charged by the youths. He stated huts were designed for 20 workers and were used to capacity in all but one case; water supply was adequate; foreigners were not grouped with native Canadians; 35 wash basins were supplied for the workers.

Upon receipt of this information the Town Council decided the youths in question would not be replaced on the relief lists.

THREE QUARTERS HOUSEKEEPER'S BODY SCORCHED

Witness Claims if Victim Had Been Upright Her Hair Would Have Been Burned.

PRATT MURDER TRIAL.

Positive Woman Struck Heavy Blow on Head—Not Accidental.

PERTH, Ont., April 17.—(CP)—Dr. E. R. Frankish, medico legal to the attorney general's department, Toronto and one of the chief crown witnesses in the murder trial of Dr. Wilton Pratt, 71-year-old physician of Smiths Falls testified at the morning session of the Lanark County Assizes here today that he found three quarters of the entire surface of Miss Eva Elizabeth McLean's body burned. Dr. Frankish conducted an autopsy on her body at Smiths Falls on Jan. 6.

"There was indication of intense flame where she was burned," testified the doctor.

"She could not have sustained such burns without an out cry and the absenceof such an utterance would imply that the woman was unconscious during the burning as the result of some hypnotic or from effects of a blow. These two combinations would go with the fact that there was no outcry," said Dr. Frankish. He was positive the blow was received before death.

Dr. W. A. Meighen, Perth County jail physician startled the court with the announcement that since the accused was admitted to the jail that he had been getting three and a half grainsof morphine a day.

"On his admittance he told me he was taking large doses of morphine," stated the jail doctor.

"I started giving him a grain in the morning and another at night. This did not prove enough, so I increased the dose to one and a half grains in the morning and two grains at night, which satisfies him."

Prisoner's Health Better.

Under cross-examination, witness admitted that the general condition of Dr. Pratt had improved greatly since he was admitted to the county jail.

"He was in fair health when he was brought in," said the witness. Continuing, Dr. Meighen testified that owing to a condition which Dr. Pratt is suffering, it would be dangerous for him to lift any great weight.

"Certain parts of the body of Miss McLean was subject to intense heat for some time, which resulted in charring of parts of the body," Dr. Frankish stated.

"If she had been in an upright position when the fire occurred her hair would have been burned. Examination of the head disclosed a blood bruise beneath the scalp and a little irregularity on the scalp. There was a slight raise on the scalp but no bump."

"It was a heavy blow that caused the bruise," said Dr. Frankish. "It might come from any type of a blunt instrument. Injuries of the type I found on Miss McLean's head are rare and I do not think it was accidental," concluded the doctor.

At this point, C. W. Bell, K.C., M.P., Hamilton, Crown prosecutor, asked for the noon adjournment which was granted. Court will re-

Children On Relief To Be Admitted Free

President C. Alex. Sollitt of the Peterborough Kinsmen Club, under whose auspices the musical comedy, "Show Boat Days," is being presented at the Grand Opera House on Thursday and Friday of this week, this afternoon announced that the children of all families on relief are to be given complimentary tickets that will admit them free to the children's matinee performance on Thursday afternoon at 4.30.

Tickets will be distributed to the children of families on relief between the hours of four and five o'clock Wednesday afternoon by Art Metheral, city relief officer. Application must be made by the children at the city relief office.

Arrangements are also being made, it is announced, to take care of the inmates of the Children's Shelter and St. Vincent's Orphanage, to whom free tickets are to be presented.

A Sure Thing

CHICAGO, April 17.—(UP)—Twenty-six men, arrested in a gambling raid, appeared yesterday before Judge Borelli in Municipal Court. Leo Barnett, 32, offered to prove that gambling was not taking place.

Barnett seized the dice with expert fingers, jiggled them and rolled them on the bench of the justice. A 'natural' showed. Again and again he rolled them, always with the same result.

"Judge," argued Barnett, "you can't gamble with those dice. Theyre a sure thing."

POLICE TO GET NEW UNIFORMS ALSO NEW CAR

Police Commission Decides to Purchase a New Chrysler Standard Sedan.

PROPOSE TAXI BY-LAW

Riley and Hickey Awarded Tender for Police Uniforms.

Decision to purchase a new police car and new summer uniforms for the whole force was reached yesterday afternoon by the Police Commission at a special meeting.

The new car will be a six-cylinder Chrysler standard sedan, and it will replace the present Dodge sedan which, Chief Newhall said, had been driven 70,000 miles in the past two years. The chief stated that he had inspected all makes of cars and recommended the car selected as the best for police work, since it was not too showy and has plenty of back-seat room, and a "good deal" was offered on the old car. The Commission accepted his recommendation and instructed him to complete the transaction.

Uniforms to Cost $322.00.

The new summer uniforms to outfit the force will cost $322.00 in all. The firm of Riley and Hickey's tender for the uniforms was accepted, Chief Newhall stating this firm had always given satisfaction and for the proper quality of clothing required its tender was the lowest. The prices accepted were: $26.50 for two-piece uniforms for constables and sergeants; $27.50 for uniforms for the inspector and chief and suits for the detectives. The clothing is of medium weight.

The new taxi by-law bringing new rules into force here governing everything concerning the operation and ownership of taxi-cabs has been prepared by the city solicitor. Before it is definitely approved by the Police Commission, it was decided that taxi men will be given an opportunity to discuss it with the Commission. A meeting for this purpose, to which taxi men are expected to send representatives, was fixed for next Monday evening at 7 o'clock in the Council Chamber.

Discussing some points in the new by-law, Mayor Denne said: "We should certainly see to it that the taxi men carry insurance for the protection of their passengers. Some of them will kick over that all right."

Magistrate Langley asked: "Is it true that taxi insurance costs about double the rate for ordinary motorists?"

Chief Newhall said it was true.

"The by-law should cover that point about men working at various jobs in the daytime and then taking out their cars as taxis at night and meeting the trains," stat-

SPANISH PRISON RIOT NIPPED IN NICK OF TIME

MADRID, April 17 (AP)—A prison riot at Vitoria early to-day topped off a series of minor disorders in Spain.

Nine Syndicalist prisoners overpowered the officer in charge of them, bound him, seized pistols and made a dash for freedom.

Civil guards and soldiers went to the assistance of prison officials before the prisoners could escape, and drove them back to their cells.

Other disorders occurred at Zaragoza, where two small bombs damaged a street car and broke windows, and at La Coruna, where a contractor's house was bombed with considerable damage.

ROBERT MORROW FATALLY HURT BY MAD ANIMAL

Asphodel Farmer Dies Several Hours After Being Severely Injured.

COULD GET NO HELP.

Ring Placed in Animal's Nose Blamed for Ferocious Attack.

(Examiner Correspondent)

NORWOOD, April 17—Attacked by a bull in his barnyard yesterday afternoon, Robert Morrow, 65-year-old Asphodel Township farmer was so badly gored that he died of his injuries a few hours later.

Seriously Hurt In First Rush

Mr. Morrow was engaged in doing his chores on his farm four miles from Norwood and was walking through the barnyard when the bull, a 4-year-old Hereford charged him without warning. The farmer was apparently seriously hurt in the bull's first mad charge and could not escape the continued heavy plunges of the ferocious beast.

With his left lung punctured and several ribs broken, weakened by loss of blood and half-unconscious the farmer succeeded in dragging himself behind a cultivator, where he was found some hours later by his son, Fred, on his return from school.

Dr. H. G. Carlton was called immediately, but Mr. Morrow died at 9.30 last night.

He had been a farmer in the district all his life and was well-known. He is survived by his sorrowing wife and eight children. The funeral will be held Thursday at 1.30 p.m. from his late residence, interment being made in the Norwood cemetery.

Had Ring Placed in Nose

The Examiner was informed that the bull, which previously was quite docile, had apparently become maddened by the pain caused from a ring which had been placed in its nose only a few days before.

SMALL BOY IS FATALLY HURT

Marvin Redden of Campbellford Dies Following Auto Accident.

RAN IN FRONT OF CAR.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 17. (By Staff Correspondent)—Marvin Redden, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Redden, of this town, died early this morning from injuries received when he was knocked down by a car driven by Miss Helen Tate of Campbelford.

The accident occurred when the little chap was on his way home from school. It is alleged that the boy ran out in front of the car at the west end of the bridge over the Trent. The car was going at a very slow speed but the driver's vision was poor on account of the cement abutments supporting the piers of the bridge.

He was immediately removed to the office of Dr. F. B. Brintnell and later it was decided to take him to the Belleville hospital, but he suddenly grew worse and passed away shortly after midnight. His death was believed to have been due to severe concussion.

Factor Is Jailed For Extradition

CHICAGO, April 17.—(A.P.) — John Factor, the barber who became an international speculator and promoter, was ordered removed to the county jail at Sycamore, Ill., to-day to await arirval of a warrant for his return to England to be prosecuted.

He had done his job of testifying for the State against the four Touhy gangsters, sentenced to prison for kidnapping him. The State made no further effort to-day to defer his extradition to London, where he must face trial for an alleged $7,000,000 coup in mining stocks.

Technically, the charge against the erstwhile Chicago banker was that of receiving money he knew to have been obtained fraudulently by his Broad Street Press, Ltd., an investment house.

Winter Rules?

CHICAGO, April 17. — The winter "privileges" of a nudist colony may be decided by a court.

The other night, investigators for the Illinois Vigilance Association and police under Sergt. Charles Steffen invaded the Three Links swimming pool and bath where members of both sexes of the John C. Jones "Lake of the Woods" nudist cult were holding a swimming party.

No arrests were made, but Investigator Jack Brown said he would confer with a judge to see what could be done about it.

URGE SPLITTING BANK PROFITS WITH DEPOSITOR

Limit Dividends to 6 p.c. Maj. Douglas Proposes Before House Committee.

DRASTIC PROVISIONS.

Claims 75-80 p.c. World's Assets in Control of Banks or Insurance Companies.

OTTAWA, April 17 (CP). — A plan to share bank profits with depositors and borrowers was described to the House Banking Committee to-day by Major C. H. Douglas, English author of the Douglas plan of social credit. For two hours, like a professor conducting a class in higher economics, he appeared as a witness to-day before the committee reviewing bank legislation.

Swiftly Major Douglas sketched a plan, similar to the one he had laid before the New Zealand Government and which he filed in detail with the committee. Its provisions were drastic.

Bank dividends would be limited to six per cent. per annum, the rate usually prescribed for central banks but much lower than the rate for commercial institutions.

Two Suspense Accounts.

The creation of two suspense accounts from profits over and above the six per cent. dividend was another step in the plan. Finally, a most drastic departure from present day banking practice, the plan provided that a proportion of the credit in suspense accounts should be used for reduction of customers' overdrafts, and decreasing or reim-

FIRE VICTIMS GIVEN WARNING

Aylmer Widow and Daughters Barred by Rapid Spread of Flames.

FUNERAL WEDNESDAY.

AYLMER, Ont., April 17.—(CP)—The funeral of Mrs. Grace Weatherall and daughters, Stella and Dorothy, victims of a fire here yesterday will take place tomorrow at 2 o'clock to Aylmer cemetery. The remains were so terribly charred, merely bones being left, that all three will be placed in one casket. It transpires today that some warning had reached them on the top floor but the spread of flames was so rapid they could not get down.

An extension ladder was run up to the window but the fireman could not see any sign of life inside the room. The police investigation is proceeding. It is ascertained that the fire started at the rear of the grocery below, the door of which was found open, but the contents of the till had not been touched. Long after the fire was brought under control, the yelping of a dog was heard coming from the basement.

The dog was taken out, none the worse for its experience, the basement being deep in water and it must have swam around during the raging fire overhead until it found a ledge on which to perch.

BRITISH INCOME TAXES SLASHED BY TEN PER CENT

Motherland Again First Exporting Nation of World Says Chamberlain, Announcing Budget.

$145,500,000 SURPLUS.

Relief, Half Civil Service Cuts Restored—No War Debt Provision.

By FRANK H. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 17—(AP)—The public today received a gift of a six pence in the pound reduction of income taxes—a reduction, in the case of small incomes, of approximately 10 percent. The reduction was announced by Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in telling the House of Commons and a cheering throng of spectators of his budget for 1934-35.

He further declared that one-half the pay cuts suffered by government employees would be restored July 1 and that unemployment relief would be fully restored at the same time.

He said that with the first of the year the present automobile license tax would be cut 25 percent from its present rate of £1 per one-horse power.

He announced that in the fiscal year just ending, Great Britain had run up a surplus in its government operation of £39,000,000—approximately $200,000,000—and that the ensuing year should show Great Britain with a profit of £29,100,000—or $145,500,000.

He said that at the present time it was impossible to contemplate a reduction of indirect taxation.

Leading Exporter

His statement was made in the midst of a speech in which he said Great Britain now had "regained its place as the first exporting country of the world."

He told his listeners, who cheered him repeatedly, that the past fiscal year had shown a profit of £39,000,000—or about $200,000,000—and that "the atmosphere is distinctly brighter."

He listed sources of revenue in proposing his budget for the year 1934-35 and said that in the year past the beer tax had produced £5,000,000 more than expected, but that there had been a deficit in the revenues from tea and sugar. Groans followed cheers with this announcement.

Mr. Chamberlain estimated that the total ordinary expenditure of the government during 1933-34 was £698,000,000—or $3,490,000,000.

The House was packed as its members and spectators listened to the fiscal proposals for 1934-35.

Greeks Blame Italian Police for Interfering in Favor of Gov't Candidate.

HUNDREDS ARRESTED.

ATHENS, April 17 (C.P.). — The Greek press assailed Italian authorities of the Island of Rhodes today for the killing of 10 peasants in an election day clash.

Despatches said that in addition to 10 slain, at least 30 peasants were wounded Hundreds were said to have been arrested. Others were reported hiding in the mountains.

The killings, according to reports here, came on Saturday when the Italian gendarmerie attempted to interfere in the Salahos local election in favor of a Government candidate.

Peasants gathered seized sticks and stones, and fighting broke throughout the village The natives finally fled, but not until many of their number had fallen.

Reports to Athens organizations of sympathizers with the natives of Rhodes said the estimate of dead and wounded represented a minimum. Censorship was said to be holding up details.

To-day the sympathizers panned meetings of protest and Athens newspapers accused the Italian authorities of bringing on unnecessary bloodshed

DIARY STATES HOUSEKEEPER OFTEN "DRUNK"

Smith's Falls Fire Victim is Referred to by Dr. Pratt as "She Devil."

HIRED ANOTHER WOMAN.

Forced to Fire Her After Row Over Bird Cage—15 Witnesses Remain.

PERTH, Ont., April 17. (CP). Testimony of 24 crown witnesses was on the records to-day in the murder trial of Dr. Wilton Pratt, 71-year-old housekeeper, Miss Eva Elizabeth McLean. The woman died from burns suffered in a fire at the Pratt home last Dec. 31 and the crown alleges she had been drugged and knocked down.

Yesterday witnesses testified regarding the fire and the jury also heard parts of thhe doctor's diary read. There are five crown witnesses to be heard yet and 10 defence witnesses are xpected to take the stand. For the first time during the trial court sat last night when Professor Joslyn Rogers, provincial analyst, testified.

Prof. Rogers declared it was his opinion that a "live" violent flame had caused the blistering of paint on the door frame of Dr. Wilton Pratt's bedroom where Miss McLean suffered the fatal burns. The burned mattress from the bed was produced in court.

Prof. Rogers said the burned marks on the door frame could not have resulted from burning of Miss McLean's clothing but indicated there had been "a pronounced flame near it." Marks on the floor showed burns to a depth of ⅜ of an inch, showing "intense heat."

Professor Sceptical.

Evidence given prevously indicated the woman crawled from the room to the top of the stairs with her clothing aflame, but Prof Rogers believed the flaming clothing of the woman would not have caused such burns as found on the floor near the door.

He further believed fire in the mattress on the bed originated at more than one point, and that a burn on paper on the bar beneath the bed was an alcoholic burn. He did not believe gin had accelerated the fire, as it would have to be "used in large quantities to cause a hot fire."

Entries from the doctor's diary, read in court, tended to show the doctor and his housekeeper had disagreed on several occasions, and that he had hired another housekeeper at one time. The diary referred to Miss McLean as a "she devil," and also stated she "deliberately burned my small alarm clock," and adds that "the fool is drunk again."

The diary refers to Miss McLean as being "drunk" on several occasions when she returned to the Pratt home. The doctor then hired Mrs. Viola Parker, who had two children, but the diary stated he had a "row of large dimensions with Mrs. Parker over bird cage door being left open third time."

An entry in the diary on February 27, 1933, said "things came to joyful climax when I got rid of Mrs. Viola Parker and children and my black kitten came back."

$620,700 LOSS CANADIAN FORD

Nevertheless Report Indicates Marked Improvement in Business Over Past Two Years.

TOTAL INCOME $16,804,793.

EAST WINDSOR, Ont., April 17 (C.P.). — A net loss of $620 700 was reported by the Ford Motor Compahy of Canada, Limited, in its annual report to stockholders for 1933 made public yesterday by Wallace R Campbell, president.

"It is very encouraging to note that in spite of the operating loss sustained, the report indicates very marked improvement in the results of our business as compared with the previous two years," Mr Campbell declared.

Operations for the past year while resulting in a loss, showed more favorably than those of 1932. Total sales and other income totalled $16,804,793, from which an operating loss of $1 174 991 was sustained. This compared with total sales of $17 168 769 and operating loss of $5 206,736 for 1932.

The net operating loss for 1933 was offset in part by dividends of $554,-291 received from affiliated companies in overseas territories, which reduced the net loss, after all the charges, to the figure stated.

One of the most important phases of the report was the increase shown in the total of cash on hand and in banks which totalled $6,-273,051 at the close of the year. This was an increase of $3 971 417. Total of advances to affiliated companies showed a decrease of $4,-282 067.

The report listed total cash and bonds assets at $17,661,171, of which $11,287,666 was in bonds issued or guaranteed by the Federal, Provincial or municipal administrations in the Dominion. The total also included $129,553 in interest accrued on bonds and cash balances in the banks.

JOBLESS RELIEF BILL APPROVED BY 46 MAJORITY

Gov't Enlists Support of 8 United Farmers and Progressives for 83-37 Vote.

TWO WEEKS' DEBATE.

New Battle Looms in Commons Over Weir's Natural Products Marketing Act.

OTTAWA, April 17.—(CP)—With the unemployment relief bill finally approved despite a prolonged and stubborn opposition the Bennett government today faces another battle in the House of Commons, this time over Hon. Robert Weir's Natural Products Marketing Act. No sooner was the bill moved for second reading last night than Liberal speakers served notice it was not altogether to their liking and would not pass without a fight. Debate continues today.

Last night the Relief Bill received third reading ending a debate that lasted nearly two weeks as successive Liberal amendments to modify the 'peace, order and good government' and 'blank cheque' clauses were defeated.

The government enlisted the support of eight United Farmer and Progressive members and rolled up a majority of 46 as the vote of third reading stood at 83 to 37.

Mr. Weir, the Minister of Agriculture, pressed strongly his case for the Marketing Bill which would set up a federal marketing board and make provision for the creation of local boards to govern the production marketing and grading of products of the farm, the forest and the fisheries.

Threefold Objective

Its object, he said, was threefold. It was designed to give producers control of the marketing of their product, to assure improvements in the quality of natural products and continuity of supply and to prevent undue profits which would enhance

FOUR WESTERN LEGISLATURES END SESSIONS

Climax Sees More Laws Written Into Statute Books Than Ever Before.

B. C. LEADS WAY.

Manitoba House to Meet on June 5 to Discuss New Marketing Bill.

WINNIPEG, April 17 (C.P.). — With all four Legislatures through with their work, Western Canada to-day boasted more laws regulating trade, industry and agriculture than ever written before into the statute books of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and British Columbia.

The Alberta Legislature last night wound up its session which opened on February 8, and previously the Saskatchewan and British Columbia Legislatures had prorogued The Manitoba House is on adjournment until June 5, when it will discuss the Natural Products Marketing Act.

British Columbia led the way in industrial legislation, but each of the other provinces contributed new regulations to give industry throughout the West a "little NRA" with brain trusts as well. Chief in legislation adopted were British Columbia's Special Powers Act, and Marketing Bills, Wheat Bills minimum wage regulations, and licensing of industries.

British Columbia's Special Powers Act gave the Government powers over education, agriculture, public health, highways, natural resources and the raising of money on the credit of the province. Its Board o fIndustrial Relations provided a brain trust to advise the Government on the Minimum Wage Acts, hours of work and similar regulations. It passed the Marketing Act to implement Federal legislation and provided for appointment of a board to administer the Act.

Codes Less Drastic.

Alberta's business codes were less drastic than those adopted in the coast province, but they gave the government strong powers over industry. The Trade and Industry Act limited the government to encouragement of industry, regulation of hours of labor, wages and prices of commodities and provided for the government to enforce fair competition. An advisory bureau is contemplated.

The Natural Products Marketing Act also was passed by the Alberta members, providing for an administration board. It also gave approval to the wheat bill, another measure implementing Federal legislation which will put into effect the Canadian angle of the London wheat agreement. It also took minor steps on other industrial questions.

Saskatchewan and Manitoba industrial legislation was less extensive although covering a wide field. Saskatchewan provided for licensing of coal mines of all kinds and control and regualtion of the production, processing and marketing of milk with powers vested in the local Government Board.

TOURISTS COMING BACK.

FORT ERIE, Ont., April 17 (C.P.) —Fears that the sale of liquors in the United States would put a stop to the influx of tourists to his district were dispelled with the early season activities. Cottages along Erie Beach have already been leased for the coming season by U S. residents. Approximately 20 000 tourists spend summer months here in normal years.

Penniless

BELLEVILL, Ill., April 17. (CP).—An 80-year-old "penniless" former coal miner, John Tobin, left $11,700 in cash and bonds, Mrs. Fred H. Brewer, his landlady for 23 years found.

Several weeks ago Tobin told Mrs. Brewer he could no longer pay for his board and room. For years her husband had given Tobin old cloths, tobacco and pipes.

The aged man died Sunday night. Hiden in the lining of an old suit case belonging to him Mrs. Brewer found $10,000 in bonds. In a closet she found $1,700 in cash.

ALDERVILLE

A delightful evening was spent in the township chambers on Tuesday night, when the Alderville hockey team entertained a large crowd at a crokinole and euchre party. Kathleen Smoke and Lewis Gray were awarded first prizes for euchre and Lorne Simpson and Reta Marsden were the winners for crokinole. Jimmy Bigwin made a capable time keeper and Jack Loukes and Edward Simpson acted as scorers. Lunch was served at the close which was enjoyed by all present.

The midweek prayer meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Beavers and was extra well attended. Led by Mrs. Alfred Simpson who gave a splendid talk on the three virgins, leaving many deep thoughts upon her listeners. A much appreciated and interesting program followed consisting of a reading by Miss Reta Marsden about Johnson Paudash of Hiawatha, taken from the Missionary Monthly. Many of the Indians knowing the writer made the story very interesting. A solo by Mr. Bernard Hearns entitled "Sunrise,"; Miss Evelyn Simpson gave a splendid article "Her last drink at the well" by Rev. Bona Fleming. A duet by Mrs. John Tobico and Miss Evelyn Simpson, "I must have Jesus with me" concluded the program.

Mr. Christopher Marsden has returned home after a visit with friends in Hamilton, also his sister in Toronto, Mrs. M. Salt.

Miss Queenie Smoke of the P.C. I., Peterborough, spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Smoke.

Mrs. Robert Franklin and family have moved from the shores of Rice Lake into the village.

Jack Smoke and sons are home from Hickory Island where they have met with great success at muskrat trapping. Mr. M. Davey returned with them.

Mrs. Earl Shearer of Harwood, spent a few days in the neighborhood with her father, Mr. John Webb.

Mr. George Dobson took in the play "The Tutor" at Hastings on Wednesday night.

Mrs. J. Mouncey, Fenella and her sister, Miss Mildred Lean, Oshawa, were visitors in the village during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. James Webb, Mr. John Webb, Mrs. Earl Shearer and Mrs. Harold George were in Norwood on Tuesday attending the funeral of the late Richard Beamish.

Mrs. Jessie Varcoe has returned from Toronto where she was taking medical treatment and is still in a serious condition.

Mr. Oscar Nichol of Centreton was in the neighborhood during the past week.

The L.O.L. 361 are having a dance on Friday night, April 20th. with the Danceland ochestra in attendance.

LEON TROTZKY GIVEN ORDERS LEAVE FRANCE

Violated Political Neutrality By Trying to Organize World Revolution.

UNDER HEAVY GUARD.

Gov't Forced Into Step by Public Protests After Discovery by Police.

PARIS, April 17 (A.P.). — Leon Trotzky, exiled Russian revolutionist, was ordered to leave France by the Government to-day because of his efforts to organize a world revolution.

Minister of the Interior Albert Sarraut announced the Cabinet decided to withdraw the permission granted Trotzky to live in France because he "violated the political neutrality" which was made a condition of his stay at Barbizon.

Trotzky has been living in a secluded villa near Barbizon, about 35 miles from Paris, since granted secret permission by the Ministry of the Interior when he came to France from Corsica last July.

The most extraordinary precautions were taken there to conceal his presence, for he feared attacks on his life by white Russians.

Villagers who became suspicious of the mysterious character of the Trotzky household, however, reported to Barbizon authorities. They, unaware of the Government's arrangements with Trotzky, who had lived in their midst for months without their knowing it, raided the villa Sunday.

A nation-wide clamor of protest for Trotzky's expulsion developed immediately after the public learned of his mysterious Barbizon hideaway.

Sarraut declined to say whether Trotzy would be permitted to return to Corsica or whether he would be compelled to quit French territory entirely.

If the latter course is taken, it was presumed Trotzky—a "man without a country"—would return to his former Turkish exile which he left ostensibly because of boredom and poor health.

NEARING END OF TOUR.

PARIS, April 17 (C.P.) — (Via Havas). — Senator Catrine Wilson and her husband, of Rockliffe, Ottawa, who have been holidaying in Paris for the past few days, left for London yesterday.

They will remain in London until the end of the week. They are embarking on the Brittanic on April 21, and will land at Boston.

ENGINEER PASSES.

OTTAWA, April 17 (C.P.)—Widely known in Eastern Canada, Michael J. Doherty, pioneer railway engineer, is dead at his home here after a brief illness. He was 73 years of age.

"Act Your Age"

From a photograph of Robt. G. Jackson, M.D., at 75. When 50 years of age Dr. Jackson was given but four months to live by the famous Sir Wm. Osler, but through natural living habits and the use of alkaline foods Dr. Jackson is to-day in his 76th year the embodiment of youthful vigor and endurance.

"WHAT do you think of Honorable Dr. Robb's (Minister of Health for Ontario) comments upon the physical activities of men and women after 50 as reported in newspapers Monday, February 19th?" Many such inquiries reach me in my 300 letters daily.

Of course, I confirm Dr. Robb's attitude—could not do otherwise in view of the 78% increase in heart disease deaths in Ontario in the past 10 years. But here we have to part company. Dr. Robb says: "Act your age after 50," implying that at 50 the heart has so degenerated that slowing up is necessary. Dr. Robb seems to imply that degeneration is natural and unavoidable. I believe it is almost entirely due to wrong living habits, largely feeding habits, that vital organs of civilized people become impaired at 50, making it necessary to let down and begin to be old men and women. Vital records of civilized nations prove that for years the death rate from heart disease, apoplexy, blood pressure, angina pectoris, kidney and liver diseases, etc., not to speak of cancer, has been increasing alarmingly. Still worse, these deaths have been increasing in the most vital period of life, the middle period.

Professor McCollum, of Johns Hopkins University, pointed out years ago, in his "Newer Knowledge of Nutrition", that between 150,000 and 200,000 people under forty die each year in the States from old age diseases of the vital organs and each year younger persons die of these old age diseases, proved by life insurance tables. McCollum stated that this could be avoided by sensible correction of the feeding habits, and the following facts from official records support his view. In 1881 116 children out of 1000 under five died in New York. Welfare stations were established for educating mothers in child diet and hygiene. By 1920 the death rate dropped to 16 out of every 1000. In Chicago the death rate among infants had risen in 1920 to 122 out of every 1000 births. A campaign of education in child feeding and hygiene reduced, in 13 years, the death rate to 61—cut it in two.

Since this saving in life was made in the most delicately poised period of life, infancy, surely a much greater saving could be made in the middle or most vital period, the thirties to the sixties, by the same improvement in diet and hygiene, for then the body has its greatest natural tendency to live. Yet Dr. Harvey Wylie pointed out in 1920 that never in history was this naturally most vital period so fatal as now, and I possess many graphs from official records to prove Wylie's contention.

Let us level-headed Canadians realize that disease of our vital organs is a thing of our own creating, and avoid it by giving thought to how we ought to live, especially how to feed ourselves. Surely intelligent self-control of our foods and feeding habits might do more for us than enforced control did during the war, when the death rate fell so phenomenally in all countries notwithstanding the terrific strain of the war. For example, the death rate in Denmark fell 34% in one year under enforced food control. Such control would rebuild in our bodies a normal alkali reserve, "Nature's first defense against fatigue, disease and premature death". Nature's way to achieve this result is by the use of alkali-forming foods, the most important of which are Roman Meal, Bekus-Puddy, Lishus and the alkaline beverage Kofy-Sub, the only alkali-forming cereal foods and beverage known. Space forbids mention of the other alkaline foods, but write for my Bulletin No. 27, and it will be sent to you free, together with my booklet "HOW TO KEEP WELL". Address Robt. G. Jackson, M.D., 547 Vine Avenue, Toronto, Ontario.

ANXIETY GROWS FOR FALL WHEAT

Many Ontario Acres Will Have to be Resown Unless Good Weather Appears.

LIGHT SYRUP RUN.

Toronto, April 17 (C.P.).—Ontario farmers to-day are hoping for the appearance of favorable weather to help the fall wheat crop. The weekly crop report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture indicates the prospects for a good fall wheat crop are still in doubt and unless favorable weather appears "a considerable area will have to be cultivated and re-sown to spring crops."

An optimistic note in the report is the fact improvement was noted in auction sale prices, horse values especially showing marked increases.

Production of maple syrup this year is expected to be light. Practically all sections report lower production.

Fruit crops are not very promising in Bruce, Frontenac, Huron and Durham Counties, although it is a little early to make any definite report. Fruit buds in Bruce have been killed by the severe winter, and in Huron the damage to apple trees is greater than at first anticipated.

Orchard owners in Durham discontinued heavy pruning when winter injury was discovered and others postponed their grafting programs until next year. Considerable winter killing has been discovered in Frontenac, particularly to late varieties of fruits.

Frontenac County also reports cattle have been lost through starvation and herds are in poor condition. Scarcity of feed in parts of Glengarry has left cattle in poor shape. Other parts of the province report similar conditions.

CONGRESS GIVEN FRESH ORDERS

Request for $1,500,000,000 for Relief Coming Shortly, Roosevelt Tells Leaders.

MID-MAY ADJOURNMENT.

WASHINGTON, April 17. (A.P.)—President Roosevelt has let the United States' Congress know in a series of week-end conferences just what he wants it to do, what not to do, and when to go home.

He told Congressional leaders over Sunday, among other things, that he shortly would hand them a new request for $1,500,000,000 for relief purposes.

He told them he wants a stock market regulation measure with teeth, and not the kind of teeth the much modified Fletcher-Rayburn measure now carries.

He indicated his willingness to sidetrack, if necessary, some of the less important items of the administration program in order to obtain adjournment by mid-May, but that there would be no sidetracking of those things he regards as vital to his program.

Listed in the imperative class are: Reciprocal tariff, general revenue, municipal bankruptcy, Federal insurance on bank deposits, and relief measures.

The $1,500,000,000 relief bill, which was forecast in the President's budget message in January, will include several provisions, namely a housing program and $500,000,000 for the public works program to aid employment.

The chief executive was described by House members as strongly opposed to the Connery compulsory 30-hour work week bill, the Lemke-Frazier farm mortgage re-financing inflation measure and the McLeod proposition for the Federal government to pay off depositors in closed banks.

ACTION ON FACTOR?

LONDON, April 17.—(A.P.)—The imminent return of Samuel Insull to the United States spurred hopes today of the speedy extradition of John (Jake the Barber) Factor from Chicago to England to face charge of fraudulent stock promotion.

A decision by the states attorney in Chicago not to oppose the return is expected to result in the United States moving just as fast in shipping Factor home as Turkey did in sending Insull back to the United States.

REV. R. NEWMAN REFUSES CALL

Mrs. C. M. Scott of Peterborough is Heard in Millbrook Church.

W. A. SERVICE

MILLBROOK, April 17 (Examiner Correspondence) — A special feature of the morning service at St. Andrew's Church on Sunday was the annual attendance, in a body, of the Women's Missionary Auxiliary, the Mission Circle, and the Mission Band, each organization being well represented, and the Easter thankoffering taken up.

Mrs. (Dr.) C. M. Scott, of Peterborough, was the speaker for the occasion, Rev. Edgar Russell, of the Baptist communion, a visitor in the vicinity reading the psalm and leading in the opening prayer. Mrs. (Rev.) W. W. Jones, Auxiliary president, read the New Testament lesson, and offered the prayer at the conclusion of the address.

Declined Call

Dr. A. Jemison, Clerk of the Session, made the announcements, including the fact that Rev. Mr. Anderson, of Newburgh, who was exchanging pulpits with the pastor for the day with a view to a call, would preach at Z'on in the afternoon and in St. Andrew's at night. The congregational meeting is called for Tuesday, April 18, at 8 p.m., to consider the matter of an exchange of pastors between the Newburgh and Millbrook circuits, the Rev. R. E. Newman, of Chesterville, who had been invited to Millbrook, having declined the call on the ground that the parsonage was not suitable.

The choir sang "Jesus Lover of My Soul" to a most attractive setting, and the male quartet, Messrs. J. L. Byam, W. H. Coombe, M. McDowell, and H. W. Johnston, were heard in the selection, "Softly and tenderly Jesus is calling." Calla lillies and tulips within the altar railing brought an atmosphere of spring to the interior of the sacred edifice, and four Circle girls, Helen Mitchell, Mary Burnham, Bryar Edmunds and Dorothy McDowell took up the offering.

Mrs. Scott was introduced by Mrs. Jones, who spoke of her sixteen years active service with her husband as missionaries in Central India, two years of that time being spent in charge of a W.M.S. hospital. In her address, Mrs. Scott brought an informative message using dolls, in varied costumes, to illustrate the dress of native men and women, and explaining that native women do not object to attendance by male physicians, contrary to popular belief.

"There are five W.M.S. hospitals in India," the speaker said and told how the women in that land, once they become Christian, do not bedeck themselves so lavishly with jewelry as do their heathen sisters. The three seasons, wet, cold and hot, and their effect of the manner in which missionary work is carried on, were described in detail, as also the itinerary in camps with the healing for the people, and the evangelistic services In conclusion Mrs. Scott made an impressive plea for generous givings, and earnest prayer, that the mission work might go on in this needy area.

Junior Institute Holds Euchre Party

LAKEFIELD, April 17 (Examiner Correspondence)—The Junior Institute held a successful euchre party on Wednesday evening last in St. John's Parish Hall. Twelve tables were played and the evening much enjoyed. Prizes were won by Miss Eva Higgins and Robert Leahy and the consolation prizes by Mrs. Wilbert Abbot and Everett Roseborough.

The prizes were donated by Misses Irene Frankish, Edna Higgins, Pearl Mullen and Ethel Blakeley.

GASOLINE IN N. SCOTIA TO BE PUBLIC UTILITY

HALIFAX, April 17 (C.P.).—Nova Scotia Government's bill to class gasoline as a public utility—like electricity, gas and telephones—was one step nearer becoming law today after passing the Legislature's committee of the whole House.

A new departure in Provincial legislation in Canada, the measure will give the Public Utilities Board of Nova Scotia power to regulate the sale and distribution of gasoline in the province.

It probably will be read a third time to-day. Passage through the committee of the whole late last night was delayed by a keen battle between Government and Opposition members.

Warning that the whole gasoline industry would be thrown into confusion was issued by Opposition Leader Gordon S. Harrington, who pressed the Government to alter the measure to make it one of inquiry so that the public and the Ministry might have fullest information with which to work when it came to regulating prices and difficulties in the industry.

RYLSTONE

On Wednesday evening, April 11, the Rylstone Community League held their weekly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Finch with attendance of twenty-four.

Scriptural reading was read by Pearle Stewart. Hymn 99, "From Greenland's icy mountain" was then sung. Winnie Spencer the missionary convenor then took charge of the following program: Topic was then given by Winnie Spencer.

Splendid reports were given of the League convention in Belleville on Monday, April 9th by the delegates, Winnie Spencer and Ross Thomson. Rev. H. W. Foley then gave an interesting talk on "Young Peoples' Work." Flower contest was then presented by Vera Finch. Meeting was closed with Mizpah benediction.

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday evening, April 18 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Meiklejohn.

A CHANCE FOR THE DRYS.

It is rumored that M. F. Hepburn, the Liberal provincial leader, is about to come out with a wine-and-beer policy that will go even further than the Government proposes to go, one of the features being the abolition of the permit system.

If this report should prove to be correct and not mere conjecture, it means that both old parties in the province intend to pin their faith upon the wet vote, and it is by no means certain that they are not making a major error in political strategy.

The vote-getting importance of the beer-by-the-glass policy can easily be over-estimated; as a matter of fact, there is an ominous undercurrent of protest in many sections of the province at the proposed loosening up of "booze" regulations, and this sentiment is obviously strong enough to make the rumored entrance of independent "dry" candidates a matter of grave concern to the boards of strategy of the two old political organizations.

With the "wet" vote split up between the Government and Liberal forces, there is more than an excellent chance for independent candidates to ride to victory upon the strength of the dry feeling that is making itself a factor in the campaign.

It may easily prove to be the case that Mr. Henry has chosen the wrong time to advocate looser liquor laws, and that Mr. Hepburn has been guilty of equally bad judgment in choosing the present moment to yank his party out of the dry column.

Given anything like proper organization and leadership, the Ontario drys can make the next two months a decidedly embarrassing period for both old parties.

PROTECT THE CHILDREN.

The all too prevelent practice on the part of parents of leaving young children alone in the house, often locked in, came to the attention of a corner's jury in Toronto the other day, following the death of a child in a fire, and in its verdict the jury recommended that the Criminal Code should be amended to make it an indictable offence to expose children to such dangers.

Since that finding there has already been another case in which unfortunate little ones, left at home alone, lost their lives when fire broke out, and there have been scores of similar tragedies in Canada during the past year or two.

Certainly if the horror of these fatalities has not made sufficient impression upon other parents to cause them to safeguard their small children, it would seem to be time for the law to step in and make an example of those who through callous indifference toward the safety of their families and to satisfy their own desire for pleasure lock their little ones in and go blithely off to seek entertainment, oblivious to the danger to which the hapless youngsters may be exposed in their absence.

Canada has been horrified by the frequent tragedies originating from this cause, yet the practice continues despite the sacrifice of scores of children to the selfishness or indifference of those whose first duty in life should be to protect them.

It is often complained that we have too many laws—and there is ground for the complaint—yet it would surely seem necessary that the state should do something to save unprotected little children from horrible death, seeing that too many Canadian parents have shown themselves unworthy of their responsibility.

THE SOUTH OXFORD RESULT.

The Examiner's prediction that South Oxford would remain in the Liberal column after yesterday's by-election has turned out to be accurate, A. S. Rennie, the Liberal candidate, being returned by a large majority over Hon. Donald Sutherland, the only Conservative to ever represent the riding at Ottawa.

The result will be acclaimed by the Liberal party as a mandate to the Ottawa Government to go to the country this year, but frankly we will be surprised if, instead of producing an early election, it does not cause the Conservative board of strategy to abandon any idea of appealing to the electorate until next year, by which time better economic conditions might make the going somewhat easier.

Certainly there was nothing in yesterday's result to justify the Government bringing on a general election with any feeling of confidence in the outcome, for while it is true that the result did not effect the numerical strength of the two old parties in the House, the fact that a veteran campaigner like Hon. Donald Sutherland, who had four times been successful in South Oxford and in 1930 was only beaten by 55 votes should lose by the largest majority in the history of the riding, is undoubtedly a blow to the prestige of the Bennett administration.

The result may well give the Government strategists some concern; to put the best possible face on it, the South Oxford vote indicates that economic conditions are still working strongly against the administration, and will unquestionably convince those who dictate the party strategy that an appeal to the country at this stage would be committing political hari-kari.

A. S. Rennie, the successful Liberal candidate yesterday, is a newcomer to federal politics and a comparatively young man, a former mayor of Tillsonburg, while his opponent was one of the old guard, a veteran of the political wars, who was 71 years old a week ago; Hon. Donald Sutherland won in South Oxford in 1911, 1917, 1921 and 1925, to lose out in 1926 and 1930, and to sustain his third defeat in succession yesterday.

THE BRITISH PLAN.

There is much food and concern for Canadians in the article in the current issue of MacLean's Magazine by G. R. Stevens, Canadian trade commissioner in Melbourne, Australia, who discusses the policy of the British Minister of Agriculture, the Rt. Hon. Walter Elliott, and his campaign to make Great Britain independent in the matter of food supply.

In a sentence Mr. Elliott's plan is to have Britishers spend at home the billion dollars that now goes to outside producers in Empire and foreign countries.

The figures given by Mr. Stevens are most striking.

Every year, he says, Great Britain pays out $250,000,000 for imported hams, bacon and lard, and up to recent months had been raising only six pigs for every 100 inhabitants, as against Canada's 46 and Denmark's 140 per 100.

Under Mr. Elliott's plan of a duty on foreign pork products and decreasing quota on similar products from Empire countries, the British pig population has increased 40 per cent. in two years, while bacon production has grown by 70 per cent.

He's not stopping at pigs, but has a scheme for sheep and lambs, beef, cereals and dairy products—a development that is of the greatest importance to this country.

Britain is the biggest buyer in the world, for she spends $259,000,000 on pig products and $300,000,000 for butter, eggs, cheese and other dairy products. Half of the world's cheese, seven out of every ten tons of butter and 96 per cent. of all exports of lamb and mutton are absorbed by the British market. Every year the British people pay out $100,000,000 for dairy products and $60,000,000 for mutton and lamb, mostly from Australia and New Zealand, and $350,000,000 for wheat and other grain, mostly from Canada.

If British plans are successful, and, of course, their working out will be a gradual process, primary producers in Canada and other Empire countries are facing a serious situation. The possibility of losing such a market is one that cannot be contemplated unmoved, and it should be engaging the best attention and the earnest thought of all Canadians.

"If Major Elliott's plans succeed—and they are well in train to succeed," says Mr. Stevens, "we shall find development of the British market very difficult in future, and we shall be fortunate if we hold our present share.

"The supreme endeavor of every British Dominion should be to preserve at any reasonable cost the British market in its present magnitude. If that market disappears, those other millions of population, of whom we once talked and for whom we once planned, may never come to us. In their absence there is more than a possibility that within the next century others, not of our color, race or outlook, whose lands are now crammed to bursting, may try to hold us to account for our empty spaces. I am not exaggerating, therefore, when I suggest that today we may be witnessing a turn in the tide of our affairs which foreshadows tragedy and disaster."

YOUNG PEOPLE IN POLITICS.

The growing movement on the part of members of the rising generation to associate themselves with active political undertakings is both a hopeful and refreshing sign which augurs well for the future of the political parties and the country as a whole.

For many years the criticism has been voiced that younger people took little or no interest in the way in which they were governed, and if they were called upon to vote they did so automatically or not at all without devoting much, if any, thought to the questions at issue. Since the young people of the present are the future rulers of the country this was regarded as a most unsatisfactory condition.

The establishment of permanent young people's movements in association with the different political parties in Canada holds, however, exceptional promise for the future. There have been organizations of this description before, but in far too many instances they did not remain in existence beyond an election period. The present organizations are, however, established in permanent form and devote unceasing attention to the study of public questions, thus assuring the country of the services of an enlightened and active electorate in the future.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

MOTOR LICENSES.

Reports indicate that motorists, not only in Toronto but also in large numbers throughout the province, failed to heed the warnings of the Department of Highways to secure their licenses without further delay. It was intimated that the period of grace would expire promptly on Saturday, and that there were thousands of motor vehicle owners still driving cars with obsolete licenses. "There is no indication," said Mr. J. P. Bickle, registrar of motor vehicles for Toronto, "on the part of the Government to grant a further extension of time. The results have been very disappointing. Special facilities have been provided for the convenience of motorists, but comparatively few have availed themselves of the opportunity. The facilities at the main branch here in the Parliament Buildings have not been taxed to anything like the same extent as in previous years."

What the Provincial Government should do is to instruct the police throughout the province to vigorously enforce the law and prosecute delinquents, who, after an extension of three months' time, have failed to purchase their licenses. The fact of the matter is that the policy of extending the time is becoming a farce, as thousands of motorists, believing that the department will grant an extension of time, neglect to purchase their new licenses until months have elapsed. Why not change the whole system and put the new licenses on sale by at least December 1, and then require every car on the highways to bear a new license January 1 or the owner face prosecution? The present system has become a joke, and just as long as the Government continues to trifle with it thousands of motorists will be ready to take advantage of the situation.—Brantford Expositor.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Let us hope that Mr. Rhodes will have at least a little measure of cheer to offer us when he brings down his budget to-morrow.

The Health Association has done much for this community, and in its present campaign should have whole-hearted support from the public.

A definite statement from Mr. Hepburn on the beer issue is expected shortly. Until the official attitude of the Liberal party is established the election campaign will more or less mark time.

The Ottawa Journal was all prepared for a Government defeat in South Oxford, remarking that a Liberal victory in the by-election would be a case of the Dutch taking Holland.

With the opening of the big league ball season at hand, winter has been served with its final notice to abdicate.

There are two sides to every question, but the eternal triangle has three sides.—Kitchener Record.

CHAPTER 40

Tiggie had meant to remain awake and on guard throughout the afternoon, but nature was too strong for him. Spot, peering in through the window while taking a half hour of much needed relaxation himself a little later, smiled to see him stretched out in a deep slumber, and rejoined his wife on tiptoe.

"Sleeping like a baby. Do him no end of good. Just what he wants."

"Poor dear Tiggie!" murmured Helen maternally. "He really has had a rotten time. I suppose you haven't heard how he and that eccentric brother-in-law of his got hold of her?"

"Not a word," said Spot. "I only know the stepbrother at Putney is an impossibility. And," with a side-long glance, "I rather gather the husband is too."

"Oh, do you?" said Helen. "You know, I always wondered!"

"So do I," said Spot. "But my curiosity on that point has not been gratified, nor—as far as I can see—is it likely to be."

Helen sighed. "Poor little thing! She's so alone."

"Not at all!" said Spot. "There's Tiggie."

Helen sighed again. "That makes it worse, doesn't it? You know, dear, I can't help thinking—fearing——"

"It's no good doing either," said Spot. "You can't help them—either of them. Tiggie's a gentleman. That's the only safeguard. He'd cut his throat sooner than do anything shabby."

"Oh, but I'd rather he did anything than that!" protested Helen. "I've got so fond of her—of them both. It's a terribly sad world, isn't it?"

"Rotten," said Spot. "But we can't do more than stand by, either of us. The poor girl may sink in any case, and if she does, it may be for the best; but God help poor Tiggie!"

"God help them both—either way!" said Helen gently.

Tiggie's sleep was profound, and lasted until even the late sunlight of the summer day had begun to wane. The cottage was very still. The local doctor had departed. The children, with the exception of Joyce who crept in to have tea with her father while Helen joined the rest on the shore, were not allowed to enter the tiny flagged garden.

Joyce, fully conscious of her favored position, poured out the tea sitting by Spot's side in the little porch and talked in whispers of the day's happenings. The children had all been good—very, very good—all the afternoon. Peter was getting so brave, and actually paddled by himself when he thought no one was looking, though of course, she was really watching him all the time. A soft ripple of laughter here, instantly suppressed! And Jenny Wren had been simply no trouble and had gone to sleep on a rug on the beach just as usual, as if she had been in her perambulator. She too had paddled afterwards a weeny bit, holding on to Joyce. At least she had kicked the water and laughed, which had been very funny. And the long, thin man who was Uncle Tiggie's friend, had come up and asked how old she was and whether she was a fairy child or just an ordinary human being. She, Joyce, had told him that she didn't think fairies had children, and anyhow, Jenny Wren belonged to them, and he had said that they had better look after her and mind the fairies didn't steal her. But his eyes had twinkled all the time, and so she knew he was only laughing.

And then he had picked up Jenny Wren who had pulled his beard and kicked him, all in fun. There was more carefully suppressed merriment here. And he hadn't minded a bit, but had sat down and let them bury him right up to his shoulders in sand. Jack and Peter had loved it. And when they were tired he had told them a story, all about hobgoblins, whom he called the Little People, and he seemed to know so much about them that she thought he must somehow belong to them himself. He had funny crooked eyebrows, too, which made him different from most people she had met. Daddy really ought to see him. Perhaps he was a wizard! He did look like one.

"Well, mind he doesn't turn you and Jenny Wren into white mice," cautioned Spot, "or I shall have to buy a cage to keep you in. I must meet this gentleman and ask him to keep his spells to himself."

This delighted Joyce whose feminine mind relished a spice of mystery, and whose regard for the stranger had been considerably enhanced by his earlier aloofness. They sat and talked for some time in low tones till Spot, having finished his pipe, rose to go up and look at his patient.

"She is better, isn't she?" whispered Joyce, detaining him with a touch of wistfulness.

"I can't say that yet," said Spot.

"She soon will be," said Joyce, nodding wisely. "Uncle Tiggie knows she will be too. That's why he's sleeping so nicely."

"Who told you that?" said Spot.

But Joyce was overcome with sudden shyness. She shook her head and ran away.

Late that evening, when the shadows were turning into dusk, Tiggie awoke and stretched himself with a prolonged yawn. It took him a moment or two to recognize his surroundings, and when he did so he stumbled up, but had to sit down again owing to a very unusual feeling of weakness.

"By Jove, that's queer!" he said, staring before him half dazed.

A small voice from the window seat accosted him. "Oh, Uncle Tiggie, are you awake at last? I am so glad. Mummy said I might stay if I promised not to move. And here's something here that daddy says you are to take the minute you wake."

"Good gracious, child!" said Tiggie. "However long have I been asleep? Is it tomorrow or the day after?"

She came to him through the gloom, holding a glass with great care. "No, Uncle Tiggie, it's still today. And please will you drink this quick before you do anything else?"

Tiggie took the glass, but he did not put it to his lips. Memory crowded back upon him, and he sat for a second or two almost afraid to speak. Then, "For goodness' sake tell me how she is!" he said.

The child was standing by his side. She laid her hand on his knee. "Auntie Viola's better," she said

Tiggie turned with a desperate movement. "You're sure? You're sure? They haven't sent you to tell me—anything else?"

"I'm quite, quite sure, Uncle Tiggie," said Joyce with much emphasis. "Daddy is just ever so pleased. But we knew, didn't we?"

"Did we?" said Tiggie. He leaned back, feeling his heart gradually steady down while the blessed sensation of relief calmed all his senses.

"Do please drink that before you spill it!" urged little Joyce.

He lifted the glass obediently and drained it.

She took it from him. "Yes, we did know Uncle Tiggie," she said seriously. "You know we did."

He put his arm round her. "Does daddy really think she'll be all right now?" he asked.

She leaned against him. "Yes, I heard him tell mummy. Better than he'd hoped for, he said. But we knew last night, didn't we, Uncle Tiggie? We knew it was going to be all right."

She waited for his answer and Tiggie replied at length, his voice low, half ashamed. "I didn't, Joyce. It was no good. I tried to put my back into it, but I couldn't. I was too afraid."

"Oh, poor Uncle Tiggie!" She reached up to kiss him. "But you see it was all right all the time. You won't be afraid any more, will you? Promise!"

He kissed her fervently. "Bless you, little girl!" he said. "Yes, I'll play the game now. I'll be brave."

She slipped from his encircling arm. "I'm going to bed now. It's getting late. Good night, Uncle Tiggie! She'll soon be well now."

She opened the door softly and was gone. Tiggie sat for a few moments in the darkness, not stirring. Then he got up and looked out through the open window over the pearly sea. The evening star hung above, shimmering in the falling light, and a great peace lay all around.

He stood quite motionless for a space, and then at length as it were in instinctive salute his hand went up to his forehead.

"Thank you," he said simply and bluntly, and turned away. He was never a man of many words, and there was nothing else to be said.

When Tiggie saw Viola again, there was a faint tinge of color in her white face, and though so weak that she could barely lift her hand she was able to give him a smile of welcome.

He had been given 10 minutes only by Spot who was inclined to be autocratic, but he made no attempt to spend them in idle talk. He merely sat beside her, holding the delicate wrist and sometimes softly stroking the nerveless fingers that scarcely responded to his touch. There was no sense of embarrassment between them. They had drifted into calm waters, and the storm was past.

When he asked if she were better, she assented, and once, just before he left, she spoke of her own accord.

"Thank you for coming—for all you've done. I'll try not to be—any more trouble now."

"Try to get well—that's all that matters," said Tiggie.

And her faint smile seemed to convey a promise. He left her, feeling happier than he had felt for months.

Comedy 'Aaron Slick' Given In Warkworth

WARKWORTH, April 16 (Examiner Correspondence).—Under the direction of Mrs. J. W. Mowat, the play "Aaron Slick from Punkin Crick," was given under the auspices of St. John's Anglican Church in the town hall here, Friday evening. The play was full of humor and the splendid acting of those taking part brought much applause from a large and appreciative audience.

Solos by Mr. Clayton Cole, Norham, and music by Potters Orchestra was greatly enjoyed.

The cast of characters, is as follows:

Aaron Slick (not as green as he looks), Fred Ward; Mr. Wilbur Merriden (a crocked speculator), Matt Allman; Clarence Green (a mysterious young man) Leslie Tolly; Mrs. Rosy Berry (an Oklahoma widow), Mrs. Andy Maidens; Gladys May Merriden (a smart young thing), Mrs. George Brooks; The Girl in Red, Rose Allman; Little Sis Riggs (a regular tomboy) Edith Allman.

A LUCKY WIND

REDFIELD, S.D., April 16 (CP)—Dust storms which have been sweeping several Midwestern States and causing endless worry to housewives brought only joy to Mrs. Alphonse Holtzman. The winds uncovered a diamond ring she lost three years ago.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

On this date in 1637 the first attempt at ballooning was made at Moose Factory. The man who attempted this then marvelous feat was Dr. John Rae, the famous trader and surgeon of the Hudson's Bay Company. His letters contain one dated April 17, 1837 giving an account of experiments at Moose Factory that day in raising a balloon, named the "Sunflyer," by means of solar heat. The result is not definitely stated, so that we may take it for granted that it was not a success. This is hardly to be wondered at in view of the earliness of the season and the weakness of the sun at this time of year in the north. Coal, gas, which had been first used by Charles Green, the English balloonist in 1825, was, of course, not available.

Nearly a hundred years have passed since that experiment at Moose Factory. Today the air-mindedness of John Rae is justified by the air fleets which are covering the vast country which he explored so thoroughly on foot. Who knows that ere long we have an Empire Airways, from London to Winnipeg, passing over the Scottish birthplace of the great Rae and the Arctic coast which he penetrated in his search for the relics of the Franklin expedition. John Rae lived to be 80 years old, but was vigorous to his death. After his retirement from the Hudson's Bay Company service he came back to Upper Canada, lived there for a time, and actually walked from Hamilton to Toronto on snowshoes,, doing the 40 miles in seven hours.

Foreign Affairs

The Baltic States Have Bartered Their New-Found Liberties for a Mess of Pottage

(By H. W. L. MAHOOD)

A Little State But Oh My!

DANZIG

The Versailles Treaty carved out four beautiful little states along the Baltic Sea. At the north is Estonia, then southward comes Latvia, then Lithuania, and at the south end East Prussia. But the free city of Danzig must not be overlooked. The city with its small strip of country lying around it like an ancient wall is buffer between East Prussia and Poland. But the smallest independent government on earth is not negligible. When the strong respect all the rights of the tinest there is hope for the righting of all international relationships. Danzig is at least a key to the European situation. Once upon a time Belgium was. Danzig now is.

One Man Made Baltic States Go Nazi

LATVIA

Alfred Rosenberg was born in Estonia. There he had his schooling. He is a man of action. Had he travelled more his political career might have been different. Born in a little state his outlook was limited. Brains and lots of vigor often rush a man to an extreme, thus it has been with Rosenberg. For a time he was a Russian subject. He witnessed the pillaging of the weak under Czarist regime. Then came the confiscation of the wealth of the rich by the Soviet Socialist. Rosenberg could see no future for the Baltic States without capital. He therefore cast his lot with the Nazi. He chose Latvia for his new home.

Soon his activities impressed all the Baltic states. He was kept busy responding to invitations from Estonia, East Prussia and Danzig. In each the people were not adverse to the organization of the Nazi. Danzig is a ward of the League of Nations. Herman Rauchning is President of the Senate and is virtually a dictator. Danzing has a High Commissioner—Dr. Rosting. He was placed in command of the department of Law and Order. He is an officer in name only. Rauchning is the boss.

When Latvia began its career it had a fairly capable parliament. Although none of its members rose to distinction its laws were founded on justice and righteousness. The people were well governed. Then came the Nazi. There are prejudices so deeply rooted in the Latvian people against the Russians that when Russia went Socialist Latvia went Nazi.

Many Jews had found refuge in Latvia from the relentless persecution of the Russians. But as soon as the Nazi obtained power in Latvia a movement was inaugurated to deprive the Jews of the right to vote, and to own property, and to obtain trade licenses. Riga is the capital city. In that city the Nazi have organized the Liberation League and the Blue Eagle. Both publish newspapers. Latvia had the Blue Eagle long before President Roosevelt. Riga has a man by name Benjaminosh. He is the world's chief intriguer. Russia would like to get its hands on him. But he is too subtle for the Russian.

Mussert Gets Some Financial Subsidies From Berlin Reported

HOLLAND

The utter devotion of Christians to the Christ has been the chief feature of the past twenty centuries. Only a cause of the highest import could call forth such consecration. To say the least, the Nazis are devotees. It the reader was travelling through Holland, getting only a surface impression, his conclusion would likely be that the Dutch government is against the Nazis.

Designs of far reaching consequences cannot be concealed for long. In some way selfish schemes are self revealing. The Nazis are strongly entrenched in Holland. They are there with well defined and specific plans. To dwell in Holland for a few months, or long enough to sense the under-surface of Dutch life the traveller would surely experience an awakening. The Nazis are everywhere in Holland as they are everywhere in Germany. Like the tenacles of a deep sea monster the Nazis are gripping Holland.

Limburg in Holland is noted not only for its Limburger cheese but for its coal mines. Openly the Nazis are bidding for them. In this the design of Hitler. In the event of war Limburg would be a valuable asset. The Dutch Nazis could deliver. The Nazis in Germany may some day absorb Holland. This is no idle dream. If their lost colonial possessions are not returned Germany sees a way through the organization of the Nazis in Holland and in other small European countries to en large her borders. The Nazis are not pre-eminently occupied with home affairs. The eye of Hitler and his followers is upon Germany's to-morrow.

In Holland there are twenty groups of Nazis. Holland for propaganda purposes is parcelled out among them. A. A. Mussert is Hitler's right hand man. He is as devoted to Hitler as if he were a German. This capable man—Mussert has secured from Germany considerable subsidies for organization and propaganda needs. The De Deitsche Gedachter is Mussert's newspaper. The circulation has increased to such an extent it had to be recently enlarged. This points the growth of the Nazis.

ALL OF US

(By Marshall Maslin.)

LIFE IS NEVER DULL

Not life, but people grow dull.... I have grown weary of life, says a man. The nap has worn off the world, says a mournful mortal. I have seen everything, I have done everything, I am hemmed in by commonplace things, I have exhausted this business of living, nothing remains for me.

O foolish fellow! Not life, but you are exhausted. You have touched lightly with but the tips of the fingers of your soul the incredible mystery of being alive, and already in these few years of the endless adventure you are grown slack and flabby and complain of the limitations of existence. You think you have attained the far horizons, you believe that you have reached the far end. But it extends further than you, little you, have ever traveled....Men have gone to every corner of this earth and seen little, but other men have wandered in the immensities of the invisible atom and encountered words of amazement.

Plant a seed and you will be in the presence of mystery. Sink it half an inch in the moist black earth and beneat your feet the magic of recreation begins....Watch a puppy playing about at your feet. See that small fellow doing things that every puppy since the beginning of the breed has done—and wonder at the uncanny duplication of habits....See a child walk, make a motion with his hands and cry out as you recognise that child, never seen by you before, as the son of your friend, whose every action is so familiar to you....Watch that mother bending happily over her infant and remember how that mother suffered to bring it into the world—and how swiftly she forgot agony in the blessedness of motherhood....Think of the comfort a man takes out of working with his hand and making something that is his very own....Remember the miracle of a running stream and lightning in the heavens and the glory of the full moon and the gentleness of a strong man....Think of the strangeness of "co-incidences", of the way you read the mind of your friend, of the soft look of peace on the face of the dead, of friendships you have, of the patient, endurance, courage and audacity of simple human beings.

Look up, look around, look inwards and repeat—if you dare—that THIS is a dull world!

A Thought

MOTHERS

Despise not thy mother when she is old. Age may waste a mother's beauty, strength, limbs, senses, and estate; but her relation as a mother is as the sun when it goes forth in its might—for it is always the meridian and knoweth no evening. The person may be grey-headed, but her motherly relation is ever in the flourish. It may be autumn, yea, winter with a woman, but with the mother it is always spring. Alas, how little do we appreciate a mother's tenderness while living. How heedless we are of al lher anxieties and kindness! But when she is dead and gone—when the cares and coldness of the world come withering to our hearts—when we experience how hard it is to find true sympathy, how few will befriend us in misfortune—then it is that we think of the mother we have lost.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

GERMAN ARMAMENTS ADD MORE DIFFICULTIES

LONDON, April 17 (A.P.).—The big increase in the German budget for armaments was described in authoritative quarters to-day as having "a disturbing effect" on disarmament negotiations.

It is regarded as tending to make efforts to persuade France and other neighbors of Germany to disarm more difficult. This budget expenditure, however, is not being used by the British Government as a proof in itself that Germany is violating the Versailles treaty.

'QUAKE IN CALIFORNIA.

SANTA ANA, Calif., April 17 (C. P.). — A severe earthquake shock caused persons to leave their homes and office buildings in Santa Ana to-day.

No damage was believed to have been done, but the Orange County Courthouse swayed, and almost everyone left the building.

The shock was felt at 10.33 a.m. It was the most severe here since the earthquake of March 10, 1933.

OBSERVES BIRTHDAY

LINDSAY, Ont., April 17 (CP)—Mrs. John Rear, who is 88 to-day, will celebrate the happy event by giving some of her grandchildren beautiful articles of fancy work which she knitted or crocheted in the past year. The aged lady still enjoys the best of health and besides doing fancy work with skill and quickness which many younger people envy.

CLEAR DECKS FOR GENERAL ELECTIONS IN SASKATCHEWAN

Three Political Parties Gird Armour in Prospect for 55 Seats at Issue.

IN JUNE BALLOTING.

REGINA, April 17. (C.P.)—Anticipating nominations late in May and voting in June, Saskatchewan's three political parties to-day prepared for strenuous campaigns for the 55 seats at stake in the reduced legislature.

Candidates nominated to date total 134 and only about a dozen nominating conventions are in the offing to complete the list. With three parties out in full strength, the province is promised its most exciting election campaign since the first legislature was elected in 1905.

Outstanding in the campaign will be Dr. J. T. M. Anderson, premier of the Co-operative government which is largely composed of Conservatives; Hon. J. G. Gardiner, former premier and Liberal leader, and M. J. Coldwell, Regina school principal who leads the Farmer-Labor party. The Farmer-Labor party is affiliated with the Co-Operative Commonwealth Federation, with Mr. Coldwell taking a prominent part in the C.C.F. convention a year ago at Regina.

Standing of the present legislature, which prorogued April 7 at the end of its sixth session, was: conservatives, 23; Liberals, 26; Progressives, 4; Independents, 5; vacant, 5; total, 63. The Anderson administration lived on a slim majority garnered from the Progressive and Independent groups. Under the redistribution, eight seats were eliminated from the house membership.

The five vacancies in the legislature were the unseating of Norman McLeod, Liberal member for Estevan, and the deaths of James Cobban, (Cons., Elrose) E. S. Whatley, (Prog., Kindersley); S. W. Huston, (Ind., Battleford) and D. M. Strath, (Lib., Happyland). The seats were not filled owing to the imminence of the general election.

Unseating of Mr. McLeod in the Estevan riding came after long court procedures. He was declared elected over Charlie McKnight, Conservative, by a majority of five but on the recount McKnight was declared elected with a majority of 14. Tempering of ballots was uncovered and in 1931 the legislature permitted substitution of McLeod's name as the elected member. Later, the courts nullified the election.

Saskatchewan was created a province Sept. 1, 1905 and from then on until the general elections of Sept. 9, 1929, when the Anderson Co-operative government was elected, the government had always been formed by the Liberal party. Hon. Walter Scott was premier from Sept. 5, 1905, until Oct. 19, 1916; Hon. W. M. Martin, held office from Oct. 20, 1916 until April 5, 1922; Hon. Charles Dunning headed the government from April 5, 1922 until Feb. 26, 1926 and was followed by Hon. James Gardiner. Premier J. T. M. Anderson was elected in June, 1929.

After the general election of 1929 the Liberals had only 28 seats against a combined opposition of 35 Conservatives, Independents and Progressives. Prior to the election the standing was: Liberals, 53; Progressives, 5; Conservatives, 4; Independents, 1. The Anderson administration was formed after the Gardiner government had been defeated on a confidence vote.

Representation in the house was increased from 25 to 41 by the third session of the first legislature and from 41 to 54 in 1912. An increase to 59 seats was voted in 1916 and then it was increased to its present strength of 63 in 1920. Provision for the redistribution and reduction of members to 55 was made at the 1932 session, the number of constituencies being 52 with Regina, Saskatoon and Moose Jaw each having two members.

Bishop Has Misgivings Oxord Group's Influence

SAINT JOHN, N.B., April 17 (CP)—"I cannot conceal from you the fact that all my consideration of the subject has awakened in my mind very grave misgivings as to the influence of the groups movement upon the church and upon religious life generally." Commenting on the Oxford Group Movement, Bishop J. A. Richardson made the statement to-day in his charge to the Fredericton Diocesan Synod of the Church of England.

Despite his "misgivings," however, the Bishop declared that "By the courage with which the groups movement pursues its tremendous task, it is setting an inspiring example to the church, for only too often the church fails because it shrinks from difficult undertakings."

He recognized "quite clearly the earnestness and zeal of the groups movement, but I cannot fail to remember the clear witness of the church's history that even those admirable characteristics cannot always be accepted as sufficient guarantees of abiding spiritual value."

Sheep and lambs quotations remained unchanged.

Indian Is Suspected In Hamilton Holdup

BRANTFORD, Ont., April 17 (C.P.).—Picked up as he jumped off a freight train here late last night, Abraham John, Hagersville Indian, was held to-day for questioning by Hamilton police as a suspect in the attempted hold-up of a street car conductor at Hamilton last night.

He appeared before Magistrate S. A. Jones in court this morning on a charge of trespassing on the Canadian National railway. The Magistrate remarked that he did not like holding a man for police without sufficient reason. Consequently an adjournment was made until this afternoon in the case. John Mason, the street car conductor who was the victim of the two hold-up men, stated here to-day that both spoke English, but he could not swear whether or not one of them was an Indian. He was brought to Brantford to identify John if possible.

Men Will Picket Lock Works Shop

Members of Local Union No. 191, of the International Moulders' Union of North America, of this city, who have been on strike since February 27th, in protest against a violation by the Peterborough Lock Co. of an agreement between the firm and their members, which does not expire until May 1st, have decided to picket the shop and use every honorable means to win their strike. Although efforts have been made to effect a settlement with the firm no adjustment has been obtained up to this time, the men report to The Examiner.

The trial is now in its fifth day and Dr. Frankish is the 26th Crown witness. It is likely he will be on the stand for the remainder of the day.

Effect of Stains, Dyes.

Much of the time this morning was occupied by Donald C. Smith, of Smith's Falls, in cross-examining Professor Joslyn Rogers, provincial analyst, as to the effect of stains caused by dyes, alcohol, and water on the cover of a bock that was produced in court.

Professor Rogers said a new mattress would burn more rapidly than a used one which was compressed by use. The cross-examination of Professor Rogers occupied more than an hour's time.

John McLean, Smith's Falls, brother of the late Miss Eva Elizabeth McLean was the next witness. He said his sister had worked for Dr Pratt for 25 years. Witness testified that he saw Dr. Pratt on January 5, when he secured pieces of material of his sister's clothing which was stuck to the door frame in Dr. Pratt's residence. These he identified in court.

During a conversation with Dr. Pratt, witness testified that the accused had said to him, "John you know Eve was very headstrong."

In cross-examination witness said he saw his sister on the Wednesday before her death.

Bert Woon, Toronto, manufacturer of mattresses, was recalled today, and he said that the mattress used in the experimental test was identical to the one sold Dr. Pratt.

FALSE BATTLE RUMORS.

ASCUNSION, Paraguay, April 17. (A.P.)—Bolivian war bulletins describing a great battle near Fort Ballivian with 3,000 Paraguyan casualties were called baseless today by Major General Jose Estigarribia, commander of this country's forces in the "green hell" of the Chaco.

In the communication to the war ministry Estigarribia said: "Recent days have hardly produced skirmishes, with the enemy's rear guard constantly retreating.

PROBE JAP'S SUICIDE.

NAPLES, Italy, April 17 (C.P.) — An investigation of the reported suicide of Captain Yusuke Ohtani, Japanese naval attache in Rome, was started here to-day.

Authorities said Captain Ohtani's body was found hanging by a towel yesterday from a shower fixture in a Naples hotel.

Japanese Consular officials in Rome, shocked by the tragedy and unable to ascribe a motive, asked for details. They planned a separate probe.

BODY TOWED ASHORE

CHATHAM, Ont., April 17 (CP) —The body of a man towed ashore near Big Point, Dover Township, late this morning, is believed to be that of a man named Foster from St. Clair, Michigan.

The body was found two miles out in Lake St. Clair by Donnie Gifford of Dover Township and brought ashore where it was turned over to Provincial Officer Alvah Peters.

A gun license in the clothing indicated that the man's name was Foster, aged 30, a resident of St. Clair, Mich.

GOVERNMENT TAKES ACTION

MADRID, April 17 (AP) — The Government stepped sternly into the Valencia Labor crisis to-day to declare a "state of alarm."

The decree, although similar in some respect to martial law, is not as drastic.

BUYING SPIRIT IS REVIVED ON TORONTO BOARD

International Nickel Carried Up to $28 for Gain of 60 Cents.

BRIGHTER TONE.

Buying as Well as Price Tone Improves To-day on Mining Section.

TORONTO, April 17.—(CP)—Revival of spirits on the New York Market this afternoon restored buying power on Toronto Stock Exchange, industrial section today and International Pete was pushed up to a new high for the year at 27. Nickel was carried up to $28 for a gain of 60 cents. The general tone was distinctly better than during the morning session and grains predominated at the close over losses.

Along with Nickel, Ford 'A' and C.P.R. registered gains and the Distillery stocks finished higher. Distillers Seagram and Walkers common each advanced nearly a point and Canadian Industrial Alcohol gained ⅝ to 15¼. Brewers and Distillers closed unchanged at $2.25.

TORONTO, April 17 (CP)—The Mining Section of the Toronto Stock Exchange appeared a little more cheerful this afternoon and buying improved as well as the price tone, particularly in the base metals and golds. Secondary golds recovered some of the morning losses, but the silver group was still off at the close.

The senior golds closed strong.

When New York carried Nickel up to $28, base metal shares responded here to a moderate extent. Noranda recovered to $43, and Hudson Bay, Sherritt, Sudbury Basin and Coast Copper finished the day with narrow gains.

Dome, McIntyre, Lake Shore, Wright Hargreaves and Teck Hughes all closed a little higher, while Hollinger gained 30 cents and Bralorne and Pioneer were off 10 to 25 cents each.

NAVIGATION OPENS.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., April 17.—(C.P.).—Navigation opened on the Georgian Bay for 1934 to-day when the tug Harrison of the John Harrison and Sons Co., Ltd., left shortly before noon for Fitzwilliam Island, with a load of supplies for the men who have been in the bush there during the winter months. There is still plenty of ice in the bay, but the Harrison made a trip on Monday several miles out and found that with her ice breaker she could get through quite handily.

NOT SURPRISING.

TORONTO, April 17. — (C.P.) — "There is nothing surprising about South Oxford," said Premier George S. Henry in commenting on the Liberal victory in the Dominion by-election yesterday.

"It has been looked on as a Liberal seat with the Conservatives holding it occasionally," he said. "But apparently the effect of the Ottawa agreement has not sifted through to the pockets of the average farmer who has not appreciated what has been done for him."

VALDES RESIGNS OFFICE.

MADRID, April 17 (AP).—Alvarez Valdes resigned formally to-day from the office of Minister of Justice in the Cabinet of Premier Alejandro Lerroux.

Minister of Education Salvador de Madariaga promptly was named to succeed Valdes temporarily.

Valdes let it be known last week that he planned to resign because of severe criticism against his conduct of the office.

CONSCIENCE MONEY

BROCKVILLE, Ont., April 17.—(CP).—School trustees at North Augusta got a surprise when they received the sum of $15 in conscience money from a former teacher of the school in that village who claimed that he had been paid that sum in error about 25 years ago. The forwarding of the remittance is said to have followed attendance at a meeting of the Oxford Group.

EX-ALDERMAN DIES.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., April 17 (C. P.). — A. E. Hookway, former St. Thomas alderman who contested West Elgin as a Progressive in 1927, died suddenly this morning. He had just come in off his run as a Michigan Central Railway conductor when he was taken ill and expired shortly afterwards.

ROME, April 17.—(C.P. Via Havas).— Salary cuts were instituted all along the line for State employees by Achille Starace, secretary of the Italian Fascist party, to-day.

Following the cabinet decision slashing minister's indemnities 20 per cent. he decreed that, starting to-day, salaries of the Fascist party directorate should be cut 15 per cent., and that various other State services should suffer cuts ranging from six to 10 per cent.

PRESBYTERIAN WM.S. INCREASES AUXILIARIES BY SEVEN IN YEAR

President Claims Despite Shortage of Offerings Treasury Shows $3,000 Balance.

EXPANSION URGENT.

HAMILTON, Ont., April 17 (CP) —"Adverse currents of circumstances have been very strong. The winds have been contrary, and those who have striven hardest have felt them most. There has been much tolling and rowing, but there has been no shipwreck," Mrs. J. A. McLennan of Toronto, said in her Presidential address at the opening of the 20th annual meeting of the Ontario Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society here to-day.

Mrs. McLennan told the 400 delegates from all sections of the province, a year ago the W.M.S. had set out to increase its membership and a splendid start had been made. The process must necessarily, however, be a long one. She reported seven new senior auxiliaries this year.

Many bales of clothing, too, had been sent to "grateful recipents." Thousand of pounds of reading matter as well. The box marked "Special Campaign Fund" contained $11,107, she said, covering the W.M.S. for one year.

$3,000 Balance.

"Then we look at the W.M.S. treasury box," she said, "and it is not so well filled as it was last year. In fact, there is a shortage of about seven per cent." However, "we have come through with a balance of more than $3,000," said the president, pointing out that for the last four years there had been a continued decrease in offerings. This was easy to explain, she said, "by abnormal times."

She wondered if the W.M.S. members were not a little "self-complacent in this respect, and ready to accept their financial shortcomings as a matter of course."

"We, as a provincial," she said, "have been slipping down hill. I hope we have struck bottom for that surely will mean the upward climb."

Despite the "many open doors and beckoning hands," the W.M.S. had no workers in Manchuria nor in British Guiana. A plea from the Koreans in Japan for a medical unit had not yet been answered, the president pointed out. A medical woman and a nurse were needed urgently in Formosa McKay Hospital; teachers in India; evangelists in every field. There were times when there was a shortage of candidates but now there were plenty and "must we say to these young women, we cannot send you?"

Utilities Lose Money On Industrial Power

While consumption of domestic and industrial power has increased in the city during the first months of this year as compared with the same period last year, it was reported at the Utilities Commission meeting today that this has not improved the financial outlook of the electrical department since the power peak load has also increased and cost has increased correspondingly.

"We are just running about the same as last year," Chairman G. S. Matthews stated while studying the electrical department's report for the three-month period.

The waterworks department showed a profit of $3,500 for the first three months of this year, which was about similar to that made during the same period last year. Total revenue was $29,872.47 and operation costs totalled $26,321.51.

The gas department reported a loss, but it was pointed that this will probably be wiped out during the summer months when more gas is used. "We have passed our worst part of the year," H. Beal, manager of the gas department, said.

BRITISH INCOME TAXES SLASHED

accustomed seat "over the clock" in the gallery looking down on the floor below.

When Mr. Chamberlain arrived at the House he said:

"In a few moments I shall open my third and best budget."

Some of the members of Parliament had arrived as early at 6 a.m. to obtain the best seats in order to hear the good news which they expected.

In opening his speech, Mr. Chamberlain addressed the Speaker amid the cheers of the House and said:

Sir: The atmosphere is distinctly brighter. Anticipations of a substantial surplus in national accounts have been realized. The improvement has been due almost wholly to an expansion of the home market."

Then he announced the eagerly-expected news, saying:

"The real surplus for 1933-34 was £39,000,000."

The tall chancellor declared that a "new spirit of hope and confidence" has been established in the country.

Quoting titles of Charles Dickens' books he told the legislators, who cheered him again and again, that Great Britain now "has finished 'Bleak House' and is sitting down to enjoy the first chapter of 'Great Expectations'."

Mr. Chamberlain said the decrease in unemployment had reduced the payments to those without work by £3,300,000—or $16,500,000.

He declared: "Now Great Britain has regained its place as the first exporting country of the world."

£8,000,000 Death Duty

Death duties in the past year, said Mr. Chamberlain, included the largest payment ever to come from a single estate in the whole history of this tax. This was the £8,000 000 from the estate of Sir John Ellerman, former shipping magnate and reputedly the richest man in England, who died July 17, 1933, at Dieppe, France.

One of the few sources from which the chancellor said he expected a decreased revenue in the coming year was sugar.

He said he had allowed for nearly £1,000,000 less revenue from this product because of the greater quantity imported from within the Empire which had a preferential treatment and that, therefore, less would need to be imported from foreign countries.

War Debts

The Chancellor's statement on the war debts was applauded. It was:

"Neither last year nor the year before did I make any provision for the payment of the war debt to America nor for the receipt of war debts or reparations by ourselves. In the absence of any further development, I propose to follow precisely the same line this year."

Chamberlain estimated the total inland revenue income for the ensuing fiscal year would be £383,000,000—of $1,905,000,000—and the total ordinary revenue on the existing basis of taxation would be £727,200,000—or $3,636,000.

He estmated the ordinary expenditures as £698,100,000—or $3,490,500,000—leaving a surplus on the budget of £29,100,000—or $145,500,000.

"This," he said, "is the largest surplus in ten years and enables me to begin the long-awaited process of relief from heavy burdens."

He indicated a decrease in general ences on colonial sugar would be restored.

New Duties on Leather, Oil

He said new duties will be levied on patent leather, hydrocarbon and oil.

He indicated a decrease in general duties was expected since in proportion as the inter-Imperial trade replaces foreign trade a smaller revenue would be expected in the duties on foreign products imposed following the Ottawa agreements.

The first plum in the expected tax cuts went to Great Britain's growing army of motorists.

After Jan. 1, 1935, the present automobile horsepower tax of £1 per horse-power will be reduced 25 per cent, thereby cutting the Government revenue £4,000,000—or $20,000,000—annually.

He said the horsepower tax was being reduced to increase the domestic automobile sales and added that the exports of British automobiles were not maintaining their previous figures.

Chamberlain promised that one-half the pay cuts which Government employees suffered at the time of the national crisis will be restored July 1, and, at the same time, unemployment relief will be fully restored.

The Chancellor announced the income tax was reduced sixpence in the pound. (In the case of small incomes, this would amount to a reduction of about 10 per cent.).

URGE SPLITTING

bursing interest paid on customers' overdrafts.

The plan also envisioned application of the same principle to insurance companies. In the case of insurance companies a proportion of profits would be utilized in the purchase of preference or debenture stocks to be allotted pro rata to applicants.

It was a fact, said the quiet-spoken engineer-economist that 75 or 80 per cent of the assets of the world were in the control, direct or indirect, of banks and insurance companies.

In a committee room packed with spectators, Major Douglas levelled an eight-point indictment against the existing financial system. Then he outlined broadly his alternative, the basis of which was utilization of the productive wealth of the country for monetization purposes.

Credit Out Of Nothing

Banks explained the much-travelled Cambridge graduate, created credit out of nothing.

Orthodox committee members were open-mouthed at this financial heresy and the witness hastened to explain that people thought it alright if banks issued credit but all wrong if anyone else did the issuing. In his scheme, he would take monetization privileges away from the banks and base it on the productive wealth of the country, making everyone richer and no one poorer."

Banks would be less than human if they did not protest against changes in the financial system under which they were supreme, Major Douglas cautioned the committee. Those in control naturally would resist.

The committee will sit again this afternoon.

SEARCH FOR 'TYPCAL IRISHMAN' LEADS SCIENTIST MERRY CHASE

Finds Breed Very Mixed—Says Finest Types in Aran Isles Off West Coast.

TWO YEAR SURVEY.

(By Joseph Dennigan—C.P. Correspondent).

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, April 17 (C.P.).—A scientist searching this country for the "typical Irishman" is finding his task almost as difficult as that of the King's messengers who were told to hunt for a happy man's shirt.

Dr. C. W. DuPertuis, of the department of anthropology of Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass., already has spent two months touring the rural areas of the Free State collecting hundreds of thousands of facts on Irish racial types. He plans to examine a total of 10,000 Irishmen, taking more than 1,000 measurements and answers to questions from each.

Dr. DuPertuis conducts his surveys in saloons, schools, meeting halls and other places where the public gathers. He says he and his scientific measuring instruments have been regarded with considerable suspicion in some of the rural districts.

For a time, he says, people thought he was seeking suitable recruits for President Ramon De Valera's new territorial force, but the clergy and police helped him remove some of the misconception.

The Finest Specimens

In the wholly Gaelic-speaking Aran Islands, off the west coast of Ireland. Dr. Dupertuis says, he found racial types entirely different from those in any other part of the country. He found the men the first specimens he had ever seen in his travels, long-headed, long-visaged, sturdy and extraordinarily well developed physically.

Other parts of Ireland, he found, contained many mixed types, dark-haired as well as blonde and blue-eyed with various shapes of heads. He discovered a fair sprinkling of Nordic-LaPine stock. Places separated by only short distances, he said, were remarkable for the varying characteristics of their inhabitants, indicating close inter-marriage.

On the whole, he found the Irish breed very mixed and possessing characteristics of many other races. It will be two years before the doctor finishes his survey. He is leaving for Chicago in May to lecture on his work in Ireland at the Century of Progress Exposition there. But he wil be back next November to resume his tour.

TO RE-ORGANIZE C. N. E. BOARD

General Manager Has Submitted His Resignation to President.

INTERFERENCE ALLEGED.

TORONTO, April 17. (C.P.)—A general re-organizing of the Canadan National Exhibition board and officials was expected as the result of an ultimatum which was said to have been handed out by an ultimatum which was said to have been handed out by H. W. Waters, General Manager, the Toronto Evening Telegram said in a story to-day.

A letter is said to have been written by the general manager this week to Col. F. H. Deacon, president of the C.N.E., announcing his resignation, the paper said.

The Telegram continues: "To-day Mr. Waters confirmed the fact that he had tendered his resignation, but stated in its present stage the matter could not be discussed.

"To-morrow a committee of three who have reviewed allegations made by Mr. Waters are to wait upon him and indicate whether they are prepared to recommend to the Exhibition Board that his resignation be accepted.

"It is understood that this action of the general manager follows a protracted internal struggle and dissension within the great exhibition organization, and that Mr. Waters has repeatedly expressed objection to "interference" with the administrative policies with which he is directly concerned.

"Several charges are made by Mr. Waters in his letter to the president," The Telegram says it was informed.

Ford Taxi-Cab Fleet Sets Up New Record

EDMONTON, April 17. — Champions all, eleven taxi-cabs swept into Edmonton this week and claimed the world's long-distance taxi championship. They had just arrived from the Ford Motor Company of Canada plant at East Windsor, Ont., almost 2,400 miles away.

At the head of the fleet was the flag-car, its Cardoba grey enamel still shining in spots through its travel stains. Behind it came the other ten, two by two, gleaming in Duncan blue.

The flag-car was the real veteran, for it had made the East Windsor trip in both directions. The other ten were new cars and manning them were only five men. All across the continent one of the cars in each pair was towed by the other.

The fleet was delivered to the McNeill brothers, of Edmonton, by the Ford Company at the Border Cities plant April 6 and made the trip to Edmonton through Chicago, Minneapolis and Shelby northward through Calgary at leisurely gait, compared with the flag-car's time of four and a half days on the eastward trip two weeks ago, carrying all of the six Edmontonians who brought the fleet back to-day: John and Alex McNeill, A. B. Corcoran, A. B. McGillivray, T. A. Gregg and Eric Collingwood.

Push For Silver Aid On In Washington

WASHINGTON, April 17 (A.P.).—The big push for silver-aid legislation went on to-day, with the white metal block driving for votes to pass at least one bill and seeking strength to override a possible veto.

The House approved Dies silver-farm relief measure which appeared the group's best bet just now. Some silver leaders held hope it might receive administration favor if modification were made in its provision for a 25 per cent. premium on silver taken from abroad in exchange for surplus farm products.

Both the United States Senate and House of Representatives had enough big business on hand, however, to prevent immediate attention to the silver subject.

Presentation Is Made To Charles Farnham

As a token of the esteem in which he is held by his fellow employees at G. Whitaker and Company, and to mark the occasion of his recent marriage at the age of seventy years, Charles A. Farnham was yesterday afternoon presented with a handsome smoking cabinet. The presentation was made on behalf of the combined office and warehouse staff by Gordon Monkman, manager.

Mr. Farnham, who is employed in the capacity of wool sorter, came to this city some two years ago from Boston. He was recently married to Mrs. Mary Elizabeth McCaw of Aylmer street; the combined ages of the happy couple totaling 141 years.

NO COMMUTERS CHECKUP.

OTTAWA, April 17 (C.P.). — No instructions have been issued to immigration officers at border points to check up on the number of commuters passing from Canada into the United States to work and vice versa, so far as he is aware, Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Immigration, said last night. A report from Fort Erie, Ontario said Canadian immigration officers were making a checkup.

Mother And Babe Die After Severe Winter

FIGURES IN TRAGEDY IN NORTH

ABOVE are central figures in the tragedy of Machar township that involves the Taylor family and their six children. After a winter of incredible hardship, Mrs. Taylor and her new-born babe died. No doctor was present at the birth and when the mother was laid to rest with her child beside her, in the absence of a clergyman, Alexander Kerr, backwoodsman, conducted the funeral service. The baby was buried in a coffin improvised from a soap box. The pictures are: (1) Irene, the eldest girl, who has assumed the duties of mother. (2) Is backwoodsman Kerr, holding the testament which he used when conducting the funeral service; (3) shows the two youngest children, Lorne, age 3, and Clifford, 6. Lorne is shoeless. (4) Is John Taylor, head of the unfortunate household; he is blind in one eye and nearly blind in the other. (5) Is Georgina, aged 13, who trudged some twelve miles through the deep snow in an effort to get comforts for her dying mother. (6) Nurse E. McInnes, who at Dr. Dawson's request volunteered to go to the Taylor home where she did all in her power to save the dying woman. Both she and Dr. Dawson brought comforts to the mother and did what was possible to save her. (7) Is the Taylor home; on the right is the woodshed, where the dead baby's body lay for ten days before it was buried.

Textile Workers Agree to Return to Work Letting Committee Decide Case.

MINE DISPUTE WORST.

NEW YORK, April 17 (C.P.). — Bright spots predominated to-day in the United States industrial situation.

Governor B. M. Miller, of Alabama, predicted action by President Roosevelt to end a controversy in the soft coal fields which has resulted in idleness for 17,500 miners. The Governor exchanged telegrams with the President on the situation.

A district president of the United Mine Workers of America will confer with officials of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company to-day in an effort to end a strikke in three collieries. The workers demand equality of pay for machine and contract miners.

Union officials reported "satisfactory progress" in negotiating a wage settlement to end a strike of 3,000 workers in the glove industry at Gloversville, N.Y.

Approximately 2,600 textile workers in two Fall River, Mass., plants agreed to return to work to-day and submit their dispute to arbitration committees. They have been out about a week in protest over working conditions.

The automobile labor board called for beginning of collective bargaining between employees and workers without awaiting final check of union membership lists by manufacturers.

A lockout of 50,000 dress workers in New York was announced by the National Association of Dress Manufacturers as a result of disputes with jobbers over observance of the industrial code.

The Ohio labor situation became more complicated with a walkout of 350 to 400 automotive workers at the Logan Gear Company in Toledo. Workers are also out at the plants of the Electric Auto-Lite Company and the Ingham Stamping Company in Cleveland Barr Rubber Products Company at Sandusky.

Horse-drawn vehicles and roller skates were resorted to for transportation as a strike of street car employees in Omaha and Council Bluffs, Ia., continued.

SEEKS SISTER LAST SEEN IN '89 NEAR LITTLE BRITAIN

LINDSAY, April 17 (CP)—George Nelson Gross, giving his address as Toronto, asked a Lindsay newspaper to publish information which, he hopes, may lead to a reunion between him and his sister who was last seen in 1889, when she was about ten years old, walking by herself on the road toward Little Britain.

The young girl, Elizabeth Jane Gross, had been taken from a girl's home in Toronto to work on a farm near Little Britain. She set out by herself after working about a year and was last seen making her way toward the nearest village.

Voice of the People

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner Office by 5 p.m. on the day before insertion. All letters must be signed by the writer although a pen-name may be used when inserting non-controversial subject matter. Letters over 400 words will be cut down at discretion of the editor.

A WAY OUT

To the Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—Father Coughlin's address on Sunday, the last of the season was a very powerful, direct and constructive effort. His lectures gradually converged heretofore on the one great fact (in his estimation) viz; the necessity of more money in circulation which the crash induced by falling trust companys, banks, etc., in the U.S.) had caused the withdrawal of. To induce and control circulation once more he suggests a great national bank which the crafty and crooked cannot control but which would be an effective agent for restoring the one thing needful viz: circulation.

That is all very fine so far as it goes (though not needed in Canada). It would control national and international finance in which there is no rivalry amongst financiers anywhere. Unlike blind party men they have too much brains for that silly attitude.

It is no doubt a great suggestion and very likely Mr. Roosevelt will adopt it for he badly needs something just now to help him out. Why leave the control of money our only means of doing business in the hands of the sharks?

J. H. Burnham.

STICK TO YOUR TASK

To the Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—Knowing Dr. Mahood's disposition towards his fellow man; I can say to him: "Thank you," without caprice or sarcasm for his delineation of my character. Mr. Mahood seems to know me better, than those of much longer acquaintance. There is only one or two points, where, I may say we don't agree, but that perhaps is only a small matter of opinion. In regard to his mentioning of superior feelings. If I have a superior complex — which I doubt, by Dr. Mahood's remarks on the matter, the complex seems to have balanced itself.

As for the bite, it is only that deep growls of toleration casting forth a warning, not against man, but against ungodly acts and principles, caused no doubt by bitter experiences, which the inner man has failed to eradicate. Unlike all other good doctors, who pat their little patient on the back, Dr. Mahood's anaesthetic is not for the extraction of the tooth, but to sooth a little pain, lighten a little burden, or shed a little light. What is the anaesthetic? After all it must be, "Laughing Gas."

Stick to your task,
And should they choose,
Hot critics do their worse, or best
Your aim in life you cannot lose,
Your minds been built
To stand the test.

Thanking you dear Editor for time and space in our local paper.

Yours sincerely,
John Beggs

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kennedy and family visited friends in Rednersville last week.

Mrs. Edward Way and Miss Pheobe Kerr spent Monday evening with Mrs. Melbourne Adams.

Mr. James Carter of Picton visited his brother, Mr. Edward Carter and Mrs. Carter on Tuesday.

Miss Gladys Innis of Campbellford spent last week with her sister, Miss Esther Innis.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Davis of Tweed visited Mr. and Mrs. Melbourne Adams one day last week.

Brantford's Mayor Quits Railway Board

BRANTFORD, Ont., April 17. — (C.P.)—Mayor M. M. MacBride announced to-day that he would resign from the Brantford Municipal Railway Commission at the end of the month, giving as his reason the present legal action against the city and the Mayor to have declared illegal the by-law naming the Mayor ex-official to be a member of the commission.

"This litigation has already cost me a good deal more money than I can afford to pay," he commented, adding that he had taken his seat on the commission because his predecessor had held a like position and he had fallen heir to the post. He did not propose to incur unnecessary expense in retaining it.

AID IS EXTENDED TO SUGAR TRADE

Britain Cuts General Preference on Colonial Product to Help Up Canadian Trade.

EXPORTS BEEN DROPPING.

LONDON, April 17.—(C.P. Cable.)—Coincident with to-day's budget the Chancellor of the Exchequer presented a governmental white paper outlining preference changes on colonial sugar designed to restore the export to Canada.

Owing to the fall in value of the Canadian dollar against the British pound there has been an increasing dislocation of the sugar traffic between Canada and the West Indies, and it would appear probable that unless some actioh is taken the whole colonial sugar output would be diverted to the United Kingdom, it is pointed out.

If this were the case it would pay Canadian refiners to buy foreign sugar rather than pay the equivalent of the United Kingdom price for colonial sugar.

In order to prevent such dislocation of trade and any actual loss to the sugar exporting colonies, the general British preference on colonial sugar will be reduced to its old rates—three shillings and eight pence per hundredweight of 96 degree sugar with proportionate rates on sugar of higher or lower polarization. This makes the ordinary British preference, once more, less valuable than the Canadian preference and thereby is intended to divert sugar to Canada.

Additional preference at a rate of three shillings per hundredweight on 96 degree sugar, making approximately six shillings and nine pence in all—and proportionate additional rates on sugar of different polarization—will also be given to a quantity of colonial sugar up to a maximum of 360,000 tons per annum.

This special preference will be administered by means of certificates issued by the colonial office.

The respective sugar-producing colonies are granted definite quotas up to the maximum of 360,000 tons.

The new scheme comes into effect with the introduction of the budget.

WHEAT ACREAGE REDUCTION PLAN BEFORE PARLEY

U. S. Delegate Has Scheme to Absorb Excess Stock in One, Two or Three Years.

HALTS ADJOURNMENT.

Proposes 13,000,000 Fewer Acres Sown to Fulfill 3-year Idea.

By ANDREW BERDING
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

ROME, April 17. (AP).—Wheat acreage reduction on a world-wide scale was outlined this afternoon by the world Wheat Advisory Commission. Just at a moment when its labors were about to end, it found itself faced with what is perhaps the most important subject of its meeting.

The United States delegate, Frederick E. Murphy of Minneapolis, was responsible for the new development.

Telling the committee it had transferred its interest from what was its fundamental function, namely the reduction of production to a secondary problem, namely minimum export prices, he demanded it take action on the fundamental question.

Murphy laid before the commission three plans as follows:

(1) To absorb the excess stock in three years;

(2) To absorb them in two years;

(3) To absorb them in one year.

His Plans

Plan 1 requires a reduction of 250,000,000 bushels yearly or a total of 13 000,000 acreage, making an allowance for an increase in the yield on the area remaining under cultivation and for intensified cultivation—this is 14 percent of the total zone in the exporting countries of Canada, the United States, Argentine and Australia, plus the Danubian countries, and less such help as may be received from the importing countries.

Plan 2 requires a reduction of 320,000,000 bushels yearly or 36,000,000 acres—25 per cent. of the acreage zone.

Plan 3 requires the reduction of 540,000,000 bushels, or 50,000,000 acres—nearly 35 per cent. of the acreage zone in 1933.

"When we face the facts," said Murphy, "it is perfectly clear that all countries, particularly the exporting nations, must carry through a concerted effort to reduce the production beyond the amount contemplated last August if the world wheat production is to be brought into balance with the consumption at prices which will give a living to the wheat farmers."

Murphy said if the commission expected to meet further reductions that the quotas for 1935-36, if they are to be effective, should be decided at either this meeting or not later than the May meeting since farmers in the winter wheat districts start their seeding plans and plowing late in June and July.

'HOPPER BATTLE ORGANIZED OVER THE WESTERN PROVINCES

Dominion Forces Will Co-operate With Westers Governments to Check Ravages of Plague and Save Millions of Dollars.

OTTAWA, April 17 (CP) — The three prairie provinces—Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta — will have to combat this year an even more serious plague of grasshoppers than in 1933 when it was of record intensity. But the 'hoppers will find three provinces have an organized defensive campaign against them — even more so than last year. Approximately $750,000 will be spent by the three prairie governments this year on the various campaigns.

Hon. Robert Weir, Dominion ministerof agriculture, has instructed the division of field crop and garden insects department of the entomological branch and other departments to give fullest co-operation to the provinces during the campaign.

It is estimated 25 percent of the field crops in Manitoba, 60 percent in Saskatchewan and 40 percent in Alberta will be endangered by grasshoppers during the summer of 1934. But if the defensive plans are carefully carried out the loss will be held to below 10 percent.

Last year's campaign saved the farmers millions of dollars. In Manitoba alone, according to a provincial estimate, 34,800,000 bushels of grain were saved from the ravages of grasshoppers, representing an estimated value of $15,944,750. This year, Manitoba expects to have 2,000,000 acres requiring organized control, Saskatchewan 14,755,000 acres and Alberta 3,500,000 acres.

The present serious plague is the result of excessively dry conditions that have prevailed in western Canada for the past three to four years. The outbreak began to be somewhat serious in 1930 and noticeably serious in 1931. By 1933 grasshoppers had increased to countless billions and constituted themselves such a menace as to endanger most of the field crop area of the three prairie provinces.

"There is virtually no hope of any natural forces materially reducing the numbers of grasshopper in 1934 before the crop is ready to harvest" H. G. Crawford, director for the division of field and Garden insects, department of agriculture, stated. "Consequently the need for an organized attack is absolutely imperative.

"Any crop may be attacked," Mr. Crawford said, "and unless protective efforts are taken, completely wiped out at any stage of its development. In 1933, enormous losses were caused by 'hoppers flying into different localities and cutting heads of wheat being treated by the binder. Hundreds of thousands of bushels of oats were lost by having the grain cut from the straw in the stook.

"It was possible, last year, to drive for 20 miles in southeastern Saskatchewan and not see a single field worth harvesting, the grain in such districts having been gilled by grasshoppers before the drought became a serious factor."

Early seeding, ploughing and other methods of cultivation have a great effect in controlling the outbreak. The principal direct method of control, however, is through attack in the early stages with poisoned bran.

In Saskatchewan, where the largest area is threatened, 1200 local committees of farmers have been formed who will use 1200 cars of sawdust, 900 cars of bran and 180,000 gallons of sodium arsenite which will be spread over the ground in the infested areas. This is a sure-killing mixture.

The control of grasshoppers is assumed as a provincial responsibility but the Dominion government, with entomological laboratories in each province, co-operates fully with the provincial forces supplying technical information which serves as the background for the campaign.

At the same time others of the staff of the entomological branch will be engaged in combatting ravages of many other insect pests that attack and destroy field and garden crops, fruit orchards forest and shade trees and many other kinds of produce and products, whether growing or in storage. Losses totalling millions of dollars are caused by these forays if not checked.

DR. McQUADE IS GUEST SPEAKER

Gives Report of Toxoid Treatment Given in Schools at Wooler Conclave.

INSTITUTE MEETS

WOOLER, April 17 (Examiner Correspondence) — The Wooler branch of East Northumberland's Women's Institute met on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Poulter. The president, Mrs. W. Orvis was in the chair.

The guest speaker, Dr. McQuade of Trenton gave a report of the toxoid treatment recently given in the schools. Dr. McQuade said he would arrange for a clinic in July and August to be in Trenton and the fee would be less than half what it is under ordinary circumstances. A committee was named, Mrs. Ashley, Mrs. Way, Mrs. Austin, Mrs. Gooding, Miss Rogers and Mrs. Fred Crews to wait upon the committee from York Road Women's Institute Welfare beginning their campaign.

Mrs. W. Sharpe acted as convenor of the election of officers which resulted as follows; President, Mrs. George Anderson; First vice president, Mrs. A. G. Austin; Second vice president, Mrs. Fred Crews; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. J. J. Way; district director, Mrs. D. Stewart; district representatives, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. A. G. Austin, Mrs. J. J. Way and Mrs. Ashley.

A delightful program followed: piano solo, Mrs. Lloyd Bell; duet, Patricia and Theodore Poulter. The meeting then adjourned to meet at Mrs. Terrill's on May 31st.

Rev. Mrs. Poulter attended a party at Mrs. Poulter's home in Belleville on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Dorland and Evelyn Patridge spent Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Sharpe and family.

PIONEER TEACHER DIES.

TORONTO, April 17 (C.P.) — Thomas Marshall Porter, for 52 years a teacher in Toronto and one of the first instructors at the University of Toronto schools, died in hospital here to-day. He was 71 years old. He began his teaching at Bensford, Ont., in 1882. He taught at the Model School, Toronto, for 22 years, and had been with the University of Toronto School until his death.

FENELLA SOCIETY WILL SPONSOR PLAY

Annual Meeting and Election of Officers Will be Held at May Conclave.

FENELLA, April 17 (Examiner Correspondence) — The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the Community Hall on Thursday afternoon, April 12 with twenty-nine members and visitors present.

It was deloded to invite the Centreton Young Peoples' Society to present their play "The Path Across the Hill," in the Community Hall in the near future. W. J. Jibb verbally thanked the ladies of the society for the shower of birthday cards sent to his mother, Mrs. Robert Jibb on her 90th birthday. The annual meeting and election of officers will be held in the Community Hall in May, an exchange of slips and seeds.

The meeting was then given over to the program leaders, Mrs. Hugh Sherwin and Miss Louie Clark Jibb. Roll call, "The name of a hardy perennial,"; contest, "Farmer's Love Letter" by Mrs. Sam Adams; reading, "Beauty of Shade Trees" by Mrs. Roy Smith; weight guessing contest by Mrs. Hugh Sherwin, the prize being awarded to Mrs. James Waldie; guessing contest by Miss Louie Clark Jibb, prize winner, Mrs. M. Adams; reading, "Housecleaning On" by Miss Wellcox; reading "God's Gifts" by Mrs. W. H. Sandercock; reading, "Don't be a Grumbler" by Miss Ruby Herrington, which ended a very fine and appropriate program.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem, and the usual half hour was spent over the tea cups.

RECORD CHURCH OFFERING.

KINGSTON, Ont., April 17 (C.P.). — What is believed to be a record for some years was made by Queen Street United Church on Sunday when it was announced that the Easter offering amounted to $1,343, and that it was expected when all canvassing was completed, the grand sum would be at least $1,500. The pastor of the church is Rev. Dr. Thomas Green, who has accepted a all to Wesley United Church, London, which duties he will take over in July.

Italy's olive crop is 11,000 metric tons under last year's.

VETERAN ENGINE IS SENT TO JUNK PILE

Once Pride of the Central Division is Now Nothing But a Memory.

LINDSAY, April 17.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Veteran railroaders learned with a pang of regret of the "passing" of engine No. 585, once the pride of the rail between Lindsay and Haliburton. She is one of the twenty locomotives dispensed with by the central region of the C.N.R., and is now nothing but a memory. The engine was originally a wood-burner, and had been in use nearly half a century. She was one of the first engines to be converted into a coal-burner. She originally carried the diamond smoke-stack. During the dawn of the twentieth century, old No. 585 made railroad history. She made a record-breaking run carrying supplies for the Canadian contingent during the South African War. During the Great War she did her part in transporting supplies for the Canadian troops in France and Flanders. There are only a few engines of this type running out of Lindsay. These can be seen on the Haliburton and Coboconk lines. These lines are laid with light rails and not suited to the modern high-powered engine. Whenever there is a heavy haulage over these lines, the old engines are called into play as double-headers.

Despite the rain of the past few days, there is considerable frost in the ground. To-day Bell Telephone linemen who were installing a pole on one of the local streets dug through frost to the depth of two and a half feet.

County Engineer Wilford has made a partial inspection of the county roads and found them in fairly good condition. The macadam stretch on No. 7 highway, between Pottery Corners and Hill Head, is heaving in spots. The side roads in the district are in a bad condition.

A Young Conservative Club was organized in Lindsay yesterday with a large membership. Mr. James Gunn of Toronto University, was one of the speakers at the organization meeting.

Word was received in town yesterday of the death at Detroit of Timothy Coughlin, a former resident of this town. The deceased was a son of the late Dennis Coughlin, a pioneer resident of Ops Township. He is survived by a brother and sister, residing here, and five children, living in Detroit.

Successful Euchre Held At Millbrook

MILLBROOK, April 17 (Examiner Correspondence)—Mr. and Mrs. William Wilkinson kindly gave the use of their home on Thursday evening for the progressive euchre party, sponsored by the A.Y.P.A. of St. Thomas' Church, nineteen tables being in use for play.

The prizes, presented by the president, George Gray, went to Mrs. D. D. Fowler and Miss Margaret Simpson and E. H. Barnes and George Ellsworth.

The A.Y.P.A. executive was the committee in charge, with Miss E. J. Grandy as convenor of the supper committee. The host and hostess were warmly thanked for their hospitality before the guests dispersed, and a tidy sum was added to the society's treasury as a result of the evening's activity.

The Armouries was the scene of another pleasant social gathering on Friday evening when the Millbrook Orange Lodge No. 79 sponsored a dance that drew a large crowd including not only local residents, but several car-loads from a number of outside points as well.

The Oshawa Merrymakers provided music in their usual popular style, and when intermission was called at midnight the booth did a gratifying business. R. J. Scott, Worshipful Master of No. 79, being in charge with a number of the younger boys assisting.

Joe Thompson was cashier, and approximately fifty dollars was taken in at the door. The floor was in good condition and with colored bulbs used on the lights, and novelty dances at intervals during the evening, the whole effect was attractive, and pleased the spectators as well as those who, much in the majority as regards numbers, tripped the light fantastic until well into the morning hours.

JOBLESS RELIEF BILL APPROVED

the price spread between producer and consumer.

The compulsory features of the bill were the chief point of attack by the three Liberal speakers who followed Mr. Weir. Harry Butcher of Last Mountain, said it meant compulsory cooperation and the people of Canada were not yet ready for that. He believed voluntary cooperation, properly managed, was better.

He feared the dragooning of minorities or even majorities of producers under the clauses of the bill which empower the minister to establish a scheme for a particular commodity on the petition of a 'representative number of persons engaged in its production or marketing' and also of establishing a scheme on his own initiative if he were satisfied trade in the product was injuriously affected.

Creation of a multiplicity of boards of a bureaucratic character was feared by J. L. Ilsley of Hants-Kings. He objected to the power given to limit the quantity of goods produced though he was in favor of regulations to insure high quality.

The bill contained too much machinery, Hon. Charles Stewart of West Edmonton thought. He objected to the forcing of a marketing scheme on producers who might not want it.

A last-minute attack staged by the Liberals yesterday on the relief bill failed.

They moved it be referred back to the committee for deletion of objectionable clauses, but the motion was turned down and the Bill received third reading.

Liberals Twit Government.

The return of the Liberal candidate in the South Oxford by-election provided the Liberals with an opportunity to twit the Government and Hon. Peter Heenan, former Minister of Labor, ended the relief debate wth a demand the Government resign and call a general election.

Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal Leader, raised a final protest against what he claimed was the persistent practice of the Government to deprive Parliament of its rights The Relief Bill with its sweeping provisions was one instance and the Marketing Bill was another, as it gave to marketing boards the right to make laws which should remain in Parliament.

He also charged the Government with seeking to make it appear the Province of Quebec was standing in the way of a revision of the British North America Act. That province, like others, was opposed to a change which would encroach on the rights of the provinces.

Prime Minister R. B. Bennett emphatically denied any attempt to place responsibility for de'ay in changing the constitution of Quebec The Liberal Leader, he said, had neglected his theories and principles when in office and had "not seen fit to do more than talk. Mr. Bennett did not believe amendments to the constitution should be made in times of stress."

Tailoring, once a popular form of work among the Jews in the East End of London, is falling off, a recent survey revealed, many boys now preferring engineering, barbering and shop work.

Unfair to Bus Company.

The bus company has complained several times about taxis carrying passengers for ten cents, which was considered unfair to the bus company. "We have to have a bus company and their complaint is well founded," stated Mayor Denne. "We must see that the company is protected."

Chief Newhall did not think the by-law was too severe. "We have to have some control over the situation," he said. "This by-law has been drawn up from the best things embodied in similar by-laws now in force in cities of Peterborough's size in the province."

Permission for a tag day on April 28 for the benefit of St. Vincent's Orphanage and another on was granted. "I think we should hold a tag day for ourselves," commented the Mayor.

The financial statement showed that to the end of March 31 payments totalling $5,536 had been made for the police department.

During the discussion on the uniforms, Mayor Denne asked: "Will the detectives wear these suits if we do buy them? They look pretty bad now."

The chief said they would, and that the clothing was badly needed.

reached his own headquarters, the Conservative candidate offered congratulations to the victor.

Leaders of the two old parties had made the riding the target of many appeals in the week prior to voting. The Federal Liberal Leader, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, personally led the final drive in support of Mr. Rennie, assisted by Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Hon. J. C. Elliott, and Mitchell Hepburn, Leader of the Liberal Party in Ontario.

The Government's campaign was carried by the Minister of Trade and Commerce, Hon. H. H. Stevens; the Minister of Railways, Hon. R. J. Manion, and the Minister of National Defence, Hon. D. M. Sutherland, whose home riding is North Oxford.

The loss here leaves the Government forces with 136 seats in the House and an even break in by-elections since the 1930 general elections. The Conservatives have gained two seats in by-elections and lost two. One traditionally Conservative seat, Toronto East, is vacant through the death of Hon. E. B. Ryckman.

FEATURE CAST CAMPBELLFORD AMATEUR PLAY

Players Produce Comedy-drama in Hollywood Theatre for Three Nights.

A.Y.P.A. AUSPICES.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 17 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — Opening a three-day run at the Hollywood Theatre, Campbellford, the hall was filled to capacity last evening when the three-act comedy-drama, "Too Many Bishops" made its bow to the general public and was adjudged one of the finest and most humorous productions seen in the district for some time.

Produced under the auspices of the A.Y.P.A. of Christ Church and directed by Earl Stephens, B.A., some of the most outstanding amateur actors of the town were included in the cast and gave to the public a first class and finished production worthy of professional talent. Well chosen as to parts, and trained in their respective impersonations to a fine degree, the play ran smoothly from start to finish and showed a nicety that was charming to observe.

Centering around the troubles of one, Jones, who finds himself in difficulties with police and friends alike, many laughable situations arise, especially when the Colonial Bishop appears on the scene and gets tangled with an escaped lunatic. Who is the Bishop? This is the question that seems to run through the whole play, and despite many upsets and the loss of clothes belonging to the church dignitary, combined with a very creditable exhibition of a Red Indian, the drop of the curtain smooths out the whole situation and rights all wrongs.

The play was exceptionally well acted and run easily without prompting, giving the impression of a cast of professional actors. And stage facilities were helped considerably by Abram Rappaport, manager of the theatre, who enlarged his already first-class stage to fit the requirements of this feature production, and gave every assistance to the players to put over this stage success.

"Too Many Bishops" formed the second half of the evening's program; the first portion of this consisting of two hours of movies featuring George Arliss in "The Millionaire," and other pictures, one of which was a film descriptive of the splendid work being carried on by the Sick Children's Hospital in Toronto. Between the show and the play Edge Dolman and his Aristocrats furnished music.

Those taking part in the play were Earl Stephens, B.A.; Jack McSachern, Jack Bygott, Rossmore Dunk, Alex Little, B.A.; Frank Linton, Mrs. Mansel Reid, Miss Margaret Runnions, Miss Elsie Southern, Miss Evelyn Bonnycastle, Miss Mary Shaw, and Miss Aileen Linton.

The play will be run to-night (Tuesday) and on Wednesday.

WALKEY CASE READY FOR JURY

driving from Toronto to Peterborough on the morning of the accident, and was the first person to arrive there. He had to drive to the west side of the wreckage. The Globe truck was on the east half of the pavement, its right wheels being about eighteen inches from the east edge of the pavement. The car was fairly well over on the east half of the pavement.

Mr. Craigner said he had reached the Peterborough highway by cutting across the Dale shortcut from No. 2 highway, and had seen the Globe truck going north. Its headlights were on.

To Mr. Huycke witness said no car had intervented between his car and the truck travelling north. Between Dale and Bailieboro he lost sight of the truck's tail light.

Dr. A. L. Russell, of Bailieboro, testified that he arrived at the place of the accident at 6.45 a.m. He noticed that the rear right bumper of the truck was a foot and a half from the east of the pavement, and its left front wheel was near the middle of the road. The rear of the automobile angled more toward the west than the rear of the truck angled toward the east. Dr. Russell also gave evidence regarding the condition of the injured men.

Jas. C. Campbell, South Monaghan farmer, heard the crash of the collision while working in his barn. His recollection was to the effect that McLean's automobile was considerably more aslant on the road than the Globe truck. The rear left wheel of the car was about a foot over the centre of the pavement, and the right front wheel of the truck was two feet from the east edge of the pavement. Mr. Campbell said he did not see any skid marks behind the truck, and was inclined to think Traffic Officer Hornick was mistaken on that point.

To Mr. Huycke witness affirmed that he did not know any of the injured men. The Walkey family had not lived at Bailieboro within the last thirty-seven years.

J. Arnold Thompson, architect of Belleville, identified a drawing he had made of the highway where the accident happened, and Alex. Darling, of Peterborough, explained the photographic exhibits which he had taken of the two cars.

Bert McCarrol, Peterborough, employee of the Power Oil Company, saw no skid marks on the pavement when he arrived at the place of the accident a short time before 7 a.m.

"I was going to Kingston, and drove past the wrecked cars to the west of them. The right front wheel of the Globe truck was two feet inside the east edge of the pavement. The left rear wheel of the car was just to the west of the centre line of the pavement."

Mr. McRuer's Summary.

Mr. McRuer, as counsel for the Globe Printing Company, addressed the jury first. Defendants were in a somewhat unfortunate position by reason of the fact that the driver of the Globe truck and his companion were both dead. On the other hand, Mr. McLean, as driver of the automobile, had a personal interest in the issue on trial. Mr. McRuer suggested that the evidence of disinterested witnesses should be deliberated as a whole and then compared with that of interested parties. He visualized for the jury the circumstances of the accident, including its antecedents from the time McLean left Oakwood.

If McLean's statements were to be accepted that he had driven from Oakwood at 12 to 15 miles an hour, his car would have gone only as far as Omemee in the time he mentioned. From Oakwood to Bailieboro was 47 miles, and McLean said he left Oakwood at 5.10 a.m. and the accident occurred at 6.40 a.m.

"McLean covered the distance of 47 miles in one hour and a half through dense fog. At the time of the accident he said he was travelling at 20 or 25 miles an hour, but there must have been stretches where his speed must have been much greater than that."

Mr. McRuer reviewed the testimony of witnesses to the effect that McLean's car was partly and to a considerable extent over the centre line of the pavement toward the east. Apparently Mr. Gordon depended almost entirely on the evidence of Traffic Officer Hornick that he had seen skid marks behind the Globe truck and extending across the pavement from west to east. Mr. McRuer asserted that the evidence of a whole procession of witnesses, farmers, professional men, Shields, Poole, Craigner and others, agreed that they had not seen any skid marks.

The testimony, Mr. McRuer continued, indicated that the truck was practically wholly on its side of the pavement, and that there was sufficient room on the west side of McLean's car for traffic to pass.

In regard to McLean's assertion that the truck's headlights were not turned on, Mr. McRuer emphasized the evidence of Mr. Craigner, who said he saw truck's headlights shining in the fog when it passed him near Dale as he was coming to Peterborough.

"What conceivable reason," asked Mr. McRuer, "would a driver have in turning off his lights in a heavy fog at that time of the morning?"

He added that the two men driving the truck were dead, and their evidence was beyond calling. On the other hand, Mr. McLean was personally interested in the result of the trial and the effect of the evidence. Mr. McRuer's argument marshalled quotations from evidence to support his contention that the Globe truck was on its own side of the road, and that the car was on the wrong side, and that McLean and Walkey were respectively looking toward the left and right sides of the road, instead of watching for traffic ahead. He recalled that McLean said neither his car nor the truck varied their courses as they approached collision, and that afterward they were found toward the east side of the pavement.

G. N. Gordon's Review.

G. N. Gordon, counsel for McLean, recalled the evidence of Bethune, Howden and Middleton, who had stated that the Globe truck was partly to the west of the centre line of the road. He also cited Horhick's evidence as to skid marks made by the truck across the pavement. Mr. Gordon said there seemed to be an attempt to show that the traffic patrol officer's evidence was not correct. The skid marks positively seen by Mr. Hornick corroborated absolutely the explanation of Mr. McLean that the truck approached him on the west and wrong side of the road. Jacob Isbister's evidence that he saw the tail light of the truck as it passed through Centreville was a proof that the car's headlights were turned on, and presumed that the truck driver should have seen them.

tI was patdetic and regrettable, Mr. Gordon said, that both of the men in the Globe truck were dead and could not speak for themselves.

"In all probability they would not have been killed if the Globe Company had a proper delivery system, and a schedule that did not require bullet-like speed of its truck. Accidents that put men to death could be avoided at a small cost if the company had a proper system of delivery."

Conclusion by Mr. Huycke.

Addressing the jury in behalf of the plaintiffs, Mr. Huycke pointed out that Lillian Walkey had a reasonable expectation of pecuniary benefit from her brother, Horace, if he had lived. Referring to the Walkey trust account, Mr. Huycke said that of its original amount of $8,197 only $346.58 remained when it was transferred for administration to the Royal Trust Company. All of the money except $800, which he had drawn for his own purpose, was paid by Horace Walkey for the benefit of his sister. It was evident that at the time of his death the balance of $346 would have soon been disbursed for the benefit of Lillian Walkey, and from that time on the burden of the cost of her care would have been more difficult for the brother.

"I suggest that you should find that both these defendants were more or less responsible for the accident," Mr. Huycke said.

Rev. Father Costello of Peterborough said the funeral mass. Rev. Father McAuley officiated at the grave.

The pall-bearers were: Joseph Costello, Frank Brick, Peter Galvin, James Mahoney, Herb Moloney and Harry Moloney.

MRS. GEORGE RODGERS

NORWOOD, April 17. (Examiner Correspondence) — The death occurred on Monday morning of Agnes Emmeline Buchanan, beloved wife of George Rodgers in her fifty-eighth year.

The funeral will take place at two thirty o'clock on Wednesday from her late residence, lot one, concession seven, Dummer. Interment will be made in the Maple Grove Cemetery, Havelock.

JOHN C. DALE

MADOC, April 17 (Examiner Correspondence).—On the arrival of the C.P.R. train on Monday, 16th, the funeral of the late J. C. Dale of Victoria, B.C., formerly of Madoc, took place in Madoc village at 1.30 p.m.

The service was held in Trinity United Church; Rev. George W. Rivers, pastor of the church, officiating. The robed choir sang familiar and beloved hymns, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and "Lead, Kindly Light," and Mr. William Fletcher gave the beautiful and comforting solo, "In the Land of Endless Day, Lies a City Four-Square."

Scripture readings included the 23rd Psalm, and "Like as a Father pitieth his children," also from Revelation, a description of "the Holy City, New Jerusalem."

Following the anthem, Rev. Mr. Rivers took as his text, "By faith, he, being dead, yet speaketh," Hebrews, 11:4. Speaking earnestly of the long list of men of old time who are chiefly remembered because of their faith, Mr. Rivers went on to speak of the faith of the brother deceased, and reminded his hearers of the nearly forty years during which Mr. Dale acted as Superintendent of Trinity Sunday School. He was also a valued official and active worker in the church. He was a charter member of the Odd Fellows, and the last of the charter members to pass away. He was one of those who signed the original petition for the organization of the Rebekah Lodge, and in the name of the Madoc Lodge his name is perpetuated. "Oakdale." The speaker closed by reading a favorite hymn of the dedeceased, "Sunset and Evening Star, and one clear call for me."

Beautiful floral tokens testified to the love and esteem in which he was held. Old-time friends acted as pall-bearers, and the congregation of old and tried friends were gathered in token of their sympathy to the family and their esteem.

On Monday last, word was received in Belleville, by Mrs. F. E. O'Flynn, of the sudden death of her brother at his home in Victoria, B.C. His death, which occurred at the age of 83, removes a member of one of the oldest families in North Hastings.

Born in Kingston, the late Mr. Dale had taken up residence in Madoc village early in life, where he lived for many years, carrying on the occupation of private banking. He became intimately acquainted throughout the district and was one of the most well known of business men.

One sister, Mrs. F. E. O'Flynn of Belleville; three sons, James of Victoria, B.C.; John Dale of Khtskoty, B.C., and Roy Dale of Georgetown, Ont., together with two daughters, Mrs. Laughlan of Vancouver and Mrs. Daniel Gardener of Toronto, are left to mourn his loss.

The body was brought to Madoc by his son, James, and interment was in the Dale family plot in Lakeview Cemetery, Madoc.

SWEARS FRUIT-A-TIVES GAVE LASTING RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION!

Mrs. M. Seyffert, Toronto

TO help other sufferers Mrs. Seyffert gladly and voluntarily has made a sworn statement before a Notary so that none can doubt its truth. She says—

"I do Solemnly Declare that a bad injury I received at childbirth resulted in continued constipation. For years I felt run down, lacked all vitality. My complexion was yellow. I started taking Fruit-a-tives and now I am up at 6.00 a.m. every morning doing my own housework. My complexion is clear and I am quite regular."

Mrs. M. Seyffert

A sworn statement to the above effect was made before a Notary Public at Toronto, Oct. 24th, 1933. Original on file.

Alberta Legislature Near Prorogation

EDMONTON, April 17 (C.P.) — With practically all heavy legislation concluded, members of the Alberta Legislature hoped for prorogation to-day.

Two of the important measures going before to-day's session will be the debt adjustment act amendments and the trade and industry act, which will set up a new department of government to have control over hours of labor, wages and prices of commodities.

In the long Saturday session, Premier J. E. Brownlee disclosed the Government contemplated establishing an advisory board of three members to aid in administration of the modified "business code" legislation. The bill had been reprinted in four parts, he said, in case the Dominion Government questioned some section of it.

J. C. RICHARDSON DIES SUDDENLY

City Editor of Sault Ste. Marie, Moving Spirit of North, is Dead.

WIDE EXPERIENCE.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., April 17 (CP)—John C. Richardson, city editor of The Sault Ste. Marie Daily Star died at his home here shortly after eight o'clock this morning as a result of a sudden illness which attacked him just two hours prior to his death.

Well-known throughout Ontario in his capacity as newspaperman, Richardson gained widest fame through his column, "Woods and Waters," which appeared twice weekly in The Star and was regarded as one of the best of its kind in Canada.

He was one of the moving spirits in the Algoma Game, Fish and Forest Association which has done invaluable work in helping to preserve fish, game and the forests of Algoma.

Mr. Richardson assisted in the organization of the Sault Hackie Club and the publicity he gave that organization's "Ananias Night" has gained for it continent-wide fame.

Wide Experience

During his newspaper career he has been associated with The London Free Press, The Michigan Sault Evening News, and Sault Daily Star. He has acted as Sault correspondent for The Toronto Daily Star, Toronto Mail and Empire, Toronto Globe and Canadian Press.

Born in Chatham, Mr. Richardson was just a month over 54 years of age. He spent his early days in Strathroy and gained wide fame as a lacrosse player there and at Brantford and St. Catharines. He came to the Sault in 1907 and joined the staff of The Star in 1910, and has been employed with that paper ever since, except for the period of his overseas service. He enlisted at the Sault with the 227th Battalion and served overseas with the 58th.

True to the traditions of newspaperdom Richardson's last words were with the reporter with whom he discussed possible news stories of the day. He died shortly after the reporter left his bed side, and no one else saw him in the meantime.

Legion To Parade St. Peter's Cathedral

The annual Ypres Commemoration Day Church Parade of the local branch of the Canadian Legion is to be held on Sunday morning next to St. Peter's Cathedral, according to announcement made this afternoon by Captain James Abraham.

Invitations to attend Divine service with members of the Legion, which commences at 10.30 a.m., have been extended to the various militia units comprising Peterborough garrison. The entire parade is to be headed by the band of the Peterborough Rangers.

Following the church parade, the Legion will hold their annual meeting and election of officers on Monday evening next.

Obituary

MISS CATHERINE HURLEY.

Funeral of the late Miss Catherine Alice Hurley, who passed away suddenly at her home, 278 Simcoe Street, will be held on Thursday morning at 9 o'clock to St. Peter's Cathedral Interment in the family plot in St. Paul's Cemetery, Norwood.

EDWARD YOUNG

Largely attended by people representative of all sections of the entire district and from points beyond, the funeral of Edward Young was on Monday morning held from the premises where he had conducted a general store for the past thirty-six years at Young's Point.

Funeral Mass was celebrated at St. Mary's Church, which was filled to capacity, by the Rev. J. McGuire of Bowmanville. Other clergy present and who assisted the officiating priest included the Rev. V. J. McAuley of Ennismore, C. J. Carroll of Peterborough, J. J. Garvey and Father Wingle both of Lakefield.

Pall-bearers were: Messrs Frank Walsh, W. E. Brooks, Andrew Wilson, Joseph Ayotte, W. J. Charlton, and Victor Young. Interment was made in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Mr. Young who died on Friday night last at the age of 74 years, leavs his widow and also two daughters, Mrs. Arthur Langlois of Windsor, and Miss Clara Young of Young's Point, also two sons, Edward Young, Jr., of St. Michael's College, and John Young at home; also one brother and two sisters.

JOHN MAIZE.

The death occurred at the residence of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Charles Nuttall, 105 Monaghan Road, on Monday of John Maize, after an illness of several months' duration. He was 67 years of age.

Mr. Maize, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maize, was born at Garden Hill, Ontario, and had lived in that district for the greater part of his life. He is survived by his widow, formerly Margaret Lockington, and by one brother, William Ralph Maize of Regina, Sask., who was at the beside of his brother when he passed away; and also by two sisters, Mrs. A. F. Little of Welcome and Mrs. S. R. Parslow of St. Paul, Minn.

In religion the late Mr. Maize was a devoted member of St. Paul's Anglican Church, Perrytown.

The funeral is to be held from All Saints' Church on Wednesday at 2.30 p.m., with the Rev. Mr. Paton of Gore's Landing and the Rev. J. D. Paterson of All Saints' Church, Peterborough, officiating. Interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

Presbyterian Y.P.S. Plan Grand Rally

BRANTFORD, Ont., April 17 (CP)—Meeting here, representatives of the Young People's Presbyterial of the Presbyteries of Paris, Toronto, Sarnia and Guelph drew up a program for the first All-Ontario Presbyterian Young People's Rally, to be held at Knox Church, Toronto, on the Thanksgiving Holiday week-end.

The rally will be a three-day affair with opening sessions on Saturday and concluding on Monday. A meeting at Toronto was attended by representatives from the Presbyteries of Ottawa, Peterborough, Lindsay, Guelph, Paris, Stratford, Maitland, London and Toronto, and the scheme was immediately endorsed.

HASTINGS REEVE FINED—!

COBOURG, Ont., April 17.—(CP)—Reeve George Stevenson of Hastings was fined $1 and costs in police court today on a charge of using insulting language to Mrs. Myrtle Simpson of Hastings. The case was settled out of court. It is stated that the language complained of was used when Mrs. Simpson applied to the reeve for belief.

HOLLYWOOD, CAL., APR. 17.—This week Isobel Jewell received her seventeenth pair of moccasins as a tribute from the Shoshone Indian tribe in Wyoming. Years ago, when the family lived near the reservation, Isobel's father, Dr. Lee Jewell, saved Chief Wolf Elkin's son from blindness. Out of gratitude, the chief visited the Jewells, drew the outline of Isobel's foot and soon returned with an elaborate pair of moccasins. From then on, a new pair came every spring. Even when the family moved away he continued to send the gift. Three years ago the old Indian died, but now the son, Chief Black Horse, has taken up the tradition. Isobel still has all the moccasins.

LITTLE CAROL

Ann Beery is to have a rival and on her own lot. Esther Ralston announces that her own Carol Ann (odd how many film babies have this name) also will be trained to become an actress.

The blonde star differs with Gloria Swanson, Constance Bennett, Adrienne Ames and Ann Harding that the children of movie people should be kept apart from studio life, at least until they are old enough to pick their career.

"My plan is to give my daughter all the benefits of theatrical training," says Esther. "Then if she wants to chuck it later she may. The experience still will have been valuable. She will have learned grace, poise, diction and unself-consciousness. All valuable social attributes."

Very much the same idea was voiced recently by Leslie Howard, who plans to start giving diction lessons to his godson, Leslie Howard Gargan, as soon as the youngster learns to talk.

ROMANCE WITH

dramatic complications, comedy cavortings and intrigue as delectable, gay and giddy as cocktails and caviar are just a sketchy idea of what "3 On A Honeymoon" is like. The film, featuring Sally Eilers and ZaSu Pitts, is Fox Film's latest release, and opens at the Capitol theatre Wednesday. The screen play is so downright funny and appealing, that you can't help but enjoy the numerous complications in which a spoiled but pretty young girl finds herself.

Charles Starrett has the masculine lead opposite Sally Eilers, and they both give excellent performances in roles that are ideally suited to their abilities. ZaSu Pitts, who can always be counted on for a splendid performance, gives another one of her uproarious characterizations. The performances of Henrietta Crosman, Irene Hervey, John Mack Brown, Russell Simpson and Cornelius Keefe are well schemed and engrossing.

situation that exists at the King's Club, one of Hollywood's midnight rendezvous. The featured entertainers are three handsome colored girls, sisters, two of whom go to school in the day-time and sing blues songs for the stay-up-laters at night. Each evening, the girls are brought to work by their father, a former colored preacher. Then he drives his car around to the back, wraps himself up in a blanket and sleeps until the last reveler has gone and the girls are ready to go home.

THE COLLECTOR

for a local gaming spot came out to Universal the other day looking for an actor who had written a rubber check. He came onto the set of 'Half a Sinner' (you saw it on the stage as 'Alias the Deacon') and stopped to watch Burton Churchill riffle, shuffle and cut a deck of cards for a scene. Leaving a few minutes later, he said:

Burton Churchill

"I wanted to get a good look at that guy just in case he ever shows up at our place."

The funny part of it is Churchill is notoriously disinterested in cards and is a bad player. Before doing the Deacon on the stage, he went to Nate Leipsic, the vaudeville card manipulator, and painfully learned the art of riffling and shuffling.

SHE LOST 32 LBS.

New Frocks No Longer Worried Her

"How did she lose that 32 lbs. of fat?" is what you will be asking. Let her tell you herself:

"About 18 months ago I weighed 178 lbs.—which I can assure you annoyed me very much. Everything seemed a worry to me, especially new clothes. Nothing would fit me comfortably, and walking was unbearable. I was advised by a friend to try Kruschen Salts, and I am very glad I did, too. During the first ten months I lost 28 lbs. of fat. Now, for the last 6 months my weight has been 146 lbs., and I feel much better in health. I have all my weight tickets to substantiate my statements."—(Mrs.) M. P.

Kruschen contains those six mineral salts, proportionately balanced, found in the waters of those famous European Spas used by generations of fat people to reduce weight.

Kruschen helps blood, nerves, glands and body organs to function properly—you gain new strength and energy—feel years younger—look better, work better.

MOUNT JULIAN.

While at work with the group of local men on the Burleigh-Falls-Bancroft highway construction, Herbert Lean had the misfortune of breaking his leg. The accident occurred on Tuesday afternoon and the patient was immediately taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, along with Mr. Clark, of Norwood, another of his fellow-workers who was injured that day. Two of Mr. Clark's fingers were badly jammed, and it was considered at first that amputation was necessary, but a strong fight was made to save them.

BUFFING OF NAILS IS ADVISED TO BRING OUT NATURAL LUSTRE

Pat Paterson

Pat Paterson

By GLADYS GLAD

"Dear Miss Glad: My nails have always had a very lovely, natural luster. Lately, however, I've been using liquid polish on them, and they seem to have become dull, dry and faded. My sister says that it's the fault of the liquid. Do you thing this true? ALMA."

The fault probably lies in the fact that, due to the finished appearance that the liquid polish gives, you have discarded the practice of buffing your nails. Buffing of the nails should never be neglected, as it not only brings out the natural luster of the nails, but also stimulates the circulation. Always buff your nails before using your liquid polish. This will provide a smooth surface for the application of the polish, and will give your nails a lovely underluster. Also, you should massage your nails nightly with a bit of warmed olive oil, to help correct their dry, dull local beauty contest soon, and if I walk off with the laurels, you'll deserve the credit. You see, I'm really quite pretty, but had a very fat, shapeless figure. But through the excellent reducing course in your 'New Figure' booklet, I succeeded in losing 32 pounds. And I sure do feel like a Venus now. However, my posture is not very good, and though I try to hold myself correctly, I sometimes forget. Do you know of any good posture exercises?

"BETH."

One of the best exercises known for correcting imperfect posture is as follows:

Stand erect, abdomen in, chest up, hands at sides. Raise the arms slowly to shoulder lever, and then overhead. Reach toward the ceiling with your hands, rising on yours toes, and stretching your body to its fullest extent. Then relax completely, and repeat the exercise. Another excellent practice is to walk about a room with a book or some like object on your head. The need for preserving balance will force you to adopt correct posture.

"Dear Miss Glad: My skin is extremely dry, and in cool weather it chaps very easily. It is also disfigured by a number of annoying blackheads. Do you think that I should use creams only on my skin, rather than soap and water?

'BERTHA."

If you are afflicted with blackheads, a thorough cleansing method will be essential in order to remove these offenders. You should, therefore, give your face a good soap and water cleansing at least once a day. If this cleansing seems too drying you should use a bit of cold cream or nourishing cream afterward, to restore the natural oil to your skin. Your other cleansings may be just cream cleansings, however. And the nightly application of a good, rich nourishing cream will help greatly to alleviate the chapping and to correct the dryness. You should also treat the dry condition internally, adding more of the fatty foods to your diet. A little pure olive oil taken internally each day will help no end to correct this unpleasant skin dryness.

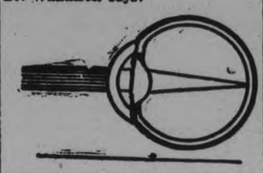
Reducing Legs

June: My method of reducing knees, calves and ankles is too long to print here. It is fully outlined, however, in my article on "Care of the Feet and Legs."

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

How the near-sighted child may become an introvert, and how the far-sighted child may develop into an extrovert are explained by Dr Arthur P. Wilkinson of Detroit, Mich., in the current issue of The Sight-Saving Review, a quarterly journal published by the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness. Writing on "Eyesight in Mental and Physical Development", Dr. Wilkinson says:



Normal eye—rays focus correctly on retina.

"The near-sighted child cannot cope with his playmates on the playground. He is never wanted on a ball team, for he cannot see the ball until it is within a few feet of him, whether it is at the bat or in the field. At basketball the hoop is indistinct.

"Early in life he finds that he gets more pleasure from reading than from playing games. At school he remains indoors and talks with the teacher, while the others are out playing, and he is often the teacher's pet. It is quite easy for him to read, as the near-sighted eye needs to accommodate less than the normal eye. So the moderately myopic, or near-sighted boy becomes a bookworm and, in time, an unbalanced individual, and does not develop the qualities that are needed for leadership in later life.

"He does not care to take walks, nor does he appreciate a beautiful sunset. The trees appear to be large green blotches. No individual leaves are differentiated and the horizon is only a haze.

"What are the characteristics of the far-sighted child? His teachers say he is lazy, a mischief maker, inattentive, or motor-minded. He plays truant and wants to leave school. The boy is a jolly fellow; the girl is a tomboy. Some people might find a far-sighted boy stupid; others will observe how well he can do some things. He hunts well and is an excellent shot. He is often a leader in athletics.

Normal eye corrected by diverging lens—clear vision

"The far-sighted child, as is the case with any child, may or may not have good mentality; but he is consciously handicapped so far as near vision is concerned, and may seem stupid in those very activities in which the near-sighted excel. Although the far-sighted child sees much better at a distance than at close range, he is always under more or less eyestrain.

The difference between the normal eye, the far-sighted eye and the near-sighted eye, is a difference in the length of the eyeball. In the normal eye the lens is able to focus the rays of light directly on the retina. In the near-sighted eye, if relaxed, the rays are focused at about the center of the eyeball, while in the far-sighted eye they are focused clear behind the back of the eyeball.

To correct the far-sighted eye we use a converging lens; to correct the near-sighted eye, a diverging lens.

FACTS AND FANCIES

Chocolate Center Rolls

In Monte Carlo and all through the south of France, hard rolls with small balls of imbedded chocolate appear on the dining tables—a delicacy much loved by children. In accord with our predilection for applying quick, modern methods in daily life., a simplified way of making these rolls is suggested. Use a prepared biscuit flour. As each biscuit is formed on the baking sheet, press a small piece of chocolate candy bar in the center. Be sure the candy is completely covered by the dough. Chocolate candy bars can also be inserted and baked in the center of a loaf of bread.

DANCING IS ENOYED.

HAVELOCK, April 17 (Examiner Correspondence).—St. John's (Anglican) Young People's Association held a successful 'At Home' in the Town Hall here on Friday evening, when about two hundred young people and a few of the older members of the community were present, and enjoyed an evening of music and dancing. Patrons and patronesses for the evening were Rev. E. W. G. and Mrs. Worrall, Dr. and Mrs. Donald Holdcroft, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Roche, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sanderson, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Watson, and Mr. Isaac Barlow, the latter the oldest parishioner, all of whom were on hand to receive the guests, and make them welcome.

Music for dancing was furnished by Doug. Hutchison's Rythmanians and a thoroughly enjoyable evening was spent. Many young people from Campbellford, Norwood and Peterborough Young People's Societies were present. Two vocal selections by Miss Ralston of Peterborough were much appreciated contributions to the program, as was also a vocal solo by Miss Helen Bedford of Havelock.

A dainty lunch was served at the midnight hour by the young people of the A.Y.P.A. under the supervision of their president, Miss Curtis, after which dancing was resumed until 1.30.

Discover quick way to wax your floors without rubbing

WOMEN CALL IT ONE OF THE GREATEST WORK-SAVING DISCOVERIES EVER MADE. TRY IT.

Thanks to a recent scientific discovery you can now keep your floor gleaming like new without breaking your back, wearing yourself out. It's the new-day, no-work way to wax your floors—both wood and linoleum. All you do is get a tin of the new Old English no-rubbing Floor Polish from any paint, hardware, department or grocery store and pour a little of it right on your floor. Then spread it lightly and evenly. That's all. While you sit in your favorite rocker it dries to a wonderful, smooth shine in just a few minutes. Your floor looks lovely—like new—and it will look that way for an amazingly long time.

Now keep your floors nice looking and gleaming without rubbing—this new, easy way. You'll say it is marvelous.

JEAN NASH, WORLD'S FASHION PLATE, WAS TWICE A BRIDE BEFORE EIGHTEEN

This is the second of a series of articles on the life of Jean Nash, "best dressed woman in the world." This article describes her romance with the late Winfield Sifton, then a young Canadian officer.

By EMILY CARTER

(Copyright, 1934, Central Press Canadian)

NEW YORK, April 14.—Strange thing, that the life of the beautiful Jean Nash, best-dressed woman in the world, should have started out so tragically and then escaped all sadness until the ghost of its start came to life in a murder trial!

From the day when her son, Andrew Donaldson Kirwan, first of four children born to the five-times married young woman, came into the world, a physical defective, until last February, when he was alleged involved in a stabbing aboard the liner President Garfield, there is no record of tragedies. Kirwan was acquitted on the murder charge.

Unhappiness there must have been, due to her concern about the boy who suffered from a nervous affliction and partial paralysis, but she went from one triumph to another, accumulating wealth, social position, glamor.

She was 16 when she married Kirwan. It was 1910. She left the fashionable Spence school in New York to become a bride. She was barely 17 when Husband Number Two wooed her away from the United States, whence she never returned, save as a visitor.

Lieut. Winfield B. Sifton was a splendid horseman, son of the then Canadian Minister of the Interior.

They were married in prosaic Millburn, N. J., but they made London, England, their home.

When Winfield Sifton divorced her, he called her "a champion spender." She never took the trouble to deny it.

Indeed, she has freely admitted the fascination clothes have for her.

The Cause of Duels.

"They are with me a passion," she has written, "an art, a part of my inmost being. I love not only to wear them, but to gaze at them, to handle them, to revel in their color and texture, even to see them on other women.

"It is a joy to me to order them, to try them on, to see them delivered. It is a pleasure to hang them up and to take them out. No weariness ever comes to me when I am handling clothes."

She began, in London, and with frequent Channel crossings to the international style capital, to spend her time in dressmakers' and milliners' shops. When she was parted from Sifton, she went—quite naturally—to live in Paris, with her true love: clothes.

This was the period of perhaps her greatest success, romantically, at least. As the wife of her third husband her name became most known, but it was before she married Capt. Nash that the smart set of Paris "rushed" her; duels were fought over her; the young Argentine diplomat, Alfredo Ortega, committed suicide, allegedly because she spurned his attentions.

Winner at Monte Carlo.

She was always well supplied with money, as a result of the generosity of her husbands and because of her luck at roulette. She "broke the bank" at Monte Carlo.

Mrs. Jean Nash as she appeared in 1928, when she won a beauty contest on the French Riviera. She came recently to New York to assist in defence of her first son, Andrew Kirwin, charged with murder on the high seas. She is now Mme. Dubonnet.

Then she married Captain Nash. They had been introduced at a gay party at the country estate of a mutual friend. The handsome Nash was quickly smitten by her bright charm. Almost before he knew her first name he followed her into the pantry, took her in his arms and kissed her.

The marriage continued longer than that with Sifton. Indeed, it seemed for a while it was going to be a lasting marriage. Nash and the elaborately garbed woman who was his wife went every place it was smart to be seen together: Deauville, Cannes, Biarritz, the Bois de Boulogne, Mayfair. They led the "life of gaiety" of which Jean spoke so yearningly in reply to Mr. Justice McCardie, England's bachelor judge, who offended the beauty by declaring her husband need not pay a $20,000 dressmakers' bill which he protested.

That law suit, which portrayed Jean Nash to the world as a reckless, vainglorious creature, actually made her reputation more solid.

The story of that suit will be told in the next instalment of this series.

TO BUILD UP

Undernourished, Underweight "Teen-Age" BOYS & GIRLS give them the "VITAL 3"

TO build rich, red blood, strong bones, sound teeth, sturdy muscles and good nerves, boys and girls of "teen" ages require about twice as much calcium and one and a half times as much phosphorus each day as does the average adult. Therefore, meals that furnish sufficient calcium and phosphorus for adults may fall short in supplying the needs of boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 16 years when they are emerging from boyhood into manhood, and from girlhood into womanhood, and should be growing nearly twice as fast as in the previous period.

Added to a regular diet, which should include at least a pint of milk daily, Fellows' Syrup will supply the extra quantity of calcium that these growing "teen-age" boys and girls need. It will also supply them with additional amounts of phosphorus and iron.

Fellows' Syrup not only provides them with the "Vital 3" (calcium, phosphorus and iron), but also with other tonics such as sodium, potassium and manganese. The combination is particularly valuable for undernourished and underweight "teen-age" boys and girls, because it stimulates youthful appetites and thereby builds weight, and increases sturdiness and strength.

Doctors have prescribed this safe, standard preparation for 60 years. Its use has spread to 52 countries. It is one of the most famous and respected of medical preparations. Drug stores everywhere have FELLOWS' — the "Vital 3" Syrup Compound of Hypophosphites.

THE "VITAL 3"

1—CALCIUM

Vital to the child's life and growth. Adequate supplies promote normal action of muscles and nerves and build strong bones and sound teeth. Too low a supply of calcium causes softened bones, decayed teeth, bowed legs, enlarged ankles and wrists, oversensitive nerves and irritable muscles.

2—PHOSPHORUS

An important constituent of all cells of the body, of the bones and glandular tissues. It stands first among all substances as a nerve food. Phosphorus is necessary in regulating and maintaining the neutrality of the blood and in sustaining its normal temperature. It is also needed for turning starchy foods (bread, potatoes, sugar) into energy.

3—IRON

Every cell of the body and every tiny red blood corpuscle needs a daily supply of iron otherwise weakness immediately results. If enough iron is not supplied every day the blood will take what it needs from the small reserve stores in the liver, spleen and bone marrow, thus weakening the entire body structure. Anaemia and thin blood, in children and adults, simply mean insufficient iron in the system.

Miss Pearl McCarthy, music reviewer for the Mail and Empire, has this to say of the Madrigal Singers' concert in Toronto on Saturday:

"The Madrigal Singers, under the direction of Dorothy Allan Park raised their own former standard many notches on Saturday afternoon when they gave a concert in the Eaton Auditorium. The fact that the standard had already won confidence was indicated by the presence of a large audience on a day of numerous events.

"Their tone was really beautiful, at times even to be described as transportingly inspiring. This Peterborough group of women singers is still decidedly feminine, but, where as formerly their interpretation occasionally became mincing and dainty rather than delicate, it was marked by pure, unmannered refinement on Saturday.

"Agnes Logan-Green, a very good young pianist who recently made her professional debut in Toronto, was assisting artist as well as accompanist.

"The program of the singers included Palestrina, "Sub Tuum Praesidium"; Vittoria, Ave Maria; Schubert, a group of German dances in which the rhythms and varied moods of the poetry were delightful; a group of folk songs and numbers by Elgar. The soft but clear tones which the choir achieved were most commendable.

"Florence Richardson and Lillian Sparling played the string parts for Elgar's 'The Snow'".

An interesting meeting of the Art Study Club of the Catholic Women's League was held at the Lyceum last evening, when Mrs. F. J. Overend presided in the absence of the convenor, Miss L. Hurley. The paper on Art (Michaelangelo) was given by Miss Catherine Corkery, illustrated with examples of the famous master's work; Miss Josephine Lynch spoke on Francis Thompson, the poet, with illustrative readings given by Miss Hilda Sullivan, and the paper on Current Events was given by Miss Marita Collins. An instrumental number on the piano was given by Miss Agnes Grant, and Miss Phyllis Cowle sang "Sing Me to Sleep" and "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise," with accompaniments played by Miss Eleanor Grisdale. The ladies announced a bridge party to be held under the auspices of the League on April 23rd, also a picture to be sponsored at the Regent Theatre on May 30th and 31st.

Dr. Andrew Soule Passes In Atlanta

ATLANTA, April 17 (AP). — Dr. Andrew M. Soule, Canadian-born director for Georgia of the National Emergency Council, state NRA compliance director, and former president of the State College of Agriculture, died here last night.

Dr. Soule was in his 62nd year. He was born near Hamilton, Ont., July 8, 1872. Death resulted from pneumonia, which came after a major operation performed two months ago.

The veteran agricultural educationist was one of the most prominent men in that field in the United States until he resigned as head of the Agricultural School last year in the shift of Georgia's educational institutions. He had scarcely taken up his Federal duties when he was stricken this year.

Fort Erie To Set Up Base For Sea Planes

FORT ERIE, Ont., April 17. — Fort Erie Council will immediately co-operate with the Chamber of Commerce for establishment of a sea-plane base here, as result of a conference held to-day.

Location of the seaplane base will be on the Niagara River adjacent to the Fort Erie docks, the necessary equipment already having been provided by aircraft interests here.

Fort Erie's location, which enables Americans interested in the mining industry in the north to take off at this point midway on air routes from New York is one of the principal immediate objectives.

The necessary permit is to be secured from Ottawa, so the base can be charted on international air maps.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Rice, when used as a vegetable, should be in separate, soft, but dry grains. This means it must be well washed to remove floury coatings. The time required for cooking depends upon the proportions of rice and salted water. It is quite possible to boil the grains thoroughly in five minutes by having a large kettle of salted boiling water, and sprinkling the rice in so slowly that the water keeps actively bubbling all the time. Do not cover kettle. A cupful of rice to a gallon of boiling water are good proportions. Pour the cooked rice and water through a colander. Run cold water through the rice. Put rice in a saucepan, cover with one thickness of clean white linen. Set in a warm place so that the rice will keep warm and soft in its own steam. It can be dotted with bits of butter before sending to the table in a hot uncovered dish.

* * * * * * *

When rice is to be molded it should be washed but not so thoroughly, as the floury element helps to bind the kernels together. In the old-time recipe given today for Lemon Rice the vegetable is molded. Use a double boiler, and cook the rice in milk keeping the cover on kettle. It will hasten the cooking if the milk is boiling hot when poured over the rice.

* * * * * * *

LEMON RICE

And one-half teaspoon of salt and 5 tablespoons sugar to 2 cups milk when heating. Pour this over 1 cup of the washed rice. If more milk is needed, it can be added. When the rice is nearly done add 1 beaten egg, mix thoroughly, but lightly so that kernels will not be broken. Pour into a mold and chill.

* * * * * * *

LEMON RIND SAUCE

Squeeze the lemon and strain the juice. Cut the rind into shreds three-quarters to one-inch long. Put in sauce pan, in cold water, bring to a boil. Strain off the water, and return lemon shreds to saucepan. Cover with one cup cold water, and simmer until shreds are tender. Put in the sugar and cook until a rich syrup. Unmold the chilled rice and pour over it the cold syrup sauce being careful to have the lemon peel shreds as evenly distributed as possible over the rice. The syrup should be heavy enough to glaze the rice. It will pour very slowly. If too heavy it can be thinned by adding one teaspoon hot water, or possibly a trifle more. It is well to taste the rice while it is in the double boiler and be sure it is sweetened to your liking. The syrup will intensify the sweetness decidedly.

SAVES HER FACE.

PHILADELPHIA, April 17 (C.P.). —Miss Mary Curran, regional director of the public works art project, decided to paint a picture of herself, in addition to supervising the work of 100 Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware artists and sculptors.

She painted a group of giraffes and sent it to Jefferson Hospital in response to a request, then discovered the picture was intended for the Bronchial Clinic. A frantic call got the picture back before the doctors saw it.

NAVIGATION OPENING APRIL 25

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Apr. 17 (CP).—Clayton Misner, a captain of the Sarnia Steamships Line, expressed the opinion to-day that navigation would open about April 25. Captain Misner declared water from freshets entering the lakes was warmer than the lake water and helped to thaw the ice more rapidly than the sun or warm winds. Where there is an unusual amount of snow on the land, the breakup occurs earlier, he said.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR CENTRAL PRESS

By E. V. SHEPARD

AN UNEXPECTED JUMP BY PARTNER.

Here is a case where the declarer thought that possibly there might be a small slam in the hand, and partner jumped into a grand slam, lured by the great bonus. How many can you make? North's opening lead was the 5 of diamonds.

A natural inquiry is how a grand slam happened to be bid at no trumps. The auction went: West, 2-spades, upon five and one-half quick tricks; East, 3-hearts; West, 3-no trumps; East, 4-spades; West, 5-no trumps, merely intended as a feeler, to see if East could go 6, but the latter bid 7-no trumps, without a double.

The opening lead was the 5 of diamonds. Dummy's honors were split, by playing the 10, but West had to win with his K.

The declaring side could count just 12 tricks: Four spades, 2 hearts, 2 diamonds and 4 clubs. The only possible way to win the added trick required to fulfill the contract was by means of a squeeze, following the rule that when 12 can be counted 13 should be squeezed from the cards, and West proceeded to try it.

Four spades were run off. Dummy let go its lowest diamond. North let go his 2 and 6 of diamonds. Up to date North distribution could be counted as two spades and originally 5 diamonds, leaving 6 hearts and clubs, jointly, to be counted.

West ran off 3 clubs before North had to discard his lowest heart, showing that he originally held 4 hearts, and that he still held 2 diamonds, for his ninth trick, and then the last good club for the tenth trick.

North had to hold his good Q of diamonds, or dummy's lone J would become good, so North felt that he had to let go a second heart, leaving him only the Q-7 of hearts and the Q of diamonds. When North held the top diamond, dummy let go the J of diamonds, and for its last 3 cards held the A-10-8 of hearts. West held only the K-9-6 of hearts. South had just the J-2 of that suit. Of course the ace and K of hearts picked up both the Q and J, leaving the declaring side with the 10 and 9 of the suit, with which to fulfill its grand slam contract.

West was greatly elated over his first successful attempt at a squeeze for a grand slam, which the opponents could not avoid.

SHOPPING WITH ANN

Modern decorative art not only is showing new shapes in furniture and new fabrics, but new color schemes. The modern feeling is combined with a new Chinese note. One charming color scheme is of brown, beige, yellow and white plus a strong note of Chinese jade green. The walls of the room are painted brown, the woodwork white to match the furniture, which is also white, and the chintz hangings at the windows are yellow and brown. On the floor use jade green scatter rugs. If you are considering doing one or more bedrooms over this Spring this color scheme is very effective. Another very attractive bedroom decoration scheme could be carried out very effectively with walls papered with a paper of fresh pattern—white gardenias with green leaves on a sky-blue ground. The woodwork carried out in bleached cherry, which is honey color. The curtains are a solid-colored green, and the bed-spread, green and white with a plain green comforter.

A delicate perfume—just a suggestion—adds to one's charm. But even the best loses its appeal when it is used too heavily. Be as particular in your choice of perfume as you are in your selection of hats or shoes. Apply just a few drops of a delicate scent and avoid the possibility of creating a smothering atmosphere, so annoying to those with whom you come in contact. The local beauty and cosmetic departments have a splend'd stock of better perfumes. Ask the clerks to demonstrate them to you. Select the one you think suits you the best and use that particular scent. It will add to your personality.

We were impressed most of all by the colors of the lovely knitted frocks and suits we saw yesterday while shopping. Navy blue is a grand favorite, particularly when trimmed with the powdery blue. Rusty tones verging on shades of rose are very new and so lovely in a knitted fabric. This Spring knitted frocks are designed chiefly to wear under coats. They are decidedly new in aspect, and the clever new stitches, and marvelous fitting qualities make them revelations in what can be done when smart designers get their heads together. Knitted frocks now boast of windblown effects, with pleated edgings of a contrasting bit of knitted fabric. Surplice lines are edged with ruffly borders, and scarf necklines wind sophisticatedly across our backs and buckle in front. Sleeves have billowing puffs between the elbow and wrist, gradually tapering down to a tightly fitted cuff section. We saw lovely models in our local stores at $12.95.

Peterborough stores are anticipating May and June weddings—How do we know? Why, yesterday we saw the loveliest gowns—White—Yes, white and another thing we noticed was that the bridesmaid dresses were also (a great many of them) carried out in white. It may be a formal wedding ....it may be a very simple one—but to be really smart it must be white. Flower girls and brideshaids will go before her gorgeous majesty down the aisle dressed in white—The BRIDE—In a classic white satin gown with its sweeping train, moulded silhouette and long close-fitting sleeves, with her lovely misty veil, short kid gloves and satin shoes of the same material as her gown. Her bouquet of valley lillies and orchids (we hope she doesn't forget to wear the orchids on her going away costume). The bridesmaids—Net and starched lace or chiffon and how practical and lovely they will be for the summer Country Club dances. The flower girls—also in starched net. The prices on these lovely dresses were amazingly low and we saw the loveliest lingerie and accessories for the bride of this year. One of our stores that specializes in this line has such an attractive assortment for the lucky young lady to choose from.

Successful Concert Is Held At Bethel

EAST EMILY, April 17 (Examiner Correspondence)—The members of the Ladies' Aid Society of Bethel United Church held a concert and social evening in the basement of the church on Wednesday evening, April 11th.

A very encouraging crowd was present despite the bad weather and roads. Rev. Dr. Reddick took the part of chairman and the following program was given: recitation, Kenneth Harrison; solo, Cameron Clark; reading, Earle Hanbridge; instrumental, Mrs. Oswald Ruth and Edward Spencer; solo, Cameron Clark; reading, Earl Hanbridge.

After which lunch was served by the ladies and a very pleasant evening brought to a close by singing the National Anthem.

Death in the same room on the same day within six hours was the fate of two sisters, Mary Ann Sutherland, 85, and Mrs. Jane Sutton, 82, both widows, at Brackley, England.

Joliat and Boucher Awarded N.H.L. Trophies

CANADIEN WINGMAN IS NAMED WINNER OF THE HART TROPHY BOUCHER GETS LADY BYNG CUP

Joliat of Montreal Second Oldest Player in League in Point of Service.

CONACHER NEAR TOP.

Charlie Gardiner of Chicago Hawks is Other Individual Trophy Winner.

MONTREAL, April 17. — The wraith-like figure of Aurel Joliat, battling year after year against keen competition and advancing age, demanded and received recognition this year from the sports writers around the National Hockey League circuit.

Aurel Joliat

Second oldest player in the league in point of service, and crowning his long career with a remarkable performance in the 1933 - 34 campaign just closed., Joliat, left-winger of Montreal Canadiens, has been voted the most useful player to his club and awarded the prized Hart Trophy.

Boucher Honored Again

Again regarded by sports writers as the player who best combines clean conduct with effective hockey, Frank Boucher, perennial centre of New York Rangers, was awarded the Lady Byng Trophy for his sixth year. Announcement of these awards, made by President Frank Calder last night, concluded the individual trophy winning of the league this year in a clean sweep of veterans over the younger generation. Charlie Gardiner, goal-tender of the Stanley Cup holders, Chicago Black Hawks, secured the Georges Vezina Trophy as the league's best goalkeeper.

While Joliat was the pick of the sports writers, he was not without competition. Big Lionel Conacher, defensive bulwark of the Hawks, around whose bulky figure Tommy Gorman built up the strategy which resulted in the Stanley Cup going to the Western United States city for the first time in history, ran Aurel a close race. Joliat secured 62 points in the voting, against 56 for the 'Big Train'. Frank 'King' Clancy, dynamo of the powerful Toronto Maple Leafs, secured 51 votes, and Earl Seibert, the vastly improved defenseman of New York Rangers, followed with 32. It is notable that of the four granted recognition by the writers, three are high-scoring defensemen.

Boucher and Joe Primeau, Leafs' centre, waged a close fight for the Byng Trophy, Boucher getting 76 points to 72 for the Leaf. Ralph 'Cooney' Weiland, who started the season with Ottawa, but wound up in a blaze of glory with Detroit, was third, but a considerable distance back. Johnny Gottselig, Hawks, was fourth.

First Time for Joliat

It was the first time Joliat has secured the Hart Trophy, donated in 1923 by Dr. David A. Hart, father of Cecil Hart, who led Canadiens to two world's championships. Four times previously the trophy has gone to Canadiens, Herb Gardiner taking it once, and Howie Morenz, Joliat's front-line partner over a period of twelve years, winning it three times.

Joliat's play this season was regarded as the best of his career and was climaxed by a remarkable game at Chicago in the cup eliminations when Canadiens, although severely crippled, forced the now-champion Hawks into overtime before being eliminated. Joliat had the series on his stick in the overtime when, with Gardiner beaten, his wrist-flip struck a goalpost and was cleared.

Joining Canadiens in 1921, coming directly from amateur ranks, the quiet little player has never appeared professionally for any other club. He was a star from the outset, being regarded as among the greatest stickhandlers of all times. Clancy is the only athlete in the league who excels Joliat in point of service, having joined Ottawa Senators a year prior to Aurel's breaking in.

Only Two Penalties

Frank Boucher's claim for the trophy given by Lady Byng when her husband was Governor - General of Canada was two fold. He had less penalties during the season than any other top ranking player, only 4 minutes in the box, while he lead all scorers in the United States section of the league.

Frank Boucher

with 14 goals, 30 assists, 44 points. This figure placed him third in the entire league to Charlie Conacher and Joe Primeau of the Leafs.

Winner of the Hart Trophy: ... ...
1923-24—Frank Nighbor, Ottawa.
1924-25—W. D. Burch, Hamilton.
1925-26—Nelson Stewart, Montreal.
1926-27—H. M. Gardiner, Can'd's.

C.G.E. SOFTBALL TEAM ORGANIZED

Girl Employees to Have Entry in Ladies' City and District League.

PLENTY OF STRENGTH.

A C.G.E. entry in the Ladies' City and District Softball League was assured last night when several girl employees at the factory held a meeting in the gatehouse and organized for the season.

Last year's slate of officers was returned, and consists of C. A. Salmonsen, honorary president; Bob Cotton, president; H. A. Cranfield, vice president; and Marjorie Creighton, sec'y-treas. Each department in the works which employs girls who are interested in the team, will also be represented on the executive, and the following five girls were elected for this purpose. Industrial Control, Loretto Reynolds; Porcelain Dept., Margaret English; Punch Press, Laura Bosley, Fractional Motors, Marjorie Creighton, and Induction Motors, Marjorie Hallihan.

Dave Grant, manager of the team last season, expressed his regret that he would be unable to pilot the team this year, but stated that he would give his time whenever possible. Five prospective managers were named and these will be interviewed before Friday of this week when the next meeting is to be held.

One more win in either half of the schedule last season would have given the Electrics a play-off berth, and the girls are certain that they can go places in the loop this year.

It is possible that every one of last year's team will be in uniform once more and these together with several young fast players who attended the meeting last night, promises the Electrics plenty of strength.

BEARS FAVORED TO HOLD FLAG

Vacancies on Newark's Line-up Replaced in Satisfactory Manner.

PLAY-OFF SYSTEM.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Despite the raids which are annually made upon its ranks by its major parent, Newark will start another International League campaign on Wednesday favored to repeat its pennant-winning performance of last season.

Holes that were left when New York Yankees reached across the Hudson and plucked several of the brightest of the Bears' shining lights for their own faces seem not only to have been filled satisfactorily, but much better than had been hoped.

Particularly is this true at shortstop, where Jimmy Hitchcock has succeeded the sensational "Red" Rolfe. In the former Auburn all-America half-back the Bears have come up with an infielder who has been as spectacular in his spring showings as has been his predecessor in his work with the Yankees. He has been a dazzling fielder and has all the marks of a good hitter.

Ernie Koy, Newark's new centre fielder, is another of the new additions to the Bears' line-up, who has contributed to their prospects of topping the circuit again. The 21-year-old slugger from Sealy, Tex., has supplied a real wallop to the Bears' attack.

In beginning its fifty-first year on Wednesday, a day after the major leagues officially get under way, the International again will follow the playoff system to decide its representatives against the American Association flag-winner in the Little World Series. However, the playoff system will be considerably modified, for the method followed last year brought reverberations, principally from the Bears, which haven't altogether died down yet.

Instead of dividing the league up into North and South divisions, with the first two teams in each playing each other, as was the case last season, only the first four teams, with no division lines, will get into the playoffs this year.

The playoff system this year calls for the first and second place teams, and those finishing third and fourth meeting each other in a best four-out-of-seven-game series, instead of three out of five, as was the case last year. The winners will then meet for the right to get into the Little World Series.

The Bears will open their season with the Buffalo Bisons at Rupper Stadium in the other opening games on Wednesday. Toronto will play Albany at Albany, Rochester will play Baltimore at Baltimore, and Montreal will play Syracuse at Syracuse.

MOTHERWELL GAIN ON RANGERS.

GLASGOW, April 17. (C. P. Cable).—Motherwell got to within a point of Glasgow Rangers at top of the Scottish Football League yesterday, by beating Hearts, 3-1. Rangers, however, have three games left and Motherwell only one.

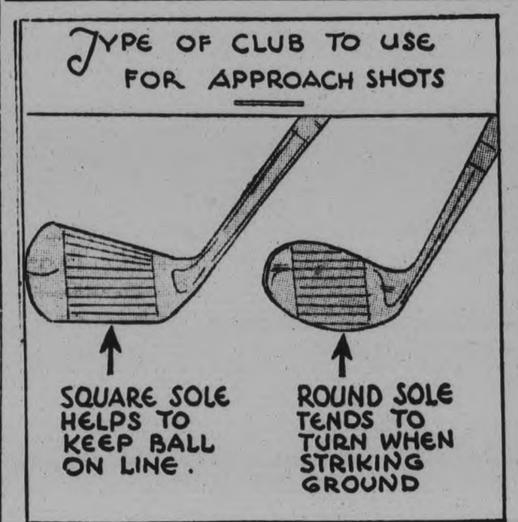
Golf Facts, Not Theories !

SELECTING PROPER CLUB FOR LOFT SHOT IMPORTANT



By ALEX J. MORRISON
Golf's Foremost Technician

That matches are won or lost around the putting green is often true, and it is made so mainly by the player's failure to use the right club for the shot.

It is also true, of course, that he may not swing the club properly; but in most cases it is a matter of poor judgment in selecting the club.

I will try to show you where the average player goes wrong in this matter, and how he can avoid mistakes in this part of his game. After all, there is a very simple means of determining the club to be used for any type of shot.

The most common mistake made in playing approach shots is in the player's attempt to send the ball in a high arc to the green when there is no need for such air arc. No matter how skilful a player may be when it comes to lofting the ball, his chances of being wholly successful with this type of shot are comparatively small. Few players seem to realize this, yet an accurate check on these shots would show that the majority of their attempts result in mighty costly failures.

There are two reasons for this:

1. The lofted shot requires a freedom of wrist action that most players cannot produce, something of which even the best of players cannot be absolutely sure.

2. In an effort to gain maximum loft in the flight of the ball, the player invariably tries to make the shot with a niblick, mashie-niblick or some club with a rounded sole.

By a "rounded sole" I mean a curved edge at the bottom of the clubface. Clubs with this rounded sole are intended for use out of rough grass, uneven ground or sand. From such lies the curved sole of the clubface is a great help in cutting under the ball. But when this type of club is used on the fairway, particularly where the ground is hard, there is a tendency for the clubhead to twist or turn as it strikes the ground, thereby spoiling the shot.

The clubhead with a square sole or straight edge on the bottom of the clubface is less apt to be deflected on striking the ground, and therefore, is more likely to send the ball in the desired line. Furthermore, the use of this type of club does not require as much accuracy in the swing as does the rounded, sole club, and a miss with this club, provided, of course, the ball does not have to be raised to maximum loft, is seldom so costly as a miss with other clubs.

Hence the percentage, both in regard to the swing and type of club, practically makes it binding that the player loft the ball and make use of a rounded sole club only when he is forced to by playing conditions.

KENTUCKY DERBY DECLARATIONS.

BALTIMORE, April 16. (AP).—George D. Widener's Chicstraw, one of the favorites and two stablemates, Wawagoe and Jack Low, to-day were declared out of the Kentucky Derby by Head Trainer Jack Joynor.

Due to the severe winter and unreliable weather this spring, Joynor said Chicstraw yas behind in training, and it was impossible to get him in shape in time for the 3-year-old classic at Churchill Downs on May 5. Kawagoe and Jack Low, both lightly regarded were not considered as probable starters.

NATIONALS GAIN ONE-POINT LEAD OVER DALHOUSIE

Murray Patrick Leads Quebec Champions in Scoring, With 11 Points.

Ralston's Play Features.

HALIFAX, April 17. — Montreal Nationales, winners of the Ontario-Quebec basketball title, won the first of a best-two-out-of-three series for the Eastern Canadian senior men's basketball crown here last night, defeating Dalhousie University Tigers, 37 to 36.

Playing a fast-breaking offensive type of ball, the Nationales fairly dazzled the Tigers with their speed and fast passing. The Dalhousie players, who played a delayed attack, scored on long shots from outside the penalty line Montreal's defence was too strong for them to do much close-in shooting.

Playing a man-to-man game, both teams had many penalties called against them. Whereas the Quebec players capitalized on their opportunities, the Halifax squad missed a good percentage of free throws.

Murray Patrick Stars.

Led by Murray Patrick of last year's titleholders, the Victoria Blue Ribbons, and Pat Griffen, centre, who is playing in senior games for the first time this year, Nationales continually left the Tigers up the floor and scored on set-up shots.

Murray Patrick was the outstanding player on the floor, and after he was banished in the second period for four personal fouls his team resorted to stalling and simply controlling the ball, scoring only when they had perfect opportunities. Patrick collected 11 points before he retired to the bench.

Pat Griffen, National's 6-foot centre, played a great combination game, and added 10 points to his team's total.

Ralston, for Dalhousie, was on the end of most of their plays, but missed several clear shots. He gathered 12 points for his team, but should have scored more Gladstone, Tigers' lanky centre, pushed the ball through the hoop for 9 points, and Musgrave scored 8.

The Halifax team was nervous and excited, losing opportunitnes. Coach Jack Thomas said he thought his boys would do better in the second game.

Fort Erie May Stage 14-Day Race Meeting

FORT ERIE, Ont., April 17 (CP) —Dependent on a decision of President John R. Madigan, Fort Erie race track may stage its meet in 14 consecutive days as permitted under the newly-amended Government law. It was said yesterday the change was contemplated to eliminate expense of horsemen in shipping their entries twice to the same track each year. In racing circles here it was said the Windsor Club also might combine its seasonal meets.

JUNIOR LEAGUE PROPOSED.

COBOURG, April 17. — Junior baseball enthusiasts in Cobourg, Bowmanville, Oshawa, Whitby and Port Hope are being approached in regard to the organization of a Lake Shore junior baseball loop for this season, as well as an intermediate loop. It is considered there are sufficient players in all of the towns mentioned to make this possible.

SOCCER PLAYERS AWAIT OPENING

Will Start as Soon as Grounds Playable—Clubs Not Represented.

Local soccer fans met last evening in the Chamber of Commerce rooms to discuss plans for the coming season. Only business of minor importance was on the agenda and was carried out on the intructions of the executive.

Lindsay and Deloro were not represented but their presence is requested at the next meeting on Monday evening, April 30, when the league fee and registration fees must be paid. It is expected that the season will open as soon as the grounds are playable.

Applications Accepted

Albert Frick and Harry Hotston made application to the board for the position of official referees. The matter was left over until the necessary arrangements were made to correspond with the regulations.

The Caledonians are holding a special meeting on Wednesday evening before they hold their annual social evening on Friday night in the W.O.W. Hall. They have not organized yet but they expect to appoint their officers at an early date.

SPYING ON SPORTS

"GOSSIP AND SUCH

Brewers come through the 1934 American Association pennant campaign to win the flag the strangest cycle of transient victory that baseball has ever seen will be completed.

Seven different clubs have won the big A.A. circuit's championship in the last seven seasons!

A Milwaukee victory would give the huge midwestern minor record of eight different championships in eight years—in other words, each club having a taste of victory in its turn.

To the knowledge of this correspondent no league, major or minor, has ever presented such a picture of equality among all clubs as has existed in the association for the last seven seasons. No team has been able to win twice in seven years, much less twice in a row.

HERE IS the way the association pennant winners have paraded before the delighted eyes of their local well wishers:

1927—Toledo.
1928—Indianapolis.
1929—Kansas City.
1930—Louisville.
1931—St. Paul.
1932—Minneapolis.
1933—Columbus.

One can see with the naked eye how fitting it would be for Milwaukee to win this year and complete the oddest eight years of pennant play any baseball circuit has ever experienced.

However, to win this year Milwaukee may need more stuff than the club now possesses. Milwaukee, you see, finished seventh last season!

IN THE BREWERS' efforts to get out of the doldrums they have acquired a new manager, Alan Sothoron, famed as a St. Louis Browns pitcher and former pilot of the Louisville Colonels.

However, to win this year Sothoron will have had to make drastic improvements in the lineup of the Brewers. There are too many other tough clubs in the circuit.

Last year the balance of power of the association rested with three teams—Columbus, Minneapolis and Indianapolis. a St. Louis Cardinal farm, was far ahead in ability of all the other clubs.

Columbus at the end of the 1933 season was 35 games better than Milwaukee—far too great a gap for the Brewers to make up unless they prove a miracle team.

INTERNATIONAL League followers would challenge the statement that the American Association's seven-team seven-year showing was baseball's most remarkable.

The International can present just the opposite sort of record. For seven consecutive years one International League team and one only, won the pennant!

This was the Baltimore club. The Orioles with a great outfit of major league caliber, assembled, trained and managed by the late Jack Dunn, roared to championships in 1919, 1920, 1921, 1922, 1923, 1924, 1925—and probably would have continued to win if Dunn had not broken up the club to sell such brilliant stars as Lefty Grove and George Earnshaw to major league teams.

The real difference between Baltimore's seven-year record and that of the American Association, is that the A.A.'s seven-year feat was grand for baseball business and Baltimore's proved terrible, even for Baltimore, where the fans become bored with victory.

GIANTS, CUBS PIRATES, CARDS LEAD IN RACE

President John Heydler Expects Financial Recovery in National League.

OPENING MOUNDSMEN.

NEW YORK, April 17. (AP).—For the 59th time, the National League plunged into the opening of a new baseball season to-day and for the 59th time not one of the eight clubs would admit the possibility of finishing last.

Forecasts of clearing skies in the east and fair weather in the middle west indicated all four opening games would be played, with a turnout of some 100,000 baseball-hungry fans.

Financial Recovery

Whatever the final outcome, President John Arnold Heydler and the owners as well confidently expected a real financial recovery after several lean years.

If the Giants fail to get the same brilliant pitching that was responsible for their amazing triumph of 1933, the experts selected the Chicago Cubs, bolstered by the acquisition of Chuck Klein, the Pittsburgh Pirates, St. Louis Cardinals and Boston Braves as potential pennant-winners, with the well-known "breaks" as the determining factor. The Brooklyn Dodgers, Phillies and Cincinnati Reds almost universally were tagged for the last three positions in pre-season forecasts.

Some 35,000 fans were expected at the Polo Grounds where the Giants opened their bid for another flag against the Klein-less Phillies, led by a new Pilot, Jimmy Wilson. Bill Terry selected Carl Hubbell, southpaw hero of the world series, to oppose Ed Holley, big right-hander, on the mound.

Lesser crowds were in prospect for the other three get-away games—30,000 at Cincinnati where the re-built Reds, operating under the new ownership of Powel Crosley, Jr., and his associates were to be unveiled with the Cubs at opposition: 10 000 at St. Louis for the Cardinal-Pirate tussel; and 25,000 at Brooklyn where Casey Stengel's Dodgers faced the Braves.

PEDEN AND AUDY IN SECOND PLACE

Van Kempen and Bartell Lead in Montreal Six-day Bike Grind.

MONTREAL, April 17 (C.P.). — Piet van Kempen, the Flying Dutchman, and his United States partner, Frank Bartell, held first place last night as Montreal's tenth semi-annual six-day bicycle race neared the close of its first 24 hours.

Two teams which have been frequently successful in the past year or two were tied, one lap behind Van Kempen and his partner. They were Torchy Peden, Victoria, and his little Montreal mate, Jules Audy; Alfred Letourner, France, and Henry Lepage, Montreal.

The field opened out considerably for so early in the race, two teams holding last place being 10 laps behind the leaders.

Dominating the sprints were the Parisian pair of Onesime Bouchéron and Andre Mouton. These riders exhibited unusual speed and track generalship to score 92 points, well ahead of any other riders.

Peeney Mills

(C.J.P.)

W. (Peeney) Mills long years ago
Made his Central League debut;
His hitting pleased Walt Gerow
Who said maybe he would do.

And so the Nats tried out young Mills,
Who straightaway set out
To drive hurlers from the hills
And smack the ball about.

He proved a darn good catcher, too,
And he could run and throw,
But hitting was what he best knew—
Down, up, or fast or slow.

Peeney, in short, became a star,
The greatest up this way;
The fans flocked out from near and far
To see him get three hits a day.

Now, though this happened years ago
When you and I were young,
Peeney still can catch and throw
And swing the wagon-tongue.

His hair is less with added years,
Gone in that youthful flame;
But in the box score yet appears
His batting marks the same.

CRICKET

The Peterborough Cricket Club will hold its spring meeting tomorrow (Wednesday) evening at eight o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. All members are asked to attend and any other gentlemen interested will be heartily welcomed.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball, Lacrosse, Soccer
Softball, Bowling, etc.

By C. J. P.

Summer is just around the corner two blocks down. So what? So we have a flock of summer sporting organizations meeting these days. We have huddles to the right of us, gabfests to the left of us and soap-box sessions all around us. Enough gas will be thrown off to fill the Graf Zeppelin, with enough left over to pump up the tires on all the local cars that haven't yet got their '34 license markers. But some good should come of all the words hurled carelessly around, and pretty soon we'll be out there watching summer games—pretty soon. You've got to give these organizers credit. They do a lot of work without any thanks, and while it's true some of 'em like to parade a lot of oratory around, others talk less and do more. But they're all trying.

• • • • • • •

There's a cricket meeting this evening at eight in the Chamber of Commerce, and all members of the Peterborough Club and other gentlemen interested are invited to attend. The Girls' Softball League holds a general re-organization session Thursday at eight in Duffus' and all teams should be represented, also anyone else interested. The Church Softball League holds forth at seven bells tomorrow eve in the "Y", and all Sunday Schools should have at least two delegates present.

• • • • • • •

At this latter meeting, Dave Leether of the O.A.S.A. will attend with a suggestion that the junior section of the loop affiliate this year with the Ontario Association, and have their winner represent Peterborough in the Junior Ontario playdowns. Another idea to be brought up will be the lowering of the junior age-limit to twenty, and the forming of an intermediate section. Also a rule is likely to be passed that players who change Sunday Schools must stay out of the league for a year. Various other matters will be on the agenda, including the appointing of a five-man committee to run the circuit again this season.

• • • • • • •

We don't know yet what night this week the City Baseball League meets, but we hope there is a large turnout, including the officers, possible team representatives, and O.B.A.A. convenor and the Ontario representative. There ought to be four bantam and four juvenile squads entered this season. Some of those we've heard might put teams in this year are Bud Hickey, Herb Ralph, Pat Calladine and Bill Murphy. Others are to be seen regarding this by a committee. We were talking to a Cobourg man Saturday regarding Peterborough having a team in the Lakeshore League, and he thought it could be worked okay, but will not know until a league meeting is called. Again, let us urge a large turnout of those interested in kids' baseball whatever night this meeting is called.

• • • • • • •

Stick around, folks, we're not through mentioning meetings this week yet—nossir, not by a demijohn full. Men's City Softball League goes into a conference tomorrow (Wednesday) p.m. at 7.30—which makes two softball sessions there within two nights, gals' and men's—in Duffus'. Teams figuring on entering should say so at this time, officers will be elected and plans made for the season. Since the next annual O.A.S.A. convention will be held in Peterborough, a strong local executive should be put in this year. There ought to be six teams in the men's loop this season, four being hardly enough.

• • • • • • •

Then, the Kawartha District Tennis League meets Friday at the Peterborough Clubhouse to elect officers and re-organize for '34. Representatives should be on deck from these clubs: Lindsay, Port Hope, Lakefield, Peterborough, Quaker Oats and Kawartha. And there will be some discussion on whether or not this league and the Central Ontario one should amalgamate. The Kawartha circuit has grown rapidly in the few years of its existence and it's only a matter of another year or two till it's' a real power in tennis in Eastern Ontario.

• • • • • • •

Senior basketeers at the 'Y' swing into action up there once again this coming Saturday e'en. They had to mark time for a couple of weeks while the Hobby Show was on and then the Leaders' Corps' convention, but will step into it now and wind things up. Two games will be played Saturday, Capitals meeting Thistles at eight bells, with the All-Stars tangling with Normals at nine. That will leave one postponed game to be shoved in somewhere—and then the playoffs. These will likely consist of either home and home games, or a two-out-of-three series. At anyrate, the cagers should be through in time for their summer vacations, and this will be welcome news to their friends who were getting kind of worried about it.

• • • • • • •

One of the best scores made by Peterborough bowlers in the C. B. A. meet in Toronto Saturday—and missed in Monday's report — was that tossed in by Bill Stanbury, a 'Y' trundler. Bill, hooked up with a Toronto ace in the doubles, piled up 796 for his total with a single of 391. He struck in the first, spared on the second, struck through to the tenth, but picked a head pin to spoil a neat 400 game. 'Twas nifty maple-knocking on a strange alley before a crowded gallery. Freddie Martin, a C.G.E. pin-spiller, was the only local bowler to cop a money prize, Fred getting two bucks for finishing 17th out of 25 in the singles, his total being 810.

At the Theatres

AT THE CAPITOL.

"THE LIFE OF H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES

An inside story of the Prince of Wales is provided by an article recently published in an influential American magazine and written by Alexander, former Grand Duke of Russia. The local opening of "The Life of H.R.H. The Prince of Wales" at the Capitol theatre on Wednesday and Thursday which is eagerly awaited by local moviegoers and for which the world's "Prince Charming" donned grease paint and faced the klieg lights at the Gaumont-British studios makes these revelations of timely interest.

In this screen version of his life in which the Prince himself is "starring" many phases of his eventful life are portrayed, but personal friends know him best as a rather shy bachelor in knitted pullover and informal tweeds, who escapes the worries of state by visits to smart European resorts and his would-be brides in a personally piloted plane.

"This leaves three other Princes of Wales to be accounted for" according to the Grand Duke's article, The transatlantic one—a salesman extraordinary, a dashing cavalier. The transatlantic one—a solemn after-dinner speaker, a leading champion of the Buy British slogan, the nightmare of haberdashers and tailors, the idol and friend of the poor. And finally, that overworked heir apparent, who is doing his level best to relieve his father of a part of the King's arduous tasks and duties.

"In reply to the cry of 'idle rich' that was once thrown at him by a cockney laborer, the Prince said with great feeling 'Rich? Perhaps. But hang it all man not idle'!"

BAMBINO HAS HOPES PLAYING IN 22ND YEAR

Boisterous Babe Confident His Legs Are Still Good for Another Season.

NO CONTRACT TROUBLE.

(By Bob Cavagnaro, Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, April 17 (AP)—After all, this season—his 21st—may not be Babe Ruth's last in the big leagues as an active ball player.

The boisterous Babe said so himself to-day in his best baritone.

Notwithstanding what he has said before, the Babe right now feels that his legs might be strong enough to carry him through a 22nd season.

"I'm surprised to find myself in such good condition," he said. "In fact I haven't started a season feeling so fit as I do now in five years.

"There's nothing wrong with my batting eye or my batting. Hell, didn't I lead the boys during the training season? Red Rolfe gave me a close race, but I nosed him out in the last game with Brooklyn.

"Unless my legs crumple under me, I'll not only play in more than 100 games but I'll be in there next year, too. Of course a lot depends on what Col. Ruppert has to say, but if we both have a good year, why there shouldn't be any contract trouble."

The Babe not only anticipates a good season for himself, but for the Yankees as well. He figures the Yankees the best ball club in the American League—far better than last season's pennant winning Washington Senators—and hasn't a doubt they'll wind up with the banner.

The Big Belter can't see Manager Bill Terry's world champion New York Giants repeating this season. In fact, his dope sheet has figured them for fourth place. He likes the Chicago Cubs for the National League pennant and thinks the Pittsburgh Pirates will finish second.

WINGS SCORE OVERTIME WIN

Detroit Beats Leafs in Extra Play at Winnipeg to Even Series.

FINAL COUNT 9-8.

WINNIPEG, April 17. (CP).—Detroit Red Wings played 60 minutes of torrid hockey with Toronto Maple Leafs here last night on even terms, and went into overtime with their assault on The Toronto net to garner the winning goal for a 9 to 8 victory.

The win, after more than four minutes' overtime, evened the two-game exhibition series between the two National Hockey League teams Toronto having taken the first fixture Saturday, 12 to 8.

HOLIDAY SPORTS SET FOR OMEMEE

Village Athletic Association Plans to Hold Celebration on May 24th.

OMEMEE, April 17 (Examiner Correspondence)—The members of the Omemee Athletic Association met in Coronation Hall, Friday evening for the purpose of drawing up plans for the 24th of May celebration. The president, L. Curtis was in the chair.

Reports were read by committees appointed at the last meeting to inspect the grounds. Mr. Curtis reported some fences in need of repair and a committee was apointed to see to this in conjunction with the property owners affected. R. Moon reported that the council had reported favorably re a gravel walk from King street into the Athletic Grounds. After a great deal of discussion it was carried that the annual membership fee be reduced from 50 to 25 cents.

A celebration on the 24th of May along the lines of 1933 was decided on unanimously that is—a baseball or softball tournament open to boys and girls; field sports, such as races for the school children, the annual 5 mile race for the Sandy Cup, games etc., for young and old and finally a monster street dance at night. It is intended that two popular orchestras be engaged for the occasion, one for round dancing at one end of the block and the other one for square dancing at the other end of the black—the one admission price entitling holder to both dances.

Committees were appointed for all needs and are to render reports at the next meeting, April 27th. All those desiring any general information please write A. Adams (Sec.) and those wishing information re softball tournament write Dr. W. H. McPhee.

H. Hill read the financial report of the Bowling Association which showed a small balance on hand. F. Bent read the financial report of the girls' softball club which also showed a small balance.

Y.M.H.A. Intermediates Win 28 to 27 in Basketball Play-off.

MONTREAL, April 17. (CP) — Putting on a driving spurt in the closing minutes to come within an ace of winning, Saint John Trumps intermediate basketball champions of the Maritimes, last night lost a close 28-27 decision to Montreal Young Men's Hebrew Association, Quebec champs, in first of a two-game total-points series. The second game will be played to-night with the winners of the round advancing to meet Windsor Arrows in the Dominion intermediate final.

RAIN HALTS TOURNEY

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va., April 17 (AP)—Kept from the courts yesterday by rain, the star field entered in the annual Mason and Dixon intrafirm tennis tournament to-day will attempt to get away a delayed start. Fair weather was predicted.

Frank Shields, No. 1 ranking player of the United States; Lester Stoefen and Wilmer Allison, all Davis Cup probables, head the field of homebreds. Walter Martin and Marcel Rainville, the Canadian internationalists, head the foreign seeded list.

BEARS GET FLOYD NEWKIRK

NEWARK, N.J., April 16. (AP). Newark Bears, preparing for their International Baseball League start on Wednesday, announced yesterday they had obtained Floyd Newkirk, a pitcher, on option from New York Yankees.

Newkirk, a three-fingered right-hander, earned a trial with the Yankees by his work for St. Paul in the American Association last year.

ATORONTO YOUTHS HELD IN N. YORK FOR BURGLARY

JAMESTOWN, N.Y., April 17. — (A.P.).—Two Toronto youths, said by police to be responsible for a series of burglaries in Buffalo and Jamestown, are being held here today on burglary charges.

The young men, who gave their names as Robert McGee, -1, and Harold Sibley, 18, both of Toronto, were arrested last night after police had been notified they were displaying revolvers in a restaurant at West First and Main Streets. A policeman who investigated, they report, arrested them as they left the restaurant and reported he found toy pistols on each and a hunting knife on one of them.

After taking them to headquarters police searched their hotel room and found material allegedly stolen from the home of Fritiz Johnston last Sunday. Johnson identified some of the articles, and police said the youths confessed the burglary.

While wholesale prices in France have been dropping those for retail commodities are increasing.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterboroughs Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner

Full name and address (complete) must be given in all samples sent in.

Mary Truman,
486 Cambridge St., Peterborough.

Your writing shows that you have a good mind for detail and perhaps you are a little too precise, and not always accurate in your diagnosis of things in general. You are imaginative and humorous, but not too temperamental. You make a loyal and sincere friend and would go to any length to protect one whom you love. You are not gushing nor do you care for flattery, but usually desire the plain unvarnished truth. You are conservative in your ideas, not rash and over enthusiastic. You are quite sensible and thrifty and know how to manage money matters. You think slowly and clearly, then act with circumspect deliberation, knowing that you are doing what is right. Your ideas on religion are not too rigid, but you are honest and sincere, and always endeavour to live according to your code of honor, doing good in passing. Your's is altogether a noteworthy character, steady and real, perfectly reliable and dependable.

Mrs. Mildred Foster,
Hastings, Ont.

This handwriting illustrates executive ability, and most decided characteristics. It shows ingenuity and is significant of consecutive thought. You are deliberate, outspoken, and hasty at times. Then you become calm and conclude that the outlook would be much brighter had you but allowed yourself more time in which to study the situation in question from all possible angles. You have acquired wisdom in the School of Experience, and it has taught you many beneficial lessons which lend interest to your agreeable personality. You are honest and loyal to your friends, and to those whom you love. You are perhaps a little too indulgent or overgenerous in this respect and you show a tendency to condone their faults and shortcomings. You are adaptable and have inspired mental power. Your number is a supernumber 22, and is one of the best as regards inspirational powers. You sign is Leo The Lion. You are ruled by the Sun. January and October are your lucky months. Sunday the best day.

Susan Hay,
Hastings, Ont.

Your handwriting indicates an exacting nature. You are thorough in everything you do. Your mind is keen and alert and you are always happy when debating or conversing with people whose mentality ranks with your own. You are an individual of outstanding will power and determination. You are adaptable ingenious, genial and considerate. You are, however, a little inclined to impatience when your wishes are crossed. There is no logical reason why you should not be successful, if you put your best efforts into your work. As far as music is concerned I would certainly advise you to continue in your studies along that line. It will no doubt be uphill work, but is worth the effort. Your vocation as far as indicated in your writing is commercial. Your birthsign is Virgo, ruled by Mercury. The most fortunate periods for you are February and November. Wednesday is your lucky day. Ten your number.

Mrs. W. A. Herron,
119 Robinson St., City.

Your sample of handwriting sent in to The Examiner for analysis describes you as one possessing a scientific mind. You are intuitive and can be most persuasive in an argument. You are instinotive and can alter your attitude or personality to meet the requirements of those people who impress you most. There is an artistic temperament combined with cleverness in smoothing out difficulties in detail work. You are discriminating and refined. You are born under the sign of Gemini The Twins, and you are ruled by Mercury. This should give you greater mental qualifications than the average person has. Your best and most fortunate months are April and August, and your lucky day is Friday. Your number is nine.

Jean Herron,
119 Robinson St., Peterborough.

This handwriting reveals a conservative nature bound by conventions at all times. You have will power, determination and you are progressive. You do not waste much time in foolishness, because you appreciate the value of time and money. Your mind is keen; you are energetic and critical and 'always on the alert'. Your standard of justice is high and you are cautious. You are reticent and because of this you find it difficult to make friends. You would like to be friendly but there is something which sets you apart as aloof. If you were to join church clubs, take up bowling, etc., you would be brought into the circle of friendship, unknown to yourself and in time you would look forward to being with people and you would be happy instead of timid. Your birthsign is Sagittarius, the Centaur ruled by Jupiter. February and June are your best months, Thursday your best day and your number is 8.

BUS GOES OVER BANK.

NEWMARKET, Ont., April 16.—(C.P.).—A coach, carrying nine passengers, skidded on the highway near here to-day and plunged through a soft shoulder of the grade down a 40-foot embankment. Eight of the passengers were injured, none seriously.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, April 18

According to the lunar and mutual aspects for this day there is prospect of important change which should open up fresh opportunities and new contacts of a very beneficial nature. There is likely to be a definite increase in the real possessions, through the interest or cooperation of those in places of power and authority, from elders or old-established institutions. Surprising developments in this connection are presaged and it would be advisable to cultivate those in position to confer such advantages, pushing toward high goals.

Those whose birthday it is may experience a year of sweeping changes, with much in the way of advanced position, stabilized fortunes and heightened popularity. Elders and old institutions will be found in friendly mood for lending substantial assistance, with signs of preferment.

A child born on this day may be adventurous, ambitious, ingenious as well as persevering and diligent. Its career may be of conspicuous interest or eventful.

Trent River

There was a large attendance of Sunday school pupils at Church on Sunday when the pastor, Rev. S. A. Kemp, illustrated his text with a large colored set of pictures, taking the subject, "Keys." Rev. Mr. Kemp read an invitation from the Managing Board of the United Church, Havelock, to the Trent River congregation on Sunday afternoon in connection with the golden jubilee of Havelock United Church, to be held for a week, beginning Sunday, April 29, during which time a number of former ministers will give addresses. The dedication of the church took place in the year 1884.

Mrs. John Free celebrates her 72nd birthday on Friday, April 20, at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Free, and family, in Seymour West.

Recent visitors with Mrs. John Free and her brother, Mr. John Lawson, were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reid (formerly Rose Lawson), of Norwood, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Free, of West Seymour.

Miss Doris Scott, of Havelock, spent over the week-end at the parental home.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Shearer and family were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. R W. Umphrey.

The Misses Eva and R. Marion Inkster went to Peterborough Saturday to see their father, Mr. W. C. Inkster, who underweht an operation in Nicholls Hospital the same day.

Mr. George Armstrong, who has been secured to teach school near Bancroft, in writing home, states he is well satisfied with his appointment and plans to remain for an indefihite time. The original school-house was destroyed by fire and a temporary one has been provided for the time being, also ways and means of transportation for teacher and pupils has been provided. The distance has to be made at present across Potash Lake, the ice on which is 32 inches in thickness.

The Havelock-Trent River road is in good condition since the scraper has been in operation. The Marmora road is in very good condition for this season of the year, only a few places being damaged by frost, but this is being corrected daily with quantities of crushed stone. The temporary bridge across the Crow River at Marmora was threatened by the floods over the week-end. Part of the floor was completely submerged, making motor traffic difficult.

During its present tour of Britain, more than 4,000,000 people have visited the Royal Scot, the British train which toured this country last year.

Centenarian Credits Rum, Smoking Pipe

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, April 17 (C.P. Cable.)—Peter Pollen of Conception celebrated his 100th birthday by diving into the rushing Wyma stream near his home and swimming 35 yards under water.

Splashing out again as gleeful as a schoolboy, he addressed his admirers on the banks:

"My recipe for longevity in the tropics is to drink rum and smoke a pipe.

"This is my first bathe in the river in more than 20 years, but I made a vow if I ever reached the century mark I would do it, even if I had to creep down to the waterside."

The centenarian deplored modern methods and modern advices: "Doctors of to-day don't know what's good. I am willing to bet none of them live to be 100."

Pollen, who has been married twice and has 17 children, was a local preacher and an overseer on a sugar estate before he retired. He speaks three languages fluently.

20TH BLOOD TRANSFUSION.

MONROVIA, Calif., April 17. —(A.P.).—Because her body can't produce the necessary red corpuscles to keep her alive, one-year-old Patricia O'Boyle will receive her 20th blood transfusion here this week.

After each transfusion her blood count has fallen steadily and another has been necessary within three weeks.

CANAL OPENS TUESDAY

WELLAND, Ont. April 16—(CP)—Tomorrow morning the Welland ship canal will be officially opened for the 1934 season, according to navigation officials at Port Colborne. Although movement of vessels in upper lakes was early, a sufficient demand was received from coal firms to warrant the opening, it was announced.

$50 HOLD-UP

MONTREAL, April 16. —(CP)— A lone bandit walked into a gasoline service station in the east end of the city early today and took $50 from Armand Dube. The attendant in charge, at the point of a revolver. Dube was tied to a furnace pipe before the hold-up man made his escape. Dube worked his hands free and reported to police by telephone.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

Get Rid of That Cold Stop That Cough

Never neglect what at first seems to be but a slight cold.

A little irritation in the throat, you start to cough, it gets lower down and settles in the chest, and the first thing you know some bronchial trouble develops.

On the first sign of a cold or cough get a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and see how quickly a few doses will convince you it is just the remedy you require.

Old Age Deferred

By Increasing Nerve Force

As age advances and nerve force wanes,
There is a slowing down of the bodily machinery.
The functions of the lungs, the heart, the stomach,
Gradually become less perfect.
They are not necessarily diseased
But motive power is diminishing—
The vital nerve force which runs the machinery.
The nervous system demands an abundance
Of rich, red blood from which to manufacture
New nerve force.
Iron is the chief ingredient of the blood.
Put iron into the blood and soon
You will have a new supply of nerve force.
The use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food
Is a most satisfactory way to supply iron.
It is quickly and easily taken up by the blood stream,
The nervous system is invigorated,
And the new nerve force brings new strength,
Vigor and energy to the whole body.

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK — By R. J. Scott

YANKEES WILL GIVE SENATORS BIGGEST BATTLE

Coupled With Boston Sox to Lead Fight for American League Pennant.

MACK OPTIMISTIC.

(By William Weekes, A.P. Sports Writer.)

CHICAGO, April 17 (A.P.). — The American League joined in big time baseball's rousing opening chorus to-day with no less than seven of the eight clubs harboring honest hopes of making pennant music next September.

Deprived by rain of opening the campaign yesterday at Washington, Boston's new deal Red Sox and the champion Senators were in Boston to-day to start even with the rest of the league.

Expert opinion figures Washington to land the title again with the New York Yankees and perhaps the Red Sox, furnishing the foremost opposition Cleveland, Detroit, and Chicago rank as lively probabilities. Owners, managers, and followers of these six clubs have declared them in on the championship battle.

While the experts failed to include Connie Mack's Athletics as a threat, the 72-year-old schemer thinks his team is "going somewhere." Only Rogers Hornsby, starting his first full season in charge of the St. Louis Browns, has failed to hint at expectations of being up there, but he can't see the Browns finishing last again this year.

The high enthusiasm is not confined to prospects of a free-for-all struggle for the championship. Club owners feel that this is a good time to start doing a lot of forgetting about two sorry financial seasons. Conditions in general, plus the redistribution of playing talent, what may prove to be Babe Ruth's last stand, along with Sunday baseball in Philadelphia, form the basis for their hopes.

90 000 See Openers.

The weather behaving, around 90,000 fans were expected at to-day's four openers. The Yankees and Athletics at Philadelphia, figured to attract 30 000, with 20,000 at Chicago to see Mickey Cochrane make his debut as Detroit's manager, against the White Sox; the same number to watch St. Louis and Cleveland at Cleveland, and 15,000 for the delayed Washington-Boston entertainment.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH IS FILLED TO HEAR THE REV. DR. C. J. ROLLS

Negro College Raided For Cult Teachings

150 Additional Chairs Placed in Aisles and Then Many Turned Away.

SEVEN CIVILIZATIONS.

DETROIT, April 17 (A.P.).—Fearing a revival here of a Mohammedan cult for Negroes which climaxed its activities two years ago with a sacrificial murder, the police to-day raided the "University of Islam," arresting 13 Negro officials and instructors.

The raid followed an investigation by Assistant Prosecutor George W. Schudlich and Detroit school authorities into the withdrawal of a number of Negro pupils from the public schools.

School authorities recently demanded a list of studies pursued in the "university" and found mixed with such subjects as trigonometry and astronomy, courses that called for a study of "the general knowledge of the spook and spook civilization," "chronology," "prophecy" and "duty of a Moslem."

St. Paul's Presbyterian Church was packed last evening Even when 150 chairs were brought in, there were many turned away. Rev. Dr. C. J. Rolls was at his best in his lecture on "The Function of Israel Among the Nations," interspersed with beautiful pictures, many from original photographs, he told in racy style the story of Israel from its beginnings as a nation, until the days of the dispersion, passing in review the rise and fall of seven civilizations, Egypt, Syria, Assyria, Babylon, Medo-Persia, Greece, and Rome. Beginning at Genesis, he showed the condemnation, the curse, and the ensuing conflict in humanity; the place of woman, in sorrowful subordination, and subjection, and then the promise of Christ as a Deliverer.

From the tribes of Shem, Ham, and Japheth came the seventy nations, a fact attested by Paul on Mars Hill, Athens, 58 A.D. The scientist has confirmed the fact that man came from one original stock. The railway station of today was shown at Ur of the Chaldees, and the excavations by Prof. Ernest Woolley of the University of Pennsylvania expedition. He quoted Woolley: "Every word of the story of the flood has been confirmed, even to Abraham's day." Then on to the well of Beersheba, where the troops of General Allenby stopped for water; to Hebron, where Abraham dwelt for a time; to Bethel, the present site; to Mizpah, where the covenant was made between Laban and Abraham; and to Attas, where Joseph mourned. Israel was chosen to be a bright light to the nations, and first was to provide a deliverer in Egypt. The temple of Amenhotep III at Luxor was shown in some of its ancient glory; an alabaster vase from the tomb of King Tutankhamen revealed exquisite workmanship. The capital city, Cairo, proved interesting with its many minarets When Israel was freed, she went by the Red Sea, and the crossing was shown. In the wilderness, Israel camped in the form of a cross at Shiloh. The temple built by Herod, 30 B.C., and the ruins excavated by Prof. Garstang were next shown.

The next great world empire, Syria, was initiated by a picture of its capital city, Damascus. The River Abana, and its tributary formed a setting for study of the residential section. On the street, called Straight was shown a school and other modern buildings. The Temple remains revealed much beautiful carving in the stonework. A Chaldean text of the Bible from a monastery, dating back to the 11th century proved interesting Then came the Assyrian Empire, with its capital Nineveh, and the palace of Sennacherib, one of the cruelest monarchs. A picture was shown of Sir William Ramsay of the University of Aberdeen, who affirmed his belief in the authenticity of the Scriptures, though he went to Palestine from his studies under Prof. Lelitsch in Germany, somewhat sceptical. Samara, a city of the desert, showed a most desolate landscape.

Then came Babylon with its capital, and pictures showing the gates leading to the Temple of Ishtar, built by Nebuchadnezzar. The famous waters of Babylon, where "they sat down and wept," and the scenes of desolation were shown. In the Persian Empire, the capital city Persepolis recalled the days of Xerxes and Cyrus. The palace of the former and the tomb of the latter were shown. There was also a copy of the gold seal of Darius, now in the British Museum, shown, with ruins of the palace of that monarch. The present king, who receives an income from the Anglo-Persian Oil Company, was shown.

Then came Greece, with its Acropolis at Athens, and reminiscences of Alexander the Great, whose head was shown taken from a medallion; also the temple porch in Alexander's day. Several pictures of Rome and its surroundings, with a picture of a piece of stonework on which was depicted Pompey's victory, and one of his soldiers carrying the lampstand from the temple at Jerusalem concluded the lecture. The function of Israel is now in the hands of the Church of Christ. Pictures of Jerusalem shown at the close were, the new Y.M.C.A. building recently completed, and the new Presbyterian Church and Hospice, also recently completed.

The service was led by Rev. Dr. Barr, while Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe offered prayer, and Rev. Mr. Millyard made the announcements. The concluding lecture brings Israel and its function for our present civilization: Zionism—the Rebuilding of Palestine, on Friday evening.

MEAFORD MAN LIVELY AT 89

"Can Still Turn a Handspring in Wink of an Eye" Says John Govett.

KEEN FIGURE SKATER.

MEAFORD, Ont., April 17 (CP) —"I can turn a handspring at the wink of an eye," says this town's sprightly John Govett. Mr. Govett's friends, however, let this remark go unchallenged, for John is getting up in years.

One of the oldest men living in Meaford—he is 89—John Govett is rated still as one of the district's finest figure skaters. He is a keen fisherman and boatman, too.

Its a long time since John came to this town. He was only 10 at the time. His parents brought him with them from Weston, near Toronto, where he was born in 1845. When they came here they lived in a log cabin, built of timbers hewn from the forest.

When John was 21 he joined the 2nd Battalion at Meaford and went to fight the Fenian raiders. He was quick as a flash, but he was the smallest man in the army, standing five feet, three inches in his socks and weighing only 115 pounds. Although he was little he was a sergeant in the battalion and winner of the silver crossed guns as its best shot.

Govett was always fond of skating. It is only a few years since he threw away his old wooden skates and adopted a "new" pair of the spring type, the kind that are locked to the soles of one's boots with a key. Two years ago he won first prize for figure skating at the Barrie Winter Carnival. Every winter he has made a point of skating on his birthday, but last January, when he was 89, he had to break the custom. He was indisposed.

Old John remembers clearly the sinking of the "Asia," the passenger boat that went down with all hands during a storm in Georgian Bay.

John used to be a cobbler and practised that trade for 25 years. He also built small boats and still fishes from a small motor craft of his own construction. In the winter he likes to "bob" for herring through the ice.

Govett does not believe in idleness. He has a paying hobby, making bird houses, which he sells to summer tourists.

LIFE OF NOMAD LED BY BOY 9

Court is Told Foster Father Changed Religion Often to Get Extra Relief.

CHILDREN'S AID PROBE.

TORONTO, April 17 (C.P.).—Bert Beaumont, field secretary of the big brother movement in Toronto, took the stand at Judge James Parker's inquiry into charges against the York County Children's Aid Society, and told the part his organization had played in the case of George Carson, nine-year-old ward of the society.

Frank Sharpe, general secretary of the movement, said it was learned after the lad had been adopted by Sims, the foster-father "changed his religion from time to time to get relief from various denominations."

Other witnesses described Sims as a bachelor who claimed to have been a priest at one time, and took the boy when he had a job teaching school on an Indian reserve in Algoma district.

After losing the job, it was claimed, he became a transient and stayed at a Toronto hostel, where the boy remained with him. Capt. Thomas E. Heron, general superintendent of the Toronto Welfare Department, said the father was eccentric and "so passionately fond of animals he insisted on taking a dog to bed with him." The department, he added, had the man examined at the Psychiatric Hospital.

Girls are better sleepers than boys, according to recent officials in England.

TO TAXI CAB OWNERS AND OTHERS.

DISTRICT FACTORIES ASKED INCREASE CHEESE PRODUCTION

Prizes Will Be Given Makers in Central Ontario For Effort.

BELLEVILLE MEETING.

BELLEVILLE, April 17.—A spur to increased cheese production in factories throughout the Central Ontario district during the coming season is offered by the decision of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association executive committee who met in this city last week to offer substantial prizes for factories which show the greatest gain in make during the year.

Under the resolution passed by the committee, first prize will be $50.00; 2nd prize will be $35.00 and 3rd prize $15.00. Length of season will be from May 1 to Octobe 31. The increase in make must amount to 5 per cent. or over, the make of 1933. Cheesemakers must be members of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association. Makers and factory will divide the prize money equally.

With representatives present from throughout the Central district, the initial meeting of the year held in the office of J. L. Irwin, dairy grader and presided over by Mr. E. I. Babcock, president, was eminently successful. Discussion centered chiefly upon general topics connected with the industry and the preliminary work of laying out the season's activity of the Association. Some time was given over to an address delivered by Mr. G. A. C. Weir of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal and Mr. W. E. Schuster prominent in his activity for greater export trade.

Marketing Methods Explained

Mr. Weir in his brief address dealt chiefly with the contrast shown in marketing methods between this country and that of New Zealand, and Australia, Canada's chief competitors in this great industry. Had this country similar representation in world markets such as Great Britain, the benefit to the cheese industry would be great. Favoring the work of the Central Ontario Commerce Crusaders, the speakers believed, that they were heading toward a definite end in their attempt to have direct export and import into and from this country, and hoped prompt action would be taken to restore the gradual drop in export trade. Mr. Weir conveyed many first hand facts to his audience, gained from a personal survey of marketing methods during his lengthy trip through Great Britain and the Continent not long ago.

Representing and speaking on behalf of the Central Ontario Commerce Crusades, W. E. Schuster, pointed to the advantages of trade through direct channels of export, which would follow with the cooperation of the British Mining companies in particular. Increasing export trade in cheese would naturally follow this move to cooperate as well as export in other lines. Several methods were outlined by the speaker in which extension of trade could be manager.

Appoint Directors

Previous to the close of the meeting, Everett Reid of Gananoque district, was appointed Director for the coming year for the Kingston district, with Vernon Spencer of Queensboro appointed Director for Madoc District, G. A. C. Weir and W. E. Schuste of this city, were appointed honorary members of the Association.

Those present at the meeting were:

J. L. Irwin, Hon. President; E. I. Babcock, President; R. Dulmage, Vice President; F. Little, Director; S. Anderson, Director; Geo. Pollard, Director; G. H. Dudgeon, Secretary; J. S. Cook, Hon. member; W. Hicks, H. Howley, H. Bailey and John Murray, Dairy Instructors.

Clinton Magistrate Is Taken By Death

CLIFTON, Ont., April 17. (C.P.).—Chief factor in the formation of the police magistrate's Association of Ontario and president of that organization for nine years, Silas Jerome Andrews police magistrate of the Town of Clinton died to-day in his 82nd year.

Mr. Andrews was born in North Gower, Carleton County, of United Empire Loyalist stock. He came to Huron County with his parents when he was 15 years old and settled in Clinton, which place had since been his home with the exception of three years spent in North Dakota.

NOVA SCOTIA ROTARY THEME

C. W. Palliser Describes Beauties of Eastern Portion of Province.

AT CAMPBELLFORD

CAMPBELLFORD, April 17.—(By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—Nova Scotia and the beauties of a trip to that eastern portion of Canada were described by C. W. Palliser, of Campbellford, yesterday when he addressed the Campbellford Rotary Club as guest speaker at the weekly luncheon. The chair at the meeting was occupied by President Clarence Williams.

Leaving Campbellford in the summer of 1927, Mr. Palliser described the beauties of the trip east, especially after leaving Prescott, from which point the road follows the St. Lawrence River to Montreal. The road from Montreal to Quebec City, he said, reminded him of driving up a lane, with the pavement just wide enough to let two cars pass, and the fences almost bordering on the pavements.

The approach to the city of Quebec was magnificient, the speaker said. Viewed from an elevation one looked northwest across a valley dotted with the spotless white houses of the country and could see for twenty miles across country. The city itself was extremely interesting, being filled with historic sights linked up with the history of Canada.

Leaving Quebec, the journey was made east to Moncton, N. B., and through this country, which was wonderful, the speaker said, that he noticed that in some places the people were fifty years behind the times, especially in regard to roads and agriculture.

The Tidal Bore.

One of the very interesting sights of St. John and one of the only three existing in the world was the tidal bore. This was a tidal wave that comes up the river, and which is generally viewed from Bore Park. Before the wave advances the river is just a bed of mud on which the boats with their red sails lay. Then is heard a roar, and a wall of water advances at a rate of six miles an hour, varying from two to six feet high, and the river is a river once more. The water receeds with the tide gradually.

Halifax Mr. Palliser described as a wonderful city, and he was impressed with the old buildings and the fact that everything looked antique. Many interesting sights were to be seen here also, among which were reliques of the explosion of 1917, one an anchor which was hurled for four miles through the air, and another a window in one of the churches which had been shattered, with a hole in the centre resembling a man's head. The window had never been repaired, but was left as a curio. The old fort and the citadel were also worth seeing.

The Anapolis Valley was one of the sights worth seeing in the East, the speaker said. It was a most delectable valley with a season much later than many other parts of the land and abounding in fruits and flowers. Among the former apples and cherries were prominent, cherry trees growing to a wonderful size and being very aged. Anapolis Royal itself was the oldest white settlement in America north of Florida, and has among other places of interest a most historic fort. In 1917 the Government built a park of forty acres here and used the old officers' quarters as a museum, which in itself is extremely interesting, housing exhibits of the early Canadian period.

Conditions here were also primative, for in many cases oxen were used for farm purposes, and even for driving into town with.

Mr. Palliser also described his visit to the land of Evangeline, near Kempville, where, he stated, that the old well is still to be seen as well as some willows, the old church having been destroyed, but a new one having taken its place on the original site. Near here was an old church built in 1807 by the Covenanters, attached to which was a cemetery with many curious grave stones and inscriptions, all in Latin.

DOURO PLAY IS WELL RECEIVED

Young People of Township Present Play in Warsaw Town Hall.

BIBLE SOCIETY MEETS

WARSAW, April 17 (Examiner Correspondence).—Warsaw Town Hall again demonstrated its lack of space on Thursday evening, April 13, when Douro young people, under the direction of Rev. Father Meagher, presented their play "My Wild Irish Rose," which delighted the audience. Reports of the play as presented first at Douro were not at all exaggerated.

Between first and second acts, John Sheehan sang. In interims between second and third and third and fourth acts Dr. Munro with his orchestra supplied music.

Wilfred Kennedy thanked the people of Douro and Dummer for their attendance and attention.

The members of the cast repaired to Dr. Munro's home where lunch was served.

The hall was cleared and a large crowd remained for a jolly dance.

The attendance at the annual meeting of the Bible Society in the United Church on Monday, April 9, was disappointingly small. The meeting was held earlier in the year than usual.

Mr. J. A. Crowe presided. After the opening exercises, Mr. Donald Forsythe read the report for 1933, which showed the gratifying result that the contributions were larger than usual.

Mr. J. A. Crowe was elected president for 1934. Rev. J. W. Wilkinson as resident minister is ex officio a vice-president; Dr. Munro is elected vice-president, and Donald Forsythe sec.-treasurer.

My Irish Rose To Be Staged Again

CAMPBELLFORD, April 17.—(By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—Because of popular demand and following many requests, the three-act Irish comedy-drama, "My Irish Rose," will again be presented in Campbellford, on the evening of April 27. Produced on March 16 by St. Mary's Parish, Campbellford, the Regent Theatre was filled to capacity for this showing, many people being unable to obtain seats. The play will be presented this month uhder the auspices of the Catholic Women's League.

SHOW BOAT DAYS IS PEPPY SHOW

Costumes Are Gorgeous and Fun is Fast and Furious.

DANCING IS FEATURE

If you ever harbored the notion that you would like to be a dramatic director, you ought to go down to the Lyceum one of these nights and watch George Zarfas of the Canadian Production Company whip into shape the cast for "Show Boat Days," which is to be presented under Kinsmen Club auspices on Thursday and Friday nights of this week at the Grand Opera House.

And probably, after you have watched him for an hour or so, you may come to the conclusion that perhaps you will stick to the old job after all or maybe take a turn at the wood-pile with some of the hardy swingers of the axe.

The result will be smooth, for George certainly knows his onions when it comes to taking a bunch of raw material and turning it out in finished form, but, oh boy, isn't it hard work! Over and over again they do those tricky dances, once more and then once more they repeat that comedy stuff so as to get the last bit of effect out of the turn of a word, and just how often have they sung those snappy numbers? It's hard to say.

"Show Boat Days" promises to be one of the peppiest of the many peppy musical comedies that have come and gone during recent years in this city. The quality of direction alone is sure to make for a brilliant performance and the talent of Peterborough has been combed for the cast.

The dancing is a feature of the production. The girls are young, pretty and graceful, and can they step! What more could you ask?

The costumes are gorgeous, the fun is fast and furious, and there are plenty of tuneful song hits.

The Kinsmen have a minstrel troupe with such song flashes as "Three Little Pigs," "Good Morning Glory," "Gather Lip Rouge While You May," "On the Wrong Side of the Fence" and "Over Somebody Else's Shoulder." Dick Lush is interlocutor.

Another interlude in the program is the "Dream House" number, with each performer building a portion of a little house on the stage.

On Thursday afternoon, there will be a popular matinee for the children at ten cents admission price, with the two scheduled evening performances for Thursday and Friday nights at the Grand. Get your tickets reserved now. The box office plan opened this morning.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAINS

F.o.b. shipping point—Wheat, carlots, 79c to 82c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

Butter prices weakened while eggs were slightly higher and other lines held unchanged on the Montreal Dairy and Produce Market yesterday. The butter market was generally quoted at 25c to 25½c a pound for fresh Quebec or Ontario butter arriving ungraded in carlots or less, with carlots or less of No. 1 butter, graded, mostly 26 cents a pound. Receipts totalled 161 boxes.

The egg marekt was stronger owing to continued decreases in receipts, only 706 cases arriving during the day. Graded shipments in carlots or less were 19½c to 20c a dozen for A-large, 18c to 18½c for A-medium, 17½c for B, and 16c to 16½c for C grade.

On the cheese market current Ontario brought 11¼c to 11½c a lb for colored, and 12c to 12¼c for white. A total of 46 boxes was offered for sale during the day.

Quebec potatoes continued at $1.05 to $1.10 per 80-pound bag, and New Brunswick Mountains at $1.10 to $1.15 for similar quantities. Prince Edward Island Mountains sold at $1.30 to $1.40 for 90-pound bags.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Excited selling on a big scale overwhelmed all the speculative grain pits yesterday, shattering prices to the virtual limit possible in a single day.

Wheat collapsed an extreme of 4⅝c a bushel, rye and barley each 5c, corn 4¼c, and oats 3c. Word from Washington that President Roosevelt was opposed to any silver legislation at this session of Congress preceded the wild outburst of selling.

Rumors were current that one of the traders forced to sacrifice huge wheat holdings in yesterday's whirlwind market was a prominent automobile manufacturer, who is also conspicuous in aviation and security dealings. Much notice was also taken of the coincidence that just a year ago the grain markets, stimulated by inflation talk, contrasting with yesterday's anti-silver reports, began one of the most sensational skyrocketing of prices ever witnessed, with wheat soaring about 45 cents at $1.28⅛ a bushel.

Wheat closed semi-demoralized, 4⅝c to 4¾c under Saturday's finish, corn 4c to 4⅛c down, oats 2⅝c to 3⅛c off, and provisions showing a setback of 5 to 15c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, April 17. — Bolstered by large export sales of Canadian wheat, futures quotations withstood a barrage of selling on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday and, despite a wide-open "break" in the Chicago market, closed with declines of only ⅝c to ¼c.

The May option closed at 66c, July at 66¾c, and October at 68½c Speaker Henry Rainey's statement that silver legislation was not slated for the present United States Congress session appeared responsible for the five-cent decline at Chicago.

Volume of business through the pit swelled to large proportions as importers, apparently impressed by developments at the Rome Conference, hastened to acquire wheat. Commission houses were in on both sides of the market.

Demand for various grades of cash grains continued dull. Weakness at Chicago depressed the coarse grains market with wide declines general.

Province Assumes Campbellford Road

CAMPBELLFORD, April 17.—(By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—Word received by Clerk Wesley Stephens, of Seymour Township, from the legal department, Department of Highways, of this province, states that the much talked of highway between Campbellford and Havelock, linking up highway No. 30 and highway No. 7, was officially taken over at noon on April 11. Up to the present no word has been received as to when work will commence on this stretch of road, which is about ten miles in length. The letter from the department reads:

"Pursuant to the provision of the Highway Improvement Act, R.S.O., 1927, C-54, S-54, SS-1, the following portion of highway is to be assumed on April 11, noon, to become and to be vested in the Crown and under the control of the Department of Highways:

"Being the road allowance between lots 5 and 6 in Seymour Township and its deviation southerly from the limit between the county of Peterborough and the county of Northumberland, southerly across concessions 14, 13, 12, 11, 10, 9, 8 and 7 to the road running easterly to the town of Campbellford, then easterly along the last mentioned road to the westerly limit of the said town of Campbellford, saving and excepting thereout and therefrom the swing bridge over the Trent River as shown on a plan marked A-25-13 deposited in the registry office for the county of Northumberland."

GIRL 15, FOUND SLAIN IN WOODS

HUNT IS ON.

SREVEPORT, La., April 17. — (AP)—A "pleasing" man of about 50 years of age was sought to-day as a suspect in the slaying of Miss Mae Griffin, 15-year-old daughter of the widowed Mrs. Maggie Peters.

The girl's body was found Sunday afternoon with stab wounds, slashed throat, and evidences of a struggle.

The body was found by a negro in a wooden section, and Dr. Willis Butler, parish coroner, said there was evidence that the girl had been attacked criminally and had been dead two or three days. The mother of Miss Griffin told officers that after much persuasion from a man who gave the name of "Jackson," she consented last Thursday for her daughter to accompany "Jackson" to his home to serve as "a companion to his ill wife," while he worked at night at the car barn.

Mrs. Peters said the man finally impressed her, but that an hour after her daughter had left she sat down suddenly and it dawned upon her, "Why did I let her leave?"

Mrs. Peters said she quickly sought relatives' aid and her search with them convinced her that the address "Mr. Jackson" have given her as his home was fictitious and they were told that there was no "Mr. Jackson" working at the car barn.

PRATT TO TELL STORY OF FIRE SAYS COUNSEL

Defense Has Nothing to Hide Smith States in Outlining His Case.

SHOW DOCTOR'S HABITS.

Two Witnesses Claim Housekeeper Seemed to Have Been Drinking Night of Blaze.

PERTH, Ont., April 18 (C.P.). — Dr. Wilton Pratt, Smith's Falls physician who stands trial at the Lanark County Assizes here for the murder of his housekeeper, took the stand in his own defence when court resumed here this afternoon.

Dr. Pratt stood up during his testimony. He spoke in a firm, clear voice.

The aged physician testified that the entry in his diary on January 18, 1933, about the word "finish" meant the possibility of having to discharge Miss McLean.

"What do you mean by the word 'ugly,'" asked the defence counsel.

"In bad humor," replied the doctor.

PERTH, Ont., April 18 .(C.P.).— If Dr. Wilton Pratt "is in condition" he will reveal "his own story" concerning the death of Eva Elizabeth McLean, his 61-year-old housekeeper, who died from burns received in the aged physician's bed last December.

This assurance was given Mr. Justice Patrick Kerwin and an Assize Court jury to-day by Donald Smith, youthful defence counsel for the doctor, charged with murdering the woman in his Smith's Falls home. "The defence has nothing to hide," Smith declared in presenting to the jury an outline of evidence he said would be submitted in behalf of the accused.

"The defence we propose to offer is to show habits and customs of the accused," Smith said. "You will hear evidence from a former housekeeper who worked for Dr. Pratt about a year ago, and as to the condition of Eva McLean at the railway station the night before her death, and also evidence from a person who was at Dr. Pratt's that night and two nights previous.

Victim Able To Speak.

"You also will hear further evidence as to the condition of Eva McLean at the hospital as to her ability to speak and raise herself up in a bed a few hours later. It is

FIND GINROVITCH MURDER LETTER

Describes Spot Where Girl Slain—Tallies With Scene of Skull Discovery.

MOUNTIES INFORMED.

KITCHENER Ont., April 18. — (CP). Police Chief William Hodgson said to-day that a letter written by Jacob Ginrovich to the commission of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, in which he confessed killing a young woman in Kitchener and burying her body in an old park off Mill street, has been recovered.

The letter apparently is a copy of the one received by police here in September 1930, and which police have not been able to find. The chief added that he is communicating immediately with the mounted Police, and that he cannot state at present what developments are likely to follow.

The letter now in the hands of the Mounties relates Ginrovich's confession and describes the spot in which he buried his victim. The description as set forth in the letter tallies very closely with the description of the spot in which the skeleton of a young woman was unearthed two weeks ago to-day.

When he was here over the week-end, the Hamilton asylum patient led police to a spot far removed from that where the bones were found.

At that time, Chief Hodgson expressed the opinion that Ginrovich was deliberately misleading them, and that finally he realized the seriousness of his position. Police also believed that he was taking advantage of the fact that local police could not find their confessional letter.

Back to Turkey?

ANKARA, Turkey, April 18. (AP). Unconfirmed reports said to-day that Leon Trotzky, Russian exile, who has been ordered out of France, had telegraphed a request to the Turkish government for permission to return to the island of Prinkipo, his former haven.

It was said Trotzky promised he would not interest himself in political affairs should Turkey permit him to return.

LIBERALS MEET TO-DAY.

Expect Compromise on Beer Policy—Wets and Drys Not to Clash in Ridings.

TORONTO, April 18 (C.P.. — Ontario's political forces to-day were strengthening their ranks for the coming Provincial general elections which numerous predictions place between June 11 and 20.

The Ontario Conservative Association is preparing for the May 3 annual meeting, expected to be the largest in the organization's history, while Liberals and Progressives today gathered here to definitely decide their offensive for the approaching ballot fight.

Premier George S. Henry is expected to announce the election date following the Conservative convention. In the meantime the numerous ridings are holding their meetings to choose candidates. A number of veteran members will be out of the running, retiring in favor of other standard-bearers since their ridings have been merged with other constituencies under the Government's redistribution plan.

Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario Liberal Leader, called to-day's meeting to which all Liberal members of the Legislature have been invited along with vice-presidents of the various district associations. A liquor policy agreeable to all is expected to result from the conference.

A Compromise?

The Mail and Empire to-day said "A compromise on ruffled feelings may be reached to the extent of permitting the 'Drys' to run in their respetcive constituencies without fear of opposition from the 'Wet' Liberals." The "Wets" likewise would have no fear of opposition from prohibition Liberals under the expected "compromise," according to The Mail and Empire.

The paper added that Dr. George A. McQuibban, Liberal House Leader who opposed the Liberal stand in the Legislature on the liquor

CHILD SUCCUMBS TO DIPHTHERIA

Four Other Members of Family Ill With Dread Disease.

SICK SEVERAL DAYS.

WARKWORTH, April 18 (Examiner Correspondence).—Annie Robbins, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Robbins, resident two miles from Roseneath died yesterday of diphtheria. Four other members of the family are reported to be ill with the dread disease.

Although the dead child had been sick since last Friday, the seriousness of her illness was not known until Monday, when Dr. Hayden, of Cobourg, was called. The child's remains were buried under the doctor's supervision a few hours after her death.

The family is reported to be in very poor circumstances.

Dr. N. H. Sutton, District M.O.H., informed The Examiner last night that he had been advised Monday by Dr. Hayden of diphtheria cases at Roseneath, and that anti-toxin had been despatched for there immediately by car. He was not aware one child had died.

Many lonely districts in British Columbia are being developed in the search for gold and silver.

SUGAR TAX CUT IN HALF; TAX PLACED ON GOLD

No Important Changes in the Income Tax Schedule.

TARIFF CHANGES

Existing Sales Tax of Six Per Cent. Will Remain.

OTTAWA, April 18 (CP)—To offset the loss in revenue from a reduction in the sugar tax from two cents to one cent a pound, there will be a tax a ten per cent on the value of gold deposited at the Mint, or exported, Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, announced in the course of his Budget speech to-day.

The tax will not operate when the price of gold is such that payment of the tax will reduce its value to less than $30 per ounce in Canadian currency. It will become effective to-morrow, April 19, and in consequence of its application the Mint handling charges on gold will be removed.

The tax on sugar, reduced to one cent per pound with the exception of glucose and grape sugar, which will be one-half cent per pound, will be effective July 1.

No important changes are made in the income war tax and the sales tax remains at six per cent.

Summary

The following is an unofficial summary of the taxation and customs changes:

Income War Tax Act

No changes are made in the schedules of income tax rates and exemptions. A number of minor changes are made primarily to remove existing inequalities; effective 1933 taxation period.

Sales Tax

The existing sales tax of six per cent is to remain unchanged. The only additions to the exempt list are bakers' cakes and pies, some sugar bush equipment and milk albumen; effective April 19.

Excise Taxes

The tax on sugar is reduced to one per cent per pound and on glucose and grape sugar to one half cent. Other minor changes include a reduction of the tax on cigarette tubes from four to three cents a hundred; a lowering from $1.50 to 75c in rate on sparkling wines and a change in the stamp tax on postal notes for $1.00 or less from 3c to 1c; under the three per cent. special excise tax the rate is to be cut in half on imports entitled to the benefit of British preferential tariff.

To replace the reduction in the loss through the sugar tax, a new tax of 10 per cent. is levied on the value in Canadian currency of gold depcsited at the Mint or exported. The tax will not operate to reduce the amount paid for gold below $30 an ounce. These changes are effective April 19, except in the case of sugar where the effective date is July 1.

Excise Duties.

The most important change in excise duties is a consolidation of the existing three per cent. per pound duty on malt and the 12½ cent gallonage tax on beer into a single excise duty of 7½ cents per pound on malt. Other adjustments in direct or indirect levies on beer are largely the result of this revision; effective July 1.

The Customs Tariff

Although fewer than 75 items are affected, the tariff amendments are of wide public interest and show a general downward trend.

Horizontal reductions in rates have been made, inter alia, on titanium oxide, heavy hollow forgings, glass blanks for processing and jewellery findings, as well as on parts for newspaper presses, shot guns and steel pulleys.

Jute yarns, wide steel plate, salt cake, certain crude oil, impregnated canvas, spun rayon yarns, filter cloth and ceramic stains are reduced in rate under the British preferential tariff; while a large number of chemical commodities, including gum amber, aluminum leaf, flotation reagents, synthetic cryolite and ingredients and synthetic resins are returned to the free list, under all tariffs.

Rates Are Increased.

The rates on jute twines are increased under all tariffs and those on ferro-alloys are increased under the intermediate and general tariffs. Implementing an imperial conference undertaking, crude peanut oil for refining is made dutiable when imported from foreign countries.

The drawback of duty hitherto granted on imported bituminous coal used in the production of coke in by-product recovery coke ovens has been widened to cover coke produced by any method, but the amount of drawback has been reduced from 99 to 50 per cent.

The importation of smoke screen apparatus, for use on vehicles and water craft, is prohibited.

Forecast is made of reduction in the Empire content requirement in a wide range of chemical commodities; in future the Empire content required will be 25 rather than 50 per cent.

The special excise tax of three per cent. of the duty paid value of imported goods has been reduced by one-half in respect of goods of Empire origin entitled to the benefits of the British preferential or any lower tariff.

HIGHLIGHTS OF CANADIAN BUDGET

OTTAWA, April 18.—(CP)—Highlights of the budget presented in the House of Commons today by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, follow:

A deficit for the fiscal year 1933-34 of $135,200,000 on all accounts compared with $157,700,000 last year.

A deficit of $24,100,000 on ordinary account compared with $43,200,000 the year before.

HON E. N. RHODES
Minister of Finance

Total expenditures of $459,200,000 compared with $468,726,000 the previous year, a decrease of $9,500,000.

Total revenues of $324,013,000 (estimated) compared with $311,130,000 the previous year, an increase of $12,883,000.

Receipts from taxation fell short of the estimates in the last budget by $33,000,000.

Beneficial results of the Empire Trade agreements were shown during the year by expanding trade with Empire countries.

A reduction in the average interest rate on Dominion government obligations to 4.35 percent, forecast within the next few months, due to refinancing. The rate now is 4.62 percent and in 1931 it was five percent.

Hope expressed of a further reduction in the interest rate on bank and other deposits with a general interest rate reduction on commercial and other loans.

Canada will not default on any of her obligations.

Legislation to permit farmers to compromise with their creditors and reduce their debt burdens forecast.

Stabilization of the Canadian dollar in international exchange must await the establishment of a stabilized ratio between the United States dollar and the British pound.

All indicators of economic trends show improved conditions during the past year, beginning early in the year and continuing down to the present and with enough indication for the future to inspire confidence if not undue optimism.

A decided improvement in earnings of the Canadian National Railways in the first three months of 1934 resulted in an increase in net revenues of $4,000,000 compared with the corresponding period in 1933.

A total deficit on Canadian National Railway operations in 1933 of $58,950,000 a decrease of $1,100,000 from the previous year.

AID FOR FARMER FOREMOST GOAL OF GOVERNMENT

Will Simplify Debt Structure So Charges Within Capacity of Farm to Pay.

LOSSES FOR CREDITORS.

OTTAWA, April 18.— (C.P.) — Further details were given to-day in the budget speech of Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, of the proposed measures by which the government will seek, at the present session of parliament, to lighten the debt and interest burden of the agricultural community. He coupled it with an assertion that writing down government debts was not practicable.

"The guiding principle of this legislation," the minister said, "will be to secure for the farmer a simplified debt structure reduced in size to a point where the carrying charges will be within the capacity of the farm enterprise to pay. This will involve some concessions on the part of creditors but these will be more than outweighed by the advantages which will follow, as a result of retaining the farmer on the land as a willing and effective producer.

"The release of economic energy so produced and the substitution of hope and good will for despondency and discontent which are now prevalent in certain areas should result in a very real gain to our whole domestic economy.

Same Remedy on Public Debt?

"The claim has been made that a somewhat similar procedure should be applied to certain classes of public debt in this country. This

Paying Up

OTTAWA, April 18.—(CP)—Some Ottawa resident has either a hair-trigger conscience or a peculiar sense of humor, the Department of National Revenue believes. Recently the customs office at Windsor, Ontario, received an envelop postmarked 'Ottawa.' In it was a one-cent stamp and an unsigned note with the words "conscience money, one-cent."

STABILIZATION AT STANDSTILL

Canadian Currency Must Wait Set Ratio Between Pound and U.S. Dollar.

RHODES' VIEW.

OTTAWA, April 18. (CP).—Stabilization of Canadian currency must await the establishment of a stabilized ratio between the United States dollar and the English pound. Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, stated during the course of his budget speech today.

'Much misunderstanding seems to persist in connection with these highly technical matters of money and exchange," the minister observed.

"For instance, it is sometimes claimed that we should devalue our currency on the same basis as the United States have devalued theirs.

This criticism appears to reveal a complete lack of appreciation of the fact that our dollar is currently selling on an approximate parity with that of the United States which has been devalued by slightly over 40 percent.

"I have much sympathy with the desire for stabilization which may be latent in this argument, but in my view stabilization of our currency must await the establishment of a stabilized ratio, at least on a de facto basis, between the United States dollar and the English pound.

"So strongly are our interests tied up with both of these currencies that a policy of tying to one and not to the oher would represent a poor second-best and not an ideal policy. I would have to qualify this general statement if either of these currencies should exhibit a deflationary tendency; that would involve a changed situation calling probably for a radically different decision."

Taxation Receipts $33,000,000 Short Of 1933 Estimates

Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Canada's Minister Of Finance, Delivers His Budget Address To a Packed House Of Commons.

REDUCTION IN AVERAGE INTEREST RATE IN DOMINION OBLIGATIONS IS COMING.

Canada Will Not Default On Any Of Her Obligations—Total Deficit Of C.N.R. Operations In 1933 Was $58,950,000.

OTTAWA, April 18.—(CP)—A deficit of $135,200,000 for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1934, an improvement of $22,500,000 over the previous year, was revealed to an expectant House of Commons today by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance. It was Mr. Rhodes' third budget during the troublous years he has held office, and he was able to speak in a happier vein than on the two previous occasions, in spite of the substantial addition to the national debt.

"The fiscal year which has just been closed has been a year of recovery," he declared, "recovery that is unmistakable and of greater magnitude than many had thought possible." He named numerous factors in support of this declaration.

Further Cuts Impossible

Practically the whole of the decrease in the deficit came through trimming ordinary expenditure, which the minister observed had now been reduced to a level beyond which it would be impossible to go. The deficit on ordinary account was $24,100,000 as compared with $43,200,000 last year, a betterment of $19,100,000.

Total expenditures on ordinary account reached $347,700,000 and ordinary revenue amount to $323,600,000.

Capital expenditures, unemployment relief and other special expenditures brought the deficit up to $76,300,000. Adding to that losses on operation of the Canadian National Railways amounting to $58,900,000 brought the net deficit to $136,200,000 as compared with $157,700,000 last year.

The minister announced the government's intention of setting up legislation to ease the burden of debt borne by farmers and explained it would be impossible to go further and make this applicable to all forms to debt and interest charges.

Net Debt $2,731,696,000.

The total net debt was esimated at $2,731,696,000 as on March 31, 1934, as compared with $2,599,069,000 on the same date last year.

The grand total of all revenues was $324,013,000 as compared with 311,130,000 the previous year, while total expenditures were classified as follows:, with last year's figures in brackets:

Ordinary expenditures $347,702,000 ($349,811,000).

Capital expenditures $6,570,000 ($8,548,000).

Special expenditures $42,904,000 ($43,365,000).

Loans and advances, non-active $3,096,000 ($67,900,000).

William J. Dowell Dies In Brockville

BROCKVILLE, Ont., April 18.—(CP). William J. Dowell, retired Canadian National Railway locomotive engineer who served for 29 years as general grievance committee of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, died at his home here last night after a short illness.

Born at Burritt's Rapids, Ontario, in 1866, he came here as a small boy and joined the Grand Trunk Railway service at the age of 13, eventually becoming an engineer in passenger service on the Montreal-Brockville main line. Four years ago he retired on pension after 50 years' service. He is survived by his widow and a family of three sons and one daughter.

EXPENDITURES PARED TO BONE RHODES CLAIMS

Further Curtailment Impossible Without Dropping Services Considered Essential.

$83,000,000 REDUCTION.

Uncontrollable List Up $19,000,000—Firing of 12,000 Employees Saved $10,000,000.

OTTAWA, April 18 (CP)—Economy has been the watchword of the Federal Government during the recent years of declining revenues and mounting costs for relief and other special services.

A few evidences of the extent to which economy has been practised were furnished by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, in his Budget speech to-day.

Controllable expenditures," he said, "have now been reduced to a point from which it will be difficult to effect further substantial savings without curtailment or discontinuance of services which are generally considered to be essential."

Of a total expenditure of $364,000,000 last year, exclusive of railway deficits and unemployment relief, Mr. Rhodes said, $230,000,000 was uncontrollable and $134,000,000 controllable. In the uncontrollable class he listed interest on public debt, $139,700,000; war pensions, $41,700,000; treatment and after-

ALLOW RETRIAL FOR WILKINSON

Appeal Judges Find Certain Evidence Should Not Have Been Admitted.

GLACE BAY MURDER CASE.

HALIFAX, April 18. (CP).—Appeal from Walter Wilkinson's conviction on the charge of murdering his sister-in-law, Mrs. William Wilkinson, was allowed to-day by the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia and a new trial was ordered for the Glace Bay miner.

The three judges who heard the appeal were unanimous in ruling there should be a new trial for Wilkinson, though there was divergence of opinion as to the grounds. One judge found certain evidence should not have been admitted at the trial; the other two held it admissible, but declared the jury had been charged wrongly with respect to the disputed testimony.

The evidence was that of Mrs. Helen McLeod, who told about a conversation with Mrs. Wilkinson a few minutes before she was shot in the McLeod home at Glace Bay last Fall. She said Mrs. Wilkinson told her she had been threatened by Wilkinson and that she feared she would be shot.

and that Hughes converted this pay to his own use. Hughes was released on bail of $5,000 to appear at Kaladar on Wednesday.

THREE CHILDREN ALONE 6 WEEKS WITH DEAD MAN

Father's Body Lay in Kitchen Pending Burial Action by Township Clerk.

NEAR KAPUSKASING.

Claim No Move Taken Until Provincial Police Stepped in—Had No Money.

KAPUSKASING, Ont., April 18. (CP)—For six weeks the three children of Henry Myllymaa went about their daily tasks in their Strickland township settler's cabin while the body of their father lay uninterred in a summer kitchen attached to their dwelling. The children are Silvi, Selma and Seelim, aged 19, 17 and 15 respectively.

During that time, according to a statement by the three children, they made application to have burial services performed but their efforts were not successful, they claimed, until Ontario Provincial Police, acting on reports current in the district, intervened.

The statement by the three children, which ends with the words, "We now ask that our father be left lie in peace in his grave now that he has a resting place" came as a result of contradictory reports arising out of the death and burial of the Finnish farmer.

Assisted by an interpreter, the children prepared the statement and made it public. It read as follows: "Our father died Feb. 3. We notified Mr. Tremblay, the township clerk, the next day, and we asked him if we would be allowed to have him buried in the Paughier Cemetery, but he answered us that this cemetery was only for Catholic burials.

Promised, But Nothing Done

"We then asked him if the county would pay the burial expenses, to which he replied that the county does not do this anywhere in Ontario. But he promised to do something about it. We waited for weeks but never got any more word from him to this day.

"Finally the Provincial Police at Kapuskasing heard about it and investigated our father's death. We are heartily thankful for what they did.

"We have no money because what was owing our father for pulpwood was nearly all used to pay for groceries and the balance was used while he was sick.

"Our father's body lay for six weeks in a summer kitchen which was a part of our home. We ask now that our father be let lie in peace in his grave now that he has a resting place, and that no more letters be written about it."

The statement was signed by the three children.

Loan Interest Rate Seen 4.35 Per Cent.

OTTAWA, April 18.—(C.P.) — By reason of the conversion loan and the low interest rate on new loans, coupled with the market value of Dominion bonds, the average interest rate on Canadian indebtedness now outstanding is 4.62 per cent., Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, stated to-day during the course of his budget speech.

It would be reasonable to expect, the minister said, that in a short time this figure could be reduced to 4.35 per cent. Before the conversion loan in 1931 the average rate was about five per cent.

RHODES BUDGET TO COME DOWN IN HOUSE TO-DAY

Third For Minister of Finance —Experts Foresee Substantial Deficit.

"SWEEP" BILL ADVANCES.

Sen. McRae Urges Canada Quit League—Referendum Before Canada Enter Any War.

OTTAWA, April 18.—(CP)—Today Canadians learn how the finances of their country stand and what taxes they will have to pay this year. This afternoon before a hushed House of Commons, surrounded by galleries packed with spectators, Hon. Edgar N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, will present the third federal budget of his career.

By a coincidence the Canadian budget come just one day after Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, presented the budget for the United Kingdom in the mother of parliaments at Westminster. Like Mr. Chamberlain Mr. Rhodes will likely sound a note of optimism in his budget speech for it is known that recent improvements in trade, employment and business have been gratifying to the government.

Another Deficit

Canada, however, if advance predictions are borne out, faces another deficit. Revenue returns during the latter part of the fiscal year year ended March 31 last were highly satisfactory but they did not speed up fast enough to make up for the poor collections early in the year. Consequently Mr. Rhodes is expected to announce a substantial shortage of receipts as compared with expenditures.

The House of Commons spent yesterday debating the Marketing Bill and disposing of other minor legislation. The bill to legalize sweepstakes, recently passed in the senate, made its appearance in the lower House and received first reading.

The Senate yesterday heard a debate on the League of Nations, war and peace launched by a major-general in the Canadian Corps during the Great War and a former president of the Assembly of the League of Nations. The emajor-general urged that Canada should withdraw from the League and the former president challenged this view and defended the institution at Geneva.

Urges Referendum on War

The major-general was Senator A. D. McRae of Vancouver who claimed the League of Nations had failed and Canada, to avoid the possibility of becoming entangled in future foreign wars, should drop her membership. Senator McRae also gave it as his considered opinion, arrived at recently, that no Canadian government should commit this country to a war without taking a referendum of the people.

The League was not a failure, said Senator Raoul Dandurand of Montreal, who once presided over the meetings of the delegates from the nations assembled at Geneva. Now more than ever before it needed the support of those nations, like Canada, which were bent on peace.

He did not mind paying premiums on two insurance policies for peace, he said. Canada spent only about $300,000 a year on the league but nearly $13,000,000 for national defence. Time would tell which sum was the more wisely spent.

INQUEST LAID OVER APRIL 24

Empanelled by Coroner W. F. Loucks to Inquire Into Death of Marvin Redden.

EXAMINE EYE WITNESSES.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 18 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — To nquire into the circumstances surrounding the death of little seven-year-old Marvin Redden of Campbellford on Monday evening, when he was alleged to have run in front of a car at the west end of the bridge over the Trent River, a jury was impanelled yesterday afternoon by the coroner, Dr. W. F. Loucks, and viewed the remains of the child, adjourning its heading until April 24, at 7.30 p.m., in the Public Library, when eye witnesses of the accident will be called.

The accident was investigated by Provincial Constable Gordon Campbell of Brighton and Chief George Hardy of Campbellford. The jury consists of: George Haig, Cyril Sloggett, P. J. Sarginson, C. H. Davidson, Charles Duncalf, Dr. S. L. O'Hara, T. T. Linton, and G. A. Kingston.

Marvin, who was a very popular boy in the community, is the eldest child of Harry Redden, a World War veteran, and Mrs. Redden. He will be laid to rest on Thursday afternoon in Mount Pleasant Cemetery, after a service in the Queen street home, at 3 p.m.

France Threatens To Scrap Arms Dealings Unless Assured Equal Of Old War Alliance

(By Melvin K. Whiteleather, Associated Press Staff Writer)

PARIS, April 18.—(AP)—France threatens in a note to Great Britain to scrap all current disarmament negotiations unless she is given something equivalent to the military alliance in the old entente cordiale, it was revealed today.

The threat is expressed in a memorandum drafted by Premier Gaston Doumergue and Foreign Minister Louis Barthou.

It supplements a previous note in which France expressed a desire for a new arms 'limitation conference,' on the thesis that present negotiations have failed.

The note frankly says it is 'useless' to argue about conditions until the full truth of Chancellor Adolph Hitler's rearmament program in Germany is determined.

Again In Trouble

LEON TROTSKY

Exiled from Russia, as well as a few other countries in Europe, Leon Trotsky, once a leader in Russia with Lenin, is now accused of heading a new organization for world revolt. This charge is the result of a raid made by French police on his rooms in the south of France where he has been hiding, he says, from the vengeance of the White Russians. When police burst into his room, Trotsky is reported to have met them with a revolver in each hand.

RELIEF OUTLAY NOW MOUNTED TO $111,906,812

Hon. W. A. Gordon Presents Total in House for Period Since 1930.

LOANS EXTRA.

Expenditures for Past Year to March 31 Reach $25,434,087—Ontario $8,216,112.

By HARVEY JOHN HICKEY

OTTAWA, April 18.—That the depression has cost the Dominion Government $111,906,812 in actual cash paid out of the public treasury for relief of various kinds was revealed last night in a report presented in the House of Commons by Hon. Wesley A. Gordon, Minister of Labor.

But large as it is, this sum by no means represents the total bill which John Taxpayer one day must foot. In fact it includes only the accounts presented here prior to April 1. Moreover, the municipal and provincial expenditures, which are at least equal in size to the Federal outlay, must be added before the total cost of hard times since the Fall of 1930 is reached.

Loans in Addition

Besides, these actual payments, which are being added to the national debt, the Dominion has loaned $51,489,774 to the four western provinces, and $2,447,223 to the C.P.R., a total of $53,936,997. It has also guaranteed payment of provincial and corporation loans totalling $83 819,161, exclusive of the amount pledged to finance the wheat hedging operations of John I. McFarland at Winnipeg.

On March 31, the Dominion had paid out $25,434,087 for relief during the twelve months then ending. There were then still bills to be presented by various provinces and municipalities. Of this total actually paid, $16,495,183 went for direct relief while another $1,432,661 was spent on homeless people in the four western provinces.

To Ontario went $8,216,112 of the amount paid during this twelve months and to this Ontario disbursement $7,835,456 was for direct relief.

Sales of new vehicles in Egypt in the last three months of last year were 21 per cent above those of the same period of 1932.

Gasoline Widow

CHICAGO, April 18.—(CP) — Into the separante maintenance court came Mrs. Jennie R. Barth, with the allegation that she was 'a gasoline widow.'

For 16 years she had been happily wed, but, she charged, the affections of her husband, Otto, were alienated by streamlines so that he purchased one new car after another, while their five children went hungry.

Judge Walter LaBuy granted an injunction prohibiting Otto from buying news cars for a while.

TROOPS CALLED AS MOB STORMS LOUISIANA JAIL

Women Lead Crowd of 2,000 Seeking White Blamed for Slaying Girl 16.

CONFESSION CLAIMED.

Lured Victim From Home on Pretext of Needing Nurse—Part of Prison Captured.

SHREVEPORT, La., April 18 (AP) — National Guardsmen to-day shielded the $1,000,000 Caddo Parish Courthouse after a storming mob attempted unsuccessfully to lynch Fred Lockhart, 38, the artificial butterfly salesman, who confessed to attacking and killing 16-year-old Mae Giffin.

SHREVEPORT, La., April 18 (AP)—The National Guard was called out at 10.15 o'clock last night as a crowd storming the Caddo Parish Courthouse got tut of control in its efforts to seize Fred Lockhart, confessed torture murdered of 15-year-old Mae Giffin.

Tear-gas bombs hurled by officers failed to disperse the huge crowd.

Troops Mobilized

Troops from the United States Army aviation post, Barksdale Field, four miles from the Courthouse, were being mobilized to assist officers in protecting Lockhart.

Urged on by two young women perched on a truck, a mob of 2,000 men stormed the Courthouse in an effort to seize Lockhart, who, police said, had confessed to the murder of 16-year-old Mae Giffen in a woods on the outskirts of Shreveport last Thursday.

After efforts to enter the building from the basemen had failed, the mob split in two, one section charging the front door of the first floor and the other storming the basemen.

The officers were overpowered by the mob that attacked the front door, armed with bricks and clubs, and 200 men forced an entrance and took charge of the first floor.

Firemen Summoned

The officers retreated to the second floor, and firemen were called to turn the hose on the howling mob, bent on seizing the prisoner locked in the jail on the seventh floor. Every available officer in the city was called out.

The mob began forming in front of the Courthouse shortly after the news of the prisoner's confession had spread. Its members milled about the building apparently leaderless, until two young women mounted a parked automobile, and one of them yelled:

"You're a bunch of dirty, yellow cowards if you don't go in and get him."

Lockhart, 38, a wandering vendor of trinkets, confessed, Sheriff T. R. Hughes said, after he had been grilled for hours, that he had lured the girl from her mother's home on the pretext of employing her as a companian for his wife, and stabbed her to death when she rejected his improper advances.

DEATH REVEALS WAR ROMANCE

Woman Who Fought in Syrian Army, Was Wounded, Wed Rescuer, is Left Widow.

ON TURKISH FRONT.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 18.—A romance of the war and the fact that a resident of Stamford, although a woman, served as a soldier, was wounded and wed her rescuer, has come to light, following the death of Gilbert Martin, former Imperial Civil Service Commission. To-day Mrs. Martin is a widow and mother of six children, although not yet 34 years of age.

Mrs. Martin, who is a Syrian, donned the uniform of her brother when he was killed by the Turks and, with a girl chum, served in the Syrian army until she was seriously wounded by the bayonets of the retreating Turks. Bleeding, she dragged herself around for 17 days until found and rescued by Gilbert Martin.

He took her to a mission station where she remained until 1930, when she and Gilbert were married in Mosul, Iraq, where their first son was born. Her body is covered with bayonet wounds which healed after Martin took her to the little hospital. In 1922 Mr and Mrs. Martin and their little son came to Stamford where they have lived ever since. Mr. Martin died last week.

CROWN FINISHES ITS EVIDENCE IN PRATT CASE

Judge Refuses Defense Plea to Take it From Jury for Lack of Evidence.

10 WITNESSES REMAIN.

Dr. Frankish Tells of Finding Powerful Brain Sedative in Accused's Pocket.

PERTH, Ont., April 18 (C.P.). — The defence to-day opened its case at the murder trial of Dr. Wilton Pratt, 71-year-old Smith's Falls physician, charged with killing his 60-year-old housekeeper, Eva Elizabeth McLean. The woman died from burns suffered in a fire at the Pratt home in Smith's Falls last December 31, and the Crown charges she had been drugged and struck on the head before being burned.

The defence plans to call 10 witnesses compared to the 27 called by the Crown, which rested its case yesterday afternoon after hearing expert testimony. The defence yesterday at the conclusion of the Crown's evidence attempted to have Mr. Justice Patrick Kerwin withdraw the case from the jury because of lack of evidence but the request was refused.

Dr. E. R. Frankish, medico-legal expert of the Ontario Attorney-General's Department testified yesterday he had examined tablets found in the pockets of Dr. Pratt. The bottle containing the tablets was marked "hypodermic tablets, hyocene."

Powerful Sedative.

Dr. Frankish said the tablets were the most powerful brain sedative used in medicine and produced insensibility, with one tablet capable of producing unconsciousness.

He believed the woman was unconscious while she was being burned on the bed in the doctor's room as there apparently had been no outcry. The burns inflicted on the woman's body could not have been endured without an outcry, Dr. Frankish added. Some hypnotic drug or a blow had caused unconsciousness, he believed.

In his application to have the case taken from the jury because of lack of evidence, Donald Smith, youthful defence counsel, stated the doctor's actions following the fire indicated he was innocent of the murder charge as he had shown concern for the woman and wished to go to the hospital with her.

In presenting its case, the Crown called witnesses who testified regarding burns found on the mattress of the bed on which Miss McLean is believed to have been burned. Evidence also showed she had been found lying on the top step of the stairs of the Pratt home during the fire and that there were burns on the floor and door of the bedroom.

MILLBROOK MAN IS FATALLY HURT

William Byers Dies In Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, Following Accident.

BORN IN CAVAN.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, April 18.—William Byers of this village died in Nicholls' hospital, Peterborough on Tuesday as result of injuries received when he fell at his home on Monday night. The deceased was a son of the late Marvin Byers and Eleanor Cathcart who died while he was in his infancy. Following his parents' death he went to live with an aunt Mrs. George Wallace in Cavan later moving to this village where he has resided for the past 30 years.

The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 from the home of Miss E. J. Gamby, Anne street. Rev. B. A. Simpson, rector of parish, Cavan officiating with interment in Presbyterian cemetery, Millbrook.

MILLBROOK, April 18 (Examiner Correspondence)—Standing on a table and reaching up to fix some stove pipes about eleven o'clock on Monday evening, William Byers, a middle aged man who lives alone at the east end of the village, in some manner fell, his full weight coming on a chair back, and rupturing him badly.

The injured man managed to reach the home of a neighbor, Harry Skitch, who summoned Dr. J. W. Wright, the latter taking his patient to the hospital at Peterborough; an operation was performed the same night.

NEWEST TRAIN BREAKS RECORD

Three-Car Streamlined U. S. Express Travels Over 100 Miles an Hour.

CARRIES 72 PASSENGERS.

PHILADELPHIA, April 18 (A.P.). —North America's first Diesel-powered, streamline train sped on its first test yesterday, clocked at better than 100 miles an hour.

Built for the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad, the train will be "christened" the Zephyr and exhibited publicly to-day for the first time.

Engineers and prominent industrialists on the trial run expressed keen satisfaction with the Zephyr's first performance as it streaked over tracks and out a new niche in the history of rail transportation.

The Zephyr is of stainless steel, three cars in one, de luxe throughout. It carries its own power plant, a 660 horsepower, eight-in-line Diesel (oil-burning) engine which generates the electricity.

The first car contains the engine room and compartments for handling mail. The second car includes an area for express matter, plus a buffet grill and space accommodations set apart for smokers. The main body of the rear, or third, car is devoted to paired seats. Accommodations are provided for 72 passengers.

BEST DRESSED WOMAN IN WORLD DEFENDS RIVIERA PLAY GIRLS

Jean Nash Wants to Know What Stupid Judge Knows of That Gaiety.

WED MOHAMMEDAN

This is the concluding chapter of the true story of the career of Jean Nash, "the best-dressed woman in the world," who is beginning a new chapter in her life, having battled to victory for acquittal of her son on a murder charge.

By EMILY CARTER

Copyright, 1934, Central Press Canadian

NEW YORK, April 18. — Jean Nash has not been Mrs. John Victor Nash for ten years, but she is known by that name wherever sophisticates gather.

The reputation she won through the publication of Justice McCardie's indictment of her extravagance has lasted.

Her reply to the judge was:

"What can a stupid English judge know of that life of gaiety where a woman loses perhaps 100,000 francs in an hour or so, and at a midnight supper that night finds a 1,000,000 franc rope of pearls draped about her neck by some multi-millionaire admirer?" asked Jean.

It is the women who make Monte Carlo and Deauville brilliant — These alluring resorts abroad are little understood by stay-at-home Americans or visiting tourists, and I am glad to relate my experiences as one of those who add the sparkle of life in Monte Carlo, Deauville, Cannes and the capitals of Europe."

Wed Mohammedan Style

Capt. Nash won a divorce, and he never paid a $20,000 dressmakers' bill for clothes bought by Jean while she was his wife.

She went to the south of France, after the divorce, where she met Prince Sabit Bey, dapper and handsome sportsman and globe-trotter. His reputation as a duelist, his svelte appearance, the glamor of his background appealed to her. In order to marry him she had to go before a British official in Egypt and swear to submit herself to the prince's rule, as required under Mohammedan law. But that was part of the romance. Jean Nash became Mohammedan.

In a sense, the transformation was a lucky break. When the time came that the American fashion-plate and her Egyptian husband could not get along, a Mohammedan divorce was simpler than any of her others!

Under Mohammedan law, the prince merely had to say in the presence of witnesses and with utter solemnity: "I divorce you!" and the couple was no more.

How Parents Got News

The most exciting of Jean's five marriages was her fifth, that which is still in vogue.

Paul Dubonnet, one of the three sons of the house that made the apertiff by that name world-famous, met her in Paris just after he had had a domestic upheaval with his first wife, the former Mlle. Christiana Coty, millionairess. Jean was "understanding" about domestic rifts.

The Dubonnets, if they heard the rumors that soon were going around, ignored them. Jean Nash, besides being American, had been married four times. Anyhow, marriages in France are made by parents. Accordingly when, three hours after Paul's divorce from Mlle. Coty was made final Jean and Paul got married, it came as a blow to the Dubonnets.

They received word of it from Mlle. Coty!

It seems that the new Mlle. Dubonnet was dining at Cro's the night of the wedding, and the former Mme. Dubonnet was, too.

When the word reached her, she jumped into her car and drove bareheaded through the night to the historic Dubonnet chateau near Fontainebleau, bearing her sensational tidings. Mme. Dubonnet, Sr., had a nervous collapse when she heard about t. The next day she called on the happy pair, to denounce them.

Brothers Nearly in Duel

The Dubonnet family severed all relations with Paul. Paul and his brother, Andre, had a fist fight some months later in the Bois de Boulogne, in which Andre emerged with two black eyes, a split lip and a bloody nose.

Andre challenged Paul to a duel, but Paul would not fight his brother, it is said.

Why did the Dubonnets object so strenuously? Jean Nash had money of her own, was beautiful, a good mother, devoted to Paul. The secret was revealed some time after the marriage. It seems the much-married American girl had married her husband with a "community of interest" clause in the marriage contract, providing that half of what is hers is his and half of what is his is hers. The usual French contract is by pre-arrangement, to a certain stated amount.

So Jean Nash has a fifty-fifty share of her husband's future possession of one-quarter of all the great Dubonnet vintner business.

They have one child.

In her hour of trouble risen out of the past, her fifth husband stood staunchlly beside her. The Dubonnets were drawn more closely together by the ordeal she had to undergo while her son was on trial on a charge of murder.

Now, having won his acquittal, she s beginning a new chapter in her life.

Deaconess Addresses Unity League Women

Miss Thompkin deaconess, addressed the women's group of the Workers' Unity in their hall on Monday evening, on the subject, Friendship and Goodfellowship.

The speaker outlined the work she had been engaged in during the past 12½ years, particularly in assisting the blind. Much benefit to the community could be secured by work carried out along the lines set forth by the Unity, by Mrs. E. Bradbury, president, Miss Thompkin stated.

Mrs. Bradbury presided at the meeting, which was well attended. After the Lord's Prayer was repeated, reports were presented by th secretary and treasurer, and were adopted. Mrs. R. Bugg delighted the meeting with several piano solos, and Mrs. Bradbury sang the Welsh National Anthem in Welsh and English.

Several new members were enrolled. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. The refreshments were possible through the generosity of Stock's Bread Company, Mrs. R. Bugg, A. and P. Store, and flowers were donated by Kresges, Woolworth's and Metropolitan.

Three Burned To Death In Ottawa Fire

Staff Seargeant-Major F. J. Coldham of the Royal Canadian Engineers at Ottawa, and his two sons, Arthur and David, were burned to death when their home was swept by fire. The two boys were trapped in an upstairs room and when their father attempted rescue he received terrible burns which later caused his death. The two children will be buried in Kingston, Ontario, next month. Sergt.-Maj. Coldham was well-known in Ottawa military circles.

MANY NEEDY CHIDREN AWAITING KINSMEN CLUB TO AID THEIR EYES

Proceeds From Show Boat Days to Aid Children With Bad Eyes.

CAREFUL INVESTIGATION.

"But thanks to you Kinsmen and the Doctors' kindness she seems real well since, her eyes are no longer bloodshot, and she feels she may not have to wear the glasses all the time."

The above is a typical excerpt from a number of letters on the files of the Sunshine Committee of the Kinsmen Club.

Last autumn the Peterborough Kinsmen Club, after giving the matter a great deal of thought, decided to adopt a program of Preventive Eye-Clinic work among the underprivileged school children of the city, as their major activity in service work. The club found on investigation, that there existed in the city many cases where children were badly in need of attention to their eyes, but were not getting it because their parents, many of them on relief could not afford it.

In such cases, it usually follows that the matter of getting the necessary attention is put off until the situaion becomes desperate, and very often too late to avoid permanent injury. The Kinsmen Club are endeavoring to fit into this picture by arranging and financing the necessary eye examinations and equipment, before it does become too late to avoid a serious or permanent eye condition.

Contacts with these cases are made mainly through the co-operation of the school nurses. When a pupil is discovered to have an eye condition which is not receiving attention the case is investigated and, if the circumstances warrant it, the case is referred to the Kinsmen. Lists of cases are received in this way from both the Public and Separate Schools. In addition, several students in the Collegiate and Vocational School have been assisted. Other cases have been referred to the Kinsmen through the Relief Officer.

The Kinsmen are very grateful to the eye specialists of the city for their splendid co-operation in this work. Their charges are nominal, being only the cost of equipment supplied. The cases are investigated as far as practicable to ensure that they are deserving. The Sunshine Committee takes the position that the money turned over to them for this work is trust money, and are painstaking in their efforts to spend it wisely.

Naturally, the financing of this work is a problem, and it is for this purpose that the Kinsmen are presenting the play "Show Boat Days" on Thursday and Friday evenings of this week. As was only to be expected on the inauguration of their program of preventive eye-clinic work, the club had a great many cases referred to it, and still have many cases listed for attention. The club solicits your support in this cause, and at the same time are giving you good value for your money.

VETERANS CALLED TO BIG RE-UNION

Canadian Corps of War Days to Take Part in Toronto Centennial.

TORONTO, April 18.—An ingathering of Canadian ex-service men from all parts of the continent and re-union as far as possible of the Canadian Corps of war days is contemplated in the Toronto Centennial program for Aug. 4, 5 and 6.

Many Canadian Legion branches in the United States have intimated their intention of attending in a body, some of them accompaied by their bands. Associations of ex-service men in the various provinces also expect to muster large representation of their members for the re-union.

The event is centred around the Toronto civic holiday and is one of the high spots of the city's celebration of its 100th anniversary. There will be a parade on Saturday, Aug. 4 to be followed by a review of the troops at the Exhibition Grounds. A drumhead church service will be held in the natural ampitheatre of Riverdale Park on Sunday, Aug. 5 and a big military tattoo on Monday, Aug 6.

Saturday evening will be devoted to gathering of unit organizations. Programs of entertainment in the Coliseum and of field sports for the men are being arrange by various committees.

Major Alex C. Lewis, Clerk of the Ontario Legislature, is chairman of the committee in charge of the re-union and is assisted by Colonel William Rhoades, Captain W. W. Parry, Captain Ray Fairweather and Charles Brown of the Amputations' Association. A committee of the Ontario Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion is co-operating in the work of organization.

Major J. F. Fitzgerald is chairman of the Sports Committee and Major Alf. C. Larter heads the committee on billetting and catering.

BANISH COMMON CONSTIPATION WITH DELICIOUS CEREAL

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brings Relief

Look out for headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sallow complexions, sleeplessness. Frequently, these are warning signs of common constipation. If neglected, your health may be impaired.

Today, you can rid yourself of common constipation by eating a tempting cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" and vitamin B to aid regular habits. ALL-BRAN is also rich in iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that found in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, this clears out the intestinal wastes. How much better this is than taking patent medicines!

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily will usually overcome most types of common constipation. Chronic cases, with each meal. If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN makes no claim to be a "cure-all."

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

FISH MULTIPLIED IN "BARREN LAKE"

Government's Cultural Effort in Maritime Waters Produced Anglers' Paradise.

OTTAWA, April 18 (C.P.)—How a fishless lake in Nova Scotia was turned into a paradise for anglers—subject to the limitations of the Game Laws—is told in the bulletin of the Department of Fisheries, whose cultural efforts have thus remedied an oversight of Mother Nature and enlarged the country's fisheries resources.

Hart Lake, in Colchester County, was at one time absolutely barren of fish life. Otherwise the lake was an attractive bit of water. In 1931 the Fish Culture Branch liberated in the lake 2,500 speckled trout fry from the federal hatchery at Bedford, N.S., having first made a careful examination to make sure the area was one suited to this variety of fish. In 1932 another 30,000 fry were added to the original lot.

Observations in 1933 indicated some of the trout weighed well more than a pound, most of them at least a half a pound, and all were as lively and healthy as any speckled trout to be found anywhere. Examination showed they would spawn during the ensuing autumn. The smallest yearlings among them were from six to seven inches long.

That was proof enough that Hart Lake is an excellent spot for speckled trout. It was evident, too, the lake could accommodate quite a number more fish than were placed in it by the fish culture people in 1931 and 1932 so another 30,000 fry were liberated during 1933. They will doubtless come along as well as their predecessors, and, in due time, produce another generation of gamey fish to keep up the succession.

4 BANDITS BEHEADED.

BERLIN, April 17.—(A.P.)—Four men who staged a daylight hold-up in which one person was killed were beheaded at dawn to-day.

They shot down four attendants of the Berlin Bus Company September 15, 1932, escaping with $10,000 the attendants were taking to a bank for deposit.

One of the wounded bus company employees later died.

Nearly 67,500,000 pairs of shoes were made in Russia in the last year.

MISSION PARTY TAKES KILLERS IN WILD LANDS

Police Withdrawn When Aborigines Surrender Peaceably to Expedition.

LED BY CLERGYMAN.

MELBOURNE, Australia, April 18 (C.P.)—Surrendering peaceably to a land expedition led by Rev. H. E. Warren, of the Church Missionary Society, four aborigines from the wilds of Arnhem Land, in the far northern territory of Australia, are being brought to civilization for trial in connection with the killing of a constable and two prospectors near Woodah Island and a Japanese settler at Caledon Bay.

When word of the death of three white men and the Japanese in the hinterlands reached here there were urgent demands on the government for armed parties to make a demonstration of authority among the aborigines, reported to be of treacherous disposition. However, after news of success of the Warren missionary party The Melbourne Argus says "the position appeared to be so satisfactory that arrangements were being made to withdraw a special party of police sent to protect the Groote Evlandt Mission."

When Mr. Warren landed at Caledon Bay Dec. 6, he was greeted with sullen silence by the aborigines, who had gathered on the beach and in dugout canoes in the shallow water. He made it known that his mission was one of good will and he then received a welcome. At once some of the aborig voluntarily and offered to surrender, confessing their complicity in the killing of the Japanese shortly before.

There was a similar incident at Grindall Bay, on the mainland, near Woodah Island, where some men concerned in the killing of Constable McColl and the prospectors Traynor and Fagan confessed, and said that they would surrender to end the trouble.

BARBARIC DANCES WELCOMED PRINCE

Regiments of Zulus Showed Their Joy in Demonstration of Fury.

MARITZBURG, South Africa, April 18 (C.P.)—Dances barbaric in vigor, form and fury but intended to exemplify the joy and respect of the Zulu people for the royal visitor were set before Prince George here during his visit in the course of his tour of the Union. It was emphasized they were not "war dances."

More than 300 chiefs were present, with groups of their immediate lieutenants, tribesmen and families. Twelve of these chiefs, exercising authority over large areas, were presented with walking sticks by Prince George, who was very pleased with the songs and dances.

It was a thrilling moment when the regiments of natives, in all their elaborate and savage finery, leaped forward from the'r orderly lines in the long grase and took possession of the mown ground immediately in front of the Prince.

With their shields flung up high and brandish'ng their fighting sticks and battle axes, they rent the air with an ear-piercing yell. This was the beginning of the dances.

Beaded and decked in a hundred monkey tails, severa lcf the chiefs who came forward to pay their respects to Prince George contrasted sharply with others dressed in the drab suits of the European. Their headgears of scarlet and black feathers shook violently as they pranced back to their followers after saluting the Prince, who was dressed in naval uniform.

Under a canvas-covered dais, the Prince and the members of his entourage, all in ceremonial uniforms, were greatly impressed as they looked over the scene of seething black humanity.

"Bayete! 'nkosi," a song of royal greeting, sung by both men and women, was beautifully harmonized as chief after chief came forward to lay at the feet of Prince George gifts characteristic of the Zulu handicrafts.

You get More out of GOOD TEA

ANYTIME IS TEA TIME

Everyone can afford to buy a GOOD brand of packaged tea, by long odds the most economical because it always gives more and so costs less in the long run.

Leading packers employ tea experts to assure correct blending and the consistent high quality that makes GOOD tea an unfailing source of complete enjoyment and real economy. Always buy GOOD tea.

Empire grown for the Empire's homes, GOOD tea is a blessing shared alike by rich and poor; enjoyed alike by men and women, old or young.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 18, 1934

JOHN BULL SHOWS THE WAY.

The Budget presentation of Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, yesterday was a decidedly more cheerful performance than finance ministers the world over have been able to stage in recent years.

Mr. Chamberlain was not only in a position to announce a surplus of $195,000,000 and to tell the British Parliament that in the fiscal year just closed Great Britain had regained its place as the first exporting country of the world, but he had good news for income taxpayers, citizens on the "dole" and civil servants.

The fact that Britain has had the largest surplus in a decade made it possible for the Government to reduce the income tax by six pence on the pound—a slash of roughly ten per cent.—and at the same time to restore from July 1 next the unemployment relief grants to their 1931 level, and to give back to civil servants fifty per cent. of the pay cuts that were made during the financial crisis.

Motor car owners were not forgotten in the good things mentioned by the Chancellor, for the tax of $5 per horse-power is to be reduced by twenty-five per cent.

The British taxpayers, in spite of this measure of relief, are still carrying an enormous burden, but the splendid improvement in the financial condition of the United Kingdom as disclosed yesterday must be a source of great encouragement to Britishers generally.

Without the aid of any spectacular recovery schemes and without resort to extraordinary methods, the Mother Country is winning through to prosperity once more; Mr. Chamberlain's Budget address shows definitely that she has made more progress toward the desired goal than any other country.

ALBERTA'S EXPERIMENT.

The Alberta Government has written into the statutes of that province a sweeping measure to control trade and industry within the boundaries of Alberta.

This modified "NRA," which, in the opinion of many commentators, is likely to be challenged by the Federal Government, proposes to regulate wages, conditions of labor and prices of products in industries, while provision is made for the establishment of "business codes."

An advisory board of three members will be appointed, chiefly to look after the interest of consumers.

The Alberta experiment, following closely on the heels of the adoption of extensive powers by the British Columbia Government, is a significant development, and the Canadian people generally will watch events in both provinces with a great deal of interest.

There are many people who feel that less, rather than more, government in business is needed, and those who hold that view are likely to regard Alberta's new legislation with a considerable amount of misgiving.

They will take much convincing that the drastic plan that has been launched by the Alberta Government will in the long run prove beneficial either to business and industry or to the people generally.

Experiments of this nature are at best experiments, and it is not surprising that there is a large section of the public that can see no chance of the Alberta measures doing anything worth while to correct present conditions.

A WORTHY CAUSE.

The position of the Peterborough Health Association is set forth clearly in the letter sent out to citizens whose aid is being sought at this time.

To carry on the work of the organization this year it will be necessary to raise $1,000 by public subscription.

Contributions have fallen short of this objective for the past few years, it is pointed out, and consequently the association has been unable to provide a reserve for emergency and required equipment fast wearing out cannot be replaced.

The only funds at the disposal of the association outside of public subscriptions are a grant from the City Council and financial assistance from several other organizations, so that the vital necessity of an adequate response to the present appeal should be self-evident.

Only to the extent the community rallies to the support of the Health Association can the organization continue to function in the interest of the health and well-being of the many citizens who depend upon these activities for help.

It would be disastrous under existing conditions to have any falling off in health work; the services of the Health Association nurse are in constant demand, and the other work done by the association is especially important in this period of unemployment and depleted incomes.

We believe the association is quite justified in stating that no community work is of more importance than the activities they are carrying on, and that the hearty support of the public should be accorded this week's appeal.

LEVEL CROSSING "DO NOTS."

The Ontario Safety League, never wearying of its mission to create a spirit of safety consciousness in the province, has issued a special bulletin in regard to level crossing hazards.

In view of the large number of accidents that have taken a heavy toll of lives, the advice of the Safety League and its list of level crossing "Do Nots" should be carefully considered by every motorist. Here they are:

Do not put too much trust in signs and signals at grade crossings.

Do not approach a railway grade crossing at other than a low rate of speed.

Do not blow your horn or carry on a conversation that is likely to drown the sound of an approaching train.

Do not shift gears while on the tracks. If it is an upgrade, change before starting up hill and cross the tracks in low or intermediate.

Do not take a chance on running out of gas on a railway track.

Do not forget that the best and safest plan is to come to a complete stop at railway crossings, especially where the view is blocked by a curve or an embankment.

Do not forget that there may be a second section coming or a double track with a train coming in the opposite direction.

Do not forget that a train travels on a fixed track and cannot swerve to turn out of your way.

Do not depend on your memory to tell you when a train is due.

Do not forget that any time may be train time.

Do not forget to drive with care, courtesy and common sense at all times.

TURNING ENGLISH INTO FRENCH.

The special parliamentary committee on Civil Service matters was informed during one of its sittings at Ottawa that the correction of errors in translation had cost $75,000 during the year 1932. That statement was made by C. H. Bland, Civil Service Commissioner. The variation in translation of English to French and French to English seems to be faulty enough at times, and we learn that the most of the mistakes are made in turning English into French.

Persons employed as translators at Ottawa by the Government are supposed to be competent; they have to pass examinations before being employed and they are in receipt of rather good salaries, and we believe a number of them are classed as experts or some such thing. And yet they go wrong to the extent of $75,000 worth of errors in a year.

We have heard the claim made that it might be difficult enough to find two teachers of the French language in our secondary schools who would agree as to the proper translation of English into French. Turning French into English is much easier and can be more readily brought to a standard upon which there would be agreement.

But if these translators at Ottawa, supposedly competent, working at little else apart from translation, have difficulty in turning English into French correctly, what can we expect from our secondary school students, who, with only a limited knowledge of the French language, attempt to do it correctly? Perhaps we can understand better now why their marks are so low at times.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

TENDENCY TO PROBE.

These are days of probes. It has become almost impossible to pick up a newspaper without reading of a proposal to probe some department of public service. Now they propose to probe the Dominion relief expenditures. And if this probe turns out to be similar to other probes, they will likely find that there is really nothing worth probing; although the probe was justified under the circumstances. It seems we have got to have our probes.

The ordinary man looks upon the situation with mixed feelings. He hates to think that there is a general tendency towards crookedness on the part of either Governments or their employees. He wants to believe that men whom he has placed in power are honest, conscientious and capable—but he can't understand why there has to be so much public investigation into the conduct of public business. He probably discounts some of it on the ground that it is largely political—one party trying to put the other "in a hole"—and with this in mind, he dismisses the suspicions which otherwise he might entertain.

To a great many people these various probes are emphasizing the complicated system of government which we have built up in this country. With so many officials and assistants working for the Governments, at the expense of the people, it is probably too much to expect the said Government to keep track of all their actions. Some of them, out of the vast multitude on the pay-roll, are probably bound to go wrong, or do something which arouses suspicion before the higher-ups have had a chance to check up on their records; and then since it is public business there is only one course open—we must have a public probe.

Unfortunately the people pay for the probes as well as for the services of the persons being probed—and this doesn't lighten the burden of taxation.

It bears out the contention so often made in these columns—and in other editorial columns—that we should reorganize our government system to simplify it, and make it less expensive. It could be done without endangering the principle of democractic rule so precious to the hearts of a free people. —Chatham News.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The C.C.F. has got the spring housecleaning season in Ontario off to a flying start.

Mr. Henry says he will be satisfied with a majority of ten or fifteen in the next Legislature. The Premier may be an optimist even in that statement.

The Mail and Empire intimates that the South Oxford electors were influenced by the tobacco issue. A case of smoke got in their eyes, as it were.

W. G. Medd, the Progressive member for South Huron, who voted against the beer-by-the-glass bill, has failed to carry his convention, a wet nominee being selected, which may prove something or other, but just what is not clear at this writing.

It is to be imagined the Conservative members at Ottawa will be frequently reminded of South Oxford during the balance of the session.

Chicago teachers still waiting for their pay have received another cut in salary. They still have to wait for as long, but not for as much.—Chatham News.

CHAPTER 41

Tiggie found Harvey making rough daubs on the beach, having drawn a large magic circle around himself and his easel within which no child was permitted to trespass. He greeted Tiggie with his usual humorous grin.

"Hullo, old chap! Just come from seeing the invalid? All goes well, I hear."

Tiggie let himself down on the sand beside him. "Yes, all's well. Spot's as pleased as a dog with two tails, though he says it's bound to be a slow progress."

"Oh, that's only to be expected," declared Harvey. "But she'll get on all right now. Rather a let-off for you in a way, what?"

"That's one way of looking at it," said Tiggie.

"Well it's a practical way, isn't it?" Harvey's voice held a chaffing note. "You'd sooner have her minus encumbrances, wouldn't you?"

"I don't know," said Tiggie. "She hasn't told me yet how she feels about it."

"She's glad too if she's a sensible woman," asserted Harvey. "If she isn't, she soon will be." He glanced at Tiggie with the words. "I should think you're glad of a little breathing space, aren't you? You've had a pretty hectic time of late."

"Yes, it's nice to breathe," agreed Tiggie whimsically.

Harvey resumed his daubing with a certain intentness, and there was a pause. Then, "I'm infinitely obliged to you for bringing me here," he said. "It's exactly what I wanted."

"Glad to hear that," said Tiggie.

"Yes." Harvey nodded as one well satisfied. "It's saved my reason for the time being. I can tell you I was wallowing pretty deep not long ago. But this tally-ho business turned the scales. Now I'm going to paint the picture of my life and get sane again."

"When are you going to begin?" asked Tiggie.

"My dear chap, I have begun." Harvey leaned back a little to survey his canvas, his eyes reduced to mere slits. "Hence my industry in this broiling sun. You don't imagine I'm driven by any sense of virtue, do you?"

"I've never yet discovered what you were driven by," said Tiggie, tugging out pipe and tobacco pouch and preparing to make himself comfortable.

Harvey pulled at his own pipe for some seconds without replying. Then abruptly, as his fashion was, he changed the subject. "When are you going to break the news?"

"What news?" said Tiggie stolidly.

Harvey explained himself with the patience of one who had learn d to bear with the limitations of mere mortals. "The sad news of her first husband's death. I suppose they have hardly had time to gather that yet."

"Oh, that!" said Tiggie. He too paused to consider the matter before replying. "No, nothing's been said yet," he said at length. "She didn't wish it. And whatever she wishes—well, it's got to be done, that's all."

"I quite see that," said Harvey indulgently.

"After all, there's no hurry," Tiggie continued, beginning to fill his pipe. "It doesn't really matter a damn to anyone that I can see. Spot and Helen are much too decent to imagine things. We can choose our own time when she's stronger."

"Quite, oh quite!" agreed Harvey. "The primrose path of deception is not without its attractions. I've noticed it myself."

"It's got to be deception of a sort in any case," said Tiggie, with obvious dissatisfaction. "I can't say it appeals to me, never has. But it's got to be—for the present."

"You'll get used to it," Harvey assured him consolingly. "And now you're a married man, it's just as well to get in a little practice in the fine art before you really need it on your own account."

"Oh, shut up, you dirty old pagan," growled Tiggie, "or I'll chuck something at you and spoil your precious picture."

"Chuck away!" said Harvey serenely. "It isn't precious yet, or you wouldn't be sitting there. I'm only doing some background studies for the moment, getting some sea and sky effects. No, you needn't bother to look. It won't appeal to you."

Tiggie stuck his pipe into his mouth and lit it. "I know I'm not very intelligent," he said. "But I shall be interested to see the finished article. Your work—some of it—does appeal to me. Remember that study you showed me—several studies—of a girl's head? You called her 'Aquamarine'."

"Or 'Jade,'" said Harvey.

"'Aquamarine,'" repeated Tiggie with firmness. "You asked me to introduce you to the original. Remember?"

"Which you kindly did," said Harvey.

Tiggie pulled at his pipe for a few moments before he said. "Well?"

"I knew you were after her," said Harvey. "That's why I stuck so close. It was as vital to me as it was to you in a different way. But I couldn't have pulled the chestnut out of the fire alone."

"It's kind of you to explain!" interjected Tiggie.

Harvey cast a derisive glance downwards. "My dear chap, I'm nothing if not generous," he said. "But disinterested—never! I don't believe in it. It's never answered yet."

Tiggie grunted. This sort of talk was above his form. "I thought we were talking about the picture," he said after a pause.

Harvey gave a brief laugh. "The picture of my life! Well, you won't be jealous about it, will you?"

"I'm never jealous," said Tiggie.

"P'raps you've never had reason to be!" suggested Harvey. "It's odd, you know, but vice, like disease, can be carried about for years without developing until the psychological moment arrives, and then one day you wake up with the rash full out."

Tiggie smiled a little involuntarily behind his tobacco smoke. "Well, I've no symptoms of that at present that I know of. Go on about the picture!"

Harvey's deft hand paused in mid-air. His eyes were on the sea that heaved shimmering and translucent in the streaming sunshine. "I'm trying," he said, "to get that shade. We'll call it aquamarine—though it might be jade, you know, in some places."

"Yes?" said Tiggie encouragingly.

"Well," Harvey hesitated slightly, almost as if embarrassed, "when I've got a suitable background, then I shall begin to look for—the subject. It's going to be called 'The Safe Harbor', by the way. You'll get the idea of a reef and a narrow opening and crashing breakers—p'raps a bit of wreckage—in the distance. In front will be—this sort of thing." He indicated the calm waters of the bay, lying as it were asleep up to the very cliffs that guarded them. "And, just drifting in to shore there'll be a ship's raft. There'll be a man sitting back over the oars. In the stern, facing the shore, there'll be—a woman."

"Great Scott!" said Tiggie abruptly.

Harvey peered down at him. "Anything the matter?"

Tiggie took a hard pull at his pipe. "No, nothing. That's all?"

"That I can't tell you." Harvey spoke enigmatically. "Probably not. There'll be a sunrise effect coming up over the cliffs over there. I've watched it. Man, it's divine—the water—the boat—the ripples flowing away!" He turned his look to the sea, his eyes drooping with an almost drugged appearance. "And there will be the feeling of the morning in the atmosphere. I can't express it in words—p'raps not on canvas either. The hideous tumult and racket of the night gone—the danger past—the ghastly struggle over. It's a sort of Resurrection idea. Don't you get it? P'raps it sounds cheap to you! Well—you wait and see!"

"It doesn't!" threw in Tiggie rather thickly, his teeth clenched upon the stem of his pipe. "I've got the idea. It's—great."

"Think so?" Harvey threw him another glance, but this time it held no humor; it was more like the look of a child, half-wistful, half confiding. "You really think that, do you?" he said. "Well, I've got to get it somehow. It's begun to drag on me all day and all night, and I can't shake it off. It's never any use trying. You know how it is. I've told you."

"I know," said Tiggie.

Harvey looked back at the daubed canvas in front of him. "Doesn't look much like it at present, does it? But you'll see. I shall work like hell when the chance comes. I'm holding myself in for the present—reserving my powder—till it does. I can't get up any enthusiasm without a model. She'll be the very centerpiece—the ego—of everything. Understand?"

Tiggie nodded. "Yes, I'm there. It's an amazing thing—that you should have got it too, I mean. I've had it all along—ever since we met—the idea of the raft—the shipwreck. It's as if we'd gone through it all together a dozen times. It began on The Pioneer." He stopped jerkily, as he had spoken.

"And it'll end here," said Harvey with conviction. "It isn't really odd, my sensing the same thing. You're not very opaque you know, Tiggie. And I've a fairly receptive mind. Also'—he grinned a little—"I've been through a few storms myself." He leaned back, and tapped out the ashes of his pipe on the rock. "I always fall madly in love with my model," he observed unexpectedly after a moment. "It's the inevitable result of the mental derangement caused by the exercise of the creative faculty. There are no morals in art, as perhaps you have discovered. One can't do with 'em. They're too big a nuisance—hamper one at every turn. Hope you don't mind?"

"So long as the model doesn't fall in love with you," solidly replied Tiggie with his eyes on the horizon.

Harvey laughed. "There's only one woman in the world could ever do that—and I always go home to her in the end. Well"—he stretched himself—"I think I've done enough with these damned pigments for today—especially as I shall be up to catch the dawn in the morning. Give me a pipeful like a good chap! P'raps I'd better mention here, in case you don't know it, that I think you're one of the best, and always shall."

Tiggie turned, spinning soberly on his own axis, and looked up with a slow smile. "Thanks!" he said. "P'raps you'd be mildly interested to know that I'm inclined to think the same of you."

Harvey made a swift gesture of repudiation, and began to collect his paraphernalia with a species of adroit impatience—adroitness that seemed to indicate indignation. "Heaven help you if you do!" he said. "Here, fill my pipe for me—and stop making a blithering ass of yourself!"

"Right-ho!" said Tiggie, mildly complying. "Better to be useful, I admit."

"Better be anything than a damn fool!" said Harvey rudely.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

ONTARIOS FIRST PRINTING PRESS.

ON HIS DATE, in 1793 a printing press was used for the first time in Upper Canada. It had been brought up from Quebec by a French Canadian named Louis Roy, who had been apprenticed to and trained by John Neilson of the Quebec Gazette. Roy, who was an early illustration of the facility with which the French-speaking Canadian learns English—I wish I could say that the English-speaking Canadian had the same willingness to learn to speak French, for then we might have fewer radical misunderstandings in this country and we would be able to appreciate better the good qualities of the original Canadians—was both a compositor and a press man. He was reported to have been personally responsible for every line of type in the first issue of The Upper Gazette or American Oracle, published at Newark, as Niagara had been called by Simcoe on this date in 1793.

Copies of this first newspaper in Upper Canada, for it had news items as well as government notices, are very rare, but there are a few of them in existence and they are a decided credit to that French Canadian printer.

The hand press upon which the Gazette was printed was for many years in storage in the Toronto Normal School, where it was in danger of destruction by fire, but recently it has been transferred to the Royal Ontario Museum where it is often visited by men and women of to-day interested in the art preservative. Primitive of course, it is still in good condition and one could at a pinch turn out a very creditable small poster with it.

When the capital was transferred to York (Toronto) The Gazette was also transferred but Roy had gone back to Quebec and G. Tiffany was king's printer, later king's printer was the celebrated Dr. Horne who had been an army surgeon, as afterwards chief teller in the Bank of Upper Canada, and whose house was burned in the rebellion of '37 by the personal orders of William Lyon Mackenzie.

ALL OF US

(By Marshall Maslin.)

THIS ISN'T JUDGMENT DAY

I used to think I had to have an opinion on everything. I had to like or dislike, approve or disapprove everything that came along. . . . You'd have thought there was a law about it and if I didn't obey I could be sent to jail and kept there until I made up my mind.

If I met a man, I had to give a judgment on him. If I saw a sunset I had to announce whether it was lovely or bad. If I read a book I had to have a definite opinion about it. . . . Everything had to go through the sieve of my consideration. The weather, food, landscapes, houses, laws, plays, motion pictures, picnics, automobiles, puppy dogs, babies, total strangers, clothing, popular songs, cloud formations, trees, what he did and what she did and what you did and what I did—nothing escaped me. Every day was Judgment Day for me. And I didn't rest until I had "formed an opinion."

Not that I was always capable of forming an opinion. . . . If you'd stood me up against a wall and asked me point blank if I was an authority on everything, I'd have honestly denied that that was my idea of myself. But I thought that within a man's limitations, he owed it to himself and to other people, too, to form judgments about things.

I feel better now. I've reformed (I think). I don't have "opinions" on everything any more. . . . And I know how this happened, too. I had too many embarrassing experiences, when my knowledge wasn't equal to my audacity. I had so many opinions that were entirely wrong. And too often I discovered, too late, that my opinions were merely prejudices masquerading as judgments. I was more likely to be right if I said I didn't know than if I always thought I did. The world was too big. I was too small. It changed faster than I could keep step. It was too much for me and I had to admit it.

Ask me now what I think of something, and I may later reply, "I don't know. I'll have to look it up."

You can't imagine what a relief it is. (Or perhaps you can).

In Tel-Aviv, the beautiful city which the Jews have built in Palestine, more than $3,000,000 was expended last year on new buildings.

Voice of the People

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner Office by 5 p.m. on the day before insertion. All letters must be signed by the writer, although a pen name may be used when inserting non-controversial subject matter. Letters over 400 words will be cut down at discretion of the editor.

KEEP OFF THE GRASS

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir: — While Peterborough, generally speaking has a private citizenship she can well be proud of, yet some citizens have to learn that the sidewalks were built to to walk on, and still persist in crossing boulevards and lawns. We can excuse the child for nearly all children are just what their parents make them the first five years of their life. Now I would suggest that the chairman of the Parks and Street Committee, place a notice on each corner, that the sidewalks are to walk on. I believe in the system of compulsory sidewalk cleaning which I have always tried to practice. This was the system of my home city in my boyhood days, and to its credit has always remained its system.

Thanking you, I remain, yours truly,

W. H. MERRILL,
406 Mark Street, City.

A Thought

THE PRESENT, THE FUTURE AND THE PAST

The Present is not here. It passed away
Before you spoke—so perishes To-day.
The future is the Past grown thin and wan—
Sudden it leaps upon us and is gone.
Rolling beneath our feet it turns once more
And is that living Past is was before.
So in perpetual change we melt away,
Only to be renewed another day.
—J. St. Lee Strachey.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAINS

F.o.b. shipping ptint—Wheat,—carlots, 79c to 82c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Big new downturns of prices formed the rule in grain markets yesterday, with trading the most active witnessed in months, but late rallies a feature.

Maximum losses of about 8 cents a bushel for wheat in 48 hours were witnessed, with season low price records outdone by every kind of grain.

The setbacks of values accompanied two successive huge waves of general selling yesterday that apparently were a continuance of wholesale unloading of ownerships on the part of bullish traders, whose confidence had been shaken by announcements that President Roosevelt was opposed to any silver legislation at this session of Congress.

Wheat closed nervous, 1¼c to 1⅝c under Monday's finish; corn, ¼c to ½c down, oats ⅛c off to ⅝c up, and provisions unchanged to 12c decline.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

Demand showed some improvement in the butter market yesterday, with eggs, cheese and potatoes continuing unchanged. The butter market was quoted generally at 25½c to 25¾c a pound for carlots or less of No. 1 fresh made from Ontario or Quebec, with lower grade butter selling at 25c or lower. Finest No. 1 graded New Zealand or Western butter was generally 26c to 25¼c a pound. A total of 795 boxes was offered for sale.

The egg market held steady at 19½c to 20c a dozen for A-large; 18c to 18½c for A-medium, 17½c for B, and 16c to 16½c for C, for graded shipments in carlots or less. Receipts totalled 3,295 cases.

Current make Ontario cheese was quoted at 11¼c to 11½c a pound for colored, and 12c to 12¼c for white. Arrivals amounted to 106 boxes.

Quebec potatoes again brought $1.05 to $1.10 per 80-pound bag, and New Brunswick Mountains $1.10 to $1.15 for similar quantities. Prince Edward Island Mountains sold at $1.30 to $1.40 for 90-pound bags.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, April 18. — Continued liquidation at Chicago, part of which found its way into the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, devressed the wheat prices here yesterday, and closing quotations were ⅝c to ⅞c off.

May wheat closed at 63⅝c, July at 66⅛c, and October at 67⅝c. The market flopped 1⅜c at one time, but in the closing stages prices rallied to cut maximum losses in half.

Seaboard and Continental houses assisted in the gradual recovery noted in the final hour. It was hard to place a figure on export business, but yesterday's movement, added to Monday's big sales, saw the disposal of about 2,000,000 bushels to foreign buyers.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, April 18. — (AP) — Stocks advanced in a brisk forenoon demand today. Preferred shares and specialties were particularly firm. Buying continued into the late trading although volume was lighter. National lead soared 13 points, Liggett & Myers B, U. S. Smelting, American Telephone and Columbia Carbon rose 2 to 3. U. S. Steel was a point higher. Transfers approximated 1,500,000 shares.

MONTREAL EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, April 18 (C.P.).—Influenced by strength in Wall Street, the Montreal Stock Exchange put on a sharp rally in to-day's dealings and at the close gains held a vast majority over losses after one of the most active sessions of several weeks.

Power and paper stocks were in the van of the movement. St. Lawrence Paper Preferred advanced 3½ at 22 and St. Lawrence Corporation Preferred 1⅞ at 9⅞, while the Common shares firmed ¼ at 2½. Bathurst rose ⅝ at 6⅞.

Among the power issues, Canada Northern Power gained ⅝ at 21⅝, Power Corporation ⅝ at 12⅞, and B.C. Power "A" and "B" Shawinigan and others smaller amounts.

STOCK MARKET CONTROL BILL RAPIDLY NEARING COMPLETION

New U. S. Senate Plan Contains Parts of Original Fletcher-Rayburn Proposal.

SOME OF FEATURES.

By NATHAN ROBERTSON

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP)—A stock market control bill, containing sufficient 'teeth' to satisfy friends of the original Fletcher-Rayburn proposal but bearing little resemblance to it, neared final shape today.

As United States Senate and House of Representative committees approached the end of their work it became apparent the bill to be reported will follow closely the recommendations of President Roosevelt's interdepartmental committee.

Although there still must be much give and take before the measure is finally approved, there were many on Capitol Hill willing to predict these would be its major features:

Regulation of the exchanges by a new federal securities exchange commission composed of five members which also probably would be charged with administering the Securities Act.

Joint responsibility for marginal regulations between the new commission and the federal reserve board under wide discretionary power, but under a standard written into law as in the Pending House Bill.

Authority for the commission to set up rules for trading which would segregate as far as practicable the functions of broker and dealer, but with no statutory prohibition against combination of the two activities.

Power for the commission to compel regular annual audits of all companies listing securities and to require frequent monthly or quarterly reports.

Rigid prohibition against and penalties for manipulative operations on an exchange.

Provisions requiring officers, directors, and large stock-holders of a company to report monthly on their operations in its stocks and to turn over to it profits resulting from speculative activities.

GERMAN MAIDEN PAYS PENALTY FOR LOVING JEW

DARMSTADT, Germany, April 18—(C. P. via Havas)—Because she had forgotten her 'duty to her race' and had allowed a Jew to make love to her, Emma Katharina Kehr, aged 17, is cited in a communique of the Hesse Official Press Bureau here today.

Willy Bendorf, aged 27, the young Jewish business man whose love for Emma made the blonde German girl forget her "duty to her race" has been incarcerated in a concentration camp "to assure his personal security."

"The name of Emma Katharina Kehr, aged 17 of Oberamstadt is being published," the communique declares, "Since she offered no resistance to the advances of a Jew, forgetting thus her duty to her race."

6 MONTHS FOR BIGAMY.

CHATHAM, Ont., April 18.—(C.P.)—William Taylor 57, of Hamilton was to-day sentenced to six months' determinate and two years less a day indeterminate at Guelph Reformatory as a bigamist. He admitted going through a form of marriage at Blenheim in 1930, with Irene Coursey of Lucan when his lawful wife was alive. Taylor was brought here from Guelph near the close of a six months' term given him for non-support.

McLEOD BILL OUSTED.

WASHINGTON, April 18 (A.P.).—President Roosevelt definitely cast aside to-day the McLeod Bill for payment of depositors in closed United States banks in shaping up the administration's program for an early conclusion of Congress.

He is confident of a satisfactory compromise on the Tax Revision Bill and there are hints that the publicity of tax returns proposal approved by the Senate may be modified to allow for executive action.

BOLT HITS PLANE, 4 DIE.

DALLAS, Tex., April 18 (A.P.).—Struck by lightning during a severe electrical storm, an aeroplane crashed, carrying two women and two men to their deaths 30 miles northwest of here late last night.

The victims were Harry Fowler, Dallas, the pilot; two passengers named Jack Poole, and Lillian Rhodes, and an unidentified woman.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, April 18 (CP)—Hogs again went ahead on the Toronto Livestock Market this afternoon and for the third time in as many days registered a gain. The advance was 10 cents and showed a jump of 35 cents for the week. Cattle trade remained very dull with 900 head still unsold. Prices on the few sales made were generally unchanged. Calves, sheep and lambs held steady.

Receipts as reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were: Cattle, 740; calves, 380; hogs, 1,440; sheep and lambs, 330.

No weighty steers were sold. Butcher cattle went from $5.25 to $5.50 for choice and at $4 for common. Butcher cows ranged from $2.50 to $4.25, and good bulls from $5.50 to $6.00. Stocker and milker and springer trade was almost at a standstill. Common to medium calves sold at $4 to $6 while a few good vealers brought $6.50 to $7.

Hogs jumped ahead and sold 10 cents higher at $7.50 f.o.b. for bacons, $7.75 to $7.85 off truck, and $8.25 off car.

Lambs moved steadily at $8.50 for good yearlings, and a few common to medium spring lambs went from $5 to $8 each. Sheep were also steady at $3.50 to $4 for good, light ewes.

Livestock Quotations

Cattle, calf, sheep and lamb quotations remain unchanged.

Hogs.—Off car basis, selects $1 premium; bacons, $8.25; butchers, $1 discount; heavies, $1.50 discount; lights and feeders, $1 discount; sows, $5.25.

HOG PRICES IN ONTARIO

TORONTO, April 18. (CP). — There was a general rise in prices paid for bacon hogs by packers in Ontario market points to-day. Hogs were quoted at about $7.50 per hundredweight with a $1 premium for extras. To-day's prices: Kitchener, $7.50, up 25c; Brantford, $7.40, up 10c; Hull, Que., $8 off trucks, unchanged; Barrie $7.40 up 25c; Peterborough, $7.35 f.o.b., up 10c.

Living Aboard Liners Grows More Popular

LONDON, April 18 (C.P. via Havas).—"A life on the ocean wave" means something very real to some persons.

English shipping companies report a growing habit among certain individuals to make their permanent residence aboard well-known liners. They rent a cabin, retain it while the ship is in port, and travel forward and backward across the sea.

But regardless of English claims in this matter, the French liner De Grasse maintains its permanent guest has the record for trans-Atlantic crossings. The gentleman in question sold his villa at Basel last September, rented a cabin aboard the ship and has been going wherever the ship has taken him since.

42 CENTS SHARE DIVIDEND

NEW YORK, APRIL 18 (AP) — National Biscuit Company's net income in the quarter ended March 31 was $3,066,620, equal to 41 cents a share on the common stock, compared with $3,082,828, also equivalent to 42 cents a share, in the first quarter of 1933.

MINING LIST CLOSES STRONG

Senior Gold Issues Improve to Show Advances Up to 75 Cents at Toronto.

BASE METALS FIRM.

TORONTO, April 18 C.P.). — The mining section of the Toronto Stock Exchange assumed a strong appearance late this afternoon after churning about mildly in the early trading. Senior gold issues improved to show gains ranging up to 75 cents at the close, and the tone was also somewhat better for the base metal and the silver shares though the latter group failed to touch the price level ruling in the morning session.

The market was stimulated by a general firming of prices on the New York board, interlisted issues reflecting that condition Hollinger, Teck-Hughes, Wright-Hargreaves and Bralorne all added 5 to 25 cents, Lakeshore gained 50, and McIntyre 25 cents.

Noranda added about 40 cents in quiet trading.

CATHOLIC PAPER OFFICE RAIDED.

MANNHEIM, Germany, April 18.—(C.P. Via Havas.)—An angry, infuriated crowd to-day stormed the offices of the Nauen Mannheimer Volksblatt, former Centrist Catholic paper, demanding the banning of denominational publications.

Four members of the staff had to be removed to police headquarters in order to protect them from the fury of the crowd, which smashed windows and tore up the day's edition of the paper.

DILLINGER AT WORK?

SHREVEPORT, La., April 18 (AP) — The Bank of Montgomery, in Grant Parish, 85 miles south of Shreveport, was robbed by an armed band this morning and the bank president said he believed the gang was led by John Dillinger, notorious outlaw.

The gang invaded the bank armed with a machine gun, seized cash and fled in a car, heading north toward Shreveport.

CATTLE

OTTAWA, April 18. (CP). — The S.S. Manchester Brigade landed 506 Canadian cattle at Birkenhead this week, according to a special cable received to-day by the Department of Agriculture. About 50 percent of the consignment consisted of good quality heavy western cattle, while the balance from eastern Canada were light weights, and of quite saleable quality. Heavy easterns steers brought 14.37 cents per lb. dressed weight; heavy westerns from 13.30 to 13.85 cents; medium weight easterners 14.37 to 14.9 cents; medium westerns 13.85 cents; light weight easterns 15.4 to 16 cents, and light westerners from 13.85 to 14.37 cents per lb. Light weight choice heifers sold at 16 cents and bulls from 8.5 to 9.6 cents per lb.

Obituary

MRS. FRED SHANNON

The funeral of the late Mrs. Fred Shannon took place on Tuesday morning from her late residence, 546 Gilmour street, to St. Peter's Cathedral where Requiem High Mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Carroll, who also preached a very eloquent sermon.

Rev. Masterson officiated at the graveside in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Rev. Father V. Corkery, Rev. Father Finn and Dr. Masterson were also in the sanctuary.

The pall-bearers were Mr. John Corkery, Jr., J. E. Sullivan, R. C. Cotton, Dr. R. Sheehy, Charles Lacheur and R. E. Layfield.

The Requiem Funeral Mass was sung by the pupils of St. Mary's Covent choir.

PRATT TO TELL STORY OF FIRE

not proposed to call expert witness but we will call a doctor who saw the prisoner and next morning" (after the fire).

"You will also hear evidence that Dr. Pratt bought two bottles of gin on December 30.

"We are going to introduce evidence that Dr. Pratt was arrested on the morning of December 31 and that no charge was laid against him until January 19.

"The defence has nothing to hide. If Dr. Pratt is in condition he will tell you his own story," concluded Mr. Smith.

The first witness was Charles Cushway, Smith's Falls. He said he saw Miss McLean in the C.P.R. restaurant in that town on the evening of December 30. He said he was of the opinion that she had been drinking.

He had commented on her condition to "Nels" Hillan.

Gerald Hilton, Smith's Falls, said he knew Miss McLean and saw her at the C.P.R. restaurant on the evening of December 30th. "She didn't seem normal to me," witness said. "She didn't walk like a normal person."

Cross-examined by Mr. Bell, witness said he knew Miss McLean for some time.

Smelled Liquor On Breath.

Arthur Vandusen, Smith's Falls, saw and spoke to Miss McLean on the evening of December 30 at the station. Witness thought the woman was drinking and smelled liquor off her breath. She said, "Art, it will soon be New Year's," and witness replied, "Better watch out or Bromley will get you," to which she replied, "I'm all right."

Witness said she seemed to walk all right.

G. S. Purdy, manager of the Liquir Control Board store in Smith's Falls, produced slips showing that on the 30th of December, 1933, Dr. Pratt made a purchase at the store.

On the 30th he got two bottles of gin just before six o'clock, said the witness.

"When the doctor went over to the counter to get served he changed his mind, and instead of getting two bottles of the same liquor, he changed his mind and got two different brands."

"On December 27th Miss McLean got an order from Dr. Pratt to make a purchase. She also had an order on the 28th."

"On each day Miss McLean purchased one bottle," said witness.

This concluded his evidence.

GAINS LEADING TORONTO CLOSE

Loblaw Issues Established on Regular $1 Dividend Paying Basis To-day.

OILS ALSO ACTIVE.

TORONTO, April 18.—(CP)—A better New York tone, active buying in the oils and some of the distillery shares and the establishment of the Loblaw issues on a regular $1 dividend basis, all combined to give the industrial section of the Toronto Stock Exchange mildly bullish appearance today and activity on firming prices developed as the day advanced. Gains were in the lead of losses at the close.

International Petroleum continued its buoyant note, adding ¼ to sell at a new top for the year but price changes elsewhere in the group were on the upside. Imperial, the McColl issues and Thayers pfd. closed higher. Nickel had a narrow price swing and closed a few cents off but Consolidated Smelters gave a strong demonstration, closing 3½ higher at 167. Ford A, Brazilian and C.P.R. finished the day unchanged.

STEEL OUTPUT HIGHEST SINCE MID-AUGUST 1933

NEW YORK, April 18. (AP) — Steel output has risen to 52 percent of capacity, the highest since mid-August 1933, "Iron Age" reported to-day. A week ago the publication's average was 49½ percent.

"With iron and steel makers heavily booked for the second quarter and with higher prices about to go into effect on most products" said the review, "the outlook in the industry is most favorable. Some mills have such heavy commitments that they will be pressed to turn out the tonnage if buyers specify fully against their contracts."

HINT PERJURY CHARGES LOOM IN DR. WIRT CASE

G.O.P. Members Not Satisfied With Denials of Six Dinner Party Guests.

URGE MORE WITNESSES.

Democrat Section Ready to Quit With "No Revolution Verdict."

WASHINGTON, April 18 (AP) — The possibility of perjury charges jutted to-day from the United States House of Representatives' investigation of Dr. William A. Wirt's charges of revolutionary talk within the "brain trust."

Representative Somers (D. N.Y.), said he would insist on an inquiry by District Attorney Leslie Garnett to determine "if there is any question of perjury involved" in testimony given before the Wirt investigating committee.

Six witnesses flatly denied before the committee yesterday that they had talked of revolution at a dinner party at which Dr. Wirt also was a guest.

Without further testimony, Democratic members of the committee were ready to end their investigation late to-day and bring in a "no revolution" verdict. But the Republican minority on the committee—McGugin of Kansas and Lehlbach of New Jersey—held out for testimony by higher government officials, including Dr. Rexford Guy Tugwell, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture.

Denials Not Enough.

Dr. Wirt's allegations, the G.O.P. members contended, were not sufficiently answered by the denials by the six dinner guests that they said the things he quoted them as saying.

Discussing testimony about the Virginia dinner where Dr. Wirt says "revolution" was talked and where the other six diners said Dr. Wirt did all the talking, Representative O'Connor (D-N.Y.) said:

"Dr. Wirt frankly admitted that he never talked with Dr. Tugwell or Secretary Wallace or Mr. Howe or any other person holding ahy key position in the government.

"His statements as to Dr. Tugwell's views are reminiscent of the famous Tinkers- to-Evers- to-Chance-play—only Dr. Tugwell is shortstop, ex-General Westervelt is playing second, Dr. Wirt is at first and the gentleman from Kansas (McGugin) is batboy.

"My personal advice to Dr. Wirt is that he return to that smoky city of Indiana, and not again visit my city of New York, otherwise somebody is likely to sell him the Brooklyn bridge."

AIR MAIL INJUNCTIONS FYLED.

WASHINGTON, April 18 (A.P.).—Applications for injunctions to restrain Postmaster-General James Farley from enforcing his order annuling United States air mail contracts were fyled to-day with the clerk of the Supreme Court for the District of Columbia by four aviation companies.

The companies were Boeing Air Transport, Inc., National Air Transport, Inc., Pacific Air Transport and Varney Air Lines, Inc.

Farley has 20 days in which either to answer or fyle a motion to dismiss the application.

RAIL REVENUES SPURTING AHEAD, UP $4,000,000

Present Basis Leads Gov't to Expect $48,800,000 Deficit Against $58,950,000 for Last Year.

INCOME OFF 8 P.C. IN 1933.

Total Debt of System Now $1,253,000,000, Dominion Guaranteeing $962,000,000.

OTTAWA(April 18 (CP)—Revenues of the Canadian National Railways during the first three months of the present year spurted ahead at a lively rate and were $4,000,000 in excess of those for the corresponding period in 1933. Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, stated in his budget speech in the House of Commons to-day.

On the basis the railway expects a deficit of $48,800,000 during the present year, whereas the government was called upon last year to meet an operating deficit of $58,-950,000.

"As the annual report of the trustees of the Canadian National Railway System has shown," said Mr. Rhodes, railway operating revenues suffered a further decline of $12,500,000, or nearly 8 per cent in the calendar year 1933. The loss in revenues was almost entirely covered by a saving in operating expenses. However, as the management had made its budget for the year on the basis of the gross earnings of the pervious year being substantially maintained, the amount required from the Dominion Government for the payment of deficits exceeded the estimated figure by $4,300,000.

Net Loss $97,650,000.

"The net loss of the system as shown by their accounts, amounted to $97,650,000. The difference between this sum and the contribution of the Government before referred to, is made up of $36 000,000 for interest on loans from the Government—such interest being accrued in the railway accounts but not actually paid – and $2 600 000 for certain other non-cash items.

"The amount paid for deficits is made up of two parts: That for the system, excluding Eastern lines $52,-200,000, and that for the Eastern lines $6,600 000. In the Dominion accounts of previous years and in the Budget statements, it has been the practice to include the loss on the Eastern lines under ordinary expenditures.

"In addition to the provision for deficits, the railway company required $1 900 000 for capital expenditures and $11,300 000 for retirement of debt, these items totalling $13,200,000. Against this sum, the company had $5 000 000 of working capital available, leaving $8 200 000 to be supplied by the Government by way of loan.

Total Debt $1,253 000,000

"As at the end of March, 1934 the debt of the Canadian National Railway system outstanding in the hands of the public amounted to $1,253,000 000 having been reduced by $10,000 000 in the port year. Of the amount outstanding $962,000 000 are obligations guaranteed by the Dominion.

"During the first three months of the present calendar year, there has been a decided improvement in the railway earnings and the net revenues from operations are some $4,-000,000 in excess of those of the corresponding period in 1933.

The railway budget for 1934 will total $85,800,000. Of this amount $48,800,000 is the estimated requirement for deficits, and if this result is attained it will mean a lessening of the burden on the Dominion Treasury as compared with last year, of over $10,000,000.

"The company will require $4,-200,000 for capital expenditures, $32,-800,000 for retirement of capital obligations, including sinking fund and equipment principal payments. On September 1st, $17,000,000 of Canadian Northern, Dominion guaranteed, 4 per cent. debenture stock will fall due.

Financial Needs.

The following statement summarizes the financial requirements of the Canadian National Railway System for the calendar year 1933, as compared with their budget figures and with the actual requirements in 1932:—

CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS — FINANCIAL REQUIREMENTS

	Actual, 1933.	Budget, 1933	Actual 1932
Deficit:
System (ex Eastern lines.	$52,263,819	$47,841,395	$53,422,661
Eastern lines	6,691,569	6,611,000	6,635,845
Capital expenditures	1,958,116	5,993,121	799,158
Debt retirement	11,269,985	12,265,584	11,510,178
	$72,183,489	$72,811,100	$72,367,842
Less working capital available	5,000,000	5,200,100	4,231,997
Amount required	$67,183,489	$67,611,000	$68,135,845

The total expenditure is $459,200,000 as compared with $468,726,-000 in the previous year; a net reduction of $9,500,000.

Expenditures Including Dominion projects, $7,550,000.

Relief and Loans, $130,500,000

Total relief expenditures since 1930 reached $115,500,000, to which was added the wheat bonus in 1931 amounting to $12,700 000 and $2,400,000 advanced to railways for shop employment, making a grand total of $130,500,000.

Mr. Rhodes said in part:

Loans were made to the Provincial Governments under the Relief Act, to a net amount of $12,540,000 after crediting certain repayments. This addition to the loans of $38,-200,000 outstanding at the close of the fiscal year, brings the total assistance of this nature to the Provincial Governments, to $50,700,000.

Under the heading "Loans and Advances, Non-Active," are included amounts paid by way of loan which are treated as non-active and which, being non-interest producing are considered in the accounts as additions to the net debt. They include the amounts paid in connection with the operation of the Canadian National Steamships, the deficit of the Montreal Harbor Bridge, and loans to a number of the Harbor Commissions.

The net amount of such loans in the past year was slightly over $3,-000,000.

$14,000 Credit for Ship Line

For the operation of the Canadian National Steamships, we paid $986,000 made up of $968,000 cash deficit on the west Indies services and $18,000 cash deficit on the operation of the ships remaining in the merchant marine fleet. Owing to further reductions in the number of ships operated, the Canadian government merchant marine has found it possible to return to the government an additional $1,000,000 from the insurance fund which has been accumulated during the operations of the company since 1919. After receiving this amount, the result is a credit of $14,000 for the year on account of Canadian National Steamships.

The dominion continued to purchase at par the Canadian Farm Loan Board's 5 percent bonds to the extent that loaning operations required. Bonds purchased amounted to $400,000 and a subscription of $16,243 was made to capital stock.

The board has paid all interest due the Government as it accrued.

$97,650,000 Net Railway Loss.

The amount provided by the Government and taken into the public accounts as an expenditure in respect of the deficit on the Canadian National Railway system, after payment of interest on obligations in the hands of the public was $58,-950,000, a decrease of $1,100,000 from the previous year. The net loss of the system as shown by their accounts, amounted to $97,650,000.

The difference between this sum and the contribution of the Government above referred to, is made up of $36,000,000 for interest on loans from the Government—such interest being accrued in the railway accounts but not actually paid—and $2,600,000 for certain other non-cash items.

In addition to the provision for deficits, the railway company required $1,900,000 for capital expenditures and $11,300,000 for retirement of debt, these items totalling $13,200,000. Against this sum, the company had $5,000,000 of working capital available, leaving $8,200,000 to be supplied by the Government by way of loan.

As at the end of March, 1934, the debt of the Canadian National Railway system outstanding in the hands of the public amounted to $1,253,000,000, having been reduced by $10,000,000 in the past year. Of the amount outstanding, $962,000,000 are obligations guaranteed by the Dominion.

Rail Earnings Climb.

During the first three months of the present calendar year there has been a decided improvement in the railway earnings and the net revenues from operations are some $4,000,000 in excess of those of the corresponding period in 1933. The railway budget for 1934 will total $85,800,000. Of this amount, $48,800,000 is the estimated requirement for deficits, and if this result is attained it will mean a lessening of the burden on the Dominion Treasury as compared with last year of over $10 000,000. The company will require $4 200,000 for capital expenditures and $32 800 000 for retirement of capital obligations.

Mr. Rhodes gave a detailed account of the difficulties encountered in reducing controllable expenditures which have been brought down by $81,000 000 since the fiscal year 1930-31, after excluding the $2,000,000 chargeable to the general election in 1930. This included $50,-000,000 saving in ordinary expenditures and a reduction in capital and other expenditures of $31 000,000

Securities falling due in the fiscal year 1933-34 totalled $279 900 000. They were retired by new issues and new money required for governmental and railway purposes was secured in a similar way.

Direct Obligations.

The direct obligations of the Dominion in the form of unmatured debt and treasury bills were listed by Mr. Rhodes and summarized as follows:

Payable in Canada — $2,083,229,-200.85, 72.88 per cent.

Payable in Canada and New York —$90,661,100.00, 3.17 per cent.

Payable in New York—$300 000,-000.00, 10.49 per cent.

Payable in London—$364 668,136 39 13.46 per cent.

Total—$2 858,558,457 24, 100 per cent.

Less bonds and stocks of the above loans held as sinking funds $99 406,-434.43.

Total—$2 789 152 022 .81.

Under the heading of "indirect liabilities," Mr. Rhodes showed that bonds outstanding on March 31, last, bearing the guarantee of the Government amounted to $993,000,-000, having been reduced by approximately $3 000,000 during the year.

Relief Guarantees.

Guarantees given under the relief acts, as at March 31 ,1934, amounted to $93,296,000, apart from tohse relating to wheat which are not for a stated sum and fluctuate from day to day. The list is as follows:

Guarantees Under Relief Acts.	Principal Amt. of Guarantee Outstanding March 31, 1934
Province of British Columbia	$ 626,533
Province of Manitoba	5,894,127
Province of Manitoba Savings Office	10,844,863
Algoma Steel Corporation	660,000
Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation	540,000
Canadian Pacific Railway Company	60,000,000
Beauharnois Light, Heat & Power Company	14,106,558
Government of Newfoundland	625,000
Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers Ltd. unstated.

Interest Rates Reduced

Mr. Rhodes outlined the efforts made by Canada with the nations of the world at the Economic Conference last summer and said some results had been achieved in lowering interest rates at home, and the proposed Central Bank would be expected to furnish the mechanism to co-operate with other countries in a program to raise and stabilize price levels.

The Minister referred to the exchange fluctuations and their effect upon Canada, and observed that the course of the Canadian dollar, maintained at a half-way point between sterling and the United States dollar had proved fortunate since, in February last, the premium on New York funds was down to an average of seventenths of one per cent as compared with 19.7 per cent. in February, 1933, while sterling, in the last few days, has been quoted in Montreal at 5.14 to 5.17.

Fight to Boost Prices

Steps taken to secure a rise in the price level of commodities included the International Wheat Agreement signed in London last year.

"Our efforts to foster a rise in price levels by every sound method will not be relaxed," the Minister said. "In particular it is expected that our public works program will contribute to that end by accelerating the progress of business recovery already happily under way."

The Finance Minister observed it would be a mistake to under estimate the difficulties still to be overcome before a full measure of world prosperity could be restored.

"Interntaional trade remains at a low level," he said.

"Little, if any, progress has been made in removing the excessive interferences with trade, the arbitrary quotas, the exchange controls, and the other defensive measures which have been devised to meet the dangers of currency depreciation and unfavorable balances of payments.

Stability Uncertain.

"In recent months there has indeed been increased stability in the foreign exchange markets but the integrity of certain currencies continues to hang upon a slender thread. Another period of currency unsettlement with the threat of competitive depreciation must be recognized as a possibility at least and this suggests the desirability of a renewed consideration of the feasibility of concerted effort for de facto stabilization of currencies by the leading ocuntries.

"On the debit side of the record for the past year we are also compelled to record certain unfavorable political developments—a serious aggravation of political tensions in Europe and the Far East, an increasing unstable social equalibrium in some important countries, a succession of disappointments in the disarmament negotiations, and a threatened breakdown of the collective system which had been painstakingly built up during the post-war years. It is true that the tension is less serious to-day than it was at the beginning of the year but it remains a deterrent to constructive international co-operation.

Low Point Passed.

"As long as these adverse influences continue to operate they must be taken into the reckoning. The fact remains, however, that the low point in the long depression has been reached and passed, that considerable progress has already been reached and passed, that considerable progress has already been made in this and other countries in the restoration of normal conditions, and that present economic trends are in the direction of further progress. This should give solid ground for confidence, if not for undue optimism."

ficit exclusive of eastern lines $52,-624,000 ($53,623,000).

Canadian National deficit on eastern lines $6,692,000 ($8,717,000).

Grand total $459,228,000 ($531,-764,000).

This year, for the first time in the course of the depression, the minister said, it was possible to review the year's operations in terms of business improvement, reviving confidence, and expanding revenues.

Business Volume Grows

He cited a series of facts in support of his optimism, summarized as follows:

The bureau of statistics index of the volume of business grew from 67.0 in February of 1933 to 86.4 in February 1934, an improvement of 29.0 percent.

The amount of cheques cashed in chartered banks increased 16 percent in 1933 over 1932, and 23.4 percent in the first two months of 1934 over the same months in 1933.

The output of electric power stations increased 24.1 percent in February 1934 over the same month in 1933.

Car-loadings in the first 12 weeks of 1934 increased 23.9 percent over the same period in 1933.

A group of 79 important companies canvassed revealed that 64 reported net profits of $61,500,000 after all charges as against $47,000-000 the previous year, while 15 reduced their deficits.

During the 12-month period ended March 31, 1934 the index of employment rose from 76.9 to 92.7, an increase of 20.5 percent.

250,000 More Working.

Returns from 8,499 employers in March showed that 153,686 more employees were on the pay rolls than at the same time a year ago, the total estimated increase in employment for the year being placed at 250,000.

The general index of wholesale prices during the year rose 13.4 per cent, less than the improvement in the United States but better than in most other countries.

Turning to trade the minister revealed an estimated total for the last fiscal year of $1,019,459,000 as compared with $887,098,000 for the year ended March 31, 1933. Of this trade exports exceeded imports by nearly $152,000,000, none of these trade figures including gold or bullion.

Exports of non-monetary gold, chiefly current production of Canadian mines, amounted to approximately $90,000,000 based on the average price obtained in world markets.

Benefits from the Ottawa trade agreements of 1932 were seen by the minister in the fact that one-third of the Dominion's total purchases abroad were from Empire countries as compared with one-fifth in 1929 while exports to the Empire showed a similar gain.

December Turning Point

Expansion in the volume of business was not noticeable until the second quarter of the fiscal year and the first quarter revealed a substantial loss as compared with the same period in the previous year. On July 8 revenues were down $16,000,000 as compared with the previous year. By the end of December the lost ground had been regained and the final accounts will show a total revenue from taxation $17,000,000 in excess of the previous year.

Import duties showed a decline from the previous year, yielding $65,926,000 as compared with $70,-073,000. Excise duties, mainly on liquors and tobaccos, yielded $35,-871,000 as compared with $37,834,-000, income tax $61,399,000, a slight decrease, and sales tax $63,000,000, an advance over last year. Total revenue from taxation was $271,-875,000 as compared with $255,391,-000 the previous year.

Non-tax revenues from various departments of government including the post-office amounted to $51,700,000, a decrease of about $550,000. The post-office earned a revenue of $30,500,000 while interest on investments totalled $11,-000,000.

Deficit for Post Office

Operation of the post office cost $30,800,000, being $300,000 in excess of revenues where the deficit last year was $700,000; a betterment of $400,000 effected by economies.

Interest on investments, the second largest item in non-tax revenues, was slightly lower than last year.

Capital expenditures included $3,816,000 for public works, $1,987,-000 for canals, and $767,000 for railways, totalling $6,570,000 as compared with $8,548,000 the previous year.

Under the heading of special expenditures totalling $42,900,000, slightly less than the previous year $36,000,000 was for relief measures. Direct relief cost $25,870,000; Provincial and Municipal works and undertakings $2,760,000, and other

Buddhist Monks To Cross Canada Headed By Ex-M.P.

When Ivan Trebitsch Lincoln, famous wartime spy, who fled to the interior of China to become a Buddhist monk, led his party of five monks and four nuns to Canada on board the Empress of Russia recently it was difficult to tell which was male and female. All have shaven heads and wear only the black skull caps of the orders. They are on their way to Lake Constance where they plan to establish a monastery. Lincoln, who is known as Chao Kung, was refused admission to Canada because of his former anti-British activities, but he appealed to Ottawa and was granted permission to proceed across the Dominion. He is seen in the centre of the group of monks above.

Canada's Intra-Empire Trade Climbs Fast Since Ottawa Agreements Signed In 1932

OTTAWA, April 18.—(CP)—Evidence of the increased intra-empire trade developed since the signing of the Ottawa agreements in 1932, was furnished by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, in the course of his budget speech today, by use of the following table:

Intra-Empire Trade of Canada

	11 months Ended Feb. 28, 1933	11 months Ended Feb. 28, 1934
Imports from United Kingdom	$ 79,356,647	$ 95,277,635

BEHIND the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

FILMLAND HAD thought everything serene between Joel McCrea and his studio bosses, but secrets have a way of leaking out. The young star wants to be released from his contract — and it's a contract that brings him in better than $50,000 a year.

Joel McCrea

The money part doesn't enter into Joel's objections. What he complains about are the roles that have been handed to him of late. The star liked his part with Dolores Del Rio in 'The Bird of Paradise.' Since then, he says, there isn't a one he can point to without making some kind of excuse about it.

Legally, of course, RKO can hold Joel to his bargain. It's a question for mediation. Or maybe the whole trouble can be ironed out by one satisfactory picture.

MARY BRIAN and W. C. Fields are neighbors, living on opposite sides of the narrow end of Toluca Lake. The other day Mary's brother, Terry Danzler, returned from the Orient with his dance orchestra. For want of a better place, he carried the boys out to Mary's house to rehearse. The noise, booming across the lake, soon got on Fields' nerves. After standing it for awhile, he rushed into the house and emerged with a large African tom-tom from his collection of curios. Standing at the edge of the water, the comedian commenced to beat the drum furiously. The awful discord went on until the orchestra gave up.

Living up to her reputation for eccentricity, Jean Muir has moved into a large house, but is living in one room, the only one furnished so far. Meanwhile, the star's household belongings in Ridgewood, New Jersey, will be shipped to her. Jean's mother, who was visiting Hollywood, is now back in New York, and the youthful star will live alone.

BRINGING TO the screen for the first time in motion picture history the dread terror that has swept the nation, coincident with the kidnapping of children, 'Miss Fane's Baby Is Stolen' opens at the Regent Theatre today.

A glamorous mother's terror was pictured through the eyes of alluring Dorothea Wieck, portraying a Hollywood actress, whose child, Baby LeRoy, is torn from her.

Alice Brady, co-starred with Miss Wieck, stands out as a dramatic character in the cast of thirty famous players, enacting the role of the heroic farm woman who suddenly finds herself confronted by a trio of ruthless kidnappers.

Jack LaRue, Dorothea Burgess and Alan Hale are the kidnappers against whom Miss Brady finds herself pitted in a gallant attempt to save Baby LeRoy from death.

William Frawley, George Barbier and little George 'Spanky' McFarland have important parts in the gripping picturization of a nation's bewilderment over the 'kidnapping of the century.'

VICTOR McLAGLEN'S 'Garden of Memories' now has a rival. Every guest who comes to David Manners' desert house is invited to contribute two trees to plant around the tennis course. The trees, Arizona cypress, cost only 75 cents apiece, but, in a short while, will form an effective wind-break. David is attaching metal tags to give the names of the donors. To date, these include Clark Gable, Phil Holmes, the Jesse Laskys, Dorothy Arzner, Kenneth Thompson and Beulah Bondi.

AID FOR FARMER FOREMOST GOAL

question is too large and complicated a subject to call for more than a passing reference by me at this time. But as I have outlined our proposals for dealing with farm debts, I wish to make clear why in my opinion the same kind of remedy cannot be applied to the problem of public indebtedness.

"In the first place is the fact that so large a proportion of the direct and guaranteed debt of the Dominion and the provinces is held by foreign investors. Not only that, but, as a result of the method of financing in the post-war years, a very large proportion of these foreign and of domestic holdings is in the form of bearer bonds payable at the option of the holder in either two or three markets. It is therefore impracticable, if not indeed entirely impossible, to administer a policy that would seek to differentiate between the Canadian and the foreign investor.

No Repudiation.

"Whatever argument may be advanced in favor of a comprehensive policy of scaling down all fixed charges due by Canadian debtors to Canadian creditors —and this should involve what is too frequently overlooked, a reduction in payments to be made by as well as to Canadian creditor institutions such as insurance companies, mortgage companies, trust companies and banks—I doubt whether there are many Canadians who would be willing to contemplate a program which would involve even a partial repudiation of our external obligations.

"In addition to our traditional attitude towards the carrying out of our obligations according to the letter of the contract, there is the compelling motive of self-interest. Canada is a young country with a vast store of natural resources that has only begun to be tapped. If we are to convert those potential resources into consumable wealth and thus into a higher standard of living for our people, we will need the fructifying influence of foreign capital for years to come.

Burden Not Too Great

"he second consideration I wish to place before you is that great as is the burden of our public debt, it is not beyond the capacity of our people to pay. I am sure you will grant that I am in a position to appreciate to the full how serious the burden is, not only to the Dominion Government but to some of our provincial governments as well, and I wish here to pay a tribute to the splendid spirit of the Canadian people under the strains and sacrifices of the last five years.

"But the point I wish to make is that, oppressive as our burdens have been, they have actually been born through the worst of the depression and at a level of taxation which is not abnormal when compared with the tax rates which certain other countries have imposed upon themselves.

Five Russian soldiers have completed a journey of 8,300 miles on skiis, travelling from Irkutsk to Moscow in 83 days during which they crossed the Ural and Taiga Mountains.

EXPENDITURES PARED TO BONE

care of returned soldiers, $9,500,000; Provincial subsidies, $15,300,000; and Old Age Pensions, $12,500,000.

Interest, Pensions Mount

As compared with the year 1930-31, the uncontrollable expenditures for 1933-34 were greater by $19,000,-000, due mainly to increased charges for interest on public debt and Old Age Pensions.

The controllable expenditures, however, declined from $217,000,000 to $134,000,000, a reduction of $83,-000,000 or over 38 per cent. After allowing for the election expenses of $2,000,000 in 1930, for which there was no corresponding charge last year, the improvement stands at $81,000,000. This decrease was brought about by a curtailment of $50,000,000 in ordinary expenditures and a reduction in capital and other expenditures of $31,000,000.

$10,000,000 Saving on Staffs

From 1930 to 1933, Government employees, including fluctuating as well as permanent staffs were reduced by over 12,000. The saving in salaries and wages exceeds $10,000,-000 a year, not including the saving of $7,800,000 arising out of the 10 per cent salary deduction.

"Eliminating post office expenditures, the comparable figures become $73,000,000 for 1913-14, as compared with $93,000,000 in 1933-34, an increase of $20,000,000," Mr. Rhodes said.

"In the interval, the population of Canada has increased from 7,600,000 to 10,300,000. The cost of maintaining public services has necessarily been influenced by the growth in population, as well as the addition of new services.

"Yet the actual expenditures today on the ordinary controllable services of government are less than they were in 1913-14 considered on a per capita basis. The figures are at $9.60 a head in 1913-14, as compared with $9.03 last year."

Quinte Conference Agenda Is Planned

Tentative Programme Drawn Up at Meeting in Brockville.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., April 18. (CP)—A tentative program for the annual meeting here from May 28 to June 3 of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada was laid down at a meeting held here last night of conference officers and local committees.

The program provides for the appearance here during the sessions of such church leaders as Rev. Dr. T. Albert Moore, Rev. Dr. James Endicott, Rev. Dr. Robert Laird, Rev. Dr. James Smyth, Rev. Arthur Wallace, while Rev. Canon A. P. Shatford, Montreal, is to be the speaker at the laymen's banquet an the evening of May 31.

It is hoped to provide for a short service on May 31 at the grave in the Blue Church cemetery, Augusta Township of Barbara Heck, foundress of Methodism in North America, in commemoration of the 200th anniversary of her birth. About 425 delegates are expected to be in attendance.

ECONOMY

New Chapel at Mount St. Joseph is Opened

MOTHER HOUSE ESTABLISHED 40 YEARS AGO

Bishop O'Connor Opens and Blesses New Chapel at the Mount.

BEAUTIFUL CHAPEL.

Rev. J. T. Finn in Opening Sermon Reviews History of Community.

The Opening and Blessing of the new chapel at Mount St. Joseph was solemnized this morning by His Excellency the Most Rev. Denis O'Connor, D.D., LL.D., Bishop of Peterborough, who also celebrated Pontifical High Mass at ten o'clock at the Mount, with the Rev. P. Costello as Assistant Priest, the Very Rev. Dean F. J. O'Sullivan and the Very Rev. Dean M. J. O'Leary of Bracebridge, as Assistant Deacons, the Rev. J. V. McAuley of Ennismore as Deacon of the Mass, the Rev. H. Black of Parry Sound as Sub-Deacon, the Rev. J. T. Finn and the Rev. J. V. Masterson, D.D., as Masters of Ceremonies.

Present in the sanctuary were His Excellency the Most Rev. M. J. O'Brien, D.D., LL.D., Coadjutor Archbishop of Kingston, the Rt. Rev. Monsignor W. J. McColl, V.G., D.P., of Lindsay, and many other priests of the diocese.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. J. T. Finn from Psalms 25:8: "O Lord, I have loved the beauty of Thy house and the place where Thy glory dwelleth."

The music rendered by the organist and choir at the Mount was very beautiful, following closely the Gregorian model. The "Ecce Sacerdes" was sung prior to the entrance of the celebrant of the Mass, the music for which was the "Cum Jubilo" composition of the 12th century. The Gloria and Credo were also of mediavel type, while the Proper of the Mass was taken from the Solemnity of the Feast of St. Joseph, the patron of the Order, marked for yesterday in the Church calendar. During the Offertory, the "Salve Joseph" was sung, with the Magnificat at the conclusion.

The beautiful new chapel, with its white walls still untouched by decorators' hands, was filled with the throng of the faithful who came for this special occasion, a red-letter day in the annals of the Sisters of St. Joseph.

The white altar blossomed with quantities of pale pink roses that clustered about the feet of St. Joseph's statue, surmounting it, while pure white calla lilies reared their stately heads amid a profusion of green ferns and the green vines that wreathed the entire altar. Below the springing arches of the roof hung amber-shaded electric lanterns whose soft glow was reflected on the white walls and repeated in the golden tongues of tall flikering candles. Above the altar gleamed lovely prismatic hues in the stained-glass windows.

Opening Sermon

The Rev. Father Finn's eloquent sermon was as follows: This morning we are come to a glorious event in the life of this Mother House of the Community of St. Joseph—the solemn blessing and opening of this magnificent Chapel in honor of St. Joseph, the chaste spouse of Mary, the Foster Father of Mary's Divine Child and the ever vigilant patron of the this Community.

And at the dawn of this happy day and in the midst of its splendor we cannot but realize that the Community of St. Joseph has come a long way in the past forty years. For forty years ago it was when the mustard seed of religious life was first planted on this site. It was a humble beginning in the year 1894. When the Rev. Mother Austin the first superior of this newly formed Community came here with a small band of sisters at the request of the late beloved Bishop O'Connor to establish their Mother House.

How great were the problems that confronted these pioneer sisters. Their records tell us how they came to this spot to find only a large brick house situated on ten acres of land and known in this vicinity as Inglewood. The house itself was badly in need of repair. But its purchase had exhausted their funds. Silver and gold they had none. But they had something that silver and gold could never buy. They had a courage born of a living faith and deep-rooted in the goodness and providence of God.

So fortified they set to work. And their first care was not for themselves. Difficulties and hardships were not new to them. In fact, trials had been their constant companions all along the way. They never once sought to be released from them but only for the grace to make of them stepping stones on the way to eternal life. And so their first care was not for themselves but rather for the One to whom they had consecrated their lives—Our Divine Saviour in the Blessed Eucharist. They set to work to fit up part of their newly acquired home for Him. And we find them doing all within their power and means to make their first Chapel worthy of Him Who during life did not have whereon to lay His head.

And when their work was over they rejoiced in its completion and the words of the Psalmist found an echo in their hearts—O Lord I have loved the beauty of thy house and the place where thy glory dwelleth. In their first chapel they knelt where the late beloved Bishop O'Connor blessed it and said the first Mass in it on the second day of January, 1895, assisted by Ven. Archdeacon Casey and the present Bishop of the Diocese of Sault Ste. Marie, His Excellency Bishop Scollard.

Growth of Community

And God must have bestowed His blessing very abundantly upon this new Community. For at once it began to grow and prosper. It began to grow and prosper despite the lack of everything that this world regards as essential for success. There was no wordly influence promoting its cause. For the world was then, as now, busy about many things—too busy to notice the apparently insignificant arrival of a few Sisters in what was then a remote, out-of-the-way place. There was no power of wealth at work promoting its success—for it is a fact that on more than one occasion the first Superior did not have the necessary penny to post a letter. What then is the explanation of the rapid advance of this Community in the face of every handicap? Only the hand of God can explain the necessity of an addition and a new chapel only eight years after this establishment of the Mother House. This second chapel was opened and blessed by the late Bishop O'Connor on May 26th, 1904. And among those present on that occasion thirty years ago and happily with us to-day also were His Excellency Archbishop O'Brien and the Vicar General of the diocese, Rt. Rev. Monsignor McColl.

For thirty years this second chapel served its purpose. But thirty years is a long stretch of time. Overcrowded, it became no longer adequate for an ever-increasing Community. But during those long years the Sisters of St. Joseph ever looked forward to the day when they could erect a more glorious home for their Eucharistic God. In their hearts ever resounded the words of the Psalmist: "O Lord, I have loved the beauty of Thy house and the place where Thy glory dwelleth. Out of their meagre allowance year after year they cut away the pennies for the Home they hoped to sometime build for Our Divine Saviour in the Blessel Eucharist; pennies that came from the far-flung field in which they labored, pennies that came from every diocese in which they worked, from the rugged shores of Lake Superior to nearby Ontario, and from Georgian Bay to the Ottawa Valley. From this extensive field they gathered the chapel fund that grew as the years went on.

Bishop O'Connor's Help

And then one day came the realization of their fondest hopes and yearnings. For three years, from the day of his consecration, His Excellency Bishop O'Connor had been deeply interested in the life and work of the Community of the Sisters of St. Joseph. He was interested in their Mother House and in a chapel that would be a worthy one. Under his guidance and encouragement a beginning was made on August 1, 1933, when he turned the first sod on the present chapel site. On September 16th, of the same year he layed the corner stone of the new chapel and after following its progress step by step, he has come to-day to bless it in honor of St. Joseph and to offer up the first Mass within its walls.

Have you ever stopped to think of all that a chapel means to a Community of Religious? How closely it unites its members with God. When we look at a parish church we see it as God's Home set in the midst of the homes of men. But when we look at a sister's chapel we see it as part and parcel of their home. All corridors lead to the chapel. Here Our Divine Saviour dwells under the same roof with them day and night.

And what phase of their life does not find its centre and inspiration within the chapel. Here the postulate comes bearing the tender seed of a vocation that has been nourished in the sanctuary of a Catholic home. It is in the chapel that she makes her request: "I ask for the Habit of the Sisters of St. Joseph." It is in the chapel that she pronounces her willingness to leave father and mother, sister and brother, home and friends. Here she chooses St. Joseph for her father, Our Blessed Lady for her mother, and Our Divine Saviour for her spouse.

Here the novice comes to make her vows of poverty, chastity and obedience. And it is in the chapel before Our Divine Saviour in the Blessed Eucharist that the professed Sister receives from her Divine Master the grace to keep those vows and to sanctify herself by fidelity to the rules of the Community.

How sacred the chapel is in the lives of those who live in the religious state. Here morning after morning they come to assist at that great Sacrifice that goes on from the rising of the sun to the going down of the same—that Sacrifice wherin Our Divine Saviour renews the sacrifice of the cross and applies its merits to the souls of men. Here they come daily to partake of the victim of that sacrifice Christ Himself—to fulfil His Divine command of love. "Take ye and eat—This is My Body."

And it is from this chapel that they go forth into the world. Divinely fortified by the Bread of Life to meet the trials, temptations and difficulties of life. For Christ has said, "He that eateth Me the same also shall live by Me." And so from this chapel they carry away the power to live the life of Christ, the power to die in His friendship, and in His friendship to remain for all eternity.

Is it any wonder then that the Sister of St. Joseph have spared nothing to make their chapel worthy of Him who is everything to them in life and in death — Our Divine Saviour in the Blessed Eucharist.

And now, congratulations, not lengthy, but sincere, to His Excellency Bishop O'Connor, under whom this gem of beauty came into existence in the Diocese of Peterborough; to the architect who often labored far into the night, to bring to this perfection this wondrous architecture that someone has said is at home only where the Mass bell rings. Congratulations to the contractors whose master workmanship has left nothing to be desired and who in their aim to satisfy more than once went beyond the limits of their contract. Congratulations last but not least to the Sisters of St. Joseph on their acquisition of this magnificent chapel of St. Joseph. Its beauty and perfection are but a fitting expression of their love for God's home on earth. It is the love of the Psalmist of old. With Him they exclaim to-day "O Lord I have loved the beauty of thy house and the place where thy glory dwelleth."

Gothic Lines

The general architectural type of the new chapel follows out the modified Gothic form which is noted in St. Peter's Cathedral. Springing groined arches converge to central points where clusters of grape leaves fold the meeting points under their sculptured whiteness. The lines give an impression of the slender grace which conceals strength and the pencil-like side windows and the shaping of the lanterns which provide light add to this impression.

The main entrance to the new chapel is from the Monaghan Road side, but the fortunate ones who come by way of the Mount parlors are able to have a glimpse of the lovely group, in relief, of figures which delineate the meeting of the Little Flower, the sweet Therese of Lisieux, with the Queen of Heaven. This was formerly placed in St. Peter's Cathedral and now finds a home at the Mount. It will be remembered by many who admired its beauty and the loveliness of the group.

In the vestibule, at either side, are holy water fonts set in flush with the cement walls and lined with removable bowls of green glass.

The woodwork and panelling of the chapel is in rich Old English oak finish, with the Rev. Superior's throne at the left of the entrance at the back. The mainflooring is of terrazza in a color scheme which follows out the rubrics of the church by using green as the ground color in the sanctuary, while a yellow ground makes the cheerful floor surfacing of the rest of the interior. Beneath the pews, to obviate cold weather difficulties with this chillier type of terrazza flooring, is a very beautifully tiled oak flooring that appears throughout the entire new addition to the Mount, in the upper floors and halls, and is a very attractive portion of the interior decorative scheme.

Along the walls are placed the Stations of the Cross, small and delicately-colored, that were used in the old chapel, and the altars have not yet arrived, so that the present main altar is simply the one in use for many years. In either transept are deep niches in the cement, waiting for the side altars which will be dedicated to the Sacred Heart and the Blessed Virgin Mary. The windows flanking these altars show scenes appropriate to the Sacred Heart and the Blessed Virgin.

Rich Stained Glass

The stained glass of the windows is remarkably beautiful. It is seldom that one has the opportunity to see such lovely examples of the art of the stained glass window. The colorings are marvellous. Rich, ruby reds, glowing with life and warmth, sun-like yellows, cool, soft greens and tender, spiritual blues—they are lovely in the extreme, and have a translucent gem-like quality that draws the eye upward to ponder on the scenes which surround the altar and throw their soft, glowing light down on the sanctuary. These show many episodes in the life of St. Joseph, and include delineations of the Angel's Revelation, the Flight into Egypt, the Nativity, the Finding of Jesus in the Temple, and, last of the series, the death of St. Joseph. Windows presenting the figures of two patrons of the Order, St. Teresa of Avila and St. Francis of Sales, appear also above the sanctuary.

The hanging lanterns that diffuse an amber-colored light are of bronze, the communion steps and the steps which lead up to the sanctuary are of soft bluish-grey marble, and the sanctuary carpeting and the upholstery of the celebrant's bench and bishop's throne are of cool green velvet.

The combination of white walls, golden lighting, soft grey-green flooring and the jewel-like colors of the stained glass windows, is beautiful. The whole efect can be best realized, perhaps, from the upper choir gallery or the still higher balcony from whence the sick and "shut-ins" can look down on the white altar where the Sacrifice of the Mass is celebrated. From this eyrie the white church glows with soft light, and the symbolic figures on the little side windows—the Lamb of Sacrifice, the Crown of triumph, the fleur-de-lis of Our Lady—are prominent.

A further, detailed description of the new addition and the rooms which complete it on every one of three storeys, will appear later on when everything is fully completed at the Mount.

Priests in the sanctuary at this morning's ceremony and others noticed in the large gathering of people from out of town, the district and the city, were as follows: His Excellency Archbishop O'Brien of Kingston, His Excellency Bishop O'Connor of Peterborough, Monsignor W. J. McColl of Lindsay, Monsignor Kelly of Cobourg, Monsignor J. F. Nicholson of Belleville, Dean F. J. O'Sullivan, Dean O'Leary of Bracebridge, Rev. Father Gorman of North Bay, representative of Bishop Scollard, Rev. Dr. Byrne of Kingston, Rev. Father McGreel, C.S.S.R., of Toronto and Rev. Fathers J. V. McAuley of Ennismore, J. Guiry of Port Hope, J. McCarthy of Norwood, M. McGuire of Douro, V. J. Gilloghy of Victoria Road, J. McGuire of Bowmanville, V. G. McFadden of Downeyville, J. J. Garvey of Lakefield, T. P. Lynch of Kearney, P. Costello, T. J. Finn, J. V. Masterson, D.D., J. J. O'Brien, C. Maloney, C. Begley, C. Carroll, V. Corkery; members of the contracting and architects' firms: Sir Joseph Piggott and Mr. Roy Piggott, also J. Hill of Hamilton, A. W. Holmes, H. Angus, A. Meikle, of Toronto Mayor and Mrs. Denne, V. J. McElderry, K.C., Dr. and Mrs. F. P. McNulty, Dr. and Mrs. W. S. Fitzpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. DeLaPlante, Mr. and Mrs. R. Gliddon, B. F. Chilton, H. C. Sootheran, R. F. E. Hicks-Lynn, Inspector A. Mowat, Mrs. Quartermaine and her daughter Miss Ruby Quartermaine (formerly resident at the house which formed the nucleus of the present Community Home, Mount St. Joseph), Mr. Cain of Lindsay, and many others.

At the close of the ceremony, luncheon was served to the invited guests in the basement dining-room and the reception room upstairs. The decorations were very attractively carried out with a profusion of palms and ferns, small quantities of lovely iris lilies, daffodils and tulips.

Ushers for this morning's ceremony were Basil Phelan, Camille Hurtubise, Gordon LaPlante, Bill McFadden, and Wilfred Galvin.

Spinach-wise

CALDWELL, Idaho, April 18 (C.P.). — Mess Sergeant Cornelius T. Cramer of Headquarters Troop, 116th Cavalry, Idaho National Guard, knows his onions, as well as his cabbages and vitamins.

Major John Hood was given the organization its annual examination.

'Do you believe in feeding your troops on salads and greens?" he inquired of Sergeant Cramer

'Yes, sir."

"Why?"

"Because green stuff contains vitamin C."

"Name some disease this vitamin prevents,' directed the major.

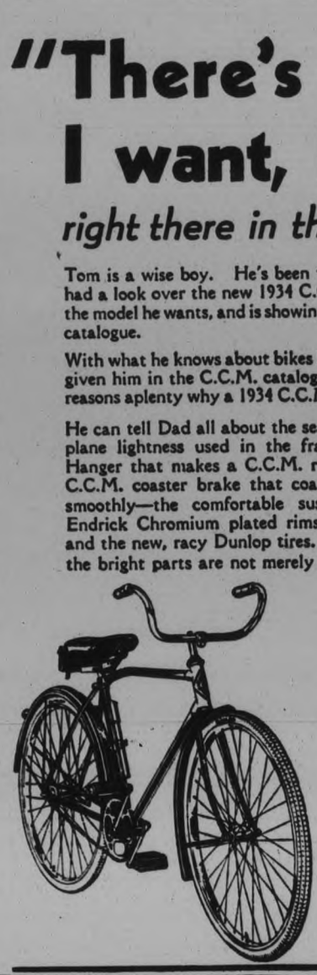
"Scurvy, sir."

"Do you know what a sacrimso-vervicia is?"

'Yes, sir."

"How do you happen to know that?"

"I'm biological instructor of the college of Idaho here, sir."



"There's the bike I want, Dad . . . . right there in the C·C·M· catalogue"

Tom is a wise boy. He's been to the C.C.M. dealer's and had a look over the new 1934 C.C.M.'s. He has picked out the model he wants, and is showing it to his dad in the C.C.M. catalogue.

With what he knows about bikes himself and the information given him in the C.C.M. catalogue, Tom can show his Dad reasons aplenty why a 1934 C.C.M. is such a wonderful buy.

He can tell Dad all about the seamless steel tubing of aeroplane lightness used in the frames—the C.C.M. Triplex Hanger that makes a C.C.M. run so easily—the powerful C.C.M. coaster brake that coasts so freely and stops so smoothly—the comfortable suspension saddle—the new Endrick Chromium plated rims, the rustless steel spokes and the new, racy Dunlop tires. He can also tell Dad that the bright parts are not merely Chromium plated, but the Chromium is applied over C. C. M.'s famous 20-year nickel, so that this super-brightness is sure to last.

There's such a lot of EXTRA quality built into a C.C.M. that it is really beyondcomparison with an ordinary bicycle. Son, why don't you get a C.C.M. catalogue from your nearest C.C.M. dealer? Then you can show your Dad the model you want, and be able to tell him why the C.C.M. is such a wonderful buy at today's prices.

BRITISH PRESS HIGH IN PRAISE OF NEW BUDGET

Laborite Herald and Liberal Chronicle Alone Prove Critical.

CHAMBERLAIN LAUDED.

Times, Independent, Sees Line-up Bringing Hope to Other Countries.

LONDON, April 18.—(C. P. Cable)—This capital's morning press today was almost unanimous in praise of the nation's budget brought down yesterday in the House of Commons by Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer.

With the exception of the Laborite Daily Herald and the Liberal News Chronicle, newspapers gave approval to reductions in the income tax and restoration of pay and unemployment relief cuts. The Daily Herald, however, described the budget as "thoroughly retrogressive" and the News Chronicle said it brought "cold comfort for the small taxpayer."

Among those who praised it were the Daily Telegraph, Conservative, which described it as a budget "framed by a chancellor who looks forward with sober confidence to a good year, but is determined not to count, even less spend, gains in advance." The Morning Post, Conservative, said it was deservedly popular and "calculated to produce a maximum psychological stimulus to recovery." It praised Mr. Chamberlain for his "temperate abstention from the spectacular."

Budget of Hope

The Times, independent in political matters, praised the chancellor for "impeccable correctness". It said recovery, like depression, is infection and the budget "will bring hope and renewed courage to other countries."

The Daily Mail, Conservative, remarked the budget contains something for everybody" and added there was good reason to expect another surplus next year, a surplus which the Daily Express, Lord Beaverbrook's independent daily, said would form "a perfect background for a general election as it enables another six-pence to be cut off the income tax and full restoration of salary cuts and income-tax allowances."

The budget, seeking to raise $3,636,000,000 without new taxation and leave another surplus of $145,500,000 at the end of the next fiscal year, reduced the income tax 10 percent, restored half the 10 percent cut in civil service salaries as from July 1, restored completely as from July 1 cuts in unemployment benefits and reduced the automobile and motorcycle horsepower tax by 25 percent.

DECENCY REMAINS IN HUMAN BREAST

Habit Still Active as Ever, Despite Contrary Influences, Says Oxford Speaker.

OXFORD, England, April 18 (C. P.)—The habit of decency in folks is still as active as ever below the surface, said Dr. L. P. Jacks, formerly principal of Manchester College, addressing the Conference on New Ideals in Education.

Dr. Jacks said young people today were talking more freely about many things on which youth in his day had been generally reticent. To hear people talk and to read what was written in modern novels one might think the habit of decency had been lost but it was one of those good old habits which "held their own in spite of rotten theories thought to undermine them."

There were hopeful signs that education generally was beginning to recognize true education was an operation performed on the whole man and not on an abstraction called his mind. A recent syllabus on physical culture issued by the Board of Education was the beginning of an attempt to bring the body along with the mind into the sphere of educational progress instead of leaving it to be dealt with by mere exercises conducted by one-armed veterans or young barbarians from Oxford."

JURY ASSESSES DAMAGE $8,000 CASE DISMISSED

Horace Walkey Not Relationship of Parent to His Sister.

JURY'S VERDICT.

Motion Was Made at Commencement of Trial by J. C. McRuer.

(By A Staff Reporter)

COBOURG, April 18.—As a swift anti-climax to the trial jury's finding that Lillian Walkey of Peterborough suffered $8,000 damage in the loss of expected pecuniary benefit by the death of her brother, Horace Walkey, who was fatally injured in a highway accident south of Centreville, Monday, November 7, 1932, Mr. Justice J. A. McEvoy yesterday afternoon dismissed the action on a motion by J. C. McRuer, Toronto, counsel for the Globe Printing Company, for non-suit on the ground that Horace Walkey was not in the legal position of a parent (in loco parentis) to his sister at the time of his death.

N. Enoch Merriam, Harwood, was foreman of the jury.

The jury's verdict dealt with questions of fact, and His Lordship's judgment was a deferred decision on a point of law. The action was dismissed with costs.

Suit Was For $12,000.

In this case, the main civil action on the docket of the spring assizes of the Supreme Court of Ontario for the united counties of Northumberand and Durham, the Royal Trust Company, administrators of the estate of the late William H. Walkey, sued the Globe Printing Company and Roy F. McLean of Belleville for $12,000. It was the third suit based on the fatal collision on the Peterborough-Port Hope highway in which the Globe company's truck, travelling toward Peterborough, and an automobile owned and driven by R. F. McLean of Belleville, accompanied by Horace Walkey, crashed almost head-on in a fog at 6.40 a.m. about a mile north of Balleboro.

W. F. Huycke, Peterborough, was counsel for the plaintiffs, J. C. McRuer for the Globe Printing Company, and G. N. Gordon, K.C., for the co-defendant, Roy F. McLean.

The jury's finding in regard to the facts of the case was entirely in favor of the plaintiffs, but its effect was nullified by Mr. Justice McEvoy's decision that the late Horace Walkey had not assumed and placed himself in the responsibility of a parent to his sister.

The Previous Motion.

At the beginning of the trial, Mr. McRuer moved for non-suit after the jury had been empanelled, but before any evidence was heard. His Lordship considered the point during the noon recess last Thursday, and decided at that time to proceed with the case, reserving his finding as to "in loco parentis" until later.

When the jury presented its verdicts in the form of replies to a list of questions drafted by Mr. Justice McEvoy, Mr. Huycke moved for judgment in accordance with their report. Mr. McRuer followed with the statement that he was renewing his motion for dismissal of the action, and, apparently referring to memoranda before him, His Lordship announced his judgment.

His Lordship's Statement.

Mr. Justice McEvoy mentioned the fact that this case had been brought under the Fatal Accidents Act. He said that under common law there would have been no right of action whatever.

After defining the import of the legal phrase "in loco parentis" and its meaning as to the relationship of a father or guardian to a child, His Lordship said that the question involved in this case was whether the brother, Horace Walkey, could be deemed "in loco parentis" to his sister.

"I have found no decisions which would apply to this point in this particular case. My finding from the evidence and the facts of the case is that there is no standing of "in loco parentis" between the deceased and his sister."

His Lordship remarked that although certain sums had been paid out of the personal account of the deceased for the benefit of his sister, the main payments had been drawn on the funds of the estate left by their parents. He said that the brother only infrequently visited his sister when he came to Peterborough, and that arrangements for her maintenance had not been made by him.

The Jury's Verdict.

The jury's verdict is contained in the replies to the following questions as drawn up by His Lordship:

(1)—Was the defendant Globe Printing Company or its servants guilty of any negligence which caused the accident?—Yes.

(2)—If so, wherein did such negligence consist?—By failing to supply an assistant driver for the truck, by driving at an excessivee speed; and necessitating a dangerous rate of speed due to the fact of the driver not being allowed enough time to reach his destination; also that the Globe truck was about two-thirds over on the west side of the road at the time of the impact.

(3)—Was the defendant Roy F. McLean guilty of any negligence which caused the accident?—Yes.

(4) If so, wherein did such negligence consist?—By driving at a dangerous rate of speed under the prevailing weather conditions.

(5)—Did the deceased, Horace Walkey, voluntarily assume or acquiesce in the risk or the negligence (if any) of the defendant McLean?—Yes.

(6)—What part (if any) did the deceased Horace Walkey take in the operation or management of the car driven by the defendant McLean?—He assisted the driver by watching and advising him in regard to their distance from the right side of the road.

(7)—What is the entire amount of damage suffered by Lillian Walkey due to the death of Horace Walkey?—$8,000.

(8)—If you find both defendants guilty of negligence, is it practicable on the evidence to determine the respective degrees of fault?—Yes.

(10)—If it is, what are the degrees in per cent.?—The Globe Printing Company 10 per cent, and Roy F. McLean 10 per cent.

Although the jury found ten per cent. of culpability against the co-defendant, Roy F. McLean, they also determined that Horace Walkey had assumed "or acquiesced in the risk or the negligence of the defendant McLean."

The effect of that finding would have freed McLean from financial liability, it was said, if His Lordship had given an affirmative judgment on the point of "in loco parentis" on the part of Horace Walkey to his sister.

FEBRUARY RIOTS SET BY TROTZKY FOR REVOLUTION

Had Planned to Set Up Red Dictatorship in France During Recent Trouble.

"FIGHT ONLY BEGUN."

French Giving Exile Time to Pick His Haven—Haste May Mean Death.

PARIS, April 18 (C.P.). — A sensational plot by Leon Trotzky to use the February riots to set up his own dictatorship in France by a Red revolution was revealed in his party organ, authorities disclosed to-day.

A revolution by "an armed workers' militia" was urged, they said, in a manifesto issued by the exiled former Russian leader after the fatal rioting in the streets of Paris on February 6.

"The two forces have just measured swords," the manifesto said.

"War has begun between them. There is no possible peace, but a fight to the death. In the street, by force, will be decided the future."

The manifesto urged "a vast workers' alliance of all proletarian bodies and the organization of a workers' militia without delay."

As a result of the new disclosures of the political activity of Trotzky, the government was expected to speed its moves for his expulsion, ordered yesterday.

Active During Riots

Apparently his activities were centered throughout the bloody riots, which raged for days but were worst on February 6, at his villa near Barbison, Paris suburb.

Secret Service Police revealed that several days of grace have been granted Trotzky for his search in an attempt to find a country willing to accept him.

"We are not pushing him," one members of the Secret Service said, despite the increasing information gathered regarding his plans for his "Fourth International."

"One cannot condemn him to death,' 'this official said. That is what his immediate departure would mean. We are letting him find a haven."

Another official declared that reports Trotzky is considering the United States and Spain are "mere guesswork."

PUBLISHERS MEET APRIL 30--MAY 3RD

Members of Daily Newspaper Association to Gather in Toronto for Annual Conference.

TORONTO, April 19.—(CP) —Publishers of daily newspapers in Canada will gather at Toronto in the week of April 30. The meeting of the board of directors of The Canadian Press will be held April 30, continuing the following day. The annual general meeting of members will be on May 3.

The board of directors of the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association meets in the evening of April 30 and the general meeting is set for May 1 and 2. The Canadian section of the Empire Press Union will meet on the afternoon of May 2.

Debate Features Y.P.S. Gathering

CAMPBELLFORD, April 18 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — A debate that proved to be very interesting as well as humorous featured the regular meeting of the Young People's Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Campbellford, held on Monday evening, and which was well attended. The subject of the debate was, "Resolve that marriage is a failure," judges awarding the decision to the negative team comprised of Jacqueline McEachern and Katharine Kennedy. The affirmative was ably supported by Gordon Dunham and Frank Taylor. Judges were Mrs. Harold Dunk, Mrs. Kirkpatrick and Robert McGregor, the chair for the debate being occupied by Frank Kennedy. Included in the program was a vocal solo by Mrs. Kirkpatrick. There will be no meeting next Monday evening on account of play practice.

Campbellford Paper Plant May Re-open

CAMPBELLFORD, April 18 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — Prospects of the Campbellford paper mill commencing operations and again being an asset to the town by its ability to absorb from forty-five to fifty-five workers, which it did during the years of its prosperity, is seen here now with the news that the Gair Company, Canada, Limited, has taken over the Canadian Paperboard, Limited, of which the local mill was a unit. No definite information seems to be available, however, except that Wesley Stephens, the secretary of the mill, has received instructions to make a complete inventory of the plant, and that it is generally understood that J. G. G. Kerry, prominent figure in the Canadian Paperboard, Limited, will be in Campbellford some time in the near future.

Rev. H. P. L. Seymour Gives Meeting Topic

CAMPBELLFORD, April 18 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — "The influence of a Christian group on a community" was the topic subject taken by the Rev. H. P. L. Seymour when he addressed the weekly meeting of the Young People's League of St. John's United Church, Campbellford, on Monday evening. The meeting was also featured by a discussion period led by G. A. Kingston. Prayer was led by Fred Phillips, the Scripture being read by Evelyn Todd, and a devotional reading, "How a spruce tree grew," given by the president. The program was sponsored by the Citizenship Committee, Raymond Murphy being in the chair. Numbers on the program were: Reading, Miss Nellie Hoover; instrumental duet, Clark and Franklin McKelvie; piano solo, Raymond Wragg, and the topic.

Havelock Worker Injured By Crowbar

(Examiner Correspondence)

HAVELOCK, April 18.—Working at the C.P.R. coal chute here on Monday morning J. E. Lewis received painful facial injuries, when the crow bar with which he was working loosening the coal, slipped and struck him on the right cheek close to the eye; three teeth were knocked out, and a number of others were loosened so as to necessitate their removal. Mr. Lewis however was able to be about his work as usual Tuesday morning.

question, has been invited to attend the conference. Dr. McQuibban voted against the Government's beer and wine legislation, despite the Liberal decision to "acquiesce" in the bill.

Throughout the province Liberals and Conservatives have sounded the call for nomination meetings. Prince Edward-Lennox Conservatives meet at Picton April 26 to select a candidate. The Liberal standard bearer in this riding is T. G. Bowerman.

Hon. Charles McCrea, Ontario Minister of Mines, will be the chief speaker at the convention of Haldimand - Norfolk Conservatives, April 30, when a candidate will be chosen. To-night at Beamsville, Lincoln Conservatives will name their candidate with S. J. Wilson, present member for West Lincoln, and Dr. W. J. Chapman of St. Catharines in the field for the nomination of the new riding.

Victoria Rally in May

A convention of Conservatives in the amalgamated constituency of Victoria and Haliburton is slated for some time in May. William Newman, Liberal-Progressive, who represented Haliburton in the Legislature, is again the Opposition candidate. Joseph Handley, Jr., of Burnt River is prominently mentioned as the Conservative choice.

Preparations for Liberal and Conservative nomination meetings in the new electoral riding of East Kent are underway, with the probability they will be held during the week of May 14. Numerous names have appeared as possible candidates and it is reported an Independent-Prohibitionist may appear.

Mayor Avery of St. Catharines is referred to as the Liberal choice for Lincoln when the convention is held next Monday in Beamsville. He is expected to be chosen unanimously.

Light Syrup Season In Bailieboro Area

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BAILIEBORO, April 17. — The maple syrup season is practically over in this vicinity for 1934. It was at first thought that owing to the heavy frosts which extended so far into the ground that this spring would be an exceptionally good maple syrup year, but now that the sap season is over it has proven a very light run. Some of the maple bushes in this district have only yielded about one third the quantity of last season.

However, the farmers always welcome a poor sap season, as better crops are always looked for when maple syrup is scarce, and this spring the fall wheat and new seeds in their present weakened condition would suffer to a great extent should heavy night frosts occur.

Wild Ducks Speed 50 Miles Per Hour

For those interested in the migration flights of birds, R. H. Parsons, city engineer, has an interesting story to tell. He was returning by motor to Peterborough from a visit to Ottawa this week when near Prescott he sighted a flock of wild ducks, numbering about 200, flying comparatively low over the river. At that point the river parallels the highway for several miles. Mr. Parsons speeded his car to draw up even with the ducks and paced their flight for several miles. He reported that the ducks maintained a steady speed of 50 miles an hour.

Weddings

McCORMACK—BLODGETT.
A very quiet, but pretty wedding took place on Monday morning, April 16th, at St. Peter's Cathedral, when Margaret Mary Blodgett, second eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Blodgett, of this city, became the bride of Mr. Alexis John McCormack, son of Mrs. McCormack and the late Jerry McCormack, also of this city. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. V. Masterson, D.D.
The bride, who was very becomingly dressed in a midnight blue swagger suit, with grey and blue blouse, grey shoes, hose and gloves and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses, entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Veronica Scollard. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Gertrude Pinch, who wore a cocoa brown swagger suit, with brown accessories and carried Ophelia roses with stocks. Mr. Joseph McCormack, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man.
After the ceremony about forty guests assembled at the bride's home, where a sumptuous wedding dinner was served. The house was beautifully decorated in blue and white and the table was covered with an Italian lace cloth, centred with the bride's cake and arranged with pink candles in silver holders, tied with pink and white tulle and bouquets of roses. The bride received many beautiful gifts, including two substantial cheques.
Later in the day the young people left by motor for a short honeymoon in Ottawa. On their return they will reside on Frederick avenue.

Obituary

MRS. ALBERT V. WEESE
Annie Reynolds, wife of Albert V. Weese, 570 Gilchrest street, died in Nicholls hospital last evening after an illness of two years, at the age of 56 years. Mrs. Weese was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reynolds, of Ennismore Township. She had resided in Peterborough for some years but had lived for many years in New Toronto where she was well known.
She is survived by her husband and four aunts—Mary Franks, Smith Township; Elizabeth Reynolds, Ennismore Township; Mrs. Moll, of Batavia, N.Y.; Mrs. Sarah McDonald, Rochester, N.Y.
The funeral will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. from Belleghem's Funeral Home to the Little Lake cemetery. Rev. J. E. J. Millyard, of George Street United Church, of which congregation Mrs. Weese was a member, will officiate.

SIX POLICEMEN ARE BEATEN UP BY NEGRO MOB

Detroit Mob Estimated at 500 Stage Protest Meeting.

TWENTY ARE INJURED.

Closing of "University of Islam," a Negro Cult, Cause of Riot.

DETROIT, April 18.— (A.P.) — Negro folowers of the "cult of Islam," estimated by police to number 500, rioted to-day at police headquarters, where they had gathered in the mistaken belief the court arraignment of some of their leaders was to be held there, trampling and beating nearly a score of policemen.
Six policemen required hospital treatment. Dozens of other persons suffered less serious injuries before the rioters were dispersed by a riot squad of fifty men, swinging night sticks.
The violence was the aftermath of a raid Monday on the "University of Islam," whose curriculum, police investigators said, included such subjects as "general knowledge of spook civilization," in addition to more standardized studies.

14 Leaders Arrested.
Fourteen leaders and instructors were arrested, charged with contributing to the delinquency of minors, who had been withdrawn from the Public schools to enter the "university," and with subversive teaching.
The crowd of negroes first gathered to-day in Clinton street, adjoining police headquarters, and after 15 minutes of fighting, was dispersed. A few minutes later, the fighting was resumed in front of police headquarters. A riot squad of policemen finally scattered the demonstrators by using their night sticks.
Some of the women in the crowd had babies in their arms. Others led small children by the hand.
Apparently, the crowd had gathered to attend the arraignment in Recorder's Court of 14 instructors in the "Universtiy of Islam," who were arrested Monday night in a raid on the cult headquarters.
The fighting started, police said, when a large negro identified as one of the cult leaders shouted "get the coppers."

Police Magistrate Is Sued For $5,000

COBOURG, April 18.—The action of Fred Brown against Police Magistrate Rankin of Kingston is progressing here before the Hon. Mr. Justice McEvoy. The Honorable G. N. Gordon, K.C., is acting as counsel for Fred Brown, and J. M. Hickey, Esquire, of the firm of Rigney and Hickey of Kingston, is counsel for the defendant, Police Magistrate Rankin.
The action is for damages caused to Fred Brown by being struck on the road at the time he was assisting in removing a broken down transfer truck west of Port Hope on February 3, 1933. He has sued for $5,000.00 for a broken collar bone and injuries to his knee.

Magistrate's Court

J. McLean of Lindsay learned in Magistrate Langley's traffic court to-day that crowding on the highway is costly. He pleaded guilty to a charge of taking up more than his share of the road, and was fined $5 and costs.
Harry Delill of Toronto paid $2 and costs for having no reflector on his truck. D. Mann of Toronto faces a charge of reckless driving; Highway Patrol Officer Hornick alleging that Mann drove at more than 50 miles an hour around dangerous curves. The case was adjourned for a week when Mann failed to put in an appearance at court.
Several other cases, mainly minor infractions, such as no tail light and faulty lights were adjourned for one week.

Pioneer Salesmen Are Joining Forces

Two of the pioneer automobile salesmen of this district have joined forces in the sale of General Motors Company cars and trucks.
J. J. Duffus and C. H. Davidson of Campbellford were for many years business opponents in this district, but by a recent arrangement they are combining their efforts in the Campbellford district where Mr. Davidson was one of the pioneer automobile salesmen. The name of Charlie Davidson has been so long associated with Chevrolet and other General Motors products that his activities are generally known throughout Northumberland County and an extensive adjoining area. With the co-operation of Mr. Duffus it is expected that the Campbellford agency of G.M.C. will receive a large share of the promising 1934 business in new cars and trucks.

BOSTON, April 18.—(A.P.)— U. S. Marshal John J. Murphy to-day asked New York Federal authorities to have Dr. John F. "Jafsie" Condon, ransom conveyor in the Lindbergh kidnapping case, come here to view a photograph believed to be that of the mysterious 'John' who received the $50,000 ransom money."
Marshal Murphy declined to divulge where the photograph had been obtained.
The request that Dr. Condon come here was forwarded to the U. S. Marshal at New York.

SALT LAKE COURSE IS SUITABLE FOR CAMPBELL

SALT LAKE CITY, April 18—(A P)—William F. Sturm, American representative of Sir Malcolm Campbell, holder of the world's automobile speed record, today announced the shore of Great Salt Lake would meet requirements for the speed demon's new record attempt next next summer.
His announcement followed a decision of the junior chamber of commerce here to attempt to raise a $10,000 fund to guarantee expns- a $10,000 fund to guarantee expenses of the test.
Sturm said the tentative course, 100 miles west of here would stand up under the weight of Sir Malcolm's four and one-half ton machine going at the rate of 300 miles an hour.

SWINDLE CASE TO BE SPEEDED

Claim $5,150, to be Used to Get Man From Jail, Was Taken by London Woman.

HEARING MAY 7.

TORONTO, April 18. (CP)—Proceedings in an action in which Lucy B. Taylor, Boone county, Missouri, is claiming $5 150 which she alleges Mrs. Betty Jackson, London, Ont., obtained on the pretext that the money would be used to obtain the release of Miss Taylor's brother from the penitentiary at Lansing, Kansas, are to be expedited as a result of an order that Mr. Justice Hope made in weekly court at Osgcode Hall. The case is to be set down for trial at the sittings of the non-jury assizes that open in London, Ont., on May 7.
The action came before Mr. Justice Hope upon a motion that George T. Walsh, K.C., presented on behalf of the defendant, Mrs. Jackson. He desired to appeal or to be given leave to appeal against an interim injunction that Judge Joseph Wearing of Middlesex county granted and that restrained Mrs. Jackson until trial of the action from drawing upon a balance of $4,425 to the credit of herself and husband in the Bank of Montreal in Goderich. Subsequent to the granting of this injunction a judicial order allowed the bank to pay the money into court to be held there until disposition of the case.

Jailed for Assault
The plaintiff's brother, George F. Taylor, Judge Wearing related in the written judgment, was committed to the penitentiary at Lansing, Kansas, upon a conviction for assaulting his wife with a deadly weapon. While Taylor was on bail pending an appeal against his conviction, says the judge, he became acquainted with Mrs. Jackson, the youthful wife of an Ontario professional man, at that time residing with her mother in Kansas City, Mo. Taylor's appeal was unsuccessful. In the meantime Mrs. Jackson had been introduced to Betty B. Taylor. It would appear, Judge Wearing found, that from the moment Taylor entered the penitentiary strenuous efforts were made to procure his release. The story told by Miss Taylor was that Mrs. Jackson said she had made an arrangement with "influential counsel" to procure a pardon or parole and that it would take more than $5,000 for fees and expenses.

Aluminum Ware At McClennan Hardware

By a regrettable oversight the name McClennan Hardware was omitted from the list of dealers in Supreme Aluminimum published last Friday. McClennans', 232 Charlotte street, carry a complete line of Supreme Aluminum, and are offering the same values as announced in the advertisement last week.

Ancient Customs To Disappear In Cuba

(By Edmund A. Chester, A.P. Foreign Staff.)
HAVANA, April 18 (AP)—Social reforms which will sweep aside ancient customs and improve the conditions of workers and farmers were promised the Cuban people today by President Carlos Mendieta.
A general outline of the Government's program, revealed by the President after a long Cabinet session at which Carlos de la Torre was named to the presidency of the new State Council, also for "advanced laws" affecting practically every walk of life.
The program includes a plan to confiscate property of refugee leaders of the regime of former President Gerrardo Machaco and a proposal that each industry be required to employ at least three times as many Cuban citizens as aliens. At present 50 per cent. native labor is required, but under the proposed new law no distinction would be made between native and naturalized workers.
Immediate measures to relieve unemployment will be undertaken, the government promised. Details were not given.

Mark Street Y.P.S. Sees Hunt Pictures

Interesting moving pictures were shown by F. L. Roy at the meeting on Monday night of the Young People's Society of Mark Street United Church. They showed moose hunting episodes a visit to Jack Miner's Bird Sanctuary, and the making of maple syrup at the Fleming Farm near Hall's Bridge.
The meeting was in charge of the Citizenship convenor, Miss Mary Terrace. The Scripture lesson was read by Miss Irene Tinson.
A committee was appointed to secure a play for production on May 11, with members in Carlyle Ferguson, Mel Hunter, and Miss Eleanor Fallis.

CREDIT AVOIDED BY NEW SETTLER

Folk From Other Lands Met Depression More Tranquilly than Natives.

MONTREAL, April 18 (C.P.).—Avoidance of too much credit has helped "New Canadians" to meet the depression more tranquilly than their native neighbours, stated Count Nikolas Ignatieff, himself a Russo-Canadian, who has travelled widely throughout Canada, in an address here. As a result, he said, they are aiding much in the stabilization of the West and incidentally the welfare of the East.

A fuller understanding of these European settlers as a means of co-ordinating opinion in Canada was urged by Count Ignatieff. Already in the West a new attitude was being taken, that of meeting the "New Canadian" half-way and of blending the better parts of the new and the old.

A problem that confronted development, he said, was whether international finance or the original pioneer spirit of individual effort should be used in maintaining Canada's growth.

Banking Committee Adjourns Indefinitely

OTTAWA, April 18. (CP).—After a day spent in listening to new monetary and economic theories propounded by Major C. H. Douglas of London, England, the House of Commons committee on banking stands adjourned indefinitely to-day.

The noted economist and apostle of social credit outlined a scheme which, he claimed, would make the poor richer without making the rich poor and which would put an end to the present-day anomaly of poverty in the midst of plenty.

Defets in the financial system were at the root of economic ills, he claimed. He would restrict bank dividends to six percent and utilie the surplus profits of banks to reduce customers' overdrafts and interest charges. Surplus profits of insurance companies would be used to purchase securities and distributed them to the public.

Sentenced to three years' imprisonment for espionage, a man tried to commit suicide in a prison in Metz, France, by swallowing five franc pieces.

SEEK TO REVIVE OLD WIVES LAKE

Historical Society Moves to Commemorate Historic Exploit.

REGINA, April 18 (CP) — To commemmorate the brave action of a party of aged Indian women who sacrificed themselves to prevent the massacre of younger members of their tribe, the Historic Sites Board, at Ottawa, will be asked to restore the traditional name of "Old Wives" Lake to Lake Johnstone, southwest of Moose Jaw. The request will be made by the Regina Historical Society.

Misty figures of Blackfeet Indian braves as they circled a Cree caravan on the plains of Moose Jaw Creek passed before members of the society as the ancient story that gave the name "Old Wives" to the lake was told by Mrs. Z. M. Hamilton.

A great prairie fire swept the Regina plains more than 100 years ago, driving buffalo out of the Qu'Appelle valley, stamping ground of the Crees. West of the valley ranged territtry ruled by the Blackfeet who waged relentless war on Cree and Salteaux. Into this country a band of Crees elected to follow a truant buffalo herd.

That evening a cavalcade of wild horsemen charged the party but were driven off. The caravan halted and the braves held a council of war. It appeared the party had no chance to return before another attack, hampered as they were by heavy equipment.

At this stage, however, old women of the band approached their chief. "Draw your carts together as if you would stand and fight," they urged. "When darkness comes take the young women and return to our territory. We will stay and light fires. The Blackfeet will not know you have gone."

This plan was carried out. The next day the Blackfeet circled the caravan fires at a galloping speed and then rushed the camp. Enraged when they found the encampment untenanted save for the brave men the Blackfeet put them to death. Their sacrifice, however, enabled the rest of their party to reach Qu'Appelle in safety.

An extremely successful tea was held yesterday afternoon in the parish house of St. John's Church, when the Afternoon Branch of the Women's Auxiliary of St. John's were hostesses. Two immensely interesting exhibits were of the bale which the branch sends annually to the Anglican Boarding School at Punnichy, Saskatchewan, and which consists of two complete outfits of clothing and bedding for students at the school, also the exhibit of work done by the Teen Age Girls and Junior Branch of the Auxiliary. A model of Honan, China, under the able supervision of Mrs. I. Ewing of Toronto aroused much enthusiasm. The minature replicas include the Cathedral, the Day School, St. Paul's Hospital, ten out stations, and details such as jinrickshaws, wheelbarrows carrying grain, an ambulance, a Chinese village with thatched roofs where missionaries doctors and nurses are observed, as well as a Bible woman conducting a class. This model is eight feet by four feet in dimensions and was made on a scale of twenty feet to the inch, by seventy-nine Junior Branches and nine Church Boys' Leagues in the diocese of Toronto, under supervision of Mrs. Ewing. At the tea hour yesterday, the guests were received by Mrs. H. A. Morrow, the Branch president, and Mrs. C. A. Skerwood, the treasurer. Tea was poured by Mrs. G. S. Cameron from a table covered with a lace cloth and centered by a silver basket filled with red tulips. Assistants were Mrs. E. Knights, Mrs. R. Ross and Mrs. R. Cooper. Refreshments were served by a committee under Mrs. D. J. Eldred, consisting of Mrs. N. Stanger, Mrs. H. Lemmings and Mrs. J. Soulby. The bale was displayed by Mrs. G. Groombridge, the Teen age Girls' work by Mrs. F. D. Craig, and the Juniors' work by Mrs. H. Chate and Mrs. N. Stanger

St. John's Men's Club held one of the most successful socials in its history on Monday, April 16, at the Parish House, the attendance numbering upwards of a hundred. In the early part of the evening games of carpet-bowls, euchre and bridge were played, followed by a very successful feature, a "Blind Auction." Those attending had been asked to bring some articles of small value, carefully wrapped up, to be sold by auction, the proceeds to go towards the expenses of the annual summer picnic. Mr. George Groombridge was the auctioneer, and displaying lots of energy and a fine line of patter, he soon got things going with a bang. Bidding was fast and furious, and there was lots of fun when the buyers opened their very much wrapped up parcels; apparently the smaller the article the larger the parcel and the more secure the wrapping. Some of the articles, when opened to the public gaze, caused roars of laughter; they ranged from baby socks to all-day suckers. It was a pleasant sight to see staid, sober "citizens of credit and renown" sitting sucking suckers with a sweet smile. After the auction, which realized a very satisfactory sum, refreshments were served. After that dancing was indulged in to music by Messrs. G. Groombridge and Woodgate. This very successful gathering was staged under the direction of a committee: Mr. H. Lemmings, club president; Mr. G. Groombridge, club secretary, and the entertainment committee: Messrs. F. A. Dainton (chairman), H. F. Steward and J. Vollans. This club has had a most successful season; it has provided the men of the church with all the amenities of a social club for a very trifling voluntary seasonal subscription; it has made it a guiding principle, under present conditions, to make no collection and to make no requests for money in any way. Every man is very welcome and is cordially greeted to the club meetings without being under any financial obligation. By this means a large regular attendance has been obtained and the club has become increasingly a definite asset in church work.

EDWARD S. DAY PASSES

BROCKVILLE, Ont., April 18.—(CP)—Edward S. Day, former Secretary treasurer of Canada Foundries and Forgings Limited, died last night at his home here after a long illness, aged 54.

He was born at Wellington, Ont., the son of the late John G. Day, and spent the greater part of his life in Montreal, where he was engaged in business life before receiving appointment with the Brockville Company 11 years ago, retiring this year owing to ill health.

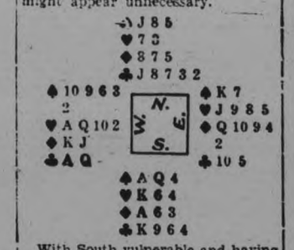
CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR CENTRAL PRESS

By E. V. SHEPARD

AN OBLIGATORY DOUBLE

As was the case here, an opening bid of 1-no trump may go game even against strong opposition, when the bidder has a high score towards game. Then an obligatory double may be made by a non-vulnerable second bidder, which otherwise might appear unnecessary.



With South vulnerable and having a score of 80 points, while West was non-vulnerable, with a love score, West doubled the openinb bid of 1-no trump. East bid 2-diamonds, which West overcalled with 2-spades. When East shifted into 3-hearts, which was the doubler's strongest suit, West risked going 4-hearts, and South doubled.

South was hard put to make any lead which might be expected to turn out well, as he counted his partner for a blank hand. Finally South led his four of clubs. Dummy's queen and ace won two tricks. The declarer led the ten of spades. North covered with the jack. East's king lost to South's ace.

Again South was troubled about what he should lead. He led his ace of diamonds, hoping that the declarer would block the suit in dummy, but West's king was ducked. When the second lead of diamonds was made, the declarer's queen overtook the jack.

East led the eight of hearts and held the trick. The five of hearts was led and dummy's queen won. The ace picked up the last opposing trump, leaving the ten in dummy and East with the jack.

Dummy's lowest spade was led. North won with the eight. He led a club. As the declarer was not positive that his own diamonds were fully established, having forgotten about them in his excitement, he discarded his lowest diamond and had dummy trump the club led.

There was nothing more to the hand. East ruffed a spade, then he spread his two good diamonds for the last two tricks of the hand, just fulfilling his game contract, as the doubling side had won only two spade tricks and the single diamond trick.

Of course East's hearts were not ordinarily worth any sort of a bid. Only the double justified mentioning them.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING.

When the idea of a surgical operating room is suggested, it does not conjure up a very homey kind of place. The bare white walls, the masked attendants looking ghostlike and inhuman, the very business-like looking tables and apparatus, may all speak of efficiency, but undoubtedly they are rather scary. And nowadays patients are often awake all through their own operations, through the use of local anesthesia or spinal anesthesia and do not want to have their eyes covered with a towel all the time, so in some hospitals they have taken to painting scenes on the walls of the operating room in order to divert the attention of the central actor in the scene. These pictures ae designed so that the eye will follow them around and be mildly interested—such as rabbits running in and out of a wood, elephants, penguins, mermaids, deep sea creatures, Adam and Eve leaving the Garden of Eden, and other scenes.

There is no reason—surgical, scientific or antiseptic—why an operating room should be all white or gray. Walls with pictures on them can be kept quite as clean as a blank wall. And, indeed, if they are painted over frequently, as they should be, they can be kept even cleaner.

A better scheme, however, it seems to me, would be to use one of those trans-lux travelling lighted strips that you find in brokers' offices, and while you are having your gall bladder out you could see the current Mut and Jeff, the Gumps, Little Orphan Annie, the Bungles, or the mobs in Paris streets, or, in fact, anything that you called for. You might even have a prayer on one of these strips, such as:

Now I lay me down to sleep,
I pray the Lord my soul to keep,
I don't care what becomes of where the diseased part is,
But I hope they don't bust through into where my heart is.

I invite suggestions for these prayers.

The really great advances in surgery in the past few years have been not in the fact that the technique has been improved, but that surgeons have become more physiological in the study of the drugs which they use in peritonitis or intestinal obstruction or in shock and post-operative and pre-operative conditions generally, which so greatly increase the safety of the patient.

NEW SPRING PERFUME

Scents for Season Should Be Light and Airy, Cinema Star Believes

Constance Bennett

By GLADYS GLAD

Claire Trevor, that charming blonde cinema siren who has climbed so rapidly up Hollywood's ladder to success, recently had a new perfume blended in which grapefruit juice is used. Claire claims that at this time of the year, women should always seek new perfumes. For she believes that in the spring perfumes should be as light and airy as the season itself.

Claire's pretty right at that. For light, bouquet perfumes and fragrant floral odors harmonize much more appropriately with the dainty garb of spring and summer than heavy, sensuous perfumes. They are more in keeping with the spirit of spring than heavy perfumes are. Yet they must be chosen with just as great a regard for type as any of the heavier, more complicated scents.

Oftentimes, women find it difficult to select a perfume suitable to them. The many different varieties are so bewildering. Yet since women do not fall into neat little classes, it would be impossible for me to designate the correct perfume for every woman. Appearance, temperament and personality are all important.

However, there are several rough rules that may be used as guides in the selection of floral perfumes. They are merely suggestions that should be amended to suit the individual. Yet they do help.

Of the floral scents, lily of the valley is believed to bespeak youthfulness and buoyancy of spirit, and is generally suggested for young brunettes. The elusive and delicate sense of jasmine adds depths to the personality of the ashen and the brown-eyed blonde. The modest violet scent, denoting delicacy and womanly charm, is well suited to the shy, fragile type. Heliotrope, which always suggests constancy and faithfulness, is for the old-fashioned, home-loving type. The haunting fragrance of narcissus is considered ideal for the dark, mysterious damsel. Rose is for the athletic girl with her healthful enthusiasms. And gardenia is suggested as the predominating odor in the perfume of the warm-sweet-natured brunette. Study your appearance, temperament, and personality first always, and you'll find the selection of your perfect perfume a much simpler task.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Cold Cream

Janet: Cold cream may indeed be used as a skin cleanser. It does not however, odinarily contain bleaching properties.

Reducing

Shirley: The reducing instructions contained in my booklet on "The New Figure" will indeed help to eliminate those 32 excess pounds, and reduce your bust and hips. My reducing course takes off about eight to ten pounds in two weeks.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

It is interesting to note the attention that is being paid today to the correct use of words. We were fast becoming a nation expressing itself in a vocabulary of slang, or at least paying a little heed to the proper significance of the words used. It is probably due to these reasons that the attempt is being made to arouse interest in definiteness of meanings, and the differences between words ordinarily used interchangeably.

* * * * * * *

There are shades of meaning conveyed by words and these are as important to proper understanding of what is said or written, as line and color are to drawing and painting. Lawyers and judges realize the imperative need to express themselves with exactness, and because of shades of meaning between words of similar import, they use each and every one needed to convey their purpose, aim, and intention. Law suits frequently hang upon the slender thread of distinction in words.

* * * * * *

Such punctilious use of the vocabulary within the home is not to be expected, and, since it would make conversation stilted, would not be wholly desirable. This, however, does not excuse the wrong use of words or carelessness in conveying one's meaning in oral or written language. No one wishes to be misunderstood, except on those unfortunate occasions when words are intentionally misleading. Apart from such expressions, everyone craves correct understanding of what he or she says. Heartache and sorrow, quarrels and trouble are the outcome of verbal misunderstandings. Misinterpretations of words never intended to be so construed.

* * * * * *

The indiscriminate use of slang indicates an impoverished vocabulary, even though, when used occasionally and wisely, it can point a sentence, and add color to speech. To use one word or phrase to express a wide range of emotions or enthusiasms for which many more words equally current and more accurate exist, is to make a common mistake. Frequently, by the contest alone, can one get the implied significance.

* * * * * *

Since the English tongue is replete with words adapted and adopted from many languages, every one who wishes so to do, can find words and phrases to convey meanings definitely. A gracious use of words helps to make and cement friendships, and the opportunity to select them is the privilege of all.

DRIFTS IN WALES BROUGHT THRILLS

Four Men Trapped Near Summit of Cador Idris Had New Experience.

SWANSEA, Wales, April 18.—(CP)—Mountain climbing in Wales took on a new thrill with the unusually heavy snowstorms recently. Four men were nearly lost near the top of Cader Idris.

The party was trapped in a thick mist two miles from the summit. When the mist cleared a little they got on a wrong path and into a deep snowdrift. Forming a hand-chain, they managed to scramble out and then wandered waist-deep in snow until they reached a path, which took them to a clear opening.

Hearing the barking of sheep dogs in the distance, they followed a mountain river, which eventually took them to a farmhouse.

HUBBELL HOLDS PHILADELPHIA TO FOUR HITS

Giants Take 6-1 Triumph in Opening Game at Polo Grounds, New York.

RED SOX LOSE 6-5.

Attendance Falls Short of the 1931 Record Turnout of 249,010.

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.)

Major league baseball clubs today settled down to the serious business of daily games, hopeful that a rather glorious round of opening contests has set a keynote for the entire 1934 season.

Encouraged by fine weather, especially in the east, the fans poured through the turnstiles in greater numbers than in either of the past two seasons although the crowd fell short of the 1931 record turnout of 249,010. In all more than 187,000 fans attended the eight opening games to watch a better-than-usual set of first-day attractions.

The world champion New York Giants attracted a crowd befitting their high station, about 37,000, and the faithful were rewarded by seeing Carl Hubbell, last year's' world series hero, pitch a four hit game to triumph over the Phillies 6 to 1.

Lose to Senators 6-1

The rebuilt Red Sox were the leading attractions of the American League as they clashed with the 1933 pennant winners, Washington's Senators. The crowd of 33,336 which filled the improved Fenway Park to see the improved team was one of the best on record in Boston and it had plenty of thrills in an eleven inning struggle which Washington won 6 to 5.

Throngs of about 30,000 also appeared at Brooklyn, where the Dodgers inaugurated Casy Stengel's managerial reign by beating the Boston Braves 8-7 in an exciting slugfest, and at Cincinnati where the first view of the rebuilt Reds proved mostly to be a view of Lonnie Warneke, Chicago's stellar right hander.

Warneke undoubtedly was the day's outstanding individual performer. Pitching in mid-season form he missed a no-hit, no-run game by one throw as he blanked the Redlegs 00 and whiffed 13 batsmen. Cincinnati didn't get a hit until after one was out in the ninth inning when Adam Comorosky connected for a single. Chuck Klein,imported from Philadelphia to aid the Cubs' slugging celebrated his debut with a home run.

Hubbell also hurled a masterful game for the world champions and at the same time the Giants showed they were the same team that won the pennant last year. They started cut by scoring a run without a hit, then followed up with very timely hitting in which Blondy Ryan stood out. Jimmy Wilson, Phils' manager, took Hubbell's shutout away when he walloped a homer in the seventh.

Washington's triumph came on an eleventh-inning run off Henry Johnson after the Red Sox had overcome a five-run deficit to tie the score in the eighth. Manager Joe Cronin started the rally with a double that upset Johnson so he gave two passes. Then Pinch Batter Dave Harris hit a grounder which Buck Walters juggled long enough for Cronin to score.

Yankees Fall, 6-5.

The Athletics staged a similar rally to defeat the highly-touted Yankees, 6-5, in a mixed-up game that saw 18 passes given out. A run behind in the ninth, the "A's" rallied to win when Bing Miller pasted a pinch single for the third hit of the inning.

With 21,000 fans looking on, Cleveland's Indians made eight hits good for a 5 to 2 victory over Rogers Hornsby's Brown as Earl Averill smacked in three tallies with a homer and a double.

International Loop Teams Ready For '34 Race

Mati Hari, To Go Into Race "Cold"

By LOUIS W. BINDMAN
(Central Press Canadian Sports Correspondent)

NEW YORK, April 17.— Great faith must abide in the breast of Clyde Van Dusen, the Dixiana Stable's star filly and favorite for the Kentucky Derby.

Great faith, indeed, for Mata Hari's prospects in the big event, for Mr. Van Dusen intends to make the Kentucky Derby the filly's first race of the year. There will be no competitive preliminaries, no rubbing of flanks with strange fellows before the big event. When the great day comes she'll be sent in comparatively "cold" for an effort that will require all her fire and fury.

This does not help the sporting public very much. True, Mata Hari is being given public trials and workouts, but what are they compared to a good, stiff contest?

The public wants to see her buck against the innumerable hazards of a genuine horse race, perhaps get bumped a little, swing wide, get into a pocket, and then go on to win or lose.

That is the true test of a race horse and even though the effort may result in defeat, the manner in which the horse recovers footing is the gauge that stamps the thoroughbred a contender.

Shows Good Form.

But if Clyde Van Dusen wants to send Mat Hari after the Derby without a preliminary start, that, of course, is his business and it must be confessed that Clyde knows his business. Clyde is the same man who sent his namesake into the 1929 Kentucky Derby to win. He also saddled Sweep All in the 1931 renewal and that animal went in to finish second to the great Twenty Grand. That, I might add, was a mighty fine performance of Sweep All, for Twenty Grand broke the track record in clicking.

Mata Hari is quartered at the Dixiana Stable's private track in Lexington, Ky. There she was recently giver her first public workout. With a burden of 125 pounds on her back, she was sent over a mile of a sluggish track in 1.43 1-5, impressive time considering the poor condition of the strip. With a runing mate, which she left far behind, she went the mile handily, without being unduly pressed.

In view of Clyde Van Dusen's intention to send Mata Hari after the Derby untested and untried by the fire of competition, the workouts of the daughter of Peter Hastings become all-important. These will be the only guide and will have to be accepted at their face value. However, the reputation enjoyed by her trainer as a man of performance, will undoubtedly enhance her possibilities.

OFFERS $100,000 FOR HALF A COLT

London Heard Lord Woolavington Dickered With Aga Khan for Share in Umidwar.

LONDON, April 18 (CP)—An offer of $100,000 has been made to the Aga Khan for a half-share in his classic cold Umidwar, who ran only once and won last season, a writer in the News Chronicle says. The offer has been refused.

It is understood at Newmarket the offer was made on behalf of Lord Woolavington, who has already won the Derby twice and in his 86th year wants to win it again.

The offer is believed to have been made on condition that the colt, who is now in charge of Frank Butters at Newmarket, was sent forthwith to Lord Woolavington's own trainer, Fred Darling at Beckhampton, to undergo his Derby preparation.

TORONTO LEAFS MEET SENATORS AT ALBANY PARK

Good Weather Predicted for Openers in Minor AA Ball Circuit.

BEARS ARE FAVORED.

Chief Opposition Comes From Rochester—Bisons, Orioles, Royals Need Watching.

NEW YORK, April 18. (AP).—Hoping for the same success that marked the opening of the major circuits yesterday, the International League will start its fifty-first season to-day with at least five clubs rating consideration in the 154-game for the pennant.

Upward of 40,000 fans are expected to turn out at Albany, Syracuse, Newark and Baltimore. The weatherman promised ideal playing conditions for the two up-State cities, but his prediction for Newark and Baltimore was "probably rain this morning."

At Albany, the Senators will entertain Toronto Maple Leafs, while Syracuse Chiefs, recently transferred from Jersey City, will be hosts to Montreal Royals. Buffalo Bisons, winners of the play-offs last season, will come south to meet Newark Bears, which spread-eagled the field during the regular season last year, only to lose in the post-season play-offs. At Baltimore, the Orioles will see action against the powerful Rochester Red Wings.

Bears Team to Beat

Backed by the resources of the parent New York Yankees, the Bears again appear to be the team to beat, despite the loss of four star performers in Red Rolfe, Jack Saltgaver, Jim Weaver and Don Brennan, all of whom have graduated to the majors. Bob Shawkey, who replaces Al Mamaux at the helm, has another powerful outfit in the infield and outfield, but the team appears to be a trifle weak on the mound.

Chief opposition is expected to come from Rochester, backed by St. Louis Cardinals' far-flung farm system. The Bisons, none too impressive in spring training, and perhaps the Orioles and Royals, are the other teams to watch. The other three clubs appear to need further fortification in playing material.

In addition to Shawkey, there will be two other new managers in the circuit. Ike Boone, a heavy hitter, has succeeded Dan Howley at Toronto, while little Andy High has been given the task of seeing what he can do with the chiefs in their new setting at Syracuse.

A change has been made in the play-off system whereby only the clubs in the final standings, no matter what section they are from, will qualify for the post-season series. Last year two Northern and two Southern teams participated in the play-offs. As last year the league championship will go to the club with the highest ranking during the regular season, while the winner of the play-offs will represent the circuit in the Little World Series.

The probable pitchers in to-day's openers:

Syracuse: Fred Fussell (Syracuse) v. Chet Kimsey (Montreal).

Albany: Ed. Pipgras (Albany) v. Gene Schott (Toronto).

Newark: Walter Brown (Newark) v. Howard 'Ace' Elliott (Buffalo).

Baltimore, Berly Richmond (Baltimore) v. John Berly (Rochester).

Golf Facts, Not Theories!
MORRISION EXPLAINS METHOD IN GROOVING YOUR SWING

By ALEX J. MORRISON
Golf's Foremost Technician

To have a grooved swing is the hope of every golfer who takes his game seriously, and that hope can be realized through practice and willingness to permit the left hand and arm to dominate the swing.

This left hand domination is the most important step toward establishing consistency and accuracy in any swing, long or short. In other words, if you want to improve your putting, approaching or driving, simply look to the way your club moves in relation to your left arm and hand. During backswing and downswing the club should move virtually in a plane with the fully extended left arm.

There is a rather simple exercise which will help you attain this end. To begin: Stand erect. Grip the club firmly in the left palm and have this hand turned over so that you can see only the back of it. With the left arm fully extended and the right elbow dropped, leaving the right arm relaxed, hold the club on a level with the shoulders so that it is ready to move in a horizontal plane.

Now make the backswing in three easy stages and the forward swing in one slash.

Like this: 1—Shift your weight to the right and allow the arms and the club to move in the same direction without any bending of the wrist, elbow or shoulder joints.

2—Turn the body on the right hip joint and follow this turn with a backward motion of the arms and the club.

3—After moving the club back with the body and arms, then allow the wrist to bend so that an additional backward movement is to be had.

4—Without actually stopping the action, and in response to the pull you will feel in your left shoulder, arm and hand, swing forward.

At all times make sure that the club is kept on a level with your fully extended left arm.

When you have mastered this routine, you may gradually lower the plane in which you practice until you are able to perform the proper movements in the regular plane at the ball. Throughout the turning motion of your body, make sure that your chin is kept pointed at a spot just back of the centre of your swing.

AUSSIE CYCLIST BREAKS RECORDS

Pedals 43,996 Miles in Year and Averages 120 Miles a Day Despite Illness.

MELBOURNE, April 18 (C.P.)—Australia is acclaiming the cycling feat of O. J. Nicholson, of this city, in riding 43,993 miles in one year and breaking three world's records.

Using a daily average speed of 17 miles an hour, this psortsman, states Austral News, has averaged 120 miles a day since the beginning of 1933. The greatest daily distance was 250 miles.

Nicholson, who is 24, showed Spartan endurance. He defied ill health and rode on in spite of three severe falls and three bouts of influenza. The ordeal cost him only an eight pound loss in weight.

Earl Miller Leads Minor Loop Snipers

Miller scored 31 goals and was credited with 19 assists for a point total of 40, one more than Brophy, who had 15 goals and 24 assists. Al Huggins of the Stars was third with 14, 23—37, and Jack Markle, Syracuse right-winger, fourth with 14, 22—36. "Whitey" Fields of Windsor and Gene Carrigan of Detroit were tied for fifth with 35 points each.

Norm Locking, Cleveland centre, led all goal-getters with 24 points and placed behind Fields and Carrigan in the point standing. He had 10 assists.

Detroit's hard-hitting defense man, Harvey Rockburn, had no difficulty winning the "bad man" title for the third time. He spent 113 minutes in the penalty box.

NATIONALES TO REPRESENT EAST IN CAGE FINALS

Montreal Team Takes Eastern Dominion Title From University of Halifax.

PATRICK BROTHERS STAR.

Quebec Champions Take Second Game 45-26 for 82-62 Victory on Round.

(By Canadian Press.)

It appeared to-day that the Canadian senior basketball title-series will be subject to British Columbia influences on both sides. Montreal Nationales, starring Murray and Lynn Patrick, will represent the East in the annual cage classic. Vancouver Province is headed for the Western championship.

The Patricks, sons of Lester Patrick, manager of the New York Rangers hockey team, led the Nationales to a 45-26 victory over Dalhousie University last night at Halifax that took the Eastern title to Montreal. The Quebec champions game series on Monday night 37-36.

Lynn and Murray, two of the greatest forwards developed in Canada in recent years, helped Victoria Blue Ribbons take the Canadian championship to British Columbia last year. In the off-season they moved to Montreal with their father and joined up with the Nationales.

Now the Blue Ribbons are on the sidelines Nationales and the Patricks are ready for more intersectional battles. The sons of old Lester accounted for more than half the Montreal point-total last night, Murray scring 13 points and Lynn 11 points. Each scored five goals from the field.

Upset Manitoba.

Campaigning in defence of the Far-West's hold on the Dominion crown, the Province team upset the Manitoba champions, Winnipeg Robertson Memorials, 33-22 last night at Winnipeg in the first of a five-game series to determine Western supremacy. Long John Purves, scoring ace of the Vancouver team, amassed 18 points.

Montreal scored another triumph in the intermediate division when the Y.M.H.A. team, Quebec champons, outpointed St. John Y.M.C.A. Trumps by 46-14 to win the two-game round by a margin of 33 points. The Montrealers will play Windsor Y.M.C.A. Arrows for the Eastern championship.

GREAT WALKER LEAVES TRAIL

Tommy Green, Winner of Los Angeles Olympics Event Says Farewell to Road.

LEAD IN 30-MILE EVENT.

LONDON, April 18 (CP)—Tommy Green, the greatest competitive distance walker of his day and the athletic idol of his home town, Belgrave, has said farewell to the road. The 41-year-old Olympic champion is taking up a business appointment which will leave him no time for training.

Smiling Tommy never completed in a road race until he was 33 and then he proceeded to win more races and break more records than any other athlete in the world. He climaxed his career by winning the 50,000 metres walk at the Los Angeles Olympic Games in 1932. In that race, over nearly 30 miles, most of the international field did not finish because of the intense heat.

Green won the famous 33-mile London-to-Brighton race after four times and scored five successive successes in the Manchester-Blackpool event. He never quite managed to win the Royal Walking Association's national 20-mile race, but he trounced all its winners over other routes.

Canada never saw the Belgrave Harrier in competition, but Green worked out in Toronto on his way to the Los Angeles Olympics. His chief rival at that time was thought to be Hank Cleman, Toronto star, but the heat forced Cleman to withdraw during the Olympic race.

REBUILD BEETLE FOR UTAH SANDS

Campbells "Bluebird" Expected to Make 300 Miles an Hour on Salt Beds.

LONDON, April 16 (C.P.)—The giant flying beetle that Sir Malcolm Campbell calls the "Bluebird" will have been completely rebuilt when the famous automobile speed driver attempts to raise his world record to 300 miles an hour on the Salduro salt beds of Utah.

Work on the "Bluebird" is moving ahead rapidly and it is hoped the car will be ready by June. Only the Schneider Cup aeroplane engine will be retained from the machine which the driver sent over the sand of Daytona Beach, Florida, at 272.108 miles an hour in February, 1933.

The body will resemble a gigantic beetle, and for the first time in an attempt of this nature twin rear wheels will be used.

This idea is not new for competition work, for many, notably Raymond Mays, R. G. J. Nash and Whitney Straight, have used extra wheels with great success in hill-climbs.

The "Bluebird" wheels will be enclosed to within a few inches of the ground. One of the chief aims in the new design has been to evolve a body that will afford a smaller frontal area and be more perfect in streamlining.

Various designs have been submitted to wind-tunnel tests, and the one decided upon will, it is hoped, definitely enable Sir Malcolm fractionally to reduce his time and so reach 300 miles an hour.

Except for a hole, through which the driver's head will project, the entire chassis will be enclosed. The Schneider Trophy-type 12-cylinder supercharged Rolls-Royce engine is being retained, but so extensive are the other alterations that the entire chassis has been dismantled.

Although not definitely settled, it is practically certain that Sir Malcolm will abandon Daytona Beach, Florida, and make the attempt on the Salduro Salt Beds, Utah.

Champion Red Birds Lose Opening Game

CHICAGO, April 18 (A.P.).—The American Association opened its thirty-third season yesterday before a total attendance which exceeded the fondest hopes of the club owners, the turnstiles clicking off more than 33,000 admissions.

The league champion Columbus Red Birds drew the biggest crowd of the day, 12,049, but disappointed their followers by losing to Louisville, 8-5.

A former major leaguer, Earl Webb, gave 8,090 Milwaukee fans a thrill and won the ball game for the Brewers by blasting out a homer with the bases full in the seventh. The blow gave Milwaukee a 10-5 victory over Minneapolis.

AT THE CAPITOL.

"THE LIFE OF H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES"

An interesting article in an American magazine discloses that the Prince of Wales was somewhat handicapped by the frivolous friends of his youth and the fact that his epoch was one of the most stirring and exciting of all times. Not that his playmates were bad or dangerous. They belonged to the best families of England; their houses were charming, and their parties staged with a great deal of taste. But that is all one can say about them. Outside of titles and money, they possessed nothing. They were sufficiently harmless—but a complete waste of time.

"The Life of H.R.H. The Prince of Wales" which will commence a two-day engagement at the Capitol theatre today makes these remarks of particular interest. The fact that the article was writen by Alexander, former Grand Duke of Russia, who knows the Prince intimately makes the facts authentic.

How it was possible, continues the article, for a man of the Prince's intelligence not to be bored with this atmosphere of cocktail-bred gayety is difficult to understand, but more than once in the past, something in his unlaughing eyes made some of us doubt whether he was really enjoying the provincial frolics of his intimate friends. The new attitude assumed by him in the last few years confirms our doubts.

As it comes to all men, the day of disillusion has come to the Prince of Wales. The rotogravures may have overlooked it; he was never much of a smiler, and the border line between official sprightliness and genuine is too thin for even the most powerful camera.

The Happy Prince has never been the same since the illness of his father. A grave tone appeared in his public utterances, a furrow or two in his forehead. His jokes convey a note of sarcasm, now perhaps of impatience with his complacent contemporaries.

Like Father, Like Son Not True Of Canada's Athletic Greats

Will Sons Be As Famous As Illustrious Sires 20 Years Hence?

By BILL McNULTY
(Central Press Canadian Sports Correspondent)

"Like father like son," is an adage more honored in the breach than in the observance.

In Canada, there have been sons who aimed at following in the footsteps of their paters, yet in not an instance has the sports fame of a dad who achieved real recognition in athletics, been subordained to that of his lad. In the bulk of illustrations, the lad has fallen far short of the mark established by his father.

JOE WRIGHT, Jr.

Although Joe Wright, Jr., has been one of the most successful of Canadian single scullers in modern years, he is still overshadowed by his father. The senior Joe has been in the rowing game for the past 35 years, first as a single sculler and member of Toronto eight oared crews which competed in various regattas in Canada, United States and Europe, and, for the past 20 years as a coach. He is at present mentor of the Toronto Argonaut Rowing club. For several years previously, he was in charge of rowing at the University of Pennsylvania. It was while he was there that young Joe really made his single sculls debut, Joe, Sr., has been the only teacher in rowing his son has ever had. Under the tutelage of his father, he captured the Diamond Sculls, the Canadian and U.S. titles.

Mrs. Joe Wright, Jr., the former Martha Norelius, is grooming her young daughter for swimming laurels, and expects Doreen to justify expectations in the course of a comparatively few years. However, little Miss Wright has something to shoot at to excel the record of her mother, once a star sprint swimmer at the Olympics and elsewhere, and later, a star at long distances, including the winning of the annual Toronto marathon.

Ed. Durnan of Toronto, who for a dozen years was champion professional single sculler of America, taught single sculling to two sons, Ed., Jr., and Jack. Both competed in numerous races at Toronto and elsewhere, but have failed to acquire a title. 'Twas different with the old man. When he was adjudged washed up, Frank Greer of Boston, who had won the international amateur single sculling honors, went to the line with the veteran, but was defeated quite handily by Edward, much to the surprise of the rowing sharps.

Greer had shown strongly among the amateurs.

Johnny and Tommy Walker.

Tommy Walker of Toronto has been trying to maintain the pace set by his father, Johnny Walker, in swimming. Both were long distance swimmers before taking up coaching of mermen and mermaids, both with their bases at Toronto. However, the father has had much more success with his pupils than has son Thomas. For instance, George Young of Toronto, a protege of the elder Walker, has won the annual Toronto marathon. Marvin Nelson of Port Dodge, Ia., and Toronto, who has been twice a winner of the yearly classic of natation, is a member of Johnny Walker's class of swim students, at Toronto. Tommy Walker was coach of the Canadian Olympic swimming team of 1932.

Shag Shaughnessy.

Frank Shaughnessy, Sr., of Montreal, who played baseball, football and hockey as a young man, on various Montreal amateur and professional teams, has a son who is following his sports initiative. He is Frank Shaughnessy, Jr., who figured prominently on the McGill University hockey team for the season of 1933-34, and who has also played football and basketball while at McGill. Incidentally, he has played amateur baseball with Montreal groups in recent years. The original Shag is one of the best known sports characters in Canada, as football and hockey coach and athletic director at McGill and formerly at Ottawa University, and as the economic chieftain of the Montreal Royals of the International baseball circuit. Frank, Jr., has a tough task to overwhelm the governor. It may be possible but not probable.

Frank Nighbor, Sr., of Pembroke, Ont., possessor of the smartest poke check known to hockey, is drilling Frank Nighbor, JrJ., in the fundamentals of hockey science, including the poking. The son is too young to display tangible results, but his father hopes for success. Frank, Sr., was for 20 years in the National Hockey League, and for the past two seasons has been coach of the Buffalo Bisons in the International Hockey League.

Logans to the Fore.

Fred Logan of St. John, N.B., a champion amateur skater 30 years ago, is the coach for his two skating sons and a daughter. One of the sons, Billy Logan, of St. John, won the Canadian indoor championship at St. John, in February. He had been a member of the Canadian Olympic speed skating team for 1936 and 1932, and has competed in numerous meets in Canada and the United States the past 15 years. A younger son, Frank Logan of St. John, and the daughter have also done considerable skating at St. John meets in recent years. It is questionable if any of the Logan children measure up to the speed standard set by their father.

Ed. Hanlan, Jr., had an extremely formidable task to fill the niche left by his father, Ed. Hanlan, Sr., perhaps the best single sculler of all time. He was more instrumental than anybody else in giving Toronto the rowing prestige that continues to this day, but no member of his family was able to continue this name in the front line of rowing. Apparently the old world's champion had all the ability that might normally been distributed among a father and his son.

LETOURNER-LEPAGE RETAIN BIKE LEAD

McNamara and Zach One Lap Behind Pace-setters at Montreal.

MONTREAL, April 18 (C.P.). — Maintaining their place taken in the afternoon, the Franco-Canadian pair of Alfred Letourner, Paris, and Henri Lepage, Montreal, last night led Montreal's tenth semi-annual six-day bicycle race as the second day drew near a close.

Teams were reduced from 11 to 10 during the evening, Marcel Joubert, young Montrealer, who turned professional for the race, dropping out. Rene Boogmans, little Belgian veteran, also withdrew, and Manager Willie Spencer teamed Otto Petri, German rider, who was Boogmans' mate, with Zenon St. Laurent of Montreal. The new team started in last place, 12 laps behind the leaders, with a sprint point total of 64.

Lepage and Letourner broke a tie with Reggie McNamara and Fred Zach for the leadership during an afternoon jam and were still in front by that one-lap margin at 10 p.m., when they had covered 770 miles, 8 laps, since one minute after midnight Monday morning.

McNamara and Zach were second and the team of Piet Van Kempen, Holland, and Frank Bartell, Newark, N.J., was third, two laps behind the leaders. The Frenchmen, Boucheron and Mouton, in fourth place, led in sprint points with 157.

WARKWORTH WILL HAVE BALL CLUB

Village to Place Team in Northumberland League—Officers Elected.

WARKWORTH, April 18. (Examiner Correspondent). Warkworth will be represented in the Northumberland baseball league this season as a result of a meeting held in the community hall here Wednesday evening, April 11th. The team will mainly consist of new players. The officers elected were as follows:

President—Cyril Churchley.
Vice President—Joe Collins.
Secretary-treasurer—Art McKee.
Manager—Kory Zuefelt.
Captain—Leigh Wartman.

It is thought that the annual league meeting will be held the first week in May when the games schedule will be arranged.

LOTTERIES ON DERBY ILLEGAL

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 18 (AP) —A warning that lotteries and sweepstakes conducted on the Kentucky Derby are illegal and have no connection with the Derby management, was issued yesterday by Col. Matt J. Winn, president of the American Turf Association.

"Those why buy such tickets are throwing their money away," said Colonel Winn. "There is no responsibility on anybody to pay winning tickets. The whole thing is illegal and we will prosecute to the limit any person or group of persons who may use the name of our organization in this connection."

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball, Lacrosse, Soccer
Softball, Bowling, etc.

By C. J. P.

The boys who are interested in the Men's City Softball League will be wending their way down to Duffus' at 7.30 this eve. The big reorganization meeting will be held at this time, officers elected, teams entered and plans for the season made. The dope we get is that at least six squads will be represented: Westclox, Brintons, C.G.E., Omemee, Dick Cowan's, and Dunlop Tires, the latter handled by Bert Deck. Some or all of these, and maybe others, are gossiped about the highways and byways of softballdom as entering this year. If we're wrong, sue us. Up at the 'Y' at seven tonight, another softball meeting is being held, that of the Church League, and a good representation is hoped for. In fact both sessions tonight ought to draw big turnouts.

• • • • • •

An old ball player the other day was telling us of a game played here in 1913—along about the time we were causing lower school teachers to shake their heads gravely when contemplating our future, and weren't they right? We forget what teams he said were playing, but they were pro outfits and it was a double-header. Some trouble came up in the first game and the captain of the Berlins—yeah, we remember that was one—now know as Kitchener, was chased by the umpire. He retired to the bench and bawled the umps out at intervals in a loud raucous voice. The arbiter finally chased him off the bench. The guy changed into civilian clothes and climbed into the grandstand where he continued to burn the ears off the luckless umps, who finally got a cop and had the fellow taken right out of the park.

• • • • • •

Do you think that cramped his style any? Not a bit of it. He climbed up on the ticket booth outside the gate—and out of the jurisdiction of the umps—and blasted away with great gusto to the indignation of the official and the merriment of everyone else. The umpire finally could stand it no longer and he forfeited the game to the other side! Well, the second game was a riot. Berlin deliberately set out, for revenge, to burlesque it and they did a noble job. They shifted players around, using a catcher to pitch, the hurler catching, and so on. They were trailing about 26 to 0, and the captain of the other team was trying to end the game somehow or other. He was at bat and he swung very feebly at three in three in a row, missing each by a foot so's he would fan out. But doggone if the catcher didn't deliberately miss the last strike! Well, there it was, the batter refused to run to first and the catcher refused to chase the ball which had rolled to the stand. Some fun, eh? Eventually, they had to call the blooming game!

• • • • • • •

The femmes will be flocking forth for the gals' softball organization meeting at eight o'clock tomorrow in Duffus'. Everyone interested is invited. They'll elect officers, enter teams, chatter about this and that, and in general plan for another big season. Should be at least eight teams represented, likely two or three from out-of-town. This loop, only going three years, has proven unusually popular and the damsels have a swell layout over at the Ashburnham bowl, a natural outdoor amphitheatre with a grandstand built halfway around it to seat a thousand fans. A bunch of girls have a lot of fun and healthy sport, and a huge following of rooters enjoy several games a week—a good thing all around.

• • • • • • •

Brintons of the Mens Softball Circuit claims the distinction of being the first ball team in Peterborough to call a practise this year. They hold a workout this Saturday at 2.30 at the Central School grounds, and all last year's Sugar Bowlers and any other players wanting a tryout are urged to attend. This is the team, with two or three exceptions, that played as the Sugar Bowl last season, going right through to win the Eastern Ontario honors and reaching the Ontario semi-finals. Lefty Sturgeon, whose iron forkside flipper played a big part in their grand march, is manager this year, succeeding George Dormer. They'll lose at least two regulars this year in Archie Weir and Jack Playford who are slated to play for C.G.E.

• • • • • • •

It's a grand and glorious feeling once again to look at the various sporting pages of newspapers and see box scores and standings of the Big League ball teams. They opened yesterday with eight games and an increase in attendance over last year. There was an average of 23,000 fans at the initial contests of 1934, which bids fair to be a boom years in the diamond industry. As the sport goes under the Big Tent, so it goes in the smaller centers of the continent, and baseball should have a good year wherever it is organized this season. Let's hope that's true of Peterborough.

• • • • • • •

Various reports have come out of Oshawa the last two days regarding their return as a full-time team to the C.O.B.L. We were first informed they were thinking of it since Hugh Campbell and Ernie Rowsome went there Monday to re-open the question, and later we heard they would not but were willing to attend a meeting in Cobourg Saturday to see what could be done. Hugh Campbell is out of town, so we can't get anything definite—at least, when this was written. We did wire Belleville and the reply, not very clarifying, was: "Oshawa angle uncertain. Claim release valid. Belleville for senior ball. Meet Thursday." About the only thing certain is that a league meeting has been called for Cobourg Saturday when Oshawa will be present. Another effort will be made to clear things up. This loop, the Toronto ones and the Inter-County League in Western Ontario are all having a tough time getting organized this year.

• • • • • • •

The Belleville writer thinks that, despite the fact that Peterborough has always been a strong O.B.A.A. town, the Petes will go independent this year if things aren't smoothed out, and maybe Belleville, too. We don't know just what might happen. And he says: "It is safe to say that once the Central League situation is settled there will be no more rumblings from the Bay of Quinte League, the Kingston loop, the Lakeshore one, and the East Peterborough League. Why? Simply because the clubs composing these leagues are anxiously waiting, like vultures, the decision of the Central League teams with a feeling that some of them might revert back to intermediate ranks, if the senior league goes on the rocks." As usual, there is nothing constructive from Kingston. As for the Oshawa writer, he is getting worried but still hurls defiance. He printed part of our 'dare' but didn't let his readers in on the first half—the most important part.

• • • • • • •

Grab-bag: Oshawa paper says: "Saturday's meeting (in Cobourg) was held behind closed doors and no report was sent to the press" . . . . Well they closed the doors, pal, to keep out the draught; and they didn't send any report to the press because they figured that the four newspapermen present should be able to write out what happned themselves . . . . Out in Vancouver, soccer referees have to watch themselves, an angry crowd of Chinese rooters beating up and knifing him the other day during a dispute at a Chinese' students' game . . . . Not likely any local grapplers will be sent to the Ontario championships this year, expenses being the main problem . . . . Nothing stirring locally at all in lacrosse—guess they're waiting to see if the weather will stay mild . . . . Meantime, all the sports' action around here these days must come during the various meetings.

Open Betting Bill Is Passed In N.Y.

ALBANY, N.Y., April 18 (U.P.).—The Senate of the New York State Legislature passed and sent to Governor Herbert H. Lehman for signature last night a bill permitting open betting at the state's six race tracks.

Passage of the measure climaxed a bitter legislative drive for permission of all wagering.

A resolution, which, if passed by the next legislature and approved at a referendum, would permit usage of pari-mutual machines in 1936, and another bill creating a new State Racing Commission of three members having greater control over the sport, still are pending.

BRISTOL, England (CP)—Capt. W. S. Donne, president of the Somerset Rugby Union and an ex-chairman of the English Rugby Union, is dead at Castle Cary, aged 57.

LARGE ENTRY BOSTON RACE

Lloyd Longman Leading Canadian in Annual Road Marathon Classic on Thursday.

VETERANS ON LIST.

By BILL KING.
(Associate Press Sports Writer.)

BOSTON, April 18. — (A.P.)—Marathoners, according to other runners, are a queer lot, but nevertheless there were 218 starters for the 38th annual running of the famous Boston classic on Thursday enrolled on the list before the arrival of yesterdays mail.

Lloyd Longman of Toronto, is best known of the Canadian delegation.

A great many of these 218 were veterans of this 26 mile, 385 yard uphill and downdale grind from Hopkinton to Boston, including five former winners—Clarence Demar, who has led the pack home seven times in 15 years; Leslie Pawson, the Pawtucket, R.I., millhand, who broke the course record last year; Paul Lebruyn of New York; Smiling Johnny Henigan of Medford, and Old Bill Kennedy, the Portchester, N.Y., bricklayer.

Three of these former victors have high hopes of again leading the bulky pack home, Demar, Pawso nand Debruyn. Henigan entered this year he claims, because he wanted to wave last farewells to the youngsters who have cheered him on during his quarter century of foot running.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterboroughs Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner

Full name and address (complete) must be given in all samples sent in.

Keith Craig, Indian River, Ont.

Your handwriting reveals dominating characteristics. The firmness of the downward pressure shows excellent determination. The crossing of your 't' bar shows very good will power. Some of your letter formations being rounded and some angular, reflect a changeable disposition. It is rather of the type which looks for new worlds to conquer. You are energetic and forceful, and should possess the power to impart knowledge to others less fortunate than you. You are intelligent, diligent and industrious. A keen, clear thinker, not too quick or too slow. You manage to strike a happy medium in all your movements. At times, however, you hide your feelings, then at other times nothing can hide them. This is an emotional strain, which either is or is not suppressed, according to your mood. Mechanics or farming should interest you. Your birthsign is Virgo, you are ruled by Mercury. February and November are fortunate months. Wednesday the lucky day. Your number is five.

Roy Armour, Hastings, Ontario.

The handwriting on your sample reveals mental adroitness. Money and figures should interest you but these are not the only essential lines of endeavor for you to follow. You are of the 'promoter type' and possess a great deal of selling ability, but the product to be sold would have to interest you very much, in order to make you give it your best attention and concentration. Your writing shows sense of value and in the interests of a firm, you would be essentially business-like and conduct yourself with integrity. However, you are not quite as thrifty about your own money matters as you might be. Confidence and the ability to work in an executive position is shown by your illustrated signature. You do not thank anyone for telling you what to do. Your accomplish more if permitted to act upon your own initiative. Your general characteristics are systematic and should lead you along the road to success. Your birth-sign is Gemini, the Twins. April and August are your best months, Friday your most fortunate day and 10 your number.

Cleota Parnell, 726 Elcome Crescent, Peterborough, Ontario.

It was nice of you to answer so soon, and I do see a big difference in your writing, and think you are going to be surprised to learn that you may look forward to being a nurse some day. Now I want you to remember this, and keep your ambition ever before you—study hard and ask questions. Your birthsign is Gemini, the Twins. You are ruled by Mercury. April and August are your best months. Friday your lucky day; your number is six and sixes are often inspired by the Spiritual. So never forget to give praise to the One above from Whom all blessings flow, and I am sure that you will find happiness and contentment.

WALES DISCUSSES HOME RULE STATE

Welsh Nationalist Party Will Hold School of Co-operative State in Summer.

ABERYSTWITH, Wales, April 18—(CP)—Dominion status or home rule for Wales were subjects under discussion by the Executive Council of the Welsh Nationalist party. The meeting was attended by about 40 delegates, and was held in private, with Professor J. F. Daniel of Bangor, the vice-president, in the chair.

It is understood a good deal of attention was given to the terms of a Constitution providing for Dominion status for Wales. This Constitution has been drawn up by the Legal Advisory Committee of the party and is styled "Draft articles of an agreement between the Welsh and Westminster Parliaments."

Reports from the county executives were discussed and arrangements were completed for the holding of the party's summer school and annual conference at Llandyssul in August. The subject of the six lectures to be delivered at the summer school will be "the meaning of the co-operative states," the establishment of which is said to be the aim of the party.

MELBOURNE, Australia (CP)—Stopping to pick up some coins he had dropped the previous night, F. A. Milne, 62-year-old laborer, was struck by a train on a crossing and instantly killed.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, April 19

A particularly active and interesting day, with much commotion and probable change of a surprising or abrupt nature, is forecast from the planetary configurations. Great projects and new enterprises are to be counted on, with the faculties and forces under the impetus of high initiative for brilliant success, but it would be well to sign all writings with especial precaution, lest misrepresentation, fraud, or contention creep in. Employers may also prove kindly.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for an important year, with advancement, new ventures and the co-operation of those of much initiative and enterprise. The faculties and forces will be found stimulated to great achievements and bold projects and adventures. But sign all papers with precaution and discretion.

A child born on this day may be brave, adventurous, fond of change and large projects, having its faculties attuned to high pressure.

ADELAIDE, Australia (CP)—Temperature of 105.5 degrees in the shade was registered here in March, the highest on record for that month since 1861, when the maximum was 108 in the shade.

DISTRICT MASTER VISITS MARMORA

C. G. Cooper Lauds Lodge on Standing in Area—Excellent Toast List.

MARMORA, April 17.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—R. Wor. Bro. J. C. Cooper of Picton, the D.D.G.M. of Prince Edward District, paid his official visit to Marmora A.F. & A.M. No. 222 on Monday evening. Visiting brethren from Belleville, Stirling, Picton and Kingston swelled the attendance of local brethren.

At the lodge session, R. Wor. Bro. Cooper commented favorably on the position of the lodge in the district and also congratulated the lodge on its exemplification of the first degree.

Adjournment was made to St. Andrew's Hall, where a splendid banquet was served by the ladies of the church. Wor. Bro. W. J. Paek, Master of Marmora lodge, was the toastmaster for the occasion. Following 'The King and Craft,' Bro. H. McKercher, of Toronto, guest soloist, delightfully sang "Cheery Song" and "I Met Her in the Garden Where the Praties Grow."

The toast to 'Grand Lodge' was ably proposed by Right Wor. Bro. C. H. Buskard, Immediate P.D.D.G.M. of Prince Edward, and responded to by Right Wor Bro. J. C. Cooper. Other songs, 'The Same Old Dear Old Place' and 'Water Boy' were then rendered by Bro. McKercher.

The toast to 'Visiting Brethren' was submitted by Wor. Bro. J. F. Baker. Brethren responding were Right Wor. Bro. W. J. Barlow, Belleville, Wor. Bro. K. Edgecombe, W.M. Eureka lodge, Belleville, Wor. Bro. W. C. Blakely, W.M. Picton lodge, Wor Bro. H. Heath, P.M. Stirling lodge and Bro. H. A. LeHeup, Kingston

After Bro. McKercher had given his last number, "Marjorie Gray," Right Wor Bro. C. H. Buskard proposed the toast to "The Ladies." On their behalf Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth made fitting reply.

Final toasts were 'Marmora Lodge," submitted by the guest of honor, and the Junior Warden's toast.

Hastings

A very successful box social was held in the basement of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, under the auspices of the choir, on Friday evening, April 13th.

The chairman of the evening was the Rev. S. H. Hill, B.A., pastor of the church. The basement was prettily decorated in green and gold by members of the choir. The following program was given: chairman's remarks, Rev. S. H. Hill; recitation, W. H. Flatman; pianoforte solo, Miss Madeline Dodd; recitation, Francis Kennedy; solo, Miss Keitha Mouncey; reading, Philip Ford; duet, Messrs. J. Wilson and W. Flatman.

A mail driving contest was held for the ladies and was won by Miss M. Robinson, consolation prize by Miss Keitha Mouncey. The hat trimming competition for the men was won by Roy Johnson, the judges being Mrs. J. Taylor and Mrs. S. H. Hill.

The boxes were then put up for sale, the auctioneer being Jack Wilson. Tea was served by the ladies of the church and after lunch, games, etc., were indulged in.

A very pleasant evening was brought to a close by a trio "We Won't go Home Till Morning" by Mrs. A. Spooner, J. Wilson and Mr. McMillan.

WOMAN MAY SOLVE CASE

NORWALK, Conn.—The familiar police dictum, "Cherchez le Femme," was taken out of the Arthur Todd mystery to-day.

Prints of a woman's shoe, and other information that a woman might have had something to do with the 70-year-old mans' death last week had led investigators to hope that solution of the case might be found through a woman.

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK — By R. J. Scott

SCHOOL BUDDIES ARE RIVAL STOPPERS IN TROPHY CONTEST

Two Winnipeg Boys, Charlie Gardiner of Hawks and Wilf Cude of Red Wings, Faced Each Other in Recent Games For Old Mug.

WINNIPEG, April 18 (C.P.) — When Chicago Black Hawks and Detroit Red Wings fought for the Stanley Cup, two of the greatest goaltenders in hockey faced each other—Charlie Gardiner in the Hawk nets and Wilf Cude in the Red Wing cage. Cude, the youngster, the rookie sensation in the National League playoffs, had his warmest supporter in the curly-head at the other end of the rink.

For Chuck Gardiner was long the idol of the younger Cude. In their school days here, it was Chuck who encouraged Wilf and Wilf who modelled his game after that of the youth who became the ranking puck-stopper in the professional sport. This time Gardiner won, the Hawks winning the fourth game of the world championship series by 1-0.

Long before Cude was big enough to be a member of the beginners' team, representing the old Victoria school, he used to sit out in zero weather and watch his older and bigger friend play goal for the Midgets. Chuck was just learning to play then too.

"Cude was so little then that none of us thought he'd be a hockey player," related Gardiner. "He used to watch us dressed up in a big red sweater and toque.

"He lived near our place over on William street and for years we went back and forth to school together. Both of us used to worry about his size. He wanted to gain enough weight to play on the Midgets.

"But in a couple of years, when I had moved up into the juvenile league, they organized a 'paper-weight' team and Wilf got his start. Even when he was so little it seemed a hard shot would knock him down. But Cude was tough. He showed that the first time a puck caught him on the face.

"He was out pretty bad, but came right back on the job as soon as a bandage was applied. He's been that way ever since. Wasn't his nose broken in the third game of the Stanley Cup series? But he didn't quit. He was better than ever after that."

Even when he quit school, Gardiner said he never lost his interest in "the kid." Cude never missed seeing his chum in action in Winnipeg senior city league games and they still talked frequently about their careers.

"Gee," said Chuck, "we used to dream about playing some time in the big league but we never thought we'd be stacked up against each other for the world's championship. He made it tough for us—but I'm glad he was in there. The 'kid' sort of had me on the spot."

WOMEN'S MISSION AUXILIARY ATTENDS SERVICE ON SUNDAY

Dr. C. M. Scott, a Medical Missionary From India, is Guest Speaker.

IN ST. JAMES' CHURCH.

The morning service in St. James' United Church on Sunday, the 15th, was marked by the attendance of the St. James' Women's Missionary Auxiliary in a body, which is an annual event.

Dr. C. M. Scott, a medical missionary in India for sixteen years, was the guest speaker, and gave a very vivid word picture, which he emphasized by real photographs of his work in the Far East.

Rev. A. E. Moorhouse, pastor of St. James' welcomed and introduced Dr. Scott to the large audience. After making the announcements for the week, Mr. Moorhouse gave his usual short sermon to the children, which fitted well into the missionary spirit of the day. The scripture lesson was read and prayer offered by Dr. Scott. His message to the ladies of the W.M.S. was intensely interesting, since it was a story of, not only the healing of the body, but the spiritual life of men, women and children.

It is the custom at these annual W.M.S. services to receive the Easter Thankoffering. Six ladies of the W.M.S. acted as ushers and took the offering, which amounted to a very gratifying sum.

Special missionary music by both Junior and Senior Choirs, directed by the organist, Frank Stevens, was of a very fine character.

This week might well be called W.M.S. week. Yesterday afternoon the April, or Easter, Auxiliary meeting was held in the class room of the Wesley Hall, with a good attendance. The meeting was opened with prayer by the president, Mrs. A. E. Moorhouse, who presided, covering the busines session in record time.

The program, which all hinged upon the Easter theme, "Loving—Giving," was in charge of Mrs. F. B. Elliott, as convenor, and her group which included Mesdames Ingham, E. M. Davis, Woodley and Sollitt, all of whom took an acitve part. The scripture was read by Mrs. Rowe, and a beautiful message in song contributed by Mrs. T. E. Curvin.

Mrs. Elliott gave the "Call to Worship,' and Mrs. Woodley acted as leader of the responsive service compiled by Jean Gordon Forbes.

An interesting feature was the reply to the question, "For what am I thankful," which revealed that the members had a keen sense of their indebtedness to the Master, especially at this Easter time.

The guest speaker, Mrs. A. I. Brown, President of Peterborough W.M.S. Presbyterial, brought in a brief but telling address, the Easter message from a different viewpoint, but which she wove around the age-old theme, "Love and Sacrifice."

The treasurer's report was an interesting note of the day, as it showed an increase over last year's givings for the same period of time.

Another pleasant item was the gift of a quilt cover to the Auxiliary by Mrs. A. Kent, an absent member. During the afternoon, prayers were offered by Mesdames Sollitt, Davis and Rose, while Mrs. Buckler closed the meeting with prayer and the Benediction.

On behalf of the Auxiliary, Mrs. Elliott voiced their appreciation to Mrs. Brown, the speaker, and to Mrs. Curvin, for their fine messages, which made the meeting so great a success.

JAPAN OUTLINES POLICY

TOKYO, April 17 (AP)—The Associated Press learned from a high official source to-day that a "restatement and clarification" of Japan's policy toward China has been drafted by the foreign office. The document, it was learned, has been submitted to Foreign Minister Koki Hirota for approval.

Another Exile

"Hero today, gone tomorrow," is a tradition in Fascist Italy. Hosannahs for the late General de Pinedo and Air Marshal Balbo were followed by virtual banishment. As Premier Benito Mussolini decorates General Aldo Pellegrini, air hero, at Rome, world wonders is it "Hail and farewell?"

BRANTFORD MAN HAS TWO WIVES

Pleads Guilty to Charge of Bigamy in Toronto Court.

REMANDED FOR SENTENCE.

LONDON, Ont., April 16.—(CP)—With his two wives in court, Charles William Pilgrim, aged 34, of Brantford, who has been on relief for a year, today pleaded guilty to a charge of bigamy before County Magistrate C. W. Hawkshaw. He was remanded to jail for sentence on April 26.

Pilgrim, looking unkempt in unpressed suit, appeared in sharp contrast to his two neatly dressed wives. His first wife, Mrs. Violet Palmerston Pilgrim, of Detroit, was smartly attired in a grey ensemble, and it was she who laid the complaint against him.

His second wife, Dorothy Elizabeth Cuchman, only 19 years old formerly of Melbourne, sat with their little child on her lap. It was stated in court that the second Mrs. Pilgrim will shortly become a mother for the second time.

Admitted Charge

Pilgrim readily admitted the charge and stated that he would have no lawyer as he had no money.

He was told that representations might be made by his friends on his behalf before he is sentenced, but replied that his friends were like him, out of work. His mother and father were in court, however, and spoke privately with the magistrate.

Pilgrim was arrested at his home in Brantford Tuesday night. Crown Attorney A. M. Judd K.C., told the the court that Pilgrim had married Violet Palmerston at Simcoe, Ont., on August 20, 1931. The accused is a native of Brantford but the couple lived for a time after their marriage in Detroit.

Mrs. Pilgrim remained in Detroit when he returned to Canada.

He then married Dorothy Cuchman at Melbourne on July 3, 1933. They have one child.

JAPAN IS READY FOR WAR IN EAST TO KEEP PEACE

May Have to Use Force if Foreign Efforts Made to Stir Trouble.

"HANDS OFF CHINA."

Will be Own Judges, Take Responsibility of Actions Regarding Unrest.

(By Glenn Babb, A.P. Foreign Staff).

TOKYO, April 18 (A.P.). A Foreign Office spokesman said to-day that Japan is prepared to meet force with force, if necessary, to preserve peace in East Asia.

Of course, he said in discussing Japan's restated China policy, Nippon will be guided in the application of her policy of responsibility for tranquility in East Asia by the circumstances.

But "Japan herself may be compelled to resort to force," the spokesman added, if foreign efforts to "disturb peace in East Asia" are supported forcefully.

In this connection he made plain that Japan—and Japan alone—will determine whether foreign efforts to help China really imperil peace. He said flatly:

"It is our responsibility We must be the judges."

There was a flurry of excitement among foreign diplomats after the revelation yesterday of the draft of the "restatement and clarification" of Japan's policy toward China.

It is in the hands of Foreign Minister Koki Hirota for final approval. Soon it will be transmitted to Washington and other capitals to form a basis for explanations.

Hands Off China

To-day, the diplomats rushed to their government more detailed information concerning the full import of the declaration. They interpret it generally as a "hands off China" policy aimed at Western nations. They see it as surpassing even the broadest claims made under the Monroe Doctrine.

The spokesman himself admitted the statement constitutes one of the most important declarations of national policy in the recent history of the Island Empire.

He insisted, however, that it does not imply a renunciation of Nippon's international obligations.

"Where these principles conflict with treaties to which Japan is a party, the treaty will be respected," he said; though he added:

"But there may be differences in interpretation of treaties."

MANITOBA HOG FLUCTUATIONS PROVE MYSTERY

Minister Claims Certain Influence Affected Prices—Couldn't Be Proved.

STEVEN'S PROBE.

Urges Control of All Livestock Exports to Uphold Canadian Standard.

OTTAWA, April 17.— (C.P.)— Violent fluctuations in hog prices in Manitoba were "something we cannot understand ourselves," Hon. D. G. McKenzie, Manitoba Minister of Agriculture, told the Stevens price spreads and mass buying parliamentary probe to-day.

The fluctuations were not dependent entirely on the old country market, the western minister stated. In 1929, before access to the British market, they were just as violent.

"Is there any local manipulation?" witness was asked.

In his own opinion, Mr. Mackenzie answered after some hesitation, "there is a certain influence operating which had a tendency to influence price levels." But this could not be proved, he added. The dominating influence at Winnipeg were the three packing concerns.

Headed by a recommendation for the appointment under Dominion authority of a commission of inquiry to continue investigation of the Canadian livestock industry, sweeping suggestions were placed before the probe by Mr. McKenzie. Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, as a result of their livestock conference in Regina last week, concurred in these suggestions, stated the witness.

Suggestions.

Chief additional recommendations submitted by Mr. McKenzie were:

1. That control of livestock, as well as livestock products exported to Great Britain and other countries, be undertaken at once in order to prevent the export of animal products which would not creditably represent the Canadian livestock industry. Due precautions should be taken to correlate such control to British and foreign market requirements, seasonal or otherwise.

2. That a satisfactory understanding be reached as soon as possible with regard to a marketing quota for Canadian cattle in the British market and that every effort be made to increase the allotment for the present year and for the future.

3. The application of provisions of the livestock and livestock products act to all licensed abattoirs in their purchasing of livestock.

4. That there be a reduction of handling charges of livestock at all stockyards, this to include yardage fees, commission and feed prices. Livestock shippers should receive statements showing feed charged against each shipment.

Lower Rail Rates

5. That the railway companies be requested to grant lower export rates on livestock and livestock products from the Prairie Provinces to the seaboard.

6. That a downward revision of rates on domestic grain used for feeding and fattening livestock be requested. The periodic droughts and shortages of feed rendered this very important and it would serve also to encourage the feeding of livestock at interior points.

7. That the feeding-in-transit rate be extended to Western Canada.

8. That there be a downward revision of express rates on purebred livestock, eggs and poultry so that producers in all districts have equal opportunities in this respect. (Reductions have been made from competitive points, but it is felt that if this reduction were general, not only would the producers benefit but the railways as well).

Investigations Needed

Problems which required immediate investigation by a livestock commission were suggested by Mr. McKenzie, as the views of the three prairie provinces, as follows:

(1) The extension of export markets. This would include the possibility of expansion in such markets as are already available, and the development of new market outlets such as the Orient.

(b) The effect on livestock prices of direct purchases by packers.

(c) The function of the public market in the establishment of livestock prices. (The decrease in the volume of livestock routed through public stock yards rendered an examination of their function in the marketing system desirable in order to determine whether changes are needed to increase their effectiveness).

(D) The need and value of custom slaughtering facilities on public stock yards. (The competition between public stock yards and the packing plants with respect to services rendered made it desirable to determine whether the future of the industry required a certain duplication of service.)

Auction Selling.

(e) The value and practicability of auction selling at public stock yards as compared to the present sytem. (The influence of packer buyers should be considered in that regard).

(f)—The justification of present charges by stock yards and commission agencies, and merits of commission charges per car as compared with a percentage on sales.

(g) The investigation of the value of rail grading from the producer's standpoint.

(h)—The justification of feeding and finishing of livestock by packers.

(i) The extension of beef grading. (It is felt that grading should be extended as a matter of policy not only for the benefit of the consumer, but also in order that premiums on quality be reflected back to the producer. Amongst questions to consider in this connection is whether all beef from inspected abattoirs shou'd be graded).

35 Miles Of Niagara Scenic Drive Done

TORONTO, April 17 (C.P.). — "Thirty-five miles of the 90 miles of driveway have been completed now, and we shall continue to work to the plan until it is finished," said Premier George S Henry today, in reference to the proposed Niagara Scenic Loop Highway in connection with which he yesterday interviewed officials at Ottawa.

"The driveway will pass through Fort Erie, Chippewa, Niagara Falls, Niagara Glen, Queenston, Niagara-on-the-Lake, Port Weller, Homer, Thorold, Merritton, Welland, and Port Colborne, and via the Garrison Road, back to Fort Erie. The project is not entirely a Queen Victoria Park project," Mr. Henry stated. "Some of the highway work south of Welland is being done by the Highways Department."

"The Dominion Government," said Mr Henry, "has some land along the lake front which we want to lease in order that we may beautify it. Some of this work has been under way during the winter at Fort Erie, where an estate gave us some land some years ago. It is all part of the boulevard plan."

Cordova

Mr. and Mrs. Carman Ellis and little daughter, Mildred, of Victoria, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Barrons.

(Rev.) Mr. and Mrs. A. Ball and daughter Claire of Campbellford attended the quarterly meeting services at the Free Methodist Church here over the week-end.

Miss Vera VanVolkenburg of Oshawa is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John VanVolkenburg

Gardner Gauley of Peterborough called on Cordova and North Marmora friends on Sunday.

Miss Irene Barrons of Havelock was guest of her parents over the week-end.

Mrs. Ludford of Toronto is visiting her mother, Mrs. Jas. Moffat and sister, Mrs. Wm. Hamilton.

The recent weather has been most favourable for syrup making. Many in this district report a record breaker during Saturday and Sunday.

The temporary bridge at Marmora was washed out on Sunday, necessitating a great deal of traffic to travel via Cordova.

46-YEAR RECORD.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., April 17 (C.P.). — A snowfall of approximately 139 inches for the past winter was reached to-day after a late snow had again blanketed the district. The year's snowfalls, totalling more than 11½ feet, surpassse all records kept during the past 46 years.

The Hills of Old Northumberland

In my dwelling on the prairie there is warmth and song and light;
Tho' the snows are swirling wildly o'er the plain
I am here amid my loved ones, but my heart is sore tonight
For I long to see the hills of home again.
The hills of old Northumberland are calling through the song
That sobs across the prairie bleak and lone—
I can see my mother knittin', Ochone! I keep forgettin'
That I'm far away from hills of home sweet home.

And now the Spring comes smiling across the sombre plain,
To lonely hearts a fair and gracious sight;
But I can't forget that apple blossom time is there again
And the hills of old Northumberland are white.
There's an old house in the valley where a lamp is burning late
Across the night its rays a welcome send Like homing bird at eventide my singing way I'll take
And the "hills of home" will be my journey's end.

Chorus:

Come down to old Northumberland
The hills are very blue
And skies as soft as slumberland
Are waiting here for you;
The old church bells are ringing
In greenwood birds are singing,
And Magic's spell is clinging
To old Northumberland.

The words of the above song are by Letitia Bingham, Gore's Landing, who also set to music, the arrangement being by Mr. J. Edward Fisher, Toronto, formerly of Cobourg. This song is to be sung in the very near future by Mr. Wishart Campbell, as a special feature on the Radio Commission programme.

GIRLS PROVIDE W.I. PROGRAM

Millbrook Institute Meets at the Home of Mrs. J. R. Eakins.

PLAN RELIEF CONCERT

MILLBROOK, April 17 (Examiner Correspondence) — Mrs. J. R. Eakins, district secretary for the East Durham branch of the Women's Institute, kindly extended the hospitality of her home for the April meeting of the local W.I., over thirty being in attendance, and the president, Mrs. J. L. Byam, in the chair.

The roll call was answered with an exchange of bulbs, seeds or slips and the roll for the senior girls, who were responsible for Saturday's program, was replied to by each one telling "What I enjoyed most about the Short Course in Sewing"; some mentioned the social side of the daily week meetings, but the majority favored the sewing itself, under the genial and capable instructor, Miss Pettit.

Committees reporting included the Sunshine group, responsible for looking after sick and shut-in members, several having been remembered with fruit and a message of cheer, particular mention being made of one girl who has been seriously ill for some time, Jean Dawson, who with her sister, Gloria, more than once helped with duets at the monthly W.I. meetings. It was decided to send flowers to Miss Jean as a mark of appreciation and sympathy.

Relief Concert

Mrs. P. I. Bentley, convenor of the relief committee, reported a number helped with supplies of clothing, a pair of blankets and covering for a quilt purchased for a boy who has long been in ill-health, the president supplementing this report by telling of articles of clothing given out from her own home. Mrs. Bentley, as convenor of the program committee for the relief concert and dance to be held in the Town Hall on Friday, April 20, reported that a good program is being prepared, and seven prizes will be drawn for at the conclusion of the entertainment. Merchants who have had the orders for relief supplies all winter have each donated one dollar's worth of goods, and these constitute the prizes for which numbers will be drawn.

The president mentioned the success which has attended the effort to have a "Girl's Garden and Home Canning Club" locally this coming summer, eleven names having been secured: Martha Earle, Marian Belch, Esther Might, Edna McKnight, Jessie Armstrong, Kathleen Davis, Elsie Theobald, Margaret Larmer, Dorothy Smith, Marie Douglas and Vera Olan. A letter from E. A. Summers, Agricultural Representative, was read by the secretary, Mrs. G. Fallis, expressing his warm appreciation of the good work done on behalf of this undertaking.

Mrs. T. G. Harkness reported for the quilt committee, that not enough blocks for the quilt already on hand have yet been secured, and also that a gift from Mrs. John Allen, a life member and one of the earliest presidents of the local branch of three hundred and ninety small quilt blocks had been received, and the committee will see to the making up of the same. A note of thanks will be sent Mrs. Allen for her generous donation, and also for fees paid for two years, though she is a life member and not under obligation to remit dues.

Girls in Charge

Miss Verna Fallis took the chair for the girls' section of the program, Mrs. Eakins, by request, reading the chapter from Nina Moore Jamieson's book, and also a clipping telling of a number of useful articles made from sugar bags. One member reported her custom of using these bags for quilt linings, and other practical purposes were also mentioned.

Miss Vera Armstrong gave an interesting paper on the "Well Dressed Woman," and Miss Bernice Smith was heard in a reading; the W.I. Rally Song preceded the formal program, and the girls for their number chose "The Little Brown Church in the Wildwood." Miss Verna Fallis contributed a piano solo, and Mrs. Byam invited the branch to hold the next meeting at her home, the May gathering to be in the evening with reports from all officers, and the election to be held for the ensuing year.

The hostess, assisted by the senior girls, served homemade candy during the social hour at the close, and the usual votes of thanks were passed before dismissal with the National Anthem.

WILLIAM FERGUSON IS SPECIAL SPEAKER

Young Men's Twenty Club Entertains Friends at Janetville Social.

JANETVILLE, April 18.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The Young Men's Twenty Club entertained their friends at a delightful "Ladies' Night" in the Sunday School room of the United Church on Friday evening. There was an unusually large attendance and Karl Stinson, President of the Club, was in charge of the proceedings. A brief devotional period was conducted by Horace Heaslip. The special speaker for the occasion was William Ferguson of Lindsay and chose for his subject "Advancement" and used the text "Whether therefore, ye eat or drink or whatever ye do, do all to the glory of God. The followng program was also very much enjoyed: violin solos, Frank Russell; duet, Norvall Marshall and Harry Lathan; solo, Frank Joblin. Rev. Mr. Smith then addressed the members and this was followed by the service of dainty refreshments by the ladies.

United Church Y.P.S. Meeting

The Y.P.S. of the United Church held a most interesting meeting with a large attendance in the Sunday School room on Wednesday evening. The Scripture lesson was read by Miss Shirley Atchison, with the comment given by Victor Blatherwick, Jim Harris and Olive Jackett. The topic of the evening was "The Lord's Day" and was very interestingly given. Following the meeting a social half hour was spent in playing games.

Mr. and Mrs. Bertram McMullen were host and hostess to a large number of friends at their home on Thursday evening. Dancing and cards were the main features of the evening.

HAVELOCK W.M.S.

HAVELOCK, April 18. (Examiner Correspondence). — The April meeting of the United Church W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. George Chileson Thursday afternoon last with thirteen members present. The devotional exercise was taken by the president, Mrs. Easterbrooke. The lesson study "Whether she too would become atheist as Russia bids fair to be" was taken by Mrs. Easterbrooke. This was followed by a discussion led by Miss Seeney, with the following taking part: Mesdames Chiles and Spencer and Misses Chambers and Fennell.

A letter was read from Doctor Killborn accepting the invitation extended to address the opening meeting of the society to be held on Sunday evening, May 13th.

The Easter service was led by Mrs. (Rev.) M. E. Wilson. A vocal solo "There is a Green Hill Far Away" by Miss Barbara Fennell was much enjoyed and the meeting closed in the usual manner.

MADOC.

At the United Church Parsonage on Thursday evening, March 29th, Mrs. Myrtle McCumber, of Queensboro, was united in marriage to Frank Edward Taylor of Madoc.

Mr. H. McKercher of Toronto was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Sanderson.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Moffatt and Mr. Doug Jones were Sunday visitors to Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. George Duff spent the week-end at Point Anne.

Mr. H. McKercher of Toronto was guest soloist at two Marmora services on Sunday, rendering 'Rock of Ages' and 'Somebody' at St. Paul's Anglican church in the morning and 'Jesus, Lover of My Soul' and 'A Song of Trust' at St. Andrew's United Church in the evening.

CAVAN COUPLE 50 YEARS WED

Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim White Observe Golden Wedding Anniversary.

PRESENTATIONS MADE.

CAVAN, April 16 (Examiner Correspondence).—On Monday afternoon and evening Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim White, Cavan, celebrated their golden wedding.

About sixty guests, relatives and friends, were present. Telegrams and other messages of congratulation on the happy occasion, were received from Friends in Alberta, Toronto, Peterborough and other places.

There were twenty-three grandchildren, four nephews and nieces, two brothers, Albert and Chancellor; one sister, Mrs. A. B. Kennedy, as well as their sons and daughters and other friends present.

One small tot, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Stewart, had his first outing to the golden wedding of his grandparents.

The minister, Rev. Mr. Wasp, who married them fifty years ago, is dead; also the bridesmaid, Miss Annie White, and groomsman, Mr. Griffin.

The sons, Messrs. William and John White, presented them with a radio; the daughters, Mrs. W. Finnie, Mrs. Percy Stewart, Mrs. Donald Lowes, Mrs. Sandy Veals, and a sister, Mrs. A. B. Kennedy, a bed couch. The grandchildren gave a mantel clock, and the neighbors gave Mrs. White a beautiful brooch and Mr. White a fine pipe in a case. There were many other individual gifts received.

The house was decorated with daffodils. A two-storey wedding cake, centered the table from which a sumptuous buffet luncheon was served.

After the presentation of gifts and the singing of "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows," the bride and groom of fifty years were showered with confetti.

Mrs. White was formerly Miss Griffin of Manvers.

Both Mr. and Mrs. White are in excellent health and very much enjoyed the happy gathering which concluded with a sing-song.

More than $5,000,000 was allocated last year from the Welfare Fund of the Miners' Welfare Committee of Britain to be spent for the benefit of colliery workers.

CLEANSE your Kidneys

—as well as your house

Just as your household may need Spring cleaning, so your kidneys need similar attention. Winter takes toll of your energy—Spring usually finds you with weakened and impure blood. Healthy kidneys filter the impurities out of your blood—that is their normal function. If they fail, poisons gather and illness follows. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the best Spring tonic. They restore the kidneys to normal action. Your system is cleansed and invigorated by a full supply of pure, rich blood. Don't neglect your kidneys. 44

WOMAN BURNS TO DEATH NEAR FLINTON

RECOVER BODIES OF TWO YOUTHS LOST IN LAKE

Searchers Find Bodies of Tommy Hull and Victor Newell.

LOST SINCE DECEMBER.

Men Cut Holes Through Ice and Blindly Searched With Pike Poles.

Almost constant search for the bodies of Tommy Hull, aged 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cain Hull, of Dummer Township, and Victor Newell, aged 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Newell, Belmont Township, who disappeared on the evening of December 3 last after setting out to cross the ice of Stoney Lake, was rewarded yesterday when both bodies were recovered from the ice-sheeted lake.

The search was pressed with new vigor this week following the finding by Rollie Miles on Sunday of Tommy Hull's cap, half-imbedded in the ice in the boat channel near Piney Island. With renewed hope of success a party of neighbours searched the ice of the lake on Monday and Tuesday.

New Method of Search.

The search-party yesterday adopted a new method in their effort to locate the bodies. Near the spot where the Miles' boy had found the cap, the men using saws begin cutting holes in the ice which is still 15 inches thick.

They went methodically about the task. Having cut a hole they used pike poles to feel around beneath the ice about the hole. Many such holes were opened before success crowned their work.

A pike pole, swept blindly through the hole and along the ice, caught something. The man with the pike pole pulled and the body of Tommy Hull, the prongs of the pole caught in its clothing, was dragged to the opening in the ice.

Close Together

"Less than five feet away we found the body of the Newell boy," Cain Hull, father of Tommy, told The Examiner. "Both bodies were just under the ice."

Before the bodies were removed,

OTONABEE RIVER FLOODS STREET

Part of George Street Wharf is Under Water—Islands Flooded.

ICE HOLDS IN LAKE.

The Otonabee River was climbing toward some of its higher Spring levels to-day Several feet of water obscured the wharf at the foot of Lock street; the old street car loop looked like a lagoon, and a 20-foot stretch of McKellar street was awash with the level of the river. the roadway being about ten inches under the invading surface at that point.

Part of George Street wharf was under water; the islands above the C.P.R. bridge were temporarily removed from the scenery except the budding trees; Little Lake had expanded to its Spring area, and the river was encroaching to considerable distance upon the shallow east bank opposite Crawford's Grove.

Down at Hastings similar increases are reported at the gauge on the dam, whose drop has been reduced to a few feet by the height of water below the fall.

The ice in Rice Lake yesterday appeared to be ready to move out, and Bewdley residents expected that it would be cleared by the first strong wind from the west.

Changes In Tariff Aid Local Company

The new tariff contained cheerful news to at least one Peterborough plant. the Brinton Carpet Company. The 50 percent reduction, under the British preferrential tariff, on jute yarns will mean a considerable saving to this firm, it was learned.

'This reduction will mean a saving to us" R. V. Dawson, manager, told The Examiner. W. L. Ferguson, treasurer of the plant, said the company used a large quantity of jute yarns and the reduction in the excise tax will be felt appreciably by the firm.

Robbers Loot Illinois Bank Of $27,629; Blame Automatically Laid On Dillinger

PANA, Ill., April 19.—(AP)—Four robbers whose limping leader bore a resemblance to John Dillinger raided the Pana National Bank today of $27,629.

Flourishing pistols, the quartette invaded the bank nearly an hour before it opened for business, slugged the janitor, forced the employees to open the vault and fled with the fortune in cash and securities.

Ernest Butterfield, a jeweller, watched the getaway. One of the robbers, he asserted, looked like the photographs he had seen of Dillinger, the hunted outlaw.

The identification was strengthened by the boldness and precision of the robbers and the fact that the leader limped. Dillinger is alleged to have been wounded in escaping a government trap at St. Paul. Accurate descriptions of the robbers, however, were not obtained.
